THIS ISSUE of The Rainbow contains details of a significant new program launched nationally by Delta Tau Delta. Every Delt is invited to join the effort, and help his Fraternity by doing so. It is called the Delt Bell Ringer program.

Rushing has become more and more challenging on campuses where Delta Tau Delta operates. We find we must do a more thorough job of not only selling Delta Tau Delta but of explaining the fraternity system and what it offers. The future of our Fraternity depends on the quality of the job we do.

When we do execute a well organized rush, and effectively tell our story, we get good results. So we are necessarily striving everywhere to sharpen our rush techniques and do a much better job of explaining the benefits of the fraternity system and of Delta Tau Delta in particular.

At the same time that this situation exists, we find thousands of Delt alumni across the land expressing a willingness to help their Fraternity, but asking "What can I do?"

Our response is the Delt Bell Ringer program, inviting you to share some of your Delt knowledge and enthusiasm with several young men you know who are headed to campuses this fall where Delta Tau Delta operates chapters.

A simple direct description of what your own Delt experience has meant to you would go a long way toward developing interest and knowledge on the part of any college-bound youth.

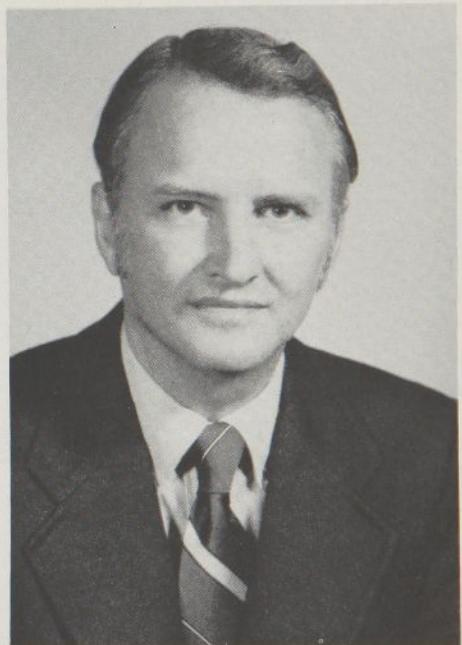

If you as a Delt alumnus, along with others, contact just one or two young men headed to school this fall, and explain to them what your own Delt experience has meant to you, we would have an army of interested rushees entering college this fall, with a better than average understanding and interest in fraternities and in Delta Tau Delta.

Our future depends to a degree upon all of us doing a better job of expressing our own belief in the fraternity system. I invite and urge you to speak up in behalf of Delta Tau Delta, and join the Delt Bell Ringers this summer in an all-out sales effort in behalf of our Fraternity.

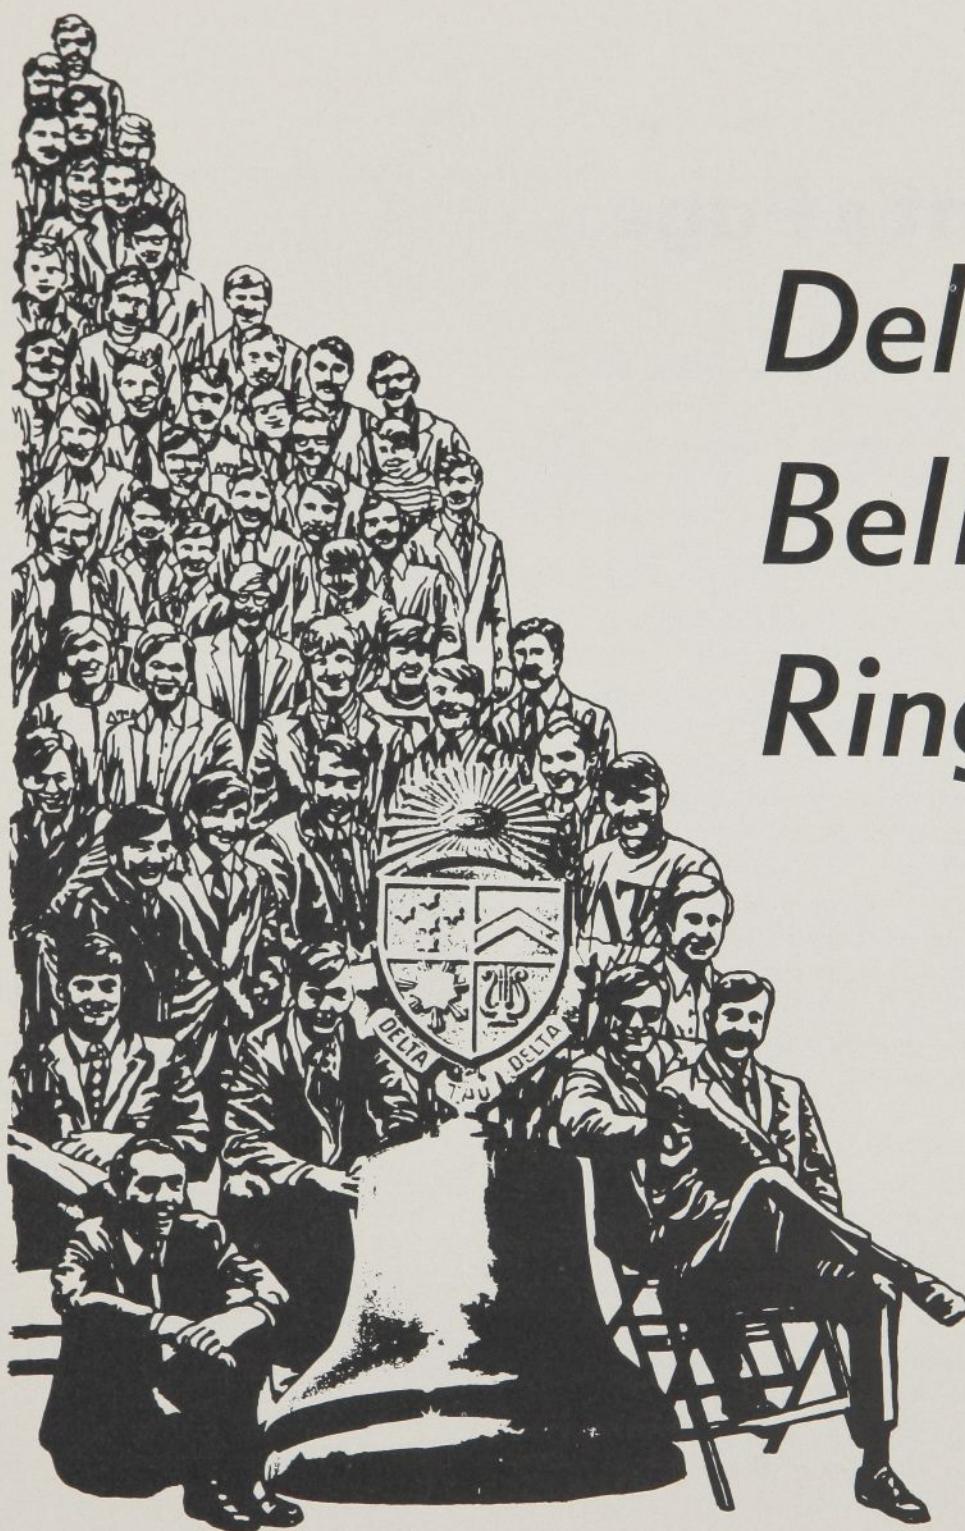

If you have wondered what you personally can do to help Delta Tau Delta, the answer is found on page two of this issue.

Let's join together and ring the bell loudly and clearly for Delta Tau Delta! Will you help?

Delta Tau Delta

TOO OFTEN young men leaving high school have misconceptions of fraternity life and little or no knowledge of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity. Many alumni have helped overcome that situation through assisting in summer rush programs or simply talking with college-bound students in their communities.

But efforts have been limited to informal consultation without organization. More often than not, alumni are willing to help acquaint young men in their communities with the Fraternity, but they hesitate to base their approach on memory alone — without current information and direction.

Who is the Delt Bell Ringer? What does he do? And why should we have him?

The Delt Bell Ringer is an experienced and interested alumnus who is taking an active part in the membership recruiting of Delta Tau Delta.

He is the Delt alumnus who wants the outstanding young men of his acquaintance to become members of Delta Tau Delta.

He is the Delt alumnus who can influence and guide the outstanding high school graduate toward Delta Tau Delta.

The Delt Bell Ringer is the alumnus who not only supplies rush recommendations but participates in the early introduction of rushees to ideals and principles of the Fraternity. If Delta Tau Delta is to remain a leader and play a dominant role on college campuses, our membership selection today is more important than ever in the past. We must be highly selective and recruit carefully. We cannot afford to overlook a single outstanding prospect.

Under the Delt Bell Ringer program, our Central Office furnishes alumni chapters and individual alumni with packets of specially prepared Delta Tau Delta material. These rush packets will reacquaint alumni with what the Fraternity is doing and enable them to effectively introduce outstanding high school graduates to Delta Tau Delta.

After reviewing contents of the packet, the participating alumnus is prepared to discuss today's Delta Tau Delta with outstanding young men of his acquaintance. He has interesting, informative material to give them. But just as important, he can talk with them about his own experience in Delta Tau Delta and help them become more knowledgeable about the fraternity system in general.

The packet includes a suggested step-by-step procedure for contacting a student and discussing the material with him.

Of course, undergraduate Delt chapters must be notified of prospects by sending specific recommendations to the Central Office for transmittal to the chapter. Forms are enclosed with each Delt Bell Ringer packet.

This personal contact will make a tremendous difference in the number of outstanding young men who pledge Delta Tau Delta this year. All you need do to join the Delt Bell Ringer team is fill in the form on the back cover and send it to the Central Office at Indianapolis.

Who is a good man to serve as a Delt Bell Ringer?

You'll find his name in the upper right hand corner on the back cover of this magazine.

Profile O

By FRANK H. PRICE, JR.
Director of Program Development

SOMETIMES little understood and appreciated, but always coveted by winners and near winners, the Hugh Shields Award for Chapter Excellence had its genesis as an idea in the Arch Chapter meeting of May 10, 1964. In the beginning, the Award was known simply as the Top Ten Award, since it was determined that the 10 most outstanding chapters in the Fraternity would receive the Award.

At the Arch Chapter meeting during the 1964 Karnea in Cincinnati, the Committee charged with preparing a chapter recognition program presented the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, Delta Tau Delta is anxious to recognize and encourage excellence in over-all chapter performance, and

WHEREAS, a balanced development of the social, moral, and intellectual aspects of fraternity life is extremely desirable, and

WHEREAS, healthy, friendly competition increases pride and improves morale throughout all parts of the Fraternity; therefore,

RESOLVED, That the Fraternity establish an annual designation of its top ten chapters based upon an equal weighting of the following five factors: (a) scholarship; (b) internal organization and property maintenance; (c) social standing on campus; (d) Fraternity education and ritualistic observance; (e) alumni relations."

Subcriteria were developed in each of the five factors and after the death, in April 1965, of Hugh Shields, executive vice-president of the Fraternity from 1933 to 1965, the Award was named the Hugh Shields Award for Chapter Excellence. Criteria were revised slightly at the joint meeting of the Arch Chapter and Undergraduate Council held during the 1970 Karnea.

The first Hugh Shields ACE flags were presented for the 1964-65 academic year. Since the beginning, 80 Hugh Shields Awards have been presented to 28 different chapters. Only three chapters have won the ACE at least five years which is required to retire the flag award bearing the Greek word "PROTOMOI" and the years won.

These three chapters are Delta Chi (Oklahoma State) — seven years; Gamma Xi (Cincinnati) — six years; and Epsilon Iota (GMI) — five years. Six chapters — Alpha (Allegheny), Gamma (W&J), Beta Nu (MIT), Delta Gamma (South Dakota), Delta Omicron (Westminster), and Epsilon Kappa (LSU) — have won four years,

What does it take to win the Hugh Shields Award for Chapter Excellence? Perhaps the best way to answer that question is to look at the profile of a winner. But first we must point out that there are 25 criteria on which chapters are evaluated — five sub-criteria in each of the five major criteria as listed in the implementing resolution quoted above.

In order to win, a chapter must be at or near the top in all 25 criteria. Many chapters are pushing the top ten and average or even above average performance in only two or three areas drop them out of the winners. Many of these chapters are making all-out efforts to improve their relatively weaker areas,

A Winner

*What does it take to win
a Hugh Shields Award for chapter excellence?*

and thus will displace current winners who relax their efforts.

In general, a winning chapter has these characteristics:

In the Scholarship area, an excellent chapter:

(a) Ranks high on its campus (in the top 10 percent among fraternities) in grade point average.

(b) Has developed and maintained a chapter scholarship program that reflects a positive attitude toward academic excellence.

(c) Practices selectivity in rush so that a consistently high percentage of its pledges are initiated.

(d) Receives individually and collectively a relatively large percentage of scholastic honors and awards.

(e) Has used its originality and creativity to develop new means of encouraging scholastic interest and academic excellence among its members.

The Internal Organization and Property Maintenance criteria deal with chapter management and operation. The Hugh Shields ACE winner:

(a) Consistently maintains its total membership at a level so as to be competitive on its campus, and through selective rushing maintains a balanced membership in the various classes, activities, and abilities.

(b) Organizes itself to accomplish its goals, maintains active, well-staffed committees which meet regularly and keep written records of their activities, and establishes goals and programs to help keep chapter members active and interested.

(c) Maintains its physical facilities and has a close working relationship with its house corporation (whether or not it owns a house).

(d) Recognizes the need for a competent treasurer and insists on the timely maintenance of financial records which accurately reflect the chapter's financial situation each and every month.

(e) Operates on a well-planned balanced budget and keeps Unpaid Members Accounts to a bare minimum.

In Leadership on Campus, a winner:

(a) Plans its recreational activities in keeping with the purposes of the Fraternity and college and community regulations and laws, and expects and receives the highest-type behavior from all its members.

(b) Maintains cordial relationships with the college administration and faculty, neighbors, and the campus community; and has an ongoing program of active community service.

(c) Has a record of intramural interest and participation involving the entire chapter.

(d) Is actively involved in campus leadership with a relatively high percentage of chapter members taking part in various activities.

(e) Maintains a well-organized year-round rushing program with high standards of selectivity for pledging.

In the area of Fraternity Education and Ritualistic Observance, a Hugh Shields ACE chapter:

(a) Places high emphasis on brotherhood, social skills, and interpersonal relations; through all chapter activities, helps members understand the value and importance of cooperative brotherhood and friendships; and fulfills the needs of its members for fraternal friendship.

By using Hugh Shields Award criteria, a chapter can analyze its strengths and weaknesses.

(b) Teaches its members interest in and understanding of the national Fraternity role, activities, and services.

(c) Maintains a mature and constructive pledge education program in which pledges learn the meaning and value of Fraternity from the example of members as well as printed pledge education materials.

(d) Understands the proper modern role and use of Ritual; takes pride in effectively performing the Ritual; members maintain high morale and chapter spirit; and take pride in chapter cohesiveness.

(e) Is aware of and follows Fraternity practices, policies, and constitutional provisions.

Top ten chapters practice Alumni Relations. In this criterion area, winners:

(a) Emphasize the need for good relationship with alumni and teach pledges and members their future role as alumni.

(b) Maintain programs and activities which regularly bring alumni and faculty in contact with members.

(c) Regularly contribute interesting, well-written, and meaningful (to alumni) articles to THE RAINBOW and THE RAINBOW Review.

(d) Regularly and frequently publish a chapter newsletter containing information and news of interest to alumni.

(e) Maintain good relationship with nearby alumni chapters and all local alumni, and constantly seek new ways to maintain the interest of alumni in the chapter.

Undoubtedly this profile sounds like a perfect chapter, and Hugh Shields Award winning chapters are almost perfect. Not that ACE chapters do not have problems. They do, but the difference is in the way they solve those problems.

Who selects the winning chapters and how does a chapter break into the Top Ten? To answer the first part of this question, the Arch Chapter makes the final selection based on recommendations of a committee composed of the second vice-president, the director of academic affairs, the division presidents, the executive vice-president, the editor of The Rainbow, the director of chapter services, and the director of program development.

The Committee uses all of the information available about the chapters in making its recommendations. Still, decisions are difficult, and beginning this winter, chapters will be asked to evaluate themselves in terms of the criteria.

A chapter that wants to win a Hugh Shields Award should first review the criteria (obtainable from the Central Office). The second step is to evaluate itself realistically in terms of each of the criteria. Such an analysis will enable the chapter to recognize its strengths and weaknesses. Third, programs and activities must be designed and implemented which will build up the weak areas and maintain the chapter's strengths.

Finally, a chapter working for a Hugh Shields flag should not be discouraged if it does not make it. Delta Tau Delta has many, many outstanding chapters. The Hugh Shields Award is limited to 10, and while many chapters are deserving only 10 can be winners.

With increasing mobility of college students, the opportunity to affiliate with more than one chapter has become one of the major advantages of membership in a national fraternity. Mark Vernallis is one of several Delts who have dual-chapter affiliations. He was initiated into the Fraternity at Auburn University and currently serves as president of Gamma Sigma Chapter at the University of Pittsburgh.

I AM A second Chapter Delt. This Fraternity business all started when I pledged Delt at Auburn University. I had no idea at that time that Delta Tau Delta went any farther than our sidewalk on Magnolia Avenue. Boy, was I wrong.

Just going to Auburn for a Pittsburgh fellow is quite an experience, but to ever think that I would bring home a great Pitt Fraternity never crossed by mind.

When I arrived on the Plains of Dixie I was in a terribly awkward situation. My great-granddaddy didn't fight in the Civil War (and that's not for the Pennsylvania Volunteers). I had never seen a black-eyed pea. I couldn't even say y'all. And I didn't know a soul on that campus of 12,000 undergrads.

But somehow within 30 hours of arriving I was pledged, moved into the Shelter and about to go through that bizarre time we all spent in Delta Tau Delta, pledging. So I lived in the House as a pledge, ate grits for breakfast like everybody else, and went through most of the first semester traumas that all pledges everywhere experience.

Before I knew it, the fall semester was over and that's when the Delts at Pitt came into the picture. When I got home for Christmas break, Pitt was still in session.

As soon as I could, I stopped at Pitt's Delt house. What a first impression! Those guys didn't know it but they snaked a pledge from another chapter. The personalities and heritage of the Pitt Chapter really caught my eye. And when I decided to transfer, those Delts became practically my entire reason for choosing the University of Pittsburgh.

Returning to Auburn after New Years, I was duly initiated into the Fraternity. But I began to realize more and more that the Sunny South was not for me.

So there it was: the University of Pittsburgh, right in my neck of the woods and with a great group of guys who were my Brothers. There was an easy decision to make. Pitt was my home and I was going there..

Last Fall I was brought up for affiliation, which finally made me a Gamma Sigma Delt. If there was anything I learned from belonging to two chapters, it was that behind the catfish, football, and traditional life of Epsilon Alpha and the cultural, metropolitan life of Gamma Sigma, what really makes us all Delts hasn't changed a bit.

The Mobile Delt

By MARK VERNALLIS

THE SPECTACULAR rise of James T. Lynn to U. S. secretary of housing and urban development has become one of the favorite success stories in Washington.

To begin with, the 1948 Case-Western Reserve graduate began his political career by simply walking into New York's Hotel Pierre when President Nixon was putting together his Administration in late 1968, and asking for a job. At the time, he was a Cleveland lawyer, totally unknown to President Nixon.

The sudden burst of what Mr. Lynn described as "Potomac fever" brought results. Maurice H. Stans, secretary of commerce, later offered him a job as general counsel in the department. Mr. Lynn accepted, and by 1971 he had moved up to undersecretary.

Even then, he maintained a low profile that was not typical of men in similar positions. He didn't keep newspaper clippings about himself, flood newspapers with press releases, or even request an unlisted telephone number for his home in Bethesda, Maryland.

But he got things done. One accomplishment was helping put together the successful U. S. — Soviet trade agreement. Among colleagues he became known as one of the ablest, coolest, and most versatile, yet least publicized administrators in Washington.

He was described as being completely dedicated to government, but not politically conscious.

Then in December, 1972, he was thrust into a job that had brought George Romney enough bureaucratic headaches to keep him in media spotlights for four years. Mr. Lynn was selected by the President to head HUD.

A former Cleveland law partner received the news with the comment that "It's an impossible job, and I don't know why he would tackle it. But if anyone can try to make it work, he can."

Previous accomplishments indicated that Mr. Lynn had credentials for the task.

A summa cum laude graduate of Case-Western Reserve in 1948, he received the LL.B. magna cum laude in 1951 from Harvard Law School, where he was an officer of the Harvard Law Review.

He entered law practice with Jones, Day, Cockley and Reavis, of Cleveland, in 1951. Nine years later he became the youngest partner in the firm's history.

During 18 years of practice, Mr. Lynn acquired extensive experience in corporate law, including litigation, antitrust, real estate, corporate finance, acquisitions, and various other areas of business law.

Principal efforts in later years included substantial work on corporate acquisitions, dispositions, and joint ventures, both domestic and foreign.

In accepting the challenge of HUD, Mr. Lynn explained that he had deep feelings of responsibility, but not of hesitancy.

"I had a kind of philosophy for a long time when I was practicing law that too many of us on the outside were quick to criticize people within the government, but would not give up two, four, six years of a career to try to do anything about it," he said. "Now, if I'm going to put my action where my mouth is, I guess when the really tough ones come along — or challenging ones is a better word for it — then you say yes to this kind of thing."

Helping offset the demands of long hours on the job is Mr. Lynn's ability to relax completely when he is with his family. He likes to sing, while accompanying himself on the piano, fish, play golf or tennis, and just enjoy being with his wife, Joan, and their three children.

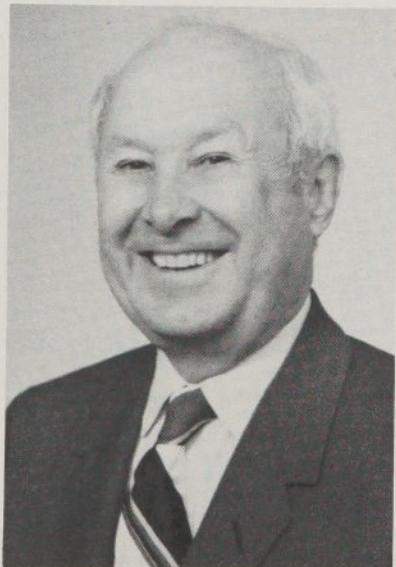

The urge to contribute some of his life to public service has taken Mr. Lynn from a successful law practice in Ohio to a top level of national responsibility in less than five years.

James Lynn, secretary of HUD, is known as the wittiest man in the Nixon Administration. Heading housing and urban development offers the supreme test of his good humor.

John Krehbiel has built a career mixing business with a wide variety of political and civic responsibilities, leading to his appointment as U.S. ambassador to Finland.

ON APRIL 2, V. John Krehbiel, Kansas '29, was sworn in as U. S. ambassador to Finland.

An active Delt for 48 years, Mr. Krehbiel has become known as one of the nation's outstanding insurance advisers and counselors for individuals, business organizations, and corporations, during an outstanding career with Aetna Life Insurance Co.

He has been a civic leader in the Los Angeles area, where he has offices in Pasadena. His home is in South Laguna.

Ambassador Krehbiel recalls "my good fortune to be associated with many Delts, in business and community affairs." He was president of the Fraternity's Los Angeles Alumni Chapter in 1952.

He also gives a measure of credit to his undergraduate Gamma Tau Chapter activities that began when he was a University of Kansas freshman from Hutchinson, Kan., in 1925.

With Aetna, Ambassador Krehbiel qualified as a member of every top leaders club. He was an executive officer of the Aetna Leaders Club 11 times, serving as president in 1945 and 1970. He was a life and qualifying member of the Million Dollar Round Table from 1948 through 1972, and was the Company's "Man of the Year" in both 1968 and 1970.

In 1968, he also received the Will Farrell Award in recognition of distinguished service to the public outside the sphere of professional activity. The award is sponsored by the Life Insurance Committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Life Underwriters Association, and the General Agents and Managers Association.

Active in the Republican Party for many years, Ambassador Krehbiel was a delegate to the 1952, 1956, and 1960 National Conventions. He has held several offices, including vice chairman and chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and has been a member of the National Finance Committee.

In 1959, Ambassador Krehbiel served as a member of the Trade Mission to Germany. Last year he was a member of the Trade Mission to Norway, Sweden, Finland, and Denmark.

He has served in several offices at regional and national levels of insurance-related organizations.

Other professional and business activities include a partner in Ingaham, Coates and Payne insurance brokers from 1961 to 1970; director of Fremont Indemnity Corp. since 1968; member of boards of directors of the Bank of Pasadena (1963-68), Miller Dial and Nameplate Co. (1956-59), and Hydro Aire, Inc. (1952-56).

Among his civic activities have been memberships in the California State College of Los Angeles President Associates; United Negro College Fund (Southern California chairman 1964-67); Town Hall; Los Angeles World Affairs Council; Malaika Shrine and Scottish Rite 32; California Club; Founders Club of the Los Angeles Music Center; the Los Angeles Lincoln Club; the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association; and the District Attorneys Advisory Council.

Ambassador and Mrs. Krehbiel have a daughter, Mrs. Virginia J. Baldwin, who lives in La Jolla, Calif.

When you enter public service

FORTY YEARS ago, the Rainbow carried an article entitled "The Parliamentarian of the House." It concerned the outstanding job of young Lewis Deschler, Miami '26, who already had served the U. S. House of Representatives with distinction as parliamentarian under three noted speakers: Nicholas Longworth, John Nance Garner, and Henry T. Rainey.

Today, Lew Deschler's reputation among the nation's lawmakers has become ubiquitous. For one thing, he has held the position longer than any other parliamentarian in Congressional history. For another, his knowledge of parliamentary procedure is considered unsurpassed; in fact, there isn't even a close runner-up.

And perhaps just as descriptive of his personality is the fact that he finds the same daily challenge, stimulation, and satisfaction that he felt when he began his career as assistant parliamentarian in 1927. He was named parliamentarian the following year.

To the list of Speakers with whom he has served can be added the names of Joseph W. Byrns, William B. Bankhead, Sam Rayburn, Joseph W. Martin, John W. McCormack, and Carl Albert.

Although Mr. Deschler's name probably would not be recognized by the average housewife in Peoria or Carmel, his face is very familiar, particularly to newsmen working wire photo desks across the nation.

He is the man pictured on the right side of the President, along with the Speaker and the Vice President, when the President delivers his inaugural message. He is the man handing final electoral totals to the Vice President, or conferring with the Speaker on important matters, or in the center of a discussion among a group of Congressmen.

With procedural questions posing continuous grounds for controversy, his is an important and demanding position and his responsibility can call for around-the-clock activities during hectic congressional debates.

In 1971 he received the John W. McCormack Annual Award of Excellence for his contributions to American legislation.

After graduating from Miami University, Mr. Deschler did graduate work at George Washington University. He continued his studies at National University after accepting the House position, receiving the M.P.L. degree in 1932 and the LL.D. in 1947. He also edited the House Rules and Manual.

A native of Chillicothe, Mr. Deschler received the Ohio Governor's Award for advancement of prestige of the state in 1971. He was selected as a member of Delta Tau Delta's Distinguished Service Chapter in 1964.

Mr. Deschler is a member of the Washington, D. C., and Supreme Court Bars and a former officer of the American Group of Interparliamentary Union Conference, London.

SAMUEL H. YOUNG, Illinois, elected Congressman from the 10th District of Illinois on November 7, 1972, has had a distinguished career as a lawyer, public servant, educator and key executive of one of the nation's leading health-care corporations.

Congressman Young, who has lived in the 10th District of Illinois for nearly 25 years and now resides in Glenview Ill., has a government career which includes service as an attorney with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, as Illinois securities commissioner, and as an assistant Illinois secretary of state.

Congressman Young heads his own law firm in Chicago and earlier was a partner in the Chicago law firms of Hinshaw, Culbertson, Moellmann and Hoban, and Hough, Young and Coale.

He also has served as financial vice president and secretary, and treasurer of the American Hospital Supply Corporation, a company listed on the New York Stock Exchange. He was responsible for financial and accounting reports, budgeting, profit-planning, financing of the company's foreign trade business, and plant expansion, as well as investment of surplus funds.

While he was Illinois securities commissioner, Congressman Young was the principal drafter of the Illinois Securities Act of 1953 and was responsible for establishing an enforcement division within the office.

During his term as assistant Illinois secretary of state, Congressman Young reorganized the office and installed an electronic data processing system. He also supervised the drafting of the present Illinois Motor Vehicle Code, set up an employee-classification system, and drafted a State Records Act with a public "right to know" provision.

Congressman Young is an author and lecturer of a number of legal papers on finance tax and trade regulations. He is a former officer of the Illinois State Bar Association and has served as chairman of various committees of the Illinois State and Chicago Bar Associations.

For many years he has been active with Delt alumni affairs in the Chicago Area and he has served as a member of Beta Upsilon (University of Illinois) House Corporation.

Congressman Young, who is 50 years old, majored in economics and minored in accounting at the University of Illinois School of Commerce. He was a U.S. Army paratrooper during World War II, entering as a private and rising to the rank of captain before he was discharged in 1944.

After World War II, Congressman Young completed his legal training at the University of Illinois. After graduation, he taught economics at the University of Illinois for a brief time, then taught business finance at Northwestern University while serving as an attorney with the Chicago Regional Office of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

A NEWSPAPER writer recently described George R. Schrader, Baker '53, as "the kind of guy who takes a file folder of work to peruse at the barber shop."

The description will come as no surprise to Mr. Schrader's Delt Brothers who remember him as undergraduate president of Gamma Theta Chapter, president of the Baker University Student Council, and an academic scholarship student.

Today, as city manager of Dallas, Texas, Mr. Schrader is in a sphere of public enterprise generally considered to be of universal urgency. Urban administration has to be one of the premier frontiers of political life.

Mr. Schrader views his responsibility as "a great adventure offering exceptional potential for success." Heading the management team for the nation's eighth largest city means arriving at work early and leaving late, but that is the natural style anyway for the 41-year-old Mr. Schrader.

After graduating from Baker, with dual majors in political science and economics, Mr. Schrader earned a master of public administration degree from the University of Kansas. Later in his career he completed a program for urban executives at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He was an administrative assistant to the city manager at San Angelo, Texas, for three years before accepting a position as the first city manager of Ennis, Texas. In 1959 he was named city manager of Mesquite, one of the fastest growing cities in Texas and the nation. During the seven years he held that position, the city grew from 22,000 to 46,250.

In 1966, Mr. Schrader became assistant city manager of Dallas. He was promoted to acting city manager last November, and one month later he became the city's ninth city manager.

While he was assistant city manager he headed such programs as planning and urban development and public works, both subjected to massive reorganization in recent years, plus transportation, planning, and capital improvements.

He played major roles in planning for Dallas' emerging new convention center, city hall complex, and Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

In 1965 he was selected by the state Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the Five Outstanding Young Texans. Voice of Sports

By JAY LANGHAMMER

ONE OF the nation's outstanding sports broadcasters is Tom Hedrick, Baker '56. Currently the Sports Director of KDFW-TV in Dallas, Texas, Tom is well-respected by his colleagues in the broadcasting field and by the teams he has worked with.

A native of Boston, Tom attended high school in Newton Centre, Mass., before entering Baker University where he was an honors graduate. His roommate at the Delt House was current Western Division Vice-President Ivan "Swede" Malm. They have remained close friends since their college days.

Tom went to graduate school at the University of Kansas and became the school's first graduate in the field of sports telecasting. He also served as chapter adviser to Gamma Tau chapter while a graduate student.

After earning his Masters Degree, Tom worked in Kilgore, Tex., as an announcer, before returning to Lawrence, where he became the voice of the Kansas Jayhawks on a 30-station network. He also did play-by-play for the Topeka Reds baseball club in 1960 and 1961.

Tom remained in Lawrence for seven years and landed the play-by-play job for the Kansas City Chiefs in their second season in Missouri. He continued to broadcast Chiefs games even after moving to Lincoln, Nebraska in 1967, where he did the University of Nebraska football and basketball games for a 20-station network. In 1970, he went to Kansas

Hedrick

City to work fulltime for the Chiefs' flagship station, KCMO.

Tom's next major move was taking over as play-by-play announcer for the Cincinnati Reds in 1971 and 1972. During the 1971-72 basketball season, Tom did the Missouri Valley Conference Game of the Week for TV over 27 stations in 13 states.

Tom was named Sportscaster of the Year in Kansas by his fellow broadcasters from 1960-66 and was 1970 Sportscaster of the Year in Missouri.

This summer, in addition to TV sportscasts at 5, 6, and 10 p.m., Tom has done play-by-play for the Texas Rangers TV network.

Boise Valley

At the February meeting of the Boise Valley Alumni Chapter, Boise, Idaho, John Sherman and Roger Sieber were elected to the board of directors.

Alumni participated in a spring rush party of Delta Mu Chapter, University of Idaho, and plan to assist the undergraduates again during summer rush.

Fort Worth

The Fort Worth Alumni Chapter had three successful events during the fall of 1972 and spring of 1973. On November 4, following TCU's Homecoming Game, 52 alumni attended a cocktail party with the undergrads. That night, 24 Delts, wives, and dates had dinner together at one of Fort Worth's finest restaurants. The next afternoon, the alumni and undergrads played to a 6-6 tie in football; 27 alums turned out for the contest.

The annual Founders Day Banquet in April featured Brother Tom Hedrick, Baker '56, as guest speaker.

New alumni chapter officers were elected at the dinner. The new president is Fort Worth attorney Jim Lane, TCU '66. Outgoing alumni President Jay Langhammer, TCU '66, will serve as secretary, and Clyde Wills, TCU '64, will continue as treasurer.

The San Diego County Alumni Chapter, at its spring meeting, elected Brett Bayne, Texas Tech '63, president. Serving with him is Kenneth D. Robb, Northwestern '65, secretary-treasurer. The election took place at the regular monthly luncheon meeting in the Mission Bay Hilton Inn.

On April 28, 14 Delts and wives attended a Founder's Day dinner at the Inn.

Charleston

After a number of years of dormancy, the Charleston Alumni Chapter has once again come to life. In recent years a large number of Delt alumni have moved into the Charleston area and it is due to the efforts of these men that the Charleston Alumni Chapter is once again functioning.

To date four meetings have been held at the Army-Navy Club of Charleston with the arrangements being made by Brother John C. Lobert. The meetings have been informal, following a format which permits the Alumni to join in a cocktail hour from 5 to 7 p.m., with an option to stay for a fine buffet dinner.

Approximately 30 Brothers have attended the first four meetings with hopes high that this number will increase as the word spreads and attendance becomes a habit. Much time has been put into the renewed effort by Brothers John A. Cobb, David C. McCue, George W. Vetter and David Humphrey.

Plans are to continue with meetings at the Army-Navy Club on the second Tuesday of each month from 5 to 7 p.m. and to support the activities and programs at Gamma Delta. A fall trip to the West Virginia-Indiana Homecoming game is currently in the planning stage as well as help with a summer rush party.

Alumnus Terry Craig, Zeta chapter adviser, accompanied the undergraduate delegation from Case-Western Reserve.

A well deserved alumni citation was made to Dick Seaman, in recognition of tireless efforts on behalf of the Alumni Chapter and his extraordinary service with the Zeta House Corporation.

All Delts in the Cleveland area are invited once again to drop in Friday noon at the Cleveland Advertising Club Dining Room of the Statler Hotel, and join the Delt table in its weekly deliberations.

In closing, it is once more appropriate to say "thank you" to Cleveland's own "Mr. Delta Tau Delta," Clem Frank, for a job well done in organizing the resumption of the Founders Day observance here.

GEORGE KRATT

Southern Division

Sherman did the first Urban Renewal job on Atlanta over 100 years ago, as Wild Bill Tate says the only such project ever done without a lot of committee pre-planning. Delts invaded the Peachtree City last August for the Karnea, felt they did not complete the job, so they returned for the Southern Division Conference in March of this year.

The largest number of Delts ever registered at such a Conference started out in a playful mood as Frank Price and Mike Murphy directed them in an enjoyable and informative session on "Games People Play in Rush." Even those who did not get expected bids had fun, and everyone became acquainted in the Friday morning session.

After lunch, small group discussions were led by Division Vice-President Bert Hayes on leadership problems, Vice-President Darrell Posey on pledge education, and Field Counsellor Mike Murphy on Financial Management. A recorder was elected by each group who capsuled the major points of interest for the entire Conference the next morning. The reports will be reproduced and mailed to each Chapter this fall.

The Conference Banquet was held at Nantucket Taverne on Friday evening with 150 people in attendance. William B. Spann, Jr., Emory '31, served as toastmaster; the melodious choral group from Auburn provided after dinner music which set the stage for an inspiring address by President Edwin L. Heminger.

Fifty Year Certificates were presented to Atlanta alumni by William E. Slaugenhop, president of the Alumni Chapter.

Almost 100 delegates were officially registered, with 25 observers also in attendance. Practically every active from Athens College was in attendance, with many other chapters having ten or more present. Seven of the eight Division vice-presidents were in attendance, along with national Second-Vice-President Bill Fraering of New Orleans. The Central Office was represented by Director of Program Development Frank Price and Field Counsel Mike Murphy. Past National Vice-President Bill Andrews and Mrs. Andrews of Greensboro were welcome guests.

Northern Division

On March 23 and 24, 1973, the 77th Conference of the Northern Division convened at the Pick-Fort Hays Hotel in Columbus, Ohio. The Conference was attended by 65 delegates representing 25 Chapters, 10 Northern Division vice-presidents, five Chapter Advisors, three Central Office representatives, four Arch Chapter members and President Heminger.

In his "State of the Division" report, President Folgers stressed the unrealized potential that is so prevalent in the Division today. It is hoped that during the next two years this situation will be greatly reversed.

For the first time, a professionally run leadership session was included in the Conference. Although some changes would be made in the format in the future, it was generally agreed that the sessions were very beneficial.

The necessary business of the Division was conducted in a spirit of cooperation and brotherhood, including the increasing of Division dues to $5.00 per year, the selection of Chicago as the site for the next Division Conference (1975) and the re-election of President Folgers for another two-year term.

The delegates in attendance felt very strongly about the benefits they and their chapters received from such a Conference and therefore, passed a unanimous resolution requesting President Folgers to write a letter of reprimand to each Chapter not in attendance.

The Conference banquet was held Friday evening with President Heminger presenting an inspiring keynote speech. Gamma Beta at I.I.T. was awarded the only Hugh Shields award in the Division this year.

A great time was had by all and everyone came away with the feeling that the time and money spent was returned ten-fold. We are looking forward to the Regional Conferences next year and hope that the Northern Division will turn in a 100 percent attendance.

Eastern Division

The Eastern Division held its Division Conference on March 1-3, at the Webster Hall Hotel in Pittsburgh. The Conference was hosted by Delta Beta (Carnegie-Mellon), Gamma Sigma (Pittsburgh), and Zeta Mu (Robert Morris) Chapters. Division President Wayne A. Sinclair presided with 100 percent of the Eastern Division Chapters in attendance.

On Thursday delegates were placed in the hands of Michael S. Walker, a graduate student in social work at West Virginia University and an alumnus of Gamma Delta (WVU) Chapter. Mike took the delegates through a very practical and useful process of rational decision making. This exercise was then followed by a social at the Gamma Sigma Shelter.

Throughout the day on Friday delegates took care of business which had accumulated since the last Division Conference. The most important item was revision of the Division Constitution. During this period and long into the night a number of delegates took the opportunity to confer with Arch Chapter and Central Office men who were present, including Director of Academic Affairs, Dr. Fred Kershner, Southern Division President Carl Stipe, Frank Price and others. All of these men proved their devotion to the Fraternity and their expertise in solving numerous individual and chapter problems.

The Division Banquet was held on Friday evening with A. J. "Bud" Murphy, former Division president, serving as toastmaster. Hugh Shields Awards for Chapter Excellence were presented by Division President Sinclair to Alpha Chapter (Allegheny) and to Gamma Chapter (Washington & Jefferson). The Division Scholarship award went to Gamma Omicron (Syracuse). Two past national presidents, Norm MacLeod and Joel Reynolds, presented Distinguished Service Chapter Awards to Jimmy Eppes, chapter adviser at Lehigh University, and Bob Wilson, past Division president.

The evening concluded with an address by National President, Ed Heminger delivering a very timely and inspiring speech on revitalization of the Greek System.

Friday concluded with the Carnegie-Mellon men hosting a social event.

Cecil H. Underwood, president of Bethany College and a former governor of West Virginia, was guest of the Division at its leadership luncheon. President Underwood was given a standing ovation for his talk on the qualities of leadership and how to develop and put them to the best use.

The Eastern Division Conference concluded on Saturday afternoon. During the final business session delegates unanimously elected Wayne A. Sinclair, West Virginia '68, to serve his first full term as Division president and agreed to hold the next Division Conference in New York City.

Western Division

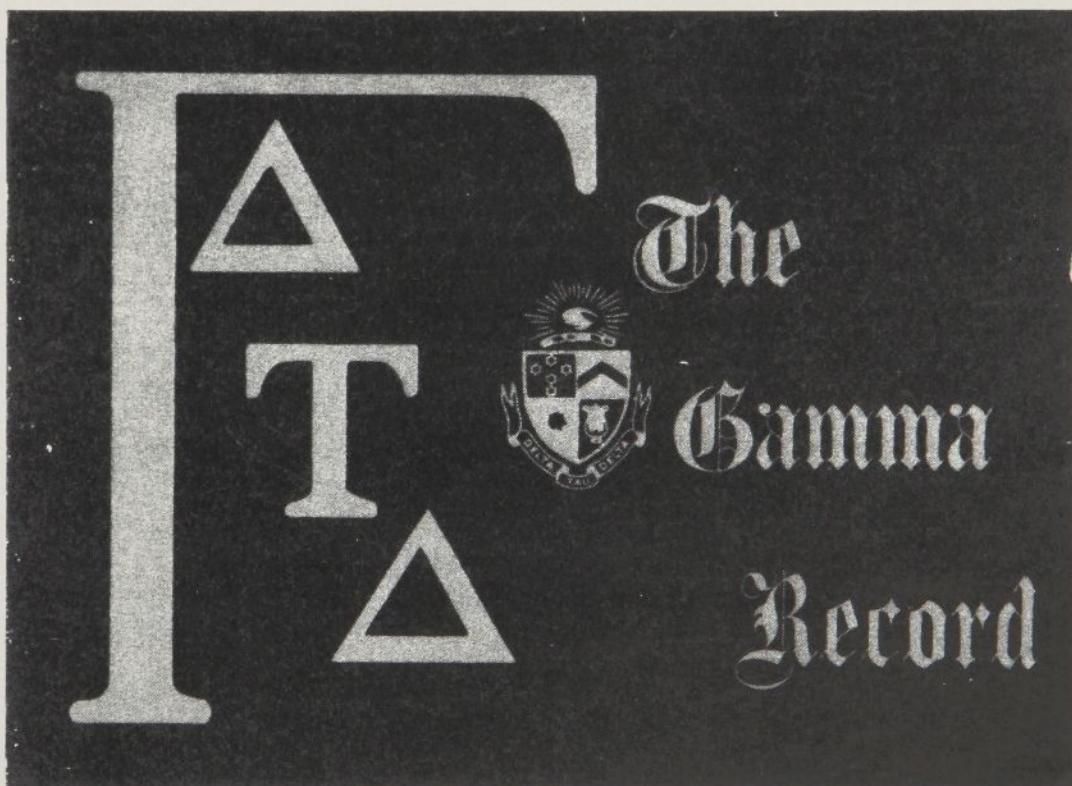

The 65th Western Division Conference at Colorado Springs on March 8-10 was highlighted by election of The Rev. Grover C. "Tex" McElyea of Dallas as the new Division president and the presentation of four Top Ten Flags to Division chapters.

The Conference also marked the end of four fine years of service as Division president by Bill Hulsey. At the Conference Banquet, Dr. Hulsey presented Top Ten Flags to Gamma Chi (Kansas State), Delta Gamma (South Dakota), Delta Mu (Idaho), and Delta Chi (Oklahoma State). The Western Division again had the most Top Ten Chapters of any Division. The key speaker at the banquet was Fraternity President Edwin L. Heminger, who gave an inspiring talk.

The Conference featured the rush role-playing session that was used at the Karnea last August and panel discussions on many relevant Fraternity areas and issues. In all, Colorado Springs attracted 122 undergrad members and pledges; 18 Division, Central Office, and Arch Chapter personnel; and seven Chapter Advisers.

Delt Chapters

Best Undergraduate Newspaper

GOOD EDITORIAL BALANCE and believability were key factors in selection of The Gamma Record as the best undergraduate Delt newspaper of 1971-72. The publication of Gamma Chapter, Washington & Jefferson College, provided alumni of the chapter with a variety of information ranging from group activities to individual thoughts about higher education, student life, and intramural athletics. It also published news of alumni in its column "Gamma's Alumni Directory." Edited by Harry Chiesi, the newspaper also rated high in layout and quality of writing. Staff members included Assistant Editor Rick Eichenberg, Dick Bailey, Curt Bucher, Dan Chunko, Roger Johnson, Pete Tietjen, Jon Walburn, Ed Watson, and Rege Zagrocki. Runner-up to The Gamma Record was the Delta Gram of Gamma Theta Chapter, Baker University. Staff members displayed an obvious grasp of alumni interests and wrote a good variety of articles without the use of glittering superlatives that characterized many of the chapter publications.

ALLEGHENY

Alpha

ALPHA HAD THE record-breaking fortune of taking its largest pledge class in its 109-year history, a total of 32 men with the strength of 100.

As is the tradition of Alpha, "hell week" is a constructive period for the pledges, uniting them with the Brothers and each other through projects beneficial to the house as a whole. This year they completed a massive wall at the rear of the house to prevent erosion in a ravine similarly located.

The spirit of the pledge class is only one phase of the sentiment within the house, however. The Allegheny chapter has succeeded in taking its fourth consecutive Hugh Shields Award; present hopes are to retire the flag in the Delt shelter once and for all.

The drive of the chapter was clearly depicted in the Red Cross Blood Raising campaign, in which Alpha received an award for the greatest number of donations and greatest percentage of participants in relations to the other fraternities on campus.

Both the new and the old were witnessed by the Alpha shelter this year. The new was a beautiful stone and marble fireplace constructed in the recreation quarters of the house, in addition to another fine attendance on parents' day, some 160 in number. The old, unfortunate as it may be, was another second place finish in the inter-fraternity sports competition. For consistently strong Alpha, the antiquated adage seems to be apropos: the more things change, the more they remain the same.

BRUCE CHARLES KING

ATHENS COLLEGE

Epsilon Sigma

THIS BROTHERS OF Epsilon Sigma Chapter had an outstanding spring semester at Athens College. In participating in community service we collected over $300 for the Heart Fund in March. The Brothers also participated in the March of Dimes Walkathon.

We have been very active in our campus organizations having Rex Cheatham elected president of the Student Government Association and Paul Joensen elected S.G.A. senator.

In April Dan Lisle was elected president of the I.F.C. Tom Minlionica, Paul Joensen, Hal Torello, Dan Lisle, and Rex Cheatham were selected Greek horsemen, for their outstanding contributions to the Greek system on campus.

In May our little sister, Joan Siebert, was elected May queen by the student body. On honors day we were awarded a trophy for first place in intramural football (a first for our chapter), with an 8-1 record.

We at Epsilon Sigma are looking forward to the 1973-74 school year with a bright future after this past semester, having obtained a shelter, being the first fraternity on campus to do so. The Brothers of Epsilon Sigma hope all our Brothers have a safe and enjoyable summer and a successful fall rush program.

REX G. CHEATHAM

AUBURN

Epsilon Alpha

SPRING OF 1973 brought many activities to Auburn for Epsilon Alpha. The mighty Delt softball team placed a hard-earned third in the intramural softball league. Also our not-so-athletic little sisters played the little sisters of Alpha Gamma Rho. Unfortunately they lost in a close 45-2 game.

The Brothers and Pledges assisted in several community service projects. Among them was the Student Government Association Blood Drive. Epsilon Alpha was given the greatest participation award among the fraternities, with 100 percent donation with minimal casualties. The Special Olympics were held here at Auburn with the chapter helping in the events for handicapped children. The games held here were the state finals.

Scholastics at Auburn have improved for the Dels. We jumped from 25th on campus to 9th this year. We are now looking forward to a good fall rush and another great Auburn football season.

STEVE BENTLEY

BAKER

Gamma Theta

GAMMA THETA finished its academic year with its annual Stag hosted by the undergraduates. Over 100 Baker Dels participated in the day's events, which were topped off by a steak dinner, speeches and awards.

Alumnus Troy Gordon of the Tulsa World was the main speaker and answered questions concerning topics such as Watergate and freedom of the press. We all felt fortunate that he was able to be with us for Stag.

The Chapter will be focusing on Rush throughout the summer with a committee headed by John Simonson and Steve Terrill. We have confidence that we will be successful in the fall.

We realize that this past school year has been a success because of the increased participation and concern of alumni. We certainly hope that this participation will continue in '73-'74. Their help was needed and we sincerely appreciated it.

BETHANY

Theta

THE BROTHERS of Theta Chapter successfully concluded the 1972-73 academic year with an active spring in Bethany.

Sparked by the addition of several capable pledges, Theta finished second in intramural swimming and third in the race for the intramural cup. This year's outstanding performers were Ralph Leslie, John "Sammy" Woodruff, Bob Elder, Pete Lupfer, Dave Andrews, Dick Foley, and Paul Cole.

The Bethany Dels' academic consistency was evidenced in their second place finish among the seven campus fraternities. Our average was 2.85.

Graduating 20 seniors (John Draper, Rick Hudson, and Rick Minteer got Distinction), we look gratefully to our active pledge class.

The social calendar was brought to a successful conclusion with the Delt Formal in April, and a pledge-sponsored "Hoopie" Weekend in May. (For you Northerners, "Hoopie" is slang for hillbilly.) The Weekend was topped off by Theta's rousing rendition of "Mountain Dew" during Greek Sing competition. Needless to say, we didn't win!

Finally, we would like to congratulate Brother Bob Falzarano for his steady play with Bethany's varsity baseball team. Besides leading the team in home runs, Bob batted .360.

EMORY

Beta Epsilon

AFTER A WINTER issue lapse due to Beta Epsilon's Rainbow reporter being held incommunicado in the Army and California while the Hot'lanta boys were bringing in an excellent new-blood freshman class, spring brought initiation of the 1000th Emory Delt, a Delt-sponsored week-long campus party, and a second place finish in softball competition.

Steve Rosencranz of Houston, Texas, became the 1000th BE initiate, in a ceremony attended by alumnus Dr. Strozier,

BE '15, who was applauded for his interest in the chapter. A week-long series of spring skits under the theme "Where's Your Head At?" ending in a band party also drew campus-wide interest. "Rob" Cohen and Bill Kelly, the stunning belle and beau of the Friday afternoon ball, led the "Slaughterhouse Five," freshmen successors to the old "Good Time Boys" and the "WLA" cliques, most noted for stealing the foosballs out of the machine and hiding them on the Shelter roof last fall.

In other sports, Delts spearheaded formation of an Atlanta lacrosse club and served on varsity track and soccer teams. In interfraternity swimming, Delt Mickey Conway set a new 50-yard freestyle record of 0:25.7, and the Delt sportsmen also pulled in a first place finish in soccer and a second place in volleyball. Awards given at the Myrtle Beach spring formal include Best Senior — Mike McMillan, Old Jock — Gary Myerson, Best Freshman — Rick Turton, and BOS — Tom Catalano. Robbie Baxter was crowned sweetheart by President Alden Beane.

Problems of the year included lack of a cohesive, worthwhile but haze-free pledge program, temporary financial worries, and decreased membership — problems currently common to all Emory chapters. Recognition of these problems at year end is producing a strong rush program under the leadership of Nate Kauffman. For recent alumni, Bill Caruso is organizing a local directory of new addresses, and for the Little Sisters, the chapter is considering shortening their title to just "Sisters." In closing, many thanks to Beta Omega, Epsilon Psi, and Delta Pi for just being there.

PAT CRENSHAW

GEORGIA TECH Gamma Psi

THIS HAS BEEN a critical year for Delta Tau Delta at Georgia Tech. Under new and dedicated leadership the chapter has responded to efforts that are remedying situations inherited in the form of mistakes committed by Brothers no longer associated with the chapter. A dedicated pledge class anticipates a fruitful fall rush while any Gamma Psi alumni support, either financial or moral, would be appreciated.

Traditionally strong athletic teams placed the chapter in the top third of fraternity competition for the year, while the chapter struggled to raise its academic standing with some success.

JOSEPH B. OLDENBURG, Beta Epsilon Chapter, Emory University.

MICHAEL P. KIERNAN, Beta Xi Chapter, Tulane University.

KENT G. LIGHTFOOT, Beta Rho Chapter, Stanford University.

JOHN E. SNIDER, Beta Rho Chapter, Stanford University.

PATRICK J. COOK, Gamma Iota Chapter, University of Texas.

JACK B. SURFACE, Gamma Kappa Chapter, University of Missouri.

GREGG D. WENGER, Gamma Chi Chapter, Kansas State University.

PAUL S. FARKAS, Delta Mu Chapter, University of Idaho.

DAVID P. GOLDENBERG, Delta Rho Chapter, Whitman College.

REX G. CHEATHAM, Epsilon Sigma Chapter, Athens College.

SCOTT WINFIELD WILSON, Zeta Beta Chapter, LaGrange College.

Hunt, after dinner volleyball games, skirmishes with the S.A.E.'s, backyard band parties, late-night hearts tournaments... all make life in the Delt house extremely tolerable. It is no surprise that Gamma Psi Delts come from as diverse locations as Boston, Rochester, Orlando, Houston, Cincinnati, Louisville, Montana, Wisconsin, Mississippi, Miami to enter the friendly atmosphere which is Delta Tau Delta.

NEAL PETTIT

ILLINOIS TECH Gamma Beta

OVER THE PAST semester, the name of Delta Tau Delta has passed the lips of most everyone on IIT's campus. Though it may just be a coincidence, the four newest officers of IIT's student government are Delts. Klaus Kretschmann, Jeff Essman, Steve Enger and Jack Amoroso made a clean sweep of the election receiving a landslide majority of the vote, gaining support from both fraternities and dorms. Along with this success, there has been the usual high finishes in sports and scholarship (2.91 compared to the school average of 2.5), and the second IFC all-activities trophy in a row.

But while such laurels make good advertising during rush week, the business of finding good men to see them must be attended to first. While quite proud of its 21 new initiates, Gamma Beta faces another critical rush week, realizing that each successive rush week is crucial to the survival of the house. With this in mind, Gamma Beta Dels are visiting across the country in the homes of prospective IIT students.

On the whole, the Delts have not only done much to improve their own already respected name, they have done much to improve the reputation of the Greek System at IIT. And in a way, that is just as important.

DUXTAN T. DANIELS

INDIANA Beta Alpha

ALTHOUGH ALL GREEK Houses have under gone periods of stress, BA of Indiana University has admittedly been in a rut.

"The name of DTD on the I.U. Campus has not been one to attach a large amount of creditability to in the last three years," reports Craig Haffner the new chapter president. "It's been kind of a touch and go thing ever since I pledged in 1970. The attitude of the chapter on the whole had been one of letting someone else do the work. Everyone was ready to sit down and drink a beer, but when it came time to sit down and work out a rush program etc. it was the same few who did the work."

However things, and by things I mean people's attitudes, seem to have caught fire. "I can't really put my finger on any one thing that made the mood in the house change. When I took office in January I had some very set ideas about where this house should be. With the help of Skip Fisher (VP) and J. D. Lienhoop (treasurer) we attacked the money end of our problem first; we also re-worked our committee structure so that everyone would have to participate in some capacity. Although we still had to make some changes in our original plans, the spark of brotherhood seems to come alive."

The new feeling at BA is something you will have to come to I.U. to understand; it can't be put into words. However a prime example of some of the benefits of this is a much improved rec room.

"Three years ago," says Haffner, "there would have been no way we could have bought and maintained our own ping-pong and pool tables. The attitude of the Brothers seems to be one of making this a home not just another house."

The fire has started at Beta Alpha and this time its for good.

IOWA Omicron

OMICRON CHAPTER completed another outstanding year in intramural sports, but we were doomed to another second place finish in the social fraternity all sports crown race. After leading the entire campaign, inability to field quality squash, handball, and paddleball players plagued us again this spring.

In a vain attempt to pick up more points, we split our All-University softball champs of last year into two teams. The strategy backfired as our deleted "A" team lost in the All-U finals.

However, many outstanding efforts were turned in by the Brothers this spring. "Hammerin" Dan Christensen, in his fifth season, earned a berth on the All-U softball team. Guard Dave Drees shot his way to a spot on the All-U basketball team. Jim Russell scored an unprecedented three wins, taking crowns in the football throw, shot put, and the mile run during the track meet. "Golden Oars" Goodale and Mark "Evinrude" Lorenzen paddled their way to a 2nd place finish in the canoe race. "Kingfish" Mitchell caught the biggest catfish and Ron Singer got the second biggest walleye during the fishing derby. "Bump" Gray added a singles ping-pong crown to his doubles crown. The volleyball, basketball, and track teams all took disappointing losses in the finals of their respective sports.

In addition to graduation, Omicron lost two fine men as Denny Coellner and Dan Christensen took that long march to the altar. However, with rush in the capable hands of Curt ("Pledgin") Yoder, a pledge class that will follow in the footsteps of the fine seniors is expected.

LA GRANGE Zeta Beta

THE 1972-73 SCHOOL year saw Zeta Beta welcome 12 new Brothers into what proved to be an inspiring year. The 1972-73 pledge classes paneled the pool room, which produced a marked improvement in the appearance of our Shelter.

Our athletics improved greatly this year and although we didn't win consistently we showed tremendous spirit. We were so impressed with the ability of our baseball team that we challenged our alumni to a game. The results weren't quite what we hoped for but we had a chance to see old friends again.

Zeta Beta participated in La Grange's first annual "Walk for Mankind" which benefits "Project Concern," a charity program to bring free medical aid to five centers in the United States, Mexico and China.

At our Rainbow formal held in Columbus, Ga., we announced that our new sweetheart is Miss Barbara Pound from Atlanta. We are all proud to have her as our sweetheart and hope that she will be able to match the fine work put in by Anne Doll, her predecessor.

STEPHEN H. RYAN

LAMAR Zeta Gamma

THE BROTHERS of Zeta Gamma chapter were excited this spring by the prospect of purchasing our now-released Shelter. When this opportunity became a reality, the chapter unanimously decided to buy the Shelter as a permanent home for the Delts at Lamar, choosing Ken Kondo as our first resident adviser.

Wayne Richard was elected president for the 1973-74 school year. At our spring formal in mid-March, Marianne Kondo, Delt Little Sister and member of Delta Zeta Sorority was selected as our chapter's new Sweetheart.

Everyone enjoyed the intramural program conducted by Lamar this spring. Although our performance was not overpowering, our softball team is coming along very well and we are looking forward to a strong Delt bowling team next fall. The first "each-semester" pool tourney was inaugurated by the spring Pledge class.

The pride taken in the scholastic achievements of our members and pledges was again evident, for the Delts have captured the Scholarship Trophy, given to the fraternity with the highest overall g.p.a.

A fund raising project to aid the Angie Nall Hospital was held in early April. Although the semester ended May 19, we were back together Memorial Day Weekend for the annual Pt. Arthur Crawfish Festival, and all involved in the three days of hard work, fellowship, and success had a great time.

Now that summer is upon us, it's back home and summer jobs for most of our Brothers. But the success and fulfillment during the spring has been an incentive to even better things next fall.

BOB PAULES

LSU Epsilon Kappa

SUMMER RUSH is underway at Epsilon Kappa with parties planned at the Shelter and in all major Louisiana cities.

EK maintained its winning tradition, ending the spring semester with top honors in all competition. The Delts took first place in Songfest and the Jambala Jamboree (a cajun festival) losing Sweepstakes in both events by two points.

In athletics the Delts chalked up first place honors in softball, tennis doubles and badminton singles and doubles; second place in volleyball, tennis singles and ping pong; and third place in track and basketball. The Brothers also participated in the Second Annual March of Dimes Basketball Tournament.

Epsilon Kappa Chapter received its fourth consecutive Hugh Shields award at the division conference in Atlanta.

MIKE BODIN

MARIETTA Epsilon Upsilon

EPISILON UPSILON has been concerned this past year with improving its standing in the areas of fraternity, campus and community activities.

In fraternity activities our faculty speaker program, started at the end of last year, continued with the Brothers hearing from several people from different areas of the campus community. The talks formed the basis for several of the Brothers to enter student government.

Our Little Sister program continued to grow and you might say started to suffer from growing pains. We are in the process of putting the program on a more formal basis.

Intramural sports continued to be the area of continuing improvement with the chapter attaining the best overall record since the chapter was founded.

Campus activities started off with news that we had won the most improved scholarship trophy and the scholarship trophy for high average. In student government we placed one Brother in the office of treasurer and several other members on various committees.

The area of public service maintained the success which was started last year. The major project was the Easter egg hunt which we sponsored in conjunction with the sisters of the Alpha Sigma Tau sorority. Our pledges collected for the Heart Fund. We also participated in several Interfraternity activities, which included a food drive and a Christmas party for area children.

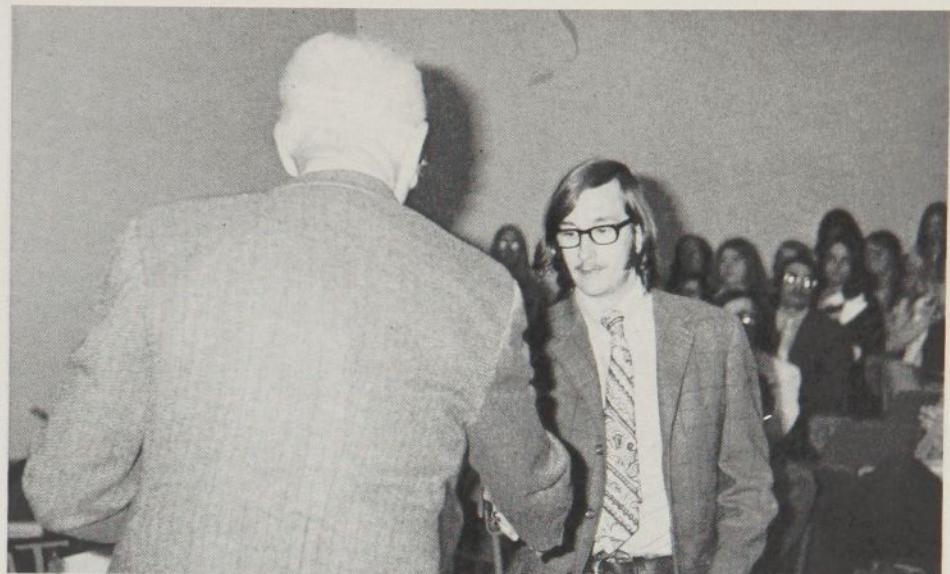

NEAL METTLER

MIAMI Gamma Upsilon

THE 1972-73 school year had many highlights for Deltas at Miami. One of the most impressive was the All-Delt Basketball Tournament involving Delt chapters from the three-state area of Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Indiana. The tournament drew 12 teams and plenty of tough competition. The Miami B team won the tournament and was awarded the trophy after defeating the Miami A team in the finals.

It was a memorable weekend for everyone, and with this year's success it is hoped that next year's All-Delt Tournament will include more Delt chapters and be an even better opportunity to meet the Brothers from other chapters.

In the area of intramural sports the chapter did quite well, but because of close losses to the Betas, in football, basketball, and softball, failed to make it to the finals. In the independent softball league the Delt P.L.D. team kept hopes alive as it made it to the semi-finals, but was defeated there in a very close game.

Marietta College sophomore Ken Weaver of Avon Lake accepts scholarship cups for Delta Tau Delta from Marietta President Frank E. Duddy Jr. during the annual spring honors assembly. Mr. Weaver is president of the Fraternity. The Deltas won cups for compiling the best and the most improved academic records during the fall semester.

This year's rush was very successful and the 30 new pledges from the winter and spring classes will strengthen the chapter in every dimension. With the strong pledge classes and the experiences of this year, next year promises to be even more successful for the Deltas at Miami University.

SCOTT GOODWIN

MIDDLE TENNESSEE Zeta Kappa

ZETA KAPPA enters its second year with high hopes. We continue to stress scholarship among members. In spring semester, Zeta Kappa ranked second in grade point averages among fraternities, after placing first in the fall.

Our Shelter is an old house, but because of combined efforts of every member, it is considered by most students to be the neatest, best furnished fraternity house of the many around town.

Although we are small in number, Zeta Kappa ranked first in average hours contributed to community services and projects in a list published by the dean of men.

Zeta Kappa also boasts of some fine athletes. With the intramural softball season starting in the fall, we hope to take home the fraternity trophy in that sport.

Zeta Kappa plans a strong rush program for a long period of time. The program will be aided greatly by our "Daddy Delt," Charles Lea, men's residence halls director.

JIM BOWLES

NORTH CAROLINA Gamma Omega

THE SPRING semester proved to be one of continued prosperity for Gamma Omega Chapter. One of our biggest projects was the initiation of a summer rush program, a recent change by the IFC of the University of North Carolina. We look upon this change favorably and hope it will help us to expand our membership.

Establishment of the House Corporation was a great step forward for our chapter. Former Delta Tau Delta National President Charles T. Boyd, and former National Secretary Bill Andrews head the Corporation. The Corporation is exploring the possibility of purchasing our own Shelter.

The social calendar for spring semester was heavily loaded as usual. Our annual beach weekend took place at Ocean Drive Beach, S.C. As usual, it was a weekend of leisure living and good clean fun. We held a two-on-two basketball tournament in which everyone in the house participated. It proved to be a worthwhile event; fun for spectators and players alike.

During Easter, we made a trip to a nearby orphanage and put on an Easter egg hunt for the children. During the off season, some of our boys are going to have to brush up on their egg-hiding skills.

The end of the semester was highlighted by Gamma Omega's Annual Awards Banquet. The Outstanding Delt Award, Gamma Omega's coveted award, went to Scott Douglass. In accepting this award, Scott symbolized Gamma Omega's continued efforts to maintain the high standards of Delta Tau Delta.

MICHAEL E. HANSON

OKLAHOMA STATE Delta Chi

DELTA CHI has had a very successful spring semester. The chapter had an overall 2.88 G.P.A. for this semester which is the best in Delta Chi's history. Intramurally, the Dels at OSU ended up in fourth place in the fraternity standings, which is also the best placing the chapter has ever attained. Delta Chi had the most intramural points for the spring semester, having won all-fraternity golf and track and won second place in both A and B Team all-fraternity softball. Brothers Scott Demaree and Doug Hunt made the All-Fraternity B Volleyball Team while Larry Lilly made the A All-Fraternity Volleyball Team.

Delta Chi innovated a new member orientation program to replace the pledge program. This was done to upgrade the standards and ideas of the house through helping to create better new initiates who feel that they are more a part of the house from the very beginning.

Financially, the house was in a sticky situation when the chapter found itself 10 people below what the house had budgeted for the spring semester. Several unavoidable factors contributed to this dilemma. It takes 51 men living in the house to operate at minimum efficiency, and we were below this number by four or five men. The house was meeting all financial obligations but had red balances showing in the books according to the budget. Delta Chi tightened up its belt and ended up in the black by the end of the semester. It took a concerned effort of the treasurer (Brother Rod Horton) and the entire chapter to allow this correction to take place.

The 25th Anniversary of Delta Chi Chapter will be celebrated either the 1st or 2nd week of April 1974.

KENT O'HALLORAN

OREGON STATE Delta Lambda

THIS YEAR'S Delta Lambda pledge class helped us complete another successful year by winning the prestigious "Thane Award" signifying the best all around pledge class of all fraternities at the University. This marks the fourth consecutive year Delta Lambda has ranked first in the honor.

With the help of rookies Dave Fisher and Ralph Poole, Delta Lambda organized and successfully pulled off a 100-mile "keg roll" to raise funds for the Oregon Kidney Association this spring. Joining together with Epsilon Theta chapter at Willamette, our forces completed the two-and-one-half-day trek with $1000 pledged to the Kidney Association.

Actives fared well in representing the house this year. Among our members were five student senators including Dave Krives, Greg Young, Paul Wulf, Mike Sheets and Craig Wells. This year's house president, Ross Cook, was tapped for Blue Key and was presented the Scholarship-Leadership Award. Three of our new pledges were initiated into Phi Eta Sigma.

As rush on the Oregon State campus has lately seen several "warning-signals," we put together a strong informal rush program this spring which brought in six new pledges. Our summer rush program, headed by Scott Galbraith, will be working in conjunction with Epsilon Theta, Gamma Rho, Delta Mu, and Epsilon Gamma.

LARRY ENDACOTT

PITTSBURGH Gamma Sigma

SUMMER IS usually the slow time of the year for fraternal activities, but not for Gamma Sigma this year.

Summertime opened with a splash when a group of Brothers met in Tyrone, Pa., for a canoe trip down the Juniata River. The final destination was Harrisburg, Pa., more than 130 river miles away. Business and pleasure were combined, with numerous seminars concerning chapter problems and goals for the coming year.

Back in Pittsburgh we are hoping for a championship in the summer softball league. However, even without victory the games are keeping the Brothers together during the sometimes isolating summer.

Next fall's rush is already in progress under the direction of Chris Schnatterly. Rush get-togethers are planned for the summer and great participation is expected. The fuse is lit and we hope for an explosion in September.

We wish our recently graduated Brothers good luck and also congratulate the winners of our special senior awards. The recipient of the Oliver Holbrook Award, given for the best all-round achievement, is Terry Aaron. The recipient of the Parmalee Award, given for the most achievement within the chapter, is Larry Skalski.

We hope everyone has a relaxing summer. If your travels bring you through Pittsburgh, feel free to stop for shelter.

PURDUE Gamma Lambda

THE FIRST annual Delta Tau Delta "Pigskin Classic," a double-elimination flag football tournament between eight-man fraternity teams, was organized by two Gamma Lambda Brothers, Dan Hirleman and John Hirsch. Purpose of the tournament was two-fold according to Hirleman: "We wanted to organize an intramural football program for fraternities at Purdue, and at the same time get the house involved in a project for charity. We feel that this tournament killed two birds with one stone so to speak."

Recipient of a check for $158.16 was the Lafayette Community Center, which operates two community centers in the inner-city area of downtown Lafayette.

Earlier this year, Delt Brothers paid Christmas-season calls on the children, helping with activities at the center the day Santa Claus arrived to distribute goodies — which were donated by GL.

Putting a bit of "frosting on the cake" on the endeavor, the two Delt teams entered in the double-elimination tourney, met for the title. The winner emerged through the loser's bracket, beat the previously-undefeated team twice, took the title and six-foot trophy.

For the fourth consecutive year, Delt tankman raced off with top honors in the Purdue Intramural swim meet early this spring. Held in two divisions, fraternity and dormitory, the meet is open only to non-varsity swimmers.

Winning six out of a possible nine events, Gamma Lambda easily outdistanced Beta Theta Pi for the second year in a row. Among the six victories were four individual efforts, and two relay triumphs.

Individual winners included Mike Meuris, Evergreen Park, Ill., for the third consecutive year in the 100-yard individual medley.

NOW THAT it's summer and only a dozen Brothers remain in beautiful Troy, it seems like a good time to review the year: 1972-73 was after all a unique year for us as there were 28 neophytes, or over two-thirds of the House. The few seniors that there were, quickly turned us into a bunch of partiers and derelicts before we knew it, only to be awakened abruptly by the posting of grades to reality.

The Little Sister program that we started a year ago with neighboring Russell Sage College did not live up to our expectations. The pledges were not as wild as last year's bunch of fun loving sisters, and next year the rush will be run by the Brothers to eliminate minor forms of jealousy.

The band parties continued into the spring, although midweek ones were cancelled to strike a happy medium.

With the sun growing ever brighter, the horticulturists brought out terrariums and window boxes, and continue in their care of summer greens. Only three Brothers are attending school as part of the summer work-study program; the others remain because of plentiful jobs, and all agree that home is where the Delts are.

Delts were very noticeable in RPI sports, with Dave Sabatka, Gerry McManamy, and Larry Hagerty on varsity basketball; Marc Strollo and Mike Courtney being the 1,2 men in diving for the swim team, and Mike Bedrudczyk star freshman southpaw for the varsity baseball squad. In track distancemen Charlie Pottey, Ed Groden and Jim Compas all went to the ICAC's along with sprinters Bill Manders (who ran in the 440 relay which placed first) and Jay Spaulding. Lew Farber just missed qualifying for the Nationals in the hammer throw, with 149 ft. John Oetken, three-year starting corner linebacker was named All-Metroland and All ICAC.

The House "A" Team won the intramural championship for ice hockey and is continuing to dominate the summer hockey league with likes of Anna, Coon, Eng, Knoot and Whitney.

TIM DEVINE is a junior at the University of South Dakota from Watertown. He is in the School of Business majoring in business management with a primary emphasis in economics. He served as Delta Tau Delta's IFC representative for two years and presently holds the office of president of the Council.

Tim was selected as delegate this year for the University to the Mid-American Interfraternity Council Association's annual conference held in Kansas City. He was elected president of the 17-state area of MIFCA.

Dakotans is a service organization on campus of which Tim is a member. It is a junior mens honorary based on scholastic standing and campus activities.

An interest in music and dancing also have been a part of Tim's extracurricular activities. Strollers is a mini-musical produced totally by the students. He has participated in Strollers for two years and this year directed one of the winning shows.

With two fellow students on the USD campus, Tim has undertaken some worthwhile causes for the betterment of the Greek houses. They have initiated a co-operative food buying plan which hopefully will go into effect for the coming 1973-74 school year.

A state-wide drive for multiple sclerosis is one of his community projects. Also through IFC he will coordinate the student body for a fund raising drive in Vermillion and the surrounding areas for muscular dystrophy for the coming year.

In his spare time Tim is involved in intramural athletics.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Delta Pi

ELEVEN Southern California Deltas are enrolled in Knights (junior and senior men) and Squires (sophomore men) service organizations. These groups are responsible for administration of such things as football card stunts, stadium seating, campus public relations and, in the absence of SC's old student council, the Knights are the acting student government.

Five Brothers are on the USC rugby team and three are on the crew team. Jeff Miller is a consistent performer on the nationally-ranked golf team, carrying on a Delt tradition most recently passed on by 1972 graduate Stan Lent.

The chapter also has 12 men on the varsity surf team (slightly under half of the team's total membership) and three on the varsity sailing team.

Scholastically, our achievements match our athletic record. Eleven members were honored on the Dean's List, four of them with straight-A records. Deltas are represented heavily in the university's honor societies.

Our summer rush program is being conducted by co-chairmen Greg Bravich, Brad Talt, and Cliff Wilson.

OUR PLEDGE class of 10 men is one of the finest to have ever gone through our pledge program. These men were well dedicated to themselves and to our chapter. They proved their dedication to us by helping out in non-pledge activities and of course by participating fully in all other functions. We have complete confidence that these new Deltas will help us immensely in the future.

Our Spring Formal was held in Austin on April 14 and it turned out to be a great time. What made it even better was that there was a good turn out of alumni because we sent out letters telling them of our events.

The highlight of the evening was announcement of our chapter sweetheart, Melissa Anderson, who has been in our Tau Delt Little Sister Chapter a good while.

Of course, our Little Sisters helped us tremendously this past spring, with such things as decorating our lunch table or making refreshments for our meetings. We just cannot help but have the greatest admiration for these girls.

Our third big event of the year was again involved with one of our pledges. Every spring, during the university's "Greek Week," the Kappa Sigma Fraternity sponsors "Fite Night." This is where anyone at school may sign up to box with a named or unnamed person. Each year also, one particular boxer is presented with the annual "Fighter-of-the-Night" Award for the best overall performance.

Two-time "Fite Night" winner and contestant who was a Tau Kappa Epsilon, was matched with our pledge "Little Bob" Gilfillan. Both were Golden Gloves participants and their fight turned out to be the crowd pleaser.

Three rounds are allowed at one minute each; this fight went just two. The referee had to call the fight because the TKE was getting beaten severely. With that match, the crowd gave a standing ovation and "Little Bob" turned out to be the "Fighter-of-the-Night."

Our annual Awards Banquet held our last meeting of the year. Chapter members were called upon to vote for various awards to be given. Awards were: Best Athlete: Craig Wilburn, Best Graduating Senior: Robert Perritt, Best Overall GPA: Joe Cardenas (Joe has also been accepted in Medical School at the University of Texas at San Antonio), Best Overall Active: Buddy Baxter.

Rho

MAY 7 WAS the day when Rho sponsored her second annual blood drive program on the Stevens campus. Approximately 150 pints of blood were donated by the Stevens community. The Greater New York Blood Program, which is a combined effort of the Community Blood Council and the Red Cross, provided the nurses, and Rho provided the supporting manpower. Marty Ketterer and Bob Heinlein, who worked very hard for many months, led the program to another success.

The Deltas won the "All Sports Trophy" for the 19th consecutive year at the annual Spring Sports weekend. Rho also won several other individual sports trophies for the past season.

Rho Chapter's traditional athletic pride can now be closely complemented by the recent academic achievements which helped to boost Rho to top standings. Rho's standing has surpassed Stevens' all-men average for the past two years now, and it is still improving.

The Brothers of Rho would like to wish all to have an enjoyable summer.

Gamma Omicron

THE 25TH anniversary of the re-establishment of Gamma Omicron Chapter at Syracuse University will be commemorated at a special Anniversary Weekend September 21-23.

Reunion headquarters for the weekend will be the Sheraton Motor Inn located just off the New York State Thruway at exit 37, 7th North St. at Electronics Parkway.

Activities will begin at the Sheraton at 7 p.m. Friday, with a reception and kick-off party. Saturday morning there will be an informal meeting of the Alumni Association to bring returning Deltas up to date on the status of our Fraternity today. A champagne brunch will be served from 10:15 to 11:15.

Bus transportation will be provided to take Brothers and their guests from the Sheraton to Archbold Stadium where the Orange will take on Michigan State in football. After the game the chapter will host alumni at a cocktail party at the chapter house on Walnut Place. Following the party, transportation will be provided back to the Sheraton for the Anniversary Banquet.

On Sunday, Deltas interested in playing golf will be able to make arrangements on one of the fine courses near the Sheraton.

See you on September 21. Your classmates will be looking for you!

DELTA DELTA has had an exceptionally good year, ranging from IFC intramural sports champions to substantial grade improvements. Our Brothers have tied closely together in an effort to honor the Delt name. As a group we have significant improvements in the condition of the house with much spirit and effort.

In intramurals we have won the overall IFC sports championship while taking the basketball, softball, tennis, paddleball, racquet ball, handball, and bowling championships in our division.

The Deltas have been well represented in IFC this year, with Steve Alsobrook as the communications vice-president, Jay Rice refilling his position as public relations director, John Dangler serving as programs director, and Jim Myers serving on IFC rush committee as well as speaking for the fraternities during Summer Orientation.

Our future appears very promising, also. With a total of 42 actives returning fall quarter, we should be able to increase membership substantially. Coming fall we have scheduled several parties, and encourage all Delts in the area to party with us.

Alumni Banquet at Tennessee

By FRED BROOKS

THE DELTA DELTA Chapter at Knoxville, Tennessee, held its Alumni Banquet at the Hyatt Regency Hotel on March 30 and 31. This was the first year that a banquet of this type was put on by our Delt chapter, and it was a big success. The turnout of alumni and guests was very good.

The cocktail party was an enjoyable evening, with everyone greeting old acquaintances and making new friends. It was really good to see both the older Dels and the current actives coming together to exchange fraternity experiences and share the bond that being a Delt develops.

The luncheon the following day was well-attended. The Little Sisters entertained the wives and served as gracious hostesses throughout the entire alumni weekend.

The banquet Saturday night was the highlight of the weekend. The facilities of the Hyatt House were excellent, and everyone had a good time.

As guest speakers at the banquet, we were honored to have with us Dr. Andrew Holt and Edwin Hughes. Dr. Holt, among many other positions, is president emeritus of the University of Tennessee, and Mr. Hughes is national treasurer of the Fraternity. Both speakers highlighted the evening with their entertaining remarks and words of the importance of working together.

Those alums and their wives who attended the weekend were:

Bob Lee, J. D. Flynn, Stephen Lay, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hummel, Dave Black, Mr. and Mrs. Greg Benson, T. O. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Fewell, Carleton Cook, Karl Winzeler, Rudy Heinrich, Dr. and Mrs. George Henson, Mr. and Mrs. John Dabbs, Mr. and Mrs. "Squiz" Green, Mr. and Mrs. William Sanders, John Overton, H. F. Miller, Miner Dent, John Carlen, Ernest Newbill, and H. Johnston.

At the House Corporation meeting, the committee gave the chapter $900 towards refurbishing and painting the living room and other improvements in the house. These improvements will help our chapter in rush next year, as well as make the house much more attractive.

The Brothers of Delta Delta Chapter would like to take this opportunity to express their most sincere thanks to the House Corporation for making these much-needed improvements possible.

We are looking forward to next year's banquet the weekend of April 6, 1974. This banquet will be extra special as it will celebrate our Golden Anniversary. We invite all of our alumni to attend, and we would like to thank all of our alumni who attended this year's banquet. We hope that they enjoyed themselves, and we hope to see more of them next year.

Gamma Iota

SPRING SEMESTER at the University of Texas has been an excellent one for Gamma Iota. This semester we realized our intramural sports goal by wrapping up first place in the fraternity division for 1972-73. Stacy Hunt, our intramural chairman, added a little icing to the cake by winning the Outstanding Intramural Athlete Award for this year.

Gamma Iota was well represented this spring with nine delegates attending the 65th Western Division Conference in Colorado — a very worthwhile and memorable event for all.

As was the case last year, Round-Up '73 was a tremendous success. A highlight of the week's festivities was the Round-Up parade, in which we entered an outstanding (though only 2nd place) float — an endeavor which combined a month of spring afternoons, several gallons of sweat and elbow grease, unparalleled feats of engineering, and a valiant effort from the chapter as a whole. As a part of the Round-Up program we also sponsored a raffle for a color television, the proceeds from which went to the local March of Dimes chapter.

With summer upon us, summer rush has become the prominent activity throughout the state. Lake parties, cook-outs, canoe trips, ball games, and a couple of dances will hopefully bring us to a close on a successful 1972-73 and provide us the impetus and enthusiasm to make the 1973-74 year at Gamma Iota even better.

THE EXCITEMENT around Epsilon Rho Chapter these days is over a successful intramural program that netted the Deltas the "All intramural Trophy" at the close of school this spring. We accumulated first places in volleyball, swimming, soccer, and track; with second places in football, and baseball, and a lone fourth place in basketball.

The Deltas at UTA would like to extend a special thanks to graduating Wayne DeWald and Ed Crosson for their skills in all sports. Wayne DeWald, two time winner of Outstanding Intramural Athlete of the Year, was named top male athlete of the year this year again.

Epsilon Beta

THIS PAST spring at Epsilon Beta has been a productive one. We picked up five new Delt pledges in open rush. The TCU Deltas had a very successful Spring Formal held in Dallas.

We recently held our biggest party of the year, our annual South Seas Island party at Eagle Mountain Lake just outside of Fort Worth. Also during the spring Epsilon Beta held its annual Founders Day Banquet with a large number of alumni.

Brother Tom Hedrick of Baker, a former Cincinnati Reds and K.C. Chief play-by-play announcer and present sports director at KDFW-TV in Dallas, gave an excellent talk on sports and life and how Delta Tau Delta affected his participation in both. We also recognized and congratulated Jay Langhammer as a newly elected vice-president of the Western Division.

At press time Epsilon Beta's Greek League softball team was readying for an upcoming playoff game for the school title. The team was led by a strong defensive infield and an awesome hitting attack. This hitting attack was led by Ricky Riggs (.682), Bob Fillman (.601), J. W. Humphreys (.591), Larry James (.552), Bob Garrett (.552), Bill Webb (.406) and John Motsch (.394). An early season change at short and second turned the team around. The Humphreys-Fillman combination on the double play and overall defensive skill brought the team from a dismal 1 and 2 record to its lofty playoff birth.

DELTA THETA Chapter, in spite of reduced membership, enjoyed a very successful spring and conclusion to the academic year. Scholastically, the Deltas attained a B+ average, standing extremely well in comparison to the other Fraternities on Campus. Three of our four seniors are going on to graduate studies in law or business administration.

A highlight of the spring term was the leadership exchange with Alpha chapter at Allegheny College. The two weekend visits were most educational, especially for the Canadian Brothers, many of whom had not seen the Fraternity working on as large a scale as at Alpha. The exchange has led to many political and social debates and a rivalry seems to be emerging. A pledge exchange, which should benefit both chapters, is planned for this Fall.

The new Executive Committee, which is attempting to rebuild the chapter, consists of Terry Kirkpatrick, president; Richard Harris, vice-president; Dennis Bailey, treasurer; and member of the Undergraduate Council of the Archchapter; and Jim Hong, secretary.

Since many of the Brothers live or work in Toronto during the summer, the Shelter is open during June, July and August. These months will see extensive renovations to our house.

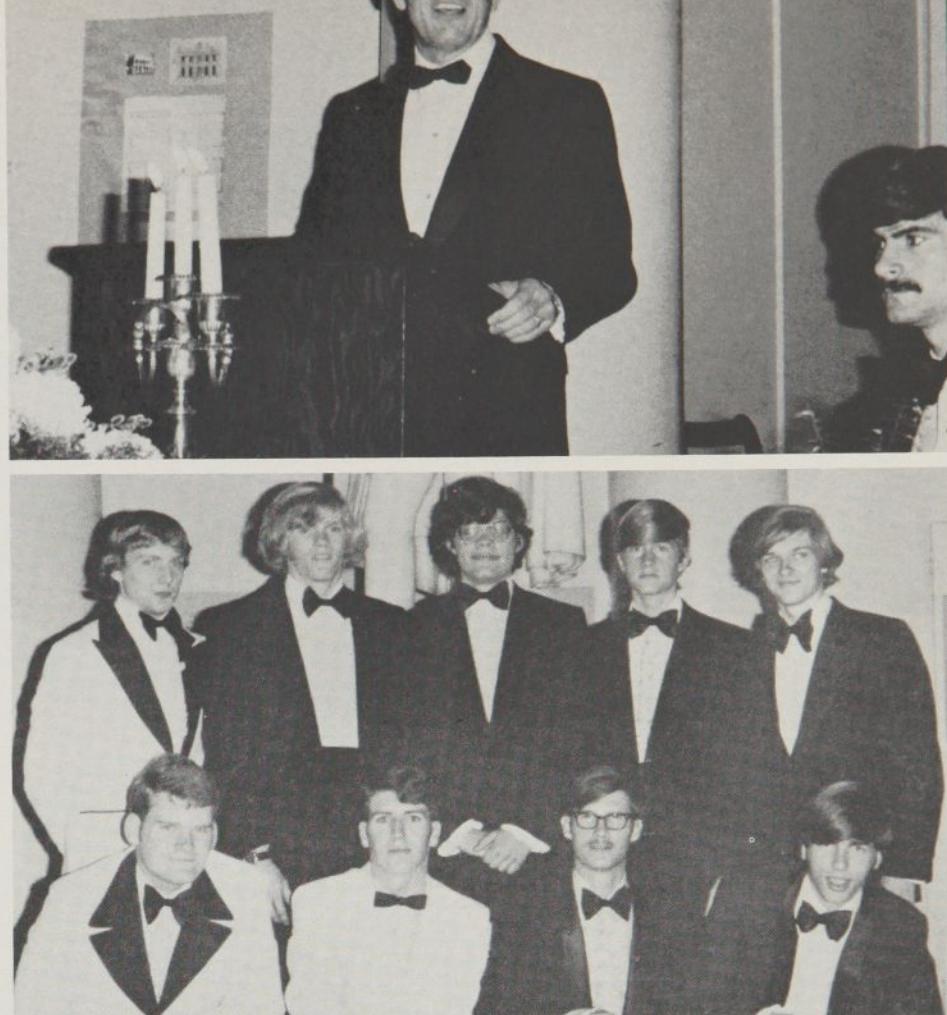

Summer social events include trips to the Stratford Shakespearean Theatre, and to the George Bernard Shaw Festival held annually at Niagara-on-the-Lake. Last term's social events included the "Space Crusade" costume party, a very successful Alumni get-together, and two folk concerts.

Two pledges, Peter Ballachey, and Gerrard Pohle, will carry over into the fall. With a good summer and autumn rush, Delta Theta Chapter will continue to thrive and grow on a campus where all fraternities are suffering from decreasing membership. The 1973-74 school year holds the promise of bigger and better things at Delta Tau Delta's lone Canadian outpost.

SPRING SEMESTERS ARE usually noted for their ability to be short and sweet. So went the 1973 spring semester of the Villanova Deltas.

At spring Initiation Banquet of Beta Iota Chapter, University of Virginia, Col. Joe Bartlett (top photo), clerk of the Minority Party of the U. S. House of Representatives, delivers the principal address. In the lower photo, new initiates pose in The Rotunda of the University, where the banquet was held.

Interfraternity involvement and social activities once again played important parts in our latest school term. The Zeta Theta Deltas took part in several socially oriented programs sponsored by the Villanova IFC. One of the most important of these programs was a money-raising drive for the extended Project Concern.

Throughout the semester IFC sponsored various athletic activities and we were able to maintain a clear superior edge in most of these activities. Both our A and B basketball teams finished their respective seasons with excellent records.

At the annual IFC dinner dance we took home the IFC trophies for football, basketball, scholastics (highest total cumulative average), and social involvement.

Our annual Delt Dinner Dance was held at the Open Hearth Inn in Philadelphia and a good time was had by all. At the dinner, Ed Gustafson was installed as president of our chapter for the upcoming year and he subsequently introduced the other fraternity officers for the 1973-74 period. Other newly elected officers are Doug Hartwick (vice-president), Mike McGowan (corres. secretary), and John Gannon (recording secretary). Larry Green was installed as IFC representative and IFC treasurer and Pat Meyer was installed as the Zeta Theta social chairman.

VIRGINIA Beta Iota

THIS PAST YEAR proved to be perhaps the most fruitful for Beta Iota since its inception. In all realms of endeavor the chapter advanced and excelled. The acquisition of a new Shelter, ideally situated across from Mr. Jefferson's Rotunda, spurred a successful rush in the fall, with 14 new men pledging.

In the realm of academics, Beta Iota was not only the Number One fraternity on the Grounds, but achieved probably the highest fraternity grade point average ever compiled at the University of Virginia, with a 3.08 average.

The Pledge Class also was Number One with an astronomical 3.20 average.

Two Brothers, Robert Littleton and Robert Sheeder, were inducted into Phi Beta Kappa. Four pledges, Anthony Benn, John Bridgewater, Henry Evans Jr., and James Griffin, were inducted into Phi Eta Sigma. In addition, Kenneth Mason and Sumpter Priddy III served as president and vice-president of the Honorary Fraternity.

Three Brothers received their degrees with honors. Robert Chiles Alvis was awarded a degree with honors in economics. Robert Elwood Sheeder received a degree with high honors in government, and Robert Littleton was given high honors in economics. This is the most honors degrees conferred upon the members of any fraternity on the Grounds for the past year.

In extracurricular activities, Beta Iota made great strides. In addition to being the starting quarterback on the Cavaliers football team, third-yearman George Allen Jr. was elected president of the Class of 1974. David Foster was elected features editor of the Cavalier Daily and also was selected to the Editorial Board of the student newspaper. First-yearman Ralph Godwin Jr. was chosen to serve as a resident counselor for 1973-74. Dwight Douglas rounded out the chapter's achievements by being elected treasurer of the Architecture School.

The chapter continued to be active in community service. In December, Beta Iota held a Christmas party for the children of the University Rehabilitation Center. For its spring project, the House helped in a widely publicized effort to clear a local stream of debris and silt deposits.

In all, 1972-73 proved to be a great year for Beta Iota. With a strong new membership and well earned reputation, the future prospects for the fraternity appear even more fruitful and promising.

ON OCT. 14, 1972, Beta Psi Chapter of Delta Tau Delta celebrated its 100 years on the Wabash College campus. Held in conjunction with the Homecoming festivities at the College, the Centennial Celebration was attended by over 200 alumni, current Beta Psi members, and friends of the chapter.

Many old friendships were renewed on this beautiful autumn day. After an informal luncheon and the Homecoming football game, a reception for all alumni was hosted at the Elston Homestead by the first couple of the college community, Dr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Seymour.

At the Beta Psi Shelter, dedicated during the College Homecoming weekend of three years before, a ceremony officially commemorated the 100 years of the Fraternity at Wabash College.

After the social hour at the Shelter, the celebrants moved to the Great Hall of the Campus Center for the Centennial Banquet. Carter Tharp introduced the Centennial Speaker, Thaddeus Seymour. In his lively talk, Dr. Seymour emphasized the strength that a strong and considerate fraternity may afford a college administration.

The Beta Psi Deltas appreciate Dr. Seymour's generosity of time and thought during a demanding weekend in the life of a college president.

Thomas A. Cole '58 introduced guests of the chapter and summarized the evening by reading a letter from an alumnus who had attended the 50th year celebration in 1924. The Centennial Celebration, like that of the 50th, was "a fine time." As the centennial program emphasized, "The strength of the fraternity system at Wabash has been the strength of the College itself. Beta Psi is proud of its contribution to the College."

The planning of the 100-year commemoration began in 1970 under the direction of Durwood Cory. Carter Tharp, Don Caplinger, '57 and Thomas Cole completed the arrangements with help from members of the Home Association and the active chapter. October 14, 1972 was a celebration of and reaffirmation of the strength of the Chapter and the Fraternity for Beta Psi Deltas.

Gamma

THE END of the fall semester found Gamma Chapter with the highest average, 3.2, of any fraternity on campus. Individual honors went to Kappa Scholars James Oberfeitinger, Dave Pettit and Danny Vogt; Junior Scholars Curt Bucher, George Divers, Richard Eichenberg and Tim Robinson; and Phi Beta Kappa inductees Harry Chiesi and Jonathan Walburn.

At the campus Honors convocation on May 4, Brother Chiesi was the recipient of book prizes for excellence in English and psychology, while Brother Eichenberg was awarded a book prize as the top foreign language student for his work in French.

February's Rush Week witnessed the acceptance of bids by 16 freshmen, making Delta Tau Delta the largest house on campus. Through a series of car washes and collections, the pledge class and active chapter continued their support of "The Little Delt" Little League Baseball Team, an adopted foreign child and Easter Seals. Over $450 was collected for the latter charity, the third highest amount of any group on campus. George Divers accepted the third place trophy at presentation ceremonies held at the campus prom.

The above projects have been overseen by newly-elected President George Divers; Vice-President Richard Bailey; Treasurer Tim Robison and Recording Secretary Danny Vogt.

The chapter is making preparations for Homecoming festivities, scheduled for October 19 & 20.

PHI CHAPTER was engaged in an active spring term. One notable event was the Founders Day celebration that was held on May 13. Letters informing Phi alumni of this date were sent out to encourage their return. In all there were over 500 graduates contacted. The ones that did return were entertained by a lavish cocktail party. This was the first year for the Founders Day celebration and the turnout was such that the Phi officers decided to continue this through at least next year.

Probably the most exciting thing that has hit Phi Chapter is the Washington and Lee lacrosse team. Out of a squad of 31 members, 16 were Delts. At the beginning of the season the team was ranked fifth in the country. For a while, they fell to seventh but finished strong to end the regular season ranked fourth in the nation. This gained the team a berth in the NCAA tournament.

In the quarter-final game they beat Navy and earned the right to play number one ranked Maryland in the semifinal round. In this game, seven of the 10 starters were Delts. Though the team lost the game, they finished with an overall record of 17-3, and ranked third in the nation.

WEST FLORIDA
Zeta Iota

THE UNIVERSITY of West Florida's chapter of Zeta Iota, to start the year off on its way, had a successful rush consisting of 23 pledges.

It was a very busy year for the Delts who sponsored two more activities. They put on a hunter and jumper horse show which was sponsored in November by the UWF's Delta Tau Delta fraternity. The event took place at the Diamond G Arena with Delta Tau Delta's little sister, Barbara Werry, acting as coordinator.

The horse show seemed to be a very big event for the West Florida region, as most horse shows are presented in upper state Alabama, Georgia, and past Tallahassee.

Winners of the Novice hunter, working hunter, hunt seat equitation and open jumper competition and the high point horse and rider received championship ribbons and a $10 prize.

Argo weekend proved to be a tremendous success as hundreds of students enjoyed thrills and entertainment in competitive events. The fun-filled weekend of excitement and games began Friday Nov. 17 and went on through Saturday Nov. 18.

The annual two-day affair, open to all students, got underway Friday and wound up late Saturday night. A host of activities included competitive events, a beauty contest, and a dance held in the Great Hall of the Commons.

Five activities were planned in which students were called on to test their endurance and wit against one another. The events consisted of a road rally, a beer chugging contest, a turtle race, a foosball tournament and a frisbee throw. Other competition featured skit performances, which were held in the Commons. The theme of the skits centered around life on the UWF campus.

The two days of competition and games were climaxed with a dance and the crowning of Miss Argo. Miss Claudia St. Denis was crowned Miss Argo with Susan George her first runner-up.

Epsilon Theta

PERHAPS ONE of the hardest questions to answer in regard to fraternities is, "What is brotherhood and what should it mean for the individual?"

Epsilon Theta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta has not come up with a sure-fire answer to date, but its activities over the 1972-73 school year show progress toward a solution, proving that the old cliche, "actions speak louder than words," still holds true.

The members of our chapter were drawn closer together through several projects, in which everyone in the house participated, without the use of fines or penalties to encourage participation. Each member gave as much of himself as he thought he could afford, and the results have been evident to all who know and associate with us.

Activities such as a 70-mile keg roll (the House, in conjunction with Oregon State University, rolled an empty keg from Corvallis to Portland, to raise funds for the Kidney Association of Oregon), rebuilding a camp for youngsters involved with a local 4-H program, and work with children from Salem's Blind School, as well as excellent participation in athletics, both intercollegiate and intramural, the initiation of a monthly newsletter which is sent to each member of the chapter, and a well organized and equally well executed summer rush program, kept the house busy.

Following the keg roll function, one of the house members said that the feeling he had within him, that warm feeling of satisfaction, was closer than anything he had yet felt that could be described as "fraternity." Epsilon Theta chapter is moving forward at a good pace, and we're doing it together. That's brotherhood!

THE LEADING Delt hitter this spring was senior infielder JIM KOCOLOSKI of Michigan, who saw action at shortstop and as the Designated Hitter. Jim was a three-year starter who finished with a .330 career average for the Wolverines.

Texas junior BILL BERRYHILL, a third team All-American a year ago, had another outstanding season for the SWC Champion Longhorns. Bill played in his third straight College World Series and was named to the All-SWC second team. He led the squad in runs scored, doubles (12), and triples (4), was third in hits, and fourth in RBI's, average, and at bats. Bill made only 1 error in 322 chances while seeing action at three positions.

The only Delt chosen in baseball's free agent draft was TCU co-captain DON BODENHAMER. He was picked by the Texas Rangers and assigned to Sarasota of the Gulf Coast League. Don won the Frog Club Most Conscientious Player Award for the second year and set a school career record for most hits in SWC games. He led the team in assists with 116 from his third base slot.

The spring's top single game pitching performance by a Delt came when DePauw soph JIM BUELOW hurled a no-hitter against Purdue. In the 1-0 victory, Jim walked 5 and struck out 6. His teammate, outfielder MIKE CRAVEN, hit .320 in conference play to gain All-ICC second team honors and tied for the team RBI leadership.

Co-captain BOB VAN ETEN and standout pitcher BRUCE ULISI led a group of 8 Delts on the winningest squad in Lehigh history. Bob was a three-year regular at shortstop. Bruce was named to the Middle Atlantic Coast western division All-Star team after leading Lehigh in victories, innings pitched, strikeouts, and complete games. Soph MIKE DESCHLER did a fine job at third base and freshman hurler STAN STERNER was the team's E.R.A. leader.

Washington and Lee co-captains ELLIE GUTSHALL and DOUG CLELAN were named to the All-Virginia Small College first team and the All-CAC first team. Ellie won an award as the team's top hitter and Doug, who finished second in batting, got a team award for outstanding contributions. Soph hurler ROD FERRANDINO was named W&L's top pitcher for the second year.

Two of the Big Ten's top hurlers were soph JIMMY LINN of Iowa and senior GARY ANDERSON of Illinois. Jimmy led the Hawkeyes in wins and E.R.A. while Gary, who won 15 games in his career, led the Illini staff in strikeouts.

Senior tri-captain RICH BOWMAN starred on Albion's third straight MIAA championship team. He was named to the All-MIAA first team. Oregon State catcher JOHN NOEL started for the third year.

Senior third baseman MARK DORNÉ of Athens College was rated by his coach as the team's most valuable performer this season. He tied for the team lead in hits with 23 and had 3 homers and 16 RBI's.

Outfielder TIM ROSE was one of Baker's top hitters and gained All-KCAC honors again. GREG MOFFATT did a fine job in the field and at bat for Baker. Stevens shortstop MICKEY CORTESE was a team co-captain and did a good job in the field. JON KRON was Stevens' top pitcher and outfielder MIKE BRONDER led the club in hits and RBI's.

Though not hitting for a high average, outfielder JIM HORTON provided Texas Tech fans with two of the year's highlights. He saved a Tech victory over Texas A&M by making a spectacular leap against the fence to rob an Aggie of a home run in the 8th inning. Against Rice, Jim hit a 9th inning homer to win the game.

Bethany soph BOB FALZARANO was one his team's leading batters and ranked second in home runs and RBI's. Senior MARK CEBULSKI was a regular at first base again for Lawrence and was the team's top fielder. Soph hurler BRUCE GLAWE of Illinois Tech had the misfortune to play for a team that won only 3 of 27 games. However, he did lead the staff in strikeouts.

After coaching his alma mater's junior varsity team this past spring, MARK MARQUESS, Stanford '69, reported to the Chicago White Sox farm system for his fifth season of minor league ball.

RICH CUNNINGHAM, Ohio State '71, is now an administrative assistant in the office of Henry Peters, President of the National Association of Baseball, better known as the minor leagues. Rich, a former Ohio State football player, earned a Master's degree in Sports Administration at Ohio University and completed a six-month internship in the athletic department at San Diego State. He took over his administrative position before the current season started.

TRACK

The top Delt track performer of the past season was high jumper RICK SLIFER of Kansas State. Rick finished fifth at the NCAA Championships with a leap of 7 feet, the best mark ever by a Delt. He also hit the 7-foot mark at the Drake Relays and was third in the Big Eight finals with a 6'8" jump.

BILL BOLSTER of Michigan finished fifth in the mile at the Big Ten Championships and set a school record with a time of 4:05.1. Bill also was a member of Michigan's distance medley relay team. Another fine Big Ten runner was DUD ROSKI of Northwestern, who ran a 47.8 leg on the mile relay team that finished fifth at the Big Ten Championships.

Another school record-setter was South Dakota's MACK BUTLER. Mack won the 120-yard high hurdles at the Howard Wood Dakota Relays in 14.4, beating the old school record which he shared. At the NCC Outdoor Championships, a fall in the high hurdles finals cost Mack a chance at the conference crown after being rated the favorite. However, he did take second in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles and won the NCC Indoor 60-yard dash. Mack also ran on South Dakota's 440, 880, medley, and mile relay teams.

Oregon State weightman JEFF HAMMONS hit a new personal high in the hammer throw with 179' 8". He also threw the discus and the shot. JIM PURSEL was elected track captain by his Wabash teammates and won his fourth varsity letter. He specialized in the shot put and discus.

LACROSSE

One of the nation's outstanding lacrosse squads, Washington and Lee, posted a 14-1 record, the best mark in school history, and tied for third place in the final national tournament standings. Among many top Delt stars was All-American first team goalie SKEET CHADWICK, who has been elected a co-captain for next season. Skeet allowed only 135 goals in 632 shots and was particularly outstanding against Navy and Maryland, making 28 saves against both schools.

W&L's second-leading scorer was soph attackman DAVE WARFIELD, who had 41 goals and 21 assists. Junior midfielder JOHN LALLEY, a third-team All-American in 1972, contributed 20 goals and was chosen for the 1973 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America". Senior midfielder TIM WINFIELD won a team award for team spirit, desire, and dedication. Senior midfielder BOB BRUMBACK was named "most improved" and senior defenseman JOHN ROGERS won an award for selflessness and dedication.

Delts also played a big part in the lacrosse program at Stevens. One of the co-captains was senior STEVE STALGAITIS. TOM McINERNEY contributed 11 goals and was much improved over a year ago. TOM WALSH and TIP GOODWIN played well on defense.

GOLF

Soph CONRAD NILMEIER was Stanford's only individual tournament champ in 1973, winning the U.S. Collegiate Invitational in a sudden death playoff. Conrad shot a 65 in the final round of the Pacific-8 Championships to finish in a 7th place tie with 282. For the season, he averaged 75.2 per round and participated in the NCAA Championships.

Baker University's golf team had another fine season and three Delt juniors were among the top five. TERRY HOCHENAUER, JIM SEWARD, and ED COTTER won their third straight NAIA District 10 title with a blazing last-round finish that overcame a 7-stroke deficit. In the final round, Terry shot 72, Jim 73, and Ed 75 as Baker's four-man total of 293 set a district record. All three played in the NAIA Championships for the third year. A fourth Delt, RON TAYLOR, played as the fifth or sixth man most of the season. Coaching the squad was Baker Athletic Director KARL SPEAR, Baker '33.

TENNIS

The Oregon State tennis team won the Pacific Northwest crown with a perfect 15-0 mark in dual meet competition and finished fourth in the Pacific-8. Two of the players responsible for OSU's success were ROGER MCKEE and PAUL WULF. Roger posted a 15-2 singles record and went 11-6 in doubles. Paul was 14-4 in singles and 15-3 in doubles.

TIM SHELLY was South Dakota's No. 1 singles player. REID HURSTON was captain of the squad at LaGrange. Other fine tennis players were GEOFF GREENWOOD of Missouri, TOM LEONARD of Idaho, GEORGE JONES of Texas A&I, GALO PEREZ of Southeastern Louisiana, CARTER RYAN of Butler, and JOHN NEELY of Hillsdale.

FOOTBALL

Stanford's outstanding linebacker of last season, JIM MERLO, was selected for the College All-Star Game against Miami and also played in the Coaches All-American Game, as did Southwest Texas State safety JIM STIENKE.

California defensive back BILL ARMSTRONG went to the Green Bay Packers camp as a free agent. Stanford tight end BILL SCOTT signed with the Edmonton Eskimos. Stanford receiver MILES MOORE had a tryout with Denver.

Washington and Lee Athletic Director BILL McHENRY, W&L '54, has taken over the head football coaching duties at W&L this fall. Before returning to his alma mater in 1971, he was Athletic Director and head Football Coach at Lebanon Valley College.

JOE AVEZZANO, Florida State '66, has joined the coaching staff at the University of Pittsburgh. He formerly had been an assistant at Iowa State.

Quarterback DON BUNCE, Stanford '72, has retired from pro football after playing a year for the British Columbia Lions. Don will attend medical school in the fall.

BASKETBALL

BOB LEONARD, Indiana '54, coached the Indiana Pacers to their third ABA championship in four years. During the regular season, the Pacers were 51-33 for second place in the Western Division of the ABA.

Kentucky's JIM ANDREWS was a member of the 12-man United States College All-Star squad that toured the Republic of China for three weeks this summer. Jim was also a starter in the Pizza Hut College Basketball Classic last April. In the pro draft, he was a fifth-round pick of the NBA Seattle Supersonics and a ninth-round choice of the ABA Pacers.

Kansas State center STEVE MITCHELL also was selected for the Pizza Hut Classic but couldn't play due to a practice injury. He was a fourth-round pick of both Phoenix of the NBA and Denver of the ABA. Two other Deltas were also drafted:

Encouragement to Youth

ONE OF Baltimore's most distinguished citizens has retired as the Orioles' business manager after 30 years with the baseball club.

Herbert E. Armstrong, Tufts '16 will remain active, however, as a general consultant to the ball club and as president of the Oriole Foundation, Inc., an organization created by the Orioles in 1965 to provide financial assistance and encouragement to the youth of Baltimore in the areas of athletics and scholarship.

In addition, he will continue to function as president of the Maryland Scholastic Association, a position he has held for the past 15 years.

Since he first came to Baltimore from his native New England some 56 years ago, Mr. Armstrong, 79, has made countless contributions to the Baltimore community as a teacher, coach and administrator.

He taught mathematics and coached both baseball and football at the Donaldson School in Ilchester, Maryland (1916-17 and 1928-31), at Baltimore City College (1917-28), and at McDonough School (1931-45). He also served as athletic director and head of the mathematics department at both Donaldson and McDonough and while still at City College, was head coach of baseball and assistant football coach at Johns Hopkins University for four years (1919-23).

Herbert Armstrong

Though he did not join the Orioles in a full time executive capacity until 1943, his association with the ball club had long been close. Jack Dunn, Sr., the Orioles' owner, regularly sent him players on option while Armstrong was managing in the Blue Ridge and Eastern Shore Leagues during summer vacations, and during the 30's when he ran the Orioles-Atlantic baseball school program with Curly Ogden, former major league pitcher. And at City College he coached a number of players who later played for the Orioles. Some of them, men like Max Bishop, Tommy Thomas and Johnny Neun, went on to enjoy outstanding careers in the majors.

MARK SIBLEY of Northwestern signed with the Chicago Bulls and Kansas State forward ERNIE KUSNYER was picked by the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

BOXING

South Dakota's JEFF LEMAIR was one of the outstanding amateur boxers in the midwest, if not the country. A 139-pound junior welter-weight, Jeff won the Golden Gloves Regional crown at Omaha which gave him a 52-10 record. He then went to the National Golden Gloves tourney and won two more matches before losing. He returned home in time to win the South Dakota AAU title. He eventually hopes to box in the Olympics.

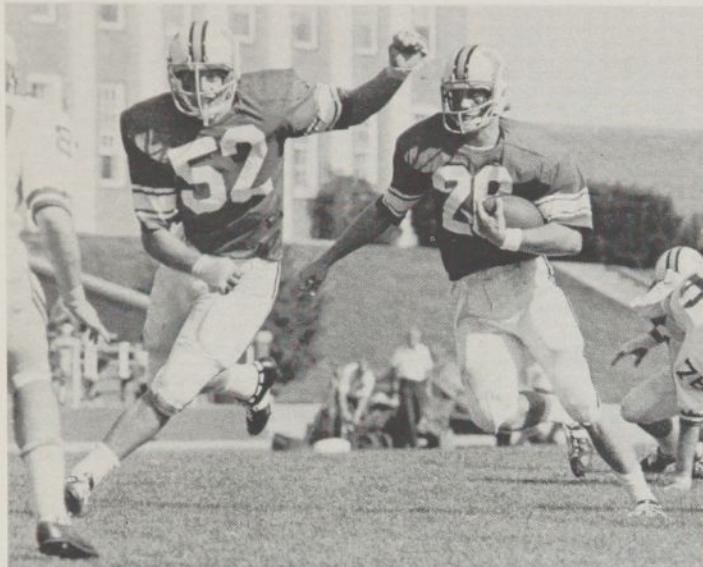

GYMNASICS

Washington State's bright sophomore, DUBI LUFU, finished the season as one of the nation's top gymnasts. He finished second in the Pacific-8 in the all-around competition and on the parallel bars. At the NCAA Championships, he finished 12th in all-around competition.

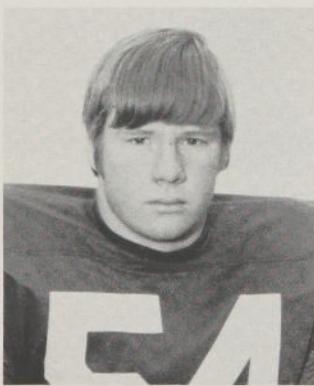

IN MEMORIAM

Delts across the nation mourned the passing of one of baseball's all-time greats, GEORGE SISLER, Michigan '15, on March 26th. He died in Richmond Heights, Missouri, just two days after his 80th birthday. Sisler was the first first baseman to be named to the Hall of Fame and left behind many fine records.

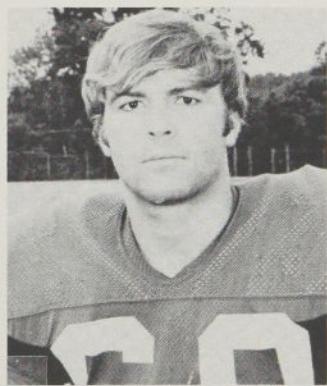

Football Preview

Maryland linebacker Jim Santa (52) and defensive back Bob Smith (28) had great sophomore years last fall and should be even better this season.

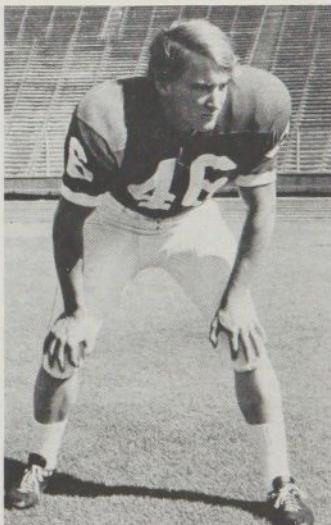

Oregon middle linebacker Bill Meyer should be one of the West Coast's best.

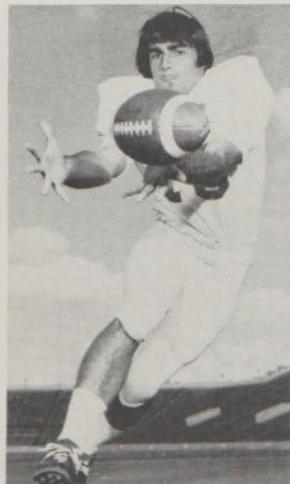

Jay Fulcher is a senior standout at defensive end for Washington & Lee.

All-American candidates at Northwestern are junior quarterback Mitch Anderson, the Big Ten's top passer last year, and senior linebacker Mike Varty, who has recovered from a knee injury.

Regular linebackers for their schools are John Snider of Stanford, left, and Fred Morschke of Idaho.

Catching passes in the SWC this fall will be Texas senior Pat Kelly, an All-SWC Academic pick last fall, and TCU junior Dave Duncan, who opens at split end.

Senior Abe Dillon moves into the number one quarterback slot for Virginia.

Junior Ted Hanenberg of Duke is an All-ACC candidate at safety for Purdue.

Concerning Rainbow Review

I commend you for your endeavors to offer opportunities to potential writers, but criticize you for not judging the quality of the news. The article "Take it Away Dick" by Kim Mandle is so atrocious that it has no place in any reputable magazine.

I am 100 percent in favor of the freedom of the press or preferably freedom of the media. But unfounded charges of scurrilous nature do not bode good for the future of this young man in the fields of journalism.

The first requirement of a good reporter is honesty — the second, facts, and this article can only charitably be charged as immature. Good reporters today are scarce. Gone are those like Edgar Ansel Mower; retired, as Lowell Thomas, friends of mine; and others. They followed a code of ethics and did not skirt the edges of libel.

I say do not be influenced by the scandal mongers, the ambulance chasers, nor the pontificating TV commentators such as Faultless Featherbrain — lovely Voracious Loquacious — Ponderous Politicizer — and others who think a press card stuck in their hat entitles them to invade the privacy of a presidential office as they would the wedding night of a bride and groom, all under "freedom of the Press." God help us. Some day we hope for "admission to the profession" as a doctor or lawyer, under careful scrutiny and an oath of honesty and adherence to a code of ethics.

I read with interest each issue of the Rainbow, but must comment that I do not believe political articles or cartoons such as the one appearing on page 6 of the spring issue (with article "Take It Away Dick") is in keeping with the intent of our magazine.

DON REID
Southern California '49
Franklin Lakes, N.J.

This is the first time I have corresponded with the Rainbow in regard to its contents, editing and general appeal. I feel I have been remiss in the past for not making known my appreciation of the many editors and others who, over the years, have brought the news of the fraternity and the many articles and other interesting features that have appeared in each issue. I always look forward to receiving it.

Now, there is one thing about the issue about which I think more thought should have been given, and I hope my comments will not be over critical. I believe the articles in the Rainbow not be on subjects of a political nature or of other subjects which are controversial. First of all, we are all Delts. We all stood and heard those beautiful words spoken at the time we all received the pin; this is perhaps the closest tie we have among us. This is as it should be because no group of thinking people can possibly not have differences of opinion on almost any subject. Many Delts have achieved some of the highest positions in our state and federal governments. With many of them I have differed with their views but I am nevertheless proud that they as Delts achieved these high offices.

I am sure that Kim Mandle is a most capable and outstanding young man, but I think it was unfortunate that he chose the topic he did to appear in the Rainbow. I think this is a question as to whether the press (and other media) is threatened by Mr. Nixon or vice versa. I think Kim has made some rather drastic statements such as "road to revolution," etc. and then treated them as "facts." Of course this trick is an essential one, it seems, by many of today's political writers.

My own observations (and I have kept up with political, governmental and other areas of general interest over the years) are that for some reason, or reasons, which nobody has been able to satisfactorily explain to me, the media has disliked Nixon. I do not wish to imply that I am carrying a torch for Nixon, although I am what would be called a conservative — and this is not a universally popular word among youth of today. However, I would point out that the media in most all its aspects, publications, radio and television, has been biased on the liberal side, sometimes almost admittedly so, it seems.

Since Kim wrote his article, the Watergate affair has broken wide open. My point could not be better substantiated than to consider the allocation of columns of space almost gleefully given to the affair in the way of news, half-news and innuendos by columnists and by all sorts of experts via the printed word. The TV is the most ridiculous of all in preempting nearly all the daytime operas and money games to do so.

It is obvious that as of this time, much of the media feels it has Nixon in a helpless state and is going all out to crush him. Even some of his political opponents, such as Sen. Proxmire, have noted and deplored this.

I think Kim will find that differences between government and the press have existed more or less throughout our history. My observations indicate the press is more vigorous and independent than it has ever been.

Maybe I had better pick a bone with Dale Smith, too, for his statement that we old boys moved in a world of — limited mentality. Sometimes when I see what goes on on the campuses today I can't see how such a statement could be made. Of course we did know how to have fun in those days without pot, too.

But power to the young generation; these people will have to make their world and I am sure it will be a good one.

RUSSELL E. CRAWFORD
Iowa '24

I would appreciate the opportunity of using the "Free Press" to comment on Kim Mandle's article "Take It Away Dick" in the spring Rainbow. I respect his right to state his beliefs and feel that I have the same rights.

He states that he is "the first to admit that the Press is sometimes biased." I question if he really is the first to admit this. I believe, along with a considerable number of my associates as well as a great number of people around the country, that this is the understatement of the year.

We believe that the Press is biased and that the national television news commentators are extremely biased. As Kim has so aptly stated, "If it's war that he and the TV commentators want, it is war they shall get." Some of us may be older than Kim but we aren't ready to roll over and play dead yet.

Page from the Past

By LELAND S. DEVORE, JR.
West Virginia '36

Lew is an extraordinary Delt who has remained active in Fraternity business for 40 years. But he made his mark early, as a pledge, in one grand bid for glory that also has survived the test of time — at least in the memories of his contemporaries.

Our hero lives now in Erie, Pa., but in the 1930's he was pledged to Gamma Delta at West Virginia University. He was, at that time, a rather shy individual who's main effort seemed to be directed toward becoming an active in the chapter with a minimum of fuss and hassle.

Actives in the 1930's (and probably in the 1970's) were adept at finding jobs or missions that would test the mettle of a pledge. At this particular time, a "live" show was playing at the theater on High Street. It was a musical review with many luscious girls among the players.

At 8 p.m. on the fateful night, Lew was summoned before a group of actives. His orders were simple,

Colonel Leland S. Devore, Jr., has retired from service with the U.S. Army and lives at a 15-acre retreat called "Parade Rest," near Port Deposit, Md. He devotes much of his time to free lance writing of articles dealing with nature. He wrote this "Page from the Past" article about a long-time friend, who has permitted himself to be identified, somewhat reluctantly, as M. R. Llewellyn, an Eastern Division vice-president of the Fraternity. Contributions for "Page from the Past" are welcomed by the editor.

but to him almost unthinkable. He was to go immediately to the theater and escort back to the Shelter the entire female portion of the cast.

Lew turned red at the thought. This was completely out of his line. Of course, the actives knew that.

Their real intention was to receive a good laugh when he returned to report his futile effort.

Lew took off for the theater. He talked his way back stage, where his inexperienced eyes saw what seemed to be acres of semi-bare show girls.

Somehow he mustered the courage to corner one of the girls and explain his plight. She referred him to a pudgy little man who turned out to be the cast manager.

To this day, I don't know how he did it. But about 11 p.m. the Shelter was invaded by about 30 of the finest looking examples of femininity that had ever troupé through that door. They were led by Lew and trailed by the little cigar-chomping manager who had insisted on chaperoning the excursion.

Bedlam erupted. The radio blared a big-band favorite. It is said that the shouting could be heard on the farthest reaches of the campus.

Lew had it made from that night forward.

Chapter Anniversary Celebration

G.M.I.

THE EVENT had been in the planning for more than a year. Hundreds of letters had been sent. Many hours had been devoted to discussing, thinking and making decisions about plans for the event. The event? The tenth anniversary of the installation of Epsilon Iota Chapter at General Motors Institute.

A luncheon prepared by the undergraduates' wives and girl friends awaited those arriving on March 17. Many of the Chapter alumni had not seen the Shelter since their graduation. They and their wives were given a grand tour of the house. Incidentally, all of the alumni were accompanied by either a beautiful wife or a stunning girl friend. It was quite reassuring to us "unattached" undergraduates to note the good taste reflected by the alumni!

In the evening, the celebration moved from the Shelter to the Empire Lounge in Flint for a cocktail hour and banquet. As more people arrived, it became apparent that well over 200 persons were in attendance.

One of the touching moments of the evening came when our two section presidents, Tom Wilcox and Jerry Seiter, presented Chapter Adviser Manfred Schleuss a 400-day anniversary clock from the undergraduates, demonstrating our friendship and respect for his outstanding efforts in helping us not only as a chapter but also as individuals.

Highlight of the evening was the address by President Heminger. He began with a review of world and national events that occurred on March 23, 1963. As I paused to reflect on these events, 10 years seemed like an eternity. What the Fraternity is; what it means to me; where the Fraternity is headed. All these questions and ideas were addressed and explored.

To close the banquet, Bob Stapp, one of our house advisers who is also active in the national Fraternity, led us in the singing of Delt Shelter.

The final activity was a dance and party at the Shelter. The band played on and on and refreshments were in abundance. At the conclusion of the dance, however, the party was just beginning. A number of alumni raised the roof of the Shelter in singing old fraternity songs.

In that atmosphere, ages were forgotten and bonds of brotherhood were formed. Everything about Deltism was demonstrated that weekend. Hard work, patience, and most of all, love for the Fraternity showed through like a light whenever any activity, duty or work needed to be done. As long as I live, I will never forget that weekend and what it meant to be a part of it.

Carnegie-Mellon

IN APRIL of this year, Delta Beta Chapter at Carnegie-Mellon University capped the school's traditional Spring Carnival Weekend with a celebration of its Golden Anniversary. On hand for the festivities were nearly 200 friends, alumni, and undergraduate members of the Fraternity. Representing the University at the banquet held to mark the occasion were Deans Milligan and Williams, as well as Ron Taylor, Delta Beta's faculty adviser.

In the course of the evening, Horace Johnson, one of Delta Beta's founders, delivered the keynote address in which he reminisced on the 50-year history of the chapter. Also present was Norman MacLeod, undoubtedly one of the better known and most highly respected Delts in the Pittsburgh area, who distributed the Fifty Year Certificates and introduced two of the chapter's other founders, James N. Roche and Vernon L. Wendlandt.

But while many of the evening's speakers and events were arranged with the Fiftieth Anniversary in mind, there was still plenty of time for the things which under more normal circumstances traditionally mark Spring Carnival at Carnegie-Mellon.

In Memory of George Sisler

George Sisler (Michigan '15) was perhaps the greatest of all Delt athletes. Back in my chapter days we often used his name in our rush programs. He had a profound effect not only on baseball, but on all college sports of his day. He was a real gentleman.

Strange Paradox

I notice that President Heminger asks (Winter 1973), "If you see an article you particularly enjoy, perhaps it will trigger the response, 'I have something to say on that subject'."

Although it is by a rather strange paradox, I have indeed been triggered to respond to a subject. However, it was seeing its absence rather than its presence which triggered these arthritic fingers to rise from their bed of pain and make a plaintive appeal for the restoration of the chapter-by-chapter listing of the names of members initiated into Delta Tau Delta Fraternity.

Indeed, unless we do so we shall in time, if we continue the publication of The Chapter Eternal, find ourselves in the compromising and quaintly Victorian position of listing the demise of Brothers, the existence of whom we have never acknowledged!

I am not of the generation that is consumed with the passion that all must be relevant, but death without birth seems — well, somehow incongruous.

While it is perhaps not a completely novel idea, might I presume to call to your editorial attention how allegorically fitting it would be to resurrect the Initiates Listing in The Rainbow.

Initiated at Beta Iota Chapter, affiliated at Beta Omicron Chapter, a long-time chapter adviser to Beta Lambda Chapter; Beta Omicron House Corporation member for many years, active participant in Division Conferences and Karneas, distinguished Professor at Lehigh University, he has always exemplified, by devotion and service to the Fraternity and his efforts in behalf of higher education, the ideals and dedication of the Good Delt.

An alumnus of Beta Kappa Chapter, long geographically separated from Fraternity activities, he assisted in opening Texas A & I to national fraternities, played a key role throughout the period of colony organization and installation; has since that time continuously provided singular leadership as Epsilon Lambda Adviser and House Corporation President; he provided leadership toward the establishment of an alumni chapter at neighboring Corpus Christi; his generosity, sincerity, sense of humor, understanding and unassuming manner all characterize his service to his adopted chapter and his Fraternity.

Since his initiation at Beta Upsilon Chapter he has given Delta Tau Delta unfailing service. His long and valued tenure as a Chapter Adviser, first at Gamma Upsilon Chapter and again at Zeta Chapter, his regular attendance and active participation in the work of many Karneas and regional meetings, his interest and concern in alumni affairs, his wise and ready counseling of undergraduates all bear witness that his dedication to the Fraternity is that of mind and heart. Truly, he has marked the way for others to follow.
