THE COVER

Representative of the scores of Christmas parties which will light up Delta Shelters all over the country in the next few days is this scene from Gamma Sigma Chapter, the University of Pittsburgh. The action is a sampling from the 1950 event, attended by a number of Pittsburgh's underprivileged children. Santa Claus, appropriately, was not identified.

Christmas — A Delt Interpretation

THE MERRY CHRISTMAS that goes out from the Delta Shelters this December is made richer by the continuing application of one of the finest lessons of fraternity living.

For the scene on our cover is one that will be re-enacted in many Delt living rooms, as chapter after chapter across the country discovers the spirit of Christmas by playing Santa Claus to the orphaned and underprivileged of their communities.

As uncertain as the origin of the St. Nicholas myth itself is the genesis of this Delt Yuletide tradition. Some Delts in recent years had believed their idea of a Christmas party was original, only to learn that their fathers before them, and perhaps even their grandfathers, had performed the same worth-while service when they were in college.

Until the last few years, such unselfish acts of community spirit had gone unadvertised and largely unnoticed. It was just that Delts saw an opportunity to help less fortunate youngsters and went ahead and did it—and why brag about it? There is a good deal of cheap and maudlin sentimentality connected with Christmas anyway, and if your motives are sincere, and some orphaned kids get a kick out of what you do for them, why make capital of something so simple and so basic to the Christian spirit of a religious holiday? That had always been the general feeling.

But Christmas is a sentimental season, and because the sentiment behind such chapter celebrations is fine and generous, the Delt Christmas story deserves to be told.

The interesting thing is that, kids being what they are, the formula for making a success of one of these shindigs hasn't changed a nickle's worth in fifty years. The first essential, of course, is a well-upholstered member of the chapter with no inhibitions and the ability to make a pillow look like forty pounds. Fortunately for Delts, the anachronisms of time and space escape the moppets, who can forgive such things as Santa's lumpy cloth mask, worn only "because it's so cold at the North Pole." The ageless, whiskey gentleman, then, must live again.

No less essential is the festive board which is spread. If you can't serve turkey, you can at least provide ice cream and cake, as well as riotously colored candy and the other indigestibles which "make glad the heart of childhood," to say nothing of its stomach.

Usually you have entertainment of one kind or another. Again there is a happy side to this requirement, for the guests are ordinarily restricted to an age group not yet afflicted with discriminating tastes, which means that you can palm Brother Filbert and his Four Flats off on them—and they love it! Down at Alabama last year the boys inflicted the "If-You-Can't-Play-Good-Play-Loud" combo on their guests, and the game little gamins didn't even flinch. At Rensselaer and other places amateur magicians have been used to good advantage. In at least one Shelter you can count on somebody to recite "The Night Before Christmas," to the eternal delight of the urchins.

But if you really want to shake the chandeliers with applause, let the Delta Alpha glee club, or Delta Epsilon's, or a number of others sing Christmas carols. That, as they say in the theatre, is something.

The final touch in this marvelous adventure is—and why shouldn't it be?—the gifts. For children who may face the prospect of a Christmas morning minus the offerings of doting parents, the Delt chapters dig deep to provide the presents that must line St. Nick's knapsack. Of course it's all right to have some practical things like mittens and overshoes, but there must also be such impracticals as toy trains, dolls, dishes, whistles, footballs, tops, and the like. At Rensselaer the boys even stretch the budget a notch or two to provide a sled for each child.

When many different toys are dispersed, a great deal of Delt tact is often needed. Last year, for instance, Dartmouth's RAINBOW correspondent reported: "It was a diplomatic feat to get the presents distributed to every recipient's satisfaction. . . . An open barter transaction in one corner of the room flared suddenly into fist-cuffs." He added that it was quickly quelled by the brothers.

Although the formula for these parties is the same, the variations in the manner of interpretation make them all different. Sometimes the difference lies in the choice of honored guests. At Stanford, it is the annual custom of Beta Rho to invite Chinese orphan girls from the Ming Quong Home of Los Gatos. At Michigan State last year Delts entertained blind children from the Michigan School for the Blind in Lansing. At M. I. T. it was just boys, which doubtless accounts for naming the annual event the "Ice Cream Brawl."

At other times these events differ in the manner of presentation. At schools as widely separated as Southern California and Connecticut Wesleyan, lucky children get the double-barrelled treatment, turning out for both Thanksgiving and Christmas. At Kentucky two years ago, Delts took the lead in initiating participation by all fraternities and sororities, so that the number of deserving children who can be entertained has increased vastly.

At Georgia Tech and Tulane it has been the practice to adopt one needy and deserving family and really do things up brown for their Christmas. The price of admission to Oklahoma A. & M.'s Sock Hop is a toy; following the party the toys are distributed to local children.

And do the kids enjoy it all? "They couldn't enjoy it as much as we do," is the enthusiastic endorsement from Lehigh, Ohio, DePauw, Butler, Ohio Wesleyan, Toronto, Purdue, Oregon, and other points east, north, south, and west. Some of the children, well schooled in Emily Post, even send letters of appreciation to their hosts. Here is an excerpt from one received at Nebraska last year:

"We wonder if you really realize how happy you made a group of kids with your Christmas party? We think that we were the happiest bunch, and the luckiest group at Christmas time.

"We had more fun! You should have heard and seen us when we came home. The staff members who were not able to come with us to your party just did not have a chance to even ask us how we liked it. We just pelted them with all the information they needed.

"And say, did we sleep that night! And DREAM! DREAM! But they were wonderful dreams."

Other Delt traditions have grown up around Christmas. Among them, Iota Chapter each year sponsors Michigan State's annual tree-lighting ceremony just prior to vacation.

One of the most celebrated is the Trinity Cathedral Service in Pittsburgh, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter and conducted by the Reverend High N. Moor, Kenyon, '14, Dean of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral. Originated in 1934, this religious service is attended by alumni in the Pittsburgh area and undergraduates from Allegheny, Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, West Virginia, and W. & J. Bill Collins, Pittsburgh, '36, who sang at the first service in 1934, has sung "My Delta Shelter" at every event.

Following the religious exercises, everyone adjourns to the parish house, where a sing contest is conducted among the attending chapters. The Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter awards a cup to the group judged best.

The spirit of community service which is generated at Christmastime has manifested itself during other seasons and in other forms. The wide range and the frequency of worthwhile community projects testify to the alert citizenship of Delt chapters.

At Lehigh, for instance, Easter has been the occasion for Beta Lambda's party for Bethlehem's underprivileged children. On the Indiana campus, Hell Week has been converted to "Help Week," and last spring Beta Alpha suffered calluses and blisters to help get a Monroe County Youth Camp ready for the summer sessions.

Iota Chapter precipitated a "Campus Cleanup" at Michigan State four years ago when a pledge brigade, armed with mops and brooms, performed their pledge chores by policing campus buildings and grounds. Nearby Delta Chapter won wide praise at the University of Michigan for another "Help Week" which last spring reconditioned the Thrift Shop, local charitable enterprise.

Emory Delts last year won the Atlanta Journal trophy for selling the greatest number of newspapers to provide toys for underprivileged Atlanta children. More recently they were saluted on a national radio program for volunteering their services in soliciting funds for the current cancer drive.

An American Red Cross trophy at Ohio State went last year to Beta Phi Chapter, the local group with the greatest percentage of its members contributing blood.

Various Delt chapters over many years have contributed to the education of foreign exchange students, brought to this country from all over the world in an effort to develop better understanding among all nations. On nearly every college campus, Delts annually join other fraternities in contributing their time, talent, and money to Campus Carnivals—the collegiate Community Chest drive.

A few years ago Oklahoma Delts tried a new experiment. During Mother's Day Week End, a campus-wide event, they sponsored a special Mother's Day Church Service for all mothers. They did such a good job that University officials asked them to make it an annual affair. As a result, the Mother's Day Church Service, which is nondenominational and conducted entirely by undergraduate Delts, except for the sermon, is fast becoming a Sooner tradition.

It's hard to believe that throwing mud could ever benefit anyone, but that is exactly what has come to pass out Kansasway. When the call was sounded for volunteers to dig out flood-devastated Lawrence, Gamma Tau members by 100 per cent made themselves available, and on an October Saturday they shoveled mud all day to help flood victims re-establish their homes and businesses.

Nor did they stop there. Delts donated money which would normally be used on Homecoming decorations to a fund for needy families.

When the Kansas Jayhawks take the field against the Missouri Tigers on December 1, Delts will receive no award for the most ingenious Homecoming display, but they will have the greater satisfaction of knowing that they have performed a significant service to their community.

At Tennessee, Delts entertain children from the Knoxville Dale Avenue Settlement House. The boys kept coming back to the Shelter to play football with their new-found friends.

Don C. Wheaton, Chapter Eternal

ON SEPTEMBER 30, 1951, death came to Don C. Wheaton, Kenyon, '13, former Treasurer of the Fraternity, who had served on the Arch Chapter from 1943 to 1948.

Mr. Wheaton's service to Delta Tau Delta dates back to his undergraduate days, when he was president of Chi Chapter. His work for the Fraternity in an official capacity was renewed in 1942 when he was appointed vice-president of the Southern Division.

He was elevated to the presidency of the Southern Division in the fall of 1943. Two years later he became Treasurer of the Fraternity. He was re-elected to that office by the 58th Karnea in 1946 and served out a full term.

Following his graduation from Kenyon in 1913, where he won the Phi Beta Kappa key, Mr. Wheaton entered the investment banking business in New York City. He remained in New York until 1942, when he moved to Sweet Briar College, in Virginia, as treasurer. During the summer of 1950, he became financial vice-president of Kenyon College, which position he held until the time of his death. Since 1934 he had been a trustee of Kenyon and chairman of its investment committee.

He was a director of the Ferro Enamel Corporation of Cleveland. He received the honorary LL.D. degree from his Alma Mater in 1948.

Those who were intimately associated with Don Wheaton in working for Delta Tau Delta held him in the highest esteem, not only for his sustained loyalty to the Fraternity but also for his keen insight into basic principles of fraternity operation. A fine sense of humor and a natural gift for repartee were among the many facets of a personality which endeared him to all of Delta Tau Delta.

Eastern Conference Meets at Cornell

ALBERT J. MURPHY, JR., President of the Fraternity's Eastern Division, has announced that the biennial Conference of the Eastern Division will be held December 7 and 8, 1951, on the campus of Cornell University, Ithaca, New York. Beta Omicron Chapter will be host to the meeting.

The program will include, in addition to round tables and the usual conduct of Division business, a dance on Friday night and a banquet on Saturday night. President Martin B. Dickinson will attend the Conference and will be the principal banquet speaker.

A buffet supper at the Beta Omicron Shelter is tentatively scheduled for Friday evening. Delegates will be quartered at Willard Straight Hall, a University building dedicated to a famous Cornell Delt.

A large turnout of Beta Omicron alumni and alumni from the nearby Syracuse Alumni Chapter is expected.

Achieve Unusual Labor Relations Record

ROBERT B. NEWCOMB, Syracuse, '27, Columbia, '27, and his wife, Marg, constitute a husband and wife team known as Newcomb and Sammons, 224 East Ontario Street, Chicago, Illinois, which provides suitable programs enabling employers and employees of big companies in a variety of industries to discuss mutual problems with understanding and tolerance.

The partnership began about ten years ago when Mr. Newcomb was offered the job of unofficial mediator at Anaconda Copper Mining Company in Butte, Montana, where there was a strained relationship between management and workers. He took the job with two provisions: one, that he select his own assistant, Marg Sammons, soon to become Mrs. Newcomb; two, that he have a free hand in setting up the program.

Mr. Newcomb states, "The first thing we did after a preliminary study of conditions at Anaconda was to get out a weekly publication for the workers and their families in which two major labor unions and the company had an equal proprietary interest. We called it the Copper Commando. Plenty of pictures were used of men on the job to show miners and smelters what each other was doing, and to show both the activities of the refiners and the functions of management. We also used pictures illustrating the uses of refined copper in fabrication of tools for war.

"Instead of spending our leisure time with company executives at the country club, we went to the Slavic dances, union halls, and other places frequented by the miners. It wasn't long before we were able to engineer informal gatherings in our home attended by miners and company representatives. Problems were discussed without rancor or mutual suspicion. In the three and one-half years we were at Anaconda there was no labor trouble."

The partners handle many tasks. They provide employee publications, bulletin board programs, employee annual reports, and indoctrination manuals, and they still find the time to attend various meetings on these subjects and to take frequent tours through the plants of their clients to become better acquainted with the workers. In addition, they have collaborated on a book on management-worker communications, Speak Up, Management, scheduled for publication late this year.

This unusual firm has no staff. The partners share equally in the work they turn out and in their full schedule which includes maintenance of their combined apartment and offices, household chores, recreation, and travel.

Aside from all this, Mr. Newcomb is also on the faculty of Northwestern University's school of journalism, where he has taught company publications editing and employee communications for the last six years.

Economic Life XVII: Agriculture

By DR. FRANCIS D. FARRELL, Kansas State, '22
President Emeritus, Kansas State College

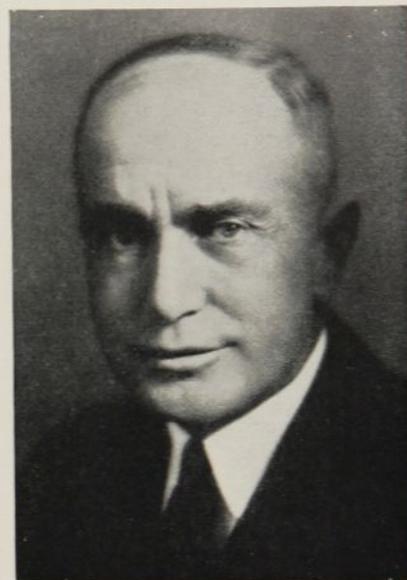

PERHAPS THE FIRST thing to recognize about agriculture is that it is indispensable to civilization. It is indispensable because of its relation to the food supply and to the replenishment of urban populations through migration of surplus human stock from the countryside to the cities. Anybody who engages constructively in an agricultural occupation is warranted in regarding his work as important. To know that one's work is significant, that it serves important human needs, is a source of satisfaction to most thinking men.

A second fact to recognize is that the broad field of agriculture is extremely complex and that it contains an almost infinite variety of occupations. The hundreds of agricultural occupations may be classified in two major categories: (1) farming and (2) other occupations that are a part of the broad field of agriculture. Each of the two major categories is extensively subdivided.

The word "farming" probably covers as wide a variety of occupations as does the word "merchant." A merchant may sell one or more of a great variety of commodities ranging from apples to zebras. Likewise one farmer may operate a bonanza wheat farm of ten thousand acres or more while another farmer produces strawberries and perhaps chickens and eggs on ten acres or less. Between these extremes are farmers having farm businesses of various sizes and types. These widely varying kinds of farm enterprises appeal to and stimulate correspondingly varying temperaments and levels of ability. The specialized producer of eggs at Petaluma, California, or of broilers in New Jersey or Arkansas, is different in many ways from the big beef cattle man in Kansas, Iowa, or Texas and from the rice grower of the Sacramento Valley. And all these are different in many respects from the dairy farmer in Wisconsin or the grower of peppermint or apples in the Yakima Valley.

Agricultural occupations other than farming are at least as varied as are those of farming itself. They include the conduct of agricultural research, the results of which are a major factor in agricultural progress; agricultural journalism; extension education in agriculture, which calls for the services of thousands of agriculturally-trained men as county agricultural extension agents, county 4-H club agents, agricultural extension specialists (in agronomy, animal husbandry, horticulture, and other disciplines) and extension supervisors; teachers in thousands of high school departments of vocational agriculture in which multitudes of farm boys combine classroom and laboratory instruction with practical, supervised projects on their home farms; technical agricultural service with banks, insurance companies, railroads, and other corporations and with agricultural co-operatives of various kinds, fertilizer companies, seed companies, flour milling and baking firms and associations; and many others. Not a few men engaged in these occupations also have and sometimes operate farms of their own.

Farming has been variously designated as a business, an art, a science, a way of life, and a sport. It is a combination of all these. As a business it is becoming increasingly commercialized and specialized and it requires no little managerial skill. As an art it requires and rewards the exercise of constructive imagination, particularly when it involves the production and improvement of animals and of specialized plant products such as citrus fruits. As a science it involves increasingly the practical use of chemistry, physics, biology, and economics. As a way of life it includes, to an

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: Dr. Farrell, distinguished agriculturist and educator, has devoted his life to the advancement of the science of agriculture. His early postcollege days were occupied mainly with experimentation and investigation in cereal cultivation, reclamation, and western irrigation farming for the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In 1918 he became director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Kansas State College, and in 1925 he was made President of the College. He retired in 1943 to become President Emeritus.

Through the years Dr. Farrell has been an active leader in the educational and agricultural development of this country. He was for 16 years a member of the Kansas State Board of Education, for 18 years a member of the agricultural advisory council of the American Bankers Association, and for 19 years a member of the advisory council of the National Broadcasting Company. He has served as president of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities and as chairman of the National Land Use Planning Committee.

He is a trustee of The Farm Foundation and a member of the advisory committee on national affairs of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. A fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, he has in recent years served as consultant on agricultural education at the Universities of Minnesota and California.

extent unequaled in any other occupation, the practice of family partnership and the comingling of living and earning a livelihood. As a sport it appeals strongly to the gambling instincts of human beings, for the farmer takes a chance every time he mates two animals or plants a seed—a chance with the infinite vagaries of the biological world and with the vast uncertainties of the weather and the markets. Because of these facts the intelligent, well-informed farmer lives a life in which there is never a dull moment.

Farmers bear a tremendous social responsibility. They are responsible for the conservation—wise use and preservation—of our soil resources. The area of cultivated land in the United States is only about 450 million acres. This is only three acres per capita of our present population. The per capita figure seems certain to diminish, for our population is increasing while, generally, our area of good cultivated land is not. The increase of 17 per cent in the average market value of farm land in the United States in the 12 months preceding July, 1951, is an indication not only of inflation but also of increasing awareness of the importance of farm land. Farmers who help to conserve our precious land resources, as many thousands of farmers do, are public benefactors of a high order. Such farmers help to maintain the foundations of civilization. This is another reason why farmers should regard their occupation as important.

To an increasing extent and at an accelerated rate farmers are making use of science and technology. Two thousand years ago Cato, Roman statesman and philosopher, in an essay on farming remarked that "the master's forehead is of more use than his back." Cato was one of the early advocates of using the mind more and the muscles less in agricultural practice. Since Cato's time the use of science by the farmer has increased far beyond the Roman's dreams. This has been particularly true in the United States during the past hundred years and, even more emphatically, during the past fifty years. Today, to keep up with the agricultural Joneses, a farmer needs to know, as thousands of farmers do know, how to use the facts of science in the production, the processing, and the use of agricultural commodities. In separating his milk from his cream, the farmer uses physics and chemistry. In making silage he uses bacteriology. In improving the fertility of his soil he uses chemistry, physics, and biology. And so on, through a long list of farm practices.

Technology combined with American ingenuity and enterprise has given the American farmer a long list of labor-saving and time-saving devices, both on the farm and in the farm home. Farm electrification, the use of internal combustion engines, and other forms of mechanization have increased vastly the farmer's productive capacity. In 1850 the average area of land cultivated per farm worker in the United States was 12 acres. In 1920, the corresponding figure was 34 acres, an increase in seventy years of 183 per cent. Now the figure is still higher and still rising. This helps to explain the fact that a declining farm population is able to produce an increasing volume of agricultural products. It also helps to explain the great rise in the level of living of farm families in recent years: a generally rising volume of agricultural production is divided among a declining number of farm families. This helps to explain the increasing comfort, convenience, and healthfulness of the farm home.

Farming is not an appropriate occupation for what Theodore Roosevelt called mollycoddles. To succeed as a farmer requires intelligence, resourcefulness, self-reliance, and hard work. Almost a century ago Emerson said: "This hard work will always be done by one kind of man; not by scheming speculators, nor by soldiers, nor professors, nor readers of Tennyson; but by men of endurance—deep-chested, long-winded, tough, slow and sure, and timely."

Notwithstanding the wonderful labor-saving devices, the science and the technology, farming continues to be what it always has been—an occupation for he-men and for women and children who like to perform difficult tasks; an occupation for people who can wait when weather or other conditions require waiting and who can be "timely," as Emerson said, and do the job promptly when conditions become favorable.

What are the potential rewards of the agricultural occupations? In neither of the two major categories (farming, and non-farming agricultural work) are they primarily pecuniary. Although economic income is indispensable and, in the long run, adequate among competent farmers and professional agriculturists, the successful practitioner in either group takes much of his pay in satisfactions not to be bought with money or valued in pecuniary terms. The competent non-farming agricultural man derives great satisfaction from his interesting work itself and from the fact that the work has marked and beneficial social significance. The competent farmer finds much satisfaction from the life he leads, from the fact that, within wide limits, he is his own boss rather than a time-clock puncher, from association with his plants and animals and his communion with Nature in her various forms, from the working partnership of his wife and family, and from his awareness of the social significance of his work. A great dairy farmer once said that to him his business meant chiefly the rosy cheeks of the children of the families to whom he sold milk.

How may one go about gaining entrance to an agricultural occupation? Sound college training (in the physical and the biological sciences, the humanities, the social sciences, and the agricultural technologies) is an excellent part of desirable preparation. For the non-farming agricultural occupations, the college student of good character and personality who distinguishes himself for excellence in his college work will usually have more difficulty in deciding which of several opportunities to accept than in finding opportunities. Both at present and prospectively there is an acute shortage of highly competent men for these occupations.

As to farming itself, there are various avenues of approach for the adequately trained college man of adequate character and personality. Many such men take over the management of the home farm and later acquire it by inheritance or purchase

Economic Life XVIII: Science

By DR. PAUL B. SEARS, Ohio Wesleyan, '13

DR. PAUL B. SEARS

IN 1858 THERE WERE only three learned professions, law, medicine, and the clergy—the two latter being the most frequent avenues to a career in science. Today a really first-class farmer has to know more about more things than was required to practice medicine until about 1910. And lately there has been a powerful drift towards substantial equality of income among workers in all occupations. Whether this is good or bad does not concern us here, but it does have one advantage—there is less excuse than ever before for any normal man to spend his life following any vocation into which he cannot put his whole heart.

Stay out of science unless you love it, go for it if you do. In the latter case you are not likely to amass wealth, but you will have much that money cannot buy.

I am assuming that a real love of science is backed up by an aptitude. I never knew it to be otherwise, but should it happen, the hard grind of apprenticeship will set you straight. So let us see what kind of aptitudes have their play in scientific work.

First I should rate curiosity—a consuming desire to know, and the will to back it up. Second I should rate faith—not an easy credulity, but its opposite. The scientist must have a dogged faith that the universe hangs together, and that by persistence he can find something of how it works. Honesty I put third, not because it is less important, for it is basic, but because it is no monopoly of the scientist. The world has plenty of honest men who are content with what they are told.

The honesty of a scientist must be the kind which enables him to take it on the chin when “one experiment too many” shatters a cherished theory. It must be the kind which makes it possible for him to court, rather than avoid, the blunt criticism of those who see his faults. It should—and I regret that it does not invariably—expand into honor, with a code of generosity toward rivals, frankness and a readiness to share knowledge.

So much for what I might call the grimmer requirements of science as a profession. The scientist must be intrigued by the operations, or the art, of his calling, for in them he chiefly spends his days. He may, as a geologist or field naturalist, or astronomer, be chiefly an observer. In physical sciences—and increasingly in the others—he must set up the mechanical controls—or experiments—under which he makes his observations. This today calls for manipulative skill of high order. Any kind of science calls for the humdrum keeping of records, but there is no greater thrill than going over good records and getting at the meaning which they reveal.

The art of communication is an indispensable part of science. The working scientist must be in close touch—often through foreign languages and the language known as mathematics—with what his colleagues have done and are doing. In his turn he must communicate to them what he has done. There is no such thing as one-man science. The scientist of today must be literate in a real sense, and the failure to be so is perhaps his most frequent failing. He ought to understand what he is doing, not only in terms of his specialty, but in terms of broad human knowledge and affairs.

This brings us to a quality in which scientists vary greatly, as all men must. That is the gift of intellectual power. Some scientists, for example Willard Gibbs and Einstein, have it in such superb measure that their greatest usefulness and satisfaction have come largely from working out principles from the observations of others. The imagination of T. H. Morgan grasped a way of going at the very tough problem of inheritance, whereupon a group of able young students did most of the laboratory work. Some men have won the Nobel prize with their minds, others (by no means brainless) with their clever hands. But for most scientists the work of investigation is a satisfying combination of doing and thinking.

Assuming that you have not given up science as a bad job at this point, you naturally want to know something ABOUT THE AUTHOR: When Dr. Sears points out the avenues for a career in science, he speaks from a wide range of experience, for he has himself been teacher, researcher, and a widely read author.

Following graduate degrees from the Universities of Nebraska (M.A.) and Chicago (Ph.D.), he taught at Nebraska and Ohio State. From 1927 to 1938 he was head of the department of botany at the University of Oklahoma. During 1936-1938 he was a research associate at Columbia University's Teachers College. He has been professor of botany at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, since 1938.

He is a member of both Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. A member also of Phi Sigma, national guild of research biologists, he is a past president and past chancellor of the organization.

A consultant and lecturer on scientific subjects, he is the author of This Is Our World, Who Are These Americans?, Life and Environment, and This Useful World.

Syracuse Delt Is Harpist, Inventor, Author

A WORLD-FAMED HARPIST, inventor, author, merchant, and nationally known authority on rare musical instruments is Melville Clark, Syracuse, '04.

Following his graduation from college, Mr. Clark studied at the Royal Conservatory in London, England, and in Paris, France, under famous harp instructors. Since that time he has played more than 4,000 performances in America, Canada, and Europe. He appeared many times in the White House during President Woodrow Wilson's tenure, and he played there again for President and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt. He has performed with symphony orchestras and on many radio broadcasts, including NBC programs for RCA Victor. He enjoys the distinction of appearing on the first harp telecast, for NBC. One of his prized possessions is the Woodrow Wilson Gold Medallion with the Great Seal of the United States for a White House command performance.

Music is Mr. Clark's business as well as his avocation. He is president of the Clark Music Company, of Syracuse, New York. He is an exceptional merchant, however, whose inventive mind has accounted for many advancements in his field.

A member of the Inventor's Congress, he invented the Clark Irish Harp and a harp made of plastic and nylon which is impervious to the weather. He devised improvements which made possible a perfect portable harp, and he developed and perfected the nylon harp string. His genius occasionally has focused on problems other than musical. He is credited with inventing the aero-station, adopted and used by the British Government to distribute information over Germany during World War I.

Mr. Clark, moreover, has been an outstanding citizen of his community and his country. He is a charter member and past president of Rotary and Kiwanis in Syracuse and of the National Association of Harpists. He is a past president and founder of the Syracuse Symphony Orchestra. He founded Radio Station MAC, the first in Syracuse. His work as president of the National Association of Music Merchants earned him that organization's Gold Medal. Several years ago he received a citation from Admiral Byrd "for contributing to the success of the first Expedition to the South Pole."

In his own community, Melville Clark has merited the highest praise of the Syracuse press: "As a contributor to Syracuse's cultural life, he has no peer."

Science

about the necessary details of training, opportunity, employment, and so on. If you really have the makings of a scientist, you will want to find this out for yourself. So let me suggest that you carry on with as broad and sound a liberal education as you can get, not specializing too much or too soon, and meanwhile

Get acquainted with several competent and productive men of science and watch them at work. You will find them in good museums, industrial laboratories, experiment stations, surveys, colleges and universities. Talk with them and if you see something you like, arrange to spend a summer with it. You may have to handle pick and shovel with an archeologist, wash dishes for a chemist, or tend guinea pigs for a bacteriologist. But you will assuredly learn whether science is for you. You will learn, as you never can in the classroom, just what it involves.

You may find that you like science but want to earn your living in some other way. Do not bypass science on that account. As a citizen of today, you need to know more science than the average citizen now knows. Aside from professions such as engineering, medicine, and agriculture which are based on science, there is a great need for good writers who can interpret science to the layman. There are abundant opportunities for creative work by amateur scientists. We could do with many more men in political, industrial, and financial life who have been trained in scientific method. There are today shortages in many vocations which combine science with practice—not enough soil conservation technicians, not enough professional farm managers, not enough broadly trained engineers.

And finally, if you have a gift for the great art of teaching, along with your love of science, you may be sure that it is a most rewarding occupation. If you follow the trail of any distinguished scientist back to its source, you will almost invariably find a great teacher there.

or both. Not a few gain possession of farms by marriage. Others begin as tenants and in time by purchase become owners, if they so desire. Some, for valid reasons, prefer to continue as tenants with long and satisfactory leaseholds. Some begin as hired men—farm hands—on good farms and in ten to twenty years become owners, often with a period of tenancy or manager-ship included in the process. There is no lack of opportunity for adequately qualified aspirants.

Adequate qualification includes character, personality, technical competence, industrious habits, patience, and the practice of regarding farming not as a penitentiary sentence—as something to be endured for a time and then escaped from and forgotten—but as a richly rewarded lifetime profession of high social importance and worthy of one's best persistent efforts.

Presidents of Delta Tau Delta—X

DR. FRANK WIELAND, Buchtel, '90—1901-1907

Distinguished physician and surgeon, the tenth President was the inspiration and the idol of countless undergraduate Deltas. "The most beloved of us all," said his contemporaries.

★ ★ ★ ★

IF EVER THERE was a man in the entire history of Delta Tau Delta who was more universally loved by Deltas than Dr. Frank Wieland, the records do not reveal it. Whereas other Presidents have perhaps been greater administrators, have perhaps reflected keener insight into the manner in which Delta Tau Delta ought to be governed, have perhaps even shaped the Fraternity's destiny more significantly, none has ever surpassed him in the general affection and esteem in which he was held by both alumni and undergraduates.

"The best known and most beloved Delta of us all," was the encomium of those who knew him best.

You have but to read one of his reports to the Karnea, or one of the many articles he wrote in THE RAINBOW, to sense immediately the alertness of mind, the rare wit, the depth of sympathy and genuine interest in his fellow man that were part and parcel of Frank Wieland. Then, if you look further, and see that he was also a distinguished physician and surgeon of national repute, that he was local president of his medical fraternity, that he was first president of Chicago's interfraternity club, and that his deeds of charity and human compassion extended far beyond his Fraternity, into every walk of life—then you begin to take full measure of the man.

And you realize what a glorious tribute it is for Delta Tau Delta that Dr. Wieland should have said: "My Fraternity has been to me my greatest factor for good and inspiration."

President Wieland's own life admirably illustrates his conception of the part that fraternity should play in one's life:

"If it be argued that the fraternity gives to me advantages that are denied another, I must admit that this is true. There is nothing in life that is worth having that comes to all people. Some are denied wealth, some education, happiness and even health.

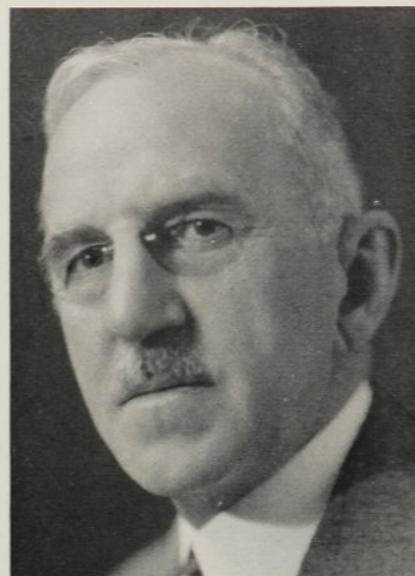

"Delta Tau Delta cannot extend its advantages to all college men; but if the life that our fraternity imposes upon its adherents is lived, everybody will be the gainer."

Dr. Wieland was born March 4, 1869. In 1886, at the age of 17, he entered Buchtel College, Akron, Ohio, where he joined Eta Chapter. When he was graduated in 1890, he stood at the head of his class and had recorded the highest marks in Latin ever made by a Buchtel student.

In the next few years he taught German and chemistry and spent some time abroad, principally in Germany and France, where he perfected his fluency in those languages. He began the study of medicine in the East; in 1893 he came to Chicago to continue his studies and obtained his M.D. in 1896. For five years he taught chemistry in Hering Medical College and was for two years business manager of the institution. In 1901, when he was elected President of the Fraternity, he held the chair of Genito-Urinary Diseases in Hering College and was on the staff of the Chicago Baptist and Hering Hospitals.

Dr. Wieland's moving to Chicago signalled his entry into Delt alumni activities, and he soon became president of the Chicago Alumni Chapter. "As a college man," he said, "I never dreamed that postgraduate fraternity life could be so active." The fact that the charter of his own beloved Eta Chapter had been withdrawn in 1895 in no wise dimmed his enthusiasm; there were other Delt chapters and other young men to be looked out for.

The Chicago Alumni Chapter had fostered new chapters at Chicago University and Armour Institute (now Illinois Tech), and these, along with Beta Pi at Northwestern, became the special interest and pride of Dr. Wieland and Chicago Deltas. In 1901 he went to Milwaukee and the Karnea to tell other Deltas of the opportunities for service through an alumni chapter.

"I never see these undergraduates," he said, "—and we never have a meeting without them—I never see these boys but I know that some way, somehow, their lives and mine will play upon each other, shaping a little there, until each will be better for the sculpture. I never see these young fellows but I feel if the Fraternity had done nothing else for me but give them to me as friends I should still hold it indispensable. No alumnus can do his full duty to the Fraternity and the oath he swore until he takes these young men into his life and makes their interests his own."

Dr. Wieland had had no previous experience on the Arch Chapter. He was but 32 in 1901. Yet he was unanimously elected President. He entered the scene at a crucial time; the Fraternity was emerging from its adolescence and approaching maturity. In the words of George Paddock, "It needed a leader who could envision the future while respecting the past."

Such a man was Dr. Wieland. His six years were marked by prosperity. During that period 12 new chapters were chartered and not a single charter was withdrawn. Many of the broad principles had been laid down by his predecessors; the way had been charted; now the Fraternity could begin the refining process.

President Wieland radiated confidence. After his first two years, he told the Karnea: "Success makes us hungry for more success." Two years later he said: "The last two years . . . have been unparalleled as regards progress of the Fraternity . . . There has never been a time when our national strength has been so manifest." And still two years later he confidently proclaimed: "In the whole history of Delta Tau Delta we have never been more prosperous or in better harmony."

President Wieland believed in keeping in touch with the undergraduates, and he and his Arch Chapter traveled to all parts of the country to visit Delt chapters. At the end of his first term, he said, "Never before in the history of Delta Tau Delta have so many Chapters been officially visited."

His fine sense of humor is revealed in the following passage from his report to the 1903 Karnea:

"I am actually ashamed of the way I have chased over the country in the past two years. There must be many, even in this gathering, who wonder if I really have any business at all . . . I have given the same toast in so many places that I dare not meet a crowd of six or more Deltas without being seized with a desire to start off and recite it from start to finish."

His shining idealism and fraternal philosophy still had its down-to-earth principles of good fraternity operation: "We are first a business organization . . . we are governed by business principles . . . we are a fraternity only because of adherence to business sense . . . When actives learn that they must be good business men to be good fraternity men, half of our fraternity problem will be solved."

Under his urging, chapters were acquiring property and good housing. The Fraternity's endowment fund was beginning to grow. Innovations which have been handed down to the present generation were adopted: e.g., a model initiation and performance of "The Rite of Iris" were part of the 1905 Karnea in New York.

If Dr. Wieland had not been a first-rate writer. Fortunately for the Fraternity, he frequently expressed his ambitions for Delta Tau Delta through sparkling articles in THE RAINBOW. He spoke out on such issues as "The Question of Affiliation," "The Question of 'Lifting,'" "Inefficiency of Alumni Associations," and "The Question of Drinking."

Many of his visions have been prophetic. Concerning Fraternity expansion he said, "I shall be very sorry if Delta Tau Delta ever reaches the point where she considers herself a static body. For the next fifty years we are going to see some vast changes in colleges, and educational centers are going to shift mightily."

But the most magnificent thing of all about President Wieland was his overwhelming interest and faith in college men. "For me," he said, "the Fraternity means boys, and association with them in the day of their enthusiasm is the secret of my interest in Delta Tau Delta, and the reward for it."

That is why he loved a Karnea so. Following the 1903 meeting, he wrote: "If I could have told each boy there, before I left, my wishes and hopes for him; if I could have made them all understand that their future and their successes meant very much to me, and that their friendship and their loyalty to their President had been reckoned as almost the greatest of his blessings—well, I shouldn't have made my train. As it was, I had two minutes to spare."

He wanted more than anything else to make Delta Tau Delta a force for good in the lives of these young men. "You can so interpret the Fraternity," he told them, "you can invest it with such a plentitude of good, that even to those without the bond, the name of Delta Tau Delta will be an inspiration."

The story would be incomplete if it were not added that Dr. Wieland's great affection for "his boys" was completely reciprocated. They idolized him. Following the 1905 Karnea in New York, Louis M. Tobin, Illinois, '01, wrote:

"He was more graceful and more courteous than the champion three-ply Chesterfields of the vaunted east. With a polish to his shoes and his manners, he buzzed all over the place. He held in loving clasp the grimy paw of the delegate from Painted Post, Ariz., while at the same time he listened with rapt attention while the advantages of establishing a chapter at the school for the deaf and dumb at Jacksonville, Ill., were painted. He was the e pluribus unum and the ne plus ultra of 'em all. He out-easted the east on its own stamping grounds and the west shook hands with itself every time it saw him."

But if he was quick to praise and firm in his belief in the college man's ability to make the right decision, President Wieland was also uncompromising when a principle of conduct was violated. "When we give our assent," he said, "to any action of a chapter that is undignified and dishonorable, where we hesitate to condemn, our usefulness is gone."

And he added: "The mere fact of being a college boy, or even a Delt, has never been to me sufficient excuse for one's making a nuisance of himself."

It must have been with reluctance that Dr. Wieland declined a fourth term. He realized, however, that the Fraternity must continue to develop new leadership, and he was ready to step aside. There is a beautiful comingling of humor and sentiment in his leave-taking address:

"I have only one request to make of you—that you will not let me lose you, or ever come to shut me out of your interests. If you do, I shall run for office again someday, and have you all expelled for disloyalty."

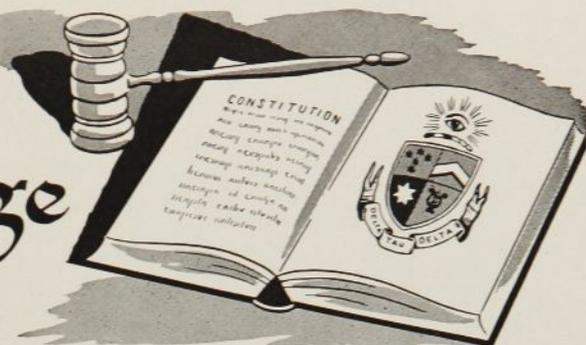

There is abundant proof that the Fraternity did not "shut him out." In his unofficial capacity, he continued to grow in everyone's affection. The Wieland Freshman Dinner, founded by Dr. Wieland in 1901, is an example. It had started with the freshmen of three chapters—Beta Pi, Gamma Alpha, and Gamma Beta—gathered around the banquet board with inspirational speakers, so that the Delt neophyte might learn something of Delta Tau Delta; and it caught on so well that freshmen of all Delt chapters were invited. Through the years it developed into one of the finest traditions of the Fraternity.

"Those dinners were unique affairs. Frank Wieland as host, chairman, and toastmaster . . . Freshmen from the four corners of the Delt world, learning the real meaning of the Fraternity . . .

By MARTIN B. DICKINSON

THE DISTRACTIONS of the rushing and football seasons have ended on most campuses, the freshmen have begun to feel at home, and it's time to turn our attention to the books. Quarter-system finals are almost here, and semester finals not far away.

Every college man should be keenly aware of the importance of good scholarship this year. He will be allowed to remain in school only if he makes satisfactory grades. That applies to everyone, and is on a competitive basis. Some men are going to be removed from college every term.

These facts make scholarship a matter of immediate concern to every one of our chapters. Loss of even a few men will throw most budgets out of balance and will require increased charges to the remaining members. The strength of each chapter, and of the Fraternity, depends on how well each chapter and each member meet the situation.

The first step was taken when our pledges were selected. Chapters which made scholarship a first consideration, and which refused to consider rushees unless their previous records indicated that they would probably do better than average college work, have won half the battle. Such chapters presumably will lose few men. Chapters which pledged men of doubtful scholastic ability may suffer severe losses. Even if such chapters took some men for scholarship alone and thereby aimed at a satisfactory chapter average, they face the prospect of losing the men at the bottom of the curve. The theory of a "balanced" chapter as applied to scholarship was never sound, and its consequences may prove evidently disastrous this year.

The next step, over which the chapter still has some control, is an adequate program within the chapter itself. Maintenance of quiet hours and proper study conditions are of foremost importance. Guidance of and assistance to freshmen and sophomores by men who have taken the same courses may readily raise grades a notch. There are many other things which can and should be done, according to the needs of the particular chapter and its campus.

A vital point, often overlooked, is to check up on the actual entries which will ultimately appear on the transcripts of the individual members, particularly those who may be leaving school. Such men are very likely to want to complete their college education somewhere, sooner or later. In the excitement or discouragement of leaving they may think the record unimportant, but it will stare them in the face whenever they apply for re-enrollment or for a job.

An officer of the chapter, therefore, should make sure that the grades of men who leave school or drop courses are listed as withdrawals rather than failures. Such a simple procedure may easily make a difference of several places in the chapter's scholastic standing.

After the chapter has done the best it can in these directions, the probability is that it will still have room for a few more men the latter part of this year. I believe most heartily in maintaining an on-campus rushing program the year around.

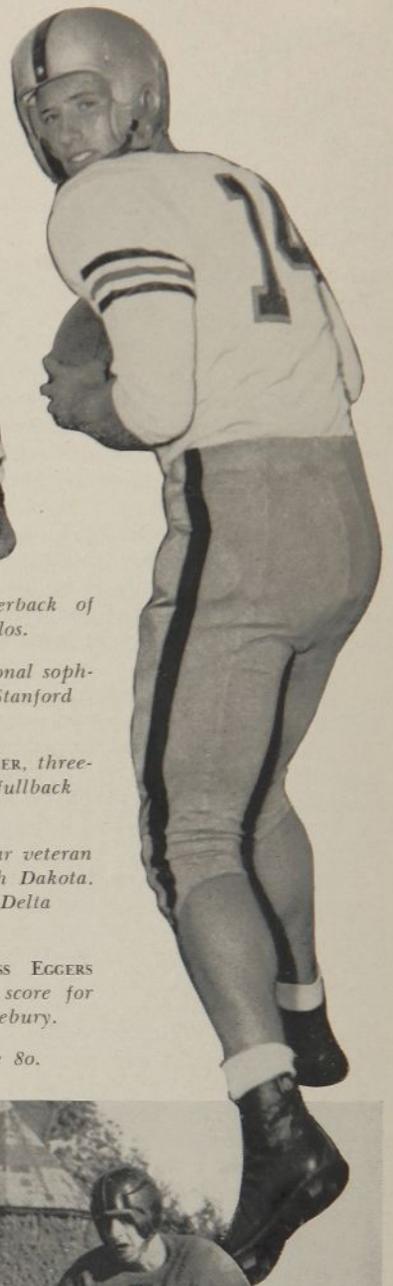

Men who have already made scholastic records on the campus should never be pledged unless their records are substantially better than average. That is easy to ascertain, and as nearly foolproof as can be. We think deferred pledging unwholesome and detrimental to the best functioning of the fraternity system. Where it is the practice, however, there is no excuse for a chapter's standing below the All Men's Average. This is true even where fraternity men comprise practically the entire male enrollment and is most certainly true where there is a large percentage of unaffiliated men.

It is time for our chapters to take thoughtful, concrete steps to improve their scholarship. The 1950 Karnea called upon every chapter to maintain a standing at least equal to the All Men's Average on its campus. The Karnea directed the Supervisor of Scholarship to report to the 1952 Karnea the chapters which fail to do so, for action by that Karnea. Nationally, our scholastic record remains better than average, especially among our principal competitors, the fraternities with fifty or more chapters. However, we have fallen far from being consistently first or second in that group, and we are not yet sure that the decline has been checked. This comparison, which is relative to other fraternities, indicates that we have not been doing this part of our job as well as some of our competitors. A majority of our chapters have shown scholastic deficits in recent years and some have long unbroken records of inadequacy.

What the Karnea may do or recommend about this situation I do not know. It must be told in all honesty that the chapters with unsatisfactory scholarship are likely to be in trouble financially, even in these boom times, and poor in organization and actual campus standing. Such chapters require a disproportionate share of the time and effort of the Central Office and field staff. These facts cannot be forever overlooked.

Delta Tau Delta has been a leader on many fronts of the fight to improve fraternity scholarship. Our survival as an effective organization depends on maintenance of good scholarship.

The big job ahead of every undergraduate Delta, of every undergraduate chapter, and the Fraternity itself the next few months is scholarship. Let's put it first.

Here's Your Delt Football Line-up!

TAKING ITS CUE from the familiar chant, "Can't tell the names and numbers of the players without your program," THE RAINBOW again brings you the annual roundup of Delt gridiron stars.

This, then, is your official Delt program, based on information received from the chapter correspondents. And just in case you're wondering how it is possible for one chapter to have four first-string ends, it might be well to recall that the so-called platoon system, with offensive and defensive lineups, has changed many things.

CENTERS

There are two varsity captains among the crop of centers: Walsh, of Tufts, and Holmes, of Rensselaer. As a further indication of their leadership abilities, both are presidents of their chapters. Marmion, Butler's first-string center, moved up to the varsity this year after captaining the freshman team last season.

Reserve: Leighton Hahn, California; Ross Ausburn, Oklahoma; and Sam Carnahan, Oklahoma.

GUARDS

The Delt team is unusually strong at guard this season. In Big Ten competition, for instance, Thomas, of Indiana; Lenzini, of Illinois; and O'Brien, of Wisconsin, have turned in exceptional Saturday-afternoon performances this fall. Thomas last year was selected on several All Big Ten line-ups.

Out on the Pacific Coast, Stanford's Bonetti has been gathering flattering press notices. His play against Army was termed "outstanding" by Coach Blaik.

Delts have another team captain in Ranney of Kenyon. Lenzini was last year's frosh captain at Illinois.

First-string: William Ranney, Kenyon; Robert Reynolds, Hillsdale; James Hancock, Lehigh; Jerry Bingham, Nebraska; Robert Lenzini, Illinois; George O'Brien, Wisconsin; Walter Hooker, South Dakota; John Bonetti, Stanford; Jack Tracy, Cincinnati; and Danny Thomas, Indiana.

Reserve: Lawrence Hitchon, Cornell; James Trumbauer, Wesleyan; Mohilo Keseley, Purdue; Dan Reimer, Syracuse; and Hart Cook, Stanford.

TACKLES

Among an impressive array of tackles, there is still another Delt captain, Shundich, of Cincinnati. Also back for another season is W. & L.'s Delahunty, veteran of last year's Gator Bowl. McOwen of Kenyon received the College's Sportsmanship Cup in 1950.

First-string: Nick Shundich, Cincinnati; Richard Polhemus, Lafayette; John Delahunty, W. & L.; Austin Gentry, Kansas State; Grant Cooke, Kenyon; Carl Glaser, Kenyon; Robert McOwen, Kenyon; Robert Klamann, Colorado; William Byrus, Iowa State; Deane Stokes, Ohio Wesleyan; Gary Rutledge, DePauw; and Dave Schmidt, Oregon State.

Reserve: Robert Ellis, Miami; Norman Nichol, Kenyon; Neil Huffman, Pittsburgh; Cal Bender, Kansas; and Frank Ballo, Kent.

ENDS

In this department, after a fine 1950 season which included five varsity captains (Case, Colorado; Ebinger, Missouri; Cloidt, Washington; Johnson, Kansas State; and Watson, U.C.L.A.), sportswriters would probably say we are "rebuilding." Nebraska has the best start in this direction, with four starting wingmen (we warned you about this business).

First-string: John Ver Nooy, Kenyon; Rex Fenderson, Tufts; George Paynich, Nebraska; Jerry Paulson, Nebraska; Bud Robertson, Nebraska; Jerry Yeager, Nebraska; Russell Stahlman, Kent; Thomas Nickoloff, U.S.C.; and John Lewis, Baker.

Reserve: William Postula, Michigan State; Tom Warren, California; John Dawson, California; Duane Brunick, South Dakota; and Audley Browchuk, Syracuse.

QUARTERBACKS

One of the outstanding quarterback-

ing performances so far this season has been turned in by Lee Venzke, Colorado's placement kicker last year and the 60-minute mentor of the current aggregation. Illinois' Truran was lost to the squad early in the fall because of injuries sustained in practice.

First-string: Lee Venzke, Colorado; Lyle VanHorn, Colorado; John Lusk, Hillsdale; William Monahan, Albion; William Eddy, Baker; and Pete Truran, Illinois (sidelined early in the season with injuries).

Reserve: Men Aliapoulis, Tufts, and James Root, Miami.

FULLBACKS

Numerically, Delts are the weakest at this position. Yet there is great playing ability here in such men as Tate, of Illinois, whose pass-snatching in the fading moments of the Illinois-Washington encounter kept the unbroken Illini string alive.

First-string: William Tate, Illinois; Mike Hayden, Kenyon; Paul Chess, Pittsburgh; Mark Eixenberger, South Dakota; and Wesley Hill, Baker.

Reserve: Charles Essegian, Stanford.

HALFBACKS

Following in the wake of Delta Tau Delta's great All American halfback, Everett Grandelius, Michigan State, '51, a host of new Delt ground-gainers are bidding for honors this season. Among the newcomers who show promise is Colorado's sophomore sensation, Ron Johnson.

First-string: Frank Dunbar, W. & J.; Pat Leighton, Western Reserve; Ronald Fraley, Kenyon; Donald Murphy, Kenyon; Ronald Johnson, Colorado; Max Kennedy, Nebraska; Russell Eggers, Wesleyan; Rabern Wiseman, Syracuse; Ronald Cook, Stanford; Mike Gillis, Wabash; Ward Shawver, DePauw; Travis Kendell, DePauw; and Carmen Cozza, Miami.

Reserve: Richard Hoffman, W. & J.; Robert Dilatush, Cornell; Robert Brown, Wesleyan; George MacIver, Wesleyan; John Gilmore, Stanford; Charles Harrison, Miami; and Lowell Benson, Ohio Wesleyan.

Stuart K. Fox, Chapter Eternal

STUART K. FOX

THE DEATH of Stuart K. Fox, Wisconsin, '20, former President of the Northern Division, on October 16, 1951, has deprived the Fraternity of one of its most loyal and devoted workers.

Affectionately known as "Stu" to alumnus and undergraduate alike, he moved in an ever-growing circle of warm Delt friendship and esteem. Stu's enthusiasm for the Fraternity was contagious; his willingness for any Delt chore was an intrinsic part of his unselfish nature.

His service in an official capacity began prior to the war when he accepted the advisership of Beta Gamma Chapter, Wisconsin. He continued as chapter adviser through the war and for a period afterward. The job was demanding, for it meant regular trips by rail between Chicago and Madison, but Stu saw it through and played a large part in putting the chapter back on its feet in its post-war program.

Always involved in the activity of his own area, Stu served a tour as president of the Chicago Alumni Chapter. He was chairman of the Credentials Committee at both the 58th and 59th Karneas and a member of the general committee of the memorable 58th Karnea, held in Chicago.

He was elected vice-president of the Northern Division in the spring of 1947. In the fall of 1948 he was appointed by President Brenton to serve out the unexpired term of Northern Division President William H. Martindill, who had been elected Treasurer by the 59th Karnea.

Stu was re-elected Division President at the Madison Conference in the spring of 1949. He declined reelection at the Purdue Conference last spring.

Termination of his official duty, however, by no means marked the end of his leadership. He was largely instrumental in organizing the Chicago Alumni Chapter's annual rushing party last August, and practically up to the time of his death he was absorbed in assignments he had taken on for Delta Tau Delta.

To both of his sons, who are Deltas—Jack at Northwestern, '48, and William, Cornell, '52—and to Mrs. Fox, a Gamma Phi Beta who has been no less an ardent Delt supporter, Stu imparted his Delt enthusiasm.

Stu was vice-president of the Tallman Robbins & Company, Chicago office supply manufacturer, at the time of his death.

"Everyone was there as a tribute to one man; it was his party, and he was the party."

When Dr. Wieland died in 1934, the Wieland Freshman Dinner died with him. It could never have been quite the same without him.

Through the years, he found other means of serving his Fraternity. During 1912 he wrote a series of articles for THE RAINBOW, entitled "College Men and Social Evils." In that age, it was a daring step, but Dr. Wieland handled his topic with a delicacy and a candor that left little room for criticism. Even today the passages of those papers stand out with singular dignity.

"We may consider that whatever makes for the good of the boy is worth discussion," said Dr. Wieland. Apparently other fraternity journals agreed with him, for nearly all of them reprinted his essays.

His fraternity brothers' estimate of his service found concrete expression during the early thirties, when the Frank Wieland Memorial Operating Room was created in the Henrotin Hospital in Chicago. The room was completely equipped with the most modern surgical and clinical devices, made possible by contributions from Deltas all over the country. Had Dr. Wieland's passing been stayed just two months, he would have lived to see the memorial room in operation.

To those who would belittle the value of fraternity membership, or charge that fraternity breeds narrow vision, Dr. Wieland's life should stand as an eternal refutation. Here was a physician whose celebrated skill in his profession put tremendous demands on his time, yet in whose great heart there was room for not only his fraternity brothers but any of the poor and lowly who needed his help. He chose as his specialty a field which brought him into daily contact with the most sordid aspect of human nature and the most degraded people of a metropolitan area, yet he retained his great idealism and his faith in the essential goodness of the universe.

Truly it could be said that Delta Tau Delta reached its highest interpretation in him.

the classification of one of the regular eleven positions, it is listed separately. As even the most casual football observer knows, the importance of the linebacker in the defensive setup is tremendous, for his ability to diagnose plays and execute clean, hard tackles paces the play of a defensive unit. One of the Deltas listed below, Mitchell, of California, is a veteran of the 1951 Rose Bowl classic.

First-string: Donald Mitchell, California; Joe Fink, Kansas; Tsar Calfee, Stanford; and Ted Tanner, Stanford.

HEAD COACHES

Jess Neely, Vanderbilt, '22, coach at Rice Institute, Houston, Texas.

George H. Sauer, Nebraska, '34, coach at Baylor University, Waco, Texas.

Sauer, former coach of Navy, is in his second season at Baylor, while Neely is completing his twelfth year at Rice.

Missionary Bishop

BISHOP CHARLES S. REIFSNIDER

BISHOP CHARLES S. REIFSNIDER, Kenyon, '98, whose life was dedicated to missionary service in Japan, made enduring contributions to the cultural and religious life of that country.

Following his formal schooling, he was made a priest of the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1901 and transferred immediately to the Orient, where he remained until 1941. He built and established St. Paul's University in Tokyo, of which he was president from 1912 to 1940. He was suffragan bishop of North Tokyo from 1924 to 1935 and bishop from 1935 to 1947.

In recognition of his work, he was decorated with the Fourth Order of the Sacred Treasure in Japan in 1928 and the Third Order in 1941.

Since his retirement in 1947, he states that he has been "only filling in" whenever he can be of help. He now makes his home in Pasadena, California, where, he says, "I have gone to seed in my rose garden, my present pride and hobby, although I am still privileged by correspondence to keep my contacts with my former work in Japan."

Alabama Wins

The Fraternity Examination Plaque has been awarded to Delta Eta Chapter (Alabama) for achievement of the highest chapter average on the 1951 Examination. The chapter's average was 97.904.

Omega Chapter Takes Penn's Sphinx Award

THERE IS AN almost ancient tradition at the University of Pennsylvania which annually sets aside a day early in May in honor of all seniors. Known from its inception as "Hey Day," it is the occasion upon which various honorary awards are given not only to individuals who have achieved and contributed to the University, but also to the fraternity which through a combination of scholastic achievement and activity in campus life has placed itself in a position at the top of the fraternities at Pennsylvania. This award is presented annually by the Sphinx Senior Honorary Society and is understandably the most sought-after honor for any of the 38 fraternities on campus.

This past May the Omega Chapter of Delta Tau Delta was presented with the Sphinx Award. The presentation represented for many Deltas the arrival at a goal set upon the restoration of Omega after its shut-down during the war period. The years immediately following the war were occupied fraternity-wise with a constant all-out effort on the part of almost every Delt, not only to gain various campus positions, but to make the rushing program a success—and to make the ensuing pledge period valuable with respect to campus activities. The rewards of this intense effort have now been realized. Deltas in the three campus honor societies, Phi Kappa Beta Junior Society and Friars and Sphinx Senior Societies, have reached a figure which other fraternities find hard to beat.

A key to the success of Omega in gaining the award has been the selection by nearly every brother of an activity or activities in which he has an interest. Thus, not only has the chapter contributed to University life in numbers but in nearly all of the various fields of activity as well. And despite the outside interests of all Omegans, the time and effort put forth on campus programs have not distracted from the interests of the Fraternity itself; rather have they strengthened the coherence and unity of Omega.

Ex-President Elected Vice-President of Bankers Association

W. HAROLD BRENTON

W. HAROLD BRENTON, Iowa State, '20, immediate past President of Delta Tau Delta, was elected vice-president of the American Bankers Association in October.

Mr. Brenton has been associated with the banking business since 1920. He is head of eleven Iowa banks.

A past president of the Iowa Bankers Association, he has served during the past year as a member of the commerce and marine commission of the A.B.A. He had previously served as a member of the executive council of the national body and had been vice-president for Iowa for two terms.

Mr. Brenton is president of Brenton Brothers, Inc., a corporation which operates approximately 6,500 acres of Iowa farm land. He is a director of Swift and Co., trustee of Grinnell College, and trustee of the Committee for Economic Development.

A former Secretary, Treasurer, and Vice-President of the Fraternity, Mr. Brenton was elected President at the French Lick Karnea in 1948. He served on the Arch Chapter continuously from 1939 to 1950.

The Veep Visits Delta Tau Chapter

Vice-President ALBEN W. BARKLEY (left) helps himself to another cup of coffee in Delta Tau's dining room, following his address at a Bowling Green State University convocation.

"And what are your views on Communism?" Pencil and pad in hand, the Veep turns the tables on Delt MIKE RYAN, journalism major, as he chats informally with members of Delta Tau Chapter.

Reception line in the Shelter. Legend at right.

INFORMALITY was the keynote of the private reception given by Delta Tau Chapter, Bowling Green State University, in honor of the Vice-President of the United States, Alben W. Barkley, Emory, '00, on October 17.

Mr. Barkley opened the eighth Artist Series at the University with an address on "Americanism for This Hour."

In his talk, Mr. Barkley stressed the principles of the "Four Freedoms" and how they applied to us in our present-day governmental setup.

He also answered questions from the floor, such as, how can we cut the national debt, corruption in the government, and how are we helping to stop Communism throughout the world.

In answer to the question on corruption in the government, Mr. Barkley replied with a story. When he was elected prosecuting attorney in Paducah, Kentucky, a good friend of his was elected county clerk. It soon developed that Mr. Barkley, as prosecuting attorney, had to prosecute his friend for embezzlement. That, Mr. Barkley said, was the way to stop corruption in government—prosecute those who break the law to the fullest extent of the law, regardless of party or principles.

The reception, held after Mr. Barkley's speech, was attended by the new University President, Dr. Ralph W. McDonald; Mayor C. W. Dick of Bowling Green; Dr. Frank J. Prout, former President of Bowling Green State University; and the various academic and social deans.

Members of the active chapter had the pleasure of meeting the "Veep," as he is affectionately known, and of talking with him for several minutes.

Mr. Barkley was initiated into Pi Sigma Alpha, political science honorary, earlier in the evening.

LOY HENDERSON
Moves to critical Iran

LOY W. HENDERSON, Northwestern, '15, former United States Ambassador to India, has been moved to another critical area—this time as Ambassador to Iran.

Mr. Henderson's experience in the State Department makes him well qualified to represent this country's interests in the present crisis. As director of the Office of Near Eastern and African Affairs several years ago, he had the responsibility of directing American policy in the partition of Palestine. He has also served as Minister to Iraq.

In a simple ceremony held recently, a newly created portrait of LORING LUSK GELBACH, Penn State, '15, president of Central National Bank of Cleveland, was unveiled in the bank's headquarters office at 123 West Prospect Avenue. Presentation of the painting, which is the work of the Cleveland artist, Edith Stevenson Wright, was made by Board Chairman John C. McHannan. Members of the bank staff from all offices and directors of the bank attended the ceremony, which was followed by a tea party in the banking lobby.

Mr. McHannan, whose own portrait was made in 1942, pointed out that the practice of making portraits of the chief executive officers of the bank is in keeping with tradition of the 62-year-old bank, beginning with the likeness of the founder, the late Colonel J. J. Sullivan. At the ceremony, which also was attended by members of Mr. Gelbach's immediate family, the unveiling was done by Mrs. Ada Fisher, of Ellwood City, Pennsylvania, who is Mrs. Gelbach's mother. The Gelbach painting is a three-quarter length standing view.

DELTS AGAIN TAKE SCHOLARSHIP TROPHY

The final results of last year's scholastic race revealed that the Delts had again taken the scholarship trophy for the year. The Delts took only a third place second semester, but this, coupled with a first place first semester, won the award for the year.

DIRECT COLLEGE PUBLICITY

Jack Goellner and John Karras, who occupy positions on the editorial board of the Campus, the college paper, were appointed as student codirectors of school publicity. These men will fill the position vacated by the school director of publicity. Ronald Damm was appointed photography editor of the school paper for the coming year.

Jack Wine and Ned Curtis will represent the chapter in the next college playshop production, and Wine, Dean Titus, and Fred Fielding have secured coveted places in the Allegheny Singers.

DELTS READY HOUSE FOR NEW YEAR

With the return of three Delts from abroad—John Olofson and Jack Howie, who spent the year with the armed forces in Germany and Korea respectively, and Paul Storing, who spent the year studying at the University of Oslo in Norway—the chapter co-operated in a preschool fixing up of the Shelter.

With Jack Howie taking charge as house manager, the house was painted and the rain gutters repaired. In the interior of the Shelter, a new living room rug was purchased, and the halls and many of the rooms were painted. Well-organized Delt co-operation completed the redecorating job in a few days before school started.

FRESHMEN WOMEN ENTERTAINED

The social program also got off to a good start this year, under the direction of Social Chairman Tom Newcomb. A successful tea honoring freshman women and the annual Delt barn dance have already been held, and a wonderful time was to be had at both of these well-planned functions. This hard working committee is already forming plans for bigger and better parties in the near future.

TWO HOLD VARSITY SOCCER POSTS

The Delts are well represented on the Allegheny soccer team this year. Arnie Lewis, returning letterman, and Dane Hannum hold down varsity posts. John Gow and George Wilcox will also see lots of action. Dan Bratton is manager of the team.

COMPETITION, BUT 22 PLEDGED

Because of stiffened competition, the rushing program this fall had to be stepped up to a new high. We of Beta Chapter would like to thank the alumni again for the wonderful co-operation which helped gain 22 pledges for the fall class.

The social season started with a record party which helped to fill the record racks, which had become depleted over the summer. The first big event, the annual circus party, was a smash hit. Once more the campus witnessed the famous circus parade along with the Delt band, clowns, and every other type of circus character.

Again this year on October 27 Ohio University will swell with the noise and crowds that say only one thing—Homecoming. This year Beta expects to play host to more than 250 alumni. The program will include dinner at the Shelter and the annual Walk-Around at Lindley Hall.

MRS. K. IS WELCOMED

We are happy to welcome our new housemother, Mrs. June Kimball. Mother K. took over her duties in late September and was honored at the Shelter with a tea and serenade.

Gamma—W. & J.

REDECORATED SHELTER

With a tremendously successful rush week behind us and with the exterior of the Shelter completely repainted, plus the installation of an ultra-modern kitchen and bathroom, the Gamma Delts are looking forward to an even brighter future. Our thanks naturally go out to those alumni who gave so freely of their time and effort to make our newly renovated Shelter possible.

All twelve of the new pledges are outstanding on the campus and will certainly be a credit to Gamma Chapter and Delta Tau Delta as a whole.

REPRESENTED IN ALL ORGANIZATIONS

As usual the Delts are enthusiastically engaged in all activities. Our volleyball team is continuing its unbeaten string of games under the capable direction of Coaches Dave Ray and Bob Lynch. The W & J football team is enjoying the able assistance of Delts Frank Dunbar and Dick Hoffman, who are playing first and second string respectively. In basketball Brother Siranni and Pledge Brother Hamill will be carrying the Delt banner. In fact, there is not one organization on campus that does not have a representative of our Fraternity operating in some capacity.

"HELP WEEK" REPEATED

With the fall semester well under way, chapter activities are again in full swing for another banner year.

Our much publicized "Help Week" was again carried out with great success and 13 neophytes were initiated into Delta Tau Delta.

Another rushing season is over, and thanks to Bill Matthews, our genial rushing chairman, the Delts have acquired one of the finest pledge classes on campus. Many of the pledges are already active on campus, and the scope of their activities ranges from membership in the Men's Glee Club to positions on the varsity football and wrestling teams.

GLEE CLUB EXECUTIVE

Since the last issue of THE RAINBOW, several new campus positions have been filled by Delts. Carl Hedner was elected vice-president of the Men's Glee Club; Gerry Dudley was junior manager for the varsity football squad during the past season, while Jim McClune was a sophomore manager. Bill Allen was chairman of the annual "Tug Week" between the freshman and sophomore classes, and Ken Butler, following in the footsteps of his brother, Doug, is running for Student Legislature.

DAD'S WEEK END CLICKS

Socially speaking, Michigan Delts have had a typically fine semester. Our "Dad's Week End" for the Northwestern game was run off with its usual great success. Exchange dinners were scheduled with the Thetas, Kappas, and Tri Delts, and we are currently looking forward to our combined Pledge and Christmas Formal.

HARVEY OTT HONORED AT ANNIVERSARY

With the close of a fine, high-spirited rushing campaign spearheaded by Warren Fable, rush chairman, 22 of the best men were pledged.

Among several of the festivities will be a banquet held Saturday evening honoring Harvey Ott, '89, for his long and devoted service to the chapter.

counters by wide margins. In addition to their football chores, several men are participating in intramural tennis and horseshoe tournaments.

In varsity sports the Deltas are represented by Bill Monahan, Don Carmien, Jim Murray, Bob Kouts, and Mike Daley on the gridiron. Ace harrier Jim Holmes is leading the cross-country delegation which includes Bill Kessel, Newell Gilchrist, and Jim Timmons.

Gaining valuable experience on the debate team are Charles Hall, Russ Auwerter, and Leo Borello.

FABEL WINS SCHOLARSHIP CUP

Warren Fabel came through with flying colors in the scholarship race, winning the Charles S. Loud Scholarship Cup with a perfect 3.0 average.

Zeta—Western Reserve

TWENTY-ONE ARE PLEDGED

Zeta Chapter is in the swim again this fall with 21 pledges. This is the largest pledge class on campus and, we hope, the best. Al Oldenburg, rushing chairman, and Ralph Engle are largely responsible for our success in this most important venture. Pledge Bob Keyes is recognized as the sixth-ranking amateur figure skater (ice) in the country.

ALUMNI CHRISTMAS DINNER PLANNED

John Portmann, alumni relations director, reports favorable progress in his drive to bring the alumni back to the chapter. On October 27, the alums and actives had a party including wives and dates at the Knights of Pythias Hall, and as usual the affair was a success. Two of these get-togethers were held last year, and each one is a little better than the last. Alumni Social Chairman Bill Howard is the manager of these affairs. Just before the advent of the Christmas vacation, we have our annual Alumni-Active Christmas Dinner, and, as last year, we expect a good turnout.

TAKE OVER SOCCER

Sportswise, the Zeta Deltas nearly own the Reserve soccer team. Seven Deltas and pledges are on the squad: Al Oldenburg, a playing coach; Bob Fuzzy; Don Gordon; and Pledges Frank Anzellotti, Rick Lee, Bill Moley, and Larry Scaletta. Football claims Pat Leighton, while our veteran cagemen are Bill Shew and Dick Everhard. A basketball hopeful is a Tarrytown, N. Y. (coach's home town), import, Hugh Nicol.

HOUSE IMPROVEMENTS

The most important news concerns the Shelter itself. Our third floor ballroom has been altered by means of partitions to form two extra three-man rooms. House Manager John Portmann and Assistant Steve Butzko are largely responsible for the completion of the project, with interior decoration done under the direction of ex-prexy N. Jack Huddle, our official resident architect.

The driveway was paved near the end of the summer by the William L. Schloss Construction Co., and Brothers William L. Schloss (Z, '37) and Raymond E. Schloss (Z, '39) absorbed most of the cost. This is an outstanding example of fraternal generosity and every member of the Fraternity feels grateful to the Brothers Schloss.

TAX STAMPS + ALUMNUS = TV

Last fall we of Zeta Chapter collected tax stamps for the purpose of buying a television set. We finally collected enough money from this venture to buy, let us say, two small tubes and a volume control. The rest of the cost was underwritten by Brother Robert D. Cowen (Z, '29). The Zetamen thank you very much, Brother Cowen. Incidentally, we have had no trouble with the set since the beginning of the term, and the effect on studies has not been disastrous.

CHAPTER WELCOMES EXCHANGE STUDENT

Last year Zeta Chapter extended social privileges to a German exchange student, Hans Hallier, and the experiment proved so successful that this year we extended the same privileges to Hoang ding Loang, an Indonesian student with several degrees (college) behind him. Loang is a biology major in premed and is rapidly becoming Americanized. Hans Hallier is now back in Germany continuing his studies and tutoring various people in the English language, of which he now has more than mere textbook knowledge.

Iota—Michigan State

DELTA HEADS MSC STUDENT CONGRESS

Gaylord Sheets, Iota senior and president of the Michigan State Student Congress, has the student government on the campus off to a splendid start. Also serving on the Student Congress from Iota Chapter is Dale Rhodes.

Jim Slezak, Iota senior, has been appointed chairman of High School Cooperation at Michigan State.

CHAIRMAN'S MSC J-HOP

Duane Vernon, Iota junior, is co-chairman of the 1952 J-Hop at MSC. Ray Anthony's orchestra will provide the music for the two-night stand, February 8 and 9, in the Michigan State auditorium.

NEW HOUSEMOTHER JOINS CHAPTER

Iota Chapter this year is pleased to welcome Mrs. John Buiten, of Grand Rapids, as its new housemother. She had previously served at Campbell Dormitory for Women.

Kappa—Hillsdale

THREE PLAY FIRST STRING

Hillsdale Deltas are distinguishing themselves in many phases of college life this fall. Not the least of these is having three men playing first-string football for the Dale varsity, currently tied for the M.I.A.A. lead. Norm Taylor and Bob Reynolds are holding down the center and guard spots respectively, with John Lusk as the standout Dale safety man. Two other men, Tom Rowe and Bob Morey, although ineligible this year, are helping out in nonconference games.

LEAD FOR INTRAMURAL TROPHY

The Delt intramural football team, paced by three capable men in Jim McDonald, quarterback, Jim Conquest and Dick Gettings, ends, is in the lead for the coveted intramural trophy. The team, coached by Tom McCarthy, has run up impressive scores over their opponents while having been tallied on only once.

COLLEGE HONORS JUDGE NEWCOMER

Forty-five Kappa Chapter alumni returned to the Shelter for Homecoming, Saturday, October 13. Deltas were especially proud to have Judge Chauncey L. Newcomer, K, '98, back, since Hillsdale College honored him with a special achievement award for his outstanding work in the field of law.

Mu—Ohio Wesleyan

REPEATS SCHOLASTIC TRIUMPH

Returning to Mu Chapter, Deltas learned that official tabulation showed we were once again the scholastic leaders on the Ohio Wesleyan campus. The group semester point average of 2.87 was the highest of any Greek organization on campus and was well above the All Men's and Women's Averages.

With every undergraduate member returning, the Shelter was undisturbed by the draft. Mu began the year by adding twenty fine pledges to the fold.

Brother Deane Stokes and Pledge Jim Boggs saw plenty of action on the varsity football squad.

CROWD FOR HOMECOMING

Homecoming climaxed a successful plan to get grads to come back, when a large number of alumni were entertained with a banquet at the Shelter.

Again this year Mu Deltas plan to hold their annual Christmas party for the underprivileged children of the local orphanage. As in the past, a banquet will be highlighted by entertaining the children and giving each a gift.

Nu—Lafayette

FINISH YEAR TOP IN SCHOLARSHIP

With the closing of the 1950-51 school year, Nu came out on top of the scholastic standing of the 19 fraternities of Lafayette. Midyear found an improvement from twelfth to third place with a result of the greatest improvement shown and a reward for the effort in the form of a plaque.

At the end of the second semester we arrived at the top spot, for which we received the scholarship trophy as a reward for our efforts. We succeeded in placing eight men on the Dean's list, and Brother Joe Parnell has just made Tau Beta Pi.

DELTS BOLSTER GRID LINE-UP

The coming of the fall season found Brothers Dick Polhemus and Bill Smith on the starting line-up of the varsity eleven, and they are bolstering our '51 hopes. The varsity basketball quintet will find Brother Pete Carril as captain and John Alviggi, last year's high-scoring freshman ace, will probably see plenty of action.

In intramurals the Delt softball team came in second in its league. Last season's football and basketball squad captured the gold trophy that exists between Nu and Lehigh's Beta Lambda Chapter in two very close games.

SHELTER REDECORATED

Last spring under the able supervision of our house man, Bob Lindstrom, the interior of our Shelter has been greatly improved. The alumni house corporation has provided the house with new leatherette furniture for the living room, which has added much to its appearance.

Omicron—Iowa

RUSH TEAM COMES THROUGH

Omicron opened the 1951 college year with a fine 13-man pledge class. The chapter rushing team did a fine piece of work over the summer, and a full-scale informal rushing program is now under way under the able leadership of Bob Ballentyne.

The chapter is at work on a float for the homecoming parade to be held November 1. The float will be built on the theme of a huge elephant. Stan Etzen is in charge of the committee.

The chapter came through the summer in very good condition, losing no men to the draft, and graduating only four.

TAKE LEAD IN ACTIVITIES

A number of Delts are busy with campus activities. Jim Bullard is on the student council, Jim Grotenhuis is president of the Central Party Committee, Don Rosche is fraternity area editor for Frisol, John Hunt is in the University chorus, and Joe Nelson, Jim Hepner, and John Creger are in the University band.

The Delt Dixie Combo is back again. Its members include: Dave Crumley, Al Divine, Bob Loots, Jim Grotenhuis, Don Nelson, Bob Hamilton, Jim Bullard, and John Hunt. The combo plays for many interfraternity and sorority parties, campus activities, and its own amusement.

Rho—Stevens

MANY DELT CHAPTERS VISITED

As the last few hours of the summer vacation drew to a close, the men who had already returned waited patiently for the four roving vagabonds of the junior class to return. It was only a scant eight hours before the first class when Paul Langhauser, Dave Martin, Steve Cuff, and Dirk McCormack came rattling to the door in what was once a 1946 Ford. New Jersey to California and back in 18 days was the only topic of conversation for the next week as stories of other houses across the country echoed around the rooms. To anyone in Colorado reading this article, Dave Martin lost a sweater in your state; please return if found.

DELT GOALIE READY FOR RUTGERS

Predictions around school say that this will be a good year for the soccer team. With three Delts on the starting line-up, one, the goalie, "Ernie" Tauber, '54, the house has taken a special interest. Rutgers seemed to be the big stumbling block in the past years, but "Ernie" was unscored upon in league play up to this writing.

MOTHERS PROVIDE NEW FURNITURE

The social committee opened the school year with a "Welcome-the-Alumni" party which was quite a success. Other parties, such as "Swiss-Alpine" and "Undersea" costume parties, are planned for the future. The Mothers' Club held its first card party and raffle October 17, with the money going to buy new furniture for the game room. Father and Son Night is planned for December 2 and should again be as popular as in the past.

Tau—Penn State

SCHOLASTIC JUMP RECORDED

Tau Chapter has made remarkable strides in scholarship. Under the direction of Scholarship Chairman Beecher Watson, we have soared from 44th to 18th place among the fraternities on the Penn State campus. In addition, two Delts were named on the Dean's List—Bill Johnson and Krebs Myton.

Four new pledges were added at the end of rush week, making a total of 16 pledges living in the house.

A large delegation of alumni is expected for the homecoming game with Michigan on October 28. The front of the Shelter will be decorated in the form of a large keystone in keeping with the homecoming theme of Freedom's Keystone. Depictions of five of Pennsylvania's major industries will cover the yard.

CROSS-COUNTRY CHAMPS

Delts at Penn State are active in a variety of fields this fall. Tom Shaw and Fred Sprenkle, up from the freshman cross-country team, are running with the national champion Penn State varsity. Jim Rugh is assistant manager of cross-country. Don MacMahan was selected president of the Penn State chapter of the Junior Hotel Men of America. Tom Judge was selected for membership in Sigma Eta Alpha, honorary hotel fraternity. Bill Gourley was elected king of Chi Omega Sorority's Mardi Gras.

Phi—W. & L.

LATIMER CHOSEN FOR 13 CLUB

Bob Latimer was selected from Phi Chapter to become a member of the "13" Club, a socially prominent organization which is active in almost all campus affairs.

WIN BY DECISIVE SCORES

We are off to an excellent start in intramurals, having won two football games by decisive scores, and we are still undefeated in the bowling league mainly because of the efforts of Fred Miller and Bill Wirth. Our athletic trainer, Frank Barron, hopes to have everyone in shape for the basketball season which opens soon.

Phi closed its rush week by pledging 13 outstanding freshmen. The new group elected Fred Easter of Richmond, Va., president. Among the other pledges are William Davis, Lexington, Ky.; Frank Hardwick, Lafayette, Ga.; Mike Clark, Chicago, Ill.; Marvin Bobbit, Baltimore, Md.; Watson Coverdale, Upper Darby, Pa.; Dan Fairbanks, Philadelphia, Pa.; Joe Hanaway, Short Hills, N. J.; Wally DeGree, Grosse Ile, Michigan; Jerry Murphy, Norfolk, Va.; Roland C. Davies, Washington, D. C.; Watty Bowes, Denver, Colo.; and Pete McPherson, Sidney, N. Y.

Chi—Kenyon

PRESIDENCY CHANGES

When the Chi Delts returned to the Shelter this fall, they found a total of five brothers on the missing list. Among them was "Boo" Eggert. Chi Chapter president last year. Brother Eggert transferred to Western Reserve in Cleveland, where we are sure he will continue to be an outstanding Delt, now as a member of Zeta Chapter.

The vacant office of president has since been entrusted to the able hands of Grant Cooke, formerly vice-president. Larry Taylor, a junior, was elected to the vice-presidency.

RUSHING SUCCESS REPORTED

The first real task to beset the chapter this fall was rushing. The outcome of three weeks of very stiff interfraternity competition was a superb pledge class for Chi Chapter. Thirteen of the finest men in the freshmen class now wear the four stars of a Delt pledge. They hail from as far east as Massachusetts and as far west as California. It is a well-rounded group with interests in everything from football to dramatics.

TWO VARSITY CAPTAINS

Brothers Si Axtell and Bill Ranney have brought athletic honors to Chi this fall in the form of captaincies. Brother Axtell was elected captain of the soccer team and Brother Ranney was afforded the same honor by the football team.

INTERNATIONAL DELTS

John Ver Nooy and Jack Martin have been acting as international Delts this year. Brother Ver Nooy, '52, took an extended student tour of Europe this summer, losing his clothes in the process, while Brother Martin, '51, Phi Beta Kappa member from Chi, is now studying psychology in Rennes, France, under a Fulbright Scholarship.

Omega—Pennsylvania

AWARDED TOP HONOR SPHINX AWARD

The presentation to Omega last spring of the Sphinx Award has inspired Delts more than ever before to take part in the worthy activities on the Pennsylvania campus. The award itself is probably the most coveted of any fraternity honor at Penn. for its recognition of participation in activities and scholarship represents, for the fraternity having received it, a top position among the 38 fraternities at the University.

Figuring prominently in the drive for the award were several of the Deltas receiving high positions on campus. Charlie Russell, Omega prexy, was elected to the editorship of the Daily Pennsylvanian, Monroe "Spider" Trout was elected to the presidency of the Junior Class, and Jim Jones was elected president of the Christian Association. Charles "Bud" Fretz won the distinction of being presented with the Class of '46 Award, gained through hard work in various campus activities.

FALL SOCIAL ACTIVITY

The Shelter has bustled with activity at post-football game time throughout the fall. The coffee hours and buffet suppers have attracted large numbers of parents and alumni, plus quite a few of the recent graduates now in the service, who have often traveled quite a distance in order to take in some more of the college life. Army week end was the occasion for a number of parents and alumni to attend a homecoming—one of the big week ends of the fall.

BACK AGAIN

Back at Omega this year are two brothers who, because of sickness and an accident, were unable to be with us in 1950-51. Charlie Mellon and Jack Smilgen have both resumed their active school life with participation in University and Fraternity functions. The 1951 Mask and Wig show, incidentally, includes ten Deltas throughout its chorus and cast—more than any other house on campus.

Beta Gamma—Wisconsin

FORSBERG ASSUMES GAVEL

Bob Forsberg was elected president of Beta Gamma in a fall election made necessary by the transfer of past President Jim McGinn to Northwestern. Joe Benton is the new vice-president, Dick Norman is recording secretary, Ted Fox assistant treasurer, and Mal MacArthur sergeant at arms.

Beta Gamma got off to a good start by pledging several sharp young men in formal rushing. Several other boys will be pledging within the next few weeks.

REPRESENTED IN RANDALL STADIUM

Delta Tau Delta is well represented in Camp Randall Stadium on Saturday afternoons. George O'Brien is regular guard on the football team. Head Cheerleader Gordie Johnson keeps the crowd yelling for the Badgers, and Drum Major Stan Stitgen leads the University of Wisconsin band during half time.

Ted Fox is fighting for a place on the varsity wrestling team. Jim Evoy is one of the top pitchers on Wisconsin's baseball team, and in the political field, Joe Benton is vice-president of the Interfraternity Council.

HOUSEMOTHER SETS HEARTY DINNERS

Housemother, Mrs. Elizabeth Geittman, after a successful summer taking care of 30 girls, had the Shelter in top shape for all the returning Deltas. The usual quality of the Shelter meals is a tribute to Mrs. Geittman's careful planning of "hearty dinners for hungry Deltas."

Beta Epsilon—Emory

ATLANTA ALUMNI ASSIST

At No. 4 Fraternity Row we are looking forward to a most successful year. Rush week is over, and things are beginning to operate more smoothly.

During the summer the Atlanta Alumni Chapter was host at a buffet supper at the Ansly Park Golf Club honoring rushees in this area who were entering Emory, Tech, and Georgia this fall. The speakers for this occasion were Ed Dodd, Georgia Tech, '25; George Goodwin, Washington and Lee, '39; and Dean Raimundo DeOvies, Sewanee, '98. The party was a big success, and we would like to thank the Atlanta Alumni Chapter for the splendid co-operation given us. When the summer rush week ended, we had four new pledges. On Sunday, September 30, fall rush week was over, and five new men entered the Shelter to begin their pledge training.

PLEDGES HONOR PRESIDENT

We are sorry to lose our president, John W. Pattillo, who has joined the armed forces. On behalf of the Fraternity, the pledge class presented him with an engraved gavel as a token of appreciation for the many things he has done for our chapter and the Fraternity as a whole.

Beta Zeta—Butler

OPEN HOUSE FOR PLEDGES

Beta Zeta began the 1951-1952 school year by pledging 25 prospective members.

Thanks should go to Brother Ross Copeland, rush chairman, for a job well done.

The annual Open House, which was held on October 21, opened the year's social events as Beta Zeta played host to Butler University's students and faculty.

DELTA IS SPHINX PREXY

Several Delt brothers lost no time in gaining prominence on the campus by securing offices in a number of the University's organizations. Dick Curtis nailed down the presidency of the Loyalty Legion, as Brother Jim Mathis occupied the treasurer's spot. The Sphinx, junior men's honorary, elected Jim Shrock as prexy and George Goodnight as treasurer. Clyde Green, Delt senior, joined the ranks by being selected as vice-president of Blue Key, senior men's honorary.

HONOR BADGE AWARDED

On the evening of October 17, Beta Zeta initiated three new members. The proud wearers of the square badge are: Jack Jackson, Mike Marmion, and Max Truby.

Also included in the program was the presentation of the "Charles E. Higbee Honor Pin" to the junior who had made the highest grades in the chapter during his sophomore year. This year's winner, Jim Shrock, was presented with the award by Mr. Higbee himself, Beta Zeta's oldest living member. Following the ceremony a banquet honoring the new Deltas was held.

BULLDOG CENTER

Beta Eta—Minnesota

PAINT FLIES WITH GOOD RESULTS

The paint has been flying thick and fast around the Shelter as the brothers took it upon themselves to redecorate completely the inside of our house. After cleaning the paint out of our hair and getting things back to normal, we discover that we've done a pretty good job, even if some people are a little aghast at the "shocking pink" at the ends of the hallways.

EIGHT ARE PLEDGED

With the Shelter smelling of new paint and all cleaned up, the chapter started digging into fall-quarter rushing. It was nice to see so many of the alumni show up at several of our rushing functions. With only 71 men pledging 35 fraternities this fall, we feel that we have really accomplished something by getting eight new men.

With rushing barely behind us, we found Homecoming almost on top of us, and the brothers got to work on decorations for the Shelter and a big Homecoming party. Betty Lundquist, a Gamma Phi pledge, was our Homecoming Queen candidate.

Campaign antics at Maine. Mayor Candidate ANDY MEZOIAN sits casually on library patio guarded by rifles of Delts BERRY and BOYLE.

Fall activity at Beta Omega (California) includes sports on nearby lakes. Here a group of Delts make preparations.

"Here's our slogan—vote for Hogan" was the campaign cry of Ohio State Delts, and they carried JAMES HOGAN (inset) into the presidency of the junior class.

Beta Theta—Sewanee

SHELTER HAS ITS FACE LIFTED

Beta Theta opened the 1951-52 school year in grand style. Many actives returned to the Mountain early and promptly started interior decorating of the Shelter. The living room now has a new coat of light grey enamel, while the first- and second-floor halls have been painted a pastel blue.

Used chairs have been purchased; they will be sanded and painted red. The stained panels in the halls will be restained by the pledge class as its project. A second-hand stoker has been installed in the basement.

PLEDGES DISPLAY TALENTS

Beta Theta pledged 21 men this fall, to give the chapter the largest class on the Mountain. The pledges have already planned the annual Delt Tea, which is an open house given for all of the residents of Sewanee.

Most of the pledges have shown an interest in outside activities. Pledge Worral is a candidate for the cross-country team, while Cole and Niebanck are setting their sights on the Sewanee basketball team. Pledge Fiske is basketball manager, and Pledge Oxarart is on the Sewanee B football team. Kilpatrick is football manager. In addition to these men, others are planning to enter the University choir, debate team, and the Sewanee Purple staff.

The pledge point system has gone into effect, and the winner at the end of the semester will have his name placed on the Pledge Cup, purchased last year. Under Pledge Master Alan Bell, the pledge class shows high possibilities, which, combined with the spunk and drive of the actives, should enable us to win the scholarship award as well as other honors this year.

Beta Kappa—Colorado

RUSH WEEK A SUCCESS

Another fall, another rush week, and Beta Kappa pulled through the rigors of it all with another outstanding pledge class. Numbering 27, the pledge class is a well diversified one containing most of the top men going through rush week.

They have already shown their spirit and organization by planning several of their own social functions and activities. Each member of the class has also found himself a committee job to his liking or is playing on one of the various intramural teams.

Determined to commence the pledge's social year with a bang, Rob Winfrey, pledge trainer, continued last year's program of inviting sorority pledges over to the Shelter for coffee and doughnuts on Sunday mornings. Though the program is strictly for the pledges' benefit, the actives also have a golden opportunity to size up the new crop.

WESTERN BAND

This fall Beta Kappa's newly organized Western serenaders have made a big hit with the girls in the dorms and sorority houses. Backed up by a banjo, three guitars, a jew's harp, washboard, and two jugs, the band sings such numbers as "Buffalo Gal," "Fit as a Fiddle," and the "Saints Go Marching In."

THREE ACHIEVE HONORS

Three chapter men attained high honors at the close of last year. Foster Garn was elected to the student governing body and to Sumalia, junior men's honorary. Jack Anderson, sports editor for the yearbook, was also elected to Sumalia. Dick Willis was elected president of the business school.

FOUR ON VARSITY FOOTBALL

Four Beta Kappas are at the top of the football roster this fall. Bob Klamann, tackle; Ronnie Johnson, halfback; and Lyle Van Horne and Lee Venzke in the quarterback slot have already proved their mettle on the gridiron. Venzke, who was the Buff's educated toe last season, is the 60-minute mentor for the team this year. Johnson, a sophomore, is leading the Big 7 Conference in pass receiving and has gained 111 yards in 17 carries so far this season. Van Horne and Klamann have been progressing rapidly, and both are main contenders for their respective positions.

John Creighton, star quarter miler and relay man for Colorado last spring, is currently showing his running prowess on the varsity cross-country squad.

Five pledges have earned themselves starting berths on the B or freshman squad. All showed prominently in a recent lopsided win over a Wyoming B squad.

HOUSEMOTHER'S NEW ROOM

During the past summer months, the housemother's room was the scene of considerable activity. Because of the great kindness and generosity of the mother of a former Beta Kappa Delt, we were able to have the room completely remodeled and redecorated. The former powder room has been connected to the bedroom by means of a sliding door and will now serve as a private sitting room for the housemother.

The redecorating included the re-painting of both the sitting room and bedroom, new rugs for both rooms, French Provincial furniture in the sitting room, new bedroom furnishings, and new sets of drapes and Venetian blinds in each of the rooms.

Beta Lambda—Lehigh

PLEDGES START WORK EARLY

Lehigh Delts settled down quickly to chapter business this semester by opening pledge "Work Week" only a few days after school began. The neophytes accomplished a great deal in the way of fall cleaning and repairing of the Shelter. Initiation of these men will be held early in November if final pledge training advances as scheduled.

In addition to minor house repairs made by the pledges, Will Wilbern, house manager, has planned several major renovations of the chapter house. Among other things, he has contracted for painting the outside of the Shelter and complete repairing and tuning of the piano.

DELT END STANDS OUT

In the way of fall sports Delts are again in the limelight. Jim Hancock, in his second year on the varsity football squad, is doing much to bolster the defensive strength of the team and has made an outstanding showing thus far for the season. Art Ferris, the old pro, after exhausting his eligibility time on the varsity squad, has turned to coaching our interfraternity eleven and under his able guidance great things are expected.

Beta Mu—Tufts College

EARLY RETURN SHAPES UP HOUSE

Beta Mu Chapter opened the Tufts College Centennial Year on September 19 with many of the brothers returning early to get the house in shape for the fall activities. Unfortunately, two of our members, Brother Floyd Webster and Pledge Hans Mittemyer will not be with us this year due to accidents suffered during the summer vacation.

HOLD THREE ATHLETIC CAPTAINCIES

Many Beta Mu Delts are leading the campus activities during Tufts Centennial Year. In the field of athletics we hold three captaincies. Chapter President Dick Walsh leads the "Jumbo" eleven with Brothers Moulton and Richardson captains of the gold and swimming teams respectively. Other varsity football members are Brothers Fenderson and Aliapoulos and Pledge Sweeney. Brothers Young and Vassallo are managers. Our contribution to the "Harriers" is Brother Carl Raine. Many other Delts participate in other varsity sports.

Brother Bob Young, editor in chief of the senior yearbook, is ably assisted by Brother Raine and Pledge Berntson, sports editor and business manager respectively.

Class offices are held by Brothers Young and Sheperd, while honor societies include Brothers Aliapoulos, Walsh, Young, Webster, and Rockwell.

RUSH PROGRAM UNSURPASSED

With rush week almost upon us, many preparations have been made to obtain a good pledge class. Brothers Crafts and Richardson have outlined a rushing program that will be unsurpassed on hill. Because Brother Raines obtained complete co-operation from all house members, a large number of Jackson girls have been selected to aid us in entertaining the rushees. Pledge Ilg's sister was chosen house queen.

Beta Nu—M.I.T.

RUSH WEEK NETS 17

This year Beta Nu, under the leadership of Don Christensen, started out with a newly painted house and a new pledge class of 17 men. The most successful rushing season in many years was capably handled by Rush Chairman Bob Oliver.

As we welcomed new men into the Shelter, however, we were sorry to bid goodbye to Ed Davis, who was recalled to the Navy. Dick Stephan, '50, has shipped out for Germany with Army Intelligence, and Oscar Eubank, '50, is now in Pasadena, guiding missiles.

Currently planning the biggest Junior Prom week end of the century are Art Swanberg and Dick Brannon, while "Leaky" Dyke and Pete Ehrenberg play rugby on the winter circuit, assisted by Manager "Salty" Morton.

The chapter continues to place men on the M.I.T. crew aggregation. With the addition of John Gaylord and Art Swanberg, the freshman shell promises to do nothing more than draw a little more water.

Beta Omicron—Cornell

NINETEEN FROSH MOVE IN

The Delts of Beta Omicron initiated the 1951-52 school year with vigor and enthusiasm. A week before classes started everybody returned to the Shelter and pitched in on a big job of interior decorating. After a week of intense work the brothers all had reason to be proud of their efforts. No sooner was one job finished than another, and bigger one, loomed ahead. And the way in which the Delts, led by Bob Rutishauser, conducted their rushing campaign this year left no doubt as to the outcome. The result of their enthusiastic endeavors: a pledge class of 19 stalwart freshmen eagerly anticipating the appointed day when they may be initiated as brother Delts.

BIG RED DEFENSE MEN

With the strain of rushing reason over, Delts have once again taken the initiative in extracurricular activities. Bob Dilatash and Larry Hitchon are stalwarts on the Big Red's defensive platoon this fall. Bob Ashton and Bob Lindemeyer are putting forth their best for the soccer team. Jim Pierce is crew coxswain. Clyde Barker is showing the way for the Cornell tennis team. House president and ex-football star, Vinnie Di-Grande is line coach for the "Little Red" frosh football squad this fall. The sports-minded pledge class is out for its share of athletics, there being five crewmen, three football players, a wrestler, and a swimmer in their ranks. Dave Buckley is doing a fine job as varsity football manager this fall. Many of the other men are working at activities too various to mention.

HOST TO GAMMA OMICRON

Beta Omicron held a fine party for its brother Delts from Gamma Omicron of Syracuse after the traditional Cornell-Syracuse game. Homecoming Week End, with the Big Red encountering the Cantabs of Beantown, was a successful affair. Undergraduate Delts and their visiting brothers enjoyed themselves thoroughly at the game and at the party held at the Shelter in the evening.

Beta Pi—Northwestern

P.J. RACE CONTINUES AS TRADITION

The Delts at Northwestern University are starting what promises to be a bang-up year with a mighty fine pledge class of 15 men.

The Delt Pajama Race also had a successful running this fall. The Phi Psis won the event, while the ATOs got the prize for the loudest pajamas. A Tri Delt, Lois Loehr, was selected by the Delt seniors as the P.J. Queen.

The P.J. Race was started in 1941 but was discontinued when the war broke out. In 1946 it was started again and has been run every year since. It is now a recognized tradition at Northwestern.

Beta Rho—Stanford

DELTS DOMINATE ATHLETICS

Beta Rho Chapter has gotten off to a great start this fall in athletics, social activities, and campus functions. First of all, let's take sports.

Stanford's strong varsity football team would be much depleted were it to lose Delts Jack Bonetti, Ted Tanner, Ron Cook, Cappy Cook, Chuck Essegian, Johnny Gilmore, and Tsar Calfee. Bonetti and Ron Cook, the latter a soph, hold down first-string offensive jobs at guard and halfback respectively, while Tanner (another sophomore), Essegian, and Calfee back up the line on defense. Calfee suffered a broken foot in the UCLA game, however, and is out for the season. Cappy Cook sees a lot of action at defensive guard and Gilmore is a reserve safety man. In water polo, Stanford Delts dominate the scene. Bob Frojen, a great swimmer and All-American water poloer, has scored a total of 15 goals in the Indians' first three games, all of them victories. But Frojen isn't quite the whole team, although he approximates that status. The president of the house, Bob Wycoff, like Frojen, a forward, is also a vital cog in this Stanford powerhouse, and Russ La Telle holds down that all-important goalie position. Fritz Kunzel, a soph, is a reserve guard. In another fall sport, soccer, Soph John Hanna is prominent.

WINS "MOST HUMOROUS" TROPHY

In the big homecoming float parade which preceded the Stanford-UCLA crucial, Delta Tau Delta combined with Russell House to win the "Most Humorous" trophy. Under the leadership of Northwestern's Delt pledge delegation.

Dick Andrews, the whole house contributed time and effort to building a great float. It marked the second time in three years that the Deltas have won a trophy in this event.

SOCIAL SEASON SLATED

Social Chairman Chuck Denny has lined up a slate of parties and dances designed to satisfy the most socially minded of Deltas. The big climax of the quarter will be the Big Game Dance, and plans are already being made.

Beta Tau—Nebraska

SUMMER RUSHING PAYS OFF

The strain of rush week was eased by the effective summer activities carried on by our rushing committee. Bob Hasebrook, committee chairman, received invaluable assistance from Keith Skalla, Eldon Park, and Jack Loudon. The pledge class consists of 33 top men. Campus scuttlebutt rates the Beta Tau pledge class as number one on the University of Nebraska campus.

"ANONYMOUS" DONOR HONORED

James "Sog" Pearson, Beta Tau, '14, now of Jersey City, New Jersey, was revealed as the formerly anonymous donor who sparked the campaign for funds necessary for the new Beta Tau Shelter. During a recent visit to Lincoln, Mr. Pearson was honored at a dinner given by Beta Tau actives at the Shelter. A number of prominent alumni from Nebraska and surrounding territory were present.

Several speeches outlined the progress of the chapter from the time it was chartered up to the present. Adam McMullen, former Governor of Nebraska and the only living charter member of Beta Tau Chapter, told of the difficulties experienced in the panic of '93. Other speakers were: Stanley Guenzel, '13; Harold Prince, '13; Colonel Howard Turner, '24; Phil Sidles, '27; Richard Lander, '52, chapter president; and Jerry Dosek, '50.

Beta Upsilon—Illinois

"DELTA AIRLINES" HOPES TO SCHEDULE ROSE BOWL FLIGHT

Three Deltas have found a new way to root for the Illini eleven and its Delt first-stringers, Fullback Bill Tate and Guard Bob Lenzini, at games away from home. Bill Stahl, Lee Hill, and Bill Butler have inaugurated what they call "Delta Airlines," which consists of flying their light plane to distant points on Saturdays.

So far the longest trip was to Syracuse, New York. At the present they are hoping for the opportunity to fly to Pasadena on New Year's Day for the Rose Bowl classic.

PLEDGES WILL CONTRIBUTE TO GOOD YEAR

Now that the new school year is under way, we at Beta Upsilon find that we have again come up with an outstanding pledge class. Among the 22 in the class, we have such prep athletes as Gary Glisson, ex-captain of the Springfield footballers, and Pete Koch, backstroke champion from Chicago. From here it looks as if we will have another year of high scholastic achievement as well as I-M championships.

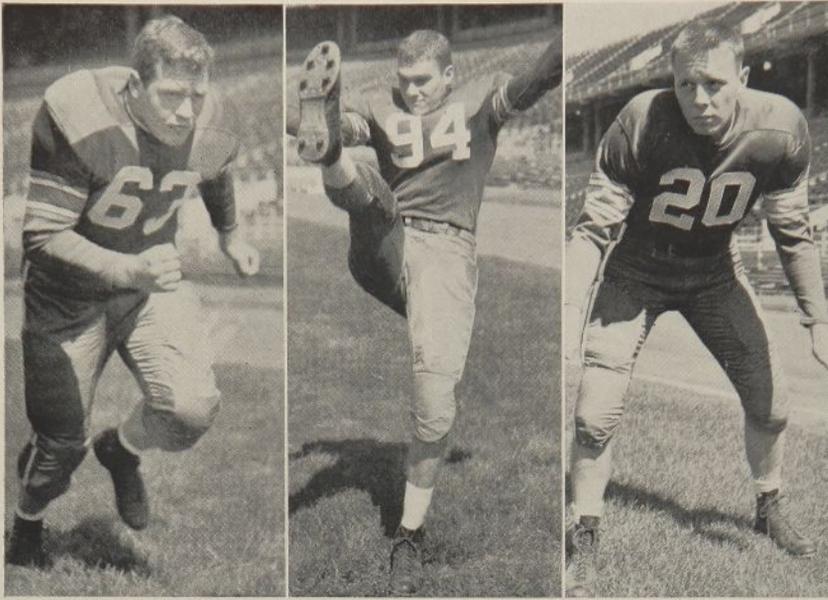

One of the big occasions in the Shelter this fall was the initiation of six mid-year Deltas. The new actives are John Hayes, Tom Konrad, John Greenleaf, Don Corson, John McCune, and Bill Butler. That brings the active roll up to 27, making a total of 51 men. The old Shelter is really a full house now.

INSTITUTE NEW FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

The chapter has switched from a local accounting firm to handling its finances itself. Our treasurer, Bill Bone, who has the monstrous job of managing our finances, says that the new system is working out fine. The house seems to be coming out ahead with this system, although it makes quite a bit of work for Bill and his able assistant, Dick Anderson.

Beta Phi—Ohio State

REMODELING SPARKS RECORD RUSH

A complete remodeling of the Shelter seemed to instill extra pride in Beta Phi, which netted a total of 31 new pledges during regular rush week.

The remodeling program, which found the Shelter boasting new paint outside and inside, cost nearly $6,000. Besides painting, new front steps and walk were constructed. A new furnace and stoker were installed in addition to new living room rugs, furniture, and draperies.

The Mothers' Club, Wives' Club, the house corporation, and the Columbus alumni group combined with the chapter in undertaking this project.

It might be well to note that all of the painting inside the house was done by men of the chapter. Under the constant prodding of House Manager Blaine Loudin, week-end painting parties were held throughout the summer and chapter members brought their dates to add increased drive to the project.

ATHLETES SET PACE

The new pledge class joins 11 pledges from last spring to comprise a group considered highly potential. Among the new men are three University football players. Jim Reichenbach has been playing varsity ball at the guard slot, while John Shelton and John Borton are being groomed for backfield spots with the Buckeye squad. Shelton has also been working with the ends. Old Pledge Vic Janowicz, All-American and winner of the Heisman Trophy last season, once again leads the Deltas on the gridiron.

Two outstanding candidates for this year's basketball team are Freshmen Jim Feeney and Don Dill. Both men have displayed a lot of talent in early practices.

Tom Franklin, another pledge from last year, is currently practising with the gymnastics team, where he won a Varsity "O" and placed in Big Ten championships.

INTRAMURAL HOPES HIGH

On the intramural scene, the Deltas place nearly the same team on the field that was University runner-up last year. Intramurals Chairman Bill Spetrino, an ex-member of the University football team prior to an injury, is currently drilling the team prior to entering scheduled play.

Already plans have been instigated to insure a continued improvement of the chapter's scholastic rating. Beginning last year in the basement (44th on campus) the chapter rose to seventh winter quarter (tops among social fraternities) and finished with a ranking of 16th on campus for the year.

Beta Chi—Brown

MAKE COMEBACK AFTER FIRE

The Deltas at Brown have made a great comeback this semester after last year's unfortunate fire which destroyed the old Shelter. At present, we are being temporarily quartered in a building that had formerly served as a dormitory. Although the social facilities are not as good as what we have been accustomed to, through the hard work of the brothers, a great many improvements have been made. Enough lounge furniture could be salvaged from the old house to furnish the present residence adequately, and the brothers cleaned up and painted the cellar to make it usable for parties, meetings, and other such functions.

Next year the Deltas will move into permanent quarters in the new University quadrangle, now nearing completion. These buildings are really a thing of beauty, and we are all looking forward to the beginning of a new era, not only for Beta Chi but for Brown University as well.

SCHOLARSHIP ADVANCES

The scholastic average of the Deltas saw much improvement during the course of last year. Of the 17 fraternities on the campus, we now rank fifth, advancing from the ninth position we held last semester. A good deal of the credit for this advance can be credited to our chapter adviser, Bill McSweeney, and our scholastic chairman, Walt Buschmann, both of whom have worked hard towards improving Delt scholarship.

GRIDIRON REPRESENTATION

Beta Chi is well represented on the gridiron this year. Brothers Joe Bowdring and Don Cottey and Pledges Ed Sexton, Jerry Haverty, Stan Orczyk, and Tom Gagliano are all members of the varsity football squad. Sexton particularly distinguished himself by playing the full sixty minutes against Yale, his iron-man stint being a major factor in Brown's stunning upset win over the Elis.

We are also represented on the soccer team by Brother Jim Vreeland, who has won himself a starting position for the second year in a row.

Beta Omega—California

REFURBISHING HELPS PLEDGING

Situated high atop the Berkeley Hills, overlooking the beautiful San Francisco Bay, sits a chapter of Delta Tau Delta, Beta Omega, which has known nothing but prosperity and success since the beginning of the semester.

To begin with, the entire chapter house was painted during the summer, thanks to the skillful brushes of Don Neely and his crew. To complement the new paint job, the Mothers' Club reupholstered all of the furniture in the house. Consequently, when rushing rolled around, the rushees were so completely impressed that we had an easy time picking the best pledge class on campus. The class is very well-rounded, containing those excelling in sports and scholarship as well as those who are active in school politics.

Starting off the year with a bang in the social circles, Beta Omega initiated its new pledges to their first fraternity party on Presents Night. The house was packed, and everyone had a fabulous evening dancing and enjoying the refreshments that were served. The following week was the pledge banquet and dance. The wearers of the white square and four stars had themselves quite an evening as did the rest of the chapter.

GRIDDERS ROLL TO VICTORY

The intramural season has just started, and the football championship is the first Delt objective. The Beta Omega machine, composed of Russ Doe, Don Dodson, Bob Meyer, George Fish, Dick Whiteman, Bob Rossi, and Dave Johnson, under the coaching of Russ Doe and Pete Parrish, has already rolled over one opponent on its way to the crown. Tennis and basketball are also starting, and Beta Omega appears to be equally strong in these fields.

Gamma Beta—Illinois Tech

RUSHING A SUCCESS

Rush week this year was highlighted as usual by the Delt rush party and the pledging of 19 of Illinois Tech's best men to Delta Tau Delta. These men may now be seen about the campus sporting the purple and gold beanies which the Deltas initiated last year.

BID STRONG IN INTRAMURALS

The opening game of the Interfraternity Football League this year saw a determined and strong Delt squad roll over their opponents by a score of 22-0. After missing the title by one touchdown last year, this squad appears to be headed all the way.

Mainstays of the team are "Coach" Wayne Hamilton, Pledges Ron Hernes and "Tex" Thomas, recent Neophytes Bob Zekes and Joe Schwebel, and Mac Curless and Bud Schutt representing the older faction.

The Delt tennis team at the time of this writing has won its first two matches and appears stronger than ever with Jerry Bugler, "Squire" Bratlie, and Matt Merfeld carrying the load.

After winning the golf trophy last year, the Deltas slogged to a strong fourth, just five points from first on a muddy course in this year's contest. Pledge Harry Smith turned in an outstanding performance to take second individual honors for the day.

CAMPUS LEADERS

This semester finds Delt men active in every field of extracurricular endeavor at Illinois Tech. Gus Wingate serves as president of the Illinois Tech Student Association while Greg Opelka acts as president of the Interfraternity Council as well as the student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Dick Erbe and "Moose" Greenlees are back with the varsity basketball team and appear to be headed for a great year.

In the field of publications Delt men are certainly playing a prominent part. Frank Sheehy is serving as associate editor of Tech News, the campus newspaper, and Wayne Hamilton holds the posts of feature editor for Tech News as well as a section editor for the yearbook. With the rest of the staff of Tech News comprised largely of Delt men, it may soon become a Delt Journal.

Gamma Gamma—Dartmouth

RUSHING IS PRIME CONCERN

With Dartmouth's school year only two weeks under way, the news from Gamma Gamma is largely of plans and preparations rather than of events themselves. So far we have managed, however, to start the year off properly with two successful jazz band parties over the week end of September 30 directly preceding registration. With a large proportion of the campus attending, both events proved outstanding.

At the moment our prime concern is rushing. The brothers are going all out to get a good pledge class of '54, and with John Rice proving himself so far a capable rush chairman, our prospects look good.

CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Outside of the completion of rushing, our biggest event scheduled for the near future is the celebration of Gamma Gamma's fiftieth anniversary as a Delt chapter. On the schedule of events for the week end are a smoker, an informal meeting, a dinner, and a dance. A number of alumni should be on hand to help us celebrate the occasion, and all expectations are for a gala time.

Gamma Delta—West Virginia

TWENTY PLEDGES TAKE PINS

Gamma Delta Chapter just completed one of its most successful rushing seasons and is now sporting a new pledge class of twenty men. Rush parties were held in Fairmont, Clarksburg, and Morgantown, well attended by actives from all sections of the state.

ADVANCE IN MILITARY COMMAND

This year has started out very well for members of Delta Tau Delta at Morgantown. The highest honors yet to fall on members of the Shelter come from the military side of school life. James Carrier, president of Gamma Delta, is lieutenant colonel of the Air R.O.T.C. at W.V.U. Harry Miller is lieutenant colonel of the R.O.T.C. as well as being elected captain of Scabbard and Blade, R.O.T.C. honorary. Al Ware is colonel of R.O.T.C.

Robert Mall was recently pledged to Fi Batar Cappar, mock honorary on W.V.U. campus.

William Teders is Gamma Delta's entry on a new W.V.U. swimming team and stands a good chance of pulling down a regular position on it.

Gamma Zeta—Wesleyan

PLEDGES STAND OUT ON CAMPUS

Gamma Zeta brothers returned this year to a house gleaming white from a summer paint job. Perhaps this factor helped influence the frosh, for the local chapter maintained its high caliber with a fine pledge class.

Harry Barr and Bob Moore have made places for themselves on the frosh football squad. Charles Hume is on the soccer team, and the first issue of the Wesleyan Argus, run by Chapter President Don Porter, sported a front-page article by Ed Konopka, '55.

SCORES TD AGAINST MIDDLEBURY

Every freshman has joined some extra-curricular activity. As for the brothers, all are active. Brother Eggers, Gamma Zeta's gift to Wesleyan's backfield, started off the season with a bang, scoring a TD in Wesleyan's victory over Middlebury. Reinforcing Russ on the squad are several other Deltas: Bob Brown, Jim Trumbauer, and the Wesleyan track captain, George MacIver, turned halfback.

CLARINETIST JOINS DELT BAND

Frosh Clarinetist Dave Rich joins Charles Hoyt and Jim Plimpton in keeping Wesleyan's jazz band in the Delta Tau fold. The band, organized by Deltas here some three years ago, plans an extensive program this year.

Fall brings elections, and this year the Deltas placed their president, Don Porter, on the list for senior class secretary in the opening political campaign.

EXTEND PARTICIPATION IN PUBLICATIONS

In the publications field, the Deltas as usual retain control of the Argus, under Don, and have worked their way into the yearbook under the leadership of "Scroggs" Nelson, business manager. Gamma Zeta also claims the poet laureate of the Cardinal, Wesleyan's literary magazine, in Fred Wandall.

WESU, Wesleyan radio, claims Brothers Fred Trevithick, Bill Arndt, and Charles Hoyt. A Wesleyan production, "The Taming of the Shrew," features Deltas Hoyt and Fisher in leading roles.

Gamma Eta—George Washington

PLEDGES CONSIDERED LUCKY

Gamma Eta Chapter at The George Washington University, Washington, D. C., conducted a very successful rush campaign again this year. With our Shelter completely renovated, Rush Chairman George Dowd, assisted by the hand-shaking, multi-conversationalist chapter, was able to convince over a dozen of GW's best "rushmen" that Delta Tau Delta is the Fraternity to which they should pledge. And since the chapter was looking only for the best Delt material, our new pledges considered themselves extremely fortunate to have been chosen by us to wear the square, four-starred pledge badge. At the moment, Brother Tom Potter, pledge trainer, is busy instructing these men in accordance with The Delt Development Program.

EMPHASIS ON SCHOLARSHIP

With a great possibility of capturing the Scholarship Cup this year, the chapter has united wholeheartedly behind Chairman Tom Farley of the Scholarship Committee. Study hours being the order of the day, the entire chapter has really buckled down to some hard work, both individually and collectively. The pledges are also being given the best in tutoring in any subject in which they are having even a trace of difficulty. At this stage, things in this realm look as if the hard work is paying off; and, although we hate to be too optimistic, we expect to see the results of the semester finals better than ever.

MISS CRICHTON, DELTA QUEEN

A special fall election became necessary this year when Chapter President Charlie Crichton, who had done a bang-up job in this capacity for the past eight months, found it essential to resign because of added responsibilities, when his wife presented him with a daughter. Already the chapter has unofficially elected Charlie's daughter as its "Delt Queen."

Succeeding Charlie in the presidency is Frank Antonelli, recently released from the Air Force after a year's service. Gene Sabol was elected as corresponding secretary, while Fred Warder was elected IFC chairman and delegate.

Gamma Iota—Texas

AFTER RUSHING, SCHOLASTIC GOALS

Rush week proved to be an encouraging preview of the activities and accomplishments which are in store for Gamma Iota for the 1951-52 school year. Under the sterling leadership of Charles Cusenbary, rush captain, and his rush committee, the Deltas pledged 22 of the most heavily rushed men entering the University of Texas.

Our social activities began immediately after rush week. With the start of classes, however, we turned to more serious thoughts in hopes that we can maintain our two-year-old position as the top major fraternity in scholarship on the campus.

REUNION WITH DELTA ALPHA

Highlighting the September social calendar was our big monthly party in the house, "A Night in Paris," to which everyone came in appropriate Parisian attire. The Shelter was completely decorated, inside and out, to add to the atmosphere which was made complete by an eight-piece band. In October another bonanza function was held in Dallas, Texas, after the Texas-Oklahoma game, where more than one hundred Delt couples assembled in a private reunion with Delta Alpha.

SEEK THIRD ALL-IM TROPHY

With touch football well under way, Gamma Iota is off to a blazing start and the Deltas have been proclaimed the team to beat in both the "A" and "B" leagues. Paul Mohr, captain of the "A" team, amazed 400 spectators with his sensational pass snatching, which included three touchdown passes that led the Deltas to a 19-18 victory over the Kappa Sigs, the preseason favorites. Gamma Iota intends to make a strong bid for the All-Intramural Trophy, which we have won twice during the past five years.

THREE LONGHORN DIAMOND STARS

On the Longhorn baseball team the Deltas are well represented by First Baseman Paul Mohr, Centerfielder Travis Eckert, and Catcher Conrad Werkenthin. Paul Mohr is also a standout on the Longhorn basketball team. Other varsity athletes include Billy Penn, golf; Bill Bonham and Mike Welsh, tennis; Gwynn Teague, track; and Fonse Ragland, swimming.

Under the able leadership of Sam Boswell, the Delt songsters have practiced hard and often to give newly-pinned Deltas and sorority girls a real treat with serenades that are better than ever. Preparation is already under way for the annual Fraternity Sing-Song, as we attempt to outshine our last year's first-place performance.

Gamma Lambda—Purdue

BIG YEAR AHEAD

We all returned after a swell summer vacation to begin a great year. During rush week we inducted ten new pledges. We expect a lot out of these boys during the next few years.

After rush subsided, we started the fall semester's activities off with serenades and preparations for Homecoming. We expect many alums and Wisconsin Deltas to be present during the Homecoming tussle with the Badgers. The Shelter is in tip-top shape after last year's decorations, and we plan on showing it off all year. Recently we fell heir to a 60-foot T.V. tower, and shortly after the semester started we had a tower raising ceremony.

TAPPED BY CAMPUS HONORARIES

Phil Leisinger was the first of the brothers to be tapped by the campus honoraries. Phil is now carrying Pi Tau Sigma pledge equipment. Jack Langston was next when he was invited into Sigma Delta Chi.

Gamma Nu—Maine

FULL SPEED AHEAD

A month of classes already lies behind us and, needless to say, the Maine Deltas are going at full speed. Classes, athletics, clubs, ball games, and parties make it a problem for the brothers and pledges to find a moment to themselves.

HOPE FOR HOUSEMOTHER'S RECOVERY TO GOOD HEALTH

Mrs. Lester Cowan, our beloved housemother for the past five years, was not able to return to us at the Shelter this fall because of ill health. We miss her greatly and hope that she will soon recover.

BUFFET SUPPERS HIGHLIGHT FOOTBALL SEASON

The after-the-game buffet suppers at the Delt house are one of the highlights of the football season. The abundant food and hot coffee account for making 80 or 90 people happy after a cold afternoon in the grandstand. Singing, dancing, and skits follow in the Pine Room.

SHELTER SPORTS NEW PAINT JOB

The Shelter should shine at homecoming. The house was painted last summer, and six tons of asphalt were laid for a new front walk. There are also many smaller jobs to keep Brother Parsons, our house and grounds chairman, busy.

NEW HOUSEMOTHER CHOSEN

We have chosen Mrs. Helen Meeks as our new housemother. Her charm and warm friendliness help brighten our hours in the Shelter.

Gamma Omicron—Syracuse

The fall weather was unusually good at Syracuse. And so was everything at our niche on College Place.

Despite a smaller class, nearly 50 freshmen turned out for the first night of rushing. When rushing ended, we had pledged 12 men—11 being freshmen.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS

Salmagundi . . . the Shelter was vacated on September 29 while we took in the Orange-Cornell game at Ithaca . . . three Illinois Delts flew in to see the Syracuse-Illini game . . . we again had intramural teams . . . Syd Walker was elected president of the junior class in forestry . . . Dave Leone took over as chairman of USP, a campus political party.

ALUMS AWED BY CHANGES IN SHELTER

When the alums swarmed into the Shelter after the Colgate game, they were awed by changes in the house. One thousand dollars were invested in new furnishings in the living room. The outside was repainted in the traditional white. Study rooms were completely re-decorated. The alums all agreed, "The house looks great."

Gamma Pi—Iowa State

CHAPTER RECEIVES HONORABLE MENTION

Homecoming at Iowa State was a tremendous success this year and as usual the Delts did more than their share to make it so. In the first place, we won the football game in an impressive manner and Delt Bill Byrus, playing the entire defensive game, made a fine showing at defensive tackle. The competition was very keen in the homecoming decorations this year but Gamma Pi came through with a strong honorable mention. In the annual pajama relays held during the homecoming pep barbeque, two Delt teams representing Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Delta sororities came in first and second respectively in the finals, both winning their own heat. The winning team consisted of Don Volpp, Dale Chrysler, Jerry Wayt, and Wayne Kempter. Jack Faulkner was ticket chairman of the homecoming dances, while Bruce Kirpatrick was in charge of the decorations for the Harvest Ball, the agricultural divisional dance, this year.

ALUMNI BANQUET HELD

Many alumni came back to the Shelter October 21, for our alumni banquet. Martin Dickinson was the principal speaker. At this banquet, plans for building a new house were discussed.

NEW PLEDGE CLASS CHOSEN

Rush week was a success at Gamma Pi this year. Eighteen new men were pledged to go along with six hold-over pledges. The pledge class appears to be one of the finest in recent years, and everyone at Gamma Pi is looking forward to a very successful year.

Gamma Rho—Oregon

EARNEST RUSHING CAMPAIGN

An earnest rushing program has been under way at Gamma Rho. The campaign got going this summer in Portland when a rush party was given for freshmen and transfers. The new University of Oregon ruling on deferred rushing for freshmen prevents contact with them during school until January, however.

RAIN HAMPERS TEAM'S SPEED

The rugged Gamma Rho intramural football team won all but one of its games this season. Rain reduced the playing fields to quagmires, hampering Gamma Rho's speedy backfield and hard charging line. Now with the "mud-bowl" series over, Gamma Rho turns to volleyball with a promising group of over six-footers. Towering Eric Beerman is destined to see lots of action close to the net. Bud Anderson, last year's championship team captain, was called into the Navy. Although his absence will be a handicap, this year's team promises to keep up the championship tradition of Gamma Rho's volleyball teams. Ralph Gazely, the new captain, has scheduled several practices before taking on the first foe, Lambda Chi Alpha. The winter sports season will be topped off by an intramural basketball series.

MANY PARTIES HIGHLIGHT SOCIAL SEASON

Fall term social activities started with a bang the first week of school with the traditional football parties for Delts and their dates. Due to this term's heavy social load, the usual fall term house dance has been scheduled for winter term. The underprivileged children in the Eugene area are due for a treat this halloween. The I.F.C. last year innovated a plan whereby each house on campus has a party for the kids complete with games and refreshments. Actives and pledges are looking forward to the festivities which will probably become an annual affair.

Gamma Sigma—Pittsburgh

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM INSTALLED

A safer Shelter for Gamma Sigma was made possible by the installation of a fire alarm system throughout the house and a complete rewiring job. We were able to complete this necessary $2,000 improvement through the efforts of our ever helpful alumni. We are indeed indebted to these men. The chapter pitched in to complete a face lifting job on the Shelter in time for rushing. The artistically decorated rooms made quite an impression on the rushees.

TWO TRANSFER SERVICES FROM MARINES TO FOOTBALL

Paul Chess and Neil Huffman returned to aid Pitt in its football campaign this season after serving a year each in the Marine Corps. Bill Fairbanks invited the entire chapter to his home after the Pitt-Duke game. We were privileged to have several Duke Delts as our guests for the day and evening.

TV PURCHASED

Through the efforts of Dave Burns and his father we purchased a lovely television set for the living room. We also installed a new radio and phonograph with an amplifier to send the sound into speakers in various rooms of the house.

BAR-B-CUE HIGHLIGHTS RUSH

Rushing was a great success this semester. The tea dance with Chi Omega and Kappa Alpha Theta sororities added much to our program, as did Parents' Night with Marcus Follansbee, president of Follansbee Steel Corporation, as the speaker. The nicest event during rushing was, without a doubt, the "Bar-B-Cue," held on a large ranch about 40 miles outside of Pittsburgh. We had a wonderful chicken dinner followed by entertainment consisting of a singer, a hypnotist, and group singing. The climax of the evening was a flaming $\Delta T \Delta$ on the hillside while we sang "Delta Shelter."

Latest view of Oregon's picturesque Delta Shelter.

"DELT HANDBOOK"

With Don Bravin as assistant editor of the interfraternity handbook this year, the handbook is now known unofficially as the "Delt Handbook." Seems that somehow most of the pictures were of Delts. Just a coincidence!

We're once again planning our annual Christmas party for the orphans. We hope it will be as successful as last year.

Gamma Tau—Kansas

FALL SEMESTER OPENS WITH FLURRY OF ACTIVITIES

The fall term at Kansas began with a very successful rush week, which resulted in the pledging of twenty-one aspiring young men. The pledges received their first formal introduction to the "Hill" by means of the traditional yell-in. Two hundred and fifty sorority girls gathered around the house for the ceremony, which was followed by a short "get acquainted" session.

The first house party of the year was on October 20, when the pledges presented their annual paddle party. The theme was western, and appropriately decorated by the pledges. The basement dining room was styled in the fashion of an old western bar, and cider was served.

DELTS ON GRIDIRON

Once again the Gamma Tau's are well represented on the football field. Joe Fink, the sophomore from Oxford, has done an outstanding line-backing job for the varsity thus far. Cal Bender, Charlie Lane, Dean Ragon, John Johnston, and Dick McDonald have all played well for the "B" team, and the outlook for next year shows the varsity well sprinkled with Delts.

Turning to intramural athletics, the "A" team is off to a fine start with two thrilling overtime victories in two outings, and hopefully eyeing further laurels.

DELTS AID FLOOD CLEANUP

On a cold, rainy Saturday morning early in October the Delts turned out in mass to aid cleaning up the flood-devastated town of Lawrence. Despite the weather, the chapter worked the entire day, shoveling mud, and salvaging parts of houses. Gamma Tau's contribution didn't end with this day's work, however, as it will give the money normally used for homecoming decorations to the fund for needy families.

Gamma Chi—Kansas State

PLEDGE TWENTY

We started this year off with a bang by pledging 20 men. They are from all parts of the state and promise to be one of the best pledge classes on the hill this year. They are: O. S. Gossard, Wichita; Bob Taber, Kansas City, Mo.; Sam Hawes, Wichita; Phil Deihl, Wichita; Larry Sankey, Sterling; Eldon Moore, Elkhart; Ron Grittman, Glasco; Gene Pollick, Hazelton; Jim Limes, Springfield, Mo.; Don Gadbery, Emporia; E. G. Davis, Abilene; Eddy Gillette, Wichita; Dick Thompson, Topeka; Doug Heath, Peabody; Charles Imthurn, Paxico; George Hoover, Manhattan; Dale Coolidge, Manhattan; Don Ayers, Webster Groves, Mo.; Joe Rainman, Wichita; and Beuford Crick, Wichita.

TWO PLEDGES PLAY VARSITY

Beuford Crick and Joe Rainman, both new pledges this year, are playing varsity football for the Wildcats. Since they are freshmen they have not seen much action, but are potential greats for the football team. Dick Thompson and Charles Imthurn are practicing with the freshman basketball team, and one of them may take the place of John "Hoot" Gibson next year. So far this year Gamma Chi has won its division in football.

PLAY FOR FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

The Delts here at K-State have been active in intramurals this year. So far Gamma Chi has placed fifth in golf and at the time of this article we are playing for the championship in football. Horse shoes and handball have both just started, but we have hopes of going far.

Gamma Psi—Georgia Tech

NEW FACES AROUND SHELTER

Rush season at Georgia Tech is once again over and there are many new faces to be seen around the house. As in past seasons, rushing lasted three hectic weeks, climaxed by Pledge Night on October 8. This year, six big parties were thrown for the entertainment of the rushees. We opened with a western party on our newly completed terrace. Ten-gallon hats, jeans and six guns were the dress for the night. Though there were many gun fights throughout the night, the sheriff kept things under control and all survived to enjoy a house dance given the next night.

The next week end the terrace was turned into a deserted isle and all swam ashore in various stages of dress and undress to enjoy a shipwreck party. Tiring of the terrace for the moment we journeyed away from the Shelter the next night for a hayride and barn dance, a good old southern custom.

ELEVEN PLEDGES

Of course, the high light of rush season was Pledge Night in which eleven new men pledged Delt. Together with this summer's pledges, and the ones held over from last year, we now have a total of 29. These men, together with 56 actives, give us one of the largest chapters on the Tech campus.

PLEDGE TRAINING STARTED

Under the capable direction of Brother Lane Phillips, pledge training is already under way. Following The Delt Development Program, he is instructing them in the ways of a good Delt. Among other things, he has instituted the policy of compulsory attendance at all chapter functions and events, individual work assignments, and a pledge class project. With the help of the pledges' big brothers and the chapter as a whole, he should turn out a fine group of Delt.

BOSWELL NAMED EDITOR

Our chapter president, Blount Boswell, has been named editor in chief of the Blueprint, our school annual. Following a long line of Delt to the post, he has worked his way up from fraternity editor to managing editor to editor in chief. Besides being active on the Blueprint and in the chapter, Blount is a member of various other campus organizations such as the Rambling Reck Club, Bulldog Club, and the I.F.C.

Delta Alpha—Oklahoma

DELTS SCOOP IN RUSH

Delta Alpha has gotten off to a fast start in this 1951-52 school year, scooping the fraternities on campus by choosing a 26-man pledge class from the barely completed rush on the University campus.

STRIVE FOR GRIDIRON CHAMPIONSHIP

Besides the fine pledge class, Delta Alpha has given all foes on the gridiron indications that it has intentions of coping the intramural football championship this year. Delt romped past Sequoyah Indian club 27-0 in the first game of the season, then proceeded to trounce Kappa Sigma 14-0 in the second encounter.

SEVERAL DRILL WITH R.O.T.C.

Military training seems to be the keynote for Delta Alpha this year, with the majority of the men on the drill field (ROTC) holding down some command positions. Brothers Pat Williams and Ralph Beaton have been appointed Cadet Colonels for the Air Force drills, while Cadet Lt. Col. A. T. Stair is but one grade down. Paul Mindeman, Charles Deupree, Joe Norton, and Phil Wettenge have received appointments as Cadet Majors in the Air Force and Bill Bates has received his Majority in the artillery.

Delta Beta—Carnegie Tech

RUSHING

A slight variation from rush programs of previous years made the difficult task of choosing good men interesting and created a feeling of competition among the brothers of the Delta Beta Chapter. Date parties, picnics, and smokers eased any tension that may have been forged during the rushing period. The end of the two-week party period found the chapter with 15 new men.

CHAPTER ACTIVITIES

Another successful season in intramural sports is foreseen by the Tech Delt, as a perfect football record has been maintained to date. The loss of previous stars has been overcome by the increasing team spirit; however, the interest in sports has not interfered with the social functions, as the Delt impressed many of the freshmen girls with the annual Freshman Tea.

SCHOLARSHIP

Carnegie's chapter of Delta Tau Delta has established a scholarship fund for the year 1951-52 to be given to a freshman man for the second semester of the school year. The scholarship, which carries a stipend of $300.00, is to be given prior to or during the registration period of the second semester.

FRESHMAN OFFICERS

Two Delt pledges apparently have the offices of president and treasurer of the freshman class sewed up, as the entire chapter backed them to build one of the largest campaigns ever displayed by a freshman. The politicians are: president, Donald R. Weik, and treasurer, Thomas D. Sutton.

RANK SECOND IN SCHOLARSHIP

Last year, Delta Gamma wound up second in scholarship among all national fraternities on the campus, although it was a virtual tie for first place. Our average was well above the All Men's Average here at the University. Our scholarship chairman, Roger Cheatham, can see no reason why we shouldn't be on top by ourselves this year, and we will be striving hard to reach that goal.

CHAPTER PROVIDES QUALITY FOR GRIDIRON

Quality instead of quantity was Delta Gamma's contribution to SDU's 1951 football squad. Mike Hooker, Mark Eixenberger, and Duane Brunick were varsity squad members. Mike was a four-year veteran who played regular guard on the defensive platoon. Brother Mark, who is ordinarily a sixty-minute fullback, was hampered by injuries and played mostly offense last fall. Duane was a front-line reserve, who saw a lot of action at end. The armed forces has the services of two Delt who were slated for a lot of action this year. Dennis Ortman, a fast-stepping halfback, is in the Air Force, and the Navy has Ronnie Graham, a pass-grabbing end who led the team in scoring last year.

Delta Delta—Tennessee

SEVERAL NAMED TO HONORARIES

Several of our brothers have received various honors around the campus. Brother Tom Woodard was elected president of the Nahheeyayli Board. Brother Hank Hancock was tapped to ODK. Brother Lynn Seiber is president of ODK and also editor of the Tennessee Saw Review. Brother R. E. Lee, retiring editor of the Orange and White, was named the outstanding business administration graduate.

RUSH TO BE ACCENTUATED

Delta Delta started off with a bang during rush week. Our active chapter was reduced in numbers by graduation last spring, but we pledged a good bunch of men this fall. We are continuing to accentuate rushing throughout the year.

NEW OFFICERS

Our officers at the start of this year are as follows: president, Cletus McWilliams; treasurer, Gay Holloway; steward, Hugh Gregory; recording secretary, Fred Kitts; corresponding secretary, H. D. Swanson.

HIGH SCHOLARSHIP STANDING

Scholastically, the Delt stand high on the campus. Their average is above both the All Men's Average and the All Fraternity Average.

Delta Epsilon—Kentucky

CHAPTER CHORUS SINGS FOR FRESHMEN

The University of Kentucky asked the chorus of Delta Epsilon to sing for the freshmen during orientation week. The chorus, winners of the all-campus sing last spring, did a fine job and were well commended by campus officials. The freshmen were also greatly appreciative of the singing and passed many compliments on to the boys at the Shelter. Our director, Jimmy Woodward, is doing a fine job, and we are looking forward to his bringing us home another all-campus sing trophy this coming spring.

LOOK FOR GREAT DEEDS FROM PLEDGES

Delayed rush is over at the University, and we are glad. The pledge date was noon on September 21. At that time we put the golden square on 22 fine boys. This pledge class is well loaded with ability and talent, and the active chapter is looking forward to great deeds from them. Our pledge masters, Tommy Burke and Dave Woodhead, along with the fine group of pledge officers, are preparing the boys for a fruitful life.

DELTS STAND HIGH IN SCHOLARSHIP

The University has just issued the scholarship standings for the spring semester of last year. Delta Epsilon is in second place of the 21 fraternities on the campus. We ended up with an over-all standing of 1.63 as compared to the All Men's Average of about 1.39 and the All Fraternity Average of 1.34. We are proud of this and are looking forward to continued success in this field. Both actives and pledges are striving to raise their marks so we can reach the top.

MANY ACTIVITIES AT SHELTER

Several other activities are now going on around the Shelter. We are in the midst of the touch football season, we are preparing our skit for Lances Carnival (which we have won for the last two years), we have scheduled a party for all sorority pledges next week, and our fall serenade is soon coming up. We also are now initiating our holdover pledges, so you can see that the next few weeks will be busy ones.

Delta Eta—Alabama

TWENTY-THREE PLEDGED

Delta Eta's rush week was the most successful since prewar days, with the pledging of 23 men. Rush week lasted for one week with parties, dance bands, and skits filling the Shelter every night. The annual campus serenade of new sorority pledges in front of each sorority house proved a success. The Delts mimicked the recent movie, "Take Care of My Little Girl," to the letter, bringing delight and squeals from the girls. Photographers from the Birmingham News were on hand to give the event state-wide publicity.

DELTS FAVORED TO WIN

The Delt's touch football team got off to a roaring start with a win over Phi Delta Theta. The Delts are favored to win their league's championship and go into the finals. Tony Cox, Trussville, Alabama, won the summer singles tennis championship.

SCHOLARSHIP IS CLIMBING

Alabama Delts are proud of the fact that their scholarship rating has gone way up. Last year's total average put the Delts fourth of 26 fraternities. This is way above the All Men's Average, and a far cry from our 23rd finish the year before.

This year we are shooting for first place.

Delta Iota—U.C.L.A.

FIFTEEN PLEDGED

Delta Iota got off to a fast start this fall by pledging 15 men within the first week of school. It was one of the most successful rush seasons in years, mainly because of the hard work of Malcolm Riley, rush chairman, and the rush committee.

SOCIAL CALENDAR SET

The social calendar was already well filled with several exchanges and parties planned. The initiation of last spring's pledges was scheduled to take place on Friday, October 19, with a formal dance climaxing the ceremonies of Saturday night. A parents' dinner was planned for early fall as a means of acquainting the mothers and fathers with the chapter and its members. A majority of the mothers are already active in the Mothers' Club, which has aided greatly in keeping the house in good condition. Don Black, social chairman, also announced dates of several other social functions including the Delt Dee Gee Ball, an annual formal dance.

HOPE TO RETAIN ATHLETIC CHAMPIONSHIP

Our football team began a successful defense of last year's interfraternity athletic championship by winning its first two games. The team appeared to be considerably stronger than the one of last year. The prospects of recapturing the trophy are promising due to the addition of several good pledges to a nucleus of older actives. The Delts were well represented on the intercollegiate athletic scene in both football and water polo, the two major current sports. In football, Gayle Pace entered his second season as first-string center, while Burt Tibbs saw action at guard. In water polo, Captain John Chandler, Larry Ball, Jerry Ladhoff, and Pledge Bill Zerkie dominated the team which was one of the strongest in years.

Delta Kappa—Duke

ANNUAL BALL CLIMAXES SOCIAL SEASON

Delta Kappa climaxed its spring social season with the annual Queen dance, which has become a tradition on the campus as well as in the Fraternity. The ball held at Harvey's Banquet Hall was preceded by a turkey dinner. Miss Faye Evans of Lexington, N. C., was crowned Delta Queen to reign for the coming year.

In the election of chapter officers last April, Dick Kime was named president. Dick, a Phi Beta, is a senior from Scarsdale, N. Y. Chosen to serve with him were Phil Murkett, vice-president; Bill Scott, treasurer; Bill Rogers, corresponding secretary; and Pete Waldrop, recording secretary.

RETURN TO GRADUATE SCHOOL

Back with us in graduate school are Mark Biddison, son of the fabulous New York millionaire; Donald Farinella of the Passaic Farinellas; and Frank Chamberlin of Duke University Medical School fame.

ALUMNI VISIT

A number of alumni have revisited us in the past weeks. Among them are ex-prexy Bob Silket, '51, Frank Allen, '51, Tom Keewan, '49.

FOOTBALL TEAM STRIVES FOR SUPREMACY

Delta Kappa looks forward to another illustrious season in intramural athletics after adding nine trophies to its collection in the past year. The intramural football team, runner-up in last year's struggle for gridiron supremacy, although considerably weakened by graduation, again shows promise of being a sports power with the help of several sophomores.

Delta Lambda—Oregon State

CHAPTER RECEIVES PUBLICITY

Oregon State's Delt chapter received some coast-to-coast publicity over the American Broadcasting Company when a phone call was placed from the Corvallis Shelter to the sports announcer of the Oregon State-Michigan State football game at East Lansing, Michigan. While on the air, the announcer corrected his pronunciation of Oregon and gave a plug to the OSC chapter for its thoughtfulness.

ACTIVE ON CAMPUS

Neil Wissing, '53, has been prominent on campus as sports editor and as a member of the editorial board of the OSC Daily Barometer as well as belonging to Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism honorary. Another active journalist in the chapter is Jim Fisher, '54, who is sports editor of the college annual, and assistant sports editor of the Barometer. Bob Feldcamp, '52, was selected to be one of seven representatives of Oregon

Pledge class, Delta Eta Chapter, Alabama.

State to fly to Denver for a Pershing Rifle convention. Feldcamp was also co-chairman of freshman orientation week and is treasurer of the senior class. Other active Deltas include: Bill Sundstrom, numeral winner in golf and student senate parliamentarian; Dave Schmidt, tackle on the varsity football team; Bill Kessinger, varsity golfer; and Jack Peterson, ace 440 man on the varsity track team.

SHELTER BOASTS SIXTEEN PLEDGES

The newly decorated Shelter boasts 16 new pledges, all of whom are exceptionally active in athletics, scholarship, and activities.

Congratulations are in order for Dave Mass and Don Guinn, who are members of Phi Eta Sigma, national scholastic honorary.

Delta Mu—Idaho

ENROLLMENT INCREASED BY TWENTY

The scurry of rush week has died down and the men of Delta Mu have settled down to the routine of campus life and studying. Delt enrollment increased by twenty new faces and twenty fresh ideas as men were pledged from all over the state.

AUSTRIAN EXCHANGE STUDENT IS REGULAR "JOE"

Austria has become more familiar to Deltas this fall after talks with Otto Seka, our new exchange student from Graz, Austria. Otto, a business major, proved himself a regular Joe at once and is picking up college customs surprisingly fast.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Summer marriage vows removed our house prexy, Bryan Lawrence, and vice-president, Elmer Peterson. At a recent house election, Dick Moore was elected to take the reins, with Jim Roupe as assistant. Dick, a prenent major, has been very active in both fraternity and campus work. Last year he served as the I.F.C. representative for the house. Jim is active in journalism and is known as a man who can get things done.

TRY FOR ATHLETIC CHAMPIONSHIPS

Putting aside the books for relaxation and the hope of another intramural trophy, Delta Mu men have been booting the pigskin. Also, Racket Masters Bob Rowles, Francis Shultz, and Max Nunenkamp are trying for another tennis championship.

ACTIVE IN CAMPUS POLITICS

Idaho Deltas are taking an active part in campus politics, as many of our brothers have moved into key positions this year. Joe Corless and Roland Wilde claim editorships on the Idaho yearbook. Bob Foley serves double duty on both the N.S.A. board and service council. Last year's sophomore class president, Pat Duffy, holds a chair on the campus executive board. Brother Dave Lau was also appointed to the student recruitment program. Recently initiated into the Intercollegiate Knights were Rich Orme and Bernard York. Jim Broyles was newly appointed to the student union committee. Elected as vice-president of the Associated Mechanical Engineers was Buster Francis. Also, Elmer Peterson was elected vice-president of the Associated Civil Engineers.

Brother Tom Hennessey copped top honors on the Idaho cattle judging team at the Pacific International judging contest recently held in Portland.

ALL TURN OUT FOR FALL EVENTS

"King for an Evening," was the novel theme of the pledge dance, October 13. Pledges were pictured as contestants on a quiz program. The pledge having the saddest story was picked as winner. Comic advertisements set up the atmosphere for one of the best dances of the fall.

All members turned out this fall to help in a face lifting of the Shelter. Rooms were repainted and new furniture purchased in getting the house ready for another year's work.

Delta Omicron—Westminster

LARGEST PLEDGE CLASS IN HISTORY

Delta Omicron Chapter is again looking forward to a highly successful year. Besides having twenty-four actives returning to the Shelter, we pledged twenty-two top men, who should help us to win honors in all fields. We have not only the largest pledge class on the campus, but the largest in our illustrious twelve-year history.

SEEK SECOND STRAIGHT SPORTS SUPREMACY CROWN

As the smoke cleared away from the fall sports field, we found ourselves the victims of more than our share of upsets. In softball, although rated a top contender for the crown, we finished in fourth place due to two one-run upsets and inconsistency on the mound. We had to be content with a tie for first in golf, because we were defeated in the last match by one stroke. In tennis, a mid-season loss dropped us from first place to second in the final standings; however, prospects for coming sports look good, and with a little luck we could win the Athletic-Supremacy trophy again.

PROMINENT IN CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Tom Shields, student body president, was recently elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Tom is also a member of ODK. We have three of the brothers in Phi Rho Epsilon; Bill McCue, Tom Shields, and Glen Gore. Brother Shields is also a member of Phi Delta Epsilon along with the newly initiated Vint Gay and Allen Oakley.

On the Bluejay, the school annual, we have Bill McCue, sports editor, and Dick Smith, photography editor. Ken Whitehead was elected secretary of the W-Club, local letterman's club.

INTEREST TO ALUMNI

Delta Omicron Chapter held its annual Pledge Formal Saturday, October

27, and many old grads were present. Among these were Moose Duncan and Earl O'Rourke. Moose and Earl are presently in the service of Uncle Sam. The alumni party preceding the dance was a gala affair.

Delta Pi—U.S.C.

MOTHERS' CLUB DECORATES SHELTER

Delta Pi at the University of Southern California is in the midst of a busy fall season. Eighteen pledges are on their journey toward "Delthood." They will be cleaning up a living room this year newly decorated by our Mothers' Club, with bright red leather upholstery and gleaming mahogany walls. A new five-stall shower and drying room appeared on the second deck over the summer. We hope this one will not leak.

ACTIVE IN SPORTS

Looking forward to the Olympics in 1952 are three brothers of Delta Pi. Monroe Clark will represent us with skis and poles, Al Gilchrist of Canada will swim, and John McCormack will dive. Incidentally, you will read on the sports page about Tom Nickoloff, Trojan end. This boy is playing first-string ball during his sophomore year, and we're betting on All American before he graduates. By the time this makes the press, we hope to have our third sweepstakes trophy for the best homecoming float. Engineers Al Schinnerer and Jerry Hosack are hard at work on it. We all enjoy watching Hugh Stewart ready himself for next year's national net tourney on our tennis court. We hope that Pledge Al Call will follow in his footsteps. Outstanding again this year on the Southern Cal basketball squad are Dick Davies and Ken Flower. May they spark us to a victorious season!

SCHOLARSHIP IS SOARING

Believe it or not, with all this activity talk our grade average is soaring upward. President Howard Sturgeon wields a mighty gavel in the enforcement of study hours. With nearly the whole house in either the Naval ROTC or the Air ROTC, we have to study.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY PLANNED

Christmas presses and we again plan our soiree with the boys from the local orphanage. Christmas should have been so good for us!

May we leave you with our sincere and hearty wishes for a joyous Christmas and a great New Year for all Delt brothers.

Delta Tau—Bowling Green

ELECTED TO OFFICES

Following in the footsteps of two of his brothers, Al Iandolo took over the job as editor of the Eyas, student literary magazine. Last year, Al was business manager. Al was also elected guide and Bill Baddaker was elected corresponding secretary of the chapter.

New pledges of Delta Chi Chapter at Oklahoma A. & M. pose with their housemother.

FUND SET UP

Brother Bill Leakas, in an effort to help prospective pledges along financially, has set up a fund of $57.50 to help defray expenses. Brother Bill is now serving in the Marine Corps at Quantico, Va.

Brother Jack Taylor is serving as student university social chairman again this year.

KING PUFF FOR SECOND TIME

King Puff, King of the Alpha Xi Delta-Delta Gamma football game, was Brother Jack Ross. This makes two years in a row that Deltas have been King Puff. Lou Haubner was king last year.

DELTS RUN CAMPUS VARIETY SHOW

The campus variety show this year was run by Deltas. Ron Lauber was M.C. The Delt Trio composed of Dick Soluri, Bill Baddaker, and Ron Lauber played several numbers. Jack Taylor was in charge of the production.

IN CHARGE OF CAMPUS PROGRAM

Joe Dick, Jack Taylor, and Mike Ryan were in charge of the Distribution Education Program here at B.G. The tours were led by Deltas. Jack served as M.C. at the banquet and the Delt combo played.

Delta Upsilon—Delaware

CHAPTER MIXES SCHOLASTIC AND SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

With the school year now well under way, Delta Upsilon Chapter has gotten off to a good start, successfully mixing social and scholastic activities. The Shelter underwent extensive painting, both inside and out, as well as acquiring new wallpaper. The general improvement in the looks of the house was a great help and factor during rushing, which was held about two months earlier this year than in the past. Keeping a constant eye on our goal of retiring the interfraternity scholarship trophy (which must be won for three straight terms before permanent possession), the Delaware Deltas haven't neglected social functions either. Our social committee has so far done a top-notch job, staging a number of successful house parties. Plans are also rapidly nearing completion towards the formation of a Mothers' Club, which should add greatly to the interest of the brothers' parents and relatives in our Delta Upsilon Chapter.

ACTIVE IN SPORTS

The local Deltas are scattered throughout many phases of campus activity here at the University. Gene Wooten holds the responsible job of assistant manager of Commons Dining Hall, which serves about 350 students. Tom O'Donnell, this year's chapter prexy, and Jack Fairchild, collaborate each week in the writing of the social column for the Review, the college weekly. Other Deltas holding positions on the same publication are Glen Dill and Ted Sandstrom. In the field of sports, Delta Upsilon holds wide variety of membership among various athletic organizations. Tom Mulrooney plays on the tennis squad; John Kinnikin and Dorrance Barrell are stickhandlers on the Blue Hen lacrosse team; Dave Johnson captains the fencing team, with Bill Moore and Don Junghans active among his crew of fencers. Sherran Pepper possesses captaincy of the gymnastic squad. Jack Stowers, a transfer from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., who has now affiliated with our chapter, will be active on the Delaware basketball team.

GRADS IN SERVICE

A number of last year's graduating Deltas have been called into active military service. Frank Locke, Dick Burton, Clarence Harkness, George Conner, and Art Diver have all entered the colors. Diver, who was president of both the chapter and the senior class, received the honor in the June graduation of being the senior who contributed the most to the University of Delaware during his four years here.

DELTA RECEIVES FORD FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIP

Faculty brother, Dr. John Monroe, associate professor of history, has been awarded a Ford Foundation scholarship which will provide for a year's educational tour of various colleges in our western states.

Delta Phi—Florida State

SETS SCHOOL TRACK RECORD

Pledge Elwood Parker set new school track records in the mile and a component of the 440 relay team.

Two Pi Beta Phi's in the Delt spotlight are Mrs. Lambert, our housemother, who will move with us into our new home in December, and Queen Judy Ellis, our beautiful blonde from Orlando, who will represent us in the homecoming events this October.

Delta Chi—Oklahoma A. & M.

TWENTY FUTURE DELTS PLEDGED

Delta Chi of Delta Tau Delta made a streamlined bid for campus leadership by announcing the pledging of twenty future Deltas. Hats off to Bob Johnson, rush chairman, whose untiring efforts moved our rush program into high gear. Formal pledge ceremonies, conducted by Bill Parsons, scholarship chairman (sometimes referred to as the scholastic dictator), and Bob Johnson, social chairman, were held in the chapter yard. The stillness of the clear, autumn evening added to the impressiveness of the occasion.

STUDY ROOMS REDECORATED

Our sincerest thanks, this time, to the Tulsa alums, who generously and completely furnished and redecored our chapter study rooms. We also are looking forward to the completion of a patio and outdoor fire place in the back yard and an east sun porch and dance room. Only teamwork among the pledges

▲ THE DELTA ALUMNI CHAPTERS ▲

Akron

On May 16 a meeting was held in conjunction with Delta Omega Chapter at Kent State University. Future combined meetings will be held to conform with Founders Day Banquets at the time they are held by the Fraternity. The nominating committee submitted names for new officers of the alumni chapter.

On June 20 the alumni meeting was held at the Akron Leidertafel Club. Honored guest was Thad Rice, Eta (old Buchtel), '97, one of the few remaining members of this once grand old chapter.

Election of officers resulted in naming the following: Raymond Findley, Iowa, Akron attorney, president; W. Ward Davis, Kent, Ravenna attorney, vice-president; and Louis Carabelli, D.D.S., Kenyon, secretary-treasurer.

On September 20 monthly meetings were resumed. President Findley chose Walter Frye, Wooster, '09, chairman of the telephone committee; John Hart, Ohio State, reception committee; and Bob Stopher, Wabash, membership committee. Allen E. "Scotty" Brubaker, Illinois, with the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. Sales Department, gave a fine talk on "Sales Promotion Through Sales Traffic."

New Delts in the Akron area present at the meeting were: John R. Terhune, Indiana; Lynn H. Wilson, Ohio Wesleyan; Charles E. Jones, Wesleyan; and George Kuestner, Ohio Wesleyan.

News about the brothers: Walter Keith, M.I.T., president of the Hygienic Dental Manufacturing Company, as president for the last six years of the Akron Art Institute, carried out one of Akron's outstanding civic feats by directing and supervising the building of the Art Institute's permanent home. Warren E. Starnier, Western Reserve, '49, is now with International B. F. Goodrich Caribbean Company in San Juan, Porto Rico. William H. "Flip" Fleming, M.I.T., '16, general merchandising manager of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, was honored recently for completing 35 years with Goodyear. Fred Climer, Miami, '17, vice-president of Goodyear, made the presentation to Fleming.

R. H. Hendrick, Miami, manager of the Akron office of the Social Security Administration, was elected president of the Akron Lions Club. Dr. Charles Atkinson, Kent, registrar of that University, was elected president of the 43-man board of trustees of the Kent State United Christian Fellowship.

Tress Pittinger, Jr., Duke, '42, Akron attorney, recently became president of the East Akron Community House. Willis H. "Bid" Edmund, Ohio, '28, recreation director of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., presided over the convention of the National Industrial Recreation Association in Chicago last summer.

LOUIS P. CARABELLI

Ashtabula

Members of the Ashtabula County Alumni Chapter have had two very good meetings since the last chapter letter. On June 22 about twenty alumni members met at the Grand River Manor for a good dinner, with a song-fest following, led by our able song leader, Jack Cummins.

No meetings were held during the summer, but the fall season got under way with a dinner meeting at the Swallows, Thursday, October 4. A short business session followed the dinner.

In reviewing the alumni membership of Delta Tau Delta in this area at our October 4 meeting, we found that at least one of our members was in the service—Edward L. Sites of Geneva, Ohio, who was called back to Navy service as an officer.

Dick Regner has been recently elected president of the Ashtabula Kiwanis Club.

We are planning our next meeting somewhere around the holidays. We shall be in touch at a later date with all of the membership presently on our rosters regarding this meeting and would appreciate a call from any alumni members in this area whose names we do not have. We should like to increase the size and spirit of the meetings with the addition of any new alumni to our rolls.

C. L. HUGHES

Atlanta

For some time, the Atlanta Alumni Chapter has been wanting to perform some constructive service for the active Delt chapters in and around Atlanta. Last July it had its chance.

The alumni sponsored a rush function for the chapters at Georgia University, Emory University, and Georgia Tech. A buffet supper was held at the Ansley Park Golf Club at which actives from the three schools gathered with the alumni to honor boys who will attend college this year. The total number present came to 110, and a good time was had by all.

Featured on the program were three outstanding Delts living in Atlanta. Brother George Goodwin, a well-known reporter with the Atlanta Journal and winner of a Pulitzer prize for journalism in exposing the Telfair County vote fraud, spoke on his recent visit to the Far East. His subject was based on what the young men of this time may expect from the world situation and its effect on their education.

Following Brother Goodwin, Brother Ed Dodd, well-known cartoonist and creator of the comic strip, "Mark Trail," gave a series of humorous skits using a sketch pad.

The evening was concluded with an inspirational message from Brother Raimundo DeOvies, retired Episcopalian Dean and well-known humanitarian and writer.

The results of this function, we feel, are becoming evident. Favorable comment has been expressed by actives of all the chapters, and many of the rushees who attended will soon become good Delts.

The next alumni function to be held will be a party following the Tech-Duke game in December. This will be held at the Continental Dance Studio on Peachtree. This is an annual affair at which many Delts from out of town can meet and renew old friendships.

The Atlanta alumni have begun to feel the results of mobilization, and many of our active members have already left. However, new members are moving in, whom we hope to have as active participants in the near future.

L. P. LATHEM

Boise

The most active summer season in recent years was sparked by President Jack Haymond. After several meetings with more than average attendance, the climax came with the annual stag picnic.

"Wift" Janssen, who is news commentator on the local radio, is now in Boise, after several years "out in the sticks" in Caldwell. Second Lieutenant E. F. Avery, Texas, is based out at Mt. Home Air Base with the 580th ARC Wing. John Van Duesen's insurance office was burned out with Boise's biggest downtown fire. I understand he was well covered and used part of the proceeds to throw a "burned out" party.

Dr. Paul Poulson (1950 chapter president) is now established as the leading local dentist. We now have with us a former field secretary, Al Kiser. "Mark" Southworth resigned his position as manager of the Sawtooth Company to start his own business.

Every now and then we see Frank Bevington, now managing the Honstead Motor Company in Nampa; "Bevo" is active with the Army reserves and commands an ordnance truck battalion.

The old standbys to the chapter, besides the ones already mentioned, are Larry Thielke, Frank Chapman, Gene Hutteball, Jim Matthews, Jerry Evans, and Chick Donaldson. The "occasionals" are still around: Nathan Scott still in the Idaho Power Co. purchasing department; Chuck Urban with the Burroughs Adding Machine Co.; Ken Egbert with the Idaho Power Co. division office.

M. E. BURNE

Boston

Our Thursday luncheons have continued at Patten's on Court Street throughout the summer, but on a somewhat reduced scale due to vacations.

Many of our Boston Gamma Gamma alumni will be in attendance at Dartmouth on October 20, to celebrate the 50th birthday of Gamma Gamma Chapter, October 7, 1901. Fran Young, president of our Boston Alumni Chapter and also president of the Gamma Gamma House Corporation, will preside. Henry Merrill, Gamma Gamma, former vice-president of the Eastern Division and a member of the Distinguished Service Chapter, will trace the history of Gamma Gamma. National Vice-President Joel Reynolds, Beta Mu, will bring the greetings of the Arch Chapter of the national Fraternity.

Art Olive, Beta Mu, has been recalled to active duty with the U. S. Navy.

We extend a cordial invitation to all Delts in the Boston area to meet with us at our Thursday luncheons and to renew friendships and strengthen our fraternal bond.

RUDY HELGSON

Chicago

On August 28, 1951, the Chicago Alumni Chapter held its annual summer rushing party. Nearly 150 alumni, actives, and rushees gathered at the Michigan Shores Country Club for a gala evening of song, food, and friendship.

Jack Hutchinson, Northwestern, '22, was the main speaker of the evening and gave one of his inspirational talks about fraternity life in general and Delta Tau Delta in particular. The consensus was that President Bud Spooner and his committee deserved a well-earned word of praise for a well-planned evening.

Brother Sam Young, Illinois, '42, was recently elected head of the Illinois Young Republicans. Sam is practicing law with the firm of Hinshaw and Culbertson in Chicago and reports that between law and politics he is on a constant merry-go-round.

The Monday luncheons at the Fair Store continue with the same hearty group of "trenchers" as in the past. The "kitty" is given away every time it reaches $10. So the more Mondays you eat at the Fair, the better chance you have to collect. We'll be looking for all you Chicago Delts each and every Monday.

JOHN P. RODDY

Cincinnati

The Cincinnati Alumni Chapter, despite vacations and an unusually hot summer, maintained good attendance at its weekly luncheons on Tuesday at the Cincinnati Club.

Nor was the summer's activity restricted to these luncheons. August 24 saw the alumni chapter gathered at Brother Dick Farrell's (ΓΞ, '28) house for a swim party and outdoor picnic. Some forty Delts were present and all had a most enjoyable time.

August 30 was the date of the gala annual Coney Island party. The party got off to its usual festive start with refreshments served outside in the spacious gardens of the Island. This was followed by dinner and dancing in Moonlight Gardens to the music of Woody Herman. The party was a grand success with well over one hundred attending. Arrangements were handled by Brother Edward Schott (O, '29) and Brother Carl Schindler (ΓΞ, '49), chairman of the party committee.

Brother Herbert H. Schroth (ΓΞ, '16), a loyal and long active member of the Cincinnati Alumni Chapter, was presented with a silver house key and case by the alumni chapter in recognition and appreciation for his splendid contribution to this group down through the years.

It seems that our Coney Island party gets better every year and our Tuesday luncheons increasingly popular. Please let us look forward to seeing you frequently during the fall at the Tuesday Luncheon at the Cincinnati Club.

BOB WELCH

Columbus

About one hundred Columbus Delt alumni, actives, and rushees had a wonderful time September 26 at the annual Fall Roundup at Brother John Galbreath's (Ohio U., '20) magnificent Darby Dan Farm. After an afternoon of playing football and shuffleboard and of swimming, everyone consumed to the last morsel the ham dinner served on the picnic grounds.

The Delt Wives Club sponsored a dance at the Army-Navy Club on October 20, after the OSU-Indiana game. Proceeds went to furnishing the Beta Phi house, which has received an entirely new face through the help of the actives, Wives Club, Mothers Club, and alumni.

The Columbus alumni weekly Friday noonday luncheons at the University Club have been unusually well attended. All Delts everywhere are cordially welcome.

Former Columbus Alumni Secretary Bob Gibbs (OSU, '35) has been recalled to Army service and is located in Dayton, Ohio. Jacob A. Shawan, III (OSU, '40), new Junior Chamber of Commerce president, reports a new son, Jacob A., IV. Wedding bells recently rang for the alumni vice-president, John Winter (OSU, '38). Carl F. Fergus (Miami, '27) has been elected president of the Columbus Savings & Loan League. Bob Hanna (Ohio, '47), Walt Heer (Dartmouth, '37), and Carlyle Baker (OSU, '38) were hosts at their homes this summer for Delt rushing parties.

The Columbus Alumni Chapter of Delta Tau Delta felt a great loss in the passing of Bishop H. Lester Smith, Allegheny, '05, on October 7, 1951. His memory will stand as an inspiration to all.

Dallas

The heat in Dallas this summer subdued most alumni activities, and alums vacationed from Hawaii to Nassau and from Mexico to Canada, trying to beat the heat.

However, the heat did serve one useful function by increasing the success, if possible, of the swimming and dinner party given by General Albert Sidney Johnson for prospective rushees at the University of Texas.

After Texas vanquished Oklahoma on the gridiron for the first time in four years, Delts and pledges from both schools attended a dance at the Adolphus Hotel on the night of October 13, 1951.

Monthly alum meetings are due to begin again in November with President Sam W. Clark wielding the gavel. All Delt alums recently moving to the Dallas area are urged to advise him, at 5747 Prospect, Dallas, of their address so that they can be notified of the time and place of the meetings.

THOMAS T. KNIGHT

Davenport

Alumni from universities and colleges all over the country were present at the Quad-City Delta Tau Delta alumni steak fry and business meeting at the Dave Palmer farm, Palmera, on September 25.

Thirty-five members and six actives from the Iowa chapter, including the president and other officers, were in attendance. Telegrams of greetings were received from out-of-town alumni who were unable to attend.

Dayton

The Dayton, Ohio, Alumni Chapter recently installed the following new officers for the coming year: Rollin Rosser, president; Bradley Schaeffer, vice-president; Frank E. Wilson, secretary; and Charles Blank, treasurer.

This is the first time in three years our president has not been a physician. Our new president, a prominent Dayton architect, should not only be able to preside at every meeting, but should be able to stay for the entire meeting.

The annual picnic in July at Dr. Dooley's home was enjoyed by more than fifty Delts and their wives. The good doctor is such a fine host it will be difficult to stop our imposition on his hospitality again next year. Some of the wives have suggested that the older Delts avail themselves of the use of an electric shaver before playing "Pass the Lemon."

With the expansion of nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, we want to remind any Delts stationed there of our monthly meeting at the Biltmore. The meetings start at noon on the first Friday of every month and provide a good means of getting acquainted and renewing fraternal fellowship.

FRANK E. WILSON

Indianapolis

Indianapolis alumni summer activity centered at the weekly luncheons, now held each Tuesday at 12:15 at the Warren Hotel, 123 South Illinois Street. A new attendance chairman each week has succeeded in bringing several new Delts each week.

Dinner at the Speedway Club House followed the golf tournament held on September 14. Low gross was won by Jack (Bo) Leer, but almost everyone participated in the blind par prizes. Election of officers followed the dinner. New officers are Francis M. Hughes, Ohio Wesleyan, '31, president; Edwin H. Hughes, De Pauw, '43, vice-president; Hilbert E. Rust, Indiana, '27, treasurer; and William M. Hutchison, Indiana, '50, secretary. A certificate for a new hat was awarded William M. Hutchison, Jr., for most perfect attendance at the weekly luncheons during the last year.

Ernest Miller, Indiana, '27, and Fred Hill, Indiana, '31, and several other Deltas were on committees for the Indiana University picnic and barbecue on August 25. So many brothers were there it was like old-home week.

Winter activities will include the Founders Day dance in late winter. Arrangements are being made for an outstanding party with all state chapters participating.

WILLIAM M. HUTCHISON, JR.

Kansas City

The Kansas City Alumni Chapter and the local active chapters were guests of Mr. Hugh Hartley at his home on August 25 for a summer rush party. Several rushees for the five active chapters in this area were present. The party was a buffet supper served on his lawn by the Cheese Mart Catering Service. The food was good and everyone enjoyed the outing. We are certainly grateful to Hugh and appreciate having alumni like him in the K. C. chapter.

The K. U. chapter held its annual train date the night before rush week at the "Wishbone" here in K. C., and several of the K. U. alumni were present.

Ken Johnson, our chapter president, has sent letters to the active chapter presidents in this area regarding plans for a fall party to become an annual event sponsored by the K. C. Alumni Chapter, semi-formal in character. Suggested dates are Saturday, November 24, 1951, or Saturday, December 1, 1951. We feel that a party of this type would bring a better co-ordination and co-operation between the active chapters in this area and the K. C. Alumni Chapter.

W. R. LOUDON

Lexington

Winter may be all right, with its sparkling snowfalls and frozen radiators, but summertime becomes the Blue Grass region and puts a bloom on Delt activities.

The picnic held by the Lexington group each June at Jim Shropshire's farm has always turned out the best attendance of any alumni function in this area, and the party this year was so much enjoyed that a repeat performance was in order. Bill Greathouse was host for the second party at his place on the opposite side of town, and a goodly number of Deltas and their Dames appeared for that one, too.

Awaiting the next summer outing, or outings, President Blink Darnaby and Secretary Jack Crain are keeping the ball rolling by summoning Deltas for monthly dinner-meetings, having the usual trouble of finding a night that suits everybody interested but getting most of the regulars together anyway.

J. D. Davis, moving up with General Electric, recently was transferred to Louisville, and the promotion took away one of the most active members of the Blue Grass gang. He served most faithfully for several years as president of the Delta Epsilon house corporation.

Everett Elsey, back for a vacation after three years in Germany and England with the American Express Company, said he was casing the joint and might locate in this country with the wife he acquired in Germany and their young son. Bill Leet, back in the Air Force, passed through town late in the summer en route to a new post at Maxwell Field in Alabama. Bill Overhultz, also back in uniform, at last report was located at Patrick Air Force Base in Cocoa, Fla. Emory Horn, in recently for a brief visit, disclosed that he and partners from his present home city of Dallas had gained rankings in the top four nationally in badminton men's doubles and mixed doubles, which isn't bad for an old geezer of 32.

LAURENCE SHROPSHIRE

Los Angeles

The Los Angeles Alumni Chapter has had a busy and productive summer. Regular luncheon meetings have been held on the third Thursday of each month at the University Club and have featured fine reports from Brothers William Davidson and Earl C. Adams on their extensive tours of Europe and the Mediterranean.

The summer was highlighted by the Annual Jinx, held again this year at Pop's Willow Lake. The day featured swimming and baseball for the athletically inclined, good conversation for the more sedate members, and a fine barbecue beef dinner for all. This traditional event annually provides an excellent opportunity for alumni to meet with the two active chapters at U.C.L.A. and U.S.C. and assist them in the launching of their rush activities.

An excellent schedule of events for the fall months has been planned, beginning this month with the annual report on football prospects throughout the coast and country by Brother George Dickerson, assistant coach at U.C.L.A., and terminating with the equally traditional Christmas party this December.

Louisville

The past few months have found Delt alumni in and around the Louisville area working laboriously to revive the many Delta Tau Delta alumni nearby into again entering an active alumni group.

The work of Brother Beck, Brother Harris, and many others has not been in vain, because on the last Thursday in each and every month, the new Delta alumni group holds a dinner and business meeting at Bauer's Restaurant located on Brownsboro Road.

The chapter sponsored a most eventful summer rush party at the Louisville Boat Club for rushees, undergraduates, and alumni who had failed to attend our regular meetings. We owe the success of this function to an always co-operative Brother Parker Hurley.

Immediately following the current football season at the University of Kentucky, we are planning a very special dinner meeting and party to celebrate the close of a successful football season and to interest more Delt alumni in participating with our new group.

RALPH TATUM

National Capital

President Oliver Hoyem, Columbia, '16, entertained the officers and executive committee of the National Capital Alumni Chapter in the first get-together of the 1951-52 year and drafted plans to make this one of the best years in local history of the Fraternity.

Twenty-six Deltas attended the first weekly luncheon at O'Donnell's Sea Grill, 1221 E Street, N. W., our new location. Approximately one hundred Deltas and their guests attended the fifth annual fall picnic which was highlighted by Charlie Crichton's Gamma Eta actives coming from behind to whip Tom Burckes' Delta Sigma boys in a softball game, 6-4.

Westminster is represented by two new arrivals in the Nation's Capital in the persons of John K. Christian, '45, and Robert W. Kroening, '47. The latter interrupted his term as president of the St. Louis Alumni Chapter to take an executive position with Senator Kem. We were also pleased to have Norman MacLeod, Pittsburgh, '17, past President of the Fraternity, drop in on one of our weekly luncheons.

Plans are in the making to celebrate appropriately the fiftieth anniversary of Gamma Eta Chapter on May 9, 1953. To that end, an effort is being made to locate every living alumnus of the chapter. A souvenir directory and history of the chapter will be printed and distributed to all those interested in the project.

Last year our Founders Day dinner served to honor the forty or more Delt members of the Fourth Estate. This year we plan to honor a similar number of Delt barristers. Leonard Walsh, Minnesota, '27, is president of the District of Columbia Bar Association and many Deltas have distinguished themselves in this profession.

During the past summer, the Gamma Eta Shelter has served as headquarters for the many Deltas visiting Washington from nearby military camps. The friendly spirit and hospitality of the actives will long be remembered by those who have taken advantage of the cordial invitation extended by the Deltas of the Nation's Capital to be sure to look us up when in the vicinity.

ROBERT E. NEWBY

Northern Kentucky

A comparatively quiet summer on the Delt alumni front in Northern Kentucky

CHICKEN DINNERS and good putting account for the smiles of these Pittsburgh and Butler alumni at the third annual joint golf tournament at the Butler Country Club, September 11, 1951.

was climaxed in early September by a rush party at Rand Stegeman's home in Fort Thomas for 27 outstanding prospects who were leaving for colleges and universities where Delt chapters are located. Among the chosen schools were Kentucky, Cincinnati, Miami, Duke, and Bowling Green Universities.

With deferred rushing in effect in many schools, no report on the rushees had been obtained at deadline date.

Delta Tau Delta Fraternity as a whole, and also our local group in particular, felt the distinct loss in the untimely death of Brother Howard Fischbach. One of the outstanding members of our Fraternity, Doctor Howard was most unselfish in his unrelenting interest in Delta Tau Delta.

Dan Cupid "snuck" into our group, and Jim Stites, late of Delta Epsilon, will trek down the middle aisle on December 22 with Miss Marilee Kester, a former Oberlin College co-ed of Greenville, Ohio. Jim was recently elected a director of the University of Kentucky Alumni Club of Greater Cincinnati. Cameron Coffman, your correspondent, who is always the last corresponding secretary to forward a report to Gordon Jones, was named president of the same club. Johnny Bullock, Len Weakley, Bob Bullock, and Lawton "Babe" Daly occasionally turn up at some of the meetings.

Several other Kentucky Dels have wound up in Cincinnati. We're looking forward to seeing Bill Bryson, Ed Jones, Frank Cassidy, and Johnny Bill McWhorter at our next meeting. Lee Brewster, also of Delta Epsilon, who formerly worked here, has been called to active duty.

Vint Stegeman took off in October for another of his flying trips to Switzerland. Something to do with the watch manufacturing business.

Bill Schwarberg, former grid star at the University of Cincinnati, has been flying about the country scouting U. S.'s grid rivals. He can take a bow for part success of the Bearcats' outstanding team, which is cocaptained by Brother Nick Shundich.

CAMERON COFFMAN

Philadelphia

At the recommendation of Jordan Gauthier, our alumni chapter president, Skip Myers took over the programming details for our Fall Dinner. He was assisted by Jim Austin and Sol Latimer. Ed Rankin came to the fore and through his long service as a gridiron official was able to arrange for Byrum Saam to speak and show his wonderful movies of the college football high lights.

The Fall Dinner on November 7 was the first time we had all been together since the outing given by the Omega Chapter at the Myers' farm in the spring. However, small groups have been meeting informally for lunch the third Tuesday in every month at the Omega Shelter. Anyone interested in attending may phone the writer a few days in advance at LOcust 4-2400.

Even though the Founders Day Dinner is several months away, we are making plans for it already. Every effort is being made to make the 1952 celebration an even greater success than the splendid turnout we had a year ago.

ROBERT GODFREY

Pittsburgh

Golf dominated the summer program of Pittsburgh Delt alumni. On September 11 the local niblick fans joined with the Butler chapter for the third annual golf tournament at the Butler Country Club.

With Frank Poe copping low score honors, the two alumni groups enjoyed perfect golfing weather and a fine Butler County chicken dinner.

Pittsburgh Dels were saddened in July by the death of Edwin McKay, Alpha Chapter alumnus, who was an assistant editor of the Pittsburgh Press.

On September 15, a group of alumni were present at the dedication of "Doc Hartwig" field in Bendwood, W. Va. Named in honor of Pitt's great Delt All-American guard, the new stadium will be used by Hartwig's own Alma Mater, Union High School.

With temperatures in the 80's in October, Pittsburgh Dels found it hard to concentrate on plans for the 17th annual Delt Church Service at Trinity Episcopal Cathedral.

Although the date has not yet been set, Dean N.R.H. Moor is expected to name a Sunday evening early in December for the traditional services and interchapter sing contest.

Featuring an address by Dean Moor, the program will include a vocal contest between undergraduate chapters from Pitt, Tech, Washington & Jefferson, Allegheny, and West Virginia.

A large turnout of Tri-State Dels, their wives, and sweethearts is a foregone conclusion when Dean Moor once again welcomes his Fraternity at the doors of stately Trinity Cathedral, in the "Golden Triangle."

BILL RAINES

Portland

Election of officers was held the last of June and Jack M. McLaughlin, local barrister, was elected president of our alumni chapter.

We've had several rushing parties during the summer vacation period . . . not only for the Oregon schools but also for our new neighbors to the north —Whitman College in Washington. Seems to be quite a few Portland boys planning to attend the school up there.

Luncheons are being held the first and third Wednesdays of the month at The Broiler. Attendance at the luncheons has been good. There is a dance scheduled for Halloween and plans are well under way for the annual Christmas Formal. This year it will be held in the Rose Bowl of the Multnomah Hotel.

We've set up a committee under the chairmanship of Brother Dwight Parr to aid any undergraduates who desire counsel or actual help in obtaining temporary or permanent employment.

THOMAS R. KEEFE

St. Louis

Our present officers elected last spring are Don Fleck, president; George Buchanan, vice-president; Jack Frier, treasurer; and Bill Seim, secretary. Bob Kroening was originally elected president but shortly afterward left St. Louis for Washington to become executive secretary to Senator Kem of Missouri.

The chapter's summer business was mainly concerned with rushing activity. After the flood kept us from Dal Johnson's home near the Missouri River, plans were quickly changed and our July rush picnic was held at Tyson Valley Park in St. Louis County. A good crowd was in attendance which included alumni, actives from Westminster and Missouri, rushees, wives, and dates. In spite of the warmth of the day and an early evening shower which abruptly terminated the festivities, a good time was had by all and much serious rushing was done.

A full schedule of fall and winter activity is planned and all alumni in the area are urged to attend our monthly meetings ordinarily held the last Thursday of each month to participate and help plan future events. In addition, all Deltas are invited to attend the weekly, informal luncheon meetings which are still being held at the American Hotel at 12:15 p.m. on Tuesdays.

WILLIAM L. SEIM

Seattle

After recessing for the summer, the first of our regular monthly "third Thursday" luncheons was held in October, heralding the beginning of the new 1951-52 season.

Alumni attention is now focused on the Homecoming festivities just ahead. Excellent turnouts have been the rule at past Homecomings, as former classmates return to the Shelter to refresh memories and to renew old friendships.

This year's Homecoming will be highlighted by a new (and possibly permanent) feature, as arrangements have been made to sponsor an alumni table at the All-University Dance to be held at the Olympic Hotel. It is hoped that this function will have special appeal for out-of-town alums who otherwise might have difficulty in finding facilities for carrying their celebrating into the evening.

A new premeeting phone system has been initiated this year, whereby committee members will phone former classmates or personal friends, rather than formal alphabetical lists. It is hoped that the intimacy of such phone contacts will result in even better participation at future gatherings.

NORMAN O. SMITH

Toledo

Any Tuesday noon there is a buzzing at Dyers and you can hear references to the hunt, the chase, summer angling interspersed with arguments about the most recent football games—some of these go on all the year—it's the Toledo Alumni Chapter at luncheon.

Herbert M. Sharp, Gamma Beta, '05, president, and LaDow "Doc" Johnston, Gamma Tau, '25, recently represented the Toledo group at a conference with Delta Tau Chapter at Bowling Green. Several pilgrimages to nearby active chapters by groups from Toledo are in the making for the early fall and winter season.

There was a lot of enthusiasm at the Founders Day dinner which Toledo boys held on May 11 at the Northwood Inn. More than 40 gathered to hear Malcolm Ward, Chi, '22, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Maumee, deliver a most interesting talk on his experiences in the Philippines.

During the summer some groups of actives consulted with alumni on rushing problems. Several small conferences were held and alumni offered to help wherever possible. We have had communications from several active chapters, too. Actives are invited to stop in at luncheon any time they are in Toledo on a Tuesday.

Harry N. Hansen, Beta Phi, '14, was recently crowned in the honorary 33rd Degree Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Northern Jurisdiction.

The autumn air in Toledo's downtown area on September 11, shortly after noon, heralded the advent of a fellow who may be potential rushing material for Chi Chapter at Kenyon College in 20 years or so. The chimes of stately old Trinity Episcopal Church, which usually sound forth with patriotic airs and well-known old hymns, startled folks with the nursery tune "Little Boy Blue." It was the church staff's way of notifying everybody that "It's a boy—for the Hargates." The Rev. Arthur W. Hargate, Chi, '34, the rector, is the proud papa. You see, the Hargates have three daughters and there was a lot of advance interest in the coming of Arthur W., Jr.

G. WILFRID HIBBERT

Topeka

Our new president, Floyd Strong, is busy planning a party for early in December. He has a good committee appointed, and we are looking for a full attendance from our Topeka members and their wives.

Our monthly luncheons continue with fair attendance. Lately we have not tried to have a speaker, but just a good lunch with round-table discussion, mostly about football. Our former president, Mike Oberhelman, is going strong this fall, being vice-president of a Topeka bank, president of the School Board, and acting as an official, either referee or field judge of Big Seven and Missouri Valley football games.

The writer had the pleasure on September 24 of attending the weekly luncheon of the Chicago group at Harding's Restaurant in the Fair store and enjoyed it very much. Hope that some of them or any visiting Deltas will meet with us if in Topeka the first Tuesday in the month. We are coming out from the effects of the disastrous flood of last July, but the flooded district of North Topeka is still a dismal sight.

FRANK F. HOGUELAND

Tulsa

August and September were "Back to Campus Days" for the Tulsa alums as we did our best toward assisting our nearby active chapters in local rushing. Though our contributions were small, we were as pleased as Delta Alpha and Delta Chi actives with Delt successes on the Oklahoma University and Oklahoma A. & M. campuses during rush. Both chapters filled rush quotas with fine young men whom all of us will be mighty proud to greet as Deltas. Congratulations, Delta Alpha and Delta Chi!

We enjoyed our rush picnics with Delta Alpha and Delta Chi this past summer. Attendance at our monthly dinner meetings never declined and perhaps we should thank the active chapters for keeping our fraternal interests alive. Attendance remained at over 25% of our roster each meeting this summer.

Our wives and Delt sweethearts joined us in a buffet dinner and dance during the May meeting, and we are looking forward to a similar meeting in November.

Heinie Krone—now a Dallas Texan—visited his Tulsa Delt friends at our September dinner. Bob Cochran, Tufts, '41, and George Washington, '50, a patent attorney for Phillips Petroleum Company in Bartlesville, formally joined the Tulsa Alumni Chapter during this same meeting. Bob, who travels 60 miles to attend our meetings, is a real Delt and a credit to our Fraternity.

Again we invite you to our dinner meetings. Time: 6:30, second Tuesday each month. Place: Tulsa Country Club.

JOSEPH R. MORGAN, Butler, '89, the "grand old man" of Indianapolis Delts, died on October 13, 1951, at the age of 82.

Known affectionately as "Joe" to Delts young and old in Indiana. Mr. Morgan had practiced law in Indianapolis for 53 years. He was a graduate of the Yale University Law School.

He was one of the three original organizers of the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter, which was chartered May 25, 1900. He was also one of the incorporators in 1931 of the Delta Tau Delta Foundation, income from which provides prizes for Indiana chapters at State Day.

He was cited to the Fraternity's Distinguished Service Chapter in 1940 following more than fifty years of constructive effort in behalf of his chapter and the Fraternity.

JOHN R. LINDEMUTH, Wesleyan, '12, President of the Eastern Division of the Fraternity from 1920 to 1925, died at Middletown, Connecticut, on August 23, 1951.

Mr. Lindemuth had a long record of service to Delta Tau Delta, including many years as chapter adviser of Gamma Zeta Chapter. He had been cited to the Distinguished Service Chapter in 1946.

WILBUR D. HOCKENSMITH, Allegheny, '99, well-known Pittsburgh industrialist, died August 19, 1951.

Mr. Hockensmith had been president and general manager of the Hockensmith Corporation, Penn., Pennsylvania, since 1928. He held three patents on mine car wheels and mine cars. He was a trustee of the University of Pittsburgh.

On October 7, 1951, death came to BISHOP H. LESTER SMITH, Allegheny, '04, former Methodist Bishop of the Ohio Area. Funeral services were held in Columbus and Cincinnati.

Following his graduation from Drew Theological Seminary, Bishop Smith had held pastorates at Bellevue, Pennsylvania; Buffalo, New York; and Detroit, Michigan. After his election as bishop at Des Moines, Iowa, in 1920, he was assigned first to the mission field at Bangalore, India.

Bishop Smith was assigned to the Ohio Area in 1932; his duties covered 2,200 churches, four colleges, 500,000 communicants, and 1,500 ministers. He retired from the episcopacy in 1948.

A loyal Delt throughout his life, Bishop Smith had answered every call of the Fraternity. His last official service for Delta Tau Delta was in connection with the 60th Karnea in Columbus last year.

Delt Chapters

and members could have made our house program a success.

CHAPTER SALUTES ITS LEADERS

No Delt chapter is complete without its leaders. Delta Chi is especially proud of its president, Jim Maddy. Interfraternity Council and Blue Key also claim his talents. Jim's little brother, Dale, has carried on the family tradition by walking off with the sophomore class presidency.

Delta Omega—Kent

DELTS PROVIDE "GIANT" FOR GRIDIRON

With the boom of the opening kickoff still ringing in our ears, the Deltas at Kent prepare for the fall quarter. The foot kicking that pigskin belongs to Brother Russ Stahlman, 6'5", 215-pound giant end. Also seeing much action is bruising Frank Ballo. Frank is 6'1" and weighs 210 and is playing defensive left tackle.

ANDERSON COCAPTAINS SWIMMING TEAM

Swimming is another sport arriving on the scene. Another brother, Tom Anderson, is an ace backstroker and also co-captain of the team.

In intramural sports, the Deltas are well on their way to a good season. The football team is undefeated at this printing and things are looking bright toward a successful intramural year.

CHAPTER REPRESENTED IN HONORARIES

Not content to confine its talents to athletics, the chapter is well represented in Blue Key, the national honorary fraternity. Bob Weber is president and Chapter President Ralph Orche has been named editor of the Blue Key directory. Bob also is the university social chairman. On the University's daily news staff are Advertising Manager Jim Branigan and Edition Managers Cal Ratcliff and Bud Mays.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Being called into the service this summer were Brothers Al Slaby and Hal Tabler. Cal Ratcliff will take Al's place as house manager and Don Hambleton will replace Hal as corresponding secretary. Bud Mays, our new treasurer, will be assisted by Bob Stopher.
