One Moment, Please

In the May, 1944, number of The Westminster Delt, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Watkins, parents of Dick Watkins, comment on "The Delta Creed" as follows: "The words . . . are some of the finest your publishers have ever read. This Creed is all that we, as parents of the fiftieth member of Delta Omicron, would ever ask our Delt to attempt to follow. To set this as a standard and a guide throughout life would certainly guarantee any man the fullest measure of happiness and contentment that can be obtained on this earth, for himself, and his fellow man. If in the years to come you are ever in doubt which road to take, just read the Delta Creed . . . and you will have your answer. And the answer won't be wrong. You'll be a great man in the eyes of your God, your country, and your fellow man."

THE DELTA CREED

I believe in Delta Tau Delta for the education of youth and the inspiration of maturity, so that I may better learn and live the truth.

I believe in Delta Tau Delta as a shrine of international brotherhood; her cornerstone friendship, her foundation conscience, her columns aspiration, her girders self-restraint, her doorway opportunity, her windows understanding, her buttresses loyalty, her strength the Everlasting Arms.

I believe in Delta Tau Delta as an abiding influence to help me do my work, fulfill my obligations, maintain my self-respect, and bring about that happy life wherein I may more truly love my fellow men, serve my country, and obey my God.

We are introducing a new contributor in this issue, who will be on the pages of THE RAINBOW regularly—F. Darrell Moore, former Supervisor of Scholarship of the Fraternity. Writing about books by Delts, he brings to the reviews a Fraternity viewpoint, which differs markedly from that of the professional critic.

Of special interest to the older alumni, and particularly those of Beta Theta, will be the reminiscences of Louis Tucker in "Beta Theta at Sewanee in 1890" on Page 96.

A Challenge to Survival

By Clemens R. Frank, Western Reserve, '19

AS we discern the approach of peace, we can find confidence and pride in the part taken by Delta Tau Delta in the years of the war. The record of our boys in active combat is eloquent proof of this. In spite of the necessary restrictions and curtailments at colleges and the demands on time and effort in the all-important business of war which has reached every one of us, we managed to maintain our Fraternity as a going concern with dignity and honor. The main job of the undergraduate was to prepare himself for active military service. The fraternity business had to be conducted and encouraged by alumni. This was done—a magnificent, unselfish service of tremendous significance. Recent events have proved both the propriety and the wisdom of our program.

During the past years and months, we realize most keenly that our desire to be a constructive adjunct of higher education is the main reason to continue our existence; that the fraternity system, although a small part, is still an important part of the American college. Any postwar program which threatens to destroy the historic principles of our colleges or attempts to convert them into a youth movement will destroy Delta Tau Delta. To resist such plans we may take counsel from the past. The dramatic words of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, a graduate of an American college, are appropriate. She said—"We must hope for the future, we must live in the present, we must learn everlasting truth from the past." So a glance at events that happened years ago is in order and is especially fitting for these days of doubt and confusion. We are at war—we have been at war before. In 1776 the eyes of Europe were upon us just as anxiously as they are today. We were fighting a war on our own soil against the most powerful nation in the world. Then as now it was necessary and expedient to express clearly what we were fighting for. The answer was given to the whole world—our Declaration of

Editor's Note: Clemens R. Frank is President of the Northern Division of Delta Tau Delta and Assistant Attorney General of the state of Ohio. His attention to his position with the state has not dimmed his interest in academic affairs which began with his association with President Charles F. Thwing of Western Reserve University and the Hon. Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War under President Wilson.

Independence—a monument of American statesmanship—a landmark for all peoples and all nations. This document expressed no delusion that a government could confer happiness by legislative or executive decree; it expressed the thought that the government existed to give men the opportunity to work out happiness for themselves. In such surroundings our colleges began to develop. Their maintenance and growth rested upon individual effort, sacrifice, and loyalty. We have need of all of these things now. Those early years were also disturbed by foreign propaganda. There was the French Revolution, with the extravagant promises of security from the cradle to the grave, liberty, fraternity, and equality for everyone. A comparative history of the United States and of France should lead to some sober conclusions. The colleges that existed in Revolutionary times, and others like them, grew and flourished as great American institutions in the past two hundred years. But today the future existence of these colleges is challenged. Our colleges now have become a serious domestic issue. There is abroad today in our land, and especially in high governmental circles, an expression that there is no longer room or need of the college as it has existed and grown for two centuries in America. No one element in American history has contributed so much to the arts, to science, to public office, to leadership in all fields, as the American college. Still it must now become a part of planned economy; it must lose its identity; it must become a federal project. Surely there is room for progress and improvement, but why must the American college be removed from its historical foundation? Shall it become the victim of sly propaganda or of government dole? Dr. Alvan E. Duerr warned that a fraternity cannot obtain eminence by purchase or bribery. The same advice is applicable to a governmental program.

It is well to recall that the American college is a corporation, and as such received its charter either from a state legislature or from officers of a state. Our great educational system is primarily a function of the individual state. Until very recently the federal government was seldom directly concerned. The Bureau of Education, a section of the Federal Department of Interior, functioned for the most part as a reporter of data and statistics and not as a legislative or executive service. In the various states, colleges and universities are established by private or by public foundation. The private foundation is the older form, although the public foundation has existed for more than one hundred years. Many of our state universities began with federal land grants. Although an institution of this kind was the recipient of a federal subsidy, it was and is distinctly a state-operated establishment and an integral part of the public system of the state. Its lands, buildings, and equipment are the property of the state. Has any proof been offered that the federal government is better qualified to administer such a college than its present board of trustees or board of regents?

As for our small colleges, the development of our nation bears witness to the great contribution made by these institutions. There is hardly a page in American history but does not reflect their influence. These schools faced and survived many difficulties. The controversy over the charter of Dartmouth College in 1818 has become one of the classics of legal argument and decision. In his plea for Dartmouth,

Daniel Webster said, "You may destroy this little Institution; it is weak; it is in your hands! I know it is one of the lesser lights in the literary horizon of our country. You may put it out. But if you do so, you must carry through your work! You must extinguish, one after another, all those great lights of science which, for more than a century, have thrown their radiance over our land!" These words are as significant today as when they were spoken. If those people who desire to absorb the state and the private college prevail, they will do a thorough job; they will carry through the work and one after another these schools that have given us intellectual leadership will find themselves controlled by an omniscient government. And Delta Tau Delta will be proscribed by the sinister appellation "undemocratic."

Our fraternity is a part of the historical development of the American college. President Thwing defined the American college and university not only as an institution of higher learning but, more important, as an institution for human fellowship. Where can you find a better channel for an expression of that fellowship than in a college fraternity and in our own Delta Tau Delta? There is fellowship and helpfulness not only among the undergraduates but also among the alumni, and among undergraduates and alumni. These college friendships are among the finest treasures found in the life of any man. This is as true today as it was in 1859. Through our undergraduate chapters we seek to improve each member. It is an ideal school of democracy where each member has his own duties to do and his own rights and person to respect, and yet he must observe the rights and obligations of others and surrender some of his own for the best interests of his chapter. While we seek unity, we shun uniformity, a vital democratic process—nothing undemocratic about it.

After World War I, we were not prepared to meet the inevitable faults and weaknesses that followed demobilization; however, we regained our true perspective and during the last decade we have made noteworthy progress to fulfill our mission as a constructive adjunct to the system of higher education. We have worked toward scholastic eminence. We established sound financial practices for each chapter. We developed field secretaries who kept us in touch with the problems of every chapter. We have established an efficient Central Office. We have developed most helpful and useful alumni organizations. We insist that house corporations be conducted as a sound going business and that chapter houses be a clean and orderly place to live. We affirm the ideals of Christian manhood. We want our chapter always to reflect enthusiasm and optimism especially for those boys who return after military service; this will be an excellent antidote for despair and cynicism. We urge our alumni to understand and support these undergraduate efforts; we solicit their individual and organized assistance.

Those who assert that there is no longer need nor room in American society for the college and fraternity as it now exists will not be deterred by exhortation and debate. But an undergraduate chapter composed of boys who appreciate academic discipline and who can discipline themselves, who seek honors for their college and for their fraternity, who strive for honesty and loyalty, and alumni who provide intelligent leadership and helpful service in their professions and in their community—these will repel the challenge to our survival.

WILLIAM F. CARROLL, JR., Colorado, '43, and GEORGE L. CARROLL, Colorado, '44, received wings and commissions March 12, 1944. They are sons of William F. Carroll, Colorado, '18, and nephews of Dr. Howard B. Carroll, Illinois, '21.

Education for Veterans

When the 2,000 or more Delt undergraduates who left the classroom for military service are discharged, they will be able to return to college and resume their courses of study through the provisions of the "Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944," popularly known as the "G. I. Bill of Rights."

The educational opportunity provided is available to any person who had active service on or after September 16, 1940, and who was discharged or released "under conditions other than dishonorable," and "whose education or training was impeded, delayed, interrupted, or interfered with" because of such service. To be eligible, one must have served ninety days or more, exclusive of any period spent in an Army specialized training program or Navy college training program, which was a continuation of civilian training and pursued to completion, or as a cadet or midshipman at one of the service academies. (Veterans discharged or released because of actual service-incurred disability are entitled to vocational training under another law.)

Education or training must be started by the veteran within two years after the date of discharge or the termination of the war, whichever is later. The bill also provides for a refresher or re-training course, which is limited to one year.

It will be deemed that the education or training of one not over twenty-five years of age at the time of enlistment was "impeded, delayed, interrupted, or interfered with."

The veteran may elect both the type and place of education. The primary period of training will be one year, or the equivalent in part-time study. Upon satisfactory completion of the primary period, according to the regularly prescribed standards and practices of the institution, the veteran shall be entitled to an additional period or periods of education or training, not to exceed the time he was in active service on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to the termination of the war.

Distinguished Service Chapter Cites Two

Two more members of the Fraternity have been cited to the Distinguished Service Chapter. They are Chauncey Lee Newcomer, Hillsdale, '98, and Elisha Hoffman Anderson, Ohio Wesleyan, '85.

Judge Newcomer's Citation was presented to him at the annual homecoming event of Kappa Chapter early in the summer, on the occasion of the observance of his fifty years of activity in behalf of Delta Tau Delta. The text of the Citation is as follows:

"Organizer of the Kappa Chapter House Association, Chairman of the Building Committee, President from 1915 to 1928, and a Director since 1915. For half a century an outstanding example of the practical application of the teachings of our Fraternity; a fine influence on many college generations of Delts, and today, as always, one of Delta Tau Delta's most respected and loyal sons."

Voted a member of the Distinguished Service Chapter by the Committee, Mr. Anderson passed on to the Chapter Eternal April 30, 1944, and the Citation has been presented posthumously. The text is as follows:

"For more than sixty years a valued member of Delta Tau Delta, in which time he has been most instrumental in bringing new Delts into her fold. Still loyal and enthusiastic, his activities are an example and challenge to those who follow."

"College is the place where the dreams of adolescence become the working formulae for the ideals of maturity."—Robert D. Boynton, Wesleyan, '42, former president of Gamma Zeta Chapter.

Fraser Leaves Italian Front for ETO; Coe Takes Over Coverage

By J. GORDON FRASER

*Brown, '30
Maine, '30*

With the Fifth Army in Italy, June 18.—I'm sure you'll be happy to know that there are three of us Delts here covering the Italian campaign: George Tucker (Virginia), Don Coe (Syracuse), and myself (Brown). It has been a whale of a show—especially since the final phase as of May 11 at 11:00 p. m. German prisoners (censored) say that not even Stalingrad was as tough for them as this. Our troops have fought—and still are fighting—brilliantly with a resourcefulness that is strictly American. Add to that the ability of American industry to build and transport to this theater endless quantities of the finest materiel of war, and you have the winning combination.

I had intended doing a special piece for you, but have just now received orders to proceed immediately to the European Theater of Operations. Brother Coe has just resigned from U. P. to join the Blue Network. (I guess I forgot to mention that for these many years I've been working for the Blue Network, first as a part of N.B.C., and more recently as a full-blown corporation in itself and fast becoming the most progressive radio network in the country.) So, as I leave here for London, I leave another Delt to carry on.

In my haste to get away, perhaps you'll be able to make some use of the broadcast I did today for the States: "This is my last broadcast from this theater of war. I am leaving Italy to take up a new assignment. In reporting the tremendous success of this drive up the Italian boot, battles and personalities come to mind—and I shall remember certain men and incidents surrounding them as representative examples of why it is we are chasing the Germans. I shall remember those thirty hours in the hellish frenzy of Cassino, crouching in a cave with the dead and wounded, and hearing Sgt. Tommy Tulloch say he took thirty-

With the Fifth Army in Italy, June 20.—Now that the flak has quieted down, the Germans are quite a ways away, we have all settled down here and the city seems flourishing and I have a chance to write some letters.

It hardly seems that it was only two weeks ago yesterday we came here, so much has happened since and so much had happened in the week before. As you may know, Jack Fraser, my colleague with the Blue Network in Italy, is also a Delt, at Brown, and George Tucker of the AP is another Delt, from Virginia. Jack and George discovered their kinship at one of the Fifth Army press camps a few months ago and, according to rumor, had to go out behind one of the tents to practice the grip. Jack has been doing the front line reporting for Blue ever since late in January when he took over from George Hicks, now in France, and I've been doing the headquarters work for Blue, first from Algiers and Naples while I was still working with the UP and since the end of May from more forward locations which you will recognize, but which the censors prefer not to have mentioned in letters. (The Anzio Beachhead and Rome if it can be said.) Being a headquarters man I didn't get much chance to see front line fighting in the last year until the Anzio Beachhead broke out and we were really on the road north. In Tunisia I had other front experience but unfortunately in those days we were traveling in the wrong direction, at a place called Kasserine Pass.

Broadcasting arrangements presently keep us all here. This is the only place we can get our programs off to the States. It is unfortunate that we can't be getting more close-up pictures of the operations in Northern Italy, but life here is interesting, too. I am sure no other European capital will come into our hands so undamaged. Yet if the visible signs of war are not present,

Beta Theta at Sewanee in 1890

By Louis Tucker, Sewanee, '90

SEWANEE, around 1890, had about three hundred students. Beta Theta had a chapter house but roomed in halls. It averaged about sixteen members; several of whom died famous. It was a self-sufficient little world in itself and had a code of its own, handed down by tradition; a more-than-Spartan set of customs. No one knew who had composed this code—it just grew. Its first law was that every member must excel in something; mediocrity was not accepted. Every member must be tolerably well-groomed, quiet-voiced, must never get excited under strain, must tell the truth—except to girls—and must have better-than-average marks in classes. If he were not, study until he were; other brothers would help by supervision and private tutoring. On days after a banquet, every member must be prepared in every class. If he were not, sit up and study. Every member must be a fair-to-good athlete; if he were not, take gymnasium classes and exercise. At the monthly banquet, every member must make a tolerable after-dinner speech and must know how to hold his liquor without showing it. If, in the opinion of the elders, he showed he had been drinking, drink less next time, and eat dry bread at once; in extreme cases he was ordered several sandwiches. A couple of slices of dry bread will sober the most tipsy. If his manner were noticeably boisterous during a banquet the toastmaster would say, "Pass Bill the sandwiches." We always had a toastmaster whose business was to draw out every person at table in turn, if possible, in his own specialty; if not, then by calling on him for speech, song, story, or tale of adventure. All mention of women was barred. As sixteen men meant sixteen separate songs or speeches or stories, each had to be short. Brevity is wit; much practice made them really very good.

Craig and Bob Black were ex-West Pointers and Sewanee was a military school; they were skilled specialists in drill and uniforms,

Editor's Note: Rev. Louis Tucker, Sewanee, '92, recently wrote a book, Clerical Errors, in which he made reference to the Fraternity in his days at the University of the South. In response to the Editor's request, he has written the following reminiscences of his undergraduate days. The men whom he mentions are Rev. Robert E. L. Craig, '90; Rev. Robert M. W. Black, '88; W. R. Seay, '90; Bishop William T. Manning, '93; Hudson Stuck, '92, Archdeacon of the Yukon and Tanana Valleys; and Archibald W. Butt, '91, aide to Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, drowned in the Titanic disaster. All of the men mentioned are deceased with the exception of Bishop Manning, who is Bishop of New York.

bored by it, but useful. Bob Black had a further specialty, oratory. It was good enough to win medals and take prizes. He was, however, excelled in it by Seay of Tennessee, so called to distinguish him from his uncle, Seay of Alabama. When Seay began we promptly cut him short because if we did not do it at once we got so interested we could not do it at all, and we had to go on with business. Manning's specialty was quiet dignity, perfectly genuine and most impressive, because he was so small. Stuck's was amused excitement. He was our best toastmaster because he drew us out more than the others. Archie Butt's was gentle amusement. He foresaw all our quarrels and smoothed them by diplomacy before they started. My own specialty was boxing, but nobody in Beta Theta cared anything at all about it, so I developed another—writing of songs. We made our own songs in Beta Theta, always the words and sometimes the music. This was by no means confined to me. One custom at every banquet was an extempore chapter song. We used "Vive la Companie," which has one rhyming couplet in each stanza and a great deal of chorus, and everyone had to solo a couplet in turn. If you thought of a good couplet at any time you wrote it down and memorized it and saved it for the next banquet. Some of us came armed with a half dozen couplets. Ribaldry was not allowed; too many of our men were theological students.

Beta Theta had something I never have heard of in any other fraternity—a chapter Queen. She found us useful, of course, for if there were anything between green earth and blue heaven she wanted, we got it for her if it were in our power. She never came to the chapter house except on formal annual receptions, where she was hostess; but each of us was expected to call on her formally at least once a month either alone or with two or three brother Deltas. Then she looked us over, suggested needed ties and haircuts, and reformed our manners, dress, speech, accent and conduct and flirtations, exercising over us that general feminine supervision boys so much need. We were her younger brothers; she was our Queen; in fact, we usually called her "Miss Queenie," obeyed and adored her. Her diplomatic tact, I think, was equal to Archie's and I recall her as one of the most charming young women I ever knew. She married and moved away and Beta Theta Chapter, without Miss Sadie's knowledge or consent, simply transferred itself en masse to Miss Sadie. She silently became our next Queen; in fact, I think that was the way the crown descended always, without the wearer's knowledge or permission.

The code, the banquets, the scholarship, and the Queen were all unique, as far as I know now. There was a fifth thing. Every now and then, when Beta Theta got money enough, it gave itself a picnic. This cost a bit, because we hired wagons and went to the best views for miles around, so it did not happen often. Let me describe the last one I attended.

Bobby could play a banjo; he spent his leisure surrounded by a coruscating aura of music. He was about fifteen and looked an old and wizened twelve; and, when he played, the mockingbirds came down out of the trees to listen, and every boy in hearing felt moved to sing. He was a one-talent boy; he had no conversation, no athletics, abhorred all girls, busted in classes, and finally flunked out—but he could play a banjo. I have seen that boy saunter down the street, playing softly, followed by a half dozen little dogs. He stopped, the dogs sat round him in a circle wagging tails in dust and pointing noses in air; he sounded a certain combination of compelling chords I never heard before, and the dogs howled. Naturally, while he lasted, we took him on Delta picnics.

Behold us, then, settled around a great, flat stone under a cliff and I mean under. The hollow crag arched roof-like overhead, and fell some forty feet wall-like below, so that we sat in a niche big as a small theater half way up the cliff; stone ceiling, floor and walls, right, left, behind, and Nature's stained-glass window in the front; for great trees topped their whispering boughs outside and let in golden sun and sea-blue sky until our banquet brimmed with such green light as one sees under water. We "put away from us the desire for food," (half of us knew our Homer) saw that every man had his mug of beer, gave Bobby his banjo and began our Sewanee Hymn—not the one sung in Chapel—Gailor wrote that—ours we wrote ourselves; it ran to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland."

"Hinc assimilavimus
Solam unam artem.
Maxime amavimus
Unam orbis partem.
Linguas non intelligo,
Numeras non numero,
Semper, semper sed amo
Universitatem.

Litteras—ad puellas,
Artesque—amoris,
Scio, et scientias
Vini fortioris.
Doctus sum in legibus
Fractis jam compluribus—
Sed cognosco melius
Gloriam honoris.

Puella pulcherrima,
Pueri et Patres
Bibitote pocula
Bibiteque, fratres.
Patria carissima,
Alma Mater Domina,
Est Sewanee, maxima
Mater inter matres."

When that was done we used the tower song; two Deltas each wrote half. I cannot give the tune; we wrote that, too.

"A towered city set within a wood
Far from the world upon a mountain crest,
Where grief comes never nor do cares
intrude;
Quiet reigns there, and Peace is Wisdom's guest;
And evermore the golden sun shines down.
And to long winds the flowering laurels nod,
And violets in millions make a crown,
And every listening soul is filled with God."

You would not think a banjo could make organ-music, but Bob's did. There was a silence, and then we crashed into "The Star." A Delt wrote it and the tune is "Annie Laurie."

"Below the purple mountain
The golden valley lies;
Exalted to the skies;
Exalted to the skies
Where, gazing from afar,
Some see a forest city
And some behold a star.

The men who dreamed Sewanee
And died to build their dream,
From city, camp, and altar
They gathered to the gleam.
They followed on the gleam,
And, dying, saw afar
Through poverty and sorrow
The glory of the Star.

The children of Sewanee
Are scattered far and wide
Some in forgotten corners,
And some in seats of pride;
But all, from place of pride
Or wandering afar,
Look up unto Sewanee
As men behold a star.

Ye students of Sewanee,
The glory and renown
Of loving this, our mother,
To you is handed down.
So live and hand it down
That no one, near or far,
Can gaze upon Sewanee
And fail to see The Star."

This was the last Delta picnic for some of us, so we ended with "The Chimes"; a Delta wrote it to the tune the bells play every day, but we sang it to "Bonnie Doon."

"Ye cliffs that to Sewanee rise,
Unchanged ye tower, so far and fair.
Ye stars that light Sewanee's skies,
Ye shine the same—and I not there!
It breaks my heart, who must depart
Into a world more grey and cold,
That thou unchanged, Sewanee, art;
Forever young, though I grow old."

We rose and started home; but so much emotion was too much for Bobby; he pushed his way to the head of the column and, in a few moments we were marching briskly and roaring in unison the Delta version of the drinking song "There Is a Tavern in the Town."

"Cocina est in oppido
In oppido.
Sedet amicus in eo
In eo,
Et vinum bibet et cantum cantat.
De me, is nihil nunc putat, Computat.

Vale nunc Amice, nunc Vale, et Vale.
Non possum manere cum te—propter te—

Et lyram pendem magno flente arbore—
Fortuna nunc sit apud te—propter te.

Coe Takes Over

there is still a lot of evidence of the war that passed Rome by so quickly. The Italian civilians—for all we may berate them for having stood Mussolini and his unpopular war—still had to take a great deal from the Germans since last September. The Allies are trying to make their life a little easier as far as food and medical supplies are concerned but our presence has saved them from their greatest worry—the thought that any minute they might be picked up and carted off, either to be shot as hostages or sent to Germany for forced labor. By August maybe I can tell you about Genoa, Turin and Milan, or is that being too optimistic?

Wolverine Delts Report

Delta of Michigan wound up one of its most successful years since the war with the initiation of ten men on June 4. Despite the fact the Shelter is leased to the University, the chapter is quite active, having had several canoe picnics and formal dinners.

Included in the summer plans are weekly chapter meetings and regular monthly dinners with the Detroit alumni.

AROUND THE FIREPLACE

WITH GOOD DELTS

The Situation is Well In Hand

Delts everywhere should know about the magnificent performance turned in by the undergraduates and their alumni advisers in maintaining the entity of Delta Tau Delta on the campuses this past war year.

In the spring of 1943, the impact of the war began to disintegrate the structure of fraternities with telling effect. Since that time, there has been a complete dislocation of fraternity life, as everyone is well aware.

Delt houses and Delt rented quarters have seen service in the war effort as military barracks or dormitories for civilian students whose quarters were in similar service. Delts on campus moved about in temporary quarters from office buildings to nineteenth century creations, requiring coal- and wood-burning stoves for heat. (The shades of Chick Sales were revived in several instances.) Not a few chapters conducted their deliberations from the homes of alumni.

Youngsters took over chapter leadership soon after initiation without experience, but with such a will as to make the oldsters pause and wonder if they were really so good when they had double the chance to succeed and only a fraction of the problems incidental to chapter management.

Chapters helped their neighbors initiate and alumni renewed their knowledge of the Ritual through participation in initiation ceremonies.

It is a high privilege to acknowledge the manner in which these undergraduates and alumni have met the situation and have continued operations against almost insurmountable odds. The Delts of today are primarily engaged in the serious and important business of preparing for war, but their devotion to the Fraternity is evidenced in every quarter by constructive efforts. Mistakes have been minor. No flagrant violations of the laws and customs of the Fraternity have resulted. Delta Tau Delta's pages of history during this period will be replete with evidence of outstanding accomplishment.

Thousands of Delt servicemen have expressed the hope that their chapters and the Fraternity will be preserved and be ready to receive them when the Delts are on the march again after their current obligation is fulfilled. To you, gentlemen, we send assurance that the moral fiber of the Fraternity has never been more tough and durable—the situation is well in hand.

Scholarship of fraternities has long been a subject of false rumor. The record proves that the average of all fraternity men has been higher than the average of all men for twelve consecutive years.

It's One Day Nearer Victory!

X-day is approaching and with it will come D-day for Delta Tau Delta, the day when plans, blueprinted from prewar experience and wartime innovations, will be put into execution backed by the full force of the resources of cash and courage and leadership.

Even though it has been necessary for some undergraduate chapters of Delta Tau Delta to discontinue formal activity, there are in every case interested members who are carrying on the chapter name. It is our steadfast belief that the chapter which has a nucleus, small though it may be, which it may use as a springboard for return to normal, peacetime operations, will far outdistance its competitors.

Enrollment has been curtailed, it has changed, but there are still young men going to college. Send the names of these young men in your neighborhood to the Central Office, if you consider them good Delt material. It is particularly important that the names of sons and brothers of Delts get into the hands of members on the campus where they are going.

We do not belong to that group of optimists who unthinkingly predict the war will be over tomorrow, but we do believe that time is not too far distant and every constructive step taken now in preparation for the return to peacetime will be an advancement—it's one day nearer victory!

Four more chapter houses are free of debt—a magnificent accomplishment in this war year. They are the houses of Gamma at W. & J., Kappa at Hillsdale, Delta Alpha at Oklahoma, and Rho at Stevens.

Hats off to the Cleveland Alumni Chapter and more particularly Randall Ruhlman, editor, for the enviable record of the chapter's Bulletin, now in its tenth consecutive year of publication.

Speaking of alumni chapter publications, Los Angeles, long known throughout the Fraternity as the All-America chapter, inaugurated the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter Delt News in April, 1944, to be published quarterly. It is a newsy sheet and we are counting on the Los Angeles alumni to follow through.

News recently has come to us about the fine work being done by Mrs. Bess Coleman, former housemother of the chapter at W. & L., who is regularly getting out a newsletter for all members of Phi who are in military service.

▼ FROM THE FRATERNITY-COLLEGE WORLD ▼

By Alvan E. Duerr, Kenyon, '93; Williams, '93

It is so easy to blame the fraternities for any attitude or tendency manifesting itself on the campus. This is natural and is not altogether unjust; for fraternities are cohesive organizations and give out the combined thought of the group and so make a deeper impression than isolated voices in the student body expressing only single opinions. But that does not prove that fraternities initiated the attitude or invented the expression of it, any more than that they invented rooting for the football team or absenteeism from dull lectures.

For instance, Amherst's president accuses fraternities of being anti-intellectual; they probably are, for they are composed of Amherst students, and a distinctly anti-intellectual movement was noticeable on the Amherst campus during the years immediately preceding the war. And incidentally, the Amherst students are rendering a distinctive service when they rebel against the type of intellectualism fostered by college faculties, which is wholly divorced from living and has no place in a liberal arts college.

Then there is that superblood on the fraternity escutcheon—Hell Week. Even that is not a fraternity invention, for we borrowed it from our fathers who were Masons or Elks, or even from the average American in his love of horseplay, and they in turn borrowed it from the savage tribes of Central Africa and later from the American Indian, who believed in brutal testing of a candidate's courage and endurance before admitting him into the sacred society of men who had proved their worth.

But what of the charge that we are undemocratic? Here too we are merely doing as we are brought up to do. College athletes flaunt their letters and college professors their Phi Beta Kappa badges, their degrees, and their academic precedence with as much feeling as we do fraternity membership. Our fathers make as much of their exclusive clubs as we do of our fraternities. Our mothers are much more worried about social prestige than are we at college. If we are snobbish in our fraternity life, isn't it because we haven't lived down our heritage, and because the college has been of little help to us either in precept or practice, except to rail at us for a weakness which as individuals they themselves possess?

Your best friend is not the man who is complacent with your sinking to a low level of performance.

The college and the fraternity are concerned with the same individual; their objectives are identical; approaches should therefore not conflict.

The State University of Iowa, which has long housed an unsatisfactory fraternity system, has taken the lead in prescribing the direction and supervision that are prophesied in the handwriting on the wall. But it has coupled it with the most liberal and constructive attitude toward fraternities that has as yet been shown by any state university in the country.

On April 15 the University announced that chapters might reopen or continue only with the endorsement of a responsible alumni committee; upon subscribing for a business service which will guarantee sound financial methods and will insure collection and payment of bills, in which the University promises its active support; and upon pledging strict adherence to definitely stated objectives and regulations promulgated by the University.

On its part, the University recognizes the fraternities as "essential parts of the housing facilities of the University," which it will publicize as it does its own dormitories and co-operative houses, and as "an integral part of the University aca-demical and social life." It removes all restrictions of scholarship aid, which hitherto treated fraternity membership as a luxury, and it allows men living in dormitories to move into a fraternity house without financial liability for the vacated room, because, the University states, its objective is to "assist in maintaining an adequate membership in each chapter and to cooperate in carrying out the purposes announced in the constitution of the Interfraternity Association"—the latter being, in general, the criteria of the National Interfraternity Conference.

Of course, this means that Iowa fraternities will be held strictly accountable, but no good fraternity man will object to that, and we are all used to it—after we leave college. And perhaps the University will accomplish what the national officers have not succeeded in doing.

On the one hand we regard the college administration as an encroachment upon our inalienable right, and on the other (when we are in serious trouble) we invite the most pronounced paternalism.

Col. Ralph W. Wilson, Commandant of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, is an ardent fraternity man, with especial emphasis on Sigma Chi. In a recent issue of the Magazine of Sigma Chi he reports an interesting study which he made over the past year.

Last year VPI had 1,758 army students in training, including 230 fraternity men from 95 of the 218 colleges represented in the student body, and Col. Wilson studied the relative performance of fraternity and nonfraternity men. Fifty-one of the fifty-eight member fraternities of the National Interfraternity Conference furnished the quota of fraternity men. The specialized training course was stiff, calling for a minimum of 58 hours per week.

By the end of the year 319 had withdrawn from the course, of whom only three were fraternity men. Of the remaining, 22.2 per cent nonfraternity men failed, and 8.4 per cent fraternity men; 5.2 per cent nonfraternity men received honors, and 5.9 per cent fraternity men.

We have become accustomed to having fraternity men outrank nonfraternity men in scholarship, but here is probably the best test that has ever been made, since these men were gathered from practically every institution where fraternities are established, and no unusual pressure was brought to bear on the fraternity men, for no one knew that a comparison between the two groups was to be made.

Even more creditable is the fact that, although "man after man was shipped" for cheating in examinations, not a single fraternity man was either shipped or reported for investigation. Moreover, "fraternity men have given us little or no trouble" was the report of the commandant. When he questioned various trainees as to the reason for their better conduct and scholarship, the reply was that "high ideals and good scholarship are pounded into them from the time they first put on pledge buttons." This should be very encouraging to the faithful brothers who have devoted themselves to pledge training.

Where the Dean is actively interested in fraternities, fraternity men acquit themselves well.

The Board of Trustees of Stanford University has voted to abolish the sororities on that campus on the ground that they are undemocratic and disrupt campus unity. This vote was the reply of the trustees to a petition signed by many undergraduate women, including a fair proportion of sorority members, asking for such action.

The opinion has been expressed that the fraternities will be the next to go. But that does not follow necessarily, in spite of the fact that the same charge has frequently been leveled at us. Social preference—and membership in a sorority is construed as such—is not so important in the life of a man; he picks his friends where he finds men that he likes, whether in or out of fraternity ranks, and without direction or prohibition; and certainly after college days he develops quickly the ability to appraise men by less superficial standards.

Even so, the Stanford decision shows the direction in which the wind is blowing, and we should do well to be aware of the social leveling that is following in the wake of this war. There is much in our fraternity practice which is unnecessarily aggressive and might easily contribute to a sense of inferiority on the part of the oversensitive. And that is altogether unnecessary, for it is part of neither our idealism nor our purpose. If we think more of brotherhood and of service to our brothers during some of the most important years of their life, we shall soon forget to rub it in that we belong to the elect, for our founders certainly had no thought of establishing a society of Pharisees.

The college is not without fault in the development of fraternity life; but that is neither our concern nor our alibi.

At a recent meeting of the National Association of Deans and Advisers of Men one of the deans prophesied that college life of the future will witness an expansion of student government, of supervision, and of the social program. Everything indicates the accuracy of this prophecy, and each phase of it strikes at the center of fraternity life. If there is to be more student government, it will mean that we shall have more competition in what has been an almost unique characteristic of fraternity life, and we shall have to be on our mettle to offer unique advantage. If there is to be more supervision—and who doubts it?—it means that we shall be held more responsible for the tone of our group living. If the social program is to be expanded, it means that the college is recognizing that when a man leaves its walls he should be ready to assume a significant place in his community for the good of his fellows. That means that we too must place more emphasis on constructive service, and refuse, as society does, to allow men merely to belong to the group nominally, without sense of obligation to the group or the community. At college we have had the naive idea that we can graduate from a four-year environment of sequestered impunity into a full sense of social responsibility. It doesn't work that way, and we must attack the problem at its source.

"When you got no education you got to use your brains."

The National Committee on College Fraternities and Societies is engaged in a determined effort to check the increasing number of Greek-letter organizations on the college campuses which serve no more serious purpose than to collect dues from the unsuspecting and which strengthen materially the constant cry against the cost of fraternity membership. This committee is composed of representatives of the National Interfraternity Conference, the Professional Interfraternity Conference, the Professional Panhellenic Association, the Association of College Honor Societies, and the National Association of Deans and Advisers of Men. It has been meeting periodically during the past three years, has formulated clean-cut definitions for the various categories of fraternities and societies, has defined standards and qualifications for membership, and will list all members of the participating associations. Membership in these associations is open to any organization which can qualify. Consequently, both college authorities and students will hereafter have the means of appraising accurately the value of any fraternity or society which seeks members on their campus.

The Army has reduced the number of trainees in the special training courses given at the many colleges of the country from 145,000 to 35,000. This has created consternation among many institutions. But to offset this loss, an heroic effort is being made to qualify 100,000 seventeen-year-old high school graduates for preinduction courses at these same institutions. If the effort succeeds, there will be little shrinkage in college attendance during the coming year.

Beta Phi—Ohio State

As usual Beta Phi has maintained her top ranking status among the fraternities on the campus of the Ohio State University.

As with all fraternities, however, pledging has been limited, but, withal, we assembled a strong pledge class of seven new members.

The newly elected officers are Bill Eick, president; Art Beyer, vice president; Art Beyer, treasurer; Bill Schleckman, recording secretary, and Nate Dawson, rush chairman.

In the fall quarter, the chapter excelled in intramural football, being runner-up in our flight. Bill Ranshous is due to be the next "head manager" to the famed Ohio State varsity football squad. Les Horvath, better known as "Little Lester" will once again be playing his old position of left halfback if the Army permits. The indications are good as he is now attending the summer parleys under the guidance of our new coach, Carrol Widdoes, who recently replaced Paul Brown.

Fred Butler and Jim Loos are working in the Fraternity Affairs Office which is one of the leading activities offices on the campus. John Botzum is working with the Sundial, the college humor editorial.

Active activities include the following: Don Mossbarger is a member of "Toastmasters" which is an organization of faculty and selected student members. Bill Eick is a member of the Fraternity President's council and is teaching Army and Navy classes in the department of physical education. Art Beyer, Bill Shaw, and Howard Hamilton are members of the Ohio State Veterans Association. Beyer is doing research on the possibilities of extracting rubber from the goldenrod plant.

Extensive plans are being made for rushing parties throughout the summer, both here at the Shelter and at Brother Galbreath's farm. It might be added that the alumni chapter here in town is giving the chapter their wholehearted support.

Recently Kenyon Campbell was appointed to be our new chapter adviser, replacing Walter F. Heer, Jr. He is doing a fine job.

Plans are now under way for our summer formal. This being our fiftieth year on the campus we hope to make it quite a shindig.

Delta Gamma—South Dakota

Delta Gamma at the University of South Dakota is managing to carry on in spite of all the wartime handicaps. At the beginning of the last school year we had six actives. During the year we pledged ten men and initiated four. After giving our house to the University during the stay of an A.S.T.P. unit at school, we took it over again at the start of the summer school session and now it is a haven for returning Deltas. There are five actives here this summer; three attending medical school.

Clair Harding, based at New River, N. C., is taking preparatory officers training. A/C "Pedro" DeGeest is in V-5 at Iowa City, Ia. Lt. Keith W. Miller is a meteorologist at the Air Base at Sioux City, Ia.

Pvt. Chuck Berg recently visited the house during a furlough. He has been stationed at Camp Claiborne, La. Pfc. Lee Gilbert also returned after receiving his training at Camp Roberts, Calif., and is now presumably seeing action in the Pacific.

Ed Hibbard is in the Naval V-12 unit at Nebraska attending dental school. Lt. Orville Beardsley is air navigation instructor in the Navy at Corpus Christi, Tex. Ensign Charles Austin is an officer aboard a supply ship in the Pacific area.

Gamma Lambda—Purdue

Purdue's Deltas are starting out the new school term with the all important rush program. Bob Payne and Frank Holloway are in charge and are doing an excellent job by keeping up the high standards of Delta Tau Delta. The Gamma Lambda Shelter is still open and maintains an open kitchen. We are most concerned with neutralizing the enrollment drop at the end of each term by pledging of more good Delt material.

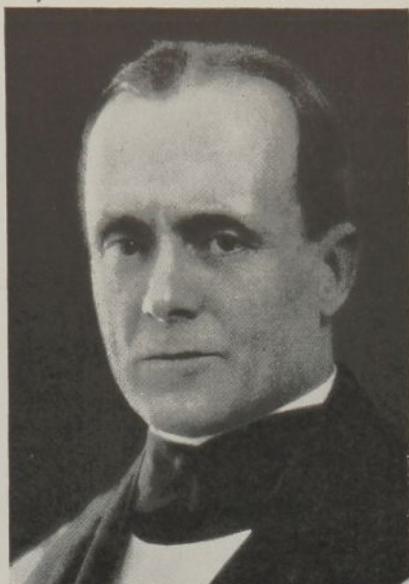

Campus activities are at a high with Jim Jennings, our prexy, as president of Student Senate, and ex-president of Fraternity Presidents' Council. On the Senate also, are Hahn, Holloway, Kollar, Kahl, Browne, and Wilhelm. Jack Exler, Marine trainee, and Don Weber, V-5, have been our outstanding lettermen in intercollegiate track meets. But with the increase in campus activities, we have not forgotten the social side of college life. Our spring formal, the Delt Sweetheart Ball, was acclaimed as an exceptional success. Over seven pinnings were acknowledged with serenades by our popular chorus at sorority houses and residence halls, with the old tradition of cigars or "dunking in the Wabash" being in full force. The entire chapter extends its heartiest congratulations to all our romantically inclined couples.

Despite war conditions and the loss of many of our Deltas, Gamma Lambda is carrying on and looking forward optimistically to a successful summer.

Alpha—Allegheny

During the past year and a half practically the entire active membership of Alpha Chapter has been called up. We had but two actives on the Allegheny campus last year. Alpha recently put pledge buttons on two men and we look forward to their initiation this fall. More than to this happy event do we look forward to an even happier day—when the actives who have gone into the armed forces return to complete their undergraduate work at Allegheny, and Alpha again operates on a full-time basis.

Allegheny College has been very co-operative in regard to the fraternity houses. Last fall the various house corporations leased their houses to the college for whatever purpose the college might wish to use them. The income from the houses less the operating expenses is divided between the participating groups in proportion to the fixed charges—taxes, insurance and interest—of the group. Although the first year has not as yet been completed there are indications that the fixed expenses of the groups will be covered. Recently the lease was extended "for the duration"; however, it is not expected that these expenses will be covered in full for the entire period. If such should be the case, the college will advance the money for these items and the house corporations will have several years after the war to repay the college.

Beta Kappa—Colorado

Starting in July of 1944, Beta Kappa went on a wartime basis. Our enrollment was greatly depleted because of our members entering the armed forces; however, Beta Kappa remained active and has been functioning to uphold the standards of Delta Tau Delta. The Navy has occupied our house; consequently, we have rented an apartment for meetings, rushing parties, and other fundamental purposes. In addition, our housemother, Mrs. Ladd, has an apartment in Boulder which is financed by the house corporation. Such social functions as afternoon teas, suppers, and friendly conversations are carried on here.

We are active with the sororities who sponsor dances for our benefit and in return we have formal dances, picnics, and serenades.

Beta Kappa recently elected Don Campbell, president; Charles Shobinger, vice-president; Oliver Hall, treasurer, and J. B. Cartwright, secretary.

WILLIAM P. LEHMAN

The political scene is in the forefront all over the United States and will be from now to November. In Fairmont, West Virginia, the local race for prosecutor of Marion County is of especial interest to Deltas. HARRISON CONAWAY, West Virginia, '25, is the incumbent and a Democrat. WILLIAM P. LEHMAN, West Virginia, '24, is the Republican nominee. These two Deltas were political opponents in 1936 and again in 1940. Bill writes, "Personal bitterness never at any time entered into our campaigns against each other and we are still the best of friends. I am hopeful that I will get the break this year." There are only a few weeks difference in their ages, they grew up and played together, attended Fairmont public schools, and roomed together for several years in the Delt house at Morgantown.

Beta Epsilon—Emory

Beta Epsilon is still operating successfully without complete access to the Delta Shelter. Dr. Farris, our University physician, is living in our house, and he and Mrs. Farris have been very nice to the chapter. We have meetings in our chapter room, and we appreciate the kindness which they have shown us.

Brother Carleton Powell, who was wounded in Italy during the earlier part of the year, has been awarded the Purple Heart. He is now recovering in Battey General Hospital, at Rome, Georgia.

Lt. (j.g.) G. Lee Dickens, '42, and Lt. (j.g.) E. Glover Jordan, '42, have recently been promoted from the rank of Ensign. They have seen a great deal of active service.

Capt. J. Edward Gazelle, '39, is still serving as aide-de-camp to General Hunter in New Orleans.

Gamma Mu—Washington

With the advent of war and the subsequent leasing of fraternity houses by the government for its Navy and Army college training programs, many believed the death knell had sounded for fraternities for the duration.

On the contrary, however, Gamma Mu of Washington has continued its activities and now numbers about twenty-five active members. Regular rushing periods are observed with the result of a continuous flow of the finest men in the university to our Fraternity. Latest pledges include Ted Bloomquist, Everard Lee, Tom Cumbow, Ross Muzzall, and Charles Elicker. We have lost active members, however, from time to time. Sterling Campbell, '44, and Richard Dunnington, '43, were recently commissioned for active duty with the U. S. Navy. Members who have recently left for various Navy Midshipmen schools include John Hood, Arthur Carlson, James Mitchell, Richard Sweeney, and Randolph Raden. Lt. Burt Waldo is with the Army Transportation Corps in Florida and Ben Lindsay was recently commissioned 2nd lieutenant with the Army Quartermaster Corps. Richard Tucker, '43, now a Navy medical student in St. Louis, returned in June to marry Miss Elaine Vert of Seattle.

Shortly after the Delt house was leased by the Navy it was decided a meeting place must be obtained. With this in mind the basement of a house adjacent to the campus was rented by the chapter with the aid of interested Seattle alumni members. The quarters are now completely furnished and have a pool table, ping-pong table, as well as radio, and phonograph. The chapter's trophies and sheepskins have been moved there and it serves as central meeting place for Delts in this vicinity. It is also used by the chapter for weekly meetings.

An active social calendar is being maintained by the chapter. Several months ago the Delts sponsored a spring formal dinner-dance at the Seattle Tennis Club. Several weeks ago, a beach party was held in honor of those members leaving for duty with the Navy and Marines.

New officers were recently elected by the chapter for the new term. Those elected include president, William Kenney; vice-president, John Reid; treasurer, Donald Nulle; and corresponding secretary, Frank Holsinger. Any of these may be contacted by letters to U. S. Naval R.O.T.C., University of Washington, Seattle, 5, Wash.

Gamma Phi—Amherst

Our house has been occupied for some time by the Army, sixty-five men living in it. The general plan was for them to occupy it until about June 1, when suddenly on March 22 the commander of the group received orders to move, and since then the house has been closed. It is expected that shortly after July 1, we will have some other groups to occupy the house again.

Due to the difficulty of obtaining a legal quorum, we are not holding the annual meeting of the house corporation. Under our by-laws the present trustees will continue to function until such time as we can hold a regular meeting and election.

Recent news from the fellows in service indicates that Jack Eppel, '37, is a sergeant in the Signal Corps Communications, stationed in Sydney, Australia. Bob Simpson, '38, who is a lieutenant in the Navy is based in the Southwest and has seen Eppel a couple of times. Charles H. Wight is also in Sydney and sees a lot of Simpson.

Gamma Zeta—Wesleyan

Despite the circumstances of war, Gamma Zeta has been able to keep going with about as many activities as are usually found in college life. The house was used by the college from July to November as a freshman dormitory, and allowed us to have several rooms to ourselves. They then turned it back to us, under the agreement to maintain financial control paying for heat, light, taxes, etc., but that there would be only members of the fraternity living in the house. Thus the V-12 members were able to have rooms where they could study, and sleep on the week ends.

The membership was greatly bolstered when seven men from Zeta (Western Reserve) came in last July, and one in March. They were affiliated here with us and became members of this chapter. These were: Davis, Clegg, Johnson, Rothman, Lamp, Luce, Kishman, and Gibbs. Since July we have had a total membership of thirty-three, the largest on campus. Furthermore, there have been numerous brothers here for a short while in the V-5 Flight Preparatory School.

In activities we have had four members of the Jibers, a college singing quartet, various men on publications, in the clubs, a total of eight members of the choir, one in debating, and others on the baseball, track, and tennis teams.

At present there are only fifteen members of the chapter here, about half of which are V-12 students. We're going strong and are going to do our best to keep the house open for the coming year.

Delta Kappa—Duke

Delta Kappa gave a formal dinner-dance at the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham, N. C., May 6, 1944. Over fifty Deltas, dates, and guests were present.

President Boyd, whose home is in Greensboro, N. C., was the honored guest and principal speaker of the evening. He made an interesting speech about fraternity life during the war. He also pointed out the value of fraternities during the national crisis and discussed Delta Tau Delta's postwar plans.

Charles E. Ward, our chapter adviser, and Frank H. Stubbs, Lt. Com., U. S. N., the local Naval R.O.T.C. executive officer, also made short talks on what the Fraternity has meant to them. Dancing was enjoyed by all for the remainder of the evening.

Rho—Stevens

Rho Chapter is in full swing despite wartime restrictions. Seven new pledges have recently become brothers. A new term is just underway and a good number of outstanding pledges have been lined up.

One of our brothers, James Martin, entered the freshman class of Annapolis July 1. Jimmy had an excellent record here at Stevens and we hope that he will continue to do outstanding work at Annapolis.

Richard Diaz has received his commission as an ensign in the U. S. Navy after attending midshipman's school at Notre Dame. Fred Thoen has also been commissioned in the Navy.

The Fraternity house has been greatly improved by the brothers. It has been painted inside and a lot of new furniture has been added.

April 15, a Father's Day dinner was held. In addition to a great many fathers, the Dean of the college, the director of admissions, and the commanding officer of the V-12 unit were present.

John S. McBride, an outstanding brother, has been elected a petty officer of the unit, and he has been elected to the Honor Board.

Delta Zeta—Florida

More than a year and a half has elapsed since Secretary Grady W. Drake sent in the last report from this chapter. It is necessary, therefore, to enumerate hastily the happenings since then and dwell more at length on the more recent milestones along the way.

The brilliant opening in September of 1942 faded to a catastrophic closing in June, 1943. All but four of the 54 actives and pledges of the former date were in the service at the closing date. The blinds were pulled at the house and the vacant sign hung out presumably for the duration. In the fall of 1943 less than half of the campus fraternities opened up and several others were temporarily negotiated for by the University for dormitory space. Satisfactory arrangements were never consummated for the renting of Delta Zeta's Shelter; but easily in January, 1944, a revival movement was started and by the time the second semester started sixteen students wore the pledge button of  $\Delta\Delta$  on the Florida campus. A pledge club was formed, officers elected, payments of rent paid in advance, and a working budget set up.

During the course of the spring, six additional pledges were secured while four were lost via the army draft boards. The pledge club carried the banner of  $\Delta\Delta$  in the intramural league and when the dust settled after the last home run was made,  $\Delta Z$  stood seventh from the top of the 32-member league.

Clerical Errors

By LOUIS TUCKER
Sewanee, '92

After one has read through from cover to cover this highly interesting book of memoirs of a southern Episcopal clergyman, he is tempted to quote profusely from the numerous interesting stories that he tells. He pictures vividly many phases of southern life which to an outlander make fascinating reading.

His clerical experiences were centered largely in Mobile, Alabama, and Baton Rouge, Louisiana, with numerous excursions to other fields where he served as a rector or a missionary. He was an "unsafe man, a man who had failed in the west, a man who had crossed a bishop, a man who had written an improper book" and "a dangerous man." All of the episodes which led him to this description of himself makes the story a lively, moving tale. When one finishes the book, he recognizes Dr. Tucker as a real Christian who never compromised with his conscience. He would be a good man to know.

Beta Theta Chapter at Sewanee comes into the story, and to a Delt those pages are among the most interesting. He spent five years there. Some day he should write another book to satisfy the appetite he has created for the hints of stories about the Lamb and the Ladies, and Kirby Smith's Bottomless Well, and Bishop Kinsolving's Boots; about the Hot Ring, and the Gilded Dog and Table Tapping, and the Ghost that Crawled; about Henry Grady and the Phosphorous and Henderson and dynamite—and dozens more.

He believed and practiced successfully the Episcopal practice of prayers and benediction for the sick, the laying on of hands, communion for the sick, and, with another clergyman, anointing of the sick. Faith was the common element in his cures, which were 98 per cent successful.

His description of how he won the support and confidence of a boy's Sunday school class is another story which adds dignity to his autobiography. His success among the Negroes was also marked, and surprisingly he shows little sympathy for the northern sentiment to the Negro. With his Protestant colleagues, a challenge by a Salvation Army leader to conduct street meetings was successfully met. Wherever Louis Tucker served his church, he became a civic leader.

The story of how he met the young girl who became his wife and companion over more than forty years is touchingly related. Southern social habits and trends lend local color to Clerical Errors. Particularly amusing is the relationship described as "kissing cousins."

Politics enters in his efforts to prevent murders in two warring Louisiana factions. He knew that whatever happened he personally would lose; yet he went ahead as his conscience dictated.

If the idea hasn't yet gotten across that Clerical Errors is an unusually interesting book, that would be a good way to close this summary. It is a book that you will remember with pleasure.

Leave Her to Heaven

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS
Dartmouth, '10

Although Leave Her to Heaven isn't the best novel Ben Ames Williams has written, it is an interesting psychological study of a woman of the ruthless, possessive type who will do anything to achieve her ends. It has many of the elements of a high-grade thriller, particularly the excellent courtroom trial which fills much of the latter part of the book.

Mr. Williams' descriptive powers, reflected in the hunting and fishing scenes, the forest fire, and other backwoods excitement, were never better. Even though one may captiously criticize the unrealities of the plot, he must admit that the novel holds the interest of the reader intent through its four hundred pages.

As an old Ben Ames Williams' reader since his earliest short stories in the Saturday Evening Post and Colliers, and his first novel The Great Accident, I have been interested in his development into one of the best of contemporary American novelists. His versatility in plot structure, his facility in drawing word pictures, and his fine sense of character development—all have grown with the years. He never has had a failure because of his sense of artistry and because his plots never repeat themselves.

Of all his novels, Time of Peace ranks among the highest. His newspaper novel Splendor was one of his best. For mystery addicts Death in Scurry Street is tops. Come Spring is rated among our best historical novels. Everything he writes seems to be worth reading.

Leave Her to Heaven has already taken its place on best-seller lists, and undoubtedly rates that popular response.

Democracy Reborn

By HENRY A. WALLACE
Iowa State, '10

By JAMES B. RESTON

In what appears to be a Presidential election campaign between a Democrat who won't talk and a Republican who says he isn't a candidate, it is at least noteworthy that Vice-President Henry A. Wallace is not only ready to discuss some of the issues but has got out a book of his writings and speeches, which furnish plenty of campaign material for both his supporters and opponents.

Publication of a controversial anthology at this particular time would not seem to conform to the professional rules of a campaign which so far has rewarded silence and obscurity. But Mr. Wallace, who is probably the most individualistic vice-president we have had since Teddy Roosevelt, doesn't conform either to the rules of the campaign, the Throttlebottom tradition of his office, or to the orthodox conceptions of what's wrong, if anything, with America. That's why his book makes good reading—and that is probably why he is such a controversial figure in the campaign.

Three ideas recur throughout the writings and speeches of the Vice-President during the past ten years, or at least throughout that part of them which Mr. Lord has included in this volume:

(1) The people of the United States have attained a kind of political democracy, but they have not yet attained economic democracy. The chief reason for this is that they have not learned how to make a mass-production society work; they have clung to an outmoded, high-priced economy of scarcity, partly through their own poverty of desire and partly because it was put over on them by a group of bankers, manufacturers and business men. These groups, says Mr. Wallace, often with the best of motives, and looking upon themselves as "realists," have put personal power and material values above human values—and were in fact "sleight-of-hand performers and short-change artists" who duped the American people.

(2) The American people could, in spite of the expenditures of the war, raise their standard of living by 50 per cent if they were prepared to violate many of their "cherished convictions." Dollar principles are all right when they serve human principles and free enterprise must be maintained, but the "Big Three"—big business, big agriculture and big labor—must all work together for the general welfare and "above everything adhere to the principle of complete utilization of all resources, all manpower, all skills in the service of the common man in his search for jobs."

(3) If the American people reject this principle and continue to favor the interests of the pressure groups rather than the general interest of all the people, chaos will result. A revolution in our past ways of living is inevitable, partly because of the aftermath of two wars and partly as a result of 150 years of modern technology and democratic thinking about the rights and duties of man. It is for the American people—and particularly for the pressure groups, the cartels and the Congress—to choose whether this revolu-

LT. ROBERT R. MILLER, South Dakota, '43, has been awarded the combat infantryman's badge "for outstanding performance." He was the leader of a three-man patrol which had advanced within fifty yards of the enemy position and was sketching its position when fired on with machine pistols by the enemy who was just around the corner in the same trench.

LT. JOHN M. ROBINSON, JR., Cincinnati, '43, has been awarded the Air Medal. A Navy fighter pilot, missing in action since September 18, 1943, he was cited "for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight as a pilot in Fighting Squadron 16 during an early morning raid on the Japanese at Tarawa Atoll September 18, 1943."

Delts reporting recently to Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss., for processing to determine their qualifications as pre-aviation cadets include: HERBERT J. DOHERTY, JR., Florida, '47; HOWARD K. Withstanding the relentless attack of the enemy, he steadfastly remained in the perilous zone until a relief plane reached the scene and, although on the return course, his plane and its crew plunged into the sea because of engine trouble suffered in the fierce encounter, his valorous conduct in the fray contributed to the destruction of a valuable enemy ship. The indomitable fighting spirit and loyal devotion to duty displayed by Ensign Wells throughout this hazardous engagement were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."*

CAPT. MCCARTNEY

And there is this story:

A young captain at an Army post found that two noncoms were also Delts. They abided by military regulations governing their association until the time came for them to shove off in separate directions. The officer made arrangements for them to have dinner together at the only good restaurant in the near-by town. Although they had a private dining room, it was necessary to go through the main dining room to reach it—which they did, one by one.

A crusty regular Army colonel was among the patrons in the public part of the restaurant. Just as the conviviality was getting under way, the colonel appeared at the door of the private dining room.

Knowing the violation of military ethics, the captain asked permission to state their case, which was granted. The junior officer said, "You see, sir, we are aware that we are violating Army regulations; however, there is a very good reason—to our minds. We were not acquaintances prior to being assigned to duty here, but we learned that we are all members of the same college fraternity and since, as you know, sir, we are all going our separate ways very soon, we decided to have a farewell dinner."

The colonel asked one question: "What is your fraternity?"

"Delta Tau Delta."

As the captain finished speaking the colonel turned on his heel, went to the door, and spoke to his orderly. He closed the door, grinned and said, "What about another chair, boys? I'm a Delt, too."

Proof that good soldiers, too, may come in small packages has been supplied by LT. JAMES R. MCCARTNEY, West Virginia, '41, former University basketball player from Meyersdale, Pa.

The five-foot-three, 125-pound Mountaineer graduate has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry on the Tunisian front, according to an Army announcement.

LT. McCartney and four enlisted men, members of a tank crew in the Fifth Army in Tunisia, captured two enemy officers and 54 men to win the coveted Silver Star award.

"Little Jim" must have presented quite a picture when he climbed out of that tank, stretched to his full five-feet-three and took command of all those captured men.

McCartney was one of the most popular boys in his class at West Virginia, being elected president of the student government in 1940-41.

The Pittsburgh Press

News releases from Napier Field, Alabama, in April relate that LT. JOSEPH C.

PANSING, Duke, '43, received his silver wings, and Lt. EDWARD B. SALTZ, Wisconsin, '43, was assigned to duty as a flight instructor.

Among the stories coming every day from the battle fronts is this one regarding MAJOR HUGH G. ASHCRAFT, JR., W. & L., '40, pilot of the famous Flying Fortress "Southern Comfort." Flying a new, substitute ship (the "Southern Comfort" returned from a raid on Wilhelmshaven on February 26 with a good part of its rudder shot away), he turned back just as he reached the coast of France when the oxygen system in the plane broke down and his crew narrowly escaped suffocation. Recipient of the Air Medal, Major Ashcraft is now planning missions instead of flying them.

Lt. (j.g.) R. W. EATON, Texas, '39, is a Photo-Reconnaissance Interpreter, Combat Intelligence Officer, and has seen action in ten engagements, having been in the Pacific fourteen months.

▼ FRATERNALLY YOURS ▼

Greetings from a few Delts attached to the U. S. Army for administration, rations, and quarters, for duration plus six months, some place in India. Lt. William F. Parks, Colorado, '33; Lt. Andrew S. Horton, Lafayette, '41; Lt. Don H. Ruhl, Florida, '45; Lt. W. H. Beauchamp, Brown, '42; Lt. Alva N. Lucas, DePauw, '29.

I am sorry, we met a boy from Iowa but he is not with us and we do not have his name.

We realize America is the place and why anyone would ever advocate anything but Americanism and American standards and customs, we are lost to say. Fraternally, AL LUCAS.

Arch Tuthill (U.C.L.A., '27) has been a Lieutenant in the U. S. Navy for over two years and at sea for over a year as the U. S. Naval Liaison officer aboard an Australian cruiser, in twenty or more major naval engagements. . . . MRS. ARCH TUTHILL.

. . . I don't believe anyone quite realizes just how much a fraternity means until they are away for a while. Since leaving Westminster last September, I have not seen any of the Delta Omicron fellows, but we are all looking forward to a big reunion when this war is over. Mother and Daddy have taken it upon themselves to do all they can to hold us together by publishing a monthly paper with letters from the fellows. I just hope we all do as much to help after the war as alumni, as they are doing while we're away. . . . RICHARD WATKINS, Westminster, '44.

Enclosed please find check for ten dollars (Loyalty Fund). I am sending it on behalf of my son Lt. Thomas M. Fread. He has been reported "killed in action" since December, 1943, but we, his family, are still hoping he may be heard from.

His experiences in college and his fraternity were very precious to him. It is a satisfactory memory for me to think about his happy associations at Washington and Jefferson.

Members of his squadron, who were on the same mission in the bombing of the Marshalls, saw "Tom's" bomber make a "safe water landing" after one of the motors caught fire. That is the last they were heard of, but we like to think those fine boys have been saved somewhere. They had so much to give this war-weary world.

Best wishes for the Fraternity welfare. Sincerely, MARGARET MAGILL FREAD.

. . . Although I spent only one year in Cornell and this with active association with the fraternity, I nonetheless treasure that period as one of the pleasantest and most beneficial of my life, and desire to maintain my status as a bona fide member in good standing always. . . . Fraternally, COM. CHARLES E. ROBERTSON, Cornell, '32

LT. OLIVER S. HALL, CAPT. THOMAS J. HALL, II, LT. FRED E. HALL, JR.

. . . I am enclosing a picture of the boys, including my oldest son, who is in the Air Corps Intelligence. This picture was taken on October 10, all three boys having been lucky enough to get a short leave at the same time. It was the first time the two younger boys had seen each other in nearly two years.

Mrs. Hall and I are rather proud of our boys, including our son-in-law, who is an officer in the heavy artillery and has been overseas for fifteen months. All four boys enlisted far ahead of their time to be drafted. T. J. (Kenyon, '32), the oldest, is 33, happily married and has a son over six years old. Oliver (Miami, '37), the second boy, is 29 and unmarried. Fred, Jr., (Miami, '41), is 25, happily married and due to be a father now at any moment. His wife and my daughter were roommates at college.

Like their father, the three boys are all Delts and proud of it. T. J. and I attended Kenyon College and the other two went to Miami University. My daughter was a Tri Delt at Miami. . . . Fraternally yours, F. E. HALL, Kenyon, '06.

I am enclosing my check in payment of the indebtedness of my son, Wallace, (Westminster, '45) . . .

Wallace is in the Army and is now stationed at Camp Adair, Oregon. He ranks a step or two above a high private; he is a corporal, I believe.

His dad, the writer of this letter, happens to be a Phi Gam. W. F. ODELL.

Your letter was forwarded to me out here, but I've been too busy to keep my correspondence as much up to date as I'd like.

I jumped right into a tough job as Motor Transport Officer, organizing the unit for Transient Center, 5th Amphibious Corps. I imagine by now the papers have carried news about the 5th. It's been very interesting, with plenty to do, and sometimes wondering how to get it done. The thing that has really helped me the most is the fine quality of the average Marine enlisted man. Most of the ones I have are 18 to 20 years old, and loyal, industrious, and, in some cases, ingenious. We've been d—d near stumped a few times, but never completely. We always have finally licked the problem. It's a pleasure to be an officer when you get such men to work for you. . . .

. . . One little anecdote that would interest some older Delts: One night not long ago I was introduced to a young Marine Major, who, I'd been informed before, had won the Navy Cross and Silver Star in action. I didn't quite get his name. We talked, and the fact came up he was a Beta from Virginia. I told him I'd been Delt field secretary, and he said, "My father was a Delt from Wisconsin." Then his name sort of stirred in my mind and I said, "Is your name Fuller?" "Yes," he said. He was "Stu" Fuller's son, the "Stu" who was consul general of the Far East.

My best to all. Fraternally, LT. RALPH WRAY, U.S.M.C.R., Colorado, '20.

In January of this year I was promoted to Captain and am still stationed here at Navajo Ordnance Depot. I reported here early in January of 1943 and was assigned as Assistant Operations Officer. Since then I have been Ammunition Supply Officer, Assistant Stock Control Officer, and Stock Control Officer. I have held this latter position since September, 1943. . . .

Since I have been in the Army I have had little chance to attend Delt functions. While in Washington I spent some time at Gamma Eta. Whenever I got back near home I tried to stop in at the regular weekly luncheons given by the Chicago Alumni Chapter. Since being out here in Flagstaff, I haven't had much contact with the Fraternity, but THE RAINBOW has been forwarded to me from home. . . . Fraternally, CAPT. RAYMOND F. KOCH, M. I. T., '41.

. . . I hope Delta Tau Delta isn't being hurt too much by this war. I've been getting a little out of touch with you recently, but I guess that can't be helped now. As soon as this thing is over, I'm hoping to go back and finish school and get acquainted once more with my old friends at W. & J. College and Delta Tau Delta. I guess we all hope that time will be soon.

I'm being kept very busy here at AMM school and that doesn't give me much chance to keep up on things. I'd appreciate it if you would let me know if there's anything I can do in order to help our Fraternity or any other matter.

Here's wishing you lots of luck. Yours truly, PFC. WILLIAM G. FREEMAN, W. & J., '45.

... We are in a very beautiful location, located on a slight rise from which we can look down on the surrounding countryside. There is an ever present, luxuriant deep rich green which is very pleasant and just at present many flowers and trees are in full bloom which greatly enhances the natural beauty of this section. Of late, we have been blessed with many bright sunny days, with the most wonderful temperature I have ever experienced. Cool to crisp at night, yet pleasantly warm but never hot during the day. Very much like late spring in Wisconsin with the added feature of a cleanliness in general which compares favorably with the best kept private residences and lots in the States.

Since I have been here, I have made the best of every opportunity to get about seeing cities, historical spots of interest and natural beauty spots as well as meet people and get their views on all general subjects. While "there's no place like home" I feel that I am making the most of the situation and learning new things daily thereby broadening my education greatly.

I live for the day when I can arrive bag and baggage once more at 16 Mendota Court to take up once again where I broke off sometime ago. Many of my frequent and fondest thoughts are of those days and the fellowship, its problems and its good times which we shared there. If it were not for these and more, I'm sure there would be little to inspire us in our task but as it now stands the harder we fight together, the sooner will we be the victor and the sooner we can then get back once again to a more normal life. I hope one day to be able to do for Delta Tau Delta what I feel it has done for me for my benefits have been many and great.

I must break off now but will try to write again soon. With my best wishes to you and for your good health, I am, Fraternally yours, BRACKEN L. SNOW, Wisconsin, '43.

The above letter was written to Alfred T. Rogers, house corporation treasurer of Beta Gamma, who passed it along to the Editor.

... You might wish to note for your records that my son is an Ensign in the U.S.N.R., has just finished his training at Princeton, and enrolls this week at Harvard to complete his training in communications.

He became a Delt (as I am also) while at the University of Michigan, where he studied two years. He then went to Duke and graduated after two years; took some work at the University of Grenoble in France, then took postgraduate work at Duke. Then was with Sperry Gyroscope Co., for two years. Very truly yours, CLIFFORD C. WARD, SR., Hillsdale, '02. . .

The son, Clifford C. Ward, Jr., is Michigan, '38, and Duke, '40.

Many replies from all over the world have been received in response to the Fraternity's Loyalty Fund billing in the spring. Graphically clear is this one from Corp. John G. Robbin, Iowa State, '43. "Please don't despair—when abilities meet intent the balance will follow."

fully say that I'm more thankful than ever that I pledged Delt back at good old Delta Alpha about four long years ago. Several Oklahoma Delts and I keep up a regular correspondence—try to keep in touch with all the boys and to find out what they're doing and where they are stationed. We're planning a big reunion as soon as we get this thing over and we're looking for the same high standards and ideals that Delta Tau Delta has always had when the war ends and some of us go back to school while others form alumni clubs all over the country. Here's hoping we have bigger and better chapters than ever when that famous "duration plus six months" comes our way. Fraternally, CORP. GEORGE G. ANTHONY, Oklahoma, '43.

... I am very proud to be a member of Delta Tau Delta even though I only had the privilege of being in college one month. Since being in the Army I have met several other Delts from various parts of the country and the friendship that we have enjoyed all the more convinces me that OUIS is the best. Sincerely, GORMAN NEEL, 2ND LT., A. C., Kansas State, '46.

For your records, I thought you might be interested in knowing that I was commissioned a chaplain in the Navy with the rank of lieutenant (j.g.) on November 9, 1943. . . . Fraternally yours, LEE A. BELFORD, Sewanee, '35.

Now that after being in the Army for ten months I have saved up a total of $5.00, which I am enclosing for payment toward my Loyalty Fund, I would appreciate it if you would send me the coming issues of the long-no-see RAINBOW. A/C EARLE C. BLAKEMAN, JR., Cornell, '44.

... As you can no doubt deduce from my return address (c/o Fleet Post Office, San Francisco) I have been in very little position to keep much in contact with my fraternity—I have, however, on many occasions run into Delts from all over in the fighting forces. We seem to be well represented in all theaters.

It is certainly gratifying to meet a brother so far away from home. It has the effect of bringing home and all the things we are fighting for nearer.

Having been overseas for fourteen months, I have lost most of my contact with my own chapter (Gamma Rho, U. of Oregon), but I know that a lot of the boys in my class are over here and am always on the lookout for them. . . . Until Victory, Fraternally yours, LT. JAY S. AMBROSE, Oregon, '41.

I've been having one devil of a time opening a checking account with Chase National by mail and I'm hoping you can expedite matters without too much trouble. I'm enclosing a specimen signature form which I trust you will sign and send along. This Bank seems to be like the current servant problem, you must supply several references before they will accept your account.

Things are still about the same here in the South Pacific. We're on the go practically every day and night, but if it shortens this war, I'm all for it. . . .

I'm getting my RAINBOW regularly and it is certainly like an oasis in the Sahara. Please keep me informed of any local ΔΤΔ doings. Hope to pay the Central Office a visit one of these days soon. Fraternally, LT. (j.g.) H. J. WATERS, Butler, '42.

I am enclosing a check for the balance of my Loyalty Fund. I'm sorry I couldn't pay it sooner, but I spent four years in graduate study at Yale and Columbia, got married, had a baby, and began my ministry. . . . RALPH W. PARKS, JR., Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio, '37.

... Here in England the Red Cross has pursued a program of college reunions for some time and I have been intending to find out if they have any roster of fraternal organizations on my next leave in London, for I'm sure there must be a good many Delts serving in this theater. Fraternally yours, S/SGT. RAY B. ALLEN, U.C.L.A., '33.

I have been sending John M. McKenzie's RAINBOW on to him. He enjoys getting it. He is in the Navy now. His address is: John M. McKenzie, SK 1/c, c/o Disbursing Officer, Naval Enlisted Barracks, Vallejo, California. He has been in the service since a year ago now. His mother, Mrs. M. G. McKenzie.

tion is to be "gradual and bloodless instead of sudden and bloody."

Our problem, Mr. Wallace concludes, is spiritual even before it is economic. Only the merest quarter-turn of the heart separates us from a material abundance beyond our fondest dreams. "The people," he says, "will have to educate their leaders on behalf of the general welfare, measuring every article in the press, every statement on the radio, every act of Congress by one yardstick: 'Does this help use all our resources, employ all our men, develop all our skills?'" If the people everywhere do this they shall save themselves. "Otherwise," he predicts, "we shall have a bloody revolution and slavery."

▼ THE DELT ALUMNI CHAPTERS ▼

Athens

The Athens (Ohio) Alumni Chapter recently entertained with a noon luncheon at Hotel Berry, honoring four new pledges of the local chapter.

The pledges, all Athens residents and members of this year's graduating class at Athens High School, are: Jack Tritipo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Tritipo, football, basketball, and baseball letter man, member of Boy's Glee Club, student body president, and C.A.P. cadet. Bob Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones, football, basketball and baseball letter man, member of President's Club, Boy's Glee Club, and home room officer. Pete Yanity, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Yanity, football and baseball letter man, member of band and President's Club, National Honor Society, and class officer. Jim Farley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Farley, football and basketball letter man, member of Boy's Glee Club, band, and President's Club, and C.A.P. cadet commander.

Dr. H. R. Wilson delivered the address following the luncheon, and the invocation was given by D. M. Goddard. The singing of "Delta Shelter" concluded the after-luncheon program.

The annex is still being used to house the actives and pledges. Our main chapter house on President Street has been leased to the McBee Co. for the duration of the war. The McBee Co. is using the house for a training school for their salesmen. The salesmen are housed there and cooks have been hired by the company to prepare all their meals there, also. The chapter room has been newly decorated and is being used as a study and classroom for the salesmen. DAVID H. HUGHES

Chicago

The luncheons of the Chicago Alumni Chapter every Monday noon at the Harding Restaurant in the Fair Store continue to draw good attendance and lively conversation. Among recent luncheon visitors from the armed forces (whom we always welcome) were the following brothers: Captain Floyd Egan, Beta Pi, Lt. H. R. Wiggins, Beta Tau, Lt. James B. Matson, Gamma Psi, Captain Robert Fabry, Upsilon, and Captain Walter C. Begland, Beta Pi.

The two local active chapters, at Northwestern and at Illinois Institute of Technology (formerly Armour), are being aided by members of our alumni chapter officially as advisers, officers of house fund corporation and in other ways.

MERRILL DWINELL

Clarksburg

William H. Geppert, having given up his law practice in 1941 to join the armed forces, was sent in January, 1944, as a lieutenant, U.S.N.R., to the South Pacific as a member of the Fifth Amphibious Force.

William F. McCue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony McCue, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, has been promoted to the rank of major at the Abilene Army Air Base, Texas. He was sent to Texas in February of this year from Harding Field, Louisiana, and was assigned as combat intelligence officer.

David V. Sutton received the commission of lieutenant in the Aviation Intelligence Department of the Marines and is in training at the Ground Officers Training School, Quantico, Virginia. His wife and small daughter have returned from New York to her parents in Wheeling.

LEWIS M. SUTTON, SR.

Cleveland

The Cleveland Alumni Chapter continues to operate in high gear under the active and efficient leadership of its President, Frank H. Pelton. The well-attended weekly luncheon meetings, the monthly Bulletin, now in its tenth year of consecutive publication, and an occasional social function all help to keep members' interest in spite of multitudinous wartime demands.

A special committee composed of Harold Hopkins, Les Morgan, and Wilson Ruedy, has worked closely with Zeta Chapter and has also served as a clearing center for rushing information concerning high school seniors going to college in the near future.

On May 21 Judge James M. Shallenberger died at his home after a brief illness. The Judge, who rarely missed a Delt function, was 83 years of age. He was truly loved by Cleveland Deltis and his passing leaves all of us with heavy hearts.

Here are a few "Brief Bits About The Boys": Sgt. Harry Hoffman, of the Mountain Troops, was home on furlough. We get interesting letters from Sgt. "Pat" Moran, who is in Italy. Karl Erle entertains the regular Delt luncheon gang on his cabin cruiser. Bob Weaver's Ferro Enamel Company and Erle's Stadium Yacht Basin awarded Army-Navy "E" for outstanding records in war production. Al Munhall recently elected president of the Cleveland Export-Import Club. Bill Stage elected commander of the Cleveland Power Squadron. Roland Caley is now executive secretary of the Ohio Good Roads Federation. Curtis Harsh moves to Cincinnati to open an office for the Valley Camp Coal Company. Gordon Nichols is a sure bet to be re-elected mayor of Chagrin Falls. Lee Belding's a vacation visitor to Cleveland. Captain William Hecker reported somewhere overseas. Bill Bemis named to Alumni Council of Western Reserve University; Dr. J. J. Thomas is Chairman of a W.R.U. fund-raising committee. Harold Hopkins is back from another fishing trip. Jack Finnicum left for vacation jaunt to Denver. Allen Thomas promoted to captain in the Air Corps Ferrying Command. Mickey McNabb, back home from India, Africa, China, Burma and Australia. These items could go on and on—but the editor has threatened to burn us down if we were not brief. Hence we cease.

As we have mentioned many times, the Cleveland Alumni Chapter invites all Deltis in the Cleveland area to participate in our affairs. If you desire to be placed on our mailing list please notify the secretary. RANDALL M. RUHLMAN

Columbus

Our first fall Wednesday noon luncheon at the University Club will be held August 2. The University Club closes the last two weeks of July each year and we meet elsewhere.

Officers of the Columbus Alumni Chapter and Clemens R. Frank, President of the Northern Division, attended the first formal meeting of the reactivated Dayton Alumni Chapter June 2 at the Van Cleve Hotel in Dayton.

Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt and Clem Frank represented the Columbus Alumni Chapter at the annual homecoming at Kappa Chapter when Judge Chauncey Newcomer of Bryan, Ohio, was honored for his fifty years of active membership in Delta Tau Delta.

We regret to record the passing to the Chapter Eternal of Henry C. Dietrich (Ohio U., '99). For nineteen years he had served as Superintendent of the Bexley public schools, having retired only a year ago.

A. Ross Alkire (Ohio U., '13) was recently named to the Board of Trustees of Ohio University.

John W. Galbreath (Ohio U., '20), President of the National Association of Real Estate Brokers, was the principal speaker at a dinner given in his honor by the Columbus Real Estate Brokers in the spring. A number of Deltis attended this party.

Lt. Robert E. Gibbs (Ohio State, '35) is now stationed at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Recent letters from men in military service included those from Corp. Duane R. Redman (Allegheny, '33), Pvt. John C. Oliver (Ohio State, '43), and Corp. James C. Ferguson (Ohio State, '45).

DON C. VAN BUREN

Dayton

The Dayton Alumni Chapter has recently been reactivated under the leadership of Grafton L. Parker. The first regular meeting was held June 2 at the Van Cleve Hotel and officers were elected. They are: Mr. Parker, president; Gordon S. Battelle, vice-president, and, Fowler M. Mould, secretary-treasurer.

The first meeting was attended, also, by officers of the Columbus (Ohio) Alumni Chapter and Clemens R. Frank, President of the Northern Division. Sixteen members were present. Dayton Deltis in the service are being carried as associate members of the chapter.

Regular meetings of the chapter will be held the first Friday of each month at the Van Cleve Hotel.

FOWLER M. MOULD

Denver

The Denver Alumni Chapter wishes to announce for the benefit of any visiting Deltas who might be in Denver this summer that the monthly dinner meetings are now being held at the Olin Hotel on the last Wednesday of each month, instead of the Oxford Hotel. At the last meeting, Ben C. Hilliard, Jr., gave a very interesting talk on the postwar outlook. Mr. Hilliard, a local attorney, is a very prominent member of the American Legion.

At the April dinner meeting, Lt. Karl Edward "Bud" Bliss, Beta Kappa, '37, until recently a B-17 bomber pilot in the European theater of operations, related a few of his experiences. Bud was shot down after his sixth mission over Germany and is now convalescing in an Army hospital near Denver.

Tom Dodd, Beta Kappa, '37, recently returned to Denver to make his home and we welcome him again to the Denver Alumni Chapter. He has promised a deluxe housewarming whenever he is able to find a house.

Lt. Col. Seth Wiard, Upsilon, '16, former commandant of the Denver Ordnance Plant, has been transferred to a similar post in Kansas.

Pvt. Don White, Epsilon, '37, of Indianapolis, is now stationed at Lowry Field near Denver. He hopes to be able to attend our meetings.

Eppa Rixey, Jr., Chi, '47, son of the former Big League pitcher, is now also stationed at Lowry Field.

William F. "Bunny-Nose" Burr is vacationing in Denver. Bill has been, for the past several years, associated with the Telephone Company in Wyoming and is now located in Cheyenne.

Our regular monthly luncheons are being held on the second Wednesday of each month at Daniel & Fisher's Tea Room. Dinner meetings are, of course, held on the last Wednesday of each month. We cordially invite the attendance of any visiting Deltas.

FRED G. HOLMES

Indianapolis

The summer activities of the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter are continuing with the regular Friday luncheons at the Columbia Club and the annual mid-summer dinner-dance which is scheduled for Friday night, July 14 at the Southern Mansion.

All Indianapolis Deltas mourn the passing of Lt. Edward Ragsdale, second son of Brother John Paul Ragsdale to make the supreme sacrifice in service of his country. Our deepest sympathy is also extended to the family of Brother Ed. J. Boleman, Indianapolis attorney who recently joined the Chapter Eternal.

On June 19, the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter Ritual Team, headed by Bowman Downey, initiated five new members into the Beta Zeta, Butler University, Chapter at the chapter house on the campus. The initiates are: Bob Barnes, Canton, Ohio; Norval Lyon, Owosso, Michigan; Russ Miller, Bob Leuthold, and Bob Simpson, all of Indianapolis. Indianapolis alumni members of the Ritual Team were Gene Hibbs, Bill Hutchison, Judge Emsley Johnson, Hack Miller, and Foster Oldshue. Jim Jennings, president of the Purdue chapter, came to Indianapolis to assist in the ceremony. After the initiation exercises, the Delta Tau Delta Mother's Club served a delicious supper.

Norm Hammer dropped in for the first Friday luncheon since he graduated and promised to come each week from now on. Brother Dale Hodges, Diamond Chain Company treasurer, had Brother John Wamsley, Beta Zeta, as his guest at a recent luncheon. Brother Wamsley is Diamond Chain's representative out in Tulsa. George Neal, Detroit Delt and Collector of Internal Revenue, dropped in recently and explained the income tax schedules. Lt. Col. Ed James, U. S. Army Air Force, Private Walt Young, Upsilon, '46, now of Camp Atterbury, and Ensign Lloyd Rossebo, Gamma Lambda, now of the U. S. Navy, have been recent visitors.

W. E. JENKINS

Jacksonville

News of Jacksonville alumni members is well in keeping with paper restrictions this month, there being little change since our last report.

Lieut. (j.g.) Frank Brownnett, now connected with the Bureau of Ships, Washington, D. C., was a Jacksonville visitor during the latter part of June.

Guy Botts, who we thought was destined for Army service a few months back, has had his enrollment deferred indefinitely. In July, he was installed as president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and in addition, is treasurer of Jacksonville Junior College.

N. Ray Carroll, Deer Park, was a Jacksonville visitor recently when he came up to address the Bankers' Convention. In addition to being a banker and ranch owner in South Florida, Brother Carroll has also been re-elected to the State Senate.

To any Deltas in service who may be located in this section, we hope you will let us know if the Jacksonville Alumni Chapter can be of help at any time.

JOHN B. TURNER, JR.

Kansas City

The Kansas City alumni are carrying on as usual with a weekly luncheon, recently having had a visit from Hugh Shields. Another welcome visitor was our old Secretary, "Bill" Gilges of Missouri, now first lieutenant in the Air Corps, in intelligence work at Carlsbad, New Mexico, air field.

News of other service men is as follows: Lt. (j.g.) George Hine, Missouri, '34, recently received his commission in the Naval Reserve. Sgt. Howard Bayne, Baker, '39, has completed his course at Carleton College and expects an assignment in the intelligence service. Lt. (j.g.) Dwight Steele, Illinois, '32, was recently commissioned in the Naval Reserve. Corp. Harry Warnock, Baker, '40, is with the Signal Corps in the South Pacific. Lt. Wm. A. Hudson, Missouri, '23, is with the Ferry

Command at Fairfax Airport—recently returned from India. FRANK B. SIEGRIST

New York

The last meeting of the New York Alumni Chapter for the summer was held June 21. New officers elected are: William C. Hyatt, Rensselaer, '21, president; Walter A. Morris, Pittsburgh, '17, vice-president; John T. Robinson, Stevens, '43, secretary, and, James W. Hemphill, Pittsburgh, '14, treasurer.

The next luncheon will be held the third Wednesday of September in the Hotel Sheraton, at Lexington Avenue and 37th Street at 12:30 p. m.

H. J. MURPHEY

St. Louis

Will Beck, Lawrence, has returned from the Canal Zone and is now on detached service at Dallas, Texas. We are very sorry to hear that Will's younger brother, James, has been reported missing in a flight over Germany.

Lt. Don S. Holt, North Carolina, reports that he is still stationed at Long Beach.

Lt. Charles G. Drake, Westminster, dropped in for Monday luncheon in May and we were all very glad to have him with us and to hear some of his experiences while in charge of a gun crew in the Pacific.

Forrest Boecker, Cornell, is now connected with the legal department of the Wabash Railroad.

Several of the regular members have been missing our Monday luncheons in June because of business trips. Hope they will all be with us during the present month.

G. H. BUCHANAN, JR.

Pittsburgh

There has been renewed activity in the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter, due largely to the efforts of our new president, Bob Hartford, Ohio University, '36. Bob has inaugurated a new alumni chapter newsletter going to all Deltas in the Pittsburgh area. He hopes to build up the luncheon attendance in this manner.

Ernie Schleusener, Carnegie Tech, '36, and an active alumnus, was recently elected vice-president of Oliver Iron & Steel Company, and president of the Pittsburgh Section—Society for the Advancement of Management.

Robert A. Laedlein, of National Tube Company, has been loaned to the War Production Board in Washington, and he will be Chief of the Cylinder Section, Container Division, W.P.B.

Bud Murphy, former chapter adviser at Carnegie Tech, has left Pittsburgh to go to work for the Kellogg Corporation in New York.

Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter welcomed back for a regular luncheon Colonel O. H. Schrader, U. S. Army retired, Washington, '08. Col. Schrader is very interested in continuing his fraternity activities.

The Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter mourns the loss of Capt. Eugene F. Haverly, Pitt, '34, who was killed in action in Italy on February 29.

Any visiting alumni are always welcome

Wilmington

The Wilmington Alumni Chapter held its annual election of officers at a dinner meeting in the Hob Tea Room, June 26. Lawrence V. Smith, Cornell, '18, was elected president of the chapter.

Other officers chosen were Stratton F. Knox, Jr., Amherst, '33, vice-president; Kenneth T. King, M. I. T., '15, treasurer, and Bedford Berry, Tennessee, '42, secretary.

Plans have been started for a roast pig dinner in the fall. In the meanwhile, the chapter meets at luncheon at the Hob Tea Room every Monday noon, and all Deltas are invited.

Editor's Mailbag

The big social event of the Spring Frolic period was the Rebel's Ball staged at the Shelter. Out-of-town dates were in style even though the music was juke. By the way, the master record machine was set up in the kitchen and loud speakers wired to it for syncopation in each of the rooms for dancing.

The general opinion was that scholarship would be expected to be lax, but only one pledge failed to make the Dean's list. On the other extreme Jack Doherty pulled in a string of A's for a perfect score, with Dughi, Potter and Tuckett crowding closely behind. Formal initiation was held on May 10 in which the local alumni team functioned smoothly and resulted in six new actives. It was hoped that all of them would return in September for the fall opening, but word has been received to date that four of them are already in uniform and we'll be lucky to open up with two actives. The university's regular attendance of about 3,500 in September, 1942, has been reduced to its current number of about 500.

During part of the semester several of the former members in A.S.T.P. training, namely, Toms, Myers, Germany, and Geer were on the campus and offered considerable aid in our behalf, but they were very busy and closely confined. Graduations during the year found Carroll, Germany, and Morrison getting bachelor degrees. The pledge group was instructed by Doc Weber and received much inspiration from the several alumni who stopped by the house going or coming on their furloughs. Some of those who were here included Pvt. Grady Drake from Texas, Pvt. Johnny Roberts from New Orleans, Sgt. S. Kenist Smith from Memphis, Lt. Lamar King from Ft. Sill, Capt. W. Dickey from Virginia, Major W. M. Fifield from Oklahoma, Sgt. Max E. Cobbe from N. Carolina, A/C Jimmy Conn from New York, Lt. Lam Frederick from Louisiana, Pvt. Jack Gruber from Boston, Lt. (j.g.) Robt. Z. Jenkins of Boston, Lt. (j.g.) Syd Lenfestey from Maryland, Capt. Jimmy Mitchell from North Carolina, and Capt. J. V. McQuitty from Alabama.

The chapter has definite reports of 120 of its alumni in the service at the present time of a total of 257 initiated during the past twenty years. The casualty lists have included: Fred H. Jones, '35—Lt. Inf. missing in action in vicinity of Australia, and Carl E. Peterson, '44—AAC, killed February 22, 1944, at Seymour, Indiana, in a plane crash.

Fraser Leaves

six men out—came back with eight—that the rest are out there on the rocks; and then seeing him stumble out again into the night, taking more men to fight. I shall remember Nurse Margaret McNally, of Mohawk, N. Y., caring for the wounded in a tent hospital at the Anzio Beachhead, while German raiders dropped their bombs and flak and shrapnel tore holes in the tent canvas, as she patted their foreheads and held their hands. I shall remember the night of May 11 at 11 o'clock (D-Day and H-Hour in the campaign for Rome) and how thirty miles of the Garigliano Valley was alive with tongues of flame as gunners like Pfc. Charles Morris, of Arlington, Texas, rammed shells into a smoking breach. I shall remember the cool bravery of air corps pilots like Lt. Robert Hoffman, of Dansville, N. Y., asking me over the interphone if I was all right as the ship rocked from flak hits while we dropped our bombs on a German command post at Pontecorvo. I shall remember the Anzio jump off (that was the final push for Rome) and the German mortar and artillery fire laid on our attacking troops (infantry) and the walking wounded coming out of a curtain of fire and of watching Pvt. Joseph Cavallone of 283 Rutledge Street, Brooklyn, feeding a bottle of blood plasma into the broken body of his buddy as he helped the litter bearers carry him out of range. I shall remember the bombing and strafing of an advancing infantry division and the coolness of Lt. George Hodgen, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, as he calls, "Charlie Company—Charlie Company" getting his men together again. I shall remember that private, his arm dangling at his side, asking me for my water canteen and then not drinking himself, but trying to bring back to life another boy lying still by the roadside. I shall remember men like Captain Roy Manly, of International Falls, Minnesota, riding in an unprotected jeep, leading and directing his column of tanks and recon cars along highway six as we stormed the gates of Rome. I shall remember generals like General Robert T. Frederick, of San Francisco, carbine in hand, personally leading his troops as they fought their way into the city. I shall remember infantry men like Pfc. Harold Stone, of Nacogdoches, Texas, as he slogged his way over the mountains killing snipers as he went. The Fifth Army and its commanding General, Mark W. Clark, have done and are still doing a magnificent job. It has been a privilege for this correspondent to travel with them and report their battles. This is Gordon Fraser, Blue Network Correspondent with the Fifth Army . . . Now back to New York."

It's new and strange territory I'm going into; but I'll bet my hat some Delt is going to notice my ring—or I his—and pretty soon I'll feel at home again.
