VOLUME LXI . . . NUMBER 2

JANUARY . 1938

Delta Tau Delta is a constructive adjunct to the system of higher education. Her objective is to educate, contributing to the young men within her sphere of influence a moral, spiritual, and social development commensurate with the intellectual training supplied by the colleges and universities.

One Moment, Please

You are invited to pause for a brief preview before proceeding through the pages of the January, 1938 number.

From an educational institution, well known throughout the country, is given a review of the success in placing the University and Fraternity in Coöperation.

The press, the radio, the motion-picture theater, and periodicals have heralded during the past two months the innovation of a full-length cartoon motion picture. The pen of one of the animators, a Delt, presents A Trip Through Disney's Studio, as well as sketches of established and new characters.

Summer Slalom is a seasonal presentation, although its description dates to the time of year when Americans are more concerned with the seashore than with skiing. Two Delts, having tasted of the excitement and pleasure of skiing on the snow slopes in this country, decided to ski in summer, and tell of their experiences in the Tyrolean Alps.

A Delt, who has served as both artist and executive in the field of radio during its phenomenal advance into the life of America, cites an example of the growth of this great industry.

All members of the Fraternity will review with pride the figures that present for $\Delta T \Delta$ —Scholarship Advances.

From the Editor's Mailbag gives you notes and quotations by or about alumni with whom your acquaintance may have a personal touch.

The thought, "university and fraternity in coöperation," is continued in the department, Around the Fireplace with Good Delts, wherein is presented the address of Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase to the Twenty-Ninth Annual Interfraternity Conference.

For the department, The Delt Authors, Colonel Frederick Palmer, National Librarian, reviews a book which he has read a second time—a treatment of a new book which he acknowledges is unusual for him.

The correspondents of the undergraduate chapters give their first report of the current college year in The Delt Chapters. Pictorially, this department, under the heading Delt Doings, presents "shots" of varied activities in undergraduate life.

For those alumni who did not find their chapter's pledge list in the November number there are many additions herewith.

Several short articles and the regular departments not mentioned above complete the number.

University and Fraternity in Coöperation at Northwestern

By ELIAS LYMAN

Chairman of the Board of Personnel Administration, Northwestern University

BEFORE 1913 the fraternity housing system at Northwestern was perhaps not as far advanced as at other American colleges. A few fraternities leased houses; other groups owned sites and had accumulated building funds; one or two organizations owned houses but there was not an established system of ownership representing investments which could retard the coöperation of the fraternity and the University in a common housing scheme. The University owned no modern dormitory units, for which the need was, for the first time, making itself felt.

In this situation the University, under the leadership of President Abram W. Harris, suggested to the fraternities a plan for the development of a residential campus for men. A plot of ground north of the academic campus would be set aside on which the University would erect a house of approved and uniform pattern for any recognized fraternity that would advance 25 per cent of the building cost. The quadrangular plan was laid out; on each quadrangle space was assigned for fraternity houses and for open house dormitories of similar type. When erected the group house would be leased on a long term basis with provision for regular interest and amortization payments to the University for the remaining 75 per cent of the building cost. These payments were distributed on a long term basis to reduce the carrying loads to the groups. At the end of this period the fraternity would have paid the entire cost of the building and would be indebted to the University only for a nominal ground rental. The title would remain in the hands of the University.

This plan was initiated in 1912 with three partial quadrangles laid out. Seven groups coöperated in the erection of houses and four university dormitories of similar size and design were erected. This entire group was opened in 1913. The groups were Sigma Chi, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Kappa Psi, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Upsilon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Scribblers (now Phi Gamma Delta). Within two years Sigma Nu and Wranglers built under the plan. The dormitories were named for early presidents and benefactors of the University; Hinman, Haven, Foster and Lindgren. At later dates three other groups, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Kappa Sigma, and Lambda Chi Alpha, have joined the coöperative plan and built similar houses; one new dormitory, Goodrich House, has been added by the University. Each house was complete in its facilities with residence, social and dining space, although the University reserved the right to prohibit fraternity tables if a central commons should be erected. No such commons has been erected although the residents of the open dormitories eat in a common hall. The original house cost from $35,000 to $45,000, and accommodated from 27 to 40 men.

In 1936-1937, twelve fraternities were housed on the Men's Campus while eight smaller and newer groups were still struggling under the handicap of rented houses off the campus.

View of Fraternity Quadrangle, Northwestern University

Meanwhile building costs had so increased that a new house of established type would cost the fraternity from $75,000 to $90,000. It became apparent that the off-campus fraternities under the rushing handicaps imposed by their less desirable locations could not look forward to the strength which would enable them to move on the campus. From the point of view of both fraternity and university, off-campus housing was undesirable socially, financially, and physically. A study of the situation led to the proposal by the University to build, under the old conditions of tenure, a new type of campus fraternity house less expensive, smaller, and semi-detached. The five stronger off-campus groups, Acacia, Pi Kappa Lambda, Theta Xi, Phi Epsilon Pi and Phi Mu Delta eagerly coöperated in the new plan. A group of five houses was erected and occupied in the fall of 1937. The new houses hold about 24 men each; the fraternities occupying them definitely and clearly committed themselves to a type of organization smaller than the normal Northwestern fraternity which comprised 50-75 men including its commuting members.

In 1926 the coöperative plan was extended to the sororities and today the two quadrangles on the South Campus contain 16 sorority houses and two open dormitories with a larger freshman dormitory in the process of erection. Northwestern sororities and fraternities are today all housed in these noncompetitive houses on the campus with the exception of three or four groups of men and as many of women who have not yet become sufficiently established to permit building. These groups comprise between 50 to 60 per cent of Evanston undergraduate population of approximately 4500 students, including commuters. The proportion of resident students who are affiliated is greater. It is doubtful whether the University today will approve the establishment of any additional groups except on the condition of their ability to maintain themselves in the uniform housing system.

This physical plan with its incident coöperation has set the pattern for university-fraternity relationships in Evanston. The plan ensured a uniform group of organizations, eliminated false competitive standards, and made inevitable a respect and neighborliness among the groups themselves, between the groups and the unaffiliated open houses, and between the groups and the University. The immediate effect was the formation of strong Interfraternity and Panhellenic organizations. Common campus interests led to the formation of strong interfraternity alumni groups with whom the University could maintain a close relationship, such groups as the Quadrangle Association among the women and the University-Fraternity Board among the men. This latter organization, composed of legal representatives of the various house corporations, meets monthly with the representatives of the University to talk over problems of common interest. Problems of policy are frankly discussed, giving the fraternity an understanding of university policy and the University a contact with the public opinion of the fraternity group.

Another type of coöperation has recently come out of these relationships. Several years ago the University centralized all financial relationships with its students in the Student Finance Office. A contrast became apparent between the success of University collections in the new office and the difficulty of collections under the slipshod methods in use in certain organizations. As a result, the University offered to the groups the voluntary use of its collection facilities for a small fee. Collections for room and board items and basic fraternity fees are made by the Finance Office and the proceeds turned over to the fraternity. Four groups took advantage of this coöperation in 1936-1937, the first year it was offered. During the present year, every group except four is using the service. This coöperation is welcomed by the University which has felt for some time that haphazard financial habits among student groups are educationally demoralizing.

The situation here at Northwestern, as I have attempted briefly to describe it, is in our opinion, a happy one, but of course is not a final solution of all fraternity problems nor of all questions of fraternity-university relationship. However, the system offers definitely a vantage point from which the whole problem of the relationship of the fraternity to the modern education system may be advantageously studied.

There has never been a time when the question of this basic relationship is as crucial as it is today because there has appeared for the first time in concrete form a dangerous competitor to the fraternity system. American education under the influence of the personnel ideal has recently been seeking new organizational forms which will contribute equally to the social and personal development, the physical well-being, and the academic growth of the student. In this search Yale and Harvard have turned to adaptations of the English college system and have developed new forms of undergraduate units, the houses or colleges, which are instruments for the development of students socially, physically, and educationally in conformity with the University's ideals.

In the majority of American colleges, the fraternity has long established itself as the most important social and housing unit, fulfilling a function in which the college perhaps was not primarily interested. The new house or college system must be regarded as a competitor of the fraternity system in that it takes over the social and housing programs whose educational importance the universities are increasingly recognizing. The new system becomes a peculiarly dangerous competitor in that it adds to its social and housing function a new academic function integrated with the existing academic system of the university. The new house or college is a general purpose unit serving the physical, social, and educational functions of the university which fosters it; the fraternity is a two-purpose unit only, as its educational purposes, when they do exist, are independent of the academic system.

The recognition of this competition is essential for the fraternity and for any university which supports the fraternity system. The advantage of the fraternity lies in the fact that it is established on the ground and entrenched in the financial security which many universities would prefer to use rather than to oppose. If the fraternity can draw somewhat closely to the university and can duplicate the educational advantages of the house or college by adapting itself to coöperation with the academic system, it need fear no supplanting. If the fraternity refuses to adapt itself to this new competition it will forfeit the advantages of its established position.

The responsibility for working out the forms of this increasing adaptation lies not alone with the fraternity but with those universities, of which Northwestern is one, who have been in sympathy with the fraternity system. The forms can only be worked out by experimentation by intelligent leaders on both sides who realize that the future of the fraternity system lies, not in its loss of identity to the university, but in the recognition of its identity of interest with the educational system.

A Trip Through Disney's Studio

By OLIVER M. JOHNSTON, Beta Rho (Stanford), '35

I FIND IT a trifle difficult to get started. My last appearance in this magazine was in the capacity of Corresponding Secretary. That was easy—Joe Blow is out for football; so-and-so is a junior manager with great hopes; the scholastic average is much better this quarter; the house pledged ten men—really a bunch of nuggets and so on.

There are two questions which everyone asks us concerning our work at Disney's.

First: Are you crazy?

Second: How do you make them move?

I'll answer the second one first. If you'll just step inside the low white stucco buildings of the Disney Studio with me, I'll show you a little of what goes on during the process of making them move.

We work with a glass centered drawing board under which there is a light. This makes it possible to see through several sheets of paper and refer to preceding drawings as you work ahead. This process is called animating. The animator (that's what I am) lays out the key drawings of the action, usually about every fourth one. The remaining ones are filled in by the newer men. The speed of the action is determined by the amount of movement between one drawing and the next. When the pencil drawings in a certain scene or action have been completed by the animator and fill-in man, they are sent out to the camera to be photographed. Walt Disney then sees this pencil test in one of the projection rooms—aptly named "sweatboxes."

Perhaps if I traced a picture through from start to finish you could see that we have fun making them move.

We'll start in a unit of the Story Department. About six fellows are working on a story. They find that they can work better while throwing darts. Occasionally one of them will give birth to an excellent idea while playing the marble machine at the lunch counter across the street. Some of them even go up to the high school game on the corner; so that in case we ever make a football picture they'll have some ideas. Yes, the animators go and watch the games too, because Walt Disney really might make a football picture sometime.

Anyway, after we all got back

from the game, the story unit got busy and whipped a story into the stage where it could be presented to the director and animators who are to work on it. This is the first of a series of meetings on the picture.

In the first story meeting on a picture the theme is presented to us by a member of the story crew. After he has gone over the story we go back over the weak spots, building personality and comedy into the characters. You find yourself becoming wrapped up in some part of the story, and eager to get to your desk and start drawing. You want to put the characters through the antics that you have discussed in the meeting. You see a chance for some comedy, a bit of cute action, or perhaps pathos with some subtle bit of natural action. You aren't thinking of the quarter of an inch you will move an arm from one drawing to another, but of how you can make the pencil lines act for you. Especially, if there is dialogue in the scene, you will get up in front of a full-length mirror and act out the movements. The character must not talk with his mouth alone, but with his whole body. The dialogue is always recorded before the animation is done, but sound effects and music usually come afterwards.

The animator, although he does not act before an audience, must be an actor, and be able to project life into the character.

After the first story meeting the gag men take the new points brought out in discussion and build them into the story, strengthening it and unifying it. A week or so later the animators are called in on another meeting, and the finer points are worked out. The animators must feel the personalities of the characters—how they will act or react in certain situations. Unless all of the animators feel the characters in the same way, the story cannot be consistent. That is the purpose of the meetings.

After the final story conference, the director takes the picture into his music room and prepares it for the actual animation. He starts to work with a music director to prepare a rough timing of the picture and the musical score. They begin by approximating the length of each scene; by a trial and error method they arrive at a definite conclusion as to the length of each scene in the picture, and the type and tempo of the music, which will subsequently accompany it. The director is allotted about 750 feet of film for a picture. When you figure that 90 feet of film whirls through the projector a minute, you realize he has to time his picture with great care. Too much or too little time in one spot may destroy the mood. After he has finished timing the picture and he has decided on the background layouts, he calls the animator in to pick up the scene or sequence he is to animate. The director will act out the situation in detail until he feels that the animator is sure of what he is to do. There are usually several others in on this director-animator conference who express their views on how the sequence should be animated. This group usually consists of an ice-cream man, a dart thrower, an errand boy looking for empty film cans, and two or three visitors to the studio, who have become separated from their guide.

The director must see that the different elements of the picture, such as music, sound effects, dialogue, animation and background are combined to give the best possible results.

The pencil lines that I make are never seen on the screen, but are transferred by tracing to sheets of celluloid. This is done with ink lines. The opaque colors of the character are then applied to the reverse side of the celluloid, which are then sent to the camera department. The purpose of transferring the drawing to celluloid is to make possible the superimposing of the celluloid over a scenic background, thus creating a composite picture, which gives the illusion of the character working in the stage setting. It takes from 10,000 to 15,000 drawings to make one picture. Each one of these is photographed individually.

Walt Disney believes that by training his men properly and finding out their strongest points that all concerned will benefit. For this reason he has an elaborate training system; he maintains an art school with classes every night, and at various times has classes on story construction. The new men are required to learn the technical side of the business, as well as their specialty.

This stress upon training proves itself, especially in the full-length cartoons soon to be released at our studio. The men must rise to new heights in these pictures to meet the more exacting requirements. Our first full-length cartoon, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs is based almost entirely on natural action. Of course, we exaggerate it and keep the fantasy which sets the cartoons apart from the regular movies. Snow White was in production for nearly four years. The idea crystallized in 1933, when they began working on the story. The total cost of the picture has run well over $1,000,000 as compared to $50,000 for a Mickey Mouse or Silly Symphony short subject.

I hope this has given you somewhat of a visual picture of how we work, and how a picture progresses before it reaches you. At this point I find myself up to my eyebrows in copy, so shall resort to making a few sketches.

Incidentally, I was going to tell you whether or not we are crazy. That's just like me to forget that and now I haven't got enough room to tell you. Well—maybe THE RAINBOW will ask me for another article sometime—then I'll answer you.

Presenting from a finished drawing, "Bashful," one of the characters in Snow White.

Summer Slalom

By ROBERT G. FERGUSON and JOHN A. GWYNN, Tau (Penn State), '32

WE DREAMED of leaning forward over a pair of skis with the cold wind rushing past your face as you twisted and turned to control your descent on the steep slopes of the Austrian Alps—or perhaps pausing from a difficult climb and gazing back on your trail as you regain your normal breathing, only to follow the trail of your guide towards higher peaks—all the time acquiring that deep bronze color to give you the “healthy outdoor look.” These were only a few of the thoughts in our minds as we read about summer skiing in the Austrian Tyrol.

Perhaps after you have tried Tuckerman's Ravine on the side of Mt. Washington; Nose Dive Trail down Mt. Mansfield; Hell's Highway on Mt. Moosilauke; Eastern Canada's Laurentian Mountains; or Mt. Hood and Mt. Rainier on the Western Coast, you might yearn to try the distant and inviting Alps.

“For approximately twenty-five dollars a week,” the literature read, “you can stay high in the Austrian Alps and enjoy good skiing as late as August!” This figure included three meals a day, a bed in the dormitory (Herren Matrazenloger), hire of skis, luggage transportation from Sölden to the Siegerlandhütte and return, and daily ski instruction combined with the services of Guide Shöpf for climbing trips.

After a six-day Atlantic crossing we landed in Cobh, Ireland, and a week later arrived in London. Moving independently we left Paris some ten days later and boarded the Budapest Express, bound for the little Austrian village of Otztal. Traveling by night in order to save time, we rolled through Basel, Zurich, and Buch in Switzerland, then through the famous St. Anton Pass to reach the small and obscure Austrian village of Imst—midway between Innsbruck and the Swiss border.

Only trainmen and a sleepy station agent presented themselves, as we sat

EDITOR'S NOTE: *Robert G. Ferguson is Secretary of Philadelphia Alumni Chapter. Ferguson and the co-author, John A. on a bench to await the arrival of the local milk train to take us to our railroad destination of Otztal. Our arrival there amidst the milk cans at five o'clock in the morning seemed to surprise the station agent, but we took over the deserted waiting room which was soon filled with the echoes from two horizontal forms stretched on the wooden benches.

Early morning activity awakened us an hour and a half later and we walked away from the station with our first Tyrolean sunrise showing over the Mountains. There was something “lasting” about that picture. The railroad had followed the path of the river after emerging from the half mile St. Anton Tunnel and ran along a beautiful valley surrounded by towering peaks. The clouds covered some of these peaks while others revealed patches of distant snow.

The morning air was clear and fresh and brought the cooling scent of the Alpine Meadows. You couldn't help standing and enjoying the sunrise, watching the gray edges of the distant ridges grow brighter.

Before us stood the Tyrol Hotel (there is one in every village) backed by green trees and a flower garden. A native in the picturesque outfit of the country was preparing tables under the pine trees before the hotel. It was our first glimpse of Austria—and we liked it!

The Austrian countryfolk dress with a great deal of harmonious color. Perhaps no two articles of a girl's outfit would be the same color—shoes, stockings, skirts, waists, jackets, scarfs, and head dress, all different shades. The men wear leather shorts supported by those Tyrolean suspenders, colored shirts, and perhaps a felt hat streamlined by a large colorful feather.

In a short time we were eating our breakfast in the hotel and trying our meager knowledge of German on the little Austrian girl who served us. The “Continental breakfast” was in order here and we felt the substitution of one of our good American meals would be an improvement. However, it was a case of “When in Austria, do as the Austrians do” so we filled up on bread and tea. When we attempted to increase the order by adding eggs, we learned the high cost of them prohibited their general use.

At nine o'clock our bus arrived to take us the next sixty miles southward to the village of Sölden, our destination for that day. We hadn't gone very far in our touring-car bus before we realized what was ahead for us. The road, originally laid out by some wandering herd of goats and cows, followed the winding trail of the river. Parts of the road were cut out of the face of cliffs, other sections crossed through fields, and we passed through small towns pausing to pick up and discharge passengers. We, the only "foreigners" on the bus, received many glances and if we had been better able to understand the quick remarks, would probably have heard our presence discussed.

Now and then the road crossed the river which roared below. Small wooden bridges supported us across some of these, and we often wondered if our bus would prove too much of a strain on their slim structures. We could only hope for the best. The driver knew every turn in the road and drove with the utmost confidence in his ability to make all of the turns and not to meet anybody while driving around the blind curves. It wasn't a question of keeping over on his side of the road. There was only one space and that was in the middle. Like a one track trolley system, frequent wide spots afforded an opportunity to share the road, but it meant pulling over to the edge with only a few small stones to mark the brink between you and the river below. By looking over the sides of the car you could obtain an unobstructed view below, the roadway being completely hidden by the side of the car.

Apparently our driver worked in coöperation with the few cars we passed. Speeding towards each other on single tracks, both drivers would simultaneously slacken speed, skid a little on the loose dirt, and then turn out to almost scrape hub caps in passing. Once an error in judgment caused our driver to back up about twenty feet much to his disgust.

Further thrills were added by suddenly encountering a herd of cows on one of the turns, and for a moment we felt the sliding wheels wouldn't take hold soon enough to prevent catching up with the foremost cow which was making a vain effort to retrace its steps.

Coming out of a tunnel while rounding a curve some goats were found grazing in the middle of the road. Putting the cows to shame, they showed us the fastest method for climbing rocks which we had ever seen. One unfortunate fellow, caught on the river side of the road, was forced out on a projecting rock with his four feet clinging to a space the size of a hat. His bleating was cut short as we threw up a screen of dust over the peaceful grazing ground of a few seconds ago.

Several hours on this road brought us to the little Austrian village of Sölden, nestled in the center of the highest Tyrol peaks. Here the Hotel Tyrol offered us a good place to spend the night as they advised against starting the climb that day to Siegerland-hütte, which was 10,000 feet above.

That night we learned another Tyrolean custom in bed-making. A large and voluminous bed quilt was on top of the bed turned back to cover only the lower part. The edges of the sheets were carefully brought up and placed on top of the bed, leaving the sheets merely resting there reminding you of those cold winter nights when the sheets would come out and expose your feet to the night air. We learned the large fluffy cover rolled down on you, completely covered you and as long as you stayed in the center of the bed, perhaps there would be no leaks along the edges.

Getting off to an early start next morning, we followed the short foot-path through the meadow to the base of the mountain. Here we began our climb which was to take us over 10,000 feet in about 10 miles.

As we climbed with our cameras over our shoulders, the early morning sun was just breaking over the highest peaks. Cows and goats tended by a small boy, headed for the Alpine pastures just ahead. This time the cows took the right of way forcing us to leave the narrow trail in order to pass them.

We paused to watch a small boy drive a herd before him, cracking a long whip around his head to guide the erring goats. A mountain stream roared along to our right cutting its path among the boulders and trees. Numerous cascades poured their waters down the sheer sides of high cliffs, giving the river its great velocity.

Soon the rise flattened and we had reached the Alpine Meadows. Beautiful green pastures dotted with frame cottages greeted our eyes. Wild Alpine roses or alpenrosen showed a rich red and pink color, contrasting with the green background.

Occasionally we passed a peasant carrying a great load on his back. Old men with long gray hair supported a basket on their shoulders which we would hesitate to lift. Although their steps were slow and measured, they paused only to greet us with Gut Morgen.

Leaving the delightful Alpine Meadows with their lovely fragrance, we pressed on towards the distant snow line. Just under the ten thousand foot elevation we saw our first glacier. Here was real snow where only a short time before we were in fields dotted with flowers. Here was one of the marvels of the Austrian Alps—from summer to winter in a few hours!

Exchanging a few snowballs to convince ourselves it was genuine, we paused to apply a thick layer of grease on our faces and necks and get out our snow goggles. At this altitude, snow burns and blindness are not uncommon.

We felt an unusual strangeness, being surrounded by snow fields and towering white peaks. In the distance small black spots seemed to move across the white surface and a tiny square appeared to be our hütte. After a brief rest and some nourishment in the form of chocolate bars, we stepped out with renewed vigor, our goal being only a few miles ahead. We could see the ski class maneuvering on the slopes high above us and the hütte grew into a stone house capable of accommodating forty people. Our arrival was greeted with a yodeling from the more distant group, but our efforts at replying made us realize yodeling wasn't something you do on the first attempt.

Our companions for the next week introduced themselves. About twenty young men and women from London; a young couple from Sudan, Africa; a native Hollander; several Germans; two New Yorkers; and our three Guides and Ski Instructors. Two cooks and a maid comprised the rest of the staff.

Our windows overlooked the glaciers below and around us. The peaks dotted the skyline showing only the unbroken surface to an otherwise white blanket.

The afternoon offered skiing, climbing, sun bathing or resting, and the crowd split up among these various sports. Feeling ambitious enough to begin our ski lessons, our guide took us in charge to determine our ability to do the Stem Turn, à la Austrian. We took the easier slopes as our leg muscles were in no shape for any great ascents that day. Soon a bank of clouds swept in from the Italian Border and the wind blew cold. That June night we had a fresh fall of snow to provide a powder blanket over the old tracks and sitzmarks. This was repeated every night, and each morning we skied on an unbroken surface.

An hour's climb brought you to the ridge marking the boundary of the Italian border. Below was the valley once Austrian and now Italian. Signs forbid the taking of pictures although the nearest authority to start an argument was eight thousand feet below. It was really the low clouds hanging in the valley which deterred one from taking pictures at that location. From this point a long shuss would take you almost to the hütte, giving plenty of opportunity to practice your turns as you cut back and forth to check your speed.

The next five days were paradise to the skier. Following your own dictates you could climb, ski, sunbathe, read, rest or any combination you desired. When you reached the signs of fatigue, there was always the hütte below waiting with its warm meals and comfortable fire.

The evenings were spent in singing with the aid of our guide and his guitar. Two American songs were available, My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean, and On a Bicycle Built for Two. Others were often attempted but these two were certain to be heard along with the native songs of the mountains. Card games, reading, postcard and letter writing, ping-pong, and conversation supplied the other forms of relaxation. English, German, and Dutch filled the air at the same time and the linguist could take his choice. Good skiers retire early after spending the day on the slopes so by nine o'clock only the fire remained in the big living room.

But all good things must end, and all too soon we found ourselves heading down the Mountain, waving to those more fortunate ones who were able to stay. Clouds soon swallowed up the hütte and the distant yodels faded away as we made our way down through the snow to the Alpine Meadows and thence to our Tyrol Hotel in the village.

Too soon it was all over and before we realized it, our week of skiing at Sölden was behind us. With cameras grinding, we rode toward the railroad station at Otztal. Since then we have relived the trip many times in that pleasant valley, the Land of Gemütlichkeit.

It Happened in Hollywood

By SYDNEY DIXON, Gamma Mu (Washington), '23

THE National Broadcasting Company dedicated its new half-million dollar studios and office building in Hollywood December 15, 1935. At the time this studio was dedicated, it was as modern and complete a plant for the broadcasting of radio programs as existed anywhere in the world. This plant is less than two years old, but for the past six months everyone connected with the National Broadcasting Company in Hollywood has been saying, "Well, when are we going to get out of the old building?"

This illustrates the tremendously rapid growth of broadcasting nationally and the importance of Hollywood to the radio industry. This might lead people to believe that the broadcasting industry has been shortsighted and not anticipating this tremendous growth, made it necessary for the National Broadcasting Company to invest another two million dollars in a new NBC plant in Hollywood. No one could anticipate such a rapid growth, as there is not another parallel in modern business. Why has it happened? It is certainly true that the business centers of the United States, as a whole, are still located in the East, but it is also true that Southern California is probably the largest reservoir of talent in the entire world. This is true for a number of reasons. First of all, the motion picture industry has its many ramifications and requirements for which it has to draw on the entire world. The very fact that the primary job of both moving pictures and radio is to entertain meant that sooner or later they would be working and drawing on each other for the personalities capable of supplying this entertainment.

Many people have asked me this past year whether I thought this trend of radio towards Hollywood would be a lasting thing. In my opinion, there is no doubt but that Hollywood in the next few years will be even more im-

EDITOR'S NOTE: *Sydney Dixon received his educational background in Seattle, Washington, where he attended the public schools and the University of Washington. portant as a radio center than it has been up to the present time. It is Hollywood's business to supply entertainment for the world and it does not appear at the present time that Hollywood's position in this respect is going to be supplanted. The tremendous investment in the business of supplying entertainment which has been made in Hollywood is assurance against Hollywood's losing its position in the entertainment sun. This investment is composed of not only the companies making moving pictures but also the investment in homes, etc., by the people employed in this great industry. One of the important radio executives stated the other day, "There is more reason for Hollywood's being the center of the radio and motion picture industry than there is for Akron's being the center of the tire manufacturing business." As radio's investment in Hollywood increases, there is further assurance of Hollywood's continuing to be one of the most important radio centers.

During the month of November, the NBC originated 276 network programs from its Hollywood studios. To this must be added 172 sustaining or special-event broadcasts.

Another reason for this so-called Hollywood trend in radio is purely psychological. Every radio artist or personality would rather make a moving picture, even though it be a bad one, than to have never made the attempt. Movie actors and actresses realize that because of the very personal nature of radio they can further enhance their popularity with the public by becoming a guest in the living rooms of America. If these personalities prove worthy of this invitation, it means that the homes of America will extend future invitations, which will reflect in the star's popularity at the box office.

From time to time in the past few years, I have interviewed many young men and women asking the simple question, "How can I break into radio?" I admit this is becoming harder and harder to do every day, but at the same time it can and will be done by many people. On any job, the first requirement for success is to know the job. The best place to learn the radio business is to work on an independent station or a station affiliated with one of the national networks. In a position of this kind, you learn the "radio language." When you work for an independent station, you learn continuity, programming, and a practical knowledge of the technical side of radio. In other words, you get experience. I think that all of the national networks today view a person much more favorably when he makes an application for a job, if he has had this experience. In some cases with the larger companies, broadcasting has grown so fast that it has been absolutely impossible for a man or a woman to gain experience on more than one single job. This means that they lack an appreciation of radio as a whole, and in many cases this means red tape.

People with the type of experience mentioned above are the originators of most of the practical ideas adopted by radio today. Speaking of ideas, I refer to program ideas. We, at NBC in Hollywood, have an average of at least one hundred people a week calling on us with the so-called idea that is going to revolutionize radio. From the standpoint of the radio listener, who has become an expert because he never misses any of the programs, these ideas are seemingly practical. However, this is not the case. Too many programs and national advertising and merchandising plans have failed because the advertising and merchandising were tacked on to a program idea rather than the program being a practical solution of the advertising and merchandising problem. I have found that if a particular program is good advertising for a particular firm, you not only have a successful advertising and merchandising campaign, but you also have a successful program. Many programs are good entertainment but bad advertising for a particular sponsor.

Another question that is frequently asked me is, "What is radio going to do when there are no more big names of the entertainment world that radio can feature?" In this connection, I should like to point out that these big names were not attracted by radio until radio was much bigger than the personalities that had become interested in it. Any number of the most successful programs on the air today started as only an idea conceived by some man or woman: "The First Nighter" program—one of the most successful on the air, was just an idea in the beginning. "One Man's Family"; "Amos 'n' Andy"; "Lum and Abner"; "Death Valley Days"; and even such shows as that of Jack Benny were originally just an idea. Americans, as a people, are friendly. Any program that is worthy of friendship and is invited into the homes of America week after week will be a success.

Late in 1938, NBC in Hollywood will be out of the old building and in the new. The new building, which will be finished some time this year, will be as modern as radio and engineering brains can make it. It will cost around two million dollars. With these new facilities, more and more of the nation's programs will be signed off with these words: "This program has come to you from the NBC STUDIOS IN HOLLYWOOD."

Scholarship Advances

INFORMATION from the National Interfraternity Conference scholarship report for the year 1936-37 reflects the following information which is compared with the figures for the year 1935-36:

	1935-36	1936-37
Southern Division	plus 1.79	plus 2.93
Western Division	plus .48	plus 2.23
Northern Division	minus .30	minus .56
Eastern Division	plus 3.99	plus 4.43
Entire Fraternity	plus 1.38	plus 2.23

Delta Tau Delta Fraternity placed second both years among the fraternities which have fifty or more chapters rated. Beta Theta Pi Fraternity placed first both years with plus 2.53 in 1935-36 and plus 2.32 in 1936-37.

Scholarship Fund Receives Donation

WHEN the more than 800 persons attending the Fifty-Fourth Karnea held in Pittsburgh last August had packed their duds and said farewell to that great Karnea, few realized that the Pittsburgh Karnea Committee was soon to be faced with a problem of what to do with the profits made from that event. The fact of the matter is that no member of the Karnea Committee realized that there was going to be a profit. Word had been circulated that the Pittsburgh Karnea Committee might even be called upon for a special assessment.

After all of the various bills were paid, and an expert accountant had scrutinized the financial statement, it was ascertained that approximately $1,800.00 was still on hand.

The Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter president, George A. Doyle, Tau (Penn State), '17, promptly appointed a committee, headed by Paul E. Hutchinson, Mu (Ohio Wesleyan), '13, to determine just what should be done with the surplus. This committee studied the possibilities, and their decision to contribute $1,000.00 to the Scholarship Fund of the Fraternity was accepted. The Scholarship Fund, founded by the bequest of the late James B. Curtis, had an appeal to the Pittsburgh committee, because the income from this fund is used in various ways by the Fraternity to stimulate scholarship.

The next $500.00 of the surplus is to be invested by the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter, the income from which will always guarantee the attendance of an official delegate from the alumni chapter at all Karneas. This is to encourage the young men coming into the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter to work hard for the Fraternity with the possibility of being awarded a trip to the Karnea. The remaining $300 is to be kept in the treasury of the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter to be used as a revolving fund in promoting various activities in this particular district.

Fraternity Men Lead Again

FOR THE eighth consecutive year, fraternity men led nonfraternity men in scholarship throughout the United States, Alvan E. Duerr, Chi (Kenyon), '93, of New York, chairman of the scholarship committee, reported to the National Interfraternity Conference. The report was based upon official scholastic records for the 1936-1937 academic year of 172 colleges and universities, with a total undergraduate enrollment of approximately 250,000 men.

One-fourth of these 250,000 undergraduates are members of the 2,277 chapters of social fraternities on their campuses. There are now a total of 2,375 chapters belonging to the sixty national fraternities that are members of the National Interfraternity Conference. The survey is not entirely complete because about twenty schools do not release grades of their students.

The continued scholarship lead of fraternities is considered notable by Mr. Duerr as it has been held in the face of a steadily rising base, the result of a general improvement in the average performance of undergraduates throughout the country. It is also held despite the fact that fraternity men carry on most of the extra-curricular activities on the campuses. The average rating of all the fraternities of the country is plus .372 for the past year.

Only in the East last year was there a gain in the average performance of students, 57 per cent bettering the all-men's average of the previous year, while in the North Central States 62 per cent lost ground; in the South 55 per cent; in the West 65 per cent; and on the Pacific Coast 50 per cent. On the other hand, the fraternities improved their standing in relation to the average of all men in 60 per cent of the colleges in the East; 48 per cent in the North Central States; 59 per cent in the South; 48 per cent in the West; and 62 per cent on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Duerr stated that these facts indicate the fraternities have been more successful in making their members aware of academic objectives than have the colleges themselves. Fraternity News Service Release.

Engineer Is Cast in Broadway Hit

As told by Douglas C. Corner, Jr., Beta Rho (Stanford), '37, to Owen C. Orr, Beta Gamma (Wisconsin), '07

JAMES W. CORNER, Beta Rho (Stanford), '37, studied mining engineering with his brother, Doug, Jr., Beta Rho (Stanford), '37, at Stanford. Their father, Douglas C. Corner, Beta Gamma (Wisconsin), '13, is also a mining engineer.

Jim played baseball and football, but in the back of his head he always has been interested in dramatics. So, after three years of engineering at Stanford, he thought he would try the stage. He spent the summer of 1936 with a stock company at Cohasset, Mass., and there he gained the distinction of being operated on for appendicitis an hour and one half before the curtain was to go up. The opening was held up until someone else could be found for the part.

Back at Stanford in the fall, he took up public speaking and when he was graduated in June, his brother, Doug, Jr., who looks like a football player but is an engineer and has red hair, said, "Nix on this acting in Pasadena. Go on and go to Broadway and get it out of your system"; Doug, Jr., secretly hoped that Jim would get it out of his system.

Jim played with the South Shore

James W. Corner

Players at Cohasset again in several plays during the past summer and came to New York in early fall and started the rounds of producers' offices. He walked into George Abbott's office cold, and landed the job as understudy in the Broadway hit Room Service. One of the players was ill, so Jim made his debut on Broadway and played five performances. The show was a success, and when it was decided to open in London at the Strand Theatre, Jim sailed.

As soon as he left, Papa Corner found he had urgent business in London and sailed the next week. A week later his mother, who had always taken an interest in the Stanford Deltas, found out that she just had to be in London, and she sailed. Doug, Jr., was left behind. He is reading all the theatrical papers so that he can act as Jim's manager when the time comes.

AROUND THE FIREPLACE WITH GOOD DELTS

It is our pleasure to present the address of Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, chancellor of New York University, at the Twenty-Ninth Annual Interfraternity Conference. He is a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity. We recall Dr. Chase, then president of the University of North Carolina, when he was the gracious host to the Southern Division of Δ T Δ at its Conference in Chapel Hill, North Carolina in 1928. He was president of the University of Illinois following his tenure at the University of North Carolina. With consummate skill he speaks of the College and Fraternity, Inc., the development of which has engaged the interest of Δ T Δ for the past several years.

THE PAST few years have brought about great changes in the educational system; we have receded from our former conception of mass production, and the individual as such is emerging once more to the full enjoyment of his rights and privileges.

Moreover, a chaotic world has brought home to our educational institutions the fact that intellectual training alone will not prepare the individual for the tasks that await him after graduation, that he must receive as thorough a training in his social relations and responsibilities, if he is to occupy a position of usefulness to himself and to his fellow-men.

FOR A good many years the fraternities of the country have occupied the social field, and have dominated the social activities of our undergraduates, almost unheeded, and certainly undirected, except as interested alumni have concerned themselves with the affairs of undergraduate chapters. And with equal certainty it may be said that there has been little awareness of any educational importance in the supervision which the social life of our undergraduates received.

And now we are confronted with an interesting alternative: If the college is to meet this demand for an intelligent socialization of the student, and give him a standard of social conduct and social responsibility which will give society some assurance that his intellectual training will be used for the good of society, either the college must preempt many of the prerogatives hitherto enjoyed by the fraternities, even to the exclusion of the fraternities, or it must secure their closest and most understanding cooperation, so that the work of both may be directed to the same objectives.

Let me say at once that, in my opinion, the second alternative is the only satisfactory one; for the strength of the fraternities lies in the fact that they represent what our undergraduates are doing for themselves, and that is education at its best. The college cannot educate its students; it can only inspire them to educate themselves. And the function of the college is to give that sympathetic guidance which will lead the student to educate himself properly.

Every large institution in the country is trying to break its student body down into units small enough to make possible treating the student as an individual, and thus to insure an effective process of socializing him. The fraternities of America have some twenty-five hundred chapter houses, whose members are chosen on the basis of congeniality and common tastes. What better units for the individual development of its students could any institution desire, if these chapter houses are controlled by the same objectives as is the institution itself?

FORTUNATELY, the fraternities have realized this need of cooperation, and have been heading toward it for some years. Your efforts to improve the scholarship of your members have allied you with the college. And quite recently you have given the college all the assurance that it needs that you realize, in theory at least, that basically college and fraternity have the same interests, and should therefore have the same objectives; because we both deal with the same individual, and neither of us can deal with him without becoming immediately aware of his relations with the other. Moreover, there is little difference between what each of us hopes that four years at college will do for this same individual.

It would seem then that we have the will to coöperate, and that all that we need is the technique, and a clear understanding of objectives and interrelations. This will bring the effort and the influence of the fraternities into complete harmony with what the college must do. For its graduates cannot be counted on to play a worthy part in the affairs of the world, unless, in addition to a sound mental training, they have a full realization of their social responsibilities, and the strength of character to bring both to their fullest fruition.

The most serious obstacle to coöperation, it seems to me, is the absence of a clear conception of what the social life of a college student should be. We have in this country no pattern of social life for the college campus which differs in any way from the social life of men who have had few educational advantages. And, similarly, fraternity life does not differ in any marked degree from the life of small-town clubs from which its members have attempted to escape.

HENRY Seidel Canby, in Alma Mater, has said that the alumni are a difficult problem to the average college because they bring to a changing educational process the point of view of the outmoded Nineties. Isn't this at least as true of the fraternities? And perhaps we find here the answer to much of the present restlessness and uncertainty in the undergraduate's mind about a number of aspects of the fraternity problem. And the college administrator, intent upon meeting the challenge of revolutionary times, finds himself equally baffled by a static attitude in the midst of change.

Here then is our point of attack, if college and fraternity are to come together in a common effort which will increase the usefulness of both. And should we not start out by recognizing that not only should the group life of young men engaged in the most glorious intellectual adventure that they may ever have be radically different from the life of a political or an athletic club, but that it should reflect and promote this adventure as definitely as the athletic club promotes only physical prowess?

By necessity, man must live in and work with groups. The fraternity is the best of the various efforts on the average campus to inculcate a successful technique for doing this. But has the fraternity worked in full realization of this unique advantage? Have the fraternities taken themselves seriously enough, and made enough of their opportunity? You have been called the best demonstration of democratic living to be found on the campus. Are your graduates noted for their demonstration of democracy in later years? Nothing that you do or acquire at college has much value if divorced from its social import. Has that been the underlying philosophy which has given form to your group living?

LET ME at this point suggest a practical test. What are you doing with the material that is handed over to you at the beginning of the freshman year? What price, if any, must your members pay for the process of socialization on the fraternity pattern? Several years ago, at the University of Illinois, we found that the expectancy of our students, as revealed in the mental tests given them on entrance, was realized better among the non-fraternity men, than among fraternity men. Moreover, other institutions have made the same study, and with the same result. Does this mean that the price of fraternity membership is too high? Yes, and No! For I see no basic relation between the two phenomena. You have merely not been aware of the problem. Here then is a real job for the fraternities if we are to have the close coöperation of which we have been speaking.

I am not asking the fraternities to take over any of the work which belongs properly to the institution. But I am suggesting that if you wish to give meaning to what you are doing, and if you wish to make the fraternity indispensable to the life of the college, as it might so easily become, you integrate its activities and its influence so completely with the objectives of the college, that no one will be tempted even to undertake a work which is done best by the undergraduates themselves. To do that, you must be fully abreast of every movement that is reshaping the educational process, and you must work hand in hand with those who are attempting to make education serve a disturbed world more realistically than it has ever done before.

THE DELT AUTHORS

The Nature of a Liberal College. By Henry M. Wriston, Gamma Zeta (Wesleyan), '11.

Reviewed by FREDERICK PALMER,
Alpha (Allegheny), '93,
National Librarian

If I had never heard the name of the author and had just happened on this book under the title of Some Thoughts by Mr. X—I should have concluded, as I read on eagerly, that here was a great book for which I had been waiting for a long time. It gives form to my own vague comprehension of a need in and out of college in this confused world. It says what I have wanted to say but knew that I could not say for lack of words, of experience, of personality.

Every paragraph in his book rings a bell which bids me stop and get the full value of one paragraph before I proceed with the next. This is not implying that Dr. Wriston is ever complex. He is always clear. His power is not only in the thought he conveys in winning and pregnant simplicity, but in how his thought stirs thought in the reader. He impresses no standardized machine pattern of learning in arbitrary didacticism upon you but in a liquid, flowing fellowship shows how to make learning a living, all-the-year-around vital part of yourself.

He makes you want to be a cultivated man by discovering in yourself how to be one; how to be rich in yourself in a hall bedroom without being conscious that you are an intellectual giant or ever being called a grind or a prig; and how, one day, you may avoid finding yourself feeling poor and bored, in a palace without real friends, though with an obsequious butler at your elbow, while you are credited as a great, masterful, driving brain by the people at large, but not as a useful and likeable citizen in the fraternity of Delta Tau or of mankind.

After reading Dr. Wriston's book a second time—and I read few new books a second time—I decided it was hopeless to try to review it. How could I incorporate all his thought and all the thought his book so spontaneously promoted except by writing a book about five times the length of his own?

For his is a compact, brief book which leaves me still wondering how, considering all I got out of it, he was able to press, without ever seeming to press, so much in so small a compass. He never has to use long, involved sentences; never falls back on the old pedagogic crutch of cryptic, professional jargon to keep up the appearance of erectness in the knowledge of his subject when he is actually hobbling and groping in circles of prolixity.

At length, in place of review, I thought I might make a few excerpts from his text. But selection became a puzzling and then a distressing difficulty. When I made one excerpt I found there was no resisting the inclusion of the preceding and succeeding paragraphs: and so on, with still another and another preceding and succeeding paragraph, until I was in the mood to quote the whole in its breadth and warmth of human understanding, and to add under the name of the author: "The Good Delt."

It is pleasant, it is joyous to know that a great Delt alumnus can remain just as good a Delt as he was as an undergraduate. Not too many do.

Finally, I decided that the only way out was to say that every college and university president and professor, who would be worthy of his job, should read Dr. Wriston's book. I should like to see a copy dealt out to every member of the faculty at faculty meetings of the mass production universities or the little colleges, accompanied by a note:

"Now gentlemen, you know what is meant by a liberal college."

Any professor who does not continue to read on after he samples the first chapter may either think so well of himself that he is sure that he is already a cultivated man, owing to his Ph.D. degree, or he does not want to be a cultivated man. If he does read on, he will realize what a lot there is still to learn, and what a joy it is to learn it, in this big world.

Also every father who has a son in college, or expects to have a son in college, and every son in college ought to read Dr. Wriston's book. That is, if he really wants to be the kind of educated man whose company is sought for his own sake, and not to get something out of him because he has political pull or wealth. Breed the spirit of the book into your own life and outlook on your college background, you will not be wondering at forty-five:

"What has that fellow got that I have not? I have as much money as he has. I have held as big an office. But he has something in himself I lack. He gives out something that is not in me."

If sheer worldly success in money is your object, then Dr. Wriston's book will be a help in winning it as well as in knowing how to enjoy and profit by it in the fine sense.

I shall even venture to predict that if the youth of America should know and feel—and feel, too, I repeat—education along Dr. Wriston's lines they would have more aid in solving all the problems which confuse us at present than from all the tons of baccalaureate sermons and billions of words of advice from alumni, saying the same thing over and over again, to which undergraduates have to listen. The dream of the devoted elders of the passing generation for the coming generation would have a much better chance of coming true.

Of course I do not agree with all Dr. Wriston says. If I did I would not have grasped his own ideas about what makes a liberal college. I would not have coined the good out of his gold that I ought to. I would not be forwarding my own ambition to be a cultivated man.

So this is not a review. In nine cases out of ten a review can give the reader all there is in a book to save him the labor of reading. My object is that all of this book should be read. For the same reason I avoid quotations. But here is one which is an invitation opening the door to every Delt to share the riches this great and good Delt offers us:

"The American college fraternity is a manifestation of the inherently gregarious nature of youth. Friendship is so great and enriching an experience that students sought to facilitate its growth and development by those secret and ritualistic associations which for ages have been helpful in binding one man to another. The fraternities make the most direct and sincere appeal to the emotions. Their rituals are, many of them, very beautiful. They leave a genuine impression upon their members. It might be said truly of them, as it was of the Great Teacher, 'Without a parable spake he unto them.' Moreover the fraternities set as their ideal the very aim of the liberal college, the development of personality, and put their emphasis squarely upon the reality and significance of current experience."

As National Librarian, I like what Dr. Wriston says about books: "The love of books is certainly one of the hall marks of a liberally educated man. Those who really love books must own them." Again I quote, "If a student can see more in a picture than the man who purchased it, he owns more than the canvas and paint." Again: "The student must live in the world and be a part of the world. . . . But he must live, also, out of the world and beyond the daily grind." Again: "The very attitudes of objectivity, calmness, patience, tact, readiness to listen and learn, this breadth of view, this depth of understanding, are the proper fruits of intellectual and spiritual growth in the atmosphere of a liberal college."

But read the book which did me more good on the second reading than the first.

THE DELT CHAPTERS

Alpha—Allegheny

FOOTBALL days are over and several Deltas of Alpha can look back on a successful season of varsity football. Three men were the mainstays of the Allegheny team and several others saw service in the most successful season in years. One Delt, Horace "Red" Lavelly, was directly responsible for four of the victories with his field goals and points after touchdown.

The winter intramural program has begun with many activities listed, and we hope to come out among the leaders. Volley ball, the first event, has gotten well under way and to date we are leading with three victories and no defeats. We hope to continue on to victory.

Swimming and basketball are claiming several good men. Varsity basketball has drawn heavily on our intramural championship team of last year when five of the men were drafted for varsity work. In spite of this, we hope to have another championship team to keep the trophy here.

At a special initiation recently, we were fortunate enough to initiate three fine boys into $\Delta T \Delta$. They are William Coon, '39, William Root, '40, and E. Wayne Wolford, '38.

One of the biggest fall social events, the fall formal dance, will be held at the Shelter on December 11. A good orchestra has been chosen and we expect to have a fine time. Other social events include mainly radio parties.

With winter coming up and with all the activities and social affairs for us to participate in, we are looking forward to a highly successful season here at Alpha and will do our best to be worthy Deltas.

DALE BOWMAN

Beta—Ohio

OUR PLEDGE class represents the cream of the freshman class at Ohio University, and we must give all credit to Bill Bates, rushing chairman, and the members of his committee for a very successful rushing season.

As always, Beta Chapter is well represented in all fields of campus activities. Bill Cooper is working daily as business manager of the yearbook to insure that publication's financial success. Bill Bates is also very active in the publication field as circulation manager of the Green and White, campus newspaper. Other publication men are Paul Day, news editor of the Green and White; Dick Barber, assistant editor of the Ohioan, humor magazine; Ernie Byrd, advertising manager of the Ohioan; and others who are now holding minor positions but who should reach the top by next year. Beta is well represented in basketball with "Prexy" George Hood, "Stretch" Grothaus, Gene Rogers, and Howard Blair as members of the varsity.

Jack Meister is a very able president of the senior class as well as being the mainstay on the Ohio University debate team. Jack has a list of activities a mile long besides his scholastic record which won him a membership into Phi Beta Kappa.

Beta held her seventy-seventh fall initiation ceremonies recently whereupon Paul Day, Roger Daugherty, Jack Pritchard, Howard Blair, and Jack Fishlock became full-fledged Deltas.

Intramurals are always taken seriously here and so far touch football is the only event that has been run off. The boys didn't do so well here, ending up in third position. Basketball starts soon, however, and the chapter will enter two strong teams.

A new campus office was recently instituted here, that of freshman class president and it was a Delt pledge that came out on top, John Schaller by name.

Bill Bates was recently chosen for J Club, junior honorary.

JOHN COLLEY

Gamma—Washington and Jefferson

THE COMBINATION of a successful rushing season with several improvements and additions to the Shelter and its equipment started the school year off in fine style.

As soon as rushing was over, Dan Core, '40, was initiated. Dan was originally in the class of 1939 and returned this fall after a year's absence. John Dodd, '38, has come back to Gamma and Washington and Jefferson after spending his junior year at the University of Idaho in Delta Mu.

In the recent elections Bob Burg was elected president of the junior class, and T. A. Smith was elected to the Prom committee. Vice-president Paul Koenig is a member of the committee in charge of the Panhellenic, a winter formal dance. October saw the finest pledge dance in recent years.

Ed Reymann represented the college and the chapter at the recent meeting of the National Interfraternity Conference in New York City.

Our first pledge, Chuck Wilson, won an uncontested position on the first freshman football team in pre-season practice but was retarded by a bothersome knee injury. Ed Reymann, Gamma's prexy, has been working out in preparation for his berth on the boxing team. On the mat with the varsity wrestling squad are Hen Belden and Ray Hambleton. John Shearer and Fred Zollinger are junior and sophomore managers of wrestling.

Touch football, as an intramural sport, was inaugurated this fall, and although we were runners-up in our section, we are sure of a better record next year. Our volley ball team came out of a slump of several year's standing and lost only in the play-offs for the school championship. Last year's boxing squad, which lost the cup by one match, is practically intact and is preparing to take first honors this year.

Founders Day week-end saw the institution of Phi Beta Kappa's newest chapter on this campus. As part of that week-end's activities, an interfraternity sing was held. In pulling down second-place honors we were on more than the heels of the first-place winners.

Bill Jacobs is on the staff of the newspaper, Red and Black, in the capacity of sports editor, and Fred Zollinger is on the business staff. Two of our freshmen, Bill Reed and Sam Robinson, are neophytes on the editorial staff. Tom McGurk is managing the business end of the literary quarterly. Dan Finkbeiner, Allan Harrison, Ralph Vernon, and T. A. Smith are singing in the much rejuvenated glee club, and Bill Abbott, Dan Finkbeiner, Paul Ivill, and T. A. Smith are playing in the band. Charlie Groeschell recently presented his first paper to Phi Chi Mu, local scientific society. Pi Sigma Alpha, political science honorary, has our president, Ed Reymann, as its secretary-treasurer. T. A. McGurk and Bruce Danzer are two more of this organization's members. Danzer and McGurk are also members of Eta Sigma Phi, classical society. Elected last spring to Kera, local junior honorary, were John Shearer, Bob Burg and Tom McGurk. Ray Hambleton, treasurer of the Student Service Union, is one of several Deltas active in that organization.

Further investigation into the activities of the campus would disclose the names of the rest of this year's thirty-five members. This, coupled with our scholastic prospects, is making the present season one of the best.

Theron A. Smith

Delta—Michigan

DELTA Chapter started out the year with an intensive rushing season, which culminated in the pledging of fifteen men.

As usual, this year Delta is well represented in campus activities. During football season Carl Wheeler was a football manager, and Ben Jones a cheerleader. In the field of publications Delta is particularly well represented on the staffs of the Gargoyle, campus magazine, and Ensian, yearbook, in the persons of Austin Consor, photographic editor of the Ensian, Gus Dannemiller, Ensian features editor, and Erle Whetsell, college editor on the same publication, and also editor-in-chief of the Student Directory for this year. Erle earned for himself the cognomen of "Campus funny-man," due to his publication, which was allegedly shot through with errors—so much so that in the eyes of a campus columnist "it would take another volume the same size as the first to correct all the mistakes." Actually, however, Erle did a swell and accurate job, getting out his book much ahead of last year's.

On the Executive Council of the Michigan Union is Don Belden, and on the Union committees are John McCallister, and Ben Jones, who was also on the Soph Prom committee.

At the end of football season and as a fitting climax for it, the Deltas played their big game, the annual junior-sophomore battle. After a heated battle, the juniors came out on top, 8-6, proving the old idea about seniority. However, the junior steam roller was put in reverse by the pledges on another occasion, so everyone is left guessing.

J. A. HOLLINSHEAD

Epsilon—Albion

GREETINGS and salutations from Epsilon. Another school year has begun and $\Delta T \Delta$ has certainly placed itself into the swing of things. First on our program for the year was the very vital issue of rushing. Eleven worthy men caught the gleam of the beckoning light and are now proudly wearing the crossed Deltas.

Epsilon's men have really taken their share and a bit more of the positions on campus. Gilbert Stevens, president, is president of the Interfraternity Council, junior class member of the Student Council, and president of the Physics Club. Robin Adair, treasurer, is president of the senior class, and vice-president of the Interfraternity Council. Peter Vanson has the business managership of the Albion College Pleiad, and is assisted by Heber Ashmun. Peter is an assistant editor of the college yearbook. Sidney Ferriss is the head man of the new Lens and Shutter Club aided by Marvin Vann, secretary-treasurer. Elmer Beers was appointed to the Campus Religious Council, and with positions on the band, etc., Epsilon has been placed right where it belongs—on top.

The Albion football team was very ably assisted by Percy Hagan, Fred Krueger, James Henderson, Richard Stout, and Gilbert Stevens. Dale Butler is sinking his shots for the basketball squad and the spring sports will have their quota of Deltas.

We had our annual Homecoming October 29. The front lawn was decorated with a huge steam roller that really flattened down Olivet (Score 13-0). Scores of alumni attended the celebration and remarked on the improved physical appearance of the Shelter, which was repainted and refurnished during the summer. At the banquet held in the evening, over seventy-five old grads were fêted.

Co-eds are still remarking about the very successful Fall Formal we held and about the swell band led by Brother Robert Saxton, the meanest stick swinger in the State of Michigan. Pledge Chairman Bill Barth is promising us a super pledge party featuring utmost informality.

One of our biggest plans for the present concerns the creation of a library. The men are very enthusiastic about the idea, and we are planning to erect shelves against the walls of the music room.

Epsilon feels that she is putting up a real fight for top honors, and so far the battle is all for us.

PETER T. VANSON

Kappa—Hillsdale

FROM the beginning of the year Kappa has bent her efforts toward raising her scholastic standing both on campus and among the other chapters of the fraternity. These efforts have not been without results, for at the close of the first six weeks period, not one active was turned into the office by his professors as having a grade lower than C—.

Although good grades have been uppermost in our minds, we were not blind to other qualities and achievements when the time for pledging rolled around. Entering Hillsdale as a junior transfer from Ohio State, Johnny O'Brien, who was also pledged to Beta Phi Chapter, has lent a vital spark of wit and earnest endeavor to our neophyte group. Beta Phi's loss has been our gain. Johnny is from Lima, Ohio. Joe Winters, a freshman from Crawfordsville, Indiana, has done a lot to liven up dull moments and help entertain guests with his songs and guitar. Joe has had some radio and orchestra experience, and he can really go to town on that stringed box. Bob Cunningham, sophomore from Wisconsin, was rated highest among incoming students by the intelligence tests given Freshman Week.

For the third time Kappa was awarded the Achievement Cup presented to the men's group on campus having the highest average achievement rating, made on the basis of grades, religious activities, physical development, civic activities, and social activities. The chapter plans to keep this cup at all costs. To Art Newcomer, activities chairman last semester, goes much of the credit for our having the trophy at the present time.

Spence Pratt and Bob Pickford finished up the football season in fine style, with Spence receiving a first-string berth on the official All M.I.A.A. team as a tackle of unusual ability. Spence was always the first man through the line to block a punt or rush a passer. Pick, our new activities chairman, is just the man to pile the fellows out of bed for church on Sunday mornings.

Treasurer Fellgren reports with pride that our financial record of twenty-three months without an unpaid member's account, is still intact and will become a record of two years this month.

In chapel early in October, Roy Fritz, junior, and Jim Fosdick, sophomore, were mentioned as being among the first ten scholastically in their respective classes.

President Bill Thompson was recently elected vice-president of the College Federation and will accede to the head of that worthy organization next semester. Bill gets a free trip to the national convention of the N.S.F.A. to be held in New Mexico the latter part of December.

A hayride inaugurated our social season, with dancing in the Shelter afterwards. Cider and doughnuts were served.

Ex-Governor Brucker of Michigan was a guest at our Homecoming banquet, and we were especially honored to have J. L. Finnicum, President of the Northern Division, present also at this time.

Our third annual Dads Day was a brilliant success, with the pledges furnishing some clever entertainment. Coach Dwight Harwood acted as master of ceremonies.

November 13 our annual Bowery Brawl took place with more than the usual success.

The latest improvements on the house are the rope fire escapes on the "poop deck."

At present we are all looking forward to the convention of the Northern Division, which will be held in Detroit around the last of February.

JIM FOSDICK

Mu—Ohio Wesleyan

DROP in on us here in Delaware around dinner-time some evening and you'll see the better part of fifty-seven fellows gathered 'round the banquet boards. The fact is, the banquet boards did a little expanding last fall, and we now have the largest chapter we have ever known.

Take a look at some of these boys while we point them out to you. We've got a great bunch.

Over there in the politician's corner are several interesting characters. The red-headed one is Paul Riffle, an O.D.K. man who got himself elected secretary-treasurer of the student body last spring. Sitting next to him is John Smith, president of the junior class and one-half of the

Smith-and-Smith-can't-tell-'em-apart-twin combination. Next to John sits the boss, C. Dexter Alderman, who cut himself a piece of the political pie last spring and is now university social chairman.

Over here in the debating circle sits Nevin Scrimshaw. "Scrimy" was "tapped" an O.D.K. member at the fall election. A jack of all trades, this very active senior is an associate editor of The Transcript, a track and cross-country letterman, and a zoology scholar of the first frog besides being a debater. Another forensic squad member of no mean repute is Tracey Jones. Jones, a junior, won himself a letter in basketball last year, but decided that as a basketball star, he was a better debater. So he's given up the court for the rostrum this season. But debating won't keep him from defending his Buckeye tennis championship this spring.

Two more prominent debaters are Lew Copley, a senior, and Bob Crosby, a junior. These two boys also do quite a bit of board treading before the Ohio Wesleyan theater-minded. Then there is Paul Riffle, the aforementioned, who claims he's never lost an argument. Incidentally, "Riff" is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensics honorary. Being groomed as second semester debaters are Sam Smith, a junior, and George Eyrich and Bill Stewart, sophomores.

And now for the dramatists. Heading the list is Sam Smith, other half of the Smith-and-Smith-can't-tell-'em-apart combination. Sam is president of the Wesleyan Players, and he's the first junior to ever hold that office. Brother John also takes quite an active part in dramatics on the campus. Jimmy Rendle, Mu's social chairman, takes no back seat in the stage business. He was one of Hamlet's stooges last spring. George Morelock and Dan Hickey are also mixed up in the trade along with Lew Copley and Bob Crosby, whom we mentioned.

Sit down and have dessert with us, won't you? Chocolate pudding tonight. We love it. Why, one of our freshmen is so fond of it that once he forgot the conventional method of using a spoon and went right after it in dog fashion. Perhaps I'd better add that quite a bit of pressure descended on him from an upper classman. Well, anyhow, let's hear from our quartet while we're waiting to be served. Its members are Jack Anderson (our prexy), Hal Kattus, Milt Hader and Ed Howard. Listen to them murder "Hey, Babe!" their newest number ever since they organized in the shower room one sad evening. The first three members are affiliated with the university glee club, while Ed Howard toots the "ompah" in the campus dance band. Speaking of the glee club, Jack Anderson is its manager, and Ivan Hall and George Eyrich are included in the membership.

And speaking of managers, Jack Anderson might be called the manager of managers. He is not only chief of the basketball division, but is president of Red Circle, managers association, as well. Bob Ulrich and Roger Early are also senior managers this year. They'll both have their troubles next spring with baseball and track respectively. Incidentally, Early, the "Rajah," is secretary-treasurer of Red Circle.

Glad you could be around to see the fellows. We have a lot of good times around here. Had a barn dance last October and a winter formal in December. Come back again sometime, and if you see anything of our neon sign, let us know. It's been missing, now, for several months.

CHARLES F. ECKERT

Nu—Lafayette

NU STARTED the year off with one of the most successful rushing seasons it has had in the history of the chapter by pledging eighteen new men.

After a most successful football season and a dance week-end, we at Nu have settled down and the Brothers are awaiting the arrival of Christmas vacation. A well-managed dance was held at our house during the Homecoming week-end which was under the supervision of Thomas Hartranft. President Al Gemmill's famous Grenadiers supplied the music.

One of the best achievements that Nu accomplished last year is the advancement in scholarship from ninth to third position in the ranking of Lafayette fraternities. Nu ranked first in scholarship among the campus fraternities.

For the fourth consecutive year Nu Chapter has won the prize for the best decorated house on the Homecoming week-end. The decorations which were under the direction of R. C. Petura consisted of colored streamers completely covering the frontage of the house. A large football proclaimed another gridiron contest in the long rivalry between Rutgers and Lafayette. In addition to the decorations, night illumination was provided. The prize which was presented before the student body is a silver loving cup. This cup was added to the trophy collection.

The two varsity lettermen, George T. Dochtermann and Harold Hageman, completed a very successful year playing for Lafayette. Dochtermann held down an end position while Hageman played tackle.

As far as the intramural sports are concerned, we have made a pretty good showing. The intramural football team did not attain the heights it did last year, but we ended up in the second place in our league. The intramural soccer team made the semifinals—and the prospects of a championship team in basketball are very bright.

Nu Chapter is very well represented in varsity sports on the campus. Pete Blank has started practice for the varsity basketball team and it is quite certain that he will hold down the center position which he had last year. Thomas Hartranft, for the second year, is captain of the varsity swimming team. Tommy went undefeated in diving last year and he hopes to keep his record perfect. Dick Allen finished his last year of varsity soccer with a very good playing record.

Bill Hintelmann managed the varsity soccer team this year. Al Gemmill has been elected president of the Instrumental Club. Carl Keiser has been out for the varsity managership of swimming.

The alumni have been returning to the house during the past fall. Each class seems to have a reunion every home football week-end. Many of our last year's graduates have returned to tell the brothers here at Nu of the wonderful positions that they have acquired. James Hazeltine, last year's president, is now employed by Armstrong Cork, William Mueller is working for Barrett Co., Phil White-way for Wetherel Paint Products Corp., and Ed. Smith with a Washington construction company. Many of the other brothers are well employed and Nu has a good representation in the business world.

The prospects of Nu this year are very bright and we are looking forward to a year of many achievements.

GEORGE R. JAQUA

Omicron—Iowa

THE CURRENT year bids fair to become one of the most successful in the annals of our chapter's history. With a larger number of actives returning than in former years, we have a distinct advantage at the outset, however, Omicron's leadership in campus life is in no small way due to the interest that actives and pledges share in our chapter's welfare.

We are ably represented in extra-curricular activities by such men as our president, Jack Rogers, who occupies an enviable position on the staff of the student paper; Phil Goodenough, is the capable manager of the University's humor magazine; and William Brearton, along with being president of the Art Guild, is the talented artist who furnishes the covers for this magazine as well as numerous cartoons depicting college life as seen by our clever colleague. The return of John Collinge, who set a new freshman high hurdle record, and Dean Dort, who established the freshman low hurdle record, assure us of two outstanding varsity track men in this their sophomore year. In the bone crushers' guild we are represented by Fred Muhl, a Junior College champ, who is a serious contender for a berth on the University's wrestling team. Arthur Manush, Iowa's leading hitter and outfielder of last season is now being tried as a possible pitcher in the hope that he can exhibit the same stellar performance on the mound as he does in the outfield. Art is following the footsteps of his famous uncle, Heinie Manush, and will play professional ball upon his graduation. Edwin W. McLain, varsity fullback, is serving on the Iowa Union sub-committee where the quality of his work is equal to his performance on the gridiron as well as in the classroom.

Much has been said of the renewed spirit that prevails upon the Iowa campus this year. Certainly this is due in part, at least, to the numerous Delts who are members of the Pi Epsilon Pi, pep fraternity, and especially the work of John Collinge, Glenn Hilliard, and Art Manush who head the respective committees on which they serve.

Our first party was held shortly after the beginning of the year and it is said to have been the best party held on the campus for a long time. The motif of the decorations was distinctly agrarian—even to having live chickens in the fireplace lending atmosphere, or perhaps I should say sound effects. Baled straw, wagon wheels, lanterns and even a part of an old buggy transformed the Shelter into a sight long to be remembered; not content with this we chartered a hay rack in which to get our dates. The single man most responsible for this gala event was Bill Brearton whose skillful guidance and tireless efforts served to make this a party never to be forgotten. The music was furnished by Brother Vette Kell and playing in this well-known campus orchestra is one of our pledges, Art Hatter, who can play five or six musical instruments with equal ease and skill.

With a full house of well-rounded fellows such as we have this year, Omicron's star will continue in its ascendancy from the scholastic slump which befell us two years ago, for certainly we have received added impetus.

Omicron welcomes Delts stopping in Iowa City to visit the chapter.

WARD MEENTS

Pi—Mississippi

DOWN in Mississippi, the Delts are going places in a big way. Opening of the school year found Pi with a Shelter for the first time in its history; also with the best pledge class she has ever attracted. With such a start we cannot help but do well this year. Already, Pi has held two house dances in the new Shelter on Fraternity Row, and more are anticipated in the near future. The second dance was a costume party, and it went over with a "bang." Brother Tipton had all of the girls' hearts going "flutter" with his Casanova costume.

One edition of the Rainbow Delta, our chapter paper, has already been sent out to the alumni, and plans are being made to issue the second edition.

This year, Pi has exceeded all of its past records of campus activities. Brother Reed is vice-president of the law school, and on the Interfraternity Dance Committee for the school dances; Tipton is treasurer of the junior class; Michel is treasurer of the sophomore class, sergeant in the R.O.T.C., and circulation manager of the Mississippian, school paper; Pledge Lauderdale is treasurer of the sophomore class and on the Honor Council in the engineering school; Wallace and Schwartzfager are our men on the Interfraternity Council; Washington is in the Cardinal Club, honorary sophomore club, on the staff of the Ole Miss yearbook, and sergeant in the R.O.T.C.; Reed and Schwartzfager are in the M.O.A.K.S., senior honorary; and pledge Nichols is a sergeant in the R.O.T.C. Brother "Red" Dixon is an associate editor of the Mississippian; and pledge Buchanan is now an assistant in the chemistry department at Ole Miss.

The Delts here are in the semifinals of the interfraternity basketball tournament now, and expect to come out some place very near the top.

During the middle of October, a special initiation was held, at which time Brother Michel was received into $\Delta T \Delta$.

A special election was held in November, and Brother Reed was elected to the presidency for the second semester, as Prexy Wallace graduates at mid-term; Louie Hopkins, rush captain for next year; and Walter Michel, corresponding secretary and house manager.

Pi had quite a get-together of alumni before and after the annual Ole Miss-Mississippi State game. The alumni seemed to be quite pleased with our new Shelter. All of them promised to drop in on us again soon.

Brother Hopkins, a transfer student from the University of Texas, has been helping the chapter very much with his good spirit and friendliness. He is also a member of the school band, and is a sports writer on the school paper.

J. WALTER MICHEL, II

Rho—Stevens

RHO ENJOYED a very successful rushing season this year, pledging twenty of the sixty-three freshmen going fraternity, the twenty, of course, representing the cream of the crop. Fred Tyler was elected class president, and when the remaining class officers are elected, we feel sure more Delt names will appear on the list.

Rho is unusually active this year on the campus. Carl Mac Henry, president of Tau Beta Pi, took great delight in initiating three more Delts, Johnny Engelsted, Jack Waterburh, and Roy Moore, into that key-wearing fraternity. Khoda, the secret senior honorary society, whose membership is limited to twelve, has on its roster four Delt names: Roy Moore, president; Jack Armstrong, treasurer; Sam Sorensen, and Carl Mac Henry. Jack Armstrong, by the way, not only put out the yearbook last year but made it a pace-maker. And that means something! Ask any collegiate journalist. For his good work on the Link, Jack was put in charge of the Senior Booklet Committee. Sam Sorensen, a three-letter man in soccer, basketball, and lacrosse, was recently elected president of the Athletic Association. Now add Johnny Engelsted, secretary-treasurer of the Interfraternity Council and Maestro

Waterbury, leader of the band and conductor of the orchestra, and you see that no matter what's done here at school, a Delt has something to do with it.

Our social season will really get under way this February, when the chapter holds its open-house dance, but in the meantime we're warming up with the different school functions. After these affairs, we all meet at the house for more dancing and cider and cake—it makes a swell ending.

And for a swell ending to this supposedly newsy-letter, the entire chapter extends many thanks to Jim Costigan, our chapter adviser, and J. J. Klein, our past chapter adviser, who are doing such a swell job with the pledge-training class.

ROGER A. MOORE

Tau—Penn State

TAU BEGAN its year very successfully. The results of the rushing season under the able direction of Albert "Bud" Murphy gave the chapter twelve freshman pledges, two sophomore pledges, and one junior pledge.

The next accomplishment of the chapter was the winning of the Alumni Day house decoration cup. The theme of the display was that of a mountaineer's cabin with figures representing hill-billys, welcoming returning alumni.

The Tau Chapter football team, under the leadership of its flashy backfield general, "Bud" Murphy, and his running mates William "Pick" Little, Ned "Frazzel head" King, and Jack Kauffman, reached the semi-finals of the intramural football league before being defeated. In the Locust Lane League the team emerged victorious, and added another cup to its fast growing collection.

The social activities under the direction of James Allison started with two parties during rushing period, followed by the annual pledge banquet. Various activities followed, the highlights being the dinner party with the Kappa Alpha Thetas who retaliated with a tea dance for the chapter. The annual Thanksgiving banquet was held the Monday before the holidays. The biggest social event was the house party which was held the week-end of November 13. The party was one of the best ever given by the chapter; there were one hundred and ten persons at the affair and a great time was had by all. The regular Christmas banquet was held just before the Christmas holidays with the pledges supplying the entertainment for the evening. This was followed by the pledge dance.

GEORGE E. BERRY, JR.

Upsilon—Rensselaer

CHAPTER UPSILON and Theta Chi had a joint steak roast at Indian Ladder September 25, 1937. It was a get-together of the members and pledges of both houses. Most of the fellows played football while a few of the others explored Hays Cave. We had a keg of beer and a steak roast to keep the boys well filled and happy.

We held a Thanksgiving supper at the house November 23. There were fifty-three men in all, counting the pledges and alumni. Professor Fessenden was there, and the boys sang songs after each pledge had been introduced to the gang.

The chapter still has the policy of having one pledge up for a week so he may become better acquainted with the house and fraternity life. It also gives us a chance to become better acquainted with him.

On October 9, R.P.I. played Brooklyn College there and after the game the boys from the chapter got together and went to the Commodore Hotel and had a great time dancing and listening to Tommy Dorsey. A large number of Delts were there as well as a lot of fellows from other houses.

RICHARD P. FERRY

Phi—Washington and Lee

MEMBERS of Phi Chapter wandered back to school in September to find the Shelter almost completely done over. In keeping with the newly decorated downstairs, the chapter now boasts of two new suites of furniture for the front rooms.

It took Phi Chapter just about two days to get things in order, and then in spite of a new rushing system which severely handicapped many of the fraternities, the Delts pledged seventeen men. Hart Baker was rushing chairman, and since then several other fraternities have been heard to say, "Those Delts really got the cream of the freshmen this year."

For the second time in three years Phi Chapter walked off with honors in the Homecoming decorations. Charley Green was in charge of the Delt project which centered around the theme of the "Delta-catessen." The two Homecoming decoration cups make excellent pieces to stand beside the thirty-inch intramural trophy which Phi won last year with a score of 71 points above her nearest competitor.

Football found Ray Craft, a junior, in the position of halfback. There he proved to be one of the hardest tacklers on the Washington and Lee squad, and his passing was directly responsible for several victories for the Generals. On the freshman team, Ed Stivers won his numerals while Sonny Heartwell and Guy Witt were also on the squad throughout the season.

Basketball is now underway with Leo Reinartz almost sure of a place on the team which will defend the Southern Conference title for Washington and Lee. On the freshman team Ed Cuttino has a position on the first string while Sonny Heartwell and Kiah Ford are also showing up well in practice.

Washington and Lee is the defending champion in wrestling, and two Delts are out for the squad this year. They are Charles Bowles and Frank Hankins. Gordon Von Kalinowski is sure of a place with the freshmen, and Guy Witt has a good chance for numerals.

With another championship to be defended in swimming, Washington and Lee is looking to Vance Funk and Tom Tennant. Jack Akin, a star of the freshman squad, will also be on hand for the breast stroke. Jack Crawford is the only Delt pledge out for the tank team, but he expects to be among the numeral winners.

Jim Faulkner, a sophomore, is one of the outstanding performers in the Troubadours, school dramatic club, while Jack Crawford has won for himself a place in the first performance of his freshman year. Tom Tennant, a junior, also won a place in the play in his first dramatic try-out.

George Goodwin is managing editor of the school paper with Sonny Heartwell, Charley Green, and Emil Rassamann also on the staff. Walter Guthrie is subscription manager of the annual, while Guy Witt and Walter Wilkins are also out for publication places. Goodwin was recently initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, of which Cal Shook and Squire Davies are already members.

The feature of the social season was the recent house party which was attended by forty girls from nearby schools.

GEORGE GOODWIN

Chi—Kenyon

AT KENYON seven national and one local fraternities vie constantly for top honors on the hill. In contrast with many colleges and universities, fraternities are all within a stone's throw of one another here. Competition is regularly high, and especially during intramural seasons. In the two interfraternity contests held so far this year, Chi placed first in cross-country by taking four of the first five places. The race was won by George McMullin. In second place was Tom Huff. Fourth and fifth places went to Gordon Reeder and Bud Listug.

In touch football Chi placed third.

In speedball the finals are now being played off between $\Delta T \Delta$ and Beta Theta Pi.

Chi is most proud of George Eagon, Ohio Conference free style champion. Since his sophomore year George has been the foundation of the Kenyon swimming squad. This year the addition of Jim Patterson as a promising free styler will give to $\Delta T \Delta$ even added glory in the pool.

Three of this year's pledges, Jackson Flowers, Mitchell Justice, and Ted Worthington, show special promise of becoming varsity material.

Of the ten men finally selected as the basis of this year's Kenyon basketball squad, four of the most promising are Delts.

Gordon Reeder, also one of Kenyon's crack tennis players, can be relied upon to hold a varsity forward position. Dick Veatch, a varsity man for the last two years will take his usual place as one of the forwards. Frank Cline, Tink Herl, and Joe Rudge will all see action during the season.

In flying, Chi easily outclasses any fraternity on the hill. Bill Lieurance, chapter president, and president of the college flying club, and Rodney Boren are the two ace flyers of the school. Bill has just recently obtained his transport license—the first license of its kind to be granted to a Kenyon student. Gus Sonenfield, George Eagon and Francis Poulson have also been flying actively.

ROBT SONENFIELD

Omega—Pennsylvania

OMEGA held its first house dance of the new year October 30, following the annual junior prom, which was held the previous night. The majority of the boys imported lassies from the home towns to join in the festivities of the week-end. The house unanimously agreed that the dance was one of the most successful that has ever taken place here.

Our last meeting found us in a quandry as to just what to do in the way of providing something new and novel in a chapter festivity. The social committee pondered and pondered, and finally (bouquets to the social committee) hit upon the idea of holding a hay ride and party for the chapter. It took place upon the estates of Bill Cremers and Bunk Wade, in a neighboring town. All that need be said is that the affair went off with such a colossal "bang" that it is discussed fervently to this day. Plans are now in progress for a similar function in the near future—a sleigh hay ride (pardon the tongue-twister).

The Pennsylvania annual musical production, The Mask and Wig Show, is now in progress. Omega is well represented among the members of the show. Joe Jenkins, songster par excellence, is featured, singing two solos. One of the leading characters of the cast is ably portrayed by Ted Kirschner. Claim to one of two assistant managerships is also Omega's. Tom Hamilton sees to it that the performances are presented as per schedule. The show travels to the majority of the leading cities and towns of the East and Middle West.

The Delts at Penn number among the outstanding contestants for extra-curricular honors. Bill Glover is editor-in-chief of the school year book, The Record. The treasurer of Beta Gamma Sigma, the Wharton School Honorary Society, is Bill Cremers. The sophomore class is outstanding in that Johnny Collins was last year named as the most probable freshman choice for Beta Gamma Sigma in the future. The above two are members of the Dean's List, as well as Harry Howland. Omega is also very well represented on the editorial and business boards of all of the publications, as well as the managerial staffs and varsity squads of the leading sports.

The intramural football team reached the semi-finals among all of the fraternities on the campus this year. An intercepted pass, caught in the closing minutes of the last game by Zeta Beta Tau, put us out of the running.

Omega sadly mourns the death of one of the most beloved brothers of $\Delta T \Delta$. George Sigman, a graduate of the Lafayette Chapter, and president of the Philadelphia Alumni Chapter, passed from this world early on the morning of Wednesday, December 1. Loved by all who knew him, an outstanding member of the Fraternity, his loss will be deeply felt by Delts everywhere.

BILL GERHARD

Beta Alpha—Indiana

THE FALL season found plenty of activity in sports, both varsity and intramural. The Delts of Beta Alpha have had their share of both types. On the varsity football squad was Robert Louis Stevenson, a tackle who received his letter. Bill Miller showed promise by making his numeral in football.

In basketball we find Jim Fausch "giving his all" to win a position on the varsity. George Huff and Otto Englehart are the basketball aspirants of pledge class.

Our intramural activity has resulted in both success and defeat with the former prevailing. In football and volley ball we were unable to repeat last year's victories, but the Delts won All-University championships in golf and tennis. Frank Penning, member of the university's freshman golf team, aided in our victory in that department.

Enough for sports. In activities we have been successful in that the position of editor of the university's yearbook, The Arbutus, is held by Al Cole. Another Al, Alex Clark, was selected by the Sphinx Club for membership in this upper classmen's honorary.

In a recent election of officers, Hugh Dillin was elected president to succeed Don Korn, who resigned. Alex Craig followed Alex Clark as vice-prexy. Dillin, who is a state senator, is in his last year of law school. He has just completed the publication of a school calendar used for publicity purposes.

Ray Fox, our president last semester, is at present the proctor of South Hall for Boys. He has just finished serving in the capacity of assistant freshman football coach. Meanwhile he continues his studies in law school.

Bob Batton, a sophomore from Gamma Lambda, has affiliated with Beta Alpha.

That's all from this port.

E. GRIGSBY MAUCK

Beta Beta—DePauw

RETURNING to the Shelter this fall the chapter found that the entertainment for this year would be provided by a new combination radio-phonograph. This addition, a gift of Beta Beta alumni and friends, proved to be a valuable asset during fall rush. At the present time we have sixteen new men.

For the first time in many years the Delts had a champion intramural swimming team. Winning this sport puts us up among the leaders and at the end of the year, Beta Beta should be on top. In addition to the intramural team, we are represented on the freshman squad by King Collison, Irving Heath, Ky Idema, Lathe Porter; Chuck Bateman is varsity swimming manager.

After a semester of hard work last year, Beta Beta rose to new heights in scholarship standing on the campus. In addition to this Mark Bright was elected president of Phi Eta Sigma. Aiding our further advancement along these same lines is the presence of eighteen scholarship men in the chapter.

As usual, Beta Beta is well represented in all campus organizations. M. J. Moore is Kappa Tau Kappa's prexy and Bob Morgan swings his Blue Key cane like an old timer in addition to being recently pledged to Pi Sigma Alpha, political science honorary.

Hod Longshore and Don Grummon earned their football letters and Lathe Porter and Bill Adams received their freshman numerals. In all, Beta Beta had eight men on the two teams.

With basketball in full swing, we are hoping that Red Montooth, Hod Longshore, and Fred Tucker will continue their fine work.

With the help of Stu Watson, business manager of the DePauw newspaper, Fred Tucker and Bill Blake were chosen for Alpha Delta Sigma. Tom Gordon joined Don Hadley, M. J. Moore, and Tom Potter in Delta Omicron Chi, local premedical honorary. Beta Alpha Sigma pledged Bill Welch, Fred Tucker, and Red Montooth, swelling the Delt ranks in that organization to seven; others are Bob Morgan, Don Hadley, Skinny Maxwell, and Tom Gordon. Alpha Phi Omega elected Vern Peltzer and Don Grummon. Rating high in three of the musical organizations, the band, orchestra, and glee club, Beta Beta is represented by Chuck Bateman, Skinny Maxwell, Parker Smith, John Manning, Marion Seller, and Allan Holtzman.

Thus nearing the half-way mark of the year, the members of Beta Beta feel they have accomplished a good deal in the ways listed above and in many other fields in making this chapter what it should be.

THOS. P. POTTER

Beta Gamma—Wisconsin

THIS year marks Beta Gamma's Golden Anniversary year. It is therefore fitting that in this anniversary year, the spirit in the shelter runs high and the prospects are definitely brighter. Rushing, in the capable hands of Eugene Kuehlthau, has resulted in one of the largest pledge classes on the campus, 16 out of 179 men pledged by forty fraternities. Dick Roosevelt and Robert Anderson are scheduled to be football luminaries, Leon Fayette to be a member of the basketball team, and Ned Canright and Al Gantert to be members of the Union Board. The activities and the education of the pledge class are now under the guidance of Fred Kershner, twice president of Beta Zeta.

Three neophytes were initiated this fall, Gordon Harmon, Fred Reynolds, and Edgar Riley.

Continuing our program of renovating the Shelter, we are going to have the downstairs floors sanded and refinished, the walls cleaned, several chairs reupholstered, and are buying a new davenport. This year may also mean a new living room rug and a new radio.

Delts have been in many activities on the campus this year. Orville Fisher was a center on the varsity football team and Tom Corrigan a consistent placer on the cross-country team. Gene Kuehlthau, who is a member of Tumas, honorary junior society, has been made pre-prom chairman of music. Bud Higley is a member of Cardinal Key, honorary sophomore society. Fred Reynolds is one of the student announcers of WHA, the University station. Rick Meythaler has been elected to Phi Delta Phi, the honorary law society. John and Edgar Riley are members of Ray Dvorak's University of Wisconsin Band.

The social program is now focused upon our Christmas formal. We have already had several parties, the Homecoming victory dance, a bowery party after the Northwestern game, and several radio parties, one by the pledges. These parties, under the direction of Social Chairman Ronald Lind, have been very good, but plans for the Christmas party foretell the biggest and best of them all. In conjunction with the active chapter's social program, the pledges, through their social chairman, Ned Canright, are promoting an open house for the five fraternities on the court. This idea is an innovation here and will undoubtedly create better interfraternity relations.

Our touch football team was only moderately successful this year. We are now starting our basketball, bowling, and ice-hockey schedules. Our University Fraternity Championship golf team have all returned, but Fred Reynolds will make John Riley, Hugh Higley, Orville Fisher, and Jim Trane fight for their places on that team. "Where will we put that trophy, fellows?"

EDGAR F. RILEY, JR.

Beta Epsilon—Emory

BETA EPSILON is in a state of anxiety psychosis as we await the completion of our new Shelter on Fraternity Row. Expected to be ready for occupancy the first week in January, much ado is going on in the purchase of new furniture, plans for initiation, plans for a Dedication Dinner and Reception early in the month. This is the biggest event in the history of Beta Epsilon's fifty-five years on the Emory Campus.

Beta Epsilon attended en masse the All-State Banquet held at the Ansley Hotel November 28 and we say "hats off" to the Atlanta Alumni Association for a fine program and to Dean Rainmundo de Ovies for an inspiring talk.

Three new pledges have been added to our roles: Glenn Hogan of Carrollton, Ga., is a scholarship winner and has already shown himself to be a leader in forensic affairs. Alva Lines of Savannah, Ga., also a scholarship winner, is active in debating and golf. Elbert Hendrix of Havana, Cuba, comes to us with a good scholastic record from West Georgia College and has a bright future in engineering department.

Brother Murphy Holloway has succeeded Brother Pete Hydrick as head of the chapter, and the actives and pledges are moving along in a swift progressive and coöperative manner.

Through THE RAINBOW, Beta Epsilon extends an invitation to all Delts to pay us a visit in our new Shelter when completed in January. Beta Epsilon is glad to be a part of $\Delta T \Delta$.

BERRY LANGFORD

Beta Zeta—Butler

STARTING the school year with thirty-six pledges, Beta Zeta Chapter completed one of their most successful rush seasons in the history of the chapter. The Delts have, without a doubt, the most outstanding pledge class on the campus, and from their group was chosen the freshman class president, James Hardin. The boys at the Beta Zeta Shelter have become scholarship minded, in that they were first in scholarship for the preceding year, and all indications show that they will lead again this year since a scholastic average, higher than that of the University, is being required of the pledges and expected of the actives.

From the standpoint of offices, Beta Zeta has to its credit: junior class treasurer, Robert Cox; president of Blue Key, Clarence Warren; president of Utes, Hugh Smeltzer; vice-president of Sphinx, Robert Springer; and president of the Interfraternity Council and Men's Union Governing Board, Eugene Yockey, who is also president of the chapter. The Delts also take an active part in other clubs and school affairs.

The most outstanding social event on the Butler Campus, the Delt house party, was held at Turkey Run over Thanksgiving vacation. Sixty-five persons attended this twenty-fifth annual affair.

Beta Zeta now has three new proud wearers of the square badge, Charles Cruce, Thomas Jenkins, and Robert Lawson. These men were initiated at the chapter house November 21, and a banquet followed. Don Youel, chapter adviser, was the principal speaker.

The Delts are represented on the basketball team by Willard Fawcett, forward. Lewis Smith and Vincent Langston are senior and junior managers, respectively.

If things continue to progress as they have been, Beta Zeta is going to have another great year.

FRANKLIN FLEECE

Beta Eta—Minnesota

THE BEGINNING of the fall quarter found the Beta Eta house filled almost to capacity. The active chapter was strengthened by the affiliations of Don Brissman from Gamma Beta, Bob Thorstensen from Beta Pi, and Bob Martin from Beta Phi.

In intramural sports, the chapter got off to a fairly good start by winning one of the divisional championships. Cavour Justus was given honorable mention on the All-UT-Ball team.

The chapter had an active Homecoming with several functions at the house and a party at one of the downtown hotels. Arnold Lahti as Homecoming chairman did a swell job on the house decorations and deserves a lot of credit. The Mothers Club was active as usual. They entertained the alumni and undergraduates the evening before Homecoming at a good old Swedish Smorgasbord. On Homecoming, they presided at open house.

The house seems to be filled with musicians. Bob Sorenson is back and when Bob is around there is plenty of good piano music. Dick Sorenson and Bill Bischoff are members of the University Marching Band. Bob Thorstenson, besides being the chapter singing master, is a member of the University Chanters.

The Gopher Delt will soon be ready for its revival appearance. It is edited by Otto Silha and Lou Benepe.

Elmer Madson and "Gus" Gus-hard were the chapter's representatives at the initial meeting of the new interfraternity pledge council. Elmer is on the membership committee of that organization.

Jack Carroll is busy trying to get things lined up for formal rushing week which starts January 3.

Bill Hotzfield, besides his mechanical engineering course, spends eight hours a day helping the Milwaukee railroad function properly.

At the present time, Don Brissman is in disgrace. It is all due to the fact that he appeared in the hall one night attired in a pair of pajamas reminding of a surealistic nightmare and smoking a pipe which looked like a dented saxophone. Poor Don wonders if he will be able to live it down.

BILL BAUER

Beta Theta—Sewanee

THE NEW school year found Beta Theta Chapter of $\Delta T \Delta$ in very good shape and looking ahead to coming events of note. At the end of last year we lost three seniors, each a very valuable asset to the chapter. These men have left Sewanee's glory to find places of fame in their own name.

The rush weeks went by without many difficulties and we found ourselves with nine splendid new pledges. There were also three re-pledges: Ransom and John Varley and Albert Dade.

When the smoke from Rush Week's fires subsided, we found that some of our older members had attained distinction on the campus. President William N. Wilkerson and Vice-President Dan R. Gray had been elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Both are members of Blue Key. Billy even went farther into scholastic recognition as president of O.D.K. and editor of the student newspaper, The Sewanee Purple.

Our athletic ability has greatly improved due to the fact that Dan Cotter and David Dyer made the first string freshman football eleven, while good Shubael Baesley does his best in representing Beta Theta on the varsity squad. Philip DeWolfe and Henry Meleney have gone out for yelling in a big way with Brother Jack Jourdan as an able helper. They represent the lungs of the chapter on the cheer-leading team.

Interfraternity volley ball has finished its noble reign, while $\Delta T \Delta$ came through the battles with a 500 average of wins. Each game lost was hotly contested and the Delt "never say die" policy was exhibited time after time. Keeping these facts in mind, we look forward to basketball with an eye for triumph. The squad will probably be built around Toby Belford, star of last year's contests, and will probably contain several freshman recruits. In the later athletics such as handball, tennis, etc., Delt brothers have reason to believe we will be well represented.

Walter McGoldrick, "Mac," became a junior gownsman early in the year and now proceeds around the campus sheathed from the comebacks of practical jokes, by the sanctuary of his gown. The chapter believes the overgrown ham is still a "Sophomore" at heart, though.

Thanksgiving was celebrated with vim, vigor, and vitality by all the members. Billy Wilkerson, president of the Sewanee German Club, presided over the Panhellenic dances. Dates were good to behold after the weeks of Mountain seclusion.

The chapter gave a barn dance Dec. 11, welcoming the coming Christmas holidays. The house was decorated with hay, straw, little brown jugs, and a general "homey" atmosphere. Milk and gingerbread were served as refreshments. (We did see Brother Heyward Emerson drinking a "coc" on the sly), and it was a welcome relief to get "back to the soil."

JACK JOURDAN

Beta Iota—Virginia

OUR CHAPTER got off to a good start with a successful rushing season and now we have all settled down to work. The fraternity was the guest of Mrs. Wheat this fall at a delightful buffet supper, given as a farewell party for Erskine Wheat. The whole chapter is sorry he is not at the University this year, but we hope to see him back in the near future.

Garland Cox is now associate editor of College Topics, a representative to the Student Senate, and has just been elected to Eli Banana. Carlyle Dunaway has just been made a member of Phi Delta Phi, and elected to the German Club. Bill Cochran has joined Alpha Chi Sigma and Tri-gon, and Tom Craven has been elected to Scarab. Ned Wicks will start training for indoor track in a week or so, and Dana Mitchell is out for soccer.

The pledges are getting into the swing of things now with Emmitt Gatewood on the staff of College Topics, Fitzhugh Staples on the staff of Corks and Curls, and doing very well on the freshman basketball team. Fred Becker has just ended a successful season on the freshman football team. We put an intramural football team in the field this year, and a good time was had by all.

At the moment the chapter is studying hard for our pre-Christmas exams and hoping for the best.

Risque Plummer, '32, flew down to opening dances in his new "Waco." Everyone was glad to see him again.

We are happy to announce the marriage of Joe Hudgins to Doris Rasmussen of Roanoke.

THOS. J. BARNES, III

Beta Kappa—Colorado

BETA KAPPA did exceptionally well in rushing and pledging this fall. Much of the credit is due to Bob Gilbert, Bob Tyler, George Lesser, Neal Smith, and Bill Mark, who led the chapter in its rushing.

Robert "Toby" Tyler, our chapter president and last year's student body president, has done excellent work in organizing the chapter's work and directing its activities.

The cup for the best Homecoming decoration was presented to Beta Kappa for a decoration made of spruce and aspen boughs with a large moon in the center and rays of light spreading outwards. Much of the credit for the winning of this cup goes to Tom Parker, who was in charge of the decorations.

John Hickman is business manager of The Coloradan.

Beta Kappa has been very successful in intramural sports this fall. Our teams have won two major all-school championships, touchball and volley ball. In addition, our water-polo team is in the finals for that championship.

Lex Quarnberg, Ray Thompson, and Joe Kurtz are all members of the varsity football squad and are doing good work for the team.

ROBERT POWELL

Beta Mu—Tufts

WE HAD a very successful period of "rushing" and got a fine group of pledges. They are not only good pledges but also have been very active in the freshman activities. Ned Lewis is secretary of the class, played soccer, and ran cross-country. Kingsley Phillips played soccer. Ward Albrow was the number one cross-country man, with Chet Kruszyna, Dick Pierce, and Pete Merrick closely following. Lewis, Albrow, and Elmer Smith reported at the first track practice yesterday. Pierce and Ray Schoales are out for basketball, Humphrey Hosmer played football.

We have an equally active group of "actives" this year, too. Dick Wilson, Ralph Slater, Dick Tobey, Les Burton, and Horace Mathieu are out for track. Mathieu also played soccer. Cliff Miller is out for basketball.

Mal Sherman was senior manager of football with Nate Parker as his junior assistant. Bill Mounce is manager of soccer. Bill Poor and Cliff Miller are the cross-country managers.

Les Burton is managing editor of the Weekly with Len Rowley and Fran Bennett on the staff. Les Burton is also on the debating team. Bill Shepard and Nate Parker are associate editors of the Tuftonian. Bill Spear is treasurer of the German Club, and Parker is president of the English Club. Bill Poor is a member of the managing board of the Dramatic Society.

"Wally" Baylies and Pledge Ted Beers are in the college orchestra.

Dick Kelley is now in the graduate school studying for his M.A. He is an assistant instructor in Physical Education and is proctor of Dean Hall.

On behalf of Al Anderson, the president, and all of the chapter, I want to take this opportunity of urging all Delts who come to the vicinity of Tufts to be sure to drop in at our Shelter at 98 Professors Row.

N. O. PARKER

Beta Nu—M.I.T.

HAVING lost four diligent leaders last June, the chapter this year faced the serious problem of filling vacancies in activities and work. However, with an earnest and enthusiastic group of pledges, a full house, and a generally strong and active chapter, we are well on our way toward another successful year.

All of our pledges are out for leading sports: three for crew, one for track, one for gym team, one for fencing team, and four for squash team. With few exceptions they are all carrying an outside activity as well.

The chapter stands foremost in honors and positions here at Tech. Our seniors excel, with our Vice-President Dave Wright as president of Technology Christian Association; Treasurer Ed Hadley as general manager of Voo Doo and Chairman of I.F.C. Dance Committee; Dick Vincens as general manager of The Tech; while our president, John Summerfield, has given up his activity in order to devote more time to the chapter. These men are also well represented in other clubs and societies, and Ed Hadley represents the track team as well. On The Tech we also have Les Sutton, sophomore, who is prospective circulation manager. Other sophomores are George Clark, track star, Howie Schwiebert, who is on the rifle team, and John McMullen, out for crew. In the junior class we have Bob Wooster with a straight-T for crew; Jack Krey in track; Benjamin Badenoch leading in several activities; Bascom Emerson on gym team; and Dick Cella on crew. Worthwhile positions are also held by these men in leading activities and honorary societies. At the same time, the whole chapter is maintaining a good scholastic record, and we have hopes for a higher one.

We were sorry to lose our chapter adviser, Andy Reimold, whose change of address necessarily discontinued his office here. Charles Blessing, who is finishing graduate work here, is now acting as adviser.

Our fall dance, held in November, proved to be an unusual success. Following last year's custom, it was again held at the Myles Standish Hotel in Boston. Other social events have included informal dances and a Christmas party.

BASCOM C. EMERSON

Beta Xi—Tulane

FIRST, a word about the past few months. During the closing weeks of school in May, the Delt tennis team, headed by Barney Phelps, succeeded in reaching the semi-final round of the annual interfraternity competition. Scholastically Beta Xi stood high on the campus, with Hanlin Becker ranking second on the sophomore class in Arts and Sciences, and Tom Bell first among the freshmen. And we are all proud of Ashton Phelps, who was graduated from the College of Law in June with all the highest honors.

Now we look back with satisfaction upon one of the most successful rushing seasons in the history of the chapter. No doubt everyone will agree that the high spot of the whole program was the big rush banquet, when so many alumni turned out that extra tables had to be set. Excellent alumni coöperation, combined with the energetic work of Stanley Ray and his rush committee, brought eighteen new pledges to the chapter house when pledge night rolled around.

This year we have an unusually versatile and active group of boys. Of course many are members of the Glee Club, the Band, and other university organizations. Phil Jahncke and G. C. McKinney play football, and Barney Phelps is on the tennis squad. Martin Kahao helps keep the football team going as assistant manager. Our politicians are Phil Jahncke and George Schneider, who are president of the sophomore class and vice-president of the freshman class, respectively. Stanley Ray, assisted by the Torre twins, publishes the Urchin, one of the best college comic magazines in the country, believe it or not. Last, but far from least, we are blessed this year with a pianist in our midst—Maurice Gelpi—so that now we can gather 'round and sing the good Delt songs with less danger of being accused of staging an indoor hog-calling contest.

TOM BELL

Beta Omicron—Cornell

BETA OMICRON is looking forward to a very successful season in intramural athletics. Already we have concluded a very successful touch football season in which we lost only one game and that by the margin of a mere pair of first downs. Terry, Marsh, Bade, and Bookhout formed the bulwark of the team. The bowling team composed of Bade, Bookhout, and Smith has gotten off on the right foot with a pair of victories over traditional rivals. Other house teams are shaping up very well.

Various individuals in the house have gained extra-curricular honors in the last few months. Bensley and Terry have been experiencing great success in fall baseball practice. Allyn Marsh is working daily at the competition leading to the position of manager of varsity track in his senior year. Joe Griesedieck is deeply engrossed in the baseball competition. Al Reffler is employed with the Cornell Daily Sun. Gene Hintgen is working hard weekly at the offices of the Cornell annual. Black Smith has taken up his duties as assistant manager of varsity wrestling. Dean Wallace has just completed his toiling on lower Alumni Field in connection with the competition for the managership of football.

The house had a very successful dance on the evening of the Cornell-Columbia football game. Also, in a social way, we entertained the lower classmen of Zeta Psi at a dinner early in November.

We are looking forward to a very successful year on the whole since our rushing season was concluded very much to the satisfaction of all. The new men are rapidly becoming engrossed in outside activities and promise to retain for the house its prestige of former years.

J. SEWARD SMITH

Beta Pi—Northwestern

TWO BETA PI DELTS closed a successful season on the Wildcat varsity football team this fall after a schedule marred by unforeseen upsets. They are Fred Vanzo, '38, Universal, Indiana, and John Haman, '40, Naperville, Ill. Fred's outstanding play as a blocking quarterback made him the choice for All-American of several authorities. John became varsity center toward the last of the season, filling the place of Sam Wegner, who was injured.

Bob Vutech, '40, Rocky River, Ohio, is counted on to take honors as end next fall, and three freshman pledges, Art Niedbalski, South Bend, Ind., Dick Richards, Sioux Falls, S.D., and Joe Currerri, Milwaukee, Wis., have also been mentioned as likely prospects for next year's varsity.

Two more cups were added to Beta Pi's trophy case at the annual Homecoming festivities the week-end of November 6. The Delt skit in the annual Homecoming frolics—a take-off on fraternity and sorority life, with mimics of the latter—won first place for fraternities, and the Delt entry in the Saturday morning parade was awarded second prize. Jack Crist, '40, Danville, Ill.; Charles Hallett, '40, Hammond, Ind.; Carleton Van Dyke, '38, Sioux City, Iowa; and Perc De Tamble, '40, Wilmette, Ill., were in charge.

Delta Tau Delta took first place in scholarship among Northwestern social fraternities for the second consecutive semester with an average of 4.344, or better than B—, according to the counselor's office. Phi Gamma Delta was second, with five-thousandths of a point less. Last semester's Delta average of 4.418 was the highest social fraternity mark ever reached at Northwestern.

Editor of the 1939 Syllabus, Northwestern's junior class yearbook, is Jess Cobb, '39, Evanston. Jess promises novelty and originality in the annual, which will appear next spring. Delts working with him are: Hank Goerlick, '39, Evanston, associate editor; John Dienger, '39, Evanston, fraternity editor; Herb Fortlage, '39, Cleveland, Ohio, junior section editor; Bob Estabrook, '39, Newtonville, Mass., editorial chairman; Fred Niketh, '38, Gary, Ind., office manager; and the following freshman assistants: Charles Kalb, Rockford, Ill.; Bill Erickson, Danville, Ill.; Bob Noel, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Bruce Isherwood, West Chicago, Ill.; Bill Ogg, Winnetka, Ill.; and Don Cornish, Lakewood, Ohio.

Ted Gianakopoulos, '39, Chicago, chapter rushing chairman, and Charles Hallett, '40, Hammond, Ind., have been elected to the junior and sophomore class commissions.

Intramural wrestling champion for his class is Pledge Walter Starr, '39, Auburn, Ala. Malcolm Bannerman, '38, Redgranite, Wis., chapter president, is senior wrestling manager, and John Dienger, '39, Evanston, is junior manager. Harry Brookby, '38, Evanston, is chapter intramural and activities manager.

Charles Melchior, '40, Jasper, Ind., is counted on heavily as a regular on Northwestern's basketball squad this winter.

Delts working on the Daily Northwestern are Bob Estabrook, night editor and member of the editorial board; Don Cornish, desk editor; Bud Branston, '41, Muskegon, Mich., copyreader; George Mickley, '40, Western Springs, Ill.; Bill Ogg; Dick Bell, '41, Lebanon, Pa.; Bob Perry, '41, Lincoln, Ill.; and Charles Kalb.

Chapter representatives on the Interfraternity Council are Chapter President Malcolm Bannerman and Jack Hastie, '38, Evanston, chapter vice-president.

Members of Purple Key, junior men's honorary society, are Jess Cobb; Bub Powell, Princeton, Ill.; Tony Maidment, Princeton; and MacDonald Wood, Manitowoc, Wis. Mal Bannerman is treasurer of Deru, senior men's honorary, and Fred Vanzo is also a member.

Active in University theater productions this year is John Haney, '40, Ada, Okla.

Two Beta Pi Deltas received class honors at the annual honors convocation October 15. They are Jess Cobb, '39, and Bob Estabrook, '39. All students in the upper five per cent of their respective classes are cited by the university.

Active in Alpha Phi Omega, eagle scout fraternity, are Carleton Van Dyke; Herman Ogg, '38, Douglass, Kan.; Dave Sime, '38, Buffalo, N.Y.; MacDonald Wood; Don Cornish; and Walter Starr.

Four Deltas have been active in the Northwestern Y.M.C.A. They are Jack Crist; Bob Estabrook, secretary; Bob Noel; and Fred Niketh.

Beta Pi Deltas who played in Northwestern's 124-piece band during the football season are: John Runden, '38, Kendallville, Ind., bell-lyre; Eric Stockton, '40, Wyoming, Ohio, bell-lyre; George Mickley, drum; Thad Snell, '41, Ida Grove, Iowa, bass drum; Tom Seymour, '40, Winfield, Kan., French horn; Bruce Isherwood, clarinet; Bob Estabrook, trombone; and Bob Noel, '41, Grand Rapids, Mich., sousaphone. Tom Seymour is also a member of the University Symphony orchestra.

"Reno" Runden and His Rugged Riggadiers—a band made up of Delt swingmen—have played for several chapter parties during the fall.

And so Beta Pi looks forward to a successful year. With 31 pledges in a well-integrated class, there is much promise for the future.

Beta Rho—Stanford

BETA RHO got off to a flying start this quarter by winning its league in intramural football by defeating the Alpha Sigmas, the Dekes, and the A.K.L.s. Gren Whyte, stellar Delt halfback, was named on the All-University team.

Plans for the winter formal were announced by George Parker, chairman of the dance committee. It will be held January 28 and it promises to be a big affair.

Right now, Beta Rho is in the midst of rushing and under the leadership of Andy Shirey, rushing chairman, the pledge class is lining up well. Because of the deferred rushing system in effect at Stanford, formal pledging is illegal until January 7.

Lee Sharp was initiated into Tau Beta Phi. President Harry Raider has been in training for track and Vice-President Jack Beman has been running cross-country. Jack made his letter in this event last year.

Clark Howell, Roger Knox, "Dude" Munzer, Ken Cuthbertson, and Don Berger played varsity soccer. Munzer and Cuthbertson made their letters. Ken played every quarter of every game.

Bud Cady has been very prominent in dramatics, and this year is president of the "Stagers," the Stanford dramatic society. He wrote several of the skits in the Big Game Gaeties which are held each year on the Friday before the Stanford-California game. They were a big success. Clark Howell and Hank Rhoades also had parts in them.

Hank Rhoades, Harry Raider, Bob Coffin, and Tel Oswald are lieutenants and Carl Barrow is a captain in the R.O.T.C. Hank is also playing polo.

Carl will travel with the debating team when they tour the east next quarter.

Prominent in politics are Jack Beman, Don Berger, and Ken Cuthbertson. Jack is a member of the Men's Council, Don is president of the sophomore class, and Ken is a sophomore member of the Rally Committee.

George Parker and Bob Plate played varsity water-polo. Bob played first string forward and made his letter.

Ray Brown, who made his numerals in track last spring with a jump of better than 23 feet, is in training for track. His best jump so far is 24 feet, 3½ inches, and he is expected to go far in this event. Likewise, Russ Wulff made his numerals in track last year. He set a new high jump mark of 6 feet 4 inches in the "Little Big Meet," destroying the record of 6 feet 2 inches which had been in existence 15 years. Numeral men Bud Munkelt, George Rockwell, and Bill Jess returned this year to seek varsity letters. Bud throws the javelin, George runs the quarter and Bill hops the hurdles. Also seeking track letters are Dick Ellis, Joe "Holstein" Halstead, and Beman.

Joe Ashcraft is playing varsity basketball and Dean Pierose is seeking a berth on the baseball team as pitcher. Bud Biorkman is playing varsity tennis and Phil Griffith was playing until he was disabled by an appendicitis operation.

Brad Schaeffer, Hank Rhoades, Carl Barrow, and Dean Pierose are playing golf.

Last October in a joint initiation with the Beta Omega Chapter held at Stanford, Beta Rho initiated eighteen men.

The alumni banquet given in San Francisco last October was a big success with about 90 per cent of the house being there.

Norman Jesberg, who made his numerals in gymnastics last winter is back with us and is one of the members of the gym team.

This winds up the activities of the chapter.

TELFORD W. OSWALD

Beta Tau—Nebraska

THE OPENING of basketball season at Nebraska finds four Deltas on the first team of the conference championship defending Cornhuskers. Bob Parsons, second string All-American guard from last year; Floyd Ebaugh, All-Big Six center last year; and Paul Amen, forward, will again form the spearhead of the Husker cage attack in the 1937-38 season. Dow Wilson, brilliant sophomore, will be playing his first year at the other forward position.

In intramurals, we are holding our own and will be one of the leading contenders for the basketball championship with practically the same team back this year that was runner-up last season.

In campus activities, Beta Tau is very well represented. George Rosen is active on the Awgwan, monthly humor magazine, and is a hard worker for Kosmet Klub, dramatics organization. Jack Gellatly is a member of the business staff of the Cornhusker, yearbook, and is a member of the Corn Cobs. John Howell, varsity quarterback last fall, is writing a daily society column in the student paper, The Daily Nebraskan. Angus Nicoll, a freshman, is writing varsity basketball for the Nebraskan. Bob Van Norman is serving on the Student Council as representative of the College of Pharmacy.

In an effort to bring Beta Tau alumni into closer contact with the active chapter and to get acquainted with new pledges, the chapter is staging monthly alumni smokers at which the alumni, actives, and pledges dine together. After the dinner, actives and pledges leave the house and the alumni take over for the evening. The first three smokers have been overwhelmingly successful with nearly 50 alumni from Lincoln alone attending regularly.

The scholastic standing of the Delts has been improved greatly during the first two six-week periods. A marked decrease in down hours has been noted and the end of the semester should see $\Delta T \Delta$ well up in the list of scholastic standings.

Due to too many outside activities, John Howell was forced to resign from the presidency of the chapter. Bill Sawtell was elected new president and Arden Nestrud was selected to fill the treasurer's office left vacant by Sawtell.

W. BARTON BERG

Beta Upsilon—Illinois

AT THE present time Beta Upsilon is taking quite an interest in intramural sports. In the fall track meet the chapter won second place. Bill Tamm, ace javelin thrower from La-Grange, Illinois, won first place in his event; George Gragg won first place in the shot put and the discus. The house soft ball team reached the finals of the fraternity league, only to be defeated in the final game 2-1. This makes Beta Upsilon third among sixty fraternities in total points with 66. With these two sports over, we are looking forward to basketball and water-polo.

Cliff Peterson, '41, was elected captain of the "frosh" football team.

Sam Hall is chairman of the Union Minstrel Show.

The annual Skull and Crescent Pajama Race was held October 28, and the Delts won. Wilson Schwenk, Len Middleton, Harry Ripke, and Clifford Peterson were on the team and they each received a pair of silk pajamas for themselves. The house received a beautiful trophy to add to the mantel.

President Robert Wooldridge and Dean Turner attended the National Interfraternity Conference in New York during the Thanksgiving recess.

The chapter has had a few radio dances, and the fellows are looking forward to the annual Christmas formal pledge dance.

DANIEL V. MCWETHY, JR.

Beta Phi—Ohio State

BRANCH RICKEY, graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and member of Mu Chapter of $\Delta T \Delta$, was principal speaker at the annual Round-Up of the Ohio State Interfraternity Pledge Council, Friday evening, October 29. Brother Rickey, business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, talked about some of his baseball experiences and what a fraternity should mean to the undergraduates and graduate members.

Because Rickey is a Delt, Beta Phi was the only active chapter on the campus to be given an invitation to attend. All Beta Phi pledges and most of the active chapter attended this Round-Up, giving the chapter the best representation there.

Other Alumni Delts present were: Don Beech, also a member of Ohio Wesleyan Chapter and president of the Columbus Red Birds; George Eckelberry, '14, an assistant to the president of Ohio State University.

HUGH S. STARR

Beta Chi—Brown

WITH Thanksgiving vacation now a thing of the past, we Brown Delts have returned once again to the campus and look back with satisfaction on the first-half of this term.

After winning the university intramural football title, $\Delta T \Delta$ at Brown led all other fraternities in the placement of men on the All-College teams. Three Delts, Tom Huckins, Jim Keegan, and Chuck Redington, made the All-College first team, while Charlie Williams gained a place on the second team and Jim Lathrop was named for the third team. Big Bill Braman was given honorable mention for his part in helping the Delts win the intramural football trophy. Attention is directed now toward the winter activities with hope running high for piling up points for the much sought after Lampher Cup which goes to the fraternity having the largest number of points for intramural sports at the end of the college year.

Beta Chi will continue its social activities by holding its annual pledge dance Saturday, December 11, and looks forward to the Interfraternity Governing Board dance planned shortly after the Christmas vacation.

"Now I have another little trick here I think you will like." This dear Brothers, is fair warning against Pledge Dwight Hamborsky, the Mad "Irish" Magician who has more tricks than an all-night bridge game. Nor is the slight-of-hand artist alone in his illusionary tactics but he has an assistant; namely, one Mr. Joe McCarthy, a second cousin of the famous radio Charlie. Joe may be complimented on the fact that his jokes, puns, et cetera, are slightly above the house average and his rendition of "Old Wabash" has proved him to be a true Little Giant. However, there is one sad note in Joe's life. Some upper classmen had seen fit to punish Joe for some misbehavior and when they had completed the unpleasant duty, Joe sat by himself and wept bitterly. At the sight of the little lad weeping, the fellows felt that they

Northwestern Delts Sing The Beebee Family

By PLEDGE TOM SEYMOUR, Beta Pi (Northwestern), '40

1.

The Beebees had three husky sons named Buster, Bill, and Bee,
And Buster was the best of all the Beebee family.
He led his class in scholarship, was captain of football,
And when it came to track, why he led them one and all.

He rambled up to Michigan and thought he'd join a frat,
But first he took a look around to see where he was at.
But after all was said, he thought he would be right
So the colors that he wore next day were purple, gold, and white.

CHORUS:

Oh, he rambled, he rambled,
He rambled all around,
Saw every frat in town.
He rambled, he rambled,
He rambled till he put the colors on.

3.

He rambled down to Evanston and took a look around,
And there he found the $\Delta T \Delta$'s were still the best in town.
He pulled up stakes at Michigan and entered old N.U.
He's a $\Delta T \Delta$ at Beta Pi and one of the chosen few.

He rambled up to Heaven and displayed his old frat pin.
St. Peter opened wide the gates and promptly let him in.
And when he took a vote to find the best fraternity
He found his choice was only one, our dear old $\Delta T \Delta$.

5.

He rambled down to Hades just to satisfy himself;
The Alpha Delts were labeled junk and placed upon the shelf;
The SAE's and Fiddley Thetes to sizzle had begun
While the Delta boys in covered chairs were watching all the fun.

He rambled on a little more into the dark and gloom;
Satan opened wide the door and stepped into the room;
He gave him to understand his merest word was law
For he was a charter member and a damn' good Delta Tau.

7.

Now Adam was the first man the Brother Delts took in.
Solomon was the wisest Delt to ever wear a pin;
And Alexander was all right except he was a bum
And if Julius Caesar comes to life, we'll pledge the son of a gun.

8.

He rambled on across the seas into the front line trench
And there he met his brother Delts a-gossiping in French,
And what they all did have to say is more than I can tell,
But they all did promise faithfully to give the Kaiser —.

Now many a Delt brother on his voyage across the sea
Has had his future destined by the symbols $\Delta T \Delta$;
We'll sing hurrah for Delta Tau, we'll sing it till we die,
And we'll sing it up in Heaven when we get there by-and-by.
AAAAA—men.

had been too hard and started to apologize but Joe stopped them saying, "It's not that. It's just that the paddle you used was my late Aunt Minnie!"

LAWRENCE A. SANDERS

Beta Omega—California

BETA OMEGA has had a very successful semester during this last period. Starting the school off with a swell pledge dance, the chapter proceeded to have its share of activity.

A joint initiation was held October 31 with the Beta Rho Chapter at the Stanford chapter house. Pat Hamilton, Paul Schacht, and Gardiner Whitehead were the contributors from Beta Omega to the initiated class. The banquet that followed was made very successful by the ever-present rivalry that is always present when members of these two institutions get together.

November 24 was the date for our annual formal which was held at the Sequoia Country Club. This affair was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present and the credit goes to Brother Don Gregory for the fine arrangements.

The Beta Omega Mothers Club is still doing its characteristic good work around the house. Various new improvements have been made around the chapter that have brightened it considerably. Their big event of the semester was a reading by Mrs. Hugh Brown. This organization was also the group that made the open house the success that it was the day of the U.S.C. game.

Beta Omega has given its share of support to our Golden Bear football team this year. The chapter followed the team to Los Angeles for the U.C.L.A. game and came back well satisfied with the results and the associations with the members of the Delta Iota Chapter. Beta Rho played host to our contingent November 20 when we traveled to Palo Alto to witness the trouncing of the Stanford Indian. The next stop during our travels is in the South at Pasadena January 1, when California takes on Alabama at the annual New Year's Day Rose Bowl Classic. You can be sure there will be a good representation of Delts from California in the Blue and Gold rooting section.

JACK HOOPER

Gamma Beta—Armour

As THE first semester draws to a close, Gamma Beta is well on her way towards a most successful school year. A fine spirit of coöperation has developed which will insure a better all-round year.

Freshman elections have been held and our pledge class emerged with the presidential office held by Pledge Schaffer. Our pledge class, twenty strong, is showing unusual ability both scholastically and in campus activities. The pledge formal was held a few weeks ago, and was the season's biggest social success.

Basketball is well under way with Brother Scherer at guard on the varsity; the house has added three more cups to the trophy case, having won the interfraternity golf, baseball, and touchball tourneys. Brothers Davidson and Sunde represent the house on the golf team again this year, and Brothers McIntyre and Yeager along with Pledges Basile and Tulgren make up the better part of the wrestling squad.

Brother Fox has recently pledged Scarab, an honorary architectural fraternity, while Brother Davidson is an active member. Brother Laise was initiated into Eta Kappa Nu, an honorary electrical fraternity.

Our townsman's room has been completely refurnished in a modernistic style and we have a new game room in which a house ping-pong tournament is now being played.

Our Mothers Club is doing its usual good work this year.

PHIL SMITH

Gamma Gamma—Dartmouth

GAMMA GAMMA opened the new scholastic year with a bang-up rushing season which netted twenty-five of the finest pledges seen in these parts. Now that they are initiated we have a chapter powerful in all lines. It is with special interest that we are watching the house teams as they have promise of being able to add to the stock of silver cups.

The initiation of the pledges was followed by our usual banquet, at which we were favored by the presence of Brothers Merrill and Tilson, men who knew the chapter way back when. Initiation having been completed, the next step was toward the fall house party. Following the general trend, this party was better than the last. It seems that the parties get progressively better and better.

Scholastically speaking, the house is now third on campus, a fine showing considering the competition. Although there is no listed standing, it is potentially strong on the athletic side, too.

So we are looking forward to the new calendar year with high hopes, and wish every chapter a new year as fine as is in the future for the Dartmouth Delts.

RALPH A. MERIGOLD

Gamma Delta—West Virginia

GAMMA DELTA got off to another fine start this year. With the coöperation of an active chapter of forty-three, a capable rushing chairman, Clifford Taylor, and a few of the old grads, we were fortunate to acquire thirty-two new pledges. Robert Agee of Logan, W.Va., was elected president of the pledge class.

We have "Smokey" Coffman, who has returned to school after a three-years' absence, with us again this year, and John Livingstone, who has returned after an absence of one year. We have with our chapter, too, this year two transfers, Robert Keister, a transfer from Duke, and Dallas McCune, a transfer from W. & J.

James Satterfield, Jack Morgan, and Fritz Tissue were formally initiated into the chapter October 21.

Just recently the proposed re-finance plan for the house became a success. Most of the credit for the success of the plan falls onto the shoulders of two old Delts: Anthony McCue and Ernie Bell. It was through the untiring efforts of these two men with the greatest coöperation on the part of the numerous other grads that this plan became such a great success.

We wish to express to these men our deepest gratification for putting our house back on a sound financial basis.

The night of the Panhellenic dance the preps staged one of the most successful parties of the current year. They invited their prep friends from all other fraternities on the campus to attend their annual party in the house. It was an original idea on the part of the preps and will probably become a tradition on the campus in the future. The house is always open on this particular night after the active chapter has had its Pan dinner. Incidentally, Henry Busse played for the Pan dance this year.

Intramural Manager Paul Correll has brought his athletic teams up to second place in the intramural standing. This standing is partly due to the wonderful showing that the speedball team made. The speedball team went to the finals in the intramural play-off.

In basketball this year we are well represented. On the varsity's first string is Cliff Fisher, a Delt prep, and fighting for a first string berth is Joe Cunningham. "Sparky" Butler is candidate for assistant basketball managership. There are two preps, Jim McCartney and "Corney" Davis, out for the freshman basketball team.

Homer Myers and Martin Dana, a prep, should be on the wrestling team this year. Paul Correll was appointed manager of the wrestling team, Elbert Matthews is a candidate for wrestling managership. Ed Beedle is a candidate for boxing managership.

The chapter is well represented in athletics as far as managerships are concerned. Dean Eisel is manager of the baseball team, Paul Correll is manager of the wrestling team, "Doc" Campbell is assistant manager of the football team and is now in line for managership, John Livingstone is an assistant baseball manager, and in the other sports are preps seeking assistant managerships.

Scott Wysong was recently selected president of the French Club. John Fear was elected president of the junior class.

"Boots" Swing and Joe Cunningham were recently selected for Mountain, the highest campus honorary.

At the end of the first semester, we lose three actives through graduation. They are; Mike Welshonce, ex-social chairman, Ed Heflin, and Carl Moran.

DEAN EISEL

Gamma Zeta—Wesleyan

GAMMA ZETA's rushing season went off especially well this year, bringing in a group of freshmen whom we expect to give a good account of themselves both athletically and scholastically. Credit for the success in pledging goes largely to Rushing Chairman Bill Heisler.

On the scholastic side, Gamma Zeta did fairly well in the past year, placing six men on the honor roll and five in the new Honors College, a part of Wesleyan set aside for students qualified to do distinction work. Several of the freshmen, too, seem to be headed for places in one of the three college honor groups.

The house scored a triumph in intramural athletics this fall by winning the interfraternity touch football championship after having placed second for three years in a row. On the varsity football field Bob Murray held down a first-string guard position, with Walt Hibbard putting in some time at end. We were represented on the freshman team by Joe Brown, who, unfortunately, was disabled by a knee injury fairly early in the season.

In the other fall sports Johnny Lincoln and Ted Nelson played varsity soccer, and Bob Neuffer did his bit in contributing to Wesleyan's successful cross-country season.

George Derbyshire and Chet Jackson will again spend a lot of time on the varsity basketball floor. Ben Pfeiffer managed to dislocate his shoulder during one of the first practices, putting him out for the rest of the season. Bill Sinnamon, who was an All-State player last year, will be one of the mainstays of the freshman basketball team, and both Tom Meeker and Henry Derbyshire have given excellent accounts of themselves in practice.

Jack Masson, who has done a large share of winning for the varsity swimming outfit in the past two years, will be pacing the 220 and 440 for Wesleyan again this year. Bob Murray will be back on the wrestling mat in the unlimited class, but Roger Harrington, who had intended to do likewise, was put out of action recently by a bad arm injury.

We held our annual alumni weekend November 5 and 6, and over thirty of the alumni attended to help make it one of the most successful we've had in quite a while. This, along with the success in rushing campaign, put us on the right path from the start—and we intend to stay there.

KENYON KILBON

Gamma Eta—George Washington

INAUGURATING its rush season with a wiener roast at the home of its chapter adviser, Norman B. Ames, the chapter swung through a season of rush festivities to garner a super-class of pledges.

Next came a dance, which was classified as a swell dance by all except certain men with blind dates.

The high spot of rushing came two days later, with a hayride to the Virginia farm of an alumnus, Foster Hagan, in trucks furnished by another alum, Claude Owen.

Halloween brought another function, a costume party, in which the fate of the Deltas was sealed by the Sigma Kappas of this great educational institution.

Within a few weeks, it is announced sadly, no less than five good men were betrothed (more or less) to various Sigma Kappa belles.

Despite these outside influences, the chapter has managed to present a well-above-average basketball team in interfraternity competition and at press time, having won four straight games, is leading its league.

The team is built around sterling performers of last year, Bob Garlick, Al Loring, Karl Schmitt, and Herby Block, bolstered by Pledges Cummings, Marmer, Moran, and Roudabush.

Also despite baleful outside interference, the chapter is striving to maintain the scholastic averages which last year won for it high honors among fraternities on the campus.

Pleasant Memories: Al Loring, Karl Schmitt, and Dave (Jughaid) Rauche, who went to Morgantown to see the G.W.-West Virginia game, brought back most glowing reports and friendly feelings for the good time shown them by Gamma Delta there.

The chapter has inaugurated a series of reciprocal dinners with various sororities on the campus, having sent ten men to a Sigma Kappa (!!!) dinner recently, and will be hosts to the same at a dinner at the house by the time this is printed. Similar exchanges are being arranged with several other sororities on the campus, to take place in the near future.

Although the great event won't take place until February 12, preparations have already been started for the revival of the traditional Delt tacky party, which was universally recognized (even by such as the Sigma Chis) as the best social function on the G.W. campus a few years ago, but which was dropped, due to financial reasons, for the last three years.

And so Gamma Eta rolls on.

ART BRANSCOMBE

Gamma Theta—Baker

INITIATION was held October 19 and Gray Dorsey, Buel Hill, Earl Miller, and Ross Blythe became brothers. The 47th annual chicken fry was held October 20, for which many alumni returned.

Baker University has just completed its football season by winning the conference championship and on the team were three Delts, Earl Miller, Bob Hall, and Stan Zabel. Basketball season is now in full swing with about eight Delts trying to make the team. Floyd Porter and C. J. Meuschke are playing regular, Porter being one of the three returning lettermen.

On the campus the Delts are quite prominent, holding many offices. Fred Conger is president of Baker Players, Alpha Psi Omega, and is editor of the Wildcat, Baker's annual. Clair Harpster is vice-president of the

"B" Club and president of the choir; Julian Porter is president of the sophomore class; and Karl Masoner is secretary of the junior class. Delts also hold positions as vice-president of the French Club, and secretary of the Spanish Club.

Gamma Theta is also very active in music, having ten members in Baker's A Cappella Choir, the president of the choir, and the soloist of the choir.

The Delts led all other fraternities in scholarship, when the ratings were announced for last semester making seven out of the last nine semesters that Delts have been on top.

Gamma Theta also walked off with the fun fest this year. It was the third consecutive time the Delts have won the prize.

Now, everybody's attention is turned to the annual Christmas formal, which is to be held soon and everyone is busy working on it. Yours for a more prosperous 1938.

JULIAN PORTER

Gamma Iota—Texas

DELTA TAU DELTA at the University of Texas has recently begun a new regime of development and achievement under the guidance of President Joe D. Wilson. Joe was unanimously chosen by Gamma Iota to succeed Wm. H. Russell who, after more than a year of splendid work, withdrew from school to study law in his father's office. To fill the vacancy left by Wilson, Jack Sims was elected to the position of vice-president, and Graham Peterson was unanimously chosen corresponding secretary. Working under these men are a group of enthusiastic, experienced officers and committeemen.

Twice each year Gamma Iota publishes the Longhorn Delt, which serves as a bulletin to inform the Texas alumni of the various activities which the chapter is carrying on, its program and policies, and the activities of the alumni chapters over the state. Our fall edition under the editorship of Homer Mueller is just off the press, and appears to be the best number in several years.

We are now in the midst of "pledge inspection" week which is to be followed by a formal initiation ceremony December 3. Those young hopefuls who are being subjected to the closest scrutinies by the actives are C. A. Brown of Austin, Byron Cain of Quitman, Randolph Jackson of Hillsboro, Clay Puckett of San Antonio, and Howard Rutherford of Waxahachie. Einstien Munroe and Kenneth Holloway are directing their inspection routines, which have been most interesting indeed.

Friday, December 10, we have our big social event of the fall, this year to be a formal dinner-dance with music by Henry Halstead and his orchestra. The chapter entertained with an open house Thanksgiving, and will have another gala Christmas party shortly before the holidays. Each Saturday evening, Housemanager Alley has been serving buffet supper for alumni, and valuable associations are being renewed through these get-togethers.

Intramurally, Scofield, Reading, Atkinson, and Johnston have been leading our football team through a very successful season toward the finals in our fraternity bracket. Basketball practice has started, and indications point to two fast, aggressive teams in that sport.

Dub Singleton was recently elected as a member of the Student Assembly of the University by a larger majority than any other candidate in the race received. Tom Law has begun a campus-wide Freshman Orientation Campaign, and is receiving the full support of the Faculty and the Freshman Fellowship Club, of which he is sponsor. Tom is chairman of the Judiciary Council of the University, a past member of the Student Assembly, past chairman of the Cultural Entertainment Committee, member of the Social Calendar Committee of the University, president of Phi Eta Sigma, a Goodfellow, a Cowboy, and a member of the varsity track team, among other things.

JACK SIMS

Gamma Kappa—Missouri

FIRST, about chapter activities. We started a big year off with one of the better campus parties, and the only queens that weren't here were the ones that didn't enroll in school this year. To keep our social standing up, on the campus, each week we entertain a limited number of Delts and their dates at a Sunday Night Fireside Party which is proving to be a big hit with the girls.

In the intramural field, Gamma Kappa stands among the first eight out of twenty-six fraternities. Touch football, golf, and tennis have been completed; and while Gamma Kappa took no plaques, we stood near the top in all of these sports. At present, handball is underway with basketball looming just before the Christmas holidays. In both these sports the Delt representatives are expected to show well.

This year, a Pledge-Active game was inaugurated at Gamma Kappa which saw the Actives come out on top to win the coveted trophy. The rules of the game are that it be played the day after the first heavy snow with every man in the house competing. It proved a big hit with the chapter and will be continued as a permanent affair.

Just after the Missouri Homecoming game with Oklahoma this year, the chapter held an Alumni Banquet which saw several of the old grads returning.

Bill Niernich comes to us as a transfer from the frozen vastness of the North—Michigan. Bill has affiliated and we agree heartily with the Michigan Delts—he is a good gent and a real Delt. Kenny Penfold, newly appointed Field Secretary for the Fraternity, is temporarily with us. Kenny will leave soon to visit some of the other chapters. May he return soon and stay long.

Now about individual activities. Jake Schweitzer, president of the chapter, is a member of Blue Key, Scabbard and Blade, one of the mainstays on the Panhellenic Council, and has an inside chance to become the Campus Knight Owl, honorary title bestowed by the majority vote of the campus beauties. Lake and Schuske are returning lettermen to the ranks of the rifle team. Along military lines, Schweitzer is a cadet captain while Lake and Hunt are both sergeants in the advanced course. Hunt is also Sports Editor of the Missouri Showme, campus magazine, writes publicity for the University Sports Publicity service and is vice-president of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary Journalism Fraternity. Snyder is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, and is one of the eight men to be selected from the entire freshman class to this honor. He is scholarship chairman this year and will represent the chapter on the baseball field this coming spring.

The freshmen are also doing themselves proud. Bermond is a member of Pershing Rifles and of Stripes and Diamonds. Bill Burrell and Johnny Lancey are holding them spellbound on the freshman debate platform and recently trimmed the sails of the varsity in an inter-squad debate. Cunningham is showing well on the Showme and the Student. Bert Gage is also doing well on the Showme. Duke Godsey, Bob Symmonds, Jack Hosford, and Johnny Hoover are all members of the Glee Club. Harry Wisner is in the band. Johnny Hoover, Jack Hosford, and Bob Symmonds are members of Alpha Delta Sigma, honorary advertising fraternity. Hal Quinn is turning out some outstanding drawings for the Savitar, campus yearbook, and is rated high by the editor of that publication as a staff worker. Bud Marsh is another who is doing good work on the Savitar. Bancroft Davis is considered as one of the best freshman golfers and is certain to be a numeral winner in this sport, while Paul Cunningham is making a strong bid for a freshman rifle team berth. "Indian Joe" Goodman is a varsity rifle squad candidate.

And so closes another missive of fraternal activity. The next time we write, we'll really have some activities!

RAYMOND SNYDER

Gamma Lambda—Purdue

THE INITIAL days of the school year found the Delts figuring prominently in campus affairs. Dan Rohy-ans, senior in the science school, was elected president of our powerful student council organization, and supporting Danny in the role of student senate representatives are Lee Rieth, Herbie Fishburn, Ray Fatout, and Leonard Taylor. The student government under Danny's guidance has already been instrumental in changing and improving campus policies.

Keith Correll and Jim Miller showed fine promise in freshman football and Pledge-Brother Carl Verplank, sophomore, earned his major letter playing a fighting game at left guard for the Boilermakers. Sammy Craig, member of the varsity swimming team, is busy at present boosting the water carnival to be held in celebration of the opening of our new fieldhouse, which is one of the finest in the country.

The intramural teams in soft ball and touch football, although they didn't ride top-flight all the way to the finish, showed up to be among the top ranking, and basketball holds a lot of promise for victory.

The first week in October was the occasion of the combination house picnic and touch football game; a struggle between upper and lower classmen—the former were victorious by a score of 12-0. A copious supply of food however dulled partisan feelings after the game.

Homecoming October 9 brought a gratifying number of older Delt alumni and recent grads back to the Shelter for a most enjoyable week end, for all reports from them were most pleasing to us. The alumni give that substantial background so essential to the chapter and we want to see more of them. Dads Day too, was equally a success.

The pledge class of nineteen promising boys has been progressing well and they are learning the principles of being good Delts under a new pledge-training system instituted by the chapter after preparatory work by Jim von Harz our rush-chairman. Paul MacDonald, pledge-trainer, is very capably handling the execution of the new policy.

The freshmen stand out so far as being especially efficient scholastically —the returns on their midsemester grades were indeed fine, far above those of previous years.

Other campus activities in which Delts are figuring prominently are: The Exponent, school daily publication; Charles Schroeder as a junior editor and Bill Gillilan as manager of national advertising contribute their part toward its success. The Debris, yearbook, has two of our juniors—Dick McGhee and Harold Lewis, in line for senior jobs on sales and editorial staffs respectively.

Socially, we are carrying on with the best, in the customary rounds of trade-dinners, teas, etc.

Recently all of us were enlightened and inspired by an after-dinner talk by J. E. Walters, head of the University Personnel Department. He very definitely showed us the correlation between grades, activities, and personality in securing profitable positions in the years after graduation. Thus we're all up on our toes doing our best to follow his advice.

With the biggest and best part of the year before us, we're all standing behind our president and leader, Robbie Reed, to make the most of our potentialities.

ROBERT WALTER

Gamma Mu—Washington

SHOWING a great deal of the spirit which is conducive to a progressive chapter, twenty-eight actives returned this year to the Shelter September 15 and worked from eight in the morning until ten at night. They kalsomined, painted, cleaned, and waxed every room in the Shelter from top to bottom. The dining room has been remodeled; with silver stars and moons stenciled on a sky-blue ceiling.

Gamma Mu climbed to the plus one group in scholarship and was led by only two important national fraternities.

The chapter annexed another handsome silver trophy by winning the interfraternity touch football championship. With Jack Deierlein and George Forbes in charge of intramural sports, we are out to win the Garhart Trophy.

Our greatest disappointment of the year was the losing of Howard Tomasi, who is now resident adviser of Gamma Rho at Eugene, Oregon. The boys had better be on their toes down there, because Howard was chosen as one of the four most handsome men on the Washington campus.

Ralph Lewis has the lead in the Penthouse Show, Spring Dance; Les Wilkins is Prosecutor for the Interfraternity Council; Fred Paul on the varsity debate squad; Sam Bunker and Floyd Vinson in Purple Shield with "Teddy" Vison as vice-president of this scholastic honorary.

The Delts' Sunday Fireside parties have created a sensation on the campus and this year's social program is the envy of Greek Row. The annual orphan party will be held late in December. The glee club that was organized in the house last fall and serenaded the other houses won second place in the Interfraternity Song Fest.

Sam Bunker was chairman of the entertainment committee for the student leader conference, also general chairman of the Purple Shield-Malumutes mixer.

Aronow, Vinson, Bunker and Hunter are members of the student leader class which gives the Delts the largest representation on the campus.

"Skid" Hanson is on the Daily and Tyee staff. He is also on the frosh debate squad. Bill Yeomans and Joe Williams are turning out for frosh crew and Fred Madigan is out for frosh track.

Jack Garret was pledged to Scabbard and Blade and Jack Bradshaw pledged to Phi Alpha Rho.

The success displayed by Gamma Mu's actives and pledges predicts an even better record than that achieved in the last few years.

T. RICHARD WOOD

Gamma Nu—Maine

THE OLD chapter is doing well for itself this year with thirty-four men living in the house. Of these thirty-four, twenty-seven are active members. We have a closed rushing season here which ended just before Thanksgiving recess. Gamma Nu was very successful in rushing and has twenty-eight new men wearing the crossed Deltas.

In athletics we have Wally Hardison and Johnny Haggett for lettermen. They are president and vice-president of the chapter, respectively. Bob Harvey is out for track and basketball. Carl Toothaker was awarded the JV shingle for football this fall. "Toot" played first string last year and looks like varsity material for next year. Bob Sherman a sophomore pledge was on the JV squad this season also.

Bill Beck, Ken Bouchard, Lyle Butler, Larry Harlow and Bob Sherman, all sophomores are out for track. Charlie Huntoon and Bill Bower are looking forward to a successful winter sports season. Paul Woods is tennis manager.

Wally Hardison is a member of the Senior Skull Society, senior men's honorary non-scholastic society. He is also secretary of the Men's Student Senate, Student Senate and Interfraternity Council. Wally is also a member of Alpha Zeta and acts as corresponding secretary for that organization.

Gil Brown is the manager of the R.O.T.C. band and ranks as Master Sergeant. Al Bouchard and Larry Fredrickson, a pledge, are members of the band. Al is also a platoon sergeant in the R.O.T.C.

The chapter is socially successful this year, having "vic" parties frequently. We had a very successful fall informal and are planning a mid-winter informal for the week-end preceding Washington's birthday.

GILBERT M. BROWN

Gamma Xi—Cincinnati

WE ARE unanimous in our belief that Gamma Xi should be awarded the cup for the greatest progress since May, 1937—but don't misunderstand! Gamma Xi was the beautiful Belgian Shepard puppy presented to the Cincinnati Delt Chapter last May by the Howard Fischbach family (a family in which Deltism is a tradition). Today, Gamma has grown up and although he is still as playful as a puppy, when he stands upon his hind legs, his front paws easily reach the shoulders of a six-footer. So our beliefs are not the outgrowth of colossal egotism, but a fond pride in our "newest member."

Our pledge class is making the actives proud of their choice and is quite prominent in both activities and scholarship upon the U.C. campus.

On the evening of November 30, Gamma Xi played host to twelve other campus fraternities for the opening lecture of the Marriage and the Home Forum sponsored by the Campus Forum Committee of the University Y.M.C.A. Art Seaman is chairman of this committee and Brother Myron Johnson and Pledge Al Vontz are committee members. Other Delts active in "Y" programs of the immediate future are Jule Hessel who is chairman of the Freshman Relations Committee which is sponsoring the Interfraternity Pledge Banquet to be held on Monday, December 6, and Art Jacobs who edits the bi-weekly newspaper, The Y's Bearcat.

The Pledge Formal was held during the past month and Social Chairman Jerry Giuseffi provided one of Cincy's finest swing bands.

The pledges not to be outdone by the actives, announced that they were giving us a Christmas dance—another of those grand Gamma Xi traditions.

Last, because it is the dessert of the secretarial menu, is a review of the game that the actives always win—traditionally played on Thanksgiving morning. The actives, in spite of the fact that they're getting too old to be playing tackle, took the pledges into camp to the tune of 12 to 0. Robert Heuck Sr., the referee for the past several years, decided that home life would be more pleasant if he merely watched his sons, Bob Jr. and Kenny, playing for the actives and pledges, respectively. Therefore, "Alum" Charley Coughlen took over the duties and handled them capably.

ART SEAMAN

Gamma Pi—Iowa State

THE ROLL at Gamma Pi is larger than it has been for several years. With three new transfer students, Sherman Dickinson, Gamma Kappa; Max Coons, Delta Lambda; and Bill Givens, Gamma Lambda, we are getting a slant on other chapters' organization.

Among the social activities of the house, our Firesides have received the distinction of being the best on the campus. Perhaps it's the "Big Apple."

Kent Magruder still swings a mean polo mallet and is in line for a position on the varsity team. Among our other equestrians we have Bill Quinn participating in the College Cossacks.

We have likely prospects in the coming basketball and track season, with an able basketball manager in Max Ryerson.

President Billings is on the Engineering Council and is a representative on the Cardinal Guild, the student governing body, from the council.

Robert Fletcher is a member of the Y.M.C.A. Cabinet again this year.

We regret the loss of President FitzGerald this fall and hope that his illness finds cure away from the worries of study.

All in all the prospects for the ensuing year look fine.

ROBERT FLETCHER

Gamma Rho—Oregon

IF FOR nothing more than to prove that Gamma Rho is still on the map, the following is offered. At present we are nearing the completion of fall term with fear and trembling as to the usual outcome for our quarter's work.

Yet with all this concern about the scholastic outcome, we do have other accomplishments to account for. Gordon Palmer is now a member of the Business Administration honorary Beta Gamma Sigma. Kenneth Weber is on the roster of Sigma Delta Chi and Marshall Nelson on that of Beta Alpha Psi. Political minded Clayton Ellis who is a member of the sophomore service honorary Skull and Dagger has been appointed chairman of campus A.S.U.O. dances this quarter. J. T. Monahan is our frosh basketball aspirant, while Ivan Moore holds down the job of head sports manager, and Bob Snoke is junior manager of football. James Tait has been doing the honors with Bill Freeny on the Oregon Emerald as night editors, with Dave Sanderson writing on the sports staff. George Hall is active in Order of the Mace and Theta Delta Phi.

Gamma Rho entertained Delta Lambda in a joint initiation and formal dinner October 31, which proved highly successful. The fall Pledge Dance with the barroom theme was one of the most outstanding on the campus. Our pledges and under classmen were entertained for dinner at Theta Chi November 23, while we entertained the Theta Chi upper classmen; the affair increased the good feeling between the local chapters.

IVAN MOORE

Gamma Sigma—Pittsburgh

AS THIS material is sent in to press, the main topic of conversation at Gamma Sigma is the recent Initiation Week, which has just ended. Four hold-over pledges, Leslie Holt, Thomas Morgan, Emil Naric and John Tredennick, were formally initiated Sunday, December 5.

Local $\Delta T \Delta$ alumni may be interested in knowing that pledge Dan Cannon's father is Edgar C. Cannon, '09; that pledge Bill Trimble's dad is W. F. Trimble, '16; and that pledge Ray Lowe's brother is Harold M. Lowe, '27. How's three out of twelve for a repeater average?

In connection with averages, we're happy to report that we're still battling 'em out. Our team has reached the final round in touch football; only the Lambda Chis stand between us and a first place cup. After touch football competition comes the Interfraternity Sing. We've already begun training, hoping to have the Gamma Sigma "choir" add another winner to its consecutive string of four firsts and one second-place cup.

Aside from intramural sports, we have Delts in most university activities. Holt, Naric, Corace, Dickerhoof and Herlinger are members of the University of Pittsburgh football team; Cooper, Young, MacIntosh, Frost and Trimble are football managers, and Dick Berg is golf manager. Schrader represents the Delts on the Pitt swimming team, and Bill Miller is a candidate for the boxing squad. In other activities, we have Werlinch, Williams and Holmok working for the Owl, the Pitt Yearbook, and Bill Berg and Dan Cannon on the News staff. Johnny Glasser is business manager of the humor magazine, the Pitt Panther, and Downie, Gimber, Graf, Uhl and Holmok are members of the student staff. We now have two men in O.D.K., national honorary; five tapped to Cap and Gown Club; one man in Quill, national honorary literary; one in John Marshall, an honorary pre-legal fraternity; and two in Scabbard and Blade—and we're always working to add a new name to that list.

ERNEST S. HOLMOK

Gamma Tau—Kansas

HAVING had a successful rush week Gamma Tau is settled well into another school year.

Kansas has just completed her 1937 football season, finishing third in the Big Six with 2 wins, one loss and two ties. Clarence "Doug" Douglass was again the mainstay of the Kansas backfield. His fine play earned him unanimous choice for All-Big Six fullback. We look for several All-American mentions. Two of our pledges made numerals in freshman football—Dick McDougall and Bob Allen.

Again this year, the Jayhawk basketball team is being built around Fred Pralle. He has been All-Big Six for the past two years and there is little doubt but that he will repeat. Many sport writers look for him to be All-American this year. Bruce Voran a sophomore is pushing the first string forwards for a starting berth. Bruce made his numerals last year. Bob Allen, a high school star from Indiana, is doing well on the frosh squad.

Intramural sports go well. We got into the play-offs in football, but were beaten by the Betas in the semi-finals. The basketball team looks very good and we expect to add another trophy to our already sagging case. The tennis and horseshoe trophies are "sewed up."

Gamma Tau is very proud of its scholarship during the last year. We came from 11th to 3rd place in intrafraternity competition. One third of the active chapter was on the various honor rolls. President George Pro was admitted to Sigma Tau and Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternities, while Montgomery Veatch was elected to Sigma Tau.

Our annual Paddle party was held the night of November 12 at the Lawrence Country Club. There was quite a delegation up from Baker and Kansas State sent a few fellows. Louie Kuhn played for dancing.

Our delegate to the Karnea came back well pleased and we look forward to the Division Convention in San Francisco in February.

HARRY. G. WILES

Gamma Upsilon—Miami

WE WERE proud to introduce to the school our new house mother, Mrs. Sidney Hallam, and did so with a formal tea at the Shelter with 150 guests present; the list included Dr. Upham, president of the University, Deans of the various schools, and representative Miamians. The affair was pronounced a huge success. "Mom" comes to us from the University of Pittsburgh where she served in the same capacity. We do hope that she remains with us for a long time.

On the gridiron we were represented by juniors, John Wuest and George Fogarty, and three sophomores, Bob Mergenthal, Casey Wineland, and Russ Derr. Mergenthal gained Buckeye second team recognition in his first year of varsity ball. Sam Paterson and "Bud" Kersting are now playing varsity basketball. The chapter has many honors to defend in intramurals this year and have launched their defense in grand style. We have already garnered the volley ball cup and are ahead in points for the maximum participation trophy.

Fogarty is president of the junior class and also wields the gavel over the Classical Club with J. P. Barnum on his executive board. Five men belong to Delta Sigma Pi, the business honorary, while geology claims three Delts in Sigma Gamma Epsilon. "Ye Merrie Players" is headed by Jim Richards who emotes with brothers Gordy Cooper and Avery Phillis. Ken Wood and Art Mallory are active members of the Sophomore Players while prominent on the sophomore Y Council are Bill Daugherty, Russ Derr, Casey Wineland, Bud Kersting, and Sam Paterson. President Garth Slater who so ably managed the Junior Prom last year has a counterpart in Bob Barker, this year's chairman of the Sophomore Hop, the first big school dance of the year. In the literary world, Howard Davis, Bob Gaston, and Ed Morse see that the proper amount of publicity is directed towards the Shelter. Davis, as associate editor, is in line for editor-in-chief of The Miami Student next year.

President Slater and Vice-President Fred Hageman are members of the Varsity Social Club in addition to doing the chief executive work of the chapter. Slater has been most active in the Council of Fraternity Presidents while Hageman controls our political situation on the campus.

Homecoming this year was the occasion for a larger gathering than usual with "Dad" Pumphrey, Eta '74, on hand to add to the general spirit. At the Homecoming Banquet "Dad" presented Brothers Wuest and Wineland with the two scholarship awards offered by our alumni association. The Fall Formal, with Social Chairman Ned Cook at the helm, also drew many graduated brothers. Gamma Upsilon has been most happy to act as hosts to an increasing number of alumni and brothers from other chapters. The more of this we have, the better we like it.

G. BYRON SMITH

Gamma Phi—Amherst

ADDING materially to the appearance and comfort of the House, a refurbished Common Room is now the center of life at Gamma Phi.

After the football game with Massachusetts State, October 30, the House held a tea dance, celebrating the 41 to 6 triumph in an Halloween atmosphere, created by Jim Brown and his variable corps of assistants. Music, chosen by Merrill Tilghman and Brin Bland, was furnished by Ned Barry et al.

Keeping up its traditional record of high scholarship, the chapter ranked second among the fraternities on campus for the fourth straight year, according to a statement from the office of the Dean. Having an average of 79.67, we were nosed out of first place by Alpha Delta's two-tenths of a point lead.

Joe Flynn, '39, was elected president of the Flying Club, at a meeting held last month. Joe is the only officer left from the last year's organization and now has better than 80 hours of solo time to his credit. He has arranged a full round of events, capped by the annual New England Intercollegiate Flying Club meet to be held in the spring. A Flynn innovation is the organization of a ground school course. This is to be a series of 20 one-hour lectures, held once a week. In addition to the normal club events, Joe has been able to arrange for several talks by outstanding aviation personalities.

When Dartmouth was host to representatives of Phi Beta Kappa in honor of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Dartmouth chapter, Bob Parker, '38, treasurer of Gamma Phi, was sent as Amherst's representative.

Freshmen Brogna and Shaw were awarded their numerals as members of the Little Three championship cross-country team, while Bill Machmer received his as a member of the freshman soccer team.

The chapter's touch football team finished the season in a tie for third place in the league.

Wrestling is the most popular winter sport with the athletically inclined Gamma Phis, with Bob Bartholomew, Andy Crawford, and Bart Green out for the varsity, and Stu Kinney out for the freshman team. Fencing claims the attention of Kel Birdseye and Ad Clark, while Jack Crandell is striving for the varsity ski team and Bill Shaw for the freshman.

Art Brogna is one of the reliables of the freshman track and Jack Cummins is devoting himself to freshman basketball.

Interest in various competitions is stronger: out for Masquers competitions are Bart Green and Hank Bruyn; Chet Weed is electrician and Bev Demeritt is a player. Members competing for positions on the staffs of the Olio, the yearbook, and the Touchstone, a monthly magazine, are Jim Brown, Ad Clark, Ben Gaskell, Ray Smardon, and Charlie Wight. Hank Bruyn is the only one interested in the Musical Clubs competition.

Members of the debating squad and the Speakers Club are Bob Parker, Kel Birdseye, and Ray Smardon.

K. G. BIRDSEYE

Gamma Chi—Kansas State

GAMMA CHI got off to a good start this year at rush week by pledging a class of 18, the cream of the crop. This made a total of 38 boys living in the house, a larger number than has been here for some time.

With rush week out of the way, Gamma Chi Deltas turned to other activities. Ray Ellis and Bob Mears won themselves places on the varsity football squad, Ellis being one of the outstanding ends in the Big Six conference. This was Ellis' last year, while Mears has two more years of competition. In freshman football, Keith Elmore, 160 pound guard, was well liked by the coaches.

In intramural football Gamma Chi, paced by a speedy backfield composed of Dick Hotchkiss, Dick Banbury, and Lester Pollom, and boasting stellar linemen in Kenneth Rall and Dick Taylor, ends, and Blaine Brandenburg, center, went to the finals in the school competition. After a hair raising semi-final game in which the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity was beaten by one point, Gamma Chi dropped the final to Beta Theta Pi, 6-2. If Rall had not been out of the game with some broken ribs, the score might have been different.

Gamma Chi initiated a new custom this year, having an official Fathers Day. The day was held after a football game, a banquet for the fathers being provided. Other chapters who do not do this are urged to try it out, as the fathers seem to enjoy it.

In the annual Homecoming decorations contest, Gamma Chi received honorable mention on house decorations. The yearly paddle party, given by the freshmen for the enjoyment of the upper classmen, was a huge success as always.

ROBERT H. MUSSER

Gamma Psi—Georgia Tech

THE YEARLY All-State Banquet was held on Friday night, November 27. Alumni and undergraduates alike renewed the acquaintances of Deltas from all over Georgia. The banquet, held this year in one of Atlanta's largest downtown hotels was marked by an excellence of food, surroundings, and company. Brother McLain's impersonation of Madame Fi-Fi was the best we've seen in years. To top off a perfect evening, Dean De Ovies, a Delt of long standing, gave a most inspirational talk on the value of $\Delta T \Delta$ to college men.

Saturday saw Georgia eke out a 6-6 tie against a stronger, more aggressive Georgia Tech team. The gaiety of the holiday season was further heightened by a set of Georgia Tech Homecoming dances. Art Kassel's famous orchestra provided many hours of enjoyable dancing.

For December, we're looking forward to the football games between the actives and pledges and between the actives and the alumni. Friday evening, December 17, our pledges hold their customary Christmas Party at which they give a family of underprivileged children the thrills of seeing Santa Claus and receiving presents. A house dance for the brothers and their dates will be held afterwards.

W. P. SECORD

Delta Alpha—Oklahoma

DURING the past summer, Delta Alpha literally "put its house in order." The Shelter was completely repainted inside and out. The kitchen was entirely remodeled, providing more space and adding many improvements. New draperies and lamps made the living room and lounge seem like new, and Mother Allen was well pleased with the way "her house" was made over.

To make the "house warming" complete, Delta Alpha ended its most successful rush in years with the largest class of pledges in the chapter's history. Before the fall initiation, Delta Alpha proudly claimed 29 pledges.

The review further shows that Delta Alpha was again well up among the leaders of fraternity scholarship, being third among the 20 fraternities on the campus. A further study reveals that the members of Delta Alpha are recognized leaders in almost every school activity. For example:

Interfraternity Council — Bob Cooper and Kenneth Harris. Men's Council (Student Governing Board) — Kenneth Harris. Bombardiers (Honor Basic Military Science) — David Craig, Max Cook, Harry Gilbert, Kenneth Lowe, Jimmy Richards, Bill Thams, Charles Dow, Bill McCready, and Bunn Hale. Kappa Kappa Psi (Honor Band Fraternity) — Wayne Allen. Phi Delta Phi (Honor Legal) — Burdette Smith, Herbert Branan, and John Cheadle. Phi Eta Sigma (Honor Freshman Scholarship) — Harry Gilbert, Charles Dow, and Phalos Scott. Phi Mu Alpha (Honor Music Fraternity) — Earl Morris. Pi Sigma Alpha (Honor Political Science Fraternity) — Bob Cooper. Sigma Tau (Honor Engineering) — Harold Keehn and Ovide Webber. Skeleton Key (Honor Leadership) — Bob Cooper. Tau Beta Pi (Honor Engineering) — Leonard Battle, Ovide Webber, and Ernest

Haskell. Pe-et (Honor Leadership and Scholarship) — John Cheadle. Scabbard and Blade (Honor Advanced Military Science) — Bob Cooper, George Robie, David Craig, Jack Getty, John Cheadle, Max Cook, and Bunn Hale. Checkmate (Honor Senior Fraternity) — Wayne Allen. Covered Wagon (Humor Magazine) — Wayne Allen, Editor, and Kenneth Harris, Exchange Editor. Sooner Yearbook (Annual) — Kenneth Harris, Class Editor. YMCA — Kenneth Harris, Board of Directors and Cabinet, and Kenneth Lowe, Cabinet. Alpha Chi Sigma (Honor Chemical) — Fred Harlow, Charles Dow, Leonard Battle, and Ovide Webber. Toga (Honor Senior Fraternity) — Herbert Branan. Jazz Hounds (Pep Order) — Wayne Allen, Bob Shaw, David Craig, Harry Gilbert, and Jim Beach. Ruf Neke (Pep Order) — Harry Shrader, Bill Sutton, Max Cook, Bunn Hale, George Price, and Budge Lee.

So, with that beginning in a year that is not yet half gone, Delta Alpha has every right to feel proud of itself. But you can bet that we are not going to rest on our laurels.

KENNETH HARRIS

Delta Beta—Carnegie Tech

As THIS is written, Delta Beta is in the midst of rushing season. The house has been put in excellent condition through the untiring efforts of our house manager, Hugh Overturf.

We are very fortunate in having an active Mothers Club which recently sponsored a very profitable benefit bridge.

In the recent Scabbard and Blade call, Delta Beta had five members called: Ed Querbach, Joe Gray, Bruce Grimm, Ed Harvey, and Bob Leech.

Intramural sports are again taking the spotlight, now that basketball season is under way. Len Turk is managing the Delt basketball team. Delta Beta now holds the soft ball and swimming trophies, two of the three possible awards. The basketball trophy—if we get it—will set a new record, for, as yet, no house has held all three simultaneously.

Bob Leech is directing the chapter Glee Club, and will soon begin practice for the next year's Greek Sing and Swing.

The Homecoming dance after the Pitt-Tech game was a great success with many alumni returning for the festivities. Bill Garver, Lib Lewis, Joe Mihm, Ad Gilmore, Fran Mertz, Ernie Schleusener, Frank Snyder, and Bob McFarlin were among those present.

There are wedding bells for Ernie Schleusener and Dotty Volkwein. They will be at their home in Pittsburgh to callers.

We'll close this letter with a hearty welcome to those who can find their way through the Smokey City to the new Delta Beta Shelter.

WITH the fall initiation of Bruce Hopkins and Bud Hanson, twenty-seven active members and sixteen pledges comprise one of the largest chapters in Delta Gamma's history. South Dakota Deltas appear to be well underway toward their most successful year.

A versatile group is active in every branch of campus activities. Following the spring and fall elections, we find Newt Wessman, president of the Student Association; Tom Barron, president of the senior class; Pledge O. F. Jacobsen, secretary and treasurer of the freshman class; and Bob Crawford a member of the Student Senate. Deltas played their part in football with Steve Kelly and Rod Parsons earning their letters. Pledges Mack Albertson and Jim Jacobson won their numerals on the University freshman squad. The basketball season is underway and we are excellently represented by Gene Hetland, regular center for the past two seasons, and five numeral winners of 1937, Joe Cadwell, Bruce Hopkins, Harry Smith, Rod Parsons, and Pledge Quent Evers. At least three of these sophomores seem certain to figure largely in the success of future U S D cagers. Pledges O. F. Jacobsen and Mack Albertson are in there tough in frosh basketball.

Pledges Happy Haberman, Carrol Mork, Manford Abrahamson and Freddy Smith play in the U S D band. Don Hammond, George Wood, and Pledge Corneil Vagle are in the a cappella choir. To make full use of musical talent four of the fellows have organized a house quartet to lead in our chapter singing. Pledge Carrol Mork does the trumpet work in the campus dance band. Bob Crawford is a pledge of Scabbard and Blade. Pledge Don Crawford is a member of Apprentice Players, campus dramatic society, and had a part in the first play of the year. Marv Johnson is business manager of the Wet Hen, campus publication. Gene Hetland is a member of Dakotans. Don Hammond was recently initiated into Strollers, honorary men's organization; other members are Newt Wessman, Vinc Hart, and Vinc Antle. George Schmidt and Ross Oviatt are members of the debate squad, with the latter doing work in "Ex-temp" speaking. Vinc Antle acts as chief announcer of KUSD, the university radio station.

Just to top off the all-round ability, the Delts rate second in fraternity scholarship. Intramural contests starting with basketball will get under way in the near future. In intramural events, we will pick up from the golf tournament of last spring which Morry Perssons and Jack Hainer won for us.

Yes, it should be a big year for Delta Gamma. Our fall informal indicated that, as it was one of the best for some time. So we'll leave you now with best wishes for $\Delta T \Delta$ everywhere.

ROSS OVIATT

Delta Delta—Tennessee

CONSIDER this piece of news that "broke" the night before THE RAINBOW copy was to be sent in. Jack Ford awoke at 5 A.M. to hear suspicious noises in an adjoining room. Being the only person on the second floor (all the rest sleep in the dormitory on the third floor), Ford listened discreetly for a time.

Then with extreme caution he edged out of bed and snapped on a light. That was the signal for a "short fellow wearing an overcoat" to dash out of the room, tumble down the stairs and dash out the front door.

A hasty search showed nothing missing. Ford, half asleep and in the dim light, was unable to see the would-be burglar well enough to describe him.

Enough for the unexpected thrills. Dances at the Shelter have provided plenty of thrills for Delts and their dates. Social chairman Billy Fisher was so eager to make the big Halloween dance a success that he appropriated some corn stalks from the University farm for decorations. Now it so happened that the particular stalks used were stored at the farm to be used in a survey covering a ten-year period. The loss of the corn was a severe blow to experimenters at the farm and later to Fisher. But the dance was excellent and Fisher is still in school!

Brother Jim Robinson, president of the University YMCA, was general chairman for the appearance of Grace Moore in concert on the Campus November 30. "Brother" John Robinson (both to us Delts and to Jim) is president of the University Chorus.

Bedford Berry and Bill Fisher superintended house decoration and Barnwarmin' parade float on Homecoming week-end. No new cups hopped to our mantel, but it was not because we were not good. The word "politics" has been whispered by more than one fraternity. Loudest cheers of the parade were for six-foot-five Pick, in the glittering regalia of a Beauty Queen.

JOHN L. DENMAN

Delta Epsilon—Kentucky

WITH the death of President Freeberg and the departure of Vice-president Floyd, Delta Epsilon was set back for a while but under the leadership of our new officers Eddie Beck, president, and Charles Parrish, vice-president, we have come back bigger and better than ever. The fall rushing season netted us the best pledges on the campus and with such a start we are enjoying a fine year.

In campus leadership, we are represented by Harlowe Dean who is on the Student Council and is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa.

Delts are quite prominent in the journalistic field as is shown by the number on the Kentucky Kernel staff. They include Glenn Carl, Morton Kelley, Louise Haynes, Ed Muehsler, Lee Heine, Cecil Kittinger, and Neville Tatum, the circulation manager. On the Kentuckian staff is Billy Tudor, Les Smith, Lee Heine, and Neville Tatum, associate editor. Tatum is also the circulation manager of the Sour Mash, the University's humor magazine.

Keys, honorary sophomore fraternity, is represented by George Scott, while E. C. Wooton is a member of Lances, junior honorary. In their respective fields are Engineer Bob Fish, a Tau Beta Pi and a member of A.S.C.E.; John Holmes, Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemistry fraternity; George Duncan and Frank Davis, Pryor Pre-Med Society; Neville Tatum and Ken Dickson are members of Block and Bridle, agriculture; Harlowe Dean and Merrill Blevins belong to Pi Sigma Alpha, political science, and the International Relations Club; journalists Morton Kelley and Oscar Wisner are in Delta Sigma Chi.

The "Best Band in Dixie" boasts of good music and is ably supported by Merrill Blevins, Oscar Wisner, Harlowe Dean, George Duncan, first sergeant, and is led while marching by Drum Major Bruce Sullivan. Speaking of music, we have George Duncan, Oscar Wisner, Merrill Blevins, and Harlowe Dean, president, in Phi Mu Alpha. The Glee Club claims Ken Dickson, George Duncan, Glenn Carl, Morton Kelley, and Harlowe Dean, assistant director, as members. From this number it is no wonder that $\Delta T \Delta$ has won the Interfraternity All-Campus Sing for five consecutive years. Oscar Wisner and Merrill Blevins represent Delta Epsilon on the Radio Staff.

In dramatics, Frank Davis, Harlowe Dean, and Ben Buffett are seen quite often on the Guignol stage, Ken Dickson is the technical director, while Frank Davis is house manager of the Guignol. Others with a Guignol Key are Orville Patton, Neville Tatum, Lee Heine, Merrill Blevins, Morton Kelley, John Holmes, and Ed Muehler. Members of the Strollers, honorary dramatic organization, are Harlowe Dean and Morton Kelley.

Orville Patton is the only representative in Scabbard and Blade. Also in the military line is Frank Davis who won the freshman and the sophomore cups for being outstanding in Military Science. The Delts that helped Kentucky's Pershing Rifle unit win their corps area drill meet are Roy Batterton, Frank Davis, Glenn Carl, George Scott, Raymond Hays, and Lee Heine.

In the line of athletics the Delts have a representative in most of the sports. Wendall Skaggs has played regular tackle for three years and has done a good job of it. On the freshman football squad, we have Jim Fitzpatrick, Clarence McGarey, and Bob Combs. These three are also on the freshman basketball team. We also have our share of managers with Bob Ellison senior football manager, John Featherston, freshman football, J. B. Faulconer, junior basketball, and Bill Bryson, freshman basketball. In other sports we have Glenn Carl, track, and Frank Davis, fencing. Oscar Wisner is a regular on the tennis team with Louis Haynes as publicity man and assistant manager.

Delta Epsilon is looking forward to a better year in intramural sports this year. Now close to the top, we expect to climb higher after wrestling, boxing, and basketball have been decided.

JOHN HOLMES

Delta Zeta—Florida

N. RAY CARROLL, President of $\Delta T \Delta$, paid the chapter a visit in October and had a nice chat with the fellows.

The chapter elected Phil Fairchild president to fill the vacancy left by Einar Andersen who failed to return this year. Roy Davis, our corresponding secretary, left school in October and Frank Cushman was elected to fill the office.

George Byrnes, vice-president of Delta Zeta, has been elected business manager of the Florida Review, campus literary magazine. Charles Ostner and Terry Drake are on the Review staff.

Homecoming was a big success this year at Delta Zeta. After the big game many alumni and parents gathered at the Shelter for a buffet supper.

John B. Turner is a member of the Editorial Board of the Alligator, school newspaper. Dean Silva is a member of the business staff of the Alligator. Pete Koslosky is the chapter's hope on the football squad for next year. Rodger Barton is active in Y.M.C.A. and is the chapter's intramural wrestling contestant. Horton, Turner, Byrnes are members of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity.

FRANK CUSHMAN

Delta Eta—Alabama

THE DELTS at 'Bama have gotten off to a flying start this year. An able rushing committee was instrumental in pledging 32 men. The Delts are on the climb heading for the top on the Capstone.

Activities have claimed many of the boys. Blackfriars, the campus dramatic society, has among its members Don Campbell, Dave Heydinger, George Borgman, Marion Coley, Emil Mosebaugh, Tom Stratford, Edmund Storer, Hugh Bedient, and Ted Hannah. Dixie's prize band, 'Bama's "Million Dollar" outfit, has Emil Mosebaugh, Bill Dow, and Bill Miller; Olin Adams and Al St. Louis are playing in the "Cavaliers," the outstanding campus orchestra. Don Yost and Judson McCrary are singing in the Glee Club. Norman Wright and Don Campbell were recently initiated into the Society of National Intercollegiate Players. We have politicians too, Maurice Fletcher is president of the senior class and Ted Hannah is secretary-treasurer of the sophomore class in the Commerce School. The cadets march with Fletcher, a major commanding an Infantry Battalion. Fred Jones is a captain. Fred Williams, Tom Stratford, and Ed Storer are lieutenants.

Storer was recently initiated into Scabbard and Blade, the honorary military society on the campus.

Dick Day, the runner-up in the lightweight division for the S.E.C. crown last year, is boxing again this year for the Tide. Maurice Fletcher was a quarterback on the 1938 Rose Bowl team. Fred Davis showed his great value in freshman football, and was a regular tackle.

The school publications, the Corolla and Crimson-White, have Bill Atkinson and Dick Day.

Willis Burdette, Harold Lawson, and Maurice Fletcher were elected to the Spirit Committee. Hugh Bedient will again take up his job as a first string varsity pitcher for the baseball team. Don Campbell manages and competes with the fencing team. Fred Jones is the high-score man on the Conference championship rifle team. Fred took all the medals that Camp Perry had to offer this summer. He looks more like a general than a captain, when he struts around with his chest covered with medals.

As for social activities, we have had a dance at the beginning of school, and several pledge trades with the sororities later.

Gordon Boswell, Jr., Harry Browning, John Rahlfs, and Thomas Stratford, Fred Williams, and Gerald Gibb were initiated October 3. Several other boys, because of last minute complications, could not go through. A fine banquet was set in honor of the new initiates with Gordon Boswell, Sr., Beta Iota (Virginia), '06, and Don Harris, Delta Delta (Tennessee), '33, as guests.

Don Harris has recently been appointed chapter adviser for Delta Eta.

Interfraternity athletics are well under way. Touch football and speedball are already finished. Delta Eta has accumulated many points, and is out to win trophies. We are looking forward to soccer, basketball, baseball, boxing, and track with confidence. Last year we took a golf cup and should repeat as we have two of the best golfers on the campus in Bob Barker and Bill Walker.

The Shelter was redecorated during the summer. It was a great joy to return to an almost new home.

N. Ray Carroll and Hugh Shields stopped in to see us last month.

During the football season we had occasion to visit Beta Xi, Delta Delta, and to meet Gamma Psi in Birmingham. We had a visit from the Delts of Delta Epsilon. We appreciate the courtesies shown us, and invite you to drop in on us when you are down this way.

KENNETH MCCLAVE, JR.

Delta Theta—Toronto

THIS year on account of the widespread epidemic of infantile paralysis, school-opening was postponed one week. However, after election of new officers, with Dave Jamieson, president; Bill Disher, vice-president; and Red Langan, treasurer, everything has been running smoothly.

During the summer, decorators had invaded our Shelter and did a fine job in making our home a better place in which to live. One notable improvement was that a number of modern lamps were bought. These are not ordinary fixtures but were designed especially by Carl Wilson, one of our graduating engineers.

Up-to-date, we have had three teas and our annual "hard times" party. Austin Monteith, head of the social committee is to be congratulated on his fine choice of music, decorations, and food which helped to make the parties so successful. Brother Monteith and his three assistants, Mac Craig, Al Fowler and Lloyd Kerr, are now making plans for the annual Christmas dinner to be held December 20 and the formal to be held February 26.

During the season, Jack Casson has developed into one of the finest middle wings in Intercollegiate Rugby.

Up-and-coming Rugby stars from this chapter who played Inter-faculty Rugby this year are: Bill Disher, York "Diamond-Drill" Williamson, Murry "Ping" Kilpatrick, and Al "Tiger" Fowler. Fowler, who is just as fearless on the Rugby field as he is at the dinner table is a very promising boxer. Last year he was the University champion and if he returns this year to the noble art, we are sure he will be successful.

This year, the duties of chapter adviser were taken over by Art McKinney, '28, and we feel that in Art we have some one whose counsel is both wise and friendly.

Visitors to the chapter lately have been Frank Serviss, our field-secretary, and Bob Williams, '37, from the Gamma Xi Chapter at Cincinnati.

H. LLOYD KERR

Delta Iota—U.C.L.A.

DELTA IOTA has progressed remarkably during the last year in scholarship, activities, and social events.

First of all, in athletics we lost some good men last year by graduation, but this year we had two varsity men, Bruce Broadwell at tackle and Tex Harris at both quarterback and end. On the freshman football team, we have Whitey Knutsen and Carl Webb and Del Lyman. In basketball we have Whitey Knutsen and Carl Sieck who are both pledges. Brothers Hart and Belsey and Pledges Deuteran, Kugler, Humphries, and Longacre appear to have the job of basketball manager well sewed up. John Margraf, pledge, and Jack McGregor are representing us in track this year.

The Delts were in that number-one spot when interfraternity basketball was completed recently. We lost one game by a margin of one point.

We have been doing quite well socially as may be evidenced by various dances and exchange-dinner invitations from such sororities as Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Phi, and Alpha Chi Omega.

Our pledge dance was acclaimed by one and all as being "tops." One of the high lights of the evening was Brother "Pinky" Tomlin's rendition of several songs for which he is noted.

Two other dances, the Four-Way and the Six-Way, found the Delts very much in evidence as they swayed to soothing music with the cream of the campus femininity.

The Mothers Club recently gave a Mothers and Fathers banquet at the chapter house which netted them over a hundred dollars. One of the bewildered fathers was heard to mutter as he stumbled across the threshold into the night air, "Never have I been so subtly and completely 'fleeced' in my whole life!"

One very favorable improvement we are making consists of our rapidly growing coöperation with the Alumni Association of Los Angeles. We feel we are making progress each week in this direction. We were honored by an invitation to the annual alumni banquet at the University Club in Los Angeles December 8. We report a most enjoyable and constructive evening with the high light being a message by telephone from our president, N. Ray Carroll, speaking from Florida.

Thus, Delta Iota progresses.

REX GOSSETT

Delta Kappa—Duke

AS A FITTING climax to Duke's football season, Delta Kappa held its annual fall dance the night of the Duke-Pittsburgh game, November 27. Among the guests of the chapter were 12 members of Gamma Sigma and a host of alumni.

As president of the Duke players for his second consecutive year and vice-president of Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic society, Jim Rose has turned in several sterling performances before the footlights. In the spring elections, Jim was elected senior class representative to the Student Government Association. Another Duke player, Dick Macdonald, has been doing a fine job as stage manager for the last two productions of the group. Two sophomores, Red Unger and Tom Morrow, are making a strong bid for histrionic fame, each having appeared in both productions of the year.

The gridiron claimed the services of two Delta Kappa's this fall, Walt "Bud" Lenox, senior guard, and Pledge John Woody, sophomore quarter back. Pledge Bob Merchant, our junior member of the tennis team, was initiated into Tombs Club, local honorary athletic fraternity.

Following his position of junior business manager last year, Gordon Curtiss was named managing editor of the Chanticleer, yearbook. Helping Gordon on the junior staff are Bill Williams and Al Hancock, while his sophomore assistants from Delta Kappa are Dean Strausbaugh and Bob Neuberger. Red Unger is drawing for the Duke 'N Duchess and Russ Gair is rewrite man on the staff of the Chronicle, student newspaper. Brother Curtiss is also a member of the publications board.

Grunting and groaning for Dear Ole Duke are Red Unger, Tommy Coen, and Cliff Faulkner, intramural wrestling champion last year and runner-up the year before. Chapter President Andy Massett and Pledge Jimmy Strickland are expected to lead the swimming team while Bud Curtis is sophomore manager.

Arguing fortnightly for the Hesperian Union are Clayton Carter, Jimmy Murray, Lee Simpson, Dewey Daane, Dean Strausbaugh and Tom Morrow. The singing of the Glee Club and Choir is made just a little bit sweeter by the voices of Paul Sommers, George Worthington, and Gene Diller. Business students, Al Hancock and Jimmy Murray, have been elected into Alpha Kappa Psi, national honorary economics fraternity.

C. T. Boyd, Secretary of $\Delta T \Delta$, and Brothers Andrews and Haughton, all of Greensboro, visited us recently. Brother Boyd spoke to us about the Karnea.

After being graduated last June, Joe Mackie signed a contract with Paramount pictures in New York. Rick Franson forsook the books to go with the same outfit after a summer with the Essex Players in New England. Walt Treut returned to school this fall after working with an engineering company since last February. Russ Gair also came back in September after a year on the Utica (N.Y.) Daily Press.

RUSS GAIR

Delta Lambda—Oregon State

A JOINT initiation was held with Gamma Rho Chapter at the University of Oregon October 31. Gamma Rho is to be congratulated on the impressive manner in which the initiation ceremony was performed.

Mid-term grade reports for the chapter were very good, the pledges, as well as the members, making a good showing. Dr. W. P. Duruz, Delta Lambda's faculty adviser, recently congratulated the chapter on its fine scholastic standing on the campus.

Bill Kahn is now president of Hell Divers, the campus swimmer's organization. Don Coons will soon be initiated into Alpha Zeta, agricultural honorary, and Scabbard and Blade. Burnette Chausse has accepted an invitation to join Eta Kappa Nu, electrical engineering honor society.

The chapter has a number of men actively participating in advanced R.O.T.C. work. Major Phil Brownell, Captains Lowell Pfarr and George Harrington, First Lieutenant Ed Burchell, Second Lieutenant Sam Taber, and Sergeants Don Coons, Mark Corwin, Syl Ramstack, Burch Davis, and Frank Henry make up the group. Brownell, Bob Phelps, and Milton Fox are members of Oregon State Rifles, crack R.O.T.C. rifle squad on the campus.

The chapter actively supported two dances held at the chapter house this term, the first October 15 and the second November 24. The chapter was honored by the presence of some University of Oregon men at the November 24 fireside.

Many alumni returned to the Shelter for Homecoming, November 19-21, to talk over old times and to attend the clash between the Oregon State Beavers and the Washington State Cougars. We were glad to have them with us and hope they will drop in again before the present school year is over.

The Portland Mothers Club is very active, and the chapter appreciates their help in furthering the interests of Delta Lambda.

STANLEY G. JEWETT, JR.

Delta Mu—Idaho

FRANK and Ted Kara, brothers from Cleveland, Ohio, are the outstanding boxers on the Frosh squad. Ted was captain of the 1936 Olympic boxing team, and boasts an enviable record in his ring career. Frank was 1936 Golden Glove Champion of New York. Wesley Cameron from Los Angeles is an outstanding track man. Garland Wilson has been picked on the Frosh basketball squad. Bill Campbell and Ken Farner reporters on the Argonaut (school paper) staff. Ted Kara is also vice-president of the freshman class.

The Delts have achieved the record of winning the much sought intramural cup for the second consecutive year, and are striving for the third. Howard Ahlskog, manager last year, deserves much praise for his successful year. Under the tutelage of Carl Frye, the house is attempting to repeat the previous two years' performances.

A score of Delts are found throughout campus activities. James Yoder, Gem editor; Carl Burt, business manager of the Gem, student body vice-president and a member of the executive board; Everett Wood, recently pledged to Blue Key, national service honorary; Richard Hutchison, member of Scabbard and Blade, National Military honorary; and James Boyd, Fred Swank, and Dick Phinney hold outstanding offices on the year book.

Dick Hutchison, social chairman, is working strenuously to give us an inspired social season. At present, we are looking forward to the annual Russian Ball. This ball has become one of the outstanding dances of the year for our house, and many other houses envy us each year when all the queens on the campus break away from their steadies for this event.

As to winter sports, none as yet until Old Man Winter heaps snow on our hill just a couple of steps from our front door, but then? Oh, boy, I can hardly wait.

LEE PETERSEN

Delta Nu—Lawrence

WITH the closing in of the winter season, Delta Nu is really getting under way in the year's activities. Football season has just ended and the boys came out with flying colors. Joe Maertzweiler was elected co-captain of the 1938 football squad. The other boys came in for their share of football honors, too, with nine men in the house winning their varsity "L." The pledges evidently decided they wouldn't be left out in that line either, and came through with four sets of numerals for playing, and one for managing the squad.

We are going into basketball again just as strong as ever. Five of the boys have gone out for the varsity squad. We have a decided edge as far as experience goes. President Cliff Burton and Norm Faleide are two of the three lettermen returning to the squad this year; and Jack Crawford and Harry Jackson, although not letterwinners, saw plenty of action last year as reserves. The fifth man, Jerry Suszycki, is only a sophomore, but has a good chance of developing into varsity material.

Delta Nu can also claim three places on the varsity swimming squad this year—a new thing since Wilson Schier graduated in 1936; and, although the new men are only sophomores, they will play an important part on the team.

As usual, we were in second place in scholarship at the end of the year. The boys in the house are beginning to think we're stuck there for good. At the nine weeks of this semester the house got a 1.4 average, which should easily hold our position for us.

As far as the social side of the chapter is concerned, we have had several house parties this fall and several informal get-togethers.

BILL PENGELLY

Delta Xi—North Dakota

WE HAD the misfortune of losing one of our most promising pledges, Neal Kennedy, a short time ago because of illness.

With an active chapter of twenty-three members, plus the seventeen pledges, we are well represented on the campus.

We have had the good fortune of completely filling up the Shelter this year. There are twenty-six living here—more than there ever has been in previous years.

We concluded last year in fine style by winning the intramural soft ball championship by taking the Beta's two out of three games in the final play-offs. For this a large number of the brotherhood are wearing new intramural sweaters around the campus this year. In keeping up the fine athletics, we reached the play-offs in touchball this year, and also placed high in volley ball. We also look forward to much success in hockey and basketball this winter, as well as in track, tennis, soft ball and baseball in the spring.

Harold Robinson and Ferguson Stewart were recently elected into Scabbard and Blade. Cliff Monsrud and Thayne Jongeward are carry-overs from last year.

Five Delts were recently initiated into Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary band fraternity. They are: Don Hiestand, Norman Schmall, Chester Halverson, Douglas Stewart and John Hewitt. Cliff Bennington was chosen the R.O.T.C. band president at its fall election.

Ted Beeman was recently elected into Delta Sigma Pi, honorary commerce fraternity. Ted was the assistant chairman of the Homecoming committee and is on the Hob-Nob committee.

Lewis Weller was recently notified of his nomination to Who's Who among American College Students. Lewis is the chairman of the Hob-Nob (all-university dance) committee, and is a member of Blue Key.

Jason Quist is again this year's chairman of the University Radio Committee and is the Dakota Student Radio Editor. Jason is also the announcer of the KFJM University Broadcast and was the stadium announcer of the university football games this fall.

Lewis Thompson was elected secretary of the Arts and Crafts Club recently; Chester Halverson is active in Y.M.C.A. work and is a prominent member of the "Y" board.

Socially, the Delts of North Dakota have had two fine parties so far this year. The rush party was held the first week of school and recently the annual hard-time party was held.

A large number of alumni returned for Homecoming this year. A fine banquet was held at the Shelter on Homecoming night for the alumni.

★ THE DELT ALUMNI CHAPTERS ★

Buffalo

THE BUFFALO Alumni Chapter is continuing to hold its weekly luncheons at the University Club on Mondays and is pleased to report a very fine turnout each week.

Plans have been made to hold our annual dinner and evening get-together for the actives of this vicinity when they are home for their Christmas vacation. We plan to hold this at the University Club on December 29, and are looking forward to a chance to become acquainted with the new members of the past year, as well as those who have been pledged this year.

DENNIS C. LILES

Chicago

THE CHICAGO Alumni Chapter is planning a big celebration for Founders Day, Friday, March 4, 1938.

The gathering will be held in the Crystal Room of the Sherman Hotel, Chicago, and invitations have been extended to the two local active chapters, Beta Pi at Northwestern and Gamma Beta at Armour, to join with us in making this an outstanding Delt event.

We are looking forward to the biggest turnout of both alumni and actives on this occasion that has been seen in Chicago for a long time.

Weekly luncheons are held every Monday noon at the Brevoort Hotel, 120 West Madison Street, and all visiting brothers are cordially invited to drop around to make themselves known.

GEORGE G. TRAVER

Cleveland

THE WEEKLY luncheon meetings continue to be the outstanding activity of the Cleveland Alumni Chapter. For many years we have met regularly each Friday noon. There are no "set" speeches and no special program. If there is business to be transacted, it is speedily consummated, and the remaining time is spent in enjoying the fellowship of $\Delta T \Delta$. These luncheon meetings are now being held at Allendorf's Restaurant on Chester Avenue.

Our monthly news bulletin, which has been published regularly for the past three years, is sent to each Delt in the Cleveland district and has proved very effective in building and maintaining interest in fraternity functions.

Zeta Chapter entertained the Cleveland Alumni Chapter November 22 with a very enjoyable dinner party. Frank Portman did a splendid job as toastmaster, while Dr. Ruedy, Harold Hopkins, Bill Travis, Bill Mould, and Harry Hoffman furnished the verbal outbursts on behalf of the alumni. On December 18, the alumni chapter will join with Zeta Chapter in the annual Christmas formal dinner-dance to be held at Park Lane Villa.

President John McConnell has appointed a special committee composed of Bill Hecker, Jack Finnicum, and Mack Yost to make special plans for a Founders Day celebration and for the annual meeting and election of officers which will be held on February 22.

The Cleveland Alumni Chapter cordially invites all Delts in the Cleveland area to attend the Friday luncheon meetings and any of our social functions. We will be glad to send our monthly bulletin to any Delt interested in Cleveland affairs if you will send your name and address to the Secretary.

RANDALL M. RUHLMAN

Detroit

THE DETROIT alumni are now busily engaged in the formulation of plans for the forthcoming Northern Division Conference to be held in Detroit February 25 and 26. The General Committee has been appointed, consisting of Emanuel Christensen, Robert Sinclair, Dick Brown and John Horn. The committee has gone into an executive huddle and will probably deploy into strategic formations designed to entertain and intrigue the visiting brethren.

It will, of course, be difficult to match the high standard set by the Cleveland hosts last winter but we fully expect to not only attain that standard but to exceed it. Up here in Detroit, we set our sights high whether making mouse traps, automobiles, or entertainment.

Our publicity chairman, as well as our inherent modesty, forbids the disclosure of our plans at this early date. However, we expect to have a great conference and we extend a sincere and hearty invitation to all Delts to attend the Northern Division Conference in February.

JOHN R. HORN

Indianapolis

THE SUDDEN death of Brandt Downey, former Northern Division President, ardent $\Delta T \Delta$ worker and friend, was a great shock to all. To Bowman, and to Mrs. Downey, we extend our heartfelt sympathies.

Signs of alumni activity have been shown in several Indiana cities including Bloomington, Evansville, Gary, Muncie, Fort Wayne, and South Bend. It is the hope of the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter that Delts in these cities may get together for the common good of the Fraternity, and we offer our assistance in their organizing efforts.

Now that football season is over, it will be necessary that many of the brethren find a new topic of conversation at the Friday luncheons. For the past several weeks, there have been arguments, razzings, boasting, and chiding, but the zenith was reached when no Purdue alumnus would bet on his own Alma Mater to beat Indiana. Purdue was finally saved when Fred Tucker, just an all-time, all-star end from DePauw, bet twenty-five cents that Purdue would win. Fred collected.

Plans for Founders Day are under way with our State Banquet and Dance on the calendar. President Hib Rust announces that all Indiana Delts can look forward to the best and biggest affair in years, and with the support already pledged by the five undergraduate chapters in Indiana, and Indiana Delts generally, it is certain there will be a fine celebration.

WILLIAM H. MARTINDILL

Kansas City

FALL activities of the Kansas City Alumni Chapter have been limited to our weekly luncheons held each Thursday noon on the fifth floor of the Hotel Kansas Citian. Visiting Delts are always welcome. The football season has served to keep many of us in touch with the active chapters in this section.

Plans are already started for the Founders Day Banquet to be held about March 1, at which time Gamma Kappa Chapter at Missouri will put on the initiation of its honor pledge. Invitations also have been sent to the chapters at Kansas, Baker and Manhattan to take part in the festivities. Final dates and the definite program will be worked out soon and this information announced as early as possible.

We are glad to announce that Fred G. Leach, Gamma Tau (Kansas), '20, has opened a sporting goods store on the Country Club Plaza at 310 West 47th Street. Brother Roscoe Groves is getting back his usual vigor after having his tonsils removed; of course, another Delt did the job.

FRANK B. SIEGRIST

Lexington

A DINNER-MEETING during the fall, held at the Delta Epsilon chapter house, brought out a good attendance of the Lexington Alumni Chapter, and also brought forth forcefully the need of new dining room furniture at the Shelter.

A result was that the alumni pledged themselves to aid the Mothers' Club in providing the new furniture. All alumni of the chapter have been solicited for small contributions to help the project. Another result of the alumni session was a decision to issue that scandalous sheet, The Mudhound, at least one more time, urging alumni to return to Lexington for the Homecoming football game at the University of Kentucky.

Coleman Smith, who recently returned to Lexington and has been welcomed back into the alumni chapter here, took over the job of revising the alumni mailing list. Ollie Williamson again attended to the mimeographing work, and The Mudhound finally found its way into the mails.

Among the out-of-town alumni spotted in Lexington during the Homecoming celebration were Del Root, from Cambridge Springs, Pennsylvania; Cameron Coffman, Louisville; David S. Nantz, Buffalo, New York; Clarence S. Moore, Jr., Wilmington, New Jersey; Ike Moore, Northwestern University; Dick Fuller, Chicago; Horace Miner, Detroit; John Good, Louisville; John R. Bullock, Covington; Len Weakley, Fort Thomas; George Skinner, Frankfort; Ben Cooper, Benton; Rip Miller, Louisville; Lieut. Graham Benson, Philadelphia; Bob Olney, Cincinnati; Charley Olney, Chicago; Bill Jacobs, Evans; Noel Engel, Mattoon, Ill.; Temp Thorn, Evansville, Ind.; Fil Slater, Indianapolis; Ben Fowler and Billy Leet, University of Virginia; Reg Rice, Cincinnati, and John Staples, Columbus, Ohio.

The Lexington Alumni Chapter will now direct its attention to working up interest in the annual Founders Day Banquet of Delta Epsilon Chapter of $\Delta T \Delta$, a gala affair being held each year on May 10. The goal is to have an attendance exceeding the record of one hundred in 1936.

LAURENCE K. SHROPSHIRE

Los Angeles

SINCE its return to the University Club, the Los Angeles Alumni Association has had a splendid attendance at its weekly luncheons. The annual Presidents' Dinner was held Tuesday, November 9, with a good showing of past presidents of the alumni association in attendance. Among them were William B. Ogden, Beta Kappa '96; Dr. Hovey L. Shepherd, Beta Sigma '95; Otho L. Ferris, Gamma Eta '05; William G. Dickinson, Beta Rho '18; Roy P. Crocker, Beta Omega '14 and Beta Omicron '15; James S. (Stew) Norris, Beta Beta '22; Howard D. Mills, Zeta '18; Daniel Webster Ferguson, Gamma Alpha '09; George W. Stasand, Beta Psi '23, and George B. Colby, Beta Upsilon '06. Incumbent President Oz G. Lawton, Beta Omega '14, presided and expressed the hope that he would be acceptable in such august company after the turn of the year.

The Court of Honor was represented by Bishop Charles Edward Locke, Alpha '80, and Daniel W. Ferguson. The oldest Delt present was Thomas W. Marchant, Mu '82. Dr. E. Vincent Askey, Alpha '17, who was recently elected member of the Los Angeles Board of Education, explained what it meant to help administer a $49,000,000 budget, which is more than twice the annual budget of the city itself.

Another outstanding event on the association's calendar was the golf match between actives and alumni at Rancho Country Club, Saturday, November 14. Some 30 Delts participated and following the match, which resulted in a tie so far as statisticians can figure out, they retired to the Delta Iota chapter house at the University of California at Los Angeles for the light refreshments after which the scores were forgotten.

Next on the calendar is the annual dinner meeting at the University Club, Wednesday evening, December 8, featuring L. Nathaniel Fitts, Beta Kappa '09, President of the Western Division and Assemblyman Thomas J. Cunningham, Delta Iota '28, and Dr. Edward M. Palette, Beta Pi '94, as speakers.

THE MONTHLY luncheons of the New York Alumni Chapter are again

Atlanta Alumni Chapter Reviews Successful 1937 Program

THE Atlanta Alumni Chapter was organized in the summer and fall of 1913 and a petition made to the Arch Chapter by fourteen local alumni for a charter. This was granted by the Arch Chapter at a meeting during the Karnea in August, 1913, and thus the birth of a chapter of which we are justly proud. Three of the founders are still located in Atlanta and actively connected with the chapter and its activities; they are: Theo. B. Bean, Beta Epsilon (Emory), '12, Thos. I. Miller, Beta Delta (Georgia), '12, and Kenyon B. Zahner, Beta Delta (Georgia), '12.

The history of this group is varied and colorful. Approximately fifteen different chapters are represented and the men have lived at various times in many of the states in this country and in foreign countries. There may be larger alumni chapters in the Fraternity but certainly none that are composed of finer better Deltas.

The Atlanta Alumni Chapter has just completed one of its most successful years, and true to the old Delt spirit, the alumni are planning even bigger and better things for 1938! That is really a high goal to set, but the newly elected president, Irving B. McDaniel, Beta Nu (M.I.T.), '17, has already started a five year plan that will make Soviet Russia's plan turn green with envy, and indications are that we will have a big Delt year in Atlanta—even bigger than 1937 under the regime of Joe Horacek, Jr., Beta Epsilon (Emory), '34. Now if you don't think that's something just review the activities for 1937.

The new year started off with a bang when we celebrated Founders Day, the second week in March, with a formal dinner-dance at the Druid Hills Golf Club. Needless to say, this was one of the biggest and best dances of the year.

Before we knew it, spring was on us and with it came the annual Delt'outing. This is a get-together of all the alumni in Atlanta and members of the active chapters at Tech and Emory, held on a Saturday afternoon during the latter part of May. It was held last year at the Forest Hills Golf Club, and a great time was had by engaging in various sports such as golf, tennis, soft ball, horseshoes (for the less active), and even wrestling (this wasn't actually in the program, but some of the restless actives decided to participate in the gentle pastime of removing certain alumni's pants).

Then came summer, but this didn't daunt the boys! We went right on having our monthly meetings as usual and postponed any big parties until fall. After the ladies learned of our party at the Forest Hills Club, they rose up in arms and said we were neglecting them; so we "upped" and planned a party for them—another dinner-dance. This one was held at the Ansley Hotel in the Crystal Cave the early part of October. The men had just as fine a time as the ladies (if not better) which was no doubt due to the perfect cocktail party our genial President McDaniel gave us preceding the dinner-dance.

The closing activity of the year for Delt alumni in Atlanta was the All-State Banquet held the night before the Tech-Georgia game (traditional rivals and how!). All of the members of the active chapters at Tech and Emory, and a few of the brothers from Georgia, along with thirty odd alumni from Atlanta and towns close by, attended and enjoyed a most delicious steak dinner and an inspiring talk by Dean Raimundo De Ovies, Beta Theta (Sewanee), '98. There was also some good music and singing furnished by the famous colored musician, Graham Jackson, and his pupils.

Of course, that's all we can report for old 1937, but if you happen to get down around Atlanta the second week in February, it might pay you to drop in on the South Division Conference which will be held at that time. The plans are not definite at this writing, but they tell me they are planning on some parties including a big dance, smoker, and banquet. If they are as good as the last ones held in 1929 and 1933, they will be worth looking into. Here's hoping to see you in Atlanta then if not sooner!

Delts visiting in Atlanta are invited to visit the two undergraduate chapters and attend any alumni functions which are held during their visit.

being held the third Wednesday of each month in the South Room at the Hotel Commodore. At the last meeting, Owen Orr commented upon the superior abilities of Wisconsin Delts, as compared to Illinois Delts, and Charlie Purcell rose to the defense of Illinois and issued a challenge. Your correspondent thinks the challenge was not accepted. Upsilon at Rensselaer had seven Delts at the luncheon. That showing cannot fail to call for recognition even in New York where Delts abound. Dave Reeder, our alumni chapter president, told about going over to Rho and telling the men over there what was expected of them on the Eastern Division conference this year. It must have been a good speech because they heard him through without comment, and when Dave telephoned them later and said the conference was not scheduled until next year, they told Dave they knew it all the time. Smart boys! Dave has been asked to run for Treasurer of the Interfraternity Council. We say the job is his at a crawl if time will let him accept.

Plans are going ahead for the annual Founders Day Banquet. It was a grand gathering last year and Don Moffett is again in charge of arrangements. Anyone who can put together a show such as the one we had last year deserves a permanent assignment for that job.

Pittsburgh

Now, WITH the Karnea over, we Pittsburgh alumni have settled down to our regular routine. It was a great privilege to entertain 850 Delts here in August. We all hope they enjoyed their visit to Pittsburgh.

The rushing party held each fall at the country home of Carl Mulert was a success again this year. Everyone looks forward to that affair—especially the Roast Little Pig. It is always an event with the Gamma Sigma rushing season.

December 5 marks the Third Annual Delt Church Service with Dean N. R. High Moor officiating at Trinity Cathedral in downtown Pittsburgh. We expect at least three hundred and fifty to attend. This is probably one of the finest innovations in Pittsburgh Deltdom—with the entire service built around the Fraternity and the closing ceremony by candle light with Delta Shelter as a background, one cannot help but be impressed with just what $\Delta T \Delta$ means and be thoroughly inspired to accomplish greater things for the Fraternity.

Our luncheons are held, as usual, at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club each Tuesday. Why not stop in?

Portland

AT AN annual election last month the following men were placed in office for the 1937-38 term: President, Chris Fariss; Vice-President, Bill Todd; Secretary, Don Shafer; Treasurer, Neil Troeh. Fariss is a real organizer and a man who will receive excellent cooperation from all of us. No member of our chapter is more deserving the honor or better suited to handle the job. We are all joyful in expectation of another very successful year.

Plans are already under way for the Annual Initiation Banquet early next year. We are hoping to have the Idaho chapter represented along with the other three neighboring chapters. The date is set for the Christmas dance—December 23, at the Congress Hotel in Portland. We expect a good showing from the undergraduates who will be home for the holidays. Two weeks ago about fourteen couples gathered at the home of Ace Emmons for the first of our winter series of bridge parties. The growing attendance attests to the popularity of these gatherings.

Rochester

THE ROCHESTER Alumni Chapter closed its spring activities with a family picnic at Churchville park June 30. Under the care of those master cooks and bottle-washers Dick Wilbur, Ed Marth, Elmer Davis, Howard Jespersen and Art Reeves, the enthusiastic gathering of Delts and their families soon forgot all suggestion of hunger. A soft ball game, under the experienced eye of Warren Parks as umpire, kept things moving lively until it became too dark to see the ball.

After a long summer nap, the chapter was first roused into action in the fall by a dinner and bridge party at the Monroe Golf Club September 23. Charlie Harper, Upsilon '37, made his appearance as our most recently graduated member. After a very enjoyable meal, four tables of members and their wives dusted off the contract bridge rules, and vied for the prizes furnished by the committee.

The annual meeting of the chapter was held at the Rochester University Club November 18. As usual, affairs were carried on in a very informal manner, the election of officers being the main business at hand.

Warren S. Parks was again unanimously reelected president. Art Reeves was elected vice-president, and Lou Camp was chosen as secretary-treasurer. On the executive committee for this year, we find Frank Smith and Allan Fisher. Committees will soon be appointed to carry on the activities for the coming months.

With the enthusiasm exhibited at the annual meeting in back of us, we feel certain that the Rochester chapter will have a successful year.

LOU CAMP

Savannah

GEORGE D. COPE, president of the Savannah Alumni Chapter, has appointed committees to arrange for the annual meeting of the chapter.

Olin F. Fulmer, Jr., was named chairman of a committee on arrangements. Other members of this committee are: John W. Blount, Jr., and James H. Cobb, Jr.

The following were appointed to compose a nominating committee: George F. Hoffman, chairman; Edgar R. Terry, and W. C. Thompson.

Mr. Cope said the meeting would be held during the Christmas holidays in order that the members of the Fraternity in college would have an opportunity to attend, as well as the alumni members living in Savannah.

Present officers of the Fraternity are: Mr. Cope, president; John A. Sullivan, vice-president; and W. Bent Hoynes, secretary.

W. BENT HOYNES

St. Louis

AFTER trying out a number of different plans in order to increase our regular attendance at our Monday luncheons, we have finally hit upon the plan of organizing an investment syndicate. This has been in effect now approximately thirty days and since it has gone into effect we have had an average attendance at luncheons of around twelve members. In case any other chapters might be interested in this idea, we organized this syndicate on the basis of $5.00 a month dues. Investments will be decided by the majority of the paid-up members.

We are also discussing plans for our annual meeting and have set a tentative date for December 23. The probable meeting place will be the Kings-Way Hotel in the west end of St. Louis and, of course, we would be glad to have any visiting Delts attend our meeting if in St. Louis at that time. Tentative arrangements are for a stag dinner to be followed by a meeting at which we will elect officers for the ensuing year.

During the past year Bartlett E. Crawford of Missouri, Charles Parker of Ohio State, Ben S. Gray of Emory & Henry, W. R. Stevens of Lehigh have attended some of our meetings.

Lou Edmondson of Duke has moved to El Dorado, Arkansas, where he is an instructor in dramatics at the high school. W. A. Bender has moved to Binghamton, New York. John W. Patt, Jr., has been transferred to Texas.

Forrest W. Boecker of Cornell recently joined the ranks of the married men and as a token of our esteem he was presented with a waffle iron.

G. H. BUCHANAN, JR.

Topeka

THE TOPEKA Alumni Chapter changed its meeting place from the Hotel Jayhawk to the Chamber of Commerce.

Fuzzy Wilson from Gamma Tau (Kansas) stuck his neck way out just before the Kansas State-Kansas University game this fall and bragged about his Alma Mammy to the extent that he expected to see them in the Rose Bowl this fall. After the game and at the next meeting at which meeting Wilson did not intend to be present, he was presented with a "Rose Bowl." Said "Rose Bowl" had one handle. Might add that Fuzzy "Rose Bowl" Wilson was persuaded to attend the luncheon by an officer of the Topeka police force who had a warrant for his arrest. The warrant charged him with malicious bragging, slandering, and making fun of Kansas State. Anyway, he paid and paid. To prevent misunderstanding Kansas State won 6-0.

The Chicken Fry at Gamma Theta (Baker) drew a large group of the boys from Topeka. It must have been a good meeting from Dr. Paul Powell's description. Clinton Acheson and Dana Anderson were both present for the feed. Mrs. Anderson accompanied Dana.

We owe Floyd Strong, Gamma Chi (Kansas State) a vote of thanks for getting the Topeka alumni to rolling again.

The dirtiest trick heard of in a long time was the election of Brother Paul Beatty, Gamma Kappa (Missouri) as President and Hugh Manion, Gamma Chi (Kansas State) Secretary-treasurer, during their absence from the noon luncheon.

HUGH MANION

Tulsa

THE LARGEST gathering of Delts ever assembled together in Eastern Oklahoma was occasioned by the annual dinner of the Tulsa Alumni chapter at the University Club on the evening of December 10. In addition to the seventy alumni members carried on the roster of the Tulsa Alumni Chapter, invited guests from the surrounding towns and cities included, Joe Gibson, president of the Oklahoma City Alumni chapter; Gordon Watts, Waggoner; Ludwig Webber and Charles Binckley of Bartlesville; Dr. John Wilson, Pawnee; Martin Coblentz, Quinton; and many others.

E. R. Filley, Gamma Theta (Baker), represented the chapter with the largest delegation excepting Delta Alpha (Oklahoma). Among the active alumni of Gamma Theta are Charles L. Baker, Harvey Heller, Harlem M. Holstein, Major C. Perrine and Chester Wint. Alumni of Gamma Kappa (Missouri) are also very well represented in the Tulsa chapter in the persons of Redmond S. Cole, Claude L. Sechler and M. Clark Taylor.

Lawrence Wilson, alumni chapter president, announced tentative plans for the annual Founders Day program to be held the second Friday in February in lieu of the regular monthly dinner scheduled for that date.

Bob Bates has been very successful in his quail hunts this season. Dr. Ned Smith likes Thursdays because that is his one free day during the week. H. R. Leland can tell some of the best stories of college days we've heard yet. Out-of-town Delts seen recently in Tulsa are: Tench Tilghman, Linwood Creasy, Bill Lucas, Oklahoma City; Jim Noel, Wichita, Kansas; and Martin Coblentz, Quinton.

THE DELT PLEDGES

EDITOR'S NOTE: This department includes reports from twenty-four chapters that were not listed in the November number of THE RAINBOW. In addition there are supplementary reports from several chapters.

With this number seventy of the seventy-four chapters have announced 1937-38 pledges. Omega, Pennsylvania; Beta Rho, Stanford; Beta Chi, Brown; and Gamma Sigma, Pittsburgh, rush under deferred systems which would not allow pledging prior to December 1, the copy dead line for this number.

PRIDE OF POSSESSION

We all have prized possessions—some intangible like moments of happiness or adventure shared with a beloved companion; others, tokens of happy associations—a gift, a ring, or a BADGE—symbols of friendship and common purpose.

Let your BADGE, set with precious jewels, express all that wealth of fraternity fellowship which enriches life immeasurably. Wear it proudly as a prized and cherished possession.

More prized possessions await you in

EVERY CHAPTER NEEDS

"BAIRD'S MANUAL"

If your chapter house library doesn't include at least one copy of the thirteenth Edition of Baird's Manual of American College Fraternities, it's time to act—quickly! This edition will be out of print in another few months, and the next edition won't be published until 1940—maybe 1941.

Edited by the late Dr. Francis W. Shepardson, it is his last great editorial contribution to the fraternity system. Get all the facts. . . Don't guess . . . teach your pledges the right information. . . Keep it for ready reference. Send your order today!
