My Garden of Dreams

Delta Tau Delta, my garden of dreams,
Oh, could I tell with what beauty it teems;
Zeal and devotion and truth as a guide,
Where its green laurels forever abide.

Delta Tau Delta, thy star ever gleams
Radiant and pure in my garden of dreams!

Frederick Palmer, National Librarian

DELTS everywhere will be happy to learn that the post of National Librarian, created by the 1933 Karnea, has been accepted by Colonel Frederick Palmer, Alpha (Allegheny), '93, famous globe trotter, war correspondent, and novelist.

"If I can be of any real help," he writes, "I will not refuse this honor from our Fraternity. Seventy-five chapters! As I remember, as a member of Alpha in my college days, there were only thirty. I have met Deltas all over the world. They seemed to be the sort to keep up the old quality and spirit."

It is almost carrying coals to Newcastle to undertake to tell any even partially informed person who Frederick Palmer is. Certainly he is America's war correspondent par excellence. In The Delta Authors Department of this number you will find a lengthy review from The New York Times of his newest book, With My Own Eyes, the thrilling narrative of his own experiences. That review begins:

"Only the dove of peace has seen more wars than Frederick Palmer. He has spent the last three dozen years breathing the smoke of battle and writing about the futility and treacherous excitement of it. Today he is a pacifist and a philosopher. He hopes for a generation that will learn something durable from the carnages of history. He ends this fine, thoughtful book of the battles he has seen with that hope." But of course you will now, more than ever, read for yourself this sympathetic appraisal.

It was only yesterday, as volumes go, that Frederick Palmer made his appearance in the pages of this magazine as a member of a brilliant group of Delta authors, the list comprising such other names as those of George Horton, Herbert Adams Gibbons, Homer Croy, Richard W. Rowan, George S. Counts, Stuart Lake, Edison Marshall, and Ben Ames Williams, all good Delts and keenly interested in the Fraternity and its unequivocal objectives.

Born in Pleasantville, Virginia, Colonel Palmer was graduated from Allegheny, and later received his LL.D. His first appearance in an international outbreak was in connection with the Greek War in 1897. The next two years he spent in the Klondyke and the Philippines. In 1899 he returned from around the world with Admiral Dewey. Then he went back to the Philippines, and in 1900 accompanied the expedition for the relief of Peking. Central America came next, and then the Macedonian insurrection of 1903. In 1904 and 1905 he was with the First Japanese Army in the field for Collier's and The London Times. Next he went around the world with the American battle fleet. In 1908 and 1909 he undertook an investigation of Central American conditions, and then switched to report the Turkish Revolution. He covered the Balkan War of 1912. From 1914 to 1916 he was accredited correspondent of the American press with the British Army and Fleet. Still later he became major and then lieutenant-colonel on staff duty at the front with the A. E. F. in France, and was in Western Europe in 1919 and 1920. He has the Distinguished Service Medal.

Colonel Palmer's works are manifold: Going to War in Greece, The Ways of the Service, The Vagabond, With Kuroki in Manchuria, Central America and Its Problems, The Last Shot, My Year of the War, My Second Year of the War, America in France, Our Greatest Battle, The Folly of Nations, Clark of the Ohio, a number of other books, innumerable newspaper and magazine articles, and, in the spring of 1932, a notable biography, Newton D. Baker.

Now Frederick Palmer is going to help Delta Tau Delta in her effort to bring worth while books into her chapter houses.

Perhaps more than one chapter will want to meet him half way by adding to their shelves some of Colonel Palmer's own books.

The President Goes Visiting

WITHIN a few weeks of his election President Harold Tharp started out on a sort of record breaking observation tour. Within two weeks he called personally at the houses of 22 active chapters of Delta Tau Delta, meeting not only the men of these chapters, but encountering on his way nearly 150 alumni at various points. The trip covered 2,635 miles.

Several things impressed him:

First, a superior and homogeneous type of personnel;

Second, the success of every chapter in its rushing campaign;

Third, a generally sound financial condition despite the economic difficulties of the times;

Fourth, the emphasis laid everywhere on respectable scholarship;

Fifth, a genuine and increasing alumni interest and co-operation.

* * * *

MR. THARP hasn't got over it yet, because, while he admits that while he was hoping for good things and looking for them, what he found was even better than what he had expected.

And Harold Tharp, by nature, is not one of these people whose perception is in the least clouded by the vision of what they want to see. He has a way of seeing the truth about things, good or bad, and appraising them as they are.

"In thinking back," he says, "I find myself perhaps most impressed by the fact that in personnel practically all these fellows might well have been members of the same chapter, for they were the same type of earnest, alert men, who appeared to be in school for a definite purpose and who were attending to their school and fraternity obligations with a full realization of the privileges that were theirs.

"It is most gratifying to know that without exception all these chapters had a most satisfactory rushing season, not only in the number of men pledged, but in the quality of these men as well. In view of these unusual times financial conditions in each of the chapters were generally satisfactory. Scholarship is obtaining the proper emphasis, and then there was every evidence of a gratifying and growing degree of alumni support. These things ought to make a fine year certain in every one of the groups I was able to visit. I only wish that I could start out tomorrow on a similar visit to every one of the remaining 53 chapters."

* * * *

CONSIDERING that the 2,635 trip was made in a six-year-old automobile, Mr. Tharp feels that he has something in common with the pioneers in their covered wagons, since neither did they know whether their means of transportation would get them where they wanted to go. However, the old Marmon performed nobly; there were no mishaps, except for a broken spring which resulted in a missed dinner at Rennselaer. Of course, there was the occasion when the boat ran out of gas at 12:30 A.M. on a lonesome spot on a road under repair in the wilds of New York State, and the luncheon engagement at Cornell next day was saved only by the amiability of a good Samaritan who pushed the car four miles to the nearest all-night filling station.

The trip started with dinner at the Ohio State house on a Saturday evening in mid-October. Ohio Wesleyan were the hosts at Sunday dinner. That same afternoon found the Marmon parked at Kenyon, that delightful college community whose atmosphere and traditions are all its own. Here Mr. Tharp had tea with Dr. and Mrs. Seitz, and then pushed on over the hills of Northern Ohio to reach Cleveland the same night.

Monday morning conversations with Bob Weaver and C. D. Russell gave assurance that Delta Tau was still going strong in that old citadel of the Fraternity, and luncheon with the boys at Western Reserve brought not only the opportunity to meet all the actives, but also to see ten or a dozen loyal Delt alumni who can always be counted on for any Delt function.

* * * *

ON THROUGH Monday night went the Delt Special (this was the occasion when the gas gave out), and Ithaca was reached on Tuesday morning.

"I was delighted with Ithaca and Cornell," declares Mr. Tharp, "and I fell in love with the Shelter, even though the boys do feel, at times, that they should have a new house in order to compete with some of the palatial mansions operated by other chapters on the Cornell campus. Personally, to us the Delt house had far more atmosphere and character than could be boasted by the newer houses that we saw. Joseph Barr, the chapter's loyal adviser, was good enough to show us the site owned by the House Corporation on the heights overlooking Cayuga and the whole valley. It is a marvelous location, and a home there ultimately is something to look forward to.

"The broken spring incident occurred that afternoon as we drove north from Ithaca, but we managed to limp into Rochester for repairs the following morning. Pushing the old car to its limit, we finally arrived quite late for our luncheon engagement at Syracuse. But here again we found a fine group of actives, and in addition six or eight alumni interested enough to come out to the house at mid-day to assure us of their loyal support.

"A rainy afternoon further delayed our progress, so that we missed having dinner with Darrell Moore and Warnecke and their fine group at Rensselaer. We did arrive, however, shortly after dinner, and put in an evening of the usual controversial type when Darrell is around."

* * * *

THE next morning was your President's one little interlude in strictly fraternity affairs, for he went along the Mohawk Trail to Northampton and visited his charming daughter, a freshman at Smith. But that evening it was all Delta Tau again, a visit to the chapter at Amherst and their attractive house.

Friday morning was Dartmouth, a stop-over between classes in the middle of the day. Here Mr. Tharp found a pledge class of 27, the largest pledge delegation encountered anywhere along the line.

"And were they good pledges!" he smiled.

Then, after luncheon at the Outing Club with Dr. Rice and Dr. Spense, Mr. Tharp left the car and those members of his family who were accompanying him, and took train to Boston.

"Who do you think met me at the station?" he asked. "Our jovial vice-president of the Eastern Division, Tubby Merrill, who whisked me out to the house at Tufts for a pleasant evening with the boys there. The following day I was delightfully entertained as Tubby showed me the sights of Boston and its environs. Dinner that evening with the active chapter at M. I. T. again brought the opportunity to meet a fine group of alumni. These men, by the way, are reorganizing the Boston Alumni Chapter and with most aggressive ideas."

* * * *

UP EARLY Sunday and at the schedule again. Two hours with the chapter at Brown, and a fine report from their loyal adviser, George Brewster.

Monday noon fulfilled a luncheon engagement at Wesleyan.

"After meeting these boys," said Mr. Tharp, "I did not wonder that last year they carried off the scholastic plaque for the Eastern Division by a very high average. Here it was pleasant, too, to meet again John Lindemuth, whom I had known as President of the Division, as well as Earnest A. Yarrow, who so efficiently keeps the accounts receivable for this chapter at a minimum.

"That afternoon, back in our own car, we drove on into New York, where we found the traffic not too difficult for a pair of inexperienced Middle-Westerners. Tuesday was spent going over plans for alumni activity with Owen Orr, our newly elected Secretary of Alumni, and renewing most pleasant associations with Alvan Duerr and Bruce Bielaski; but we found time at noon to rush out to Hoboken and drop in on the chapter at Stevens. They were in the midst of their rush season and had a fine looking group of prospects at the Shelter."

* * * *

AFTER all this Mr. Tharp got up Wednesday morning before New York was fairly awake and proceeded to put in the most arduous day of the whole trip. The schedule included luncheon with the chapter at Lafayette, an afternoon visit at Lehigh, an arrival at Frank Cornell's home in Philadelphia, dinner with a group of Philadelphia alumni at the University Club, and then the evening with the chapter at Pennsylvania.

"Shall I admit that I enjoyed a little late sleep Thursday morning?" smiled Mr. Tharp. "Then we drove on to State College, arriving just at dusk. It's a beautiful campus and a gorgeous Delt house. This visit brought the opportunity to meet again after a number of years Harney Stoner, whom I had pledged as a freshman at Butler University. He is carrying on most efficiently at State as chapter adviser and has a group of boys who have more than their share of campus distinctions.

"An early start Friday enabled us to arrive on schedule at Pittsburgh, and there was Norman MacLeod waiting at the hotel to take us to the regular Friday noon luncheon of the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter, a great group who are vitally interested in the welfare of Delta Tau Delta."

* * * *

THAT evening gave Mr. Tharp the opportunity to meet three more chapters—first, dinner with the actives at Pitt and afterwards a long session with the men of Carnegie Tech and Washington & Jefferson, the last having arrived in town full force for the traditionally bitter battle of the next day, the annual Carnegie Tech—W & J game.

"It would have been fine to be able to stay over for the game, but again the schedule called; so we were off early for Washington, Pennsylvania, where we made a brief stop at the Shelter and looked up Paul Carmichael, Frank Busbey, and Robert Aiken; then pushed on to Morgantown for a delightful luncheon with the West Virginia chapter in their fine new house.

"That ended the itinerary, and the next day found us homeward bound."

* * * *

BUT Mr. Tharp was still reminiscent. The trip had shown him too many pleasant things about the Fraternity for him to let it go like that.

"The satisfactory condition that I found in a widely scattered group of chapters," he said, "is, of course, pleasing in itself. But I think it is of more consequence than that. To me it means that Delta Tau Delta has been working along the right lines. It means that the whole program set up by the Arch Chapter under the leadership of Norman MacLeod is now bearing fruit and good fruit.

"This program provided for a positive attack on all the major problems inherent in the college fraternnity system. It brought about sound business management through an efficiently operated Central Office under the direction of Hugh Shields which gives supervision and assistance to all the undergraduate chapters in each of their realms of activity. It provided for a sound financial policy which has made surpluses possible, even in these lean years, and has kept financial difficulties in the active chapters at a minimum. It insisted upon respectable scholarship, and it is getting it. It planned for a maintenance of numerical strength which has resulted in an increase of initiates in the last college year despite a marked shrinkage in total fraternity initiates. It provided further for an improvement in the average personnel of initiates by a system of thorough investigation of prospects. It planned for cultural improvement in the chapter houses. It aimed at an increase in alumni activity and interest by putting a greater number of alumni to work on the challenging fraternity problems.

"With this comprehensive program it is no wonder that the progress of Delta Tau Delta has been marked or that the chapters of Delta Tau Delta are superior chapters and almost without exception rank well among the leaders on their respective campuses. I do not mean that we have arrived at any goal. We must continue to plan and strive. But it is gratifying to survey the present moment and find it good."

The 1933 All-Delt Selection

By DUDLEY COLLINS

TAKE 'EM or leave 'em. Here is the 1933 All-Delt Fourth Annual Selection, chosen after an exhaustive study of the records plus a man to man comparison. If you do not agree with our selection (which we admit is hard to beat), there's plenty of good material wearing the Square Badge, and we are listing them for your approval.

So here's the first team:

Name	Weight	Campus	Position	Class	Years on Delt Team
Edgar Manske	175	Northwestern	L. E.	Senior	3
William Fehring (C)	195	Purdue	L. T.	Senior	2
Charles Hartwig	200	Pittsburgh	L. G.	Senior	3
Howard Christie	210	California	C.	Junior	2
William Borgmann	185	Michigan	R. G.	Junior	1
Gale O'Brien	210	Nebraska	R. T.	Senior	1
Tom Slusser	180	Penn State	R. E.	Senior	1
Robert Hogan	190	Pittsburgh	Q. B.	Senior	3
Ralph Kercheval	195	Kentucky	H. B.	Senior	3
Arleigh Williams	190	California	H. B.	Junior	1
George Sauer	197	Nebraska	F. B.	Senior	3

The line consists of stars who excel in diagnosing opponents' plays. They are aggressive, fast chargers and good blockers. If you're going to try to rush this seven, you'd better wear a skirt. The backs are capable ball-toters. They can furnish orthodox line smashes, power plays, lightning slants at the flanks. They are good passers, and their kicking ability can't be overlooked. Everyone was an outstanding performer, and each scored at least one field goal this season.

The following Delts, by the way, captained their respective elevens: Joe Buonanno of Brown, Bill Fehring of Purdue, George Sauer of Nebraska, Ralph Kercheval of Kentucky, Royce Johnson (Tulane) of Louisiana Tech, Tom Slusser of Penn State, Bill MacNamee of Kenyon, and Frank Meyer of R. I. P. We mention this, although it gave a man no preference in the selection. It is interesting to note that no sophomore made the grade this season.

Well, here goes for a low-down on the individual men:

Edgar Manske; 175 lbs.; left end. "The greatest defensive game played by an end," a famous coach said after the scoreless Stanford-Northwestern game. The Chicago Herald headlines that Saturday afternoon carried a picture of this boy and had these headlines: "When 28,000 Wildcat Fans Shout, 'Go Get 'Em, Manske'." In addition to his defensive game Manske is a star on the offense. He made several spectacular catches of passes, and all Northwestern opponents know that when Manske is in the lineup the Purple Wildcats are dangerous, for his pass catching ability is respected at all times. All-Big Ten honors unanimously. All-American.

William "Dutch" Fehring; 195 lbs.; left tackle. Fehring is honored with the captaincy of our selection. He is one of the greatest athletes in Purdue's history: a star as guard in basketball, a 400 hitter and a finer receiver in baseball, and the holder of the distinction of having the highest scholastic average in the University for 1932-33. He captained Purdue in their drive for national recognition. With strength to overpower the opposition, combined with his analysis of opposing tactics, no wonder he was selected All-Big Ten. Fehring has received his second Card of All-American Merit.

Charles Hartwig; 200 lbs.; left guard. This boy played a fine game in last year's Tournament of the Roses against a pair of Southern California's All-Americans. Our expectations of him this year were never dimmed. A guard without a flaw.

Howard "Red" Christie; 205 lbs. center. This carrot-top kid, who won a Card of All-American Merit as a sophomore, is still the most sensational player on the Coast. As a freshman Christie was a fullback. California plays a six man line on defense, and Bill Ingram needed a great defensive man. Christie was his selection. He tackles with authority. His passing was perfect. We predict a greater year in 1934.

Bill Borgmann; 185 lbs.; right guard. Michigan has produced finer stars, but never has she had more of a scrapper than Bill. He's one of the reasons Michigan was the outstanding team of the country.

Gale O'Brien; 210 lbs.; right tackle. A Cornhusker who received considerable acclaim for his fine all round play last year, especially on defense. He was every bit as good if not better this year. Star lineman in Pittsburgh-Nebraska game. All-Big Six Selection for second consecutive time. Bill Richardson, 210 lb. sophomore sensation of Mississippi, who played an eleven-game schedule without much rest, deserves mention here.

Tom Slusser; 180 lbs.; right end. Slusser captained Penn State, and State had one of her best seasons. Tom was finalist in intercollegiate boxing. His experience in these lines helped him box in those runs that started his way. His pass catching ability was State's offensive threat. He scored on a long run after receiving a pass to tie Pennsylvania in the closing minutes of the game. Immortal at State.

Robert Hogan; 190 lbs.; quarter. Bob uses weight and an equal preponderance of brains to the best advantage. A man to be considerable on any gridiron. This Pittsburgh star can block and toss passes—ask Nebraska. One was enough for a touchdown and a ball game. One of the best kickers in the country. His 70 yard punt for the end zone provided the turning point in the Notre Dame massacre. All-American mention. Joe Buonanno of Brown was a close second in the voting.

Ralph Kercheval; 195 lbs.; halfback. This wasp-waisted lad not only captained Kentucky, but had to kick her out of the tough spots. He did a fine job, even though sometimes he made the tackle after the kick. He won the plaudits of the critics for his fine line smashes and defensive work as well as for his kicking ability. All-Southern and second Card of All-American Merit.

Arleigh Williams; 190 lbs.; halfback. Arleigh came to California interested primarily in baseball, with aspirations as a catcher. Last fall he developed into one of the finest ball carriers in Coast history. When a fine judge as Hunk Anderson of Notre Dame thinks twice about a player (especially with his troubles now) not his own, you can rest assured the chap is good. Williams shines at ball carrying. His field goal looked like a mountain to Southern Cal for three quarters. His all round play this season has attracted and won him a lot of notice.

George Henry Sauer; 197 lbs.; fullback. With Hogan, Kercheval, and Williams he completes the most versatile all-star backfield in a decade. Rugged, rangy, and ever ready, Sauer is one of the most capable backs in the country. His pass interception gave Nebraska a reputation for aerial defense. The Cornhusker captain has been the dynamo of his team's attack, and the transmission line along which the impulse to go slay 'em has been conveyed to his mates. All-Big Six for third consecutive time. All-American unanimously. Co-captain of our selection. Even in defeat everyone was singing the praises of Sauer. He did most of the ground gaining and half the tackling in that Pittsburgh 7 to 0 game.

As usual, however, the material far outruns a single team. Here are second and third team selections, together with a list of football Delts all over the country who deserve honorable mention:

Second Team

Lib Lewis	Carnegie Tech	L. E.
Bill Richardson	Mississippi	L. T.
Paul Tangora	Northwestern	L. G.
Russ Calkins	California	C.
Jim Darnaby	Kentucky	R. G.
Bill Stewart	Miami	R. T.
Royce Johnson	Louisiana Tech	R. E.
Joe Buonanno (C)	Brown	Q. B.
George McCarver	George Washington	H. B.
Bud Parsons	Nebraska	H. B.
Hugh Duwall	Northwestern	F. B.

Third Team

Bill Herbert	California	L. E.
Ralph Simpson	Butler	L. T.
Leo Battaglin	California	L. G.
Willis Danforth	Oregon State	C.
Elmer Hubka	Nebraska	R. G.
Red Gragg	Illinois	R. T.
Carl Bubenheim	W & J	R. E.
Frank Meyer	Rensselaer	Q. B.
Dick Armstrong	Kansas State	H. B.
Ray Lewis	Stanford	H. B.
Joe Mihn (C)	Carnegie Tech	F. B.

Honorable Mention

May, Martin, and Hughes of Ohio; Bartels of Western Reserve; Yount, Wright, and Bishop of Lafayette; Stamp of Rennselaer; Walworth, Dhonau, Swanson, and MacNamee of Kenyon; Jackson of Indiana; Bailey and Pope of De Pauw; Maury of Virginia; Donnell and Sutphin of Butler; Preston of Lehigh; Meiss of Cornell; Bronstein, Feiling, and Maggiora of Stanford; Phillips and Vidis of Ohio State; Heldt of Nebraska; Raymond of Brown; Overton, Erskine, Cranston, Burr of Wesleyan; Hulett of Dartmouth; F. Parrish, B. Parrish, Morrison, and Walse of George Washington; Ted Fehring, Burch, and Sexton of Purdue; Mammosser of Syracuse; Mutcher and Panuska of Miami; Brewer and Stanford of Carnegie Tech; Olson and Dyson of South Dakota; Jacobs of Kentucky; Pick of Tennessee.

Farish of Standard Oil

THEY called him "Bill" Farish until last summer. "They" are thousands of the greatest individualists in industry, the oil men, from the fellow in hip boots up to his knees in mud to the oil company president who still retains, as a reminder of the year 1929, his yacht. On June 6th of this year he became William Stamps Farish to the public through his elevation to the chairmanship of the Standard Oil Company (N. J.). It is hard for some people to address a man as "Bill" when he sits in an office adjoining the board-room of a two billion dollar corporation. After the first few days the men who had known him before found that he was the same friend in New York that he had been in windswept Texas. The "Bill" was reinstated.

Mr. Farish first cast an inquiring, humorous eye on the world about him in Mayersville, Mississippi, on February 23rd, 1881. He was graduated from St. Thomas Hall at Holly Springs in his native state sixteen years later, got a Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of Mississippi in 1900, where he was initiated into Delta Tau Delta, and was promptly admitted to the bar in his state. He had one of the shortest careers of any disciple of the revered Blackstone. For after just three months in practice at Clarksdale he moved over to Beaumont, Texas. This move was the termination of daily association with torts and the beginning of a more interesting quest for a livelihood.

The famous oil pool at Spindletop had just come in. Never was a rush to a newly discovered gold field more tumultuous or picturesque than the race of the fortune seekers into this glamorous oil country. These men were after black gold which gushed in foaming torrents from the tops of derricks to stain the countryside for miles around with its sombre hues. Soon Mr. Farish was thick in the fray, running here and there with the wildest rumors, trading his dog for a lease and his lease for another dog, borrowing on the strength of the luck that he felt was to be his when the drill cut into the pay sands.

At Spindletop the youngster met and joined up with a kindred spirit in R. L. Blaffer. Mr. Blaffer was the conservative member of the firm. He carried the company's assets in his pocket and spent much of his time hiding from people who presented bills run up by his more venturesome partner. The two men are still closely associated and the best of friends. In fact, Mr. Blaffer was made president of the Humble Oil & Refining Company when Mr. Farish relinquished that position to go to New York.

Oil liquidated the obligations of Blaffer and Farish and put them on the highroad to wealth. In 1907 they merged their properties with those of H. C. Weiss and R. S. Sterling, the latter recently Governor of the Lone Star State. Ten years later these men organized the Humble Oil and Refining Company with Mr. Sterling as president and Mr. Farish as vice-president. It is now the outstanding oil company in Texas, occupying its own building in Houston and operating several refineries, the largest of which is a complete modern plant at Baytown. It is now a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company (N. J.), which owns a two-thirds interest.

Another turning point in the life of Mr. Farish came during the War when he was chosen a member of the Petroleum War Service Committee. There he met W. C. Teagle, newly elected president of the Standard Oil Company (N. J.), and the two men formed a friendship that strengthened with passing years. That contact led to the purchase of Humble stock by Mr. Teagle's company, and eventually to Mr. Teagle's insistence that Mr. Farish come to New York as chairman of the Jersey directorate.

Long before this event Mr. Farish had become one of the best known oil men in the United States through his activities, first in developing the Humble and secondly through his participation in national efforts to put a bridle on a wild industry to bring it into control. His activities along the latter line led to his reception of the highest honor that the industry can confer. In 1926 he was made president of the American Petroleum Institute, a difficult job that he fulfilled so well that he needed all his persuasive powers to avoid re-election.

The Jersey Company chairman is a big man, slow moving but going steadily in the direction he has mapped out. He speaks with a lazy drawl and has a ready laugh to keep him from becoming portentous. He is fond of horses: would rather see a good polo game than any other kind of staged event. He has a boy now in Yale who also likes polo; his father has bought him a string of ponies and hopes to see his name some day on the program when the United States plays the British or the Argentinians. He also has a younger daughter in a girls' school at Dobbs Ferry, New York. He retains his beautiful home in Houston and fully expects to occupy it again when he has finished his stint with the country's premier oil company. Down in Houston he is but fifteen minutes from duck shooting, thirty minutes from good fishing, and not more than an hour from big game country by airplane. With that in the back of his mind he has no intention of spending his after-retirement years with his nose pressed up against a window in the Union League Club in New York.

Delts Who Do Things

VI. ARTHUR Q. ADAMSON

By CLAUDE E. DRAKE

BACK from Jerusalem is A. Q. Adamson, charter member of the second Gamma Pi. He has just completed a new modern Y. M. C. A. building in that city where water is still carried in pig-skin bags and camels are the mode of transportation. Slightly grayed at the temples, his youthful appearance and cheerful smile belie his twenty-five odd years of Y. M. C. A. service abroad. Although he has from the time of graduation always been widely separated from Gamma Pi, he has always found time to take an active interest in her affairs.

For soon after graduation in 1907 from Iowa State he sailed from San Francisco with his bride to take up an under-secretaryship in the Y. M. C. A. at Foochow, China. The China of that day, still under the regime of the opium ridden Empress Dowager, must have seemed very strange and difficult to understand with its odd customs and manners. He soon showed, however, an unusual talent in getting along with the natives, quickly adapting himself to their ways of doing things. In two years he had definitely proved his worth and was appointed Acting General Secretary of the organization there.

Shortly afterwards, during the Revolution of 1911, he was appointed president of the Red Cross Society and actively aided the revolutionists to such an extent that he received in recognition of his services the 6th Order of Chia Ho from the new Republic.

In 1912 he was placed at the head of the Y. M. C. A. building program for all China. His was the job of designing and erecting some fifty-five Y. M. C. A. buildings and residences under every conceivable condition all over China. With the finishing of the nine story Foreign Y. M. C. A. building in Shanghai in 1928, the building program was completed, and "A. Q.," as he was known in school, left definitely for the States.

On his arrival at New York he was first assigned to the head of the Research Department of the Y. M. C. A. Architectural Bureau. Shortly after he was assigned the difficult task of translating the Jerusalem Y. M. C. A. from an architectural dream into a structural reality. The building had been begun two years previous, but because of difficulties arising from local conditions nothing more than the foundations had been completed. However, despite the handicap of the rather indifferent Arab labor and the Jewish-Arab troubles of '29, he was able to complete the building in three short years and well within the allowed budget.

When Mr. Adamson sailed from Palestine this summer, he left, as he did in Shanghai, a host of friends and well wishers among the local people with whom he had been working. For in his twenty-five odd years of service abroad he has never had to resort to an arbitration or a law suit to secure his ends.

On his way out to California, where he is taking a well earned vacation, Mr. Adamson stopped at the Gamma Pi house for a week's visit and showed a lively interest in the local problems of the chapter.

Functions: Scholarship and the Fraternity

By DEAN ARNOLD

For the first time since the National Interfraternity Conference began compiling scholarship data, Delta Tau Delta has a scholastic average better than the All-Men's average in American colleges and universities.

The Southern Division saved the day.

The Conference reports the same general excellent work in the South throughout the general fraternity field, that section contributing a scholastic gain equal to eight times the total net gain of the entire country. The report also shows a definite upturn on the Pacific Coast, a loss in New England, and a serious retrogression in the North Central states.

Of the sixteen large fraternities Delta Tau Delta ranked fifth for 1932-33, eight of the sixteen being above the All-Men's average and eight below it. This is the best comparative showing Delta Tau Delta has ever made.

The eradication of a few of our consistently poorest chapters scholastically would have placed us head and shoulders above the leader in our group.

the chapter life itself. To improve one is to improve another; to neglect one is to neglect another of the essential qualities of this social unit.

The medical mind might regard scholarship as a symptom of the state of health of a fraternity—the stream of life which permeates the organization, carrying vigor and stamina into all vital parts. In his own practice the physician is quick to seek out the underlying cause of failing health and to remedy or remove the organ which is betraying the physical organization. In the Fraternity we are prone to drift along; there is fun on hand; there is cordial companionship in our unnoticed self-denial; and we allow ourselves to ignore the auto-intoxication of inadequate scholarship, which undermines our plans and robs the group of fullest success and enjoyment.

Do we not pity the man-in-the-street for his deprivation of the full heritage of the humanities? Should we not, then, pity the fraternity which does not receive its full share of them? The man-in-the-street very probably sneers at these values. Do we not, also? With less vehemence, perhaps, and on a dif-

IN MATHEMATICS, if two variables are so related that a change in the value of one produces a corresponding change in the value of the other, each is said to be a function of the other. Thus, it would appear, scholarship is a function of the Fraternity, the chapter organization and direction, and ferent, comparative plane, but just as smugly do we neglect our own philosophy.

The fraternity—or the chapter, which overlooks the function of scholarship is living a life of artificiality on the college campus; it might be drafted for a college scene in the talkies, but it is failing to give to its membership some of the fine advantages which accede to the limitless opportunity at college. Surely there must be an element in the present-day college fraternity with sufficient poise to discover there is something lacking in the clap-trap of the average chapter life! The predominance of "extra" interests is robbing the college fraternity of its birth-right. What chapter—what member, has the opportunity to reflect leisurely upon the intrinsic values involved in a college education?

Can Delta Tau Delta, an organized fraternity, set up effective leadership along intellectual lines?

The office of Supervisor of Scholarship has for a number of years endeavored to build up scholarship consciousness within the Fraternity. There is no plan to compete with Phi Beta Kappa; the purpose is to establish an attitude and an environment which will permit and encourage the members to cultivate their best interests in the college scheme. The results, although measurable, are not encouraging. There is a vicious cycle of blind-leading-blind, which must be interrupted; we must start at once to draft only those who have eyes to see.

The Supervisor of Scholarship appeals to the thoughtful active and alumnus to be mindful of the Fraternity's scholarship interests. Can we not find time and thought for the support of constructive scholarship in the Fraternity? Can the alumni not register interest in the cultural opportunities of their chapters? Whence must come the heaven?

The National Interfraternity Scholarship survey has just been released, and time is not available to include in this article a complete report of this survey. There has been a general improvement in the All-Men's scholarship average for 1932-33 and a slight improvement in All-Fraternity scholarship. However, the All-Fraternity average shows a decline in comparison with the improved achievement on the part of all men students. For instance, in 1931-32, at 61% of 145 institutions the campus fraternity average exceeded the All-Men's average; but for 1932-33 in only 56% of 153 institutions did fraternity averages excel.

Delta Tau Delta has shown a gradual, small improvement in national scholarship during the past five years. At present our Fraternity stands one-tenth of one centile above the national All-Men's average. This improvement has been achieved largely by good work in our Southern chapters, and was accomplished in the face of continued undesirable scholarship in the remaining Delta Tau Delta territory.

There are some bright spots in our chapter records. Delta Kappa Chapter leads, in the Fraternity, with first place and a plus 5 centile on its own campus. Chi Chapter stands first with a plus 2 centile on its campus, and Delta Epsilon ranks first at Kentucky with a plus 3 centile. Gamma Zeta, Gamma Theta, Delta Mu, Gamma Delta, and Delta Zeta take second place on their respective campuses. Gamma Zeta and Gamma Delta tie for scholarship honors in the Eastern Division.

Professional Football Enlists
Number of Deltas

EARLY professional football line-ups show the following: Bill Buckler, of champion 1925 Alabama team, is again at tackle for Chicago Bears. Bill is getting to be one of the real veterans of pro football, as he has been with the Bears since 1926. "Father" Lumpkin of Georgia Tech and John Cavosie of Butler are with the Portsmouth Spartans; Maynard Morrison, Delta's 1932 All-American center, is with Benny Friedman's Brooklyn Giants; Allen Ware, Lehigh's nine-letter, three team captain, is in the backfield for Stapleton; and Steve Hokuf of Nebraska is starring at end for Boston.

The Division Conferences

ONE Conference is already over—the Eastern. Three others, the Southern, the Western, and, it is to be presumed, the Northern are yet to come. Here you will find a report of what took place at the Eastern, written by that warhorse of Tau, Chapter Adviser H. Watson Stover, followed by advance announcements from the Presidents of the Southern and Western. No information has been received as regards plans in the Northern.

* * * *

The Eastern Division

*Here's to good old Boston,
Land of the beans and the cod,
Where the Cabots speak only to Lodges,
And the Lodges speak only to God.*

AND so, with that picture of our host city, President Hooper of Beta Nu extended to the assembled delegates, some fifty strong, the keys to Boston, and more specifically the keys to the University Club, for the 51st Eastern Division Conference. The hosts for the occasion were the Boston Alumni Chapter and active chapters Beta Nu and Beta Mu. And, as Time would say, blond, tall, mighty potent Frank Cornell, bigwig of such Division, took his accustomed and natural place as chairman—and history was in the making.]

"Buzz" Doyle, Division vice-president, in his usual thorough and logical manner, settled for once and all the question and desirability of house notes. And, incidentally, Doyle is ably qualified for such a subject by years of patient and meticulous study of Tau's House Corporation problems, culminating in a set-up, both physical and financial, which Deltas can truly be proud of.

If you ever find need for revising a constitution, no matter how complex and obsolete, call on George Brewster, Beta Chi, and his committee. The old Division Constitution, the national Constitution and various and sundry additions were put in the mill, and after much shooting and fireworks, the new product emerged, still recognized by the committee as essentially their brain child. It is a new modern piece of machinery that introduces veto power by the President; over-riding this veto power by the delegates; limited voting power by chapter advisers and accredited alumni representatives (who are also made members of the Conference); bi-annual Conferences; sectional meetings; vice-presidents; and, in keeping with the times, the fixed charges for each chapter for Division administration and Conferences are made more variable.

After the birth of a new Constitution Ted Bergman, specialist extraordinary in all fraternity problems, outlined a very thorough and detailed plan for pledge training, followed by some brief observations on the part of the writer on efforts and abortive attempts to raise scholarship in his chapter.

Bob Edgar from Nu reported for the Time and Place Committee that the next Conference would be held at Albany with Upsilon Chapter as hosts, in December, 1936.

The Nominations Committee reported the following slate: Frank M. Cornell, Omega, for President, and Henry W. Merrill, Gamma Gamma; George A. Doyle, Tau; Jordan Gauthier, Tau; George W. Brewster, Beta Chi; and George I. Gray, Delta Theta, for vice-presidents. The delegates elected these men unanimously. Statistics proved that in rushing, scholarship, and finances conditions have greatly improved, so that the delegates in one mighty voice approved of continuing the present policies.

So much for the routine business as transacted. In the evening the cares of business were cast aside, and, augmented by a number of local alumni bringing the total up to around ninety enthusiastic Deltas, the delegates were banqueted in sumptuous fashion and speech making began after musical interludes and a total lack of muscular control on the part of a "young" Boston dancer by the name of Sally Rand Blair. As toastmaster, Fred Crafts, Delt alumnus from George Washington, demonstrated his skill in handling juries by introducing a galaxy of prominent men such as Eric Branchi, president of the Boston alumni; Darrell Moore, past President of the Eastern Division; Frank Cornell, past and present head; Victor Cutter, chairman of the Board of the United Fruit; and Edward Weeks, editor-in-chief of The Atlantic Monthly Press. Mr. Cutter gave us a wonderful and humorous philosophy of business and fraternal conduct. Mr. Weeks held the group spell-bound for an hour by his personal experiences in "The Editor's Easy Chair." Such an address should have been worth at least twelve credits in English. We at least learned why rejection slips are so common.

Throughout the Conference the sparkling personality of Tubby Merrill was ever present. As a genial host he was supreme. As the evening came to a close, in the words of Mae West, was heard—

 "You must come back and see us some time!"

—H. WATSON STOVER

The Southern Division

THE Southern Division will hold its annual Conference in Atlanta, Georgia, on February 15th-17th. Gamma Psi, at Georgia Tech; Beta Epsilon, at Emory; and the Atlanta Alumni Chapter are the joint hosts.

The program will open with a general get-together in the nature of a smoker at the Georgia Tech house. It is promised that unusual stunts will be the order of the evening. The Biltmore Hotel will be headquarters, and the three business sessions will be held there—one Friday morning from 9 until noon, a second Friday afternoon from 2 until 6, and a third Saturday from 11 until 12:30.

The big social event will be the Artists' Ball at the Shrine Mosque. Everybody will wear a smock, and efforts are being made to have Ben Bernie's orchestra or some other band of this rank. The dance will be from 10 P.M. until 2 A.M. After the business session on Saturday will come the Conference luncheon, which we believe will be popular with alumni as well as with actives. All the affairs have been arranged so that there will be no need for formal dress. The maximum fee will be $4.

President Harold Tharp indicates that he will make every effort to be present. Scholarship Supervisor Dean Arnold is said to be already on the way. Hugh Shields will be there with advice and interest. All the Division vice-presidents report their intention to be on hand.

We hereby invite all other members of the Arch Chapter as well as active members of the Fraternity and alumni who are anywhere near. Those interested may write LeRoy Petty, the Whitaker Paper Co., Atlanta. Roy says it's going to be a swell Conference.

—HAROLD D. MEYER

The Western Division

THE Western Division Conference will be held February 23-24, 1934, with Beta Kappa Chapter at Boulder, Colorado, the mountain breezes and Beany Beck permitting.

At its Forty-Sixth Conference, at Columbia, Missouri, under the happy auspices of Gamma Kappa Chapter, the Western Division voted to accept the invitation of Beta Kappa. At that time we didn't realize that 1932 was the year before the big panic; so, when 1933 showed up, President Roscoe Groves, after ascertaining that the virtually unanimous sentiment of the chapters was to save their money, obtained their approval not to hold the Conference. In lieu thereof the delegates from the Western Division met the day before the Chicago Karnea and had a valuable discussion of our particular problems. This year the Western Division is proceeding on a business-as-normal basis (and we are proud to be able to do it!); so we expect to take up the Beta Kappa invitation only a year late.

Not in many years has the Western Division got away from the Great Plains, but those who have been there remember the mountains on the edge of Boulder, and those who have visited Beta Kappa remember even better its generous Western hospitality. Possibly the chapter will arrange for the Conference to adjourn a few hours and mine enough gold nuggets to pay expenses.

It is too early to outline a definite program for the Conference. It may be that the annual banquet will be held at Denver with the energetic alumni there. Possibly Beta Kappa will feel that a visit to Colorado is not complete without getting acquainted with the coeds, and will arrange a dance. Certainly we will have two days of business sessions with the best possible open discussion of our major problems. Roscoe Groves always made the Western Division Conference a meeting primarily of and for the active chapter delegates, and his successor hopes he can keep up the good work in that direction.

Beta Zeta's Renaissance

By HERBERT R. HILL

BETA ZETA CHAPTER of Delta Tau Delta has just survived another one of those crises which seem to be periodic with perennial things. Events leading up to the crisis are so symptomatic of the fraternity situation generally throughout America, and the manner in which the chapter is being nurtured back toward its former high standing is so successful, that the recent history of Beta Zeta merits more than casual analysis.

Beta Zeta was chartered in 1878 at Butler College, Indianapolis, and immediately became a campus power and a shrine for numerous outstanding neophytes. The chapter consistently weathered numerous vicissitudes, producing a weak class occasionally, but usually standing high and frequently first in scholarship and extracurricular activities, and developing renown as a genuinely fraternal center. The World War sapped Beta Zeta dangerously, all of the chapter eligible to service joining up. But chapter activities continued in limited manner, and a memorable initiation, officiated in khaki, was actually conducted just thirty hours before the Armistice. Peace brought a tremendous revival, former actives returning to swell Beta Zeta's force to a crescendo that swept all rivals before her.

The college expanded too, becoming a university with 300 per cent increased enrollment. Other national fraternities augmented the four veteran groups; the University was cramped, and a new campus, across town to the north on the heights of Fairview, was obtained. Beta Zeta withered in this transplanting. Alumni shied away from the unfamiliar new surroundings. The newer chapters worked briskly while Beta Zeta basked in the memory of former successes. Rushing was indolent; "They'll soon discover Delta Tau is best," was the attitude, but unfortunately "they" accepted other pins before this boast somehow penetrated their freshman intelligence.

The financial crash in 1929 almost completed the starvation of this once fair flower of Delta's garden, thriving in the most fertile valley of the Greek-letter world. Financial affairs became hopelessly ensnarled; the active members were over their heads in debt to the chapter, and the chapter owed tradesmen, landlord, national fraternity, and whomsoever. When all the banks closed last March, Beta Zeta evacuated too. A sort of creditors' committee, representing the national fraternity, took charge.

The Old Boys were asked back this fall. It was emphasized that no capital levy would be made on the alumni; just their good will, as interest in the principal of the thing, if you please, was asked. Only paid-up actives (there were seven) were permitted to rejoin the chapter. Industrious rushing, which was continued steadily after matriculation week, netted a lusty pledge chapter. Settlement of debts began. By November 8th the revamped and revitalized Beta Zeta felt sufficiently confident to invite back the Delta Taus of better days.

Eighty Beta Zeta men passed across the newly-swept threshold that night. They came shyly, quietly; some doubtfully; all inquiringly. Was it to be a funeral or a birthday? Old friendships were revived (a trite way to report it, but nevertheless accurate). The ever-beautiful ritual was as inspiring as ever. William Watkins, '34; Francis Doudican (Cleveland, O.), '36; Ernest Evans, '36; Henry Fornoff (Logansport, Ind.), '36; Herbert Smeltzer, '36; and Kirkwood Yockey, '36, were initiated.

No doubting now! Those young chaps, taking their places alongside the dauntless nucleus left from the March decimation, passed out heads up, wearing the badge as gifted with patrician soul. The assemblage went downstairs for food.

The men of Beta Zeta, like the men of Haerliche, have always sprung to her defense when needed. Busy with city cares, fratres in urbes are frequently lax in consistent homecomings. Other sons return only rarely to the midlands. But let the hearth be endangered . . . ! The March "recovery committee" was composed entirely of Beta Zeta men, headed by William Percy, '23. He naturally became chapter adviser. Patiently but firmly he weeded out the weaklings. Proudly, then, he introduced the surviving actives: Lawrence Carr, '34; Lawrence Davis, '34; Emsley W. Johnson, Jr., '34; Harry Riddell, '34; Joseph Taylor, '34; Edwin C. Davis, '35; Dudley Hutcheson, '35; Thomas Johnson, '35; and Donn Nicewander, '36.

Then the pledges: Allen Sutphin, '35; Karl Sutphin, '35; Edward Humston, '36; Walter Judd, '36; Robert Pruyn, '36; Keith Burgess, '37; Alfred Coffin, '37; Freeman Gibbs, '37; Jack Prosch, '37; and Joseph Wooling, '37.

Robert R. Batton, '12, arose, a beaming toastmaster. He looked over the crowded dining room; all decades of Beta Zeta were there: Arch Hall, '82, who played for Butler on the first football team in Hoosierland; Joe Morgan, '89; Francis J. Doudican, '08; and Frank Wooling, '12, whose sons had just found the other end of the Rainbow; the younger men. He introduced Frank F. Hutchins, '93.

That noted psychiatrist gave a thought-provoking talk. As an educator he lamented the failure of education to do little more than impart knowledge. The fraternity, he insisted, should supplement the classroom in pointing the way to the well-rounded, happy, successful, worth-while life. He told of the tripod—intellectual, emotional, and ethical—which supports the human personality and which attains that balance known as reason. He cited as the modest-yet-aggressive, intellectual-yet-human, thoroughly happy warrior of Beta Zeta, Harold B. Tharp, '12, new President of Delta Tau Delta.

His mater chapter was the twenty-third Harold had visited up to that time in his inaugural tour of inspection. He noted that where some other national fraternities of "first fifteen" rank were financially harassed, Delta Tau Delta is comfortably solvent. He noted that initiations increased $12\frac{1}{2}$ per cent for Delta Tau Delta last year, while most initiate totals were decreasing. And these chapters he found uniformly superior—"uniformly up to a standard," please. He found each little Fraternity universe going about its diversified business happily, smoothly. "The men were accepting their fraternal responsibilities in most dependable manner. And if this world needs any quality just now, it is dependability. It is heartening to know that Delta Tau Delta is producing, every June, a new crop of dependable men who will become leaders in their communities."

At the suggestion of Russell I. Richardson, '23, Beta Zeta proceeded to organize its own alumni association. Dr. Hutchins was elected president; the vice-president is Edward James, '20, who left Butler to fly at Kelly Field, and then proceeded to master architecture at Cornell; the secretary-treasurer is Henry Gibson, '31. The Association is to be the magnet which will draw the Old Boys regularly back to the Fairview Delta Shelter. And already it has decided to reciprocate for youth's hospitality; alumni farther along the purple pathway of Delta's existence are returning regularly to tell the chapter's young men some of the wisdom they have garnered. Beta Zeta's renaissance has begun.

Mark Gill Appointed a Vice-President of Western Division

MARK M. GILL, Gamma Rho (Oregon), '30, of Portland, has been named by President Dickinson as second vice-president of the Western Division, with supervision over the area including Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, and the Canadian provinces adjacent thereto. He succeeds faithful Ed Jones of Seattle, resigned.

Mr. Gill was vice-president of his active chapter for one year. He was active on the campus and was especially active in connection with the installation of Delta Lambda, at Oregon State. He has had charge of several initiations and banquets for the Portland alumni, was secretary of the alumni group last year, and probably has the widest acquaintance among Delts of any man in the Pacific Northwest.

Duke and North Carolina Chapters in Annual Get-Together

ANNUALLY gathers the cream of Delta Tau Delta as represented in the Carolinas. The occasion—the Duke-Carolina football game; the hosts—the chapter at the scene of the game.

This year Delta Kappa was host to Gamma Omega. Duke won, but the affair ended even-all, as Harold Meyer of Carolina made the talk of the evening. Delta Kappa's new adviser, Alex Mabry, was toastmaster. Most acceptable speeches were also made by President Humphreys of Delta Kappa and President Rouiller of Gamma Omega.

All in all, it was another gala occasion.

AROUND THE FIREPLACE

PERHAPS you don't know it, but with this new publication schedule, by which the four numbers of THE RAINBOW reach you in November, January, March, and May, we are planning to give you, early in September, a sort of RAINBOW yearbook the pictorial section of which will be the Album of Delta Shelters.

You remember what an attractive album we had last September, although it did not begin to show all our better looking houses.

The next two numbers of this volume, therefore—the March and May numbers—will be fine opportunities for you to get in good pictures of your Shelters. We don't propose to make any new cuts for next fall's album, but shall add to last fall's display the new house pictures from this year's Pictorials.

You know you regretted not being represented last fall. Here's an opportunity to guard against the same omission next fall.

Is your chapter there? If not, why not? You'd be surprised how many of these men have volunteered, without anybody so much as raising a finger.

THOUSANDS of Deltas will be concerned to know that beloved Frank Wieland had to be operated on recently for a brain tumor which was threatening his sight. The latest reports indicate that his recovery is progressing very favorably.

Many of those at the Karnea will be surprised to learn that even on the occasions of his appearance there, on the floor, at the smoker, at the luncheon in his personal honor, his sight was completely gone in one eye and seriously impaired in the other.

He joked with the surgeons before the operation, according to The Tribune.

"I regard this as a great picnic," he is quoted as saying, "but it's a lovely thing to have insurance."

He wrote from the hospital:

"How is this for the irony of fate? When Charlie Ax presented me with my beautiful traveling bag, he said, 'I hope you will pack this bag and visit all the chapters whose members you have so often entertained.' The first and only use of the bag so far was when I packed it to come to the hospital!"

The last word from Chicago is that scores of Delta friends as well as many others are only awaiting permission to call and offer felicitations.

EVEN if you are a conservative by nature, do not be too much upset by the brilliant cover in which this magazine now reaches you.

Some of the earnest brethren have the idea that we should attract more subscribers if we whooped it up a little in appearance. One or two of them would have us go considerably farther than a mere mild jazzing of the cover: they would like the pictures scattered from first page to last page, with some splashes of colored art work and then some typographical fireworks.

We are not so sure about it, ourselves, especially since we see what some other fraternity magazines have achieved along those lines. A noisy magazine appears to us as a little on the vulgar side—although that is entirely a matter of taste. Nevertheless the argument for conspicuousness, it seems to us, applies rather to those magazines that are obliged to get themselves sold by attracting attention on the newstands and that must appeal, therefore, primarily to a public that is newsstand-magazine-minded. We have the feeling that THE RAINBOW is neither

Collier's nor Liberty nor even The Cosmopolitan, but makes its appeal through a wholesome and human straightforwardness plus a certain well bredness of format. We may be entirely wrong about it, but it rather strikes us that, as is, THE RAINBOW has come to occupy its own and individual place in world of fraternity magazines and that it would be something of a mistake to try to make it a different looking thing.

However, here is a compromise. We tried silver on this scarlet, but it looked sort of messy; so here's black on scarlet (which our printers say is terrible). Maybe, after a breathing spell, we'll give you tulip-red on orange. You can see that across the street, too.

If you have any deep convictions about the whole business, shoot.

* * * *

CLARENCE PUMPHREY wants to perfect his files of THE RAINBOW, so that he may give Gamma Xi Chapter a complete set. The numbers he is missing are Vol. XII, Nos. 3 and 4 (1889); Vol. XVI, Nos. 1, 2, and 4 (1892-93); Vol. XVII, No. 4 (1894); Vol. XVIII, Nos. 3 and 4 (1895); Vol. XLV, No. 3 (1922).

Hugh has already asked the active chapters to examine their old files. Perhaps some of the old time alumni may be able to help. Don't send the numbers, if you have them; but communicate first with Clarence Pumphrey, The Aetna Life Insurance Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

* * * *

A RECENT number of College Humor contained the following:

"A Beta from _____ recently told the Cobra that the Delts there are little more than an eating club."

Undoubtedly it is our personal loss that we do not read College Humor, so that the significance of "the Cobra"—whoever or whatever he or it may be—escapes us; but knocking has gone out of favor among the more decent college fraternities, and we admit to some surprise that College Humor—of whose ethical standards we are quite ignorant—should choose to give publicity to such an irresponsible and nasty little crack and then veil its source in careful anonymity.

Perhaps "Cobra" is a good pseudonym, after all.

* * * *

AMONG the abuses almost inherent in the fraternity system is this matter of inactive membership. Too often it has meant—and perhaps still does mean, here and there, that a man on the one hand withdraws his financial support, and yet on the other continues to enjoy practically all the advantages of membership.

Such an arrangement is, of course, entirely indefensible—almost on a par with the attitude of some professional college athletes who, because they are athletes, permit other men to pay their way in their fraternity—and we have yet to see the chapter which profits in the least by such questionably gained loyalty.

What especially attracts our attention is the instruction in a recent Central Office memorandum providing that the following clause shall be incorporated as the conclusion of each application for inactive membership:

"It is my understanding and agreement that should this petition be granted, thereafter during my term of inactivity I shall not be entitled to any of the privileges of membership, including use of the facilities of the chapter house in any way, attendance at or participation in any of the social functions, meetings, etc., of the chapter, and I agree neither to ask nor to accept such privileges; and to abide by such further regulations as may be imposed by the chapter, but nevertheless at all times to render to the Fraternity the utmost loyalty and service consistent with this agreement."

Good stuff, that. Another resource in the hands of those leaders determined to build up virile chapters. And have you happened to observe that, when a chapter these days does not build itself up as virile, nine times out of ten it is because its rank and file lack the backbone to avail themselves of the effective machinery that is already provided?

* * * *

WE MET a man at the Karnea who had a new peeve. He said the RAINBOW notices from the C. O. were full of "cheap satire." We didn't remind him that "cheap satire" is what we always call the other fellow's. It just left us sort of helpless.

Kindly, gentlemen, be advised that what here follows is not satire. It's written because we believe most of you would rather help than hinder and because we have the idea that most of you correspondents, whether you're majoring in English or not, would rather be respectable in your English usage than otherwise. And don't think that we think that you are any worse in this respect than half the men in American colleges today. Just the other day we heard the holder of two college degrees say, "Mrs. Jones invited Helen and I to dinner." The same man says "visited with," "between you and I," "different than," and "Everybody got their coat."

But, just the same, there are things in chapter letters that are slowly but surely making us lose the little hair we have left. Some of 'em come from point of view; some are a matter of taste; some, God bless you, arise from plain ignorance—and we aren't any less your buddy because we say that.

Want to know what some of them are? Here's a partial list:

"While" as a co-ordinating conjunction: "Smith is president, while Brown is treasurer."

The word "frat."

A list of pledges stuck down in the letter somewhere instead of being placed first, where it belongs.

"Incidentally" as an alleged English word.

References to "Delt alumnae." We haven't any, and never have had.

"Mothers' Club" spelled as if there was only one mother in it.

Inconsequential detail that nobody, not even the chapter's alumni, gives a hoot about.

"Gotten."

Proper names misspelled.

Letters with no signature.

"Reverend Jones" as an English usage.

The word "contact" as a verb.

Labored detail giving the hour, the day of the week, and the day of the month when something took place, when all the news is that it did.

A list of initiates.

That everybody out for a position is "working hard."

That the pledge delegation is unusual.

"Basketball" as two words.

"Captain" spelled "Captian."

Urgent invitations for the alumni to come to something that will be over and done with before the magazine appears.

"Acted as toastmaster."

Accompanying letters explaining why the chapter letter is late.

Letters not typewritten.

"It's" as the possessive pronoun.

The only trouble about all this is that probably the only people who won't see it will be the corresponding secretaries who need it most, for a lot of you don't need it at all. Anyway, December 5th is coming—for heaven's sake, don't misunderstand that!

Yours,

—Ed.

THE DELTA CHAPTERS

A ALLEGHENY

Alpha, after the close of a very successful rushing season, has once more settled down to a normal routine.

The end of the intramural touch-football season saw the Delts defeated in the final game, nosed out of first place by the Phi Psis. In the annual cross country race we placed fourth, with Larue Smith, Harry Millikin, Jack Johnston, and "Pea" Jacobus among the leaders. Our eyes are now on the volleyball and basketball championships, with most of last year's championship teams back with us and some promising material in the freshman class.

"Duff" Weber and "Dink" McCrackin represented Delta Tau Delta on the first string squad during the past football season, and both have won positions on the basketball squad.

Ray Sternthal was elected to Phi Beta Phi, biology; Larue Smith and Frank Helfrich to the History and Political Science Club; and Larue Smith also elected to Kappa Phi Kappa, educational.

Homecoming was an inspiration both to the actives and to alumni. About fifty alumni were back, greeted by the traditional Alpha hospitality enhanced by some clever house decorations sponsored by Dick Rushmore. He was congratulated by many alumni for his artistic work.

Under the supervision of Bob Kaiser the pledge program is meeting with great success. The pledge class seems very promising scholastically as well as in activities; it is hoped that the bright outlook forecasts a scholastic standing materially raised.

B OHIO

Of the twelve students elected to Phi Beta Kappa two were Delts. Jack Morgan, formerly Athena editor and Junior Prom chairman, and Robert Wagner were the two men who received this honor. At about the same time Arthur Briggs, former business manager of The Athena and member of Torch, was elected to Alpha Beta Chi, the scholastic honorary in the School of Commerce.

Jim Powell and Gene Batten, editors of The Ohioan and The Athena respectively, were initiated into "J" Club, junior honorary.

This year's Homecoming was one of the biggest and most successful. The chapter repeated last year's success by again winning the house decorating contest. On Saturday night the traditional Delt Serenade was held on the steps of Lindley Hall. Al Gardner led.

The intramural program started off with baseball. The Delt team won both the fraternity and campus championships. During this campaign the team was not defeated, and in many of the games the opponents were held scoreless.

Pledge Halleck, a sophomore, has received his varsity "O" in football. Bog Hughes, George May, and Reid Martin were also on the squad. Pledge Nelson played on the freshman team. Pledge Gene MacDonald performed as cheerleader. In basketball we have Ed Byham, Bob Herrick, Howard Moon, George May, and Bill Wipfler working out daily with the varsity. Claude Rudd was co-senior football manager, and Glenn Gourley is co-senior basketball manager.

The first dance of the year was held at the house on Oct. 14th. The pledges are making final preparations for the annual pledge dance.

Γ WASHINGTON & JEFFERSON

Pledges: K. D. Strickler, Uniontown; C. E. Matheny, Pittsburgh; C. H. McMillan, Pittsburgh; R. G. McClure, Pittsburgh; W. C. Heyn, Evanston, Ill.; W. H. Sutherland, Cincinnati, Ohio; W. G. Barr, Canton, Ohio; J. G. Davis, Library; H. E. Gall, Beaver.

Intramural athletics have begun in earnest, and once more Sam Hopper battled his way to a championship in handball for the chapter. Wrestling began after the Thanksgiving holidays. The team has been well trained and coached by Pledge Matheny. The fellows are working hard to amass enough points to clinch the Point Trophy again this year and thus gain permanent possession of it.

Football has naturally attracted the lion's share of attention in the sports field and with ample reason, since Gamma has five representatives on the squad, with Bubenheim and Holland at regular positions. President Bill Snee is the senior manager of the team; Jack Thomson holds the junior managership; and Ed. Crone is the sophomore manager. The Homecoming game with Duquesne University attracted many of our alumni back to the Shelter, but we would like to see more of the men, graduates from "way back when." Let this letter be a standing invitation:

A special initiation was held October 18th.

The chapter has been in constant touch with Supervisor of Scholarship Arnold and hopes, through application of his many worth-while suggestions, to raise the chapter's scholastic average.

A campaign is now being carried on among the alumni of the chapter to secure funds for several necessary improvements. Thomson, '99, has started the campaign by providing for new dormitory equipment.

MICHIGAN

Football season is at last closed, leaving, however, many reminiscences of pleasant weekends. Michigan's football team attracted unusually large crowds to Ann Arbor this season, and brought more of the alumni and their guests back to the Shelter, many of whom we had not had the pleasure of seeing for a number of years. To, in a small way, entertain these guests, the House held tea dances after two of the major games. This was an experiment, but proved very successful.

Delta's representative on the varsity football squad was Bill Borgmann, regular guard. He experienced a good season, and his splendid performances were adequately attested by many sports writers.

With the closing of the football season started Delta's intramural activities, directed by Bob Henoeh. These sports will take the form of basketball, track, handball, squash, swimming, and speedball. The most prominent of these, of course, will be basketball. Last season the House was runner-up, and with the help of Fred Kohl, Bob Henoeh, Dan Hulgrave, Jean McClintic, Burke McClintic, and others, for the House always enters teams in both the A and B leagues, we ought to see Delta taking more than merely the runner-up position.

Probably one of the most successful campus dances of the year was the Union Formal, of which Richard Shoupe was chairman. Also at the Union, Lewis Kearns, as committee chairman, has been the author of many new developments.

Joe Neumann is the third consecutive Delt to be chairman of the Sophomore Prom. He is busily at work with his committee devising plans for an unusual dance.

December 8th will feature the first formal of the year at the Shelter, a dance to which all are eagerly looking forward. Delta's dances seem to be impatiently anticipated by most of the campus: we certainly have a dandy time.

We are more than pleased with our wonderful pledge class, and feel very fortunate indeed. They are already taking their places in campus activities, and are striving diligently to make Delta Tau Delta proud of them.

The House this year got off to a wonderful start—it is daily gathering momentum!

WILLIAM CURRY

This year's Homecoming was staged on a typically rainy fall week-end; yet, for all the inclemency of the weather, we welcomed upwards of fifty alumni. Among those who attended the banquet was James Joycelyn, a charter member and our first president. He furnished us some most interesting anecdotes concerning the early history of Epsilon.

The close of the interfraternity football season found us once more in first place—the proud possessors of the jug. This is our second victory, and, should we be fortunate enough to win the trophy a third time, we shall be its perpetual owners. Much of the credit for this year's success is due to our field general, Church, and to McCredie and Schuler, who were placed on the all-fraternity team.

A number of our men have found success in campus activities. Among the pledgemen Hafford has been elected to the Histrionic Club; Barnum has won a beautiful cup signifying first place in the men's singles fall tennis tournament; and to Pastor has been awarded a varsity letter in football. In the active chapter Nelson, Coleman, and Oldham have won varsity football letters; Oldham is also president of the junior class. The Economics Club favored us when it elected Pinkerton as president, Taylor as secretary, and Nelson as one of its board of directors.

Our second annual Tackie Party, under the direction of Glenn Coleman, was a great success. Appropriate decorations increased the convivial spirit produced by unique costuming of the revelers.

With mid-semester marks just out, and the news still ringing in our ears that we have raised substantially our scholastic average, we depart for the Thanksgiving recess with plans to return for even greater things.

ARTHUR W. HOYT

WESTERN RESERVE

Zeta's Mothers' Association has started on its fall program of work. They held a card party in November, under the direction of Mrs. Frank Haberman. Our second alumni banquet was also held, and was equally as successful as the first. The annual Hallowe'en party was also very well attended by alumni and actives.

We were very glad to have Ted Bergman with us for a few days.

Dick Seaman, Tom Ward, Frank Haberman, and Francis McCoy are all members of the Reserve Political Club. Robert Stewart is secretary of the Reading Club.

Dick Clark has been elected to the Phi Society, the junior Phi Beta Kappa association.

Will Holmes has a scholarship at Law School.

Pledge Fonda has been ill for three weeks, and may not be able to continue in school.

Our runner-up volleyball team has started another successful season, having won its first two games.

The Warrion Society met at the house last Monday night.

ROBERT H. STEWART

K

HILLSDALE

Kappa started the school year with bright hopes (even though our first RAINBOW letter was late), and we still have them. We have 27 actives and 20 pledges. The house is full, and the boarding club overflowing.

Hillsdale won the third consecutive M. I. A. A. title this year (Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association to the uninformed). We had five boys in there giving it for dear old Hillsdale and Delta Tau. Bob Beckwith and Bob Patneau play guards, Harry Babcock and Barney Mauck tackles, and Chuck Burt right end. Our freshmen were also interested in football, and six of them will proudly wear "1937": Tom Cudmore full-back; Kent Kanaga, tackle; Don Warner, end; Ed Sweeting and Les McConeghy, quarterbacks; and old Major Tom Gerow, another tackle.

Basketball practice has started, and we have six men out for varsity. Bob Beckwith and Chuck Burt will play regularly. Ralph Johnston and Screwie Louie Griffiths look good and should win their big "H." Ad Wagner and the Rev. Gordon are also out.

We had our annual Bowery Ball Nov. 11th. De boys and goils all looked hoity-toity in their outfits. Most of de gents wore dose swell striped suits and de goils all carried elegant fans. We had naughty pictures on the walls and a long bar with a free lunch counter. The place really looked like a saloon (incidentally, for want of room it was held in a parish house). The boys had a few acts, the bar-room quartet sang; and John Price entertained with one of his eccentric dances. The music was furnished by Ray Harris.

The chapter recently elected Walter Morelock as vice-president, Edwin Stewart as alumni secretary, and Stewart McIntosh as corresponding secretary.

The house had new porch chairs this fall furnished by the Mothers' Club. They are the type of steel rocking chair in which one bounces like a 1924 model Chevy.

Kappa is proud to be the possessor of one of the best fraternity libraries in the country. Mr. Wade Millis recently contributed a unique copy of Confucius. The book is written in the original Chinese with the English translation occupying half the printed page.

This year's Homecoming was a week-end which will not be soon forgotten. About 75 alumni and friends were here. Saturday noon there was a dinner given in honor of Willfred O. Mauck, Kappa, '21, the new president of Hillsdale College. Ed Lincoln, President of the Northern Division, was toastmaster. Hugh Shields, comptroller of the Fraternity, gave an informal speech on the scholastic and financial condition of the Fraternity as a whole. Paul Chase, who was Kappa's adviser for over twenty years, spoke and gave a fine pledge to the new president. Ed Lincoln introduced with a profound and splendid tribute Joseph W. Mauck, President Emeritus, and asked, him to say a word. The room was silent as the grand old Delt started to speak, "Yes, I'll say a word and the word is, Thanks," whereupon he seated himself.

In the afternoon we saw Hillsdale defeat Kalamazoo College 20-0.

Sunday morning a memorial service was held at the house for John Lundy Parker, '22, who was brutally slain by bandits while playing golf on an Ohio golf course. The service was led by Fred Seitz. Lundy Parker was one of the finest men ever graduated from this chapter. He was president of the Toledo Alumni Chapter. Toledo Delts presented the House with a portrait of him which reveals his character and personality.

We hope the mailmen will play ball with us this time and that our letter reaches the RAINBOW offices before December 1st!

STEWART B. MCINTOSH

M OHIO WESLEYAN

Pledges: William Walton, Canastota, N. Y.; Sherwin Post, Highland Park, Mich.; Albert Moore, Howard Musekamp, Cincinnati; James Cass, Adams, Mass.; Harvey Closs, William Searles, Canandaigua, N. Y.; Trevor Williams, Martins Ferry; Kenneth Proctor, St. Louis, Mo.; Jason Austin, Baltimore, Md.; Myron D. Hamilton, Niles.

Under the New Deal program of Jack Logan, Mu began the new school year with a renewed spirit and enthusiasm. The chapter as a whole and the officers in particular have shown a real and living interest in fraternity affairs. Jack's staff of officers consists of Roger Fleming, Frank Proctor, Branch Rickey, Jr., Wilbur Kettell, Philip Powell, William Krichbaum, Henry Helling, and Allen Schmick. The boys have given the president their whole-hearted support and co-operation and have done much toward putting the chapter on its feet. We have high hopes for the future and intend to work hard.

Our rushing season was a tremendous success; of that we are sure. From the freshman class we obtained ten of the finest boys that were ever privileged to wear the pledge pin of Delta Tau Delta. Much of the credit for this success goes to Fred Mirick, our small but active rushing chairman. Prep Masters Brown and Rickey have taken over the task of training these new men in the preliminary rites and practices of Deltism, while the entire chapter has accepted the challenge to set a worthy example for them to follow. In addition to the ten freshmen we were able to guide one transfer, Myron Hamilton, into the fellowship at the Shelter.

Athletics have claimed the attention of many of the boys this fall. In football "Buck" Mills has taken a leading position on the team. So far he has played every quarter in eight games. Other men on the squad are Bill Turner, Branch Rickey, Jr., and Bob Alexander. All three have seen action in several games. Frank Proctor is again out to win a place on Wesleyan's cross country team. Vernon Smith holds the managerial responsibility for that sport.

The Shelter was literally showered with numeral sweaters this year, all but two of the sophomore class having made numerals in one sport or another. Helling, Houck, Kettell, and Mirick are displaying new junior manager sweaters; Logan and Vernon Smith can be seen about the campus in senior manager sweaters, one earned in intramural work, the other in track. Among other activities the Delts lay claim to four members of the Playing Parsons, campus dance orchestra: Mirick, Cloak, Deitrick, and Post.

Along the journalistic line Roger "Scoop" Fleming is doing a good job as sports editor of The Transcript. Allen Schmick has made the advertising staff and is working for the business managership. Fleming has covered all the Wesleyan games this year. For The Transcript and The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

I am happy to report the chapter in good condition and all the actives and pledges doing their utmost to maintain a high standing on the campus at Wesleyan!

N LAFAYETTE

[Upon the close of the football season we find Bill Yount, Harry Wright, and Tom Bishop awarded letters for their consistent playing. On the basketball court Ed Smith is out for guard position on the freshman team.

Prospects for intramural basketball are bright, with all members of last year's team back. The touch-football team was knocked out of the running, but the soccer team has reached the play-offs for campus championship.

The Rutgers week-end was a great success, for, through the efforts of Ken Mitman, another excellent dance was held, and the house decorations won the cup, a prize taken consistently since its institution.

Sherman and Bacharach have been appointed captains in the R. O. T. C. unit.

Many alumni have returned for short but appreciated visits.

O IOWA

In view of this being Omicron's fiftieth anniversary the chapter is out to make a year that will go down in history as a banner year.

Campus politics finds Ed Becker as a nominee for the presidency of the senior commerce class, and "Doc" Gamrath as a nominee for the vice-presidency of the junior class. Union Board now has two members from the House, John Kanealy, recently elected, and Bob Cook.

The annual classic of the pledge-active football game was won as usual by the actives. Their only touchdown was made when "Triple Threat" Jarvis grabbed the ball out of "Eli Ed" Waymac's hands and raced twenty yards for the counter. Handy handling of the stopwatch ended the game when the pledges got too threatening.

The chapter, although getting off to a poor start in interfraternity athletics by getting only a third in speed-ball, found its golf team bringing home the first place trophy. Even though we placed Emmett Stopher, Thomas, and Folwell in the first ten, we were nosed into second place in the annual cross country run. The neophytes have broken even so far in the frosh basketball tournament, but with several having won letters from other schools they are the potential winners.

"Stoop" Myers as social chairman is promising us the most gala year in history for our chapter parties. "The Christmas Masquerade," says the "Stoop," "will be no slouch," and, although it never has been, we have a feeling he has something up his sleeve.

The chapter has been very fortunate in having as dinner guests members of the faculty, who conduct various interesting discussions after dinner. These discussions are a part of Praeceptor Jarvis's "intellectual enlightenment" plan and have been highly appreciated.

Gene Kelley is on the advertising staff of The Frivol, humor magazine. "Wild Bill" Hemsworth is writing skits for the university broadcasting station WSUI and is quite up in the air about it.

And as usual, the Delts are making themselves known both socially and scholastically on the campus.

Pledges: J. B. Yates, Jr., Hazelhurst; Bruce Bass, Jr., Hazelhurst; Leroy Whelan, Carthage; John Noblin, Jackson; Horace Hawkins, Vaiden; Earl Bryan, Corinth; W. C. Reed, Jackson; Binford Spencer, Port Gibson; John Beach, Tibbee; Harrell Monger, Vicksburg; Jack Hartsfield, Oxford; Bill Richardson, Philadelphia; Dave Bernard, Sioux City, Iowa; Herbert Reeder, Haynesville, La.

Here at Pi things have been unusually quiet for the past few months. After the rush of school opening the boys have settled down into the humdrum existence of college men. The only chapter activity centers in the plans for a dance and a dinner for the future.

As individuals we have been about as inactive. Jacobson seems, from reports, to be in line for the junior managership of the football team, a position leading to senior managership the following year. Herbie Holmes has crooned and directed his way to fame on the campus and elsewhere with his orchestra. Pledge Spencer may surprise us and turn out to be another songbird. He was recently taken into the glee club. Cecil Smith is fast earning the reputation as a good dramatist and dancer, having appeared in several productions.

Our seniors are beginning to assume the "big I" attitude. Holmes, Hawkins, and Igou are walking about as if they were already successful capitalists. Guider and Hopper, being senior lawyers, have adopted the customary derby, cane, and strut.

We regret the loss of Anderson, who is transferring to Alabama. Doyle Blair paid us a couple of visits recently, and certainly looked prosperous.

Here's hoping the pledges come through like true Delts on the coming examinations. They are certainly doing an unusual amount of studying.

A. S. COODY, JR.

P STEVENS

Rho Chapter jumped ahead of the other fraternities on the campus during rushing and pledged nine freshmen. Bob Aitken led the House through one of the best rushing seasons we have had in years. For the first time since the prosperous days of 1929 we have the house filled beyond capacity.

After rushing we began to drift back to studies and activities. We found that scholarship had reached too low an ebb to dare to attempt many activities.

With only Bill Kline out for basketball and Pledges Beach and Schnieder on the dramatic crew the rest of us have found lots of exercise pushing a slide rule back and forth all day.

The Freshmen Welcome Dance was held at the house on Nov. 18th and was voted a successful opening of the social season.

Many thanks to the alumni who helped us during rushing. Among them were Stew Bruns, J. J. Klein, Andy Reimold, Ted Meeker, Charley Sorensen, Jimmy Costigan, King Cole, Willie Rea, and Swede Karlson.

RICHARD A. FIELD

T PENN STATE

With the close of the fall sports season and the beginning of winter activities Tau still remains in the foreground. Tom Slusser, who captained a quite successful football team, hopes to continue his good work in the boxing ring. He is captain of the team and fights in the 165-pound class. Dud Townsend, as first assistant manager of basketball, is out to become manager.

Not so long ago Tau had its fall houseparty, which, as usual, was enjoyed by all. Bill Leroy and his Town Tatlers from Pittsburgh supplied quite excellent music. After it was all over, the general consensus of opinion was that this was the best houseparty that the chapter has ever had. Dale Watson, '24, and his wife were chaperons.

This year there are a large number of fellows out for managerial positions. Carl Miller has been working all fall as a assistant manager of soccer; Bob Kelso has just finished his season working at the same post in cross country. Johnny MacGregor and Bill Kester are just beginning to spend their nights up at the gym working on the managerial staffs of the boxing and wrestling teams respectively. Johnny McClung is an assistant manager of lacrosse.

Bob Young, one of our most promising sophomores in the field of athletics, hopes to gain a berth on the varsity basketball team. Crackers Graham and Tom Snedden have been reporting regularly to the wrestling squad.

In the recent show given by the Thespian Club Gordon Davis was stage manager, with Barzler and Kelso helping.

On the week-ends that we have had football games this fall it has been most pleasant to see again some of the faces of our more recent alumni, among them Johnny Gwynn, Bob Ferguson, Jess Fichthorn, Chick Helvig, Hen Peterson, and Tim Creal.

Upsilon is now marking time between the campus activities which are separated by the Thanksgiving week-end. We have had a great time in the new Shelter, which has brought forth a greater spirit to put the name of Delta Tau in headlines on the campus. The latest addition to the house is the closing in of the sleeping porch, which became quite cold upon the early arrival of winter.

We are proud of Frank Meyer, captain of football, who starred throughout the entire season in the quarterback position. Frank was on the injured list at the start of the season, on which hindered his kicking, but when the biggest contest of the year rolled round the name of Meyer put them down in defeat. "Puny" was the man who led the field at passes and kicking. He averaged sixty yards on his punts, which floated out of bounds inside the ten-yard stripe. Just before the final gun Meyer came out of the battle amid the wild cheers of the crowd. His reception as he went to the bench the greatest that had ever been given a hero of the gridiron, as one of the grads put it.

The frosh, fourteen in all, are right at hand when it comes to activities. Roger Newell is the band leader, and Charlie Graves toots on the brass. Herbie Wallace, Dick Steinhorst, and Graves are out for frosh basketball.

In interfraternity cross country we were in a triple tie for first. On the run-off we took second with Reisenkonig and Wallace as the big guns, to be followed by Ficken, Streever, Johnson, and Cornell around the 2.6 mile course.

Bowling has just started with Skooglund, Damon, and Meyer crashing down the pins two out of three games in their first meet.

Warren "Pete" Collins has just completed a successful season as goalie on the varsity soccer unit. "Pete" is now joined by Bob MacFeeters to make their bids for a place on the basketball court. Both starred for the frosh last year.

Interfraternity swimming is drawing near, with Tom Redding and "Deacon" Hollister of last year's team getting into shape. Cotsworth, Graves, and Reisenkonig will be there to give them support.

For indoor relays we have George Ficken, Cam Deveney,

Bill Gaylord, and Bill Stahl back for another trial at the trophy.

We find Paul Cornell and John Cotsworth down at the Playhouse quite a bit of the time, where they are seeking the more cultural education.

Jack Damon is apprenticing managership for cross country and track.

Our congratulations to Charlie Hollister, '31, who was recently married.

Garry Buchanan, '31, and Dick Horton, '31, were up for the week-end a short time ago.

The Alumni Reunion brought quite a few grads back. Among them were Charlie Hollister, Bob Salle, Jim Harper, Charlie Gray, Jim Fyfe, Bruce Ellis, Bob Hodges, Dean Kent, Jeff Flagler, Ernie Warncke, Paul Owen, Hugh McDonell, and Willie Clinton.

We had a grand time at the pledge dance, which was under Tom Redding's direction. Tom is giving us some great parties since he took over the entertainment committee task.

Warren Collins is on the Soiree Committee this year.

As Christmas approaches we are planning for the annual Formal.

WILLIAM H. STAHL, JR.

Φ WASHINGTON & LEE

Two outstanding events connected with alumni have been the features of Phi's fall season, with a banquet honoring one alumnus, and, a few weeks later, the largest and most successful Homecoming in the history of the chapter.

On October 21st Jimmy Caskie, the most faithful friend of the active chapter, came over from Lynchburg to become the third man of Phi to receive the Court of Honor citation. Harold D. Meyer, President of the Southern Division, came all the way from Chapel Hill to make the presentation, following the banquet. The affair served another purpose, that of a pledge banquet, and Dr. Meyer assisted in the formal pledging ceremonies early in the evening.

At Homecoming 25 alumni of the chapter, with their families and friends, returned to Lexington to see the Generals beat their ancient rivals, Virginia's Cavaliers. This was the largest number of alumni ever to return.

A new feature was added to the regular celebration this year, with all the houses being decorated. The Delts took second place in the contest, and the decorating committee deserves a great deal of praise.

Just a few days before Homecoming Allen Harrelson was notified of his election to the "13" Club, junior honorary. Leigh Allen was the choice of this house for Pi Alpha Nu, sophomore, while Jimmy Price won the nomination for White Friars, sophomore.

Two other Delt sophomores have been selected for membership in the Cotillion Club. They are Beale and Thirkield, who bring the number of Delts in this oldest campus honorary to five.

The chapter's second-year men brought more honors to the House when Thirkield was elected president of the International Relations Club by a unanimous vote, and Price was elected secretary-treasurer. This is the first year that sophomores have held offices in the club.

In the intramural race Phi is doing unusually well, standing in second place, only a few points behind the leaders, an independent team, and leading all other fraternities. The chief factor in the standing thus far was the football tournament, in which the Delt colors were carried to the finals, only to be nosed out by a single touchdown. The team was handicapped in the last game by the loss of Pledge Lott, center, and Pledge Berger, halfback, both forced out by injuries. Three members of the Delt team were selected on the all-intramural football team: Don Wallis at quarterback, Pledge Carpenter at right tackle, and Pledge Richardson at left end.

In varsity athletics Phi has more representatives than for several years. Pledge Henry Drake is winning himself a monogram by his stellar work with the cross country team; and Leigh Allen is a likely candidate for the 128-pound class on the Conference championship wrestling team. Wally Davies, 128-pound intramural boxing champion last year, is almost certain of a regular post on the varsity.

Among the pledge class John Ford is out for wrestling, and Richardson is showing up well in the competition for diving on the yearling swimming team. Abrahams and Carpenter are working out with the dash men.

In the field of publications Phi is doing better than ever, with Tonsmeiere assisting Wallis on the magazine's business staff and Price preparing for the distribution of the first issue this month. On the newspaper Price has recently been appointed exchange editor, and Davies is the new feature editor. Pledges Carpenter and Peckham have won regular positions on the desk, working under the direction of Thirkield, managing editor. Pledge Abrahams is doing good work on the sports staff.

Ed Berger and Leigh Allen are proudly sporting new band sweaters, awarded for two years work on the band; Pledges Lott and Abrahams were given keys for one year's service.

Thanksgiving dances this year promise to be better than ever, and Deltas are doing their part, with two men on committees for the Sophomore Prom and three men on committees for the Cotillion Club fall formal.

X KENYON

Kenyon's football team, although unsuccessful from the win-and-loss standpoint, was one of the cleanest teams to play in the Ohio Conference. Chi was represented on this team by MacNamee, Dhonau, Luomanen, and Swanson. MacNamee received his letter for the third successive season, even though he was out most of the season with a fractured ankle. Davis was the only freshman to stay on the squad all season.

Basketball practice has started, and the division is represented by Sherk and Swanson on the varsity squad and Helm and Kreimer on the freshman squad.

So far Chi has done fairly well in intramurals. In the touch football tournament we were defeated in the finals 2-0. This was the outstanding game of the whole tournament. Speedball has already started, and we have won two games without a setback. If we win the next game, we will be assured of at least second place. The division is also looking forward to volleyball. We have won this event for the last three years.

Alpha Pi Kappa, senior honorary, has recently elected Leonard Swanson as its one junior member.

The Collegian, the college newspaper, under Frank Mallett as editor and Merrill MacNamee as business manager, has been greatly improved.

Beta Alpha's social season started off with a bang November 4th, when our pledge dance was held. It came up to the standard set by past years as being the most popular and successful affair of the fall season at the University. Pledge "Slim" Lamar and his boys supplied the racket that went for music that night. Pledge Fred Weaver plays the trumpet and is vocalist in this orchestra.

This shindig was followed the next noon, Sunday, by a dinner party given for the freshmen and attended only by them and their "g.f.'s." The party was greatly enlivened by the superb waiting service rendered by four of the seniors, Henry Pond, Bob Hammer, Pete Brooks, and Bob Woods.

The next affair on our social calendar is the upperclassman dinner party to be held, December 15th. With this event the season ends until after final exams.

Homecoming was held the week end of November 25th, and a group estimated at 85 crowded the dining rooms. The new met the old when the pledges were introduced to the old alums.

Campus activities have claimed Henry Pond as a new member of Sphinx Club, Phi Delta Gamma, Dragon's Head, and Senior Siwash Committee. Frank Kruchten is a member of the senior Peace Pipe Committee and Phillip Byron of senior Invitations Committee.

R. D. HAMMER

B B DEPAUW

The outstanding news from the DePauw campus for the fall term is the undefeated, untied, and unscored upon DePauw eleven. Beta Beta was represented on the varsity squad by Bailey and Pope. Keehn, Clark, Jones, Fabry, Lowe, Holman, and Tweedie were on the freshman squad, the first three winning numerals. Only fourteen numerals were given. Gail Wanless and Kelly were also outstanding freshman players until forced out by injuries. Dick Powers received his numerals as manager.

In freshman basketball Guckenberger, Keehn, and Clark are on the squad, which has been cut to eleven men.

The intramural tennis team of Brown and Durham was defeated by Delta Chi in the finals. The bowling team has already set a higher average than won the championship last year, and hope to continue their record. With a half dozen men evenly matched trying for places on the ping-pong team, we have good prospects of winning this sport, which is being offered in intramurals for the first time. Foote won the House championship, after a hard-fought tournament.

Wilhoite has been initiated into Alpha Delta Sigma, is sophomore assistant on The Mirage business staff, and a member of The DePauw advertising staff. Spencer is sophomore photographer on The Mirage, and Booth is trying out for the editorial staff.

The chapter is well represented in the musical organizations. Stults, who plays violin in the symphony, has been initiated into Phi Mu Alpha. Pledge Lowe is the first man to play the saxophone in the symphony, and also plays in the concert band. Kenyon and Wilhoite were members of the military band, and the former is also in the concert band. McDonald sings in the University choir.

Recent alumni will be interested to know that we finally held a steak roast. It did not rain until we had finished eating. A very successful general serenade was held this fall. The only dance was an impromptu affair held in celebration of the football season.

Christiansen, Wilhoite, Hosler, and Powell are members of the varsity debate squad. Christiansen is to take part in a radio debate over WGN this winter. Wanless has been elected to Kappa Tau Kappa. Spencer is secretary-treasurer of the Rifle Club. Wharton has been initiated into the Religious Education Club and the German Club. Thor Wanless is freshman basketball manager.

Pledges: Robert Bernnard, Winchester, Mass.; Edward Blatz, Milwaukee; William H. Brady, Jr., Eau Claire; William F. Charles, Chetek; John S. Dyer, Boone, Iowa; Lawrence Gardener, Athens; Claude Holst, Madison; George Hubbard, Madison; Tom Johnson, Milwaukee; Martin L. Koether, Detroit; Russell Loeser, Middleton; Stewart Hulbert, Monroe; Milton Lutz, Milwaukee; Kenneth Orchard, Madison; Francis Pichotta, Wabena; Richard Reiersen, Madison; Gerald Maxfield, Janesville; Harvey Schelphepher, Mayville; Robert Schneider, Monroe; James Trane, LaCrosse; John Wanless, Richland Center.

Rushing for the fall season, after official closing of rushing week, has gone very well. The chapter has added five to the previous list, bringing the total number to twenty-one, the largest pledge class in the history of Beta Gamma.

The touch-football season this year finished with the Deltas annexing another trophy for the mantel. The Deltas won the division in which they were entered and reached the semifinal rounds before they were eliminated. They went through the season without having their goal line crossed. The game they lost was won by the opposing side on first downs. The main offensive work was carried on by Dick Hausmann and Eddie Bachhuber, assisted by John Dyer and Dick Brady. Bob Bernard and Francis Pichotta were the stellar players on the defense, to say nothing of Swede Olson. Swede caused more sore backs for the opponents than any other player in the league. It is of note that the team which reached the final round was defeated in the division by the strong Delta Tau Delta aggregation for first place.

With the advent of the bowling season we are anxiously looking forward to more success. Blake Perigo will be one of the mainstays, assisted by Hervey Dietrich, Russ Loeser, Bill Brady, Bob Mason, and "Jafsie" McBride. Russ Loeser has the distinct honor of having bowled a perfect "300."

Last year's third place interfraternity basketball champs return this year to try for the first place cup. Dick Hausmann, Marshall Stauffacher, Eddie Bachhuber, Dick Brady, Swede Olson, and Francis Pichotta played last year and are anxious for the season to get started.

All in all, Delta Tau Delta is making her first big try for the Badger Bowl, a cup given for the winning team in the greatest number of interfraternity sports.

The social season is well under way. A formal party was held at the chapter house the week-end of the Ohio State-Wisconsin football game. Social Chairman George Gibson did himself proud with the superb decorations which marked the week-end of the last football game at home. The house was decorated in the colors of the two schools. A large picture of "Doc" Spears stood between the decorated arch between the dining room and drawing room.

Plans are now under way for the Christmas Formal and for Wisconsin's famous Prom. For the Formal the house will be banked with pine decorations and the table will display mixed bouquets. The Prom will see George Gibson as assistant general chairman. George has not as yet disclosed his date for the gala affair, but you can be assured that she will be one of the famous Badger beauties.

A great many Wisconsin alumni have returned to the Shelter for the football week ends. Some of these were Robert J. Nickles, '30, Madison; Ernie Schmidt, '17, Chicago; Arthur Sowers, '26, Milwaukee; Chauncey Frisbie, '17, Chicago; Frederick W. Brady, '28, Eau Claire; Robert Lowrie, '33, Elgin, Ill.; John H. Westcott, '33, Erie, Pa.; Clyde Redeker, '31, Elgin, Ill.; Nels Orrin, '28, Madison; Alfred T. Rogers, '95, Madison; Isak J. Dahle, '04, Chicago; Bud Bannon, '28, Milwaukee; Norton Klug, '32, Milwaukee; Milton J. Druse, '33, Milwaukee; August C. Bachhus, '28, Milwaukee; Walter Bachhus, '31, Milwaukee; Hank Schmeiding, '29, Racine; Fritz Harbridge, '30, Racine; Rusty Fallon, '27, Ripon.

Delt distinctions for this year include one member frosh football, one member frosh basketball, one member frosh crew, one member varsity crew, one member varsity golf, one member Cardinal Key, one member Tumas, one member Pi Tau Pi Sigma, four members Scabbard & Blade, one sophomore football manager, one member 1934 Prom Committee, one member Phi Eta Sigma, one member glee club.

Buzz Lowrie, '33, has been at the house for a little over two weeks. Buzz is in Madison working on a racket, and a racket it is, although he denies the fact. It is a discount idea which entitles the bearer of a small book to get a knock-down on merchandise at various stores. As we understand it now, Buzz has the N.R.A. chasing him.

The winter season has arrived. This year we do not have the good ship "Kingsbury" to put on the ice. Milt Druse left school last semester, and with Milt went the ice boat which afforded so many good times. However, if the fine weather keeps up, the skating will continue for some time.

Frank Chapman, a Delt from the University of Washington, has been around the Shelter quite a bit. Frank is working for G.M.A.C., a General Motors company.

Hugh Jackson, a Delt from Northwestern, is working for the Stuart Howe Alumni Service and drops in at the house frequently.

It is with great pride that we announce the beginning of Miss Meyer's thirty-fifth year as the Delt Sweetheart. Annie is still presiding over the Delt kitchen, serving up good food with a steady hand. Alumni who returned for Homecoming found her still the same old Annie.

There is little doubt that Annie Meyer knows more Beta Gamma alumni than any other living person. She has not missed a day for years, and she is still at it, hitting the ball every day. She has seen scores of Delts come and go as she has provided provender for hungry class after class, and she has her private opinions about many of them. We hope that Miss Meyer remains with us for a good many years to come. Miss Meyer was hired by Harry Hewitt when he was steward.

B Δ GEORGIA

Because of the graduation of George Longino, our president, in December, an election was held and Carter Peterson was selected to fill Longino's unexpired term. Longino has been an outstanding student on the campus and one of Beta Delta's most valuable men. He was a member of Gridiron, Blue Key Council, "X" Club, Raven's Club, International Relations Club, president of the junior class, and a member of the Panhellenic Council. He was also the first man to achieve the distinction of cadet colonel of the R.O.T.C. as a junior.

Peterson, our new president, is likewise an outstanding man. He is a member of Gridiron, Blue Key Council, International Relations Club, and is vice-president of the freshman law class.

During the Homecoming week-end Beta Delta entertained with a buffet supper after one of the University dances. We also enjoyed the visit of many of our alumni, as well as members of other Southern chapters.

With the end of rushing season Beta Delta has organized in order to uphold her scholastic standing and to amass extra-curricular activities.

Bob Dykes is vice-president of the Landscape Architecture Club, and holds the same office in the newly created Arts Club. Bickers and Black are aspirants to the wrestling team.

Frank Bragg has been appointed varsity manager of boxing, with Pledges Mac Peterson and George Cobb freshman managers of boxing and swimming, respectively. Peterson is also on the freshman staff of the yearbook; Cobb is a member of the glee club and dramatic club.

John Bradley is out for the polo team.

Pledge Foster Corwith is a member of the dramatic club, and is also out for varsity basketball. Jimmy James and Taylor are members of the University band. Pledge Ben Yow is regular guard on the freshman football team.

Whatley is a recently elected member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism.

Pledges: Cliff Moore, Lindale; Cary Moore, Lindale; Christopher Gardiner, Covington, Ky.; Howard Gardiner, Covington, Ky.; Edmund Phillips, Atlanta; Walker Pendleton, Atlanta; Bill Davison, Atlanta; Oliver Messenger, Port Washington, New York; George Cates, Mebane, N. C.; Earl Gilbert, Atlanta; Murphy Holloway, Atlanta.

Other functions of the fall season were a Hallowe'en dance, a dance given in collaboration with the Tech and Florida chapters, a Dad's Day luncheon, and an open house. The Mothers' Club has been more than usually active this year, and a large measure of the success of these functions was due to their generous aid.

The All-State banquet held in November at the Atlanta Athletic Club was much enjoyed by the whole chapter.

The chapter is looking forward with much interest to the Southern Division Conference to be held in Atlanta in February.

Our pledge club, fired with community zeal, has placed a penny bank in the front room of the chapter house—the proceeds to go towards buying Christmas baskets for the poor. It is not known as yet whether a basket's worth of pennies has been collected or not. It does not seem likely. Alas, the poor poor!

1st semester 1933-34: 1st of 7 fraternities (unofficial)

Pledges: Al Coffin, Ed Humpston, Karl Sutphin, Allan Sutphin, Jack Prosch, Bob Pruyn, Walter Judd, Frank Wieland, Bob Hadden, Indianapolis; Keith Burgess, Lebanon; Freeman Gibbs, Greenwood.

The gridiron season closed with Karl Sutphin and Ralph Simpson holding prominent positions.

In cross country we were honored by having three of the first six members of the team: Fran Doudican, Bob Pruyn, and Perry Zahn.

Harry Riddell is publishing The Butler Collegian, school paper.

Ed Humston, Ernie Evans, and Kirk Yockey are members of the Utes Club. Ed Humston is secretary.

Bus Davis, Perry Zahn, and Tom Johnson are members of the Sphinx Club.

Emsley Johnson and Harrison Miller are members of Blue Key.

Emsley Johnson is also student director of the band, treasurer of the senior class, president of the Student Council, and leader in the Men's Union.

Larry Carr is on the governing board of the Men's Union.

Freeman Gibbs is a member of the Zoology Club and also plays the trombone in the band.

Joe Taylor, Fran Doudican, and Larry Carr are members of the Commerce Club.

Delta Tau Delta has been prominent in intramurals this season. We placed among the first three in golf, tennis, and football. In cross country our team, consisting of Ralph Simpson, Bob Pruyn, Bill Watkins, Al Coffin, Donn Nicewander, and Joe Taylor, placed first and won the trophy with an easy margin.

At present we are preparing for our annual house party to be held at Turkey Run State Park in December.

Under the supervision of President Al Sherman Beta Eta moves into the second quarter of the school year with an enviable record in intramural athletics behind it and all the prospects of a successful rushing season before it.

After winning the division title in touch-football the chapter entered the semifinals, three games of which were played to a tie. The fourth game, however, proved to be a battle-royal, with Beta Eta finishing on the short end after suffering from a touch-back. Lack of real competition in volleyball evened things up by putting Delta Tau at the head of its division.

Mike Donovan, our rushing chairman, has devoted much time and effort to plans for our winter rushing season. The House is divided into two competing teams for the purpose of getting new names for our rushing files and also to meet prospective pledges.

On Nov. 10th the brothers and their girls entertained themselves royally at the first party of the quarter. Bob Armstrong was master of the arrangements committee. Our new steward, Ed Ware, passed the cake and coffee.

Bud Richardson and Ben Kern, present art editor of The Ski-U-Mah, humor publication, are now members of the honorary journalistic fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi. Don Schnaid and John Fairall, both University Singers, played important roles in the presentation of "The Desert Song." Clint Rosene, with a large gold "M," still retains his position on the varsity crawl-strokers.

Glancing forward to the schedule of activities for next quarter, we find the Delts entered in basketball, volleyball, rifle, skiing, and swimming. It looks as though Beta Eta will be kept quite active.

After a most satisfactory start Beta Theta is now well into the college year. Lee Belford was recently chosen president of the chapter to succeed Paul Ziegler, who failed to return. The pledge class chose for their officers Britton Tabor, chairman, and John Binnington, secretary.

In the five-mile intramural race our team placed third, all the men finishing. Beta Theta has also closed a most enthusiastic volleyball season, and is looking forward to the coming basketball games.

Our pledge class as a whole is showing fine results. Six of the class, Probasco, Sutton, Roach, Binnington, Taft, and Broyles, are in the Freshman Dramatic Club, which has thus far staged two one-act plays. Vreeland, Heyward, Gribbin, Probasco, and Binnington have entered the University Choir. Binnington, Heyward, and Gribbin also represent the chapter among the cheer leaders.

Three of the actives were recently elected to the Scholarship Society. These are Belford, Lines, and Sears.

Belford is associate editor of The Cap & Gown. Sears is photographic editor, with Britton Tabor as his associate. Sears has been elected to Pi Gamma Mu, social science.

Johnny Hodges, affiliate, holds the distinction of belonging to E.Q.B., a society composed of faculty members and those connected with the University, besides being a member of the English Speaking Union. Hodges has already proved a great asset to the chapter.

We are well represented on The Purple this year, with Lines, Brittan Tabor, and Jim Tabor on the editorial staff and Belford, Broyles, and Wilkens on the business end.

Stiles Lines has been elected to Sigma Upsilon, literary.

Richard Wilkens has been elected treasurer of the Pi Omega

Literary Society. Three out of the four officers of this society are Delts.

Only one outstanding social function has been given since rush week, this being given by the pledge class. It consisted of a Harvest-Time party, to which all the new men on the Mountain were invited. Several dances are planned for the near future.

We have had the pleasure of seeing two of the alumni—Rev. Orin Helvey and Hueling Davis.

B I VIRGINIA

Year 1932-33: 6th of 32 fraternities (figures from yearbook)

Our annual initiation banquet was held on Friday, October 27th.

Gil White is out for first year boxing. Upton Richards is adjuncting the same sport. Hudgins and Antrim are adjuncting basketball. Gerald Costello is going out for first year basketball after the completion of the football season. Price and Dick have been adjuncting football as well as Corks & Curls.

The German Club election was held late in October and the following of our membership were elected: Randolph Brown, Rollo Neal, Joe Durham, and Jack Maury.

Homecoming week was held on the date of the Virginia-V. M. I. Game, and we were glad to have the alumni represented by Camp, Cobb, Quinby, Dudley Roe, Bus Roe, Plummer, and Bryant.

The chapter was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Dr. E. Bentley Cox, graduate of the University in '27 and a physician of Louisville, which was his home.

President Harold Meyer paid the chapter a brief visit, and although most of the chapter was at Annapolis, the day being an athletic holiday, his visit was greatly appreciated by the officers as well as the other members who were not present to greet him.

The chapter wishes to express its delight at the appointment of Dr. R. K. Gooch as adviser and also to thank Brother McIlhany for his long service in this office.

The chapter congratulates J. K. Taggart on making Eli.

The chapter has been engaging in some post season rushing, and we hope to have some results soon.

The chapter regrets the resignation of Milton S. Helm from the University last week. He left to take a position with a large tobacco firm.

B K COLORADO

Fall quarter, rapidly drawing to a close, has been an unusually successful one for the chapter. Nineteen men were pledged, and one man has been added to the list since then.

Ken Penfold and Bob Garlick are two freshmen who were the mainstays to the freshman football team. Billy Burr and Cecil Reed, two more freshman, are proving to be good basketball material. Tom Dodd and Harison Hawthorne are two of the freshman athletic managers.

Student elections were held during the quarter, Bob Gilbert managing one of the political parties. Ken Penfold was this party's successful candidate for freshman president.

Football season is about over, and Boyd Bailey has again won his letter. A buffet dinner was given for our alumni following the Homecoming game, but, unfortunately, inclement weather prevailed and the number of alumni present was smaller than usual.

Wally Thompson, Consul at Geneva, Switzerland, who was in this country on a leave of absence, recently paid us a visit. He was accompanied by his brother, Eldridge Thompson, and Tom Butterworth, both of Denver.

Bod Lesser and Carl Snow were initiated into Sigma Tau, engineering, and Pinky Holmes has been pledged Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic.

Our volleyball team far outclassed the entries of the other fraternities to take the championship in this intramural sport. We hope and expect to gather another intramural cup, this one for basketball.

B A LEHIGH

Pledges: John H. Adamson, Meyersdale; George A. Barker, Allentown; John S. Barker, Pittsburgh; Charles C. Eckles, New Castle; Richard S. Lake, Milford, Conn.; Edwin G. McNair, Jr., Pittsburgh; Earle Stone, Pelham, N. Y.; Lewis Walker, Meadville; George J. Podeyn, Bayside, L. I.

In the annual football contest between Lehigh and Lafayette Paul Preston completed his second year on the varsity right tackle.

Dick McLeod, president of the Interfraternity Council, was instrumental in obtaining a burro, the Lehigh mascot, which was proudly displayed between the halves of the Lehigh-Lafayette game. Dick and Bill Macdonald had the honor of escorting this noble beast.

The chapter recently held a Father's Day get-together which was proclaimed a great success by both fathers and sons. Among the respected sires were E. H. McLeod, Gamma Xi, and G. A. Barker, Beta Lambda. This was the third of a number of meetings which the chapter hopes will be an institution in the life of Beta Lambda.

Prior to the Father's Day gathering the chapter was host to many young debutantes who came from far and near to attend House Party weekend. The house party and dinner dance on November 11th was a successful and fitting climax to a most enjoyable weekend which featured Bert Lown and his orchestra playing at the Senior Ball. The chapter was the recipient of congratulations extended by the student body for our house decorations, which featured a cardboard replica of Jean Harlow extending across the roof of the Shelter.

Wrestling season has arrived, and we find Bud Loux and Doug Gray practising daily. Bud wrestled heavyweight last year, but this year is aspiring for the 175-pound division. Doug Gray wrestled the 145-pound division on the freshman team last year and should make a good showing on the varsity squad. Among the aspirants for the freshman wrestling team are Earle Stone and George Podeyn, who is also on the swimming squad.

The freshmen are represented on the basketball squad by Dick Lake.

In the annual freshman-sophomore battle our freshmen did a fine job, much to the discomfort of the sophomores and our erstwhile brother, Al Weigel.

Dick McLeod, president and costume manager of the M & C Club, is supervising a play, "Front Page," which will be presented prior to the interfraternity ball. Lew Black and Charlie Mapes have charge of the costume arrangements. John Jacobs is business manager of the M & C Club, assisted by Ed McNair, George Podeyn, and George Barker.

Farnham and Williams are the co-authors of the next play to be presented by the M & C Club. John Galihier has been appointed to write the scores for a musical production to be presented in February. Tate has been selected as an actor in this production.

Tommy Tate is also a member of the varsity swimming squad.

Bob Custer, goalie, and Charlie Mapes, fullback, recently completed a successful season with the soccer squad. Nelson Leonard represented the freshmen on the forward line of the frosh soccer team. Nelson received a medal for the best dribbling ability.

The cross country team, managed by John Jacobs, also completed a successful season, with a win over Lafayette.

Tex Wait was a member of the lacrosse team, which held a series of fall practices prior to its schedule of games next spring.

Ben Buck recently won his letter as manager of the freshman track team.

Al Weigel and Irving Lawton are members of Lehigh's All-Eastern band.

By having gathered the best news The Brown & White, of which Bill Macdonald is advertising manager, won the I.N.A. cup, which is awarded annually among the college newspapers. Bob Farnham is on the editorial staff and has charge of writing the sports news. Lew Black, Bill Crane, and Charlie Mapes are members of the business board. Freshmen George Podeyn, Ed McNair, and Nelson Leonard are out for the business staff.

Bill Macdonald has been appointed a member of the executive committee of the Industrial Engineering Society.

Bill Crane is competing for the senior annual, The Epitome.

Lew Black is the new business manager of the Freshman Handbook; Charlie Mapes is his assistant.

The Lehigh-Lafayette football game attracted many alumni back to the Shelter. Most of the class of '33 took time off from climbing the ladder of success and paid us a visit. Those present were Shorty Zabriskie, Jim Fountain, Burt Riviere, Chip Dow, Lowry Danser, and Bob Garrett.

Bob Weldon, '33, recently took time off from the leather business to pay us a visit.

Other alumni who returned to see the aforesaid game were Carl Camp, '07; Whitey Carlson, '16; Pop Shipherd, '19; Roy Coffin, '19; George Laffey, '21; Charley Gooding, '22; Doc Buller, '23; Phil Shaheen, '26; Tom Robinson, '27; Fred Schmalz, '27; Homer Heller, '29; Stan Dey, '30; and Carl Hull, '32.

We wish to thank Rush Allen and the brothers of Tau Chapter for the kind hospitality which was accorded us during a recent visit to Penn State.

CHARLES M. MAPES, JR.

B M TUFTS

Pledges: Brad Case, Maynard; Alden Flagg, West Concord; Chet Foss, Englewood, N. J.; Art Goodwin, Everett; Ed Hansen, Braintree; Frank Hodges, Reading; Dick Kelley, Watertown; Louis Parks, Stoneham; Dick Parks, Rochester, N. Y.; Dave Young, Somerville.

Managers have completely taken over the house. In football Bob Claus is junior manager. Bob Mountford, assistant manager; Russ Waddell, freshman manager. In basketball Earle Pulsifer is varsity manager; Sherm Andrews, junior manager. In soccer Hank Maurer is varsity manager; John Calhoun, freshman manager; Gus Bleyle, assistant manager; Bill Clopp and Stan Sprague are on the varsity team. Sherm Andrews and Lou Pierce are members of cross country. Paul Brookes manages freshman cross country. Scaboria is a member of the varsity football team. Pulsifer is on the Student Council and acts as head cheer leader. Four members are exercising their vocal talents in the college glee club.

Bob Claus, Bill Clopp, and John Calhoun attended the Karnea and World's Fair in Chicago.

We have had two Vic parties, with our pledge formal at Boston's Hotel Bradford on its way very soon.

With Bob Claus as president and Hank Maurer as treasurer, we face the rest of the year with high hopes.

E. C. SHAW

B N M. I. T.

The halfway mark of this term finds all the brothers well settled in their work and chosen activities.

Johnny Westfall is carrying on as crew captain, and Whit Stueck is still holding down No. 2 oar in the varsity shell, besides filling his job as production manager of the Drama Shop. Gregg Fry and Nelson Thorp aid and abet Whit's dramatic work, and Charlie Ball is still the premier star of the organization.

Walter MacAdam has set up a wireless set in the big hole and is on the air on 75 meters. He is also writing for The T. E. N. Bill Post is the sophomore boxing manager. Fred Tone, Dick Shaw, Henry Cargen, and Wen Stiles are all working on The Voo Doo. Bill Mills is the present head of Voo Doo. He has also been elected chairman of the committee for the interfraternity dance to be held at the Barclay Club early in December.

Larry Lawrence is stroking the freshman heavies. Bob Ferguson is also rowing in this boat, which is coxed by Bill Bergen.

In addition to our two regular fall dances, the pledge dance and the open dance, the brothers found time to beat our next door neighbors, Sigma Nu, 7-0 in football, but lost ingloriously in a squash match with St. Anthony's Club.

We are looking forward to the Eastern Division Conference in Boston.

B O CORNELL

Despite the fact that Cornell did not have such a fine season in football, we have had quite a few of our alumni here to help us celebrate the festive week-ends. They always seem to outdo us in the celebrating, and we wish that more of them would come around.

A hard cold winter seems to be trying its best to close in around us, but as yet there has been no flooding of the tennis court. The improvised ping-pong table is getting its share of use, as well as the card room. It's a good thing that we have most of our men out on activities in the afternoon, or this place might be a place of bedlam. Many of the fellows have changed their fields of endeavor with the weather, the greater number choosing track and wrestling.

The administration, with Goulard at the helm, has started things humming in the way of organization. Fred Sorensen was recently elected assistant treasurer.

In the last issue of THE RAINBOW we emphasized the athletic prowess of the chapter. This time we will attempt to prove our versatility. Bob Campe is as usual buzzing around adding to his long list of honors. He and Rud Hinckley were recently elected to Phi Kappa Phi. Campe and Frank Ready served on the Syracuse Hop Committee this fall. Bob is a Tau Bete and business manager of The Widow. Jack Brigham was recently elected to Chi Epsilon. Frank Ready is a member of Red Key, junior society, and Ye Hosts, honorary in hotel administration. He is also assistant manager of the tennis team. Bob Blum and Bill Kellogg have been elected to Crew Club. Fred Sorensen was recently awarded a cup for outstanding work on the track team last spring. Fred, George Weigel, and Bing Goulard are already preparing for the coming season. By the way, Everett Goulard's nickname is "Bing," not "Big." Our contribution to the wrestling mats include Bourke Weigel, Charlie Shoemaker, John Landis, Bob Blum, and Dick Forbes. George Warren and John Greene are playing with the basketball squad.

Art Kanaga has reorganized the Cornell Vagabonds into a snappy, popular dance band. He plays at many of the social events about the hill. He is a member of Clef Club. The freshmen seem to have caught the spirit too. Jim Caldwell is at work on The Cornell Daily Sun editorial competition, as is Wheeler Bishop on The Widow business competition. Gene Page is president of the Red Lions Club, freshmen social, and secretary-treasurer of a new publication, The Aereopagas. Ralph Fash is secretary-treasurer of the Red Lions. There will be plenty more to tell you next time.

Every so often we have a few visitors from some of the other chapters close by. We wish that more of you fellows who can make it would drop around.

STANFORD

The closing games of the Stanford grid season brought to light a new football star, Sheldon Bronstein. We are lucky enough to claim this boy as a member of our House. Among all Stanford's great backfield men he was classed as the shiftiest and smoothest runner.

Another member of our House who is likely to make a name for himself in football is Ray Lewis. He played on the goof squad of his own accord this season to get experience.

A man who played an important part during this football season, but whose job was very much unsung in newspaper praise, was Al Peache, head yell-leader and incidentally our house manager. During all of our big games he kept the rooting section fired up to its peak whether the team was ahead or behind.

Bob Dearborn is one of the leading members of the Rally Committee, and has made a name for himself on the campus.

Fred Maggiora is expected to resume his place as lead-off man on the varsity baseball team. Last year he had one of the best hitting averages on the Coast.

Ollie Johnston is still plugging along with many activities. Right now he is sitting on pins and needles waiting to find out whether he will get the senior football manager job.

Gus Meier, captain of the Stanford track team, is fast rounding into shape, though the season is several months off. Gus is also a member of the Men's Council and is one of the most popular men on the campus.

Peirce McDowell, Tom Boothe, and Paul De Silva are capably taking care of aquatic sports for us. Boothe is one of the most promising divers the school has had in years.

Sam Barclay and John Coffin are out for polo. Barclay has a chance to be a star in this field before he graduates.

Bob Fast is wending his way to the top in the discus throw. In a year or so he may be one of the leading men on the Coast in his event.

Al Woodward was elected president of the glee club, and starred in the Football Gaieties, singing among his selections Ollie Johnston's song.

Nick Darrow and Bill Wilson are sophomore managers in track and basketball. Bob Cody is doing well at assistant dramatic manager, and Remus Koenig is trying out for the business staff of The Chaparral.

The annual picnic with the Cal house went off well. In fact, everything went off—clothes and all. But it was all in fun, and each meeting brings us closer together.

ILLINOIS

The mid-semester lull finds little going on about the University outside of scholastic endeavor. Football ended officially last week with the annual banquet. At this Red Gragg was presented with his second "I." Football numerals were won by Fred Faletti, John Theodore, and Ed Wilkaitis. Doc Coogan earned a numeral playing fall baseball.

In other activities Howie Blue is on the Senior Informal Dance Committee, and a member of the Fine Arts Council. Bob Garrard was made lieutenant-colonel of the Field Artillery, with Bob Beall his adjutant. Ted Liese is a member of the Junior Prom Committee. Frank Brown pledged Pershing Rifles. Tom Gately is going places with his Illio work.

The pledge dance, held at the house October 28th, has been so far the major diversion, with perhaps the exception of the Thanksgiving stag. The pledge class had had two banquets, one at the Urbana-Lincoln, and the other at the Champaign Country Club.

Ames Smithers had the highest average for the freshman class for the first six weeks. Three or four of the class, however, have a chance to make Phi Eta Sigma.

Our search for rushees for the coming semester and next year has already begun. We would greatly appreciate any names from the alumni.

NORMAN L. STEPHENS

B Φ
OHIO STATE

With the first quarter of the school year coming to an end Beta Phi Chapter can say without a doubt that the year has been successfully started. The pledge class, although small, is not without promise, and the active chapter is one of the strongest we have had for some time.

We are well represented in varsity sports: Vidis and Phillips, football; Peebles, polo; Benninghoffen, wrestling; Oberlin, freshman football. Ebersold takes high honors with the office of treasurer of the junior class, Bucket & Dipper, and director of freshman activities. Our president, Chuc Parker, received a bid to Tau Beta Pi, and Bob Anglin was elected captain of the debate team. Meade and Simons have parts in Strollers, and Shepherd is in the Quadrangle Jesters. The glee club is assisted by Stahl and Pinnel. Daly, Dietrich, and Shank are in the football band. Calland represents the Fraternity in the student Y Council. Tessier is in the Fraternity Affairs office.

In intramural sports Sterner led our football team to a sectional victory and possibly to the intramural championship.

The bowling team is off to a fine start, turning in the highest scores up to date.

The chapter was honored by a visit from President Tharp, who gave us a very inspiring talk. We hope he will find it possible to visit us again soon.

The Haywood brothers and Pinnell have transferred to Ohio State from Gamma Upsilon, and Hird is here from Beta Psi.

The chapter is making plans for the Interfraternity Sing, which will be held some time this winter.

B X BROWN

Pledges: E. K. Bancroft, East Greenwich; R. S. Cairns, Garden City, N. Y.; H. A. Harrington, Port Chester, N. Y.; J. F. B. Henry, D. H. Jamieson, Sealiff, N. Y.; F. C. Lough, Fall River, Mass.; E. P. Orsenigo, New York City; J. K. Pierce, Norwich, Conn.; F. C. Stuart, Lynn, Mass.; H. L. Toof, Providence.

Since the last letter the members of Beta Chi have been actively engaged in rushing. We had two rushing parties in Rehoboth, one in Fall River, one in West Warwick, and a final one on the night before pledging at Al. Lemon's home here in Providence. Mr. Lemon, by the way, is one of our leading alumni. The first three rushing parties were dances with buffet suppers. The party at the West Warwick Club was held on the last Saturday before pledging and because of rushing rules here at Brown could not be a dance. It was decided to have a Monte Carlo night. One could play the horses or crap or roulette or throw darts at a board of cards. The highest poker count with five darts won in the last game. All the contestants were given $5,000 in paper money. The freshman who won the most money won a cigarette lighter. Prizes were also awarded to guests and members. The party at Al. Lemon's consisted of moving pictures and refreshments. Ten men are pledged as the result of our work.

Bill Thompson is out for debating and succeeded in making the team.

Jack Piggott has put a lot of earnest effort into the managing of the Delt intramural athletics. Our football team finally succumbed in the finals, but only after a bitter, bruising battle.

Our swimmers are beginning to get into training. Dan Anthony, Bill Bree, and Frank Willer are outstanding. Dan and Frank, together with Roy Clem, have been leading the Brown cheers at all the football games.

Joe Buonanno, varsity football captain, has just completed his last season. During his career here he has always been outstanding, colorful, and elusive.

Our scholarship is being systematically checked by a committee of which Charlie Eberstadt is chairman. Regular study hours with proctors to supervise them have been established for anyone with any grade below "C." We have two men on the Dean's list.

We have just agreed to hold a pledge dance December 15th.

WALTER D. HARRIS

B Ψ WABASH

Mid-semester finds the members of Beta Psi busily engaged in many campus activities. With the close of the football season four Delt's hung up their togs for another year. This quartet includes Reinert, Dwyer, Meyers, and Frasor, and of this group Reinert deserves special mention. Although he was the highest man on the line, he played more time than any other man on the squad and his play at all times was one of the high-lights of the season. He still has another year of competition.

Gene Rovenstine, one of the hold-overs from last year's basketball squad, is working out daily, and undoubtedly will see a good deal of action.

After the Butler game the members of the chapter were guests at a banquet given at the Columbia Club in Indianapolis. The generous sponsors of this banquet were Kurt Pantzer, Brandt Downey, Louis Smith, and Harlan J. Hadley, all loyal Beta Psi alumni.

Reinert and Rombert were initiated into the Sphinx Club. Ken Cole is its secretary and treasurer.

Pronger, King, McEwan, and Walker are playing in the band. Walker is directing the college orchestra as well as directing his own orchestra.

Romberg and Vogel are members of the International Relations Club and are on several committees that are formulating outlines for study.

Intramural sports seem to be one of the chapter's main activities. Del Thoeming is the director of teams this year and has succeeded in getting a little enthusiasm worked up. The volleyball team is making a fight for top honors, having lost only one game.

Bowman Downey is working on The Bachelor staff, and in a few years should be one of the leading contenders for the editorship.

Cole, Frasor, and Vogel are members of Scarlet Masque, the dramatic society.

A Christmas dance is being planned.

HAROLD A. ROMBERG

B Ω CALIFORNIA

With an eye to impending finals, we can pause and look back over the fall semester of 1933. We can also afford to look past finals in the anticipation of a successful Christmas rushing period and a more successful spring semester. Our new rushing program will not be carried on by a few men, but will be a co-operated effort of the whole active chapter. Thus we expect to accomplish everything needed to be done, and open in January with a banner class. This achievement of our aims can only be the result of a close internal structure in the House. We think that this is possible because we are a one-faction chapter. Politics hasn't found its way up the hill to the Delt house.

The end of the football season finds us with one new big "C" man and two with additional awards. Russ Calkins, center, is the new addition to the letter men. Red Christie and Arleigh Williams are the men who are getting a second letter. All three have shown themselves as good as any on the Coast, and they all have a year more. Ritchie Hay and Leo Battaglin were on the varsity squad and will be ready to show themselves next season. Bill Smith, hard hitting Rambler fullback, got a junior varsity letter. Bill Kirkman, freshman halfback and the sparkplug of his team, is a numeral man.

A squad of fifteen men will spend the Christmas vacation training for the coming spring basketball season. Ritchie Hay and Gus Shubert will represent the Delt's. "Rich" is a center. His height and ability give him a chance to play on the first string. Gus is a guard, and his speed and floor work will probably give him an opportunity to see plenty of action.

Brutus Hamilton, Delt and head track coach, will have Bob Hunter, Eddy Clark, and Don Bonnell under his tutelage. Hammer throwing has been revived on the Coast, and Brutus hopes to make Don one of the leading ball tossers. Bob shows promise as a pole vaulter. Eddy is a sprinter from last year's freshman team.

In the regular crew season, George Beinhorn, a junior varsity letter man, and Gault Davis will travel down to the Estuary. George has a good chance of occupying a seat in the first boat. Gault has spent the fall semester rowing.

Socially we have spent an enjoyable semester, characterized by an even closer association with our Stanford chapter. The last event of the season was a formal. The affair was a decided success in every respect. A good dinner, a dandy orchestra and appointments were features of the evening. The highlight of the evening was the presence of a large number of Stanford Deltas, a few from U.C.L.A., and one Delt from Toronto. Our social events are more than just nation-wide affairs. We have to go out of the country to insure a banner crowd.

We are especially proud of an alumni affair which drew more than 50 Deltas. Bill Gay, the most active of the local alumni, was responsible for the success of the evening. Movies of the California-U.S.C. game provided more entertainment. The dinner was to have honored Nat Fitts and Harry Green, but they didn't show up.

The feeling towards the Stanford bunch was further strengthened by a vigorous warfare before the Big Game. Raids on the respective houses left "C"s and "S"s and red and blue paint scattered in the wrong places. The procedure consisted of a raid, then return to the opposing house for a good night's sleep, breakfast, and a good old bull session. No better way to make a lasting friendship than in a midnight wrestling bout.

The semi-annual German Picnic, arranged and personally supervised by Bob Hunter and "Tiger" Geiger, was one of the better affairs. Everybody met everybody else, and everyone went home happy and satisfied.

The end of this semester finds "Botchy" Benihorn, our house manager, finishing his job. He has trained his assistant, Bob Hunter, to take over his duties. Botchy has given faithful and untiring service to the House the past two years. He has tided us over the most trying period in fraternity history. He has converted his job from bookkeeping to honest to goodness managership. He has established a precedent that his successors will have to work hard to keep. The chapter thanks "Botchy" wholeheartedly for a job well done. The other chapter officers headed by Leo Battaglin will continue till summer vacation.

Γ B ARMOUR

Extensive house cleaning this fall has immensely improved the appearance of our house. Redecoration throughout added to the purchase of new dining room furniture gives the Shelter an atmosphere of rich simplicity which is second to none. To these improvements we give a great deal of credit for our successful rushing season. Gamma Beta has had the pleasure of pledging eight freshmen who form an extremely desirable and well-balanced personnel.

Our congratulations to Harry Gragg and Larry Davidson upon being pledged to Alpha Chi Sigma and Honor "A," respectively.

Anyone meeting T. C. Peavey, our House president, kindly allow him to go on his way unheeded, for he is more than a little busy editing the 1934 yearbook.

The annual pledge dance was a great success, and the pledges are to be congratulated upon their novel motif of house decoration.

Members of Gamma Beta wish to express their appreciation of the willingness and unselfishness which Brother Prebensen has displayed in assuming the reins of chapter adviser and of the time and energy he is expending in our behalf. Again we say, "Thank you, Brother Prebensen."

Pledges: John Holmquist, Rockford, Ill.; George Conklin, Jr., Freeport, N. Y.

Two days of formal initiation for 23 of the sophomore pledges were held October 24th and 25th, followed by the initiation banquet at the Dartmouth Outing Clubhouse. Art Flinner was toastmaster, and Dean Gidney was elected king of the 1936 delegation.

Fall House Party under the direction of George Green and Charlie Steffey was entirely successful. A formal dance was held Friday night, while the tea dance after the game and the dance Saturday night were informal. A number of alumni and Deltas from Cornell attended the parties. Music was furnished by the Yale Collegians.

Varsity soccer letters were awarded to Bob Allabaugh and Dean Gidney. Allabaugh already had one letter to his credit, and Gidney's next two years look very promising. Mallory, Hands, Flinner, and Lewis were on the soccer squad.

The House intramural basketball team for interfraternity competition has been organized by Chuck Brown. Joe Knap, who is on the varsity basketball squad, will coach. Plans are also being made for a hockey team.

Walker Lewis, John Wallace, and Chuck Brown are members of the Forensic Union. Brown is the student manager.

John Wallace was appointed vice-president of the House to fill the vacancy left at the death of Al Brown.

Bud Hulett was elected permanent rushing chairman to work under the new rushing system inaugurated this year.

Gamma Delta Chapter, firmly settled to a sedate, yet active school year, has just received the exceedingly pleasant news that it has again won the Darby Scholarship Cup, being second on the campus and first in the interfraternity council for 1932-33. With the cup again in our possession, after two years of unwanted absence, we have placed a guard over it both night and day and in more ways than one.

There is one scholastic record that we have achieved for three consecutive years (and an average of almost one for each year for the past ten years) and that is certain of continuing for the present year. Roge Scott has just been elected to Phi Beta Kappa and will soon be able to call such noteworthy people as Franklin Roosevelt "brother."

John "Oscar" Kizer awoke recently 'midst his law books to discover that he had made Mountain, highest campus honorary. Charley Eskey and Bill Baker are hard at work as student managers of wrestling and basketball.

The W-J game on Thanksgiving saw the return of a number of alumni, and a buffet luncheon was served at the Shelter. Our annual prep dance for the actives was held December 9th, Brother Barrett and his Fairmont boys playing for us. Our social plans for the year include the entertainment of sororities at Sunday dinners each month, giving them an earful of our melodious songs to carry away with them; the entertainment of alumni and alumni wives at various times throughout the year; and one more informal, one large spring formal, and a Military Ball dinner between semesters.

Efforts have been made to furnish our actives and pledges every possible advantage. A second-hand pool table was purchased and installed, a new fraternity diversion on this campus. Under the leadership of Dr. Frasure intellectualized "bull sessions" are being held in the chapter house once a month for the discussion of current subjects.

Our pledges have well demonstrated their value and their interest. Reiser is working to become football manager, Agee in basketball, and Tucker in wrestling. Schimmel, Smith, and Gibson are making fine headway on the freshman football squad. Waltz is on The Monticola staff.

Under the leadership of Morris and with the co-operation of both actives and pledges, Gamma Delta has set a pace on this campus, enviable and hard to equal, and we aim to keep it thus.

Since the last RAINBOW issue we have had as our guest at the Shelter Harold D. Meyer. President Meyer left with us some constructive advice and many inspirational ideas.

Gamma Eta is eagerly looking forward to the intramural bowling matches. Last year's team proved very formidable in winning the trophy. It is anticipated on the campus that another Delt victory is in the offing.

With this week-end being Homecoming we are looking forward to welcome back many old grads. In competitive try-outs for the most original skit Gamma Eta was awarded first place, this skit to be given at a rally and reception for the alumni.

The Kansas-George Washington grid tussle will be the outstanding feature. Incidentally, this game will bring to a close a brilliant gridiron career for our Finis Parrish. Parrish has set up a remarkable record, playing in 26 consecutive full games.

Intramural football is one of the latest attractions. After the first game the Shelter had the atmosphere of a hospital, and the good old horse liniment was much in evidence.

Pledges Wray, Walsh, and B. Parrish are working out with the varsity basketball squad.

Everett Woodward has taken over the vice-president's office. Over on the campus Woodward is gaining quite a reputation as sports editor of The University Hatchet.

Pledge Davis has been chosen secretary of the Interfraternity Pledge Council.

Our Thanksgiving dance was held at the Shelter and was acclaimed by all to be most successful.

Gamma Theta was greatly saddened by the death of Mrs. Mize, mother of Bob and Pax Mize, Oct. 29th. We went to the funeral in a body.

The Chicken Fry has come and gone. It was, as usual, a great success. Many alumni were back to look over the old Shelter, talk to old school mates, and incidentally to inhale a few pieces of fried chicken.

At the annual Fun Fest we won the loving cup given for the best stunt presentation. Bish Thompson furnished the idea and direction, not to speak of taking the leading part. Bish is holding down the office of vice-president of the Press Club. Ike McMahon is also a member.

Chimb Boisvert is the president of the French Club, and Doc Speer president of the German Club.

In the recent Dramatic Art production, "Secrets," Virgil Vaughn played a leading part. Virgil is a member of the Baker Players. The requirements for membership in this club are rather stiff, and we are proud of him for being one of the first members. Wade Carter is working on his requirements for membership.

Football season has drawn to a close and leaves us with three more "B"s in the chapter; Haskin, Acheson, and Hollister. Mize and Heine played in several games. Basketball season is getting well under way with Jim Finley in charge of the freshman squad. Haskin and Heine are out for basketball.

Ben Totten is our business man and automobile fancier. He owns a Dodge, a Studebaker, and a Marquette.

We all saw something new when Dwight Perkins walked in on us with a turtle-necked suit. If you have never heard of such a thing, write to "Perk." He will be glad to tell you all about it.

Γ I TEXAS

Pledges: Ralph Adkins, Dallas; George Cauldwell, San Antonio; William Nawald, Menard; Waldo Fletcher, Abilene; Carl Hardin, Austin; Charles Hair, Claude, Texas.

John Pope, Carleton Wright, and Bill Brown have been pushing Gamma Iota's rushing activity in a thorough and commendable manner. The pledging of six creditable men before rush week, under the Texas system of deferred rushing, is a fair beginning of the outstanding pledge class.

The chapter wishes to take this opportunity to express its appreciation and admiration for the efficient and businesslike manner in which Temple Nash has performed his duties as house manager. Bill Brown has been elected to take over Nash's duties at the expiration of Nash's term.

Carl Hardin has been active in the Curtain Club and was given a role in "Young Idea," the first play of the year; Frank Hayes and Waldo Fletcher are members of The Cactus staff, with Fletcher editing a social activity section; Tom Graham is holding down the job of issue editor on The Texan.

Ralph Adkins, the chapter's pledge protégé, who is still an infant of nineteen years, is working on his Ph.D. degree. The chapter has been puzzled as to where so inoffensive an individual conceals so much brains.

"Al" Tarbutton is still with the Cowboys, and when he is not balancing the scales of justice in the law school, can always be found in the center of the largest gathering along the drag. Winfield Holmes, David Baker, and Bill Brown, the chapter's Phi Eta Sigmas, begin to look like Phi Beta Kappa material, but you will never hear one of them admit it.

The chapter was again favored with a short visit by Gordon Watts and Kirkley Garnett, who are members of Delta Alpha at Oklahoma. Watts and Garnett were backed by O.U. as championship polo material. The Texas boys, however, outgeneralled them in the Tex-O.U. game.

Γ K MISSOURI

Well, now that all the mid-semester quizzes are over and most of the grades are in, maybe we can rest easy once more, and settle down to the writing of RAINBOW letters.

Our annual fall party went over in the usual Delt style, everything working out to perfection. Everyone had a great time. The alumni in attendance were certainly not disappointed. Stuber was unable to attend, as Missouri and Washington tangled in football that afternoon in St. Louis. Although the final score made Missouri look pretty bad, Stuber made an excellent showing, and was hardly recognized by the brothers upon his return with a face that certainly was not his own.

Gamma Kappa enjoyed another real Homecoming this year with many of the old grads back to look things over. Mother Hemphill prepared some unusually fine food for the occasion, and no one noticed any failing appetites in the crowd. In the evening the usual Homecoming banquet was held and turned into a real get-together and was officially ended as everyone listened attentively to the singing of "William Goat" by the pledges.

Intramural athletics are occupying a lot of our spare time. The freshmen started things off by taking second place in the freshman track meet. The Betas, our old intramural foes, took first place by a scant margin. In the next few weeks pistol and rifle will be run off. The basketball race will begin shortly, and we hope to do things, as we have some excellent new material in the pledge class.

Harry Green has paid us another visit. We all wanted to go with him on his trip to the West Coast and warmer weather.

We entertained another visitor last week-end: Bob Wanless of De Pauw. Bob spent the week-end with us and attended the Pi Phi party.

Some of the alumni who have paid us recent visits are Maynard Carter, Fred Hurst, Wyman Wickersham, George Haydon, Dick Schmidt, Karl Hoffman, Tud Kimes, Dick Slack, and Don Bishop.

HARRY PIPER

Γ Λ PURDUE

Pledges: Robert Dudley, Chicago; Joseph Edwards, Crawfordsville.

We of Gamma Lambda are justly proud of "Dutch" Fehring, captain of the Purdue football team. His outstanding play this season won for him a berth on the mythical All-Conference (Big Ten) eleven. "Dutch" has not, however, been the only Delt contributing to the Boilermakers' success. John Sexton won a major letter, and Ted Fehring and John Burch also played well, Ted getting a minor letter.

Gamma Lambda's athletes on the hardwood are doing equally well. Ray Eddy and "Dutch" Fehring are mainstays on the basketball team, and Herb Hays and Ted Fehring are doing their part for the glory of the Old Gold and Black. Ferris Traylor is playing on the freshman net squad.

Our sophomores of last year brought home the bacon in the Fraternity examination. The attractive plaque which they won has been placed over the fireplace.

When the campus honoraries took in their fall pledges, Gamma Lambda placed its share. Bill Traylor made Scabbard & Blade, to become the third member in the House. Don Chapman was taken into Eta Kappa Nu, electrical, and Jim Prescott was initiated into Catalyst, chemical.

The doors of the Shelter were opened wide to returning alumni and visiting parents at Homecoming and on Dad's Day.

Purdue Playshop is enjoying one of its most successful seasons under the management of G. R. Shoemaker, Dave Robb, and Tom Bauer, who head the business staff. Also in Playshop activities are Dave McElroy, John Ploehn, Mac Rahn, Buren Brown, and Don Fetzer.

Gamma Lambda has for a number of years been the chief contributor to Purdue's Big Ten Conference debate teams. This year Jim Prescott is the Delt on the team. The Exponent, Purdue's daily, claims the attentions of Bud Bryant. Jim Jump is making good on The Engineer. Roger Hageboeck is on the staff of The Debris, yearbook. Working on Union committees are George Shoemaker, Dick Harris, John Ploehn, Joe Fairhall, Tom McCullum, Bud Shively, Bob Pape, Dick Rohwedder, and Bud Bryant.

The current intramural sport, basketball, finds Gamma Lambda with a strong team. Roger Hageboeck, Don Chapman, Tom Bauer, Herb Fellner, Ferris Traylor, Buren Brown, Ed

Hurley, Dick Harris, Larry McDonald, Ralph Byler, and Bob Pape comprise the squad that started the season off with an impressive victory. Jack Cole is an intramural athletic manager.

At Thanksgiving time Dale Yeoman brought Rin, the police pup that made so many friends at the house last year, back to the Shelter for another year.

Don't believe these fellows have ever loved us since we got 'em mixed up with Oregon.

Γ N MAINE

Pledges: Robert Cabeen, Provincetown, Mass.; Arthur Stubbs, Orono.

Our fall informal house party was a "Rainbow Party." The decorations and costumes were all the colors of the rainbow.

The members and alumni had a "Bill Hardy Night" November 11th for our chef, who has been with us for fourteen years. Many alumni were back. Bill was presented with a gift. It is planned that "Bill Hardy Night" shall be an annual event.

At present we are having our dining room refinished. Recently we had a new radio installed, and the boys are having great fun pulling in European and South American broadcasts.

At recent class elections Lewis Hardison was chosen chairman of the senior executive committee. Hardison is also president of Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural. Chester Smith, pledge, was the highest ranking freshman. Paul Garvin, pledge, also holds a similar record for the class of '36. Garvin is one of the reporters on The Campus.

Chester Smith and Ralph Copeland are on the debating team.

Vernon Packard has been initiated into Scabbard & Blade, of which Ierdell Ward is also a member.

Among those out for indoor track are Lew Hardison, Phil Webber, Chet Smith, Al Smith, Zeke Dennett, Jim Haggett, and Del Ballard.

Larry Groves, Chick Russell, Bill Thorpe, Bill Parsons, Roger Castle, and Dave Haggett are a few of the alumni that have called on us this fall.

Γ O SYRACUSE

Rushing was successful when one considers the average number of men pledged this year in Syracuse. We are not satisfied with the number of men we have, but we are very pleased with the type of men who chose Delta Tau Delta. Our success was very dependent on the number of alumni who gave us their whole hearted support, which a few did to a very marked degree. We are working definitely toward that co-operation between the alumni and the active chapter which will spell success when each rushing season rolls around.

Our scholarship, compared to last year's, has improved, but we will not be satisfied until we are on the top or at least near the top of the list next spring. The students who receive a "D" in any subject must consult their professors, find out their difficulty, report to the house five nights a week under supervised study hours, and clear those marks—i.e., at least raise that subject to a "C." There is a one dollar fine for handing in a late scholarship report. Also we consider those students who have a grade on the border line between a grade of "C" and "B," or "B" and "A." He must raise that mark or lose his pride. Treating scholarship in a less serious light, the rooms having the two highest averages will be given a dinner at the expense of the rest. No man is allowed to change rooms.

In activities we have Mammosser, varsity football, in which he has been very successful; Gene Haley scrubbing for soccer; Dick Downes scrubbing for football; Warren Tracy scrubbing for basketball; Julian Ferris, varsity wrestling; Rendle Fussell, debating team; Elwyn Gibson, circulation manager of Orange Peel; and Don Coe, associate editor of The Daily Orange.

Gamma Omicron was highly honored by the visit of President Tharp. We were disappointed that he was delayed and was unable to stay with us longer. We look forward to his next visit. President Frank Cornell also made a short visit.

The alumni held their annual reunion following the Colgate game. Because of inclement weather many were unable to attend, but the weather did not stop the Women's Auxiliary and many alumni who journeyed to Syracuse over many miles of bad road from having a good time and a successful reunion. The active chapter was very pleased to extend its services to the alumni and the Women's Auxiliary, but we feel that the women deserve the credit for the success of the occasion.

To date the fall social season has consisted of two very successful firesides. A formal dinner is also being planned to be held before the Junior Prom Dec. 9th.

Claude E. Drake was appointed associate editor of The Bomb. Three of the pledges are in major activities. Orville Paulson is playing in the orchestra. Mayo Scott is playing in the band, and Howard Shelley is working on The Bomb.

Several alumni have been back to the chapter house this fall, including Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Morrison, who graduated in 1910; Mr. and Mrs. A. Q. Adamson, who graduated in 1907, both from New York; K. C. Charles, Brice Gamble, '25; R. E. Lungren, '28; John Chiesa, '31; Mark Haselton, '33; and J. J. Fedler, '33.

Γ Ρ OREGON

Fall term has found the members of Gamma Rho almost swamped in their various activities. The annual Bar-room Bust was held at the chapter house early in the term, and was an event in the social life of the campus. Through the diligence and deft management of our social chairman, Reed Swenson, the House has received more than its share of invitations from the various sororities.

Athletically Gamma Rho members have also figured prominently. Jack Rushlow is battling All-American Mike Mikulak for the starting position as varsity fullback. Several others are showing nicely as prospects. On the freshman team Pledge Elton Owens has constantly held the limelight in his role as quarterback, and is figuring prominently in the hopes for another Coast championship next year. Julius Scruggs, state hurdles champion in high school, Charles Lindsay, and Ray Miller have showed up so well in early workouts of freshman basketball candidates that they are practically assured berths on the first five. Incidentally, basketball is no exception to other sports in that it is managed almost exclusively by Delts. The staff includes James Ghormley, Donald Law, Gordon Gedney, and Loren Ford, who, with Howard Kemper, Reed Swenson, Bud Wood, Charles Moore, and Aldin Kilborn in other sports, practically monopolize the managerial side of athletics.

Intramural sports are also claiming much attention and adding to our collection of trophies. Rick Hilles and Miles McKay are winning renown in the wrestling eliminations. Fred McKinney and Comet Gibson are favored to annex titles in their respective weights when the campus boxing tournament is completed. Bob Hallowell, political leader of the freshman class, and James Balis, who enjoys the same position among the sophomores, have both reached the semifinals in the handball competition. Charles Hoag, captain of the baseball team for the coming year, has sacrificed the field of honor for the more lucrative professional pastime and has signed a major league contract. Mahr Rhymers, former president, is also deserting the campus for a venture into the world of business.

Scholastically we have nothing to point to but the future, but we hope that at the end of the term we shall once again place our chapter where it belongs. In this connection our newly appointed scholarship chairman has revived our pride and bids fair to introduce some revolutionary ideas.

The school publications are more pie for the fingers of the Delts. George Butler is designing the next yearbook, and Scruggs is covering sports for the daily.

Γ Σ PITTSBURGH

Pledges: William Blair, Edward Coleman, Alfred Dixon, Wally Guthrie, Thomas Herbert, William Housel, Harold Lomax, Jack Poellot, Donald Pritchard, Frank Rittman, Thomas Yorty, Pittsburgh; James Charley, Derry; Harry Ecker, Emmett McCormick, Oakmont; John Gleason, Harold Hassler, East McKeesport; Charles Huff, Homestead; Robert Leonard, Bellevue, Stuart Mehl, Ernest Rose, Edgewood; Calvin Shook, Youngstown, O.; Carl Wasmuth, Swissvale.

This very successful rushing season is due to the efforts of the rushing committee headed by Dick Sloan, combined with the work of the active chapter and some valuable alumni help.

Our annual Homecoming was in November in conjunction with the Nebraska game. It was highly successful. The program consisted of a buffet supper and a smoker in the evening, at which about 50 alumni were entertained. Its success was due to the efforts of Norm MacLeod, an alumni committee composed of Jim Chalfant, chairman, Alan Riester, James Lafferty, Harry Porter, and Paul Fisher, and the active committee: Tom Lindsay, chairman, Lowe McIntyre, and Henry Haller.

Our football team is undefeated, having beaten the Phi Kappa team 8-0 and the Phi Gam team 6-0.

Bob Willison was in charge of the Interfraternity Conference in conjunction with which the Interfraternity Sing was held. Thanks to the fine singing of the double quartet under the direction of Red Wilkins we have another new cup for the mantel. The singers were Dick Sloan, Bill Collins, Bob McFarland, Gene Haverty, Lowe McIntyre, Bud Baker, Red Wilkins, and Ed Coleman. They also made their radio debut over WWSW.

Johnny Grove and Art Stroyd both have new hats, Johnny having led the two College Association dances and Art the soph hop.

Doc Hartwig, Bob Hogan, and Carl Swartz are proudly displaying new O. D. K. keys.

The social committee headed by Lief Erickson is planning a formal dance to be held outside the house.

We have had the honor of having a visit from Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, the ranking bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and also from our new President Harold Tharp.

Art Charlesworth, '33, who is now a student at Drew Theological Seminary, dropped in during the Thanksgiving holidays.

FRANK K. HEMBERT

Γ Τ KANSAS

With the mid-semester quizzes over, Gamma Tau has devoted most of its activity toward intramural sports. We have done well and hope to do better. The tennis team played to the finals, having won its division beforehand, where it met defeat at the hands of the Collegian non-fraternity team. The football team played through to the semifinals after winning the division championship cup. The handball team lost in the playoff between divisions. The horseshoe team, while not winning the division, garnered a few points toward the intramural trophy.

The chapter holds the honor of being the only group which holds three elective school offices this year. Voran was recently elected to the Student Council; Howard is treasurer of the senior class; and Pledge Mallory is manager of the sophomore hop. Pledge Gilbert is vice-president of the leading freshman political party. Pledge Lane is a freshman intramural manager.

Other major offices which are held by members of Gamma Tau are vice-president of junior honorary society; vice-president of the Pi Epsilon Pi, pep organization; treasurer of Panhellenic; president of Dramatic Club; student manager of the Kansas Relays; and treasurer of School of Pharmacy.

The annual smoker of the School of Business was held at the chapter house early in November. This was secured through the co-operation of John Blocker, our chapter adviser and a professor in the School of Business.

We were honored several weeks ago in having as a guest for luncheon Henry J. Allen, ex-governor of Kansas and former United States Senator. Mr. Allen is a member of Gamma Theta, Baker.

Homecoming was held Thanksgiving, and although this letter was sent before the event itself took place, preparations were being made to welcome many alumni to see the Jayhawk again tear up the Missouri Tiger.

Everyone had a good time at the annual Paddle Party. The interior of the Shelter was decorated with artistically cut and colored paddles.

Our scholarship average seems to be improving, but while it isn't bad, we still have some distance to go before reaching our goal of top position.

Pledges: James Carr, Savannah; H. O. Clark, Augusta; Bert Beasley, Petersburg, Tenn.; Bob Zimmerman, Ft. Thomas, Ky.; Billy Harwood, Lawrenceburg, Tenn.; Dick Richard, Savannah; John Hulse, Augusta; Carl Ingram, Atlanta; Lamar Ingram, Atlanta; Billy Rooney, Atlanta; Walton Purdon, Atlanta.

During rush period a definite schedule was carried out which proved very successful. The value of a fixed program of rushing was clearly illustrated at Georgia Tech, where competition for freshmen was very keen between the twenty-three fraternities because of decreased enrollment. Several successful parties were given, including a house dance, a buffet supper at professor R. P. Black's, a swimming party at the Venetian Club, and a dance at the East Lake Country Club. As a grand finale the chapter held its annual rush-week banquet. It was an inspiring example of Deltism for the freshmen.

On October 15th Gamma Psi held its first initiation of the year. Previous to the initiation the chapter hall had been remodeled completely and proved an impressive setting for one of the finest initiations ever held in this chapter.

Upon returning to school the chapter was gratified to find that during the summer the Mothers' Club had furnished the house with new curtains and draperies. In appreciation an open house was held in honor of the parents.

Other social events of the season have been a wiener roast and a house dance on the week-end of the Georgia Tech-Florida football game in honor of the visiting Delts. Beta Epsilon at Emory co-operated with us also at this dance, which turned out to be one of the big social successes of the season.

We are looking forward to the annual all-state banquet to be given by the Atlanta Alumni Chapter on the eve of the Georgia-Georgia Tech football game. Delts from all over the state, together with the Tech, Georgia, and Emory active chapters, will attend. The principal speaker will be Dean Raimundo Devies, Beta Theta, '98.

All in all, Gamma Psi seems headed to another successful year with nineteen actives and fifteen pledges under the guidance of McIver Evans. Campus honors are not so abundant as in years past, but we are not quite left out. Frank Hulse is editor of the annual, O.D.K., member of the Student Council, president Scientia Club, vice president Pi D.E., etc., not to leave out Ralph Black, Dillon Kalkhurst, Charles Sumner, and others who have campus honors. Although we have no varsity football players, James Carr is one of the outstanding stars of a fine freshman eleven.

We are justly proud of having won first place in the traditional Ramblin' Wreck contest with our 1904 Reo decorated appropriately with costumes of the period worn by none other than our august president, Mac Evans, Treasurer Charles Molton, Sam McCreary, and Ogle Alt.

To close, here is a hot tip for our Southern Division brothers: There's going to be another of those famous "Artist's Balls" at the Southern Division Conference here in February. Details later. Better not miss it!

HARVEY FELL, JR.

Γ Ω NORTH CAROLINA

Interest in extracurricular activities has been the keynote of Gamma Omega this fall. Almost everyone in the chapter is actively engaged in some phase of campus life. Jackson, Lee, and Fowler are using their wit to good advantage on The Buccaneer, comic monthly; Lee is the chairman of the editorial board of the University daily and is also writing for The Carolina Magazine; Pledges Hopkins and Whittaker are drama-conscious and have hooked up with the Playmakers; incidentally, Hopkins and Lee have major roles in two forthcoming productions.

Pledge Carmichael is on the freshman tennis team; McCollum is assistant manager of basketball. Parks and Jackson have been inducted into the University Club; Matheson and Lee are members of the German Club; McCollum has been initiated into the 13 Club, sophomore; Lee is a member of the Dialectic Senate.

One of the highlights of the fall quarter was the annual Duke-Carolina Delt banquet and get-together after the football game between the two schools. Both chapters were present almost a hundred per cent.

Gamma Omega received honorable mention for its house decoration for the Georgia Tech Homecoming game. The annual Thanksgiving Day game with Virginia was the occasion for many Delts to track back to the Hill to renew old friendships and to meet new brothers.

Δ A OKLAHOMA

Pledges: John Adams, Amarillo, Tex.; Mason Lyons, Nowata, Okla.

Spirit in and about the Delta Shelter on the Oklahoma campus seems to increase day by day. Greater enthusiasm has never been shown at any time by members and pledges. Delta Alpha has set as her goal for this semester the interfraternity scholarship cup. Joe Fred Gibson, head of the scholarship committee, is working with great zeal toward that end. The chapter is backing him in every way possible.

Gibson, also an active leader on the campus, is editing the 1934 Sooner yearbook. Pledge Kenneth Wilson is class editor.

Pledges had their day Nov. 17th, when they were given the privileges of members for twenty-four hours. Previous to the day of fun the chapter held its second annual pledge-member smoker. During the evening the pledges were given opportunities to voice their ideas and to tell what Delta Tau Delta meant to them. A mock pledge court for members, conducted by the pledges, climaxed the evening.

Proposed changes in rushing rules for next year have failed to pass the Interfraternity Council. Under the new plan the entire rush system would be controlled by the dean of men.

Tate Fry, '31, has been appointed Delta Alpha's chapter adviser. Because of his active interest in the chapter, pledge group, and campus activities, Fry has long been a favorite of every man in the House. His music studio is a popular meeting place for both pledges and members.

The second formal of the year was a pledge dance at the College Shop. Pledge paddles were used for decorations and favors; large gilded pledge buttons hung at each end of the ballroom.

Plans are now being made for the Christmas party. A buffet supper and Christmas tree in the chapter house will precede the dance.

Harold Jones now heads the rush committee. Harry Suffield now corresponds with the alumni.

John C. Miller, Beta Alpha, was a dinner guest at the Thanksgiving dinner. Other guests and rushees were entertained.

Harry Green was a guest in the Shelter last week. His stay, although brief, was very pleasant, and his suggestions and criticisms were most helpful.

Δ B CARNEGIE TECH

Year 1932-1933: 6th of 20 fraternities (University figures)

Rushing season, under the guidance of Gibby Gerhardt, was intensive and quite efficient. On the rushing committee were Robert McFarlin, Paul Pheneger, Bert Latimore, and Ammon Godshall. A utility committee composed of Fran Mertz and Boots Kissel worked in conjunction with the rushing committee. Rushing season has not yet ended.

Stellar football performances were turned in by Lewis and Mihm. Lib Lewis finished a brilliant season at right end, and Joe Mihm excelled at fullback both by his punting ability and general all-around playing. Lewis and Mihm accounted for almost half of Carnegie Tech's total score. Joe Brewer and Frank Sanford were members on the squad, but did not get regular assignments.

Julian von der Lancken, William Bostick, and Jack Provost are training for the swimming team. Von der Lancken is the only letter man, but all three should get sweaters. Clyde Gischel is the junior swimming manager.

Shorey Allan closed a quite successful season as captain of the varsity cross country team.

William Bostick and Shorey Allan were called to Phi Kappa Phi on Carnegie Day. At the same time Tom Dana was called to Eta Kappa Nu, electrical.

Clyde Gischel and Tom Dana were recently initiated into Scabbard & Blade. Neal Vinson, Ammon Godshall, Bob Kelley, and Benny Lustenberger are other members. Pi Delta Epsilon called William Bostick, Clyde Gischel, and Tom Dana because of their prominence in student publications. Ammon Godshall is also a member. Robert McFarlin was called to Pi Alpha Delta, printing, of which Shorey Allan, William Bostick, and Henry Kroll are already members.

Working out for positions on the cheerleading squad are Jack Provost and Howard Means. Ammon Godshall is head cheerleader; Johnnie Davis is assistant head cheerleader; and Clyde Gischel completes the senior squad.

At the first practices for interfraternity basketball Boots Kissel, Bert Latimore, Robert McFarlin, Bob Ricketts, Lib Lewis, Joe Mihm, Frank Sanford, Joe Brewer, Howie Means, and Bucky Hunter showed up. Bert Latimore has been placed in charge of the team and reports that with the fine material available a winning team will uphold Delta Tau Delta laurels.

Debating has been postponed until January. William Bostick and Paul Pheneger expect to win the interfraternity competition again. Last year was the first for competitive debating, and Bostick and Pheneger were the winners. Since a cup is offered this year, they have a greater incentive.

Publication of the official ranking of the fraternities according to scholarship rates the chapter sixth of twenty fraternities. The chapter has risen from last to sixth place in the three years.

Boots Kissel was appointed pledge master for this year. Under his direction, in preparation for rushing season and later, more work has been done on the house.

The Student Council, under the supervision of its president, Shorey Allan, is carrying out a program of constructive work in school activities. This Council, one of the ten most powerful student governing bodies in the country, also has Julian von der Lancken as one of its representatives.

Neal Vinson was chairman of the decorations committee of the Military Ball. Bert Latimore and Julian von der Lancken gave him able assistance in the design and execution of the theme. The decorations showed an originality and cleverness that won the praise of the student body.

Paul Pheneger, chapter president, has been appointed on the committee for the Interfraternity Formal. Pheneger is secretary of the Interfraternity Council.

Tom Dana was appointed chairman of the Colleges of Engineering and Industries for the Welfare Drive. Placed under him as helpers were several other Deltas. Dana was recently elected to the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, of which John Davis, Al Ralston, Ernie Schleusener, and Henry Kroll are members.

Frank Elliott and Clyde Gischel are seen on the campus selling Puppets, humor magazine. Both should get their keys for this activity. Jack Provost is on the editorial board. Ernie Schleusener, advertising manager of The Thistle, yearbook, has on his staff Harold Mitchener, Jack Provost, and John Morten.

Many familiar faces were seen at Homecoming. Among the alumni who have visited the chapter recently are Morie Bley, Logan Webster, Ira Kuhn, Roy Gilliland, Ernie Lemon, and George Andrus.

SOUTH DAKOTA

This fall has been the scene of much excitement, activity, and interesting events. The Delta Gamma Deltas have become the live-wires of the campus; we were the big originators of a series of pep rallies for a whole week before Dakota Day (Homecoming); we were always a big source of enthusiasm at the football games; our pledges were a brilliant group of torch bearers in the big Homecoming pep meeting—in short, wherever there were Deltas, there was life.

There was one disappointment, however; the loss of our great sturdy Oaks Olson, giant fullback, end, and confidential backer of the football team, from the squad by a serious injury. Dyson, our flashy center, has remained well in his position to maintain a good representation for the chapter on the gridiron. These two men will, along with Bob Hoyne, no doubt be on the basketball squad.

We gained more representation in dramatics by an invitation to Bill Kass to join Playcrafters. Bill was also stage manager for the last All-University play. Buck Whittemore gave a piano recital in conjunction with the University Symphony Orchestra.

Chuts Church is an active member of Dakotans and vice-president of the Interfraternity Council. We are to have one of our men as chairman of the Junior Prom. There are seven Deltas in the Advanced Military Corps, out of which we will undoubtedly have several pledges to Scabbard & Blade.

The house made a big improvement by buying a new rug for the parlor; it certainly makes the room attractive. A number of new books came in for our library, and new shelves are being planned.

Homecoming saw a large group back—namely: Ireland, Samson, Colvin, Hewitt, E. Wade, V. Hermanson, Cadwell, G. Patterson, Ebsen, R. Hermanson, Beck, Southworth, Brodine, Munger, Hauff, Weishaar, Hanson, Baer, Lang, Hart, Erickson, C. Hart, Green, Crandall, Nelson, and Buzz Wade.

TENNESSEE

Delta Delta is especially proud to announce that out of the five men chosen by the University of Tennessee's candidates for the Rhodes Scholarship next year, two came from our chapter: Gordon Gaskill and Paul Morris Fitts, both of whom are leaders in student activities and scholarship.

Not only do we have men of great scholastic achievement, but we have men in practically all the organizations and activities on the Hill. The following will give an idea of what Deltas do on the campus: A. B. Steed—Phi Eta Sigma, Beaver Club; Robert Mann—Formal Dance Board, Phi Delta Phi; Jim Herbert—Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Pershing Rifles; Jim Fries—Orange & White; Gordon Gaskill—editor-in-chief of Orange & White, president of Interfraternity Council, Formal Dance Board, All-Students Club, senior honorary, Phi Kappa Phi; Charlie Martin—Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, Pershing Rifles; W. A. Smith—Orange & White, Alpha Sigma Delta; Ed Hicks—Pershing Rifles; Jim Binkley—varsity football; Jack Pick, three-letter freshman last year, varsity football; Tom Alvey—freshman football; Paul Morris Fitts—Orange & White, No. 1 man on varsity tennis team; Andy Sanders—band, Tennessee Players.

Although we are ranking tenth in intramural sports, we are putting a team in every event and expect to raise our standing, being only a little more than 25 points behind the leader. We came fourth in the swimming meet, and eighth in the cross country run.

The chapter has been busy getting going this year with a few changes in the officers and improvements in other ways. We have just completed our new chapter hall, which conforms almost perfectly with specifications. J. P. Alley has been appointed scholarship chairman, and Jim Herbert has been elected treasurer. Harper, an alumnus, has rendered the chapter a great service as treasurer, but, because of the added responsibilities in his business, was forced to resign.

"Down in old Kentucky in the Delta Shelter" the honors have been creeping in one by one to help Delta Epsilon keep her place among the leaders on the Kentucky campus. In the fall class elections Billy Nicholls grabbed himself a share of the senior class honors by being elected secretary in opposition to two strong political factions.

Perhaps the most outstanding chapter honor of the fall was the election of Ralph Kercheval and Cameron Coffman to active membership in Omicron Delta Kappa. Of the seven pledges no other fraternity had two.

Word has leaked out that Fred Dye and Ralph Kercheval will be pledged to Scabbard & Blade next month at the first Cadet Hop. The addition of these two men with Clo, Coffman, Mills, and Skinner will give Delta Epsilon six members.

The appointment of officers in the R. O. T. C. regiment has just been made known. To lead the list was Harry Clo, who received the rank of lieutenant-colonel. During the past five years Delta Epsilon has had the cadet colonel three times. Last year George Skinner was colonel, and Horace Miner was lieutenant-colonel. Fred Dye was listed as a major of the first battalion, and Ralph Kercheval is the new captain of Company "G." Bill Jacobs, C. D. Blair, Rocky Stephens, and Ned Turnbull were commissioned as lieutenants.

Carroll Weisiger has been elected treasurer of Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising, and Gene Lutes and Cameron Coffman will soon be initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic. The election of George Akin and Billy Nicholls into Phi Beta Kappa is anticipated.

Wally Difford, Len Van Arsdale, Reg Rice, Fred DeWilde, and Jack McConnell are members of the Guignol Theater staff.

In the publication field Ned Turnbull is continuing as business manager of The Kentucky Kernel, semiweekly, and Ike Moore is a member of the advertising staff. Cameron Coffman is associate editor of The Kentuckian, yearbook. Beecher Tanner is sales representative.

A long list of Delts continue active in Pershing Rifles. Joe Mills is the retiring captain. Harry Clo has been elected first lieutenant. Other active members include Jack Crain, Al Miller, Wally Difford, Dave Difford, Bill Creathouse, and Cal Cramer. Pledges include Ike Moore and Dave Goodwin. Inactive members are Fred Dye, Cameron Coffman, and Ned Turnbull.

E. B. Brown, Billy Nicholls, George Akin, and Ben Cooper are singing with the University glee club.

Ralph Kercheval, Wildcat backfield ace, kept Kentucky's name in print by his spectacular performances on the gridiron. He has been heralded by the Associated Press as a potential All-American and Dixie's outstanding candidate for that seldom reached goal. His uncanny ability as a punter has warranted the proclamation by several opposing coaches that "Kercheval is the greatest punter of all time in the Southland." His passing and pass receiving, his line plunging and broken field running, and lastly his generalship of the Wildcat team have made him a feared man to all opposing teams. With the exception of two less important games this season Kercheval has played the entire 60 minutes of all the others.

Two other members of Delta Epsilon have also played a bang-up game for the Blue and White and will be listed among the letter winners. They are Jim Darnaby, a junior guard, and Bill Jacobs, a senior tackle, who is playing his first year as a varsity regular.

C. D. Blair and Bruce Davis are seeing a lot of action on the varsity basketball squad during these days of pre-season scrimmage. Blair will be included among the winners of a varsity award at the close, as he is playing his fourth year as a member of the squad. Davis is receiving a lot of attention from the coaches and should earn a position on the regular squad of the Southeastern Conference Champions.

The intramural season is under way, and Delta Epsilon has been winning points in all fields. Practice is being held for the boxing, wrestling, and handball tournaments. Football practice is also being held for the tournament to follow the regular season. Delta Epsilon has entered a team. Under the guiding hand of Homer "Moose" Crowden and George Skinner, former alternate captain of the varsity, the Delt team is hoping to go far in the tournament with T. C. "Dog" Endicott as the spark plug of the offense.

An initiation was held at the Shelter on October 25th at which time six pledges were inducted into the mysteries of Delta Tau Delta. Included among the neophytes was Bruce Davis, Lexington, a son of W. E. Davis, Phi, '99, who has been chapter adviser for several years.

Creston Smith and Ben Cooper, who have been absent from School, have returned. Smith has been elected vice-president to succeed Ned Turnbull. George Skinner continues as president.

Visiting alumni include Sherrill Smith, ex-'33; Jimmy Randall, ex-'33; Roy Kavanaugh, '29; Jimmy Shropshire, '29; Lawrence Shropshire, '20; Robt. D. Hawkins, '24; Abie Kittenger, '25; O. B. Coffman, '33; Russ Lutes, ex-'32; Johnny Bullock, '29; Bob O'Dear, '29, and Foster Peyton, ex-'33.

Δ Z FLORIDA

Pledges: Delphine Arduengo, Edmund R. Goss, Tampa; Einar R. Andersen, West Palm Beach; George Bolles, Elbert C. Jackson, Miami; Hudson Bullard, Fort Pierce; Rue Gewert, Walton; Hugh Horton, Plant City; Bob Keller, Dunedin; H. C. (Tom) Slaughter, Palmetto; Trammel Smith, Mulberry; William L. Wadsworth, Lewis E. Wadsworth, Flagler Beach; D. W. Wiggert, Gainesville.

From this group many are already engaged in various activities. Keller and William Wadsworth are on the freshman football team; the latter, although never having played football before this fall, is one of the outstanding guards on the freshman team. Bolles is out for polo; Bullard was a student leader during Freshman Week; Horton and Smith are in the band; Jackson is working on The Alligator; and Goss is out for varsity football manager.

Jack Williams was elected vice-president early in the year, as Zina Carter, elected last spring, failed to return.

Delta Zeta is maintaining its position in campus leadership by having captain of varsity basketball, senior manager of varsity football, manager of intramural basketball, vice-president of the freshman law class, president of the Interfraternity Conference, member of the board of student publications, two members on the executive council, cheer leader, captain in the R.O.T.C., four members of White Friars and three members of Bacchus.

In intramural sports, with Hiers as leader, Delta Zeta is making splendid progress. With the able assistance of our pledge group we should be able to gain some honors along this line.

Many visitors returned for Homecoming, when Florida crushed Auburn 14-7. Following the game we gave a dance at the Gainesville Golf and Country Club honoring the II K A Fraternity.

Every afternoon finds Delta Zeta's football team undergoing strenuous practice in preparation for the annual football game with II K A, which is scheduled to take place before the Christmas holidays.

The entire chapter extended its sympathy upon learning of the death of pledge Harry Strachan early last month. Although Harry had been with us but a short time, we were all greatly grieved.

Recent visitors include Frank Brownnett, Zina Carter, John Fisher, Archie Garrison, Burwell Jordan, Bob Knight, Jimmy Lybass, Marion McCune, Marcus Owen, and Fred Scheuler.

Δ H ALABAMA

Pledges: Warren McNulty, Winnetka, Ill.; Frank Corbett, Shelton, Conn.; William Ramm, Danville, Ill.; M. C. Mathews, Sylacauga; Russell Miller, Scranton, Pa.; Charles Linker, East Orange, N. J.; William Cauty, Tuscaloosa; Oscar Tice, Roanoke, Va.; John Martling, Oyster Bay, L. I.; Kenneth Reichard, Easton, Pa.; Alfred Mansfield, Chicago, Ill.; Joseph Schaack, Chicago, Ill.; Harold Hockensmith, Pittsburgh, Pa.

This year Delta Eta was quite fortunate in having almost every man in the active chapter back. However, all was not a bed of roses for us down here in the old Southland, for we had the misfortune to lose five of our hardest workers by graduation. That mild catastrophe seemed to serve as an incentive for us who remained, and as a result we are able to boast of thirteen fine pledges.

Several of our men have been elected to various honorary organizations. Nick Kraph made Scabbard & Blade. Garret McClaren and Dwight Sullivan were taken into Greeks, interfraternity. "Pee-Wee" Harris was elected to Theta Tau, engineering. Pledge Harold Hockensmith was elected as one of the sophomore representatives on the honor committee of the School of Engineering. He will serve along with "Pee-Wee" Harris, who was previously elected as junior representative.

We celebrated Homecoming and Armistice Day simultaneously. Activities started with a big bonfire, and culminated with the football game against the V.P.I. Gobblers. Several of the old grads were back to join in the festivities. Bill Craig, president of the chapter last year, informed us that he was running for representative to the Alabama state legislature. Sydney and Milton Pfleger were also back, as were Jack Bryne and Underwood Trimble. Ray Colvin, '31, spent several days with us. He still lives in Memphis.

It seems that our alumni haven't lost a bit of the Delt spirit, and it is truly a pleasure to hear from them or to have them visit us.

JOHN W. SAUCIER

Δ Θ TORONTO

Here in Toronto we have been undergoing a continuous rush week for the last two months. There are lots of rushees and everything, but some of them still seem to think that there is still a depression on.

An initiation was held early in November with five good men being received into the chapter. Several rushing parties were held in the Shelter, and Fred Saxby very kindly gave us a bridge party at which several rushees were present. This year majority of the actives are Engineers and since their connections are mostly with men of their own faculty, most of our prospects are Engineers.

Lee Dougan is our new scholarship chairman. If he is as successful with the pledges and junior men as he has been personally as a scholar, the situation is well under control. Lee is also playing water-polo and is on the School-Nite Committee.

John Crawford, the boy chemist, decorated the University Band this fall, as well as leading one of the better orchestras about the campus. Ken Zinkann was instrumental in winning the prize for the best skit at Dentistry's Noctem Cuckoo. Zinkann indignantly denies that there was any trace of professionalism attached to this effort.

Jack Elliott is managing Junior School's entry in the inter-faculty volleyball series.

In the way of house sports bridge seems to have a slight margin in popularity over ping-pong. The difficulty with the latter is to find somebody to beat Elliott Carruth using his left hand, while at bridge certain attempts to save rubber occasionally prove disastrous.

Another of our celebrated hard-times parties occurred in November and was pronounced a great success by the many graduates present, also by the Becher boys. We are looking forward to our Christmas formal early in December.

University College Seniors, one of the contending teams in the Interfaculty basketball series, is being managed by Ed Bell.

This year an official keeper of the Diary is appointed each week, and the Diary is read to the amusement of those present at dinner Monday night.

As this goes to press we are informed that a farewell stag-smoker is to be held Dec. 2nd, in honor of Mason Jones, the man with a job.

Δ K DUKE

The oldest and most traditional annual football game played in North Carolina was played Nov. 18th, the Carolina-Duke game. After the game there is another traditional meeting between the two schools—the annual Delt banquet for the Deltas of Gamma Omega and Delta Kappa. The game being played this year at Duke, Delta Kappa was host. Two members of the Arch Chapter were in attendance: Harold D. Meyer, President of the Southern Division, and Dean M. Arnold, Supervisor of Scholarship. Many of our alumni returned for the game and banquet.

The Duke chapter of Phi Beta Kappa held its regular fall term election recently. Bids were extended to six fraternity men. Three of these were Delts—Buddy Humphreys, Bill Gearhart, and Wilbur Brister. Batting 500 on Phi Beta bids isn't bad.

Largely through the efforts of Al Sadler, '30, we boast a new addition to our chapter possessions. Sadler secured contributions from our alumni and from the chapter and obtained for us a handmade Delt banner, which we display in front of the section for special occasions.

Iota Gamma Pi, inter-science, held its annual ceremonies in assembly a short while ago. The chapter was represented by Jimmy Otis and Buddy Humphreys.

We are glad to have with us this year Dwight Billings, Butler. He is doing graduate work in botany and is co-operating with us in all our activities.

Several of our alumni have visited us recently. Bob Mann, Louis States, Bill States, Irvin Morgan, Bill Tuckwiller, Coy Monk, Joe Mann, Blair Stevens, and "Pinky" Webb (now of Emory) were among those returning for Homecoming or the Carolina game.

Delta Kappa Pi is working this year under the handicap of deferred rushing, however, we are putting on an intensive rush program for various qualified members of the upper classes. Our prospects seem excellent.

Δ Δ OREGON STATE

Damn!

Δ M IDAHO

Mid-semester reports are just out, and we find that we have fared as well as usual, with a House average well above the average for men.

This first quarter has been profitable in other fields of activity as well as scholarship, as both actives and pledges are doing well in campus affairs. We have got our momentum and push this first period.

Our first social event of the year was the pledge dance. This was another great success, and the girls again carried away every loose item of decoration as souvenirs. The moon was the theme for the dance, and was carried out cleverly in the music, programs, and decorations. The ceiling was covered with crescent moons and stars, while cut-out lighted panels representing campus scenes decorated the walls. The programs carried an original drawing of the Shelter on a moonlit night.

The next big event was Homecoming. This year we had a most successful and unique celebration. Our rivals in the grid-iron classic were the Washington State Cougars. Idaho defeated the Cougars by a huge score in 1903; so this year a "Repeat 1903" movement was instigated. All the men had to raise beards and the girls wore hair-ribbons during the three weeks preceding the game. The girls signed a "No Razors Allowed Code," which refused a date to any clean shaven man. Although none of the brothers took the prize for the best beard, there were some pretty nifty ones around the Shelter, and Wes Nock, our rushing chairman, was in the running for campus honors. Our Homecoming decoration was one of the best on the campus again. It pictured the tale of "The Three Little Pigs," with the WSC Cougar taking the part of the big, bad wolf, and the Vandal the little pig who built his house of brick. The wolf walked back and forth in front of the brick house and let out a huge roar each time he passed it. Jack Morgan, Lloyd Reed, Bob Ford, and Maurice Malin comprised the committee. Beds were at a premium at the Shelter again, with all the alums and special guests paying us a visit during the big celebration.

Wes Nock, rushing chairman, has the rushing for next semester well under way, and we are counting on pledging three or four more good men. In the line of pledge training the chapter adopted a plan suggested at the Karnea, which provided for giving the outstanding pledge a charm or medal. This award will be made on the basis of scholarship, activities, house-work, and citizenship. There should be some keen competition.

Delt is putting in a strong bid for intramural sports honors. Our indoor baseball team has started with a bang, being tied with Sigma Nu for first place. All other teams are eliminated, and we will be playing off the tie soon. Henry Rust is intramural manager, and is getting a lot of enthusiasm worked up.

Pledge Reed Ellwell played halfback and end on the frosh football team and earned his numerals. Reed is shifty and fast. Pledge Ron Martin is using his six feet some inches to good advantage on the maple court, and should make it tough for some of the frosh teams.

We have among our pledges some outstanding musicians—James McFarland, a trombonist de luxe, is an alternate in the famous Pep Band, a member of the symphony orchestra, the theater orchestra, and the trombone quartet. Kenneth Esmay is an expert flutist, and plays in the symphony also. Jenkin Palmer has potential possibilities in vocal activities, and Glenn Williams is popular as a pianist. Eugene Ryan was chosen freshman Intercollegiate Knight, and is prominent in dramatics. Richard March, from way back in Northampton, Mass., went elk hunting in the "wilds of Idaho" over a week-end and brought us back 450 pounds of elk meat. We had elk steaks, hash, hamburger, etc., for some time.

Robert Ford, secretary, was initiated into Hell-divers, swimming and diving. Frank Bevington is busy as circulation manager of the annual and is scribe of the Intercollegiate Knights.

Louie August's boxing team is on its way to another big year. Louie's protégés have won a large percentage of their bouts with other schools. Bernard Snow is turning out for boxing, and with only a little experience held his opponent to a draw in his first bout.

Paul Rust is still hitting the high spots in musical activities. As president of the junior class he is in charge of plans for the annual junior Mixer. Maurice Malin was named copy and index editor for The 1934 Gem, annual, and is working on the newspaper and humor magazine staffs.

During Thanksgiving vacation, which is only a few days away, Delt alumni and all actives who can attend will hold a meeting in Spokane to discuss the possibilities of securing an alumni chapter for the district. We hope something will materialize along these lines.

THE DELTA ALUMNI

Ashtabula Alumni Chapter

After a period of summer inactivity the Ashtabula Alumni Chapter has again returned to its regular monthly schedule. Plans have been completed for an interfraternity meeting to be held soon, this sponsored by the Delta Tau Delta Chapter.

We co-operated with undergraduate chapters during rushing season and assisted in landing some mighty good boys for Delta Tau Delta. Our fall meetings, under the leadership of President Gerald Michel, have featured educational programs. Our attendance although small has been very enthusiastic, which is some compensation.

Harold J. Mills has just taken a position with J. C. Penney Co. in Ashtabula.

Albert Lewis was recently married to Miss Helen Book.

Carey S. Sheldon is city manager of Ashtabula.

Robert McCarthy was recently transferred to the Beaver Falls, Pa., store of Montgomery, Ward & Co.

Duane Redman is married and working for the Associated Gas & Electric Co. in Ashtabula.

Madison J. Humphrey is running a dairy farm at Williamsfield, O.

Donald Lubahn spent the summer working on a lake freighter.

Neil Payne has a position with the Ashtabula Bow Socket Co.

Ernest Hewins has a job in Huntsburg, W. Va.

Gerald Michel is principal of North Kingsville Schools.

Burdette Chapman is working for a dock company in Ashtabula Harbor.

Edwin Palmer was married last summer.

Robert Bjerstedt has just returned from New York, where he took a baking course.

RAYMOND ST. JOHN

Atlanta Alumni Chapter

The annual Delt All-State banquet for Georgia Deltas, both actives and alumni, was held in the main dining room of the Atlanta Athletic Club, November 24th. More than 75 enthusiastic Deltas turned out to enjoy one of the best events of its kind in local Delt history.

Hoot Gibson served ably and efficiently as both chairman of the banquet committee and toastmaster. Raimundo de Ovies (Beta Theta) delivered the main address of the evening, explaining in a manner which made us all proud of our Fraternity what Delta Tau Delta has always meant to him.

Plans are now under way for the Southern Division Conference to be held in Atlanta in February. Roy Petty is in charge of the planning committee and promises a Conference second to none in any particular.

R. P. Black was recently honored by being appointed and serving as Marshal of the Day in the Atlanta Armistice Day exercises, which, besides other activities, consisted of a huge parade through the city and memorial services at the Rose Bowl of Georgia Tech.

O. W. CARPENTER

Chicago Alumni Chapter

On Oct. 13th we held our first evening meeting of the season. A buffet dinner was served to over fifty Deltas at the Interfraternity Club. Included in this number were our new President, Harold Tharp, and our new Supervisor of Scholarship, Dean Arnold. The notices of the meetings announced that there would be no speeches, and so the remarks by Messrs. Tharp and Arnold were brief and to the point. Both called on the alumni for increased co-operation.

We also had as our guest the presidents of the three local active chapters. They were asked to give brief reports on the condition of their chapters and their plans for the school year. Following this short program, the Arch Chapter members went into a huddle with the actives on some of the problems they will be faced with this winter.

The meeting also served as a sort of victory celebration for the Karnea. Charlie Axelson gave a brief résumé of the Karnea activities, and Pete Fischer, the Karnea treasurer, gave us the final figure on finances. Something over $5,000 went through his hands and balanced out to the last cent. No profit, no loss, and no need for donations from big hearted brothers, if any.

We are now making plans for our next meeting, Dec. 7th. In an effort to equal or exceed the turnout of the October meeting, we have decided to abandon the idea of a banquet or a fixed price dinner. Instead this meeting will be held some place where each man will be free to do as he likes. A full dinner will be available for fifty cents, but any of the brothers who don't like that can spend their evening on beer and pretzels. There will be no speeches and no program—just a good old fashioned Delt get-together.

We were all very much concerned a few weeks ago to learn that Dr. Frank Wieland was entering the Passavant Hospital for a delicate brain operation. The purpose was to correct some difficulty which the Doctor has had with his sight. Everyone in the Fraternity will be glad to know that the operation was a complete success and that Dr. Wieland is home again completely recovered and receiving the congratulations of his many friends.

W. D. McKAY

Louisville Alumni Chapter

Our alumni plan to install new officers at their first January meeting, succeeding Albert W. Kittinger, Kentucky, president, and the secretary.

L. V. Armentrout, Ohio State, was among the Louisville delegation who saw the Kentucky-Tennessee game and Kercheval's last All-American football appearance for State.

William L. Hoge, Washington & Lee, was on the Honest Vote Body to watch the polls during the mayoralty election.

Ralph Gardner, Brown, made the mistake of running for county attorney in Magoffin as a Democrat in an election that went substantially Republican.

The active mind behind the State Tax Reduction Association is George Holmes, Texas. His detailed review of methods used by Indiana and Tennessee to eliminate public expenditures was published recently in the Kentucky press.

We have reliable information that Bert Stansbury, Cincinnati, and Raymond G. Clark, Cornell, reached Chicago; but is it our fault that they should fail to present their delegates' credentials at the Karnea?

Now that J. J. Goodwin's junior has been pledged at State, we are looking forward to attendance of a certain Butler alumnus at meetings.

Lyons Brown and Gavin Cochran, both Virginia, were active in the Crusaders' campaign that gave repeal 154,000 majority in Kentucky.

Dr. E. K. McLain, Kansas, who has been in the City Health Department, probably will be affected by the Democratic city victory.

Any of you effete Easterners who think you might like to go part Wild West must come up to see us some time.

DONALD MCWAIN

Milwaukee Alumni Chapter

Plans for a regular alumni meeting are being worked out, and as soon as the Milwaukee alumni group get together again, we will have plenty of news.

D. E. Valentine, Wabash, '18, dropped into the office lately and is working for the Milwaukee Division of the A.A.A.A. During the last few years he has been connected with the Royal Motor Club of Toronto, and the Detroit Motor Club. At present he is living in Milwaukee with his wife and 16-year old son.

Bert Nelson of Illinois has been reported as joining the Northwestern Mutual, which is headed by Mike Cleary.

Brother Palfreyman of the Missouri chapter is managing the Goodrich Rubber Co. in Milwaukee.

A. C. Backus, Jr., Beta Gamma, '30, law school now practicing law in Milwaukee, addressed a large radio audience in November. The subject of his talk was concerned with "going on a spending spree" to aid the NRA.

Brother Klug, Beta Gamma, '32, the Milwaukee secretary, has been too modest to state that he is heading the Credit Exchange here in Milwaukee.

MILTON J. DRUSE

New York Alumni Chapter

For the next two years at least Delta Tau Delta in New York will be at home in the City Club's fine building at 55 West 44th Street, in the center of the metropolis and just around the corner from Rockefeller Centre. The Fraternity Clubs, of which we are a participating unit, thus are enjoying facilities which compare favorably with those to be found in any of the better metropolitan clubs—lounge, library, game room, main and private dining rooms, council room, executive offices, and accommodations for permanent residents or transient guests. Our hosts of the City Club are unusually active in civic and social affairs. We shall now participate in these with them.

During the summer we were temporarily quartered at the Town Hall Club. These changes in our home and fireside were directed by our own C. C. Harris, president of the Fraternity Clubs group.

Politics claimed the interest of several Delts in the last election. LeRoy Campbell, Delt president, won new laurels for himself in his campaign for justice of the municipal court, Ninth District, Manhattan. Running as a Democrat in the city's strongest Republican district, he led his ticket, although the final returns were insufficient to elevate him to the bench.

LeRoy crashed The Literary Digest when, as chief counsel to the Voluntary Defenders' Committee, he represented in court his 7000th client. He has since resigned to enter private practice with his brother at 49 Wall Street. Big Ten Delts in particular will remember Mr. Campbell as the one-time national and intercollegiate record-holder in the half-mile and captain of the University of Chicago track team.

Cyrus B. Austin, another of our legal lights of Democratic persuasion, has migrated to Washington, where he acts as counsel in the Department of Public Works Administration. Occasionally he visits his erstwhile associates here.

The Rev. "Bill" Blackshear, who as Major Wm. S. Blackshear is president of the Reserve Officers Association, U.S.A., Brooklyn Chapter, is sojourning temporarily in Freeport, Texas, and occupying the office of Archdeacon of Texas under Bishop Quinn (Episcopal).

Arthur Breyer of the Nebraska Breyers took an active part in the Fusion campaign which resulted in the election of Fiorello H. La Guardia, as did your correspondent. Both served as election district captains (ward-healers to you) and achieved considerable success.

HARRY W. McHose, Jr.

Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter

Since the 1933 Karnea in Chicago the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter has seemed to attract more of the old and young guard to its affairs. In conjunction with the rushing season at Pitt the alumni gave a barbecue party at the farm of Carl Mulert, Gamma Sigma, '22. The total attendance approached the 200 mark with 47 alumni, 50 active undergraduates, and the balance rushees. Two 100 pound roast pigs were completely eaten as well as all the trimmings. Much credit is due to Carl Mulert for the work he put into this party; he is surely responsible for an excellent outing. The local alumni feel that this affair contributed largely to the success of the Pitt chapter in its rushing.

Our new president, Harold Tharp, made a flying visit to Pittsburgh on October 28th and spoke at a special luncheon arranged in his honor. Some fifty local Delts were in attendance.

It is gratifying to all of us to see so many sons of Delts pledged in various colleges this fall. Right here in Pittsburgh we can account for six new pledges who come from real Delt families. Undoubtedly this is in some part due to the increased alumni interest all over the country in the recommendation of new men. The National Rushing Committee deserves much credit; their spirit has noticeably pervaded the Pittsburgh alumni group.

Much is in store for local Delts this winter—a stag party every six weeks is to be added to our calendar of activities, and at least three mixed parties are in the making. All these are in addition to our weekly luncheons on Friday.

CHARLES R. WILSON

Sioux City Alumni Chapter

The Sioux City alumni continued their weekly luncheons through the summer in order to give undergraduates who were home from school a chance to attend. We had a good attendance all summer, and the men did not get out of the Wednesday noon habit.

We are now making plans for our twenty-sixth annual All-Delt banquet and reunion, to be held during the Christmas holidays. This is our biggest annual affair and incidentally the largest fraternity event held in Sioux City. Invitations are extended to Delts in all the surrounding territory. This year we want to have the largest attendance in our history.

We recently had a luncheon in honor of Dr. Samuel Hoskins, a former member of the Sioux City Alumni Chapter now living in Honolulu. It was the first Delt affair he had attended since the Sioux City alumni tendered him a bon voyage dinner seven years ago. It was a pleasure to have him here, even though his visit was short.

We are planning on attending, in a body, the Founders' Day Celebration at the Delta Gamma chapter house. We also entertain Delta Gamma, our nearest chapter, at a stag party in Sioux City each year.

We feel that we were able to help the surrounding active chapters in rushing this year by continuing our luncheons during the summer. Again we want to urge visiting Delts to attend the Delt luncheons at the Elks' Club Wednesday noons.

WALTON H. HERMAN

Toledo Alumni Chapter

Since the untimely death of Lundy Parker, for years the president of the Toledo Alumni Chapter, we have been without a leader. Lundy alone was the guiding spirit of our chapter a leader whom we do not feel can be replaced; hence a lull in our activities.

Recently a feeling of "carry on for Lundy and Delta Tau" has seeped through among us; consequently we are planning a reorganization to be initiated by a novel parlor track meet to be held Dec. 6th. If this proves a success, we feel sure that the Toledo Alumni Chapter will not be stopped until it has reached the top.

May we dedicate this letter to the nucleus of our chapter in whom we see reflected that spirit left with us by Lundy—namely: Lyman Close, Erwin Weis, the Brown brothers, Herbert Sharp, Tom Christian, Ralph Baker, Doc Jackson, and "Doc" Johnston (even though he does come from Kansas).

Declares War Imminent

MU, '94

FRANCIS J. McCONNELL

The imminence of another war in Europe and the futility of war in general were the keynotes of half a dozen addresses at a meeting this afternoon in Union Square, where "the biggest book in the world," carrying a petition for universal peace, was "unveiled" and started on a tour of the country before being sent to the disarmament conference in Geneva under the auspices of World Peaceways, Inc.

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, formerly president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, predicted that there would be another war within three months "unless something is done soon to stop the present drift in Europe." The situation today is as critical, he declared, "as the dangerous days of 1914."—The New York Sun.

Sisler with the Browns Again?

DELTA, '15

GEORGE SISLER

St. Louis, Mo.—George Sisler, old Peerless George, back in the flannel of the Browns—not as a player, of course, but as one of Rogers Hornsby's lieutenants! That is one of the trimmings which may be offered the fans of the Mound City's American League club next season. No foolin'! Hornsby and Sisler teamed together; St. Louis' two most revered and most famous stars working side by side for a common cause! Who said romance had all been squeezed out of the old game?

Hornsby is known to be trying to interest Sisler in accepting a coaching job with the Browns. The Rajah, who aims to build up good will for the club as well as the playing forces, believes that Sis would make him a valuable man, along with Charley O'Leary, and there is a strong probability that the former first baseman will accept.—The Cincinnati Times-Star.

Doesn't Run for Office, but Wins

GAMMA EPSILON, '09

McALLISTER COLEMAN

Fairlawn, N. J.—McAllister Coleman, of Radburn, Socialist writer and lecturer, who ran for Assemblyman and also for Fairlawn Borough Councilman on the Socialist ticket, was defeated for both offices yesterday in the election, but to his surprise, was elected Justice of the Peace by a write-in vote.

No nominations had been made for the post, but thirty-eight citizens of Radburn and two from Fairlawn wrote Mr. Coleman's name in the "personal choice" column. His nearest competitor was William Seifert, an interstate bus driver, who polled seventeen votes.

Mr. Coleman said yesterday that his election "was a great surprise to him," and that all he knew about Justices of the Peace was gleaned from the experience of being "thrown in the can by three of 'em." Once, he said, he and Arthur Garfield Hays were jailed in Vintondale, Pa., for holding unauthorized street meetings to speak to coal diggers, and on two other occasions he faced them, in Meriden, Conn., and Fairmount, W. Va., on similar charges.

Mr. Coleman said he didn't know how he could post the bond of $25 which would be required of him before he could assume office unless he borrowed it from Heywood Brown. He's the only one I know who would loan it to me," he said.—The New York Herald-Tribune.

Some Speed!

CLYDE PARLETTE

What is believed to be a new all-time speed record for airplane travel between Chicago and Cleveland was established yesterday when Pilot Harry Bittleman of United Air Lines landed his ten-passenger Boeing plane at Cleveland Airport 90 minutes after taking off.

With Clyde Parlette as mate and Miss Frances Wilson as stewardess, Bittleman took off from Chicago at 6:30 p.m. with six passengers. At 7:34 the plane passed over Toledo Airport, and 26 minutes later it had landed here.

According to regular schedules, United Air Lines planes make the trip in 1 hour 56 minutes.—The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel

GAMMA MU, '24

O. H. SCHRADER

Major O. H. Schrader, for the last two years a member of the military staff of the University and assistant professor of military science and tactics, has received his promotion to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel of the United States Army.

In 1908, Schrader was graduated from Purdue with a degree in Electrical Engineering. Then, in 1913, he was graduated from the Coast Artillery school. Also at this school the Colonel was a graduate of the Field Officers' course in 1922. In 1923 he attended the Graduate Command and General Staff school. Finishing here, the Lieutenant Colonel, then a major, was elected to the General Staff eligible List. This list is composed of graduate officers of military schools all over the country who are eligible to officership in the United States Army in time of war.

At the present time, Colonel Schrader is a member of Delta Tau Delta social fraternity and Kappa Alpha Phi commerce fraternity. He is also a member of Scabbard & Blade, military honorary, and Square & Compass, collegiate masonic fraternity.

The Colonel is at present faculty adviser to the Delta Tau Delta campus fraternity and to the Scabbard & Blade, and is president of the Fraternity Faculty Advisers Association.—The Pitt News.

A Record in Bank Presidenting

BETA IOTA, '01

CHARLES E. PLUMMER

Charles E. Plummer, of Petersburg, has been president of three different national banks within three years. It is believed to be a record.

Mr. Plummer was elected president of the National Bank of Petersburg January, 1921, and served until the consolidation of that institution with the Virginia National Bank and Trust Company in October, 1931, at which time he was chosen president of the merged banks which was known as the First National Bank and Trust Company.

Following the liquidation of the First National, Mr. Plummer was elected president of the recently-organized Citizens' National Bank of Petersburg Oct. 3, 1933.—The Richmond News Leader.

Atlanta Mayor Wants Open Town

BETA EPSILON, '87

JAMES L. KEY

Atlanta.—James L. Key, mayor of this city, has won the backing of voters in another skirmish to make Atlanta an "open town."

Sunday baseball and Sunday movies both were approved in a city election for councilmen and aldermen—but the State law prohibits both. However, council members supporting the mayor are going to try ordinances on the subjects.

Mayor Key was outspoken against prohibition long before Congress acted. It will be recalled that, because of a declaration against prohibition made in France by Mayor Key, efforts were made to recall him. These failed. When 3.2 beer became legal in most States, Mayor Key's friends in city council had an ordinance passed so the city could get revenue from beer sales.

Jim Key was so liberal in his remarks on the question that his church requested that he either remain silent or give up the Sunday school which he had taught for years. He refused to do either, quit the church and moved his class into a large downtown theatre where he still teaches. Attendance increased after the incident.—The New York Evening Post.

Around the World in His Own Boat

CHI, '12,

RUFUS SOUTHWORTH

Dr. Rufus Southworth, Glendale, retired, known in Cincinnati as a traveler, announced Tuesday that he would leave early in November for a trip around the world in a three-masted schooner. Dr. Southworth, who retired from practice three years ago, stated that he planned to take a year and a half for the cruise.

The boat, rechristened the "Yankee," was built for the Dutch pilot service some years ago. It is built of solid oak, 92 feet long, and draws 11 feet of water. After service in the North Sea it was bought recently by Capt. Irving Johnson, Springfield, Mass., who sailed her across the Atlantic with 18 passengers aboard. Capt. Johnson, who will sail his boat around the world, was the captain of Shamrock V., Lipton's boat, on the return voyage to England after the cup races in America. Capt. Johnson, according to Southworth, is 30 years old and has taken boats around the "horn" and through the South Seas.

The Yankee will leave early in November for Panama. It will go through the Canal to Gallipagos Islands, to Easter Island, to the South Seas Islands, to Borneo, Singapore, Siam, across the Indian Ocean to Madagascar, to Cape Town, St. Helena Island, across the Atlantic to British Guiana, and thence to Gloucester. The object of the trip, Dr. Southworth said, was recreation and study. Two young women will accompany Mrs. Johnson, and there will be ten or twelve members of the passenger-crew who will sail the ship as well as enjoy the pleasures of travel. Dr. Southworth will act as crew physician.—The Cincinnati Times-Star.

Frank Praises Recovery Plan

BETA PI, '12

GLENN FRANK

Describing the agricultural revolt against the administration as on the decline, but criticizing the administration's farm policy, Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, hailed the Roosevelt recovery program yesterday as the "only available insurance policy for capitalistic industrialism in the United States" and the germ of a new "economic State."

He said he considered the administration's farm policy justifiable as a temporary measure, but declared the farmers showed a "healthy skepticism" toward a policy that asked them to take a check from Washington in return for a check on their efficiency. He criticized also the trend to "economic nationalism," saying that with the "civilized modern reverting to tribalism," this country held the key unlocking either fifty years of warring nationalism or a relatively peaceful world with relatively free exchange of goods.

Dr. Frank gave an interview at the Waldorf-Astoria and spoke later at the Town Hall, in the first of a series of talks arranged by the League for Political Education.

While he criticized the agricultural and nationalist phases of the Roosevelt policy, Dr. Frank said he was "completely in sympathy with and enthusiastic about the major objectives of the Roosevelt recovery program."

Dr. Frank expressed the belief that the Roosevelt administration would go down in history for two positions it has taken. The first, he said, was that "there must be a wider spread of buying power to build up an adequate and assured consumer market for the output of our economic system, which means a wider distribution of current national income." The second was "that some force, whether it comes out of business itself or out of the Federal Government, must impose on the economic system minimum policies respecting wages, hours, prices and profits that will insure a wide enough distribution of national income to provide a stable consumer market."

Dr. Frank saw the whole world in a trend toward creation of an "economic State inside or alongside of the political State."—The New York Times.

Some Runner, This One

RHO, '90

HENRY TORRANCE

We know a man who has a running uncle. The uncle runs home from work every night, and has for twenty years. He does not run directly home, however, but makes a big swing around the southern part of the island—starting at Christopher Street, usually heading south as far as City Hall, then up Broadway to East Seventeenth Street and supper.

This fleet homcomer is by name Henry Torrance, president of the Carbondale Machinery Company. Since 1927 Mr. Torrance has kept a log of his running, on a cost-estimate sheet. We have been permitted to glance through this log, and it is as impressive as it is cryptic. He runs, we added up, about a hundred miles a month, or between three and four miles every day. He wears no special togs, but just busts along in a business suit. When it rains, he runs with umbrella and rubbers. When he is carrying a bundle, he runs with that. Years ago, when the symptoms of running first became noticeable, his office was in the Hudson Terminal Building. He jogged home easily. Later, his office was moved to Christopher Street, an event which his nephew regarded as a merciful dispensation, figuring that the daily grind would be materially shortened. Greatly to people's surprise, the uncle began arriving home via Chambers Street, South Ferry, and other southern points. He tried the direct run once between Christopher Street and East Seventeenth, but it did not satisfy his advancing vigor and he found that he arrived home still wanting to run, which is a nuisance.

In the morning, on the way to work, he runs only a quarter of a mile, as that is the limit he can run and remain cool. If for any reason he is prevented from covering his usual three and a half miles in the evening, he broods about it and goes out next day and steps off twice the distance, to make up. The log sheet records that on 2 Nov. 29th he weighed 149 nude, that at an alumni celebration at Stevens Institute he covered 3 mi. against a stopwatch in 21 min., and that in Chicago a year and a half ago he logged four miles a day and at the end of the run ran up twenty-two flights of stairs in the Stevens Hotel. He is now sixty-three.—The New Yorker.

Leads Attack on Manchukuo Opium

BETA ETA, '00; BETA GAMMA, '03

STUART J. FULLER

Geneva.—The United States warned and protested with unusual vigor here today against the opium "menace" to it and to the world created by Manchukuo.

The American protest was made by Stuart Fuller of the State Department in the public session of the advisory opium commission.

The Japanese representative, M. Yokoyama, sat across the table smoking while Mr. Fuller told how Manchukuo was being encouraged to produce more opium by propaganda scattered from airplanes and by the display of Manchukuo money of "a beautiful poppy in full bloom" and while he made such statements as this:

"The laws and regulations which the régime set up under the present military occupation in Manchuria has promulgated are not only in contravention of Chinese law; they afford the most inadequate control, and the local illicit traffic is reported as constantly growing. Exploitation of Manchuria as a base for international illicit traffic will inevitably follow the introduction of Persian opium."

He gave Manchukuo budget figures showing that twice as much in opium profits was expected in 1934 as in 1933. He told how the local supply of opium had been stimulated; how the number of addicts was reported to have grown; how, despite this, many observers believed the supply "greatly exceeds" the local demands and how positive statements as to the intention to export into the illicit traffic in China and elsewhere abroad continued to be heard.

The Italian, Chinese and Polish delegates, who were the only other speakers, backed Mr. Fuller. The discussion will continue.—The New York Times.

BEN AMES WILLIAMS

Mischief. By Ben Ames Williams. E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.

Here is another tale of that homely little town in Maine which Mr. Williams has already made familiar to thousands of readers under the name of Fraternity. Its inhabitants are a simple, gossipy, homespun race, but crimes of passion and revenge are not unknown among them. Mr. Williams has found material in Fraternity for more than one of those stories which for lack of a more aptly descriptive term, must be classified as murder mysteries. Mischief is briefer than most, and scarcely exceeds a novelette in length, but it follows the familiar and popular pattern of Mr. Williams's previous tales.

Its plot development depends upon the delineation of a single character, the crippled little misanthrope known to his neighbors as Judd. Because he had been maimed as a child and because he had never in consequence attained his full stature or strength, Judd had grown bitter and warped of mind. He lived alone on his tiny farm, lavishing affection on his animals and venting his rancor upon his inoffensive neighbors. Because of his sly malice, because he delighted in contriving endless mischief, because he never forgot a slight or an injury and always set out to avenge it, and because he was too puny and insignificant to be violently dealt with, Judd was feared and tolerated by the men of Fraternity.

Jim and Bert Saladine incur the enmity of Judd over a trivial but humiliating quarrel in Will Bassett's grocery store, the village gathering place. Judd, helpless but implacable, nurses his injured pride and casts about for some subtle means of avenging himself. Trailing Bert, the younger Saladine brother, to what looks like a rendezvous with his estranged wife, Judd contrives to be on hand when a murder is discovered, and finds himself in possession of evidence pointing to the guilt of Bert Saladine. He savors his triumph in secret and lays his plans for the disgrace and destruction of the Saladines.

Mr. Williams has built up the atmosphere of his tale rather skillfully—the vast and sinister house known as the Castle, where the murder takes place; its two mysterious occupants, one of them the lovely woman whom Bert Saladine had married, the other her insane sister who was the victim of the brutal stabbing; the dismal and remote swamp where the murderer meets his gruesome end. Although these are all rather well-worn stage properties, they are effective, nevertheless. The conclusion of the story is done with somewhat heavy-handed irony. Judd's plots defeat themselves after a fashion that might be regarded as poetically just, and accomplish in the end Judd's own destruction as well.—The New York Times.

ALPHA, '93

FREDERICK PALMER

With My Own Eyes. By Frederick Palmer. The Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis.

Only the dove of peace has seen more wars than Frederick Palmer. He has spent the last three dozen years breathing the smoke of battle and writing about the futility and the treacherous excitement of it. Today he is a pacifist and philosopher. He hopes for a generation that will learn something durable from the carnages of history. He ends this fine, thoughtful book of the battles he has seen on that hope. The words expressing it must have been written very shortly before he took ship for Cuba, where he has recently been doing his usual, splendid job as a war correspondent, one of the most illustrious of them all.

It is particularly appropriate that Colonel Palmer should be in Cuba this year watching that historic repetition. He was in the Klondike in the days when what he calls "the society of the first man up San Juan Hill" was being born of crowding necessity. That theatre of the war with Spain was one of the few conflicts he missed in his adult lifetime. He covered the Greco-Turkish War of 1896, the Philippine campaign, the Boxer Rebellion, the Russo-Japanese War, an assortment of sanguinary affairs in Central America, the first and the second Balkan Wars, and incidental occasions of murderous diplomacy. They are all in this book.

When Europe burst into the flames he happened to prophesy in one of his best books, "The Last Shot," Colonel Palmer was promptly on hand. Kitchener's autocratic delay in accrediting correspondents gave him time he had to spend partly in London. There he noted mordantly the duchess known as the body snatcher "because her ambulances carried on a feud to get the handsomest of the wounded British officers." Such incidents illustrate war's glories. Finally, when the British Government decided to allot just one American correspondent to the headquarters of their army in France, Palmer was chosen, with "no enthusiasm," he remarks in cheerful candor, by the heads of the rival and diverse American press associations all frantic to have men at the front. They were handsome enough to say that since they had to agree on a man, it was a pleasure to name Palmer. Fairfax Downey's life of Richard Harding Davis, published a few weeks ago, rather ungenerously comments on that choice, because Davis would have given his eye teeth to get the appointment. It is a measure of Palmer's stature that in this book all his remarks about Davis are complimentary. Anyway, long before the war was over, all the correspondents, from Westbrook Pegler, youngest of the lot, to John McCutcheon and Irvin Cobb, who rode out in a taxicab from Brussels to see the Belgian Army and got captured by the Germans, had seen as much of it as they could use.

General Pershing gave Palmer a job he says he hated. He made him Chief Censor of the A. E. F. That was worse than war; it was a mandate to give up old friends, it was to become "a snapping turtle with his shell nailed down." His old associates called him fourteen kinds of a scoundrel, three times a day. It was quite moving, in these pages, to see Colonel Palmer's anguish as he recalls the harrowing things he had to do to the rich, beautiful prose some of the correspondents wrote, because as censor he was forced to do so. When he finally got his release he breathed such relief as almost ruffles the pages of his reminiscences.

The formal story of these years is in Colonel Palmer's "Newton D. Baker: America at War," which appeared two years ago this Autumn. This book is concerned with his inside view of the forces, largely martial, that have shaped the history of this country since the Nineties, as well as the history of the world. He still believes that President Wilson should have made his appeal directly to the soldiers, for Colonel Palmer distrusts statesmen almost as much as statemen distrust one another. He is a pacifist who is here on the side of the men of war. He calls Lloyd George some interesting things, and says "his god seemed to me to be a gyrating Janus," and his Keynesian flow of disapprobation for that thinker includes the note that Lloyd George, as "the war's playboy rode in royal state in his own special train surrounded by his suite—which included young men who ought to have been in the trenches—while King George was content with one private car."

This book is not entirely martial, though the stain is deep. The chapter on Colonel Palmer's adventure in covering the Alaska gold rush is a stirring account of hardships and excitement on one of the last of our perpetually vanishing frontiers. He writes engagingly about T. R. in the White House, and about the Canal Zone with and without Roosevelt on the scene. He tells about his temporary ostracism by the muckrakers when he had the temerity to write a piece called "One Kind Word for John D." It must have been received about as kindly as a piece praising tourist conditions under Mussolini's fascism would be received today by the members of the John Strachey Local No. 1 in New York. He saw Diaz on the verge of toppling over from the Mexican throne, he saw King Edward entering upon his inheritance. He was in Ireland at the close of the Sinn Fein rebellion, and Michael Collins told him that he had to make peace and accept the Irish Free State because, "he said that he had run out of volunteers who were doers as well as talkers against the Black and Tans."

Episodes that might be stretched into full books remain episodes here. We should like to read a volume by Colonel Palmer developing his idea that Central America's problems cannot be solved to their own satisfaction merely by the withdrawal of American interests. His chapter on Dewey, "The Nineties Hero," is written with a balance based on personal knowledge of the man's early reserve and excellence, and the public spectacle of his decline and fall, that goes a long way toward setting Dewey straight in perspective. Here Mr. Palmer's objective view of the things he has seen, weighed with a kind of Henry Adamsian objectivity for their value to one man's education, are at their best. It is very good best, and it has made a book that may be commended to every one.—The New York Times

Lagniappe

Unless you come from around New Orleans, Brother, you don't know what "lagniappe" means. It's the thirteenth banana thrown in for good measure when you buy a dozen.

No magazine ever did such a thing as this in all the history of magazines. That's one reason we're doing it. What happened was this: the cussed thing has to come out even pages before we can start with the Calendar. For ten years we've managed to sidestep this horrible contingency. This time it got us down. So, instead of camouflaging, we're coming right out and admitting that we are nachally in a jam.

Of course, we could print our own picture, or a picture of our Airedale dog, or even a picture of Beany Beck. But probably you wouldn't thrill to any of 'em very much—except maybe the dog.

If we only had had that Northern Division Conference advance dope, it would have come out just right. Or if about four of the birds who went to sleep at the switch about chapter letters hadn't gone to sleep, that would have made it. But we didn't have, and they did go.

Anyway, here's a thought. It came to us while we were reading proof. (We do read it. Solemn oath. Whenever there's a typographical error in these pages, it's the printer's fault.) You know, this is about the best natured number of THE RAINBOW we ever read. Not our stuff—the little flashes here and there in the chapter letters and the alumni notes. Not forced humor, either. Just the natural ebullition that comes from people who have a deep conviction that things, generally speaking, are going along pretty darned well. That's a great feeling in any day or time, and it's especially a great feeling for a fraternity in this day and time.

There's your extra banana.

Now if the correspondents—active chapter, alumni chapter, even alumni contributing editors—will kindly glance to the right and observe that the next mailing deadline is February 1st, and then remember it, and then make good on it—who knows? Maybe it's a good thing that the pages did come out wrong.

—Ed.

The Chapter Officer Wears A Special Charm

THE DISTINCTION which the Chapter Officer holds in his fraternity has inspired us to create a new and different charm in parchment scroll design to symbolize his office. The cleverly-designed chapter office mountings form the key ends and indicate the office which the wearer proudly holds.

10K Solid Gold-Encrusted Sterling

This Unique combination of precious metals (the front quarter of solid gold and the back of sterling silver) is a new and original development combining the beauty of solid yellow gold with the economy of sterling silver.
