Let's Meet in August

AT THE

White Sulphur Karnea

By Anthony F. McCue, Gamma Delta (West Virginia), '06

Chairman, Karnea Executive Committee

HAVE you been to White Sulphur Springs, in West Virginia? If you have, please begin right now to tell other Delts about it. Get ready to attend the Karnea there on August 21-22-23. It has everything any community needs to make a visit there a pleasure long to be remembered and often to be repeated.

In a valley hemmed in by lofty mountains in the foothills of the Alleghenies, stands the lovely and palatial Greenbrier Hotel and Cottages, surrounded by more than seven thousand acres of meadow and woodland playgrounds. The place has been named by its visitors from every land, "America's Most Beautiful All-Year Resort." The hotel offers every facility for convenience and comfort. Its broad, long hallways, the walls of which carry beautiful pictures, its big, cool, comfortable rooms, each furnished as few hotel rooms are, insure peace and comfort. Think of a dining room among the West Virginia hills in which twelve hundred people can be seated and served at one time, with not more than four at a table, and famous the country over for its delicious food and delightful service! The Greenbrier has it all. If you doubt it, come and be convinced.

Of course, with enough money another hotel could be built which is as large and as richly furnished as the Greenbrier, but it has something they do not have, and money cannot buy. You remember, of course, that "it takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make it home." The Greenbrier has been extending its hospitality to the tired traveler, to the vacationist, to Presidents of the United States, Governors, and dignitaries of foreign lands for more than 160 years. White Sulphur Springs is older than the United States. It is not only an institution, it is also a tradition.

Its July 20, 1817, records reveal that "Henry Clay, a servant and three horses, arrived for breakfast." His account shows that he bought, among other things—"1 dozen Segars, 25c" and "2 Groggs, per servant, 12½c."

In addition to the great hotel, there are many cottages, furnished as elaborately as the hotel itself. One of these is known as the "President's Cottage," because of the fact that "Hickory" Jackson occupied it as a summer White House one hundred and eleven years ago. Martin Van Buren occupied it as such in 1837 and John Tyler and his bride are said to have later spent their honeymoon there.

In 1932 this cottage, so rich in memories of the days that were, was made into a museum and dedicated by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. The ancient records and antiques of long ago are most interesting to the visitor, and may be seen here.

Fourteen Presidents of the United States have vacationed at The Greenbrier, Andrew Jackson being the first and Calvin Coolidge the last. The hotel was headquarters of generals of the Union Army during the Civil War and it was the home of Robert E. Lee for some considerable time after the close of that war.

The Prince of Wales, later Edward VIII of England, who renounced a throne "for the woman I love," spent three days in the Greenbrier and upon its estate in November, 1919. When he departed he declared his visit here was the "happiest of my visit to the United States." His visit was just fifty-nine years after a visit by his grandfather, Edward VII, when he was Prince of Wales.

"The Greenbrier and its Estate, though itself new, modern and complete, has the aura of years, the mellow charm which is possible only for a resort that has catered to and pleased the great names of the world for over a century and a half."

For the lover of the outdoors, White Sulphur Springs offers a diversity of opportunities. If you like horseback riding, one will find over 200 miles of bridle paths winding over the wooded hills, among the babbling brooks and along the valleys of the Greenbrier Estate. A large number of Virginia and Kentucky bred saddle horses are available.

The Greenbrier Golf and Tennis Clubhouse is within five minutes' walk from the hotel. It is unique in that it adjoins the first tee and the last green of all three golf courses on the Greenbrier Estate. The first golf club organized in the United States was in sight of the hotel. Two of the five members of that first golf club were Alexander and Roderick MacLeod, a name known and loved by Deltas everywhere. Two of these golf courses are championship courses of 18 holes each and one, "Lakeside" is a 9-hole course. All are known wherever golf is played.

Near the clubhouse there are five championship green Har-Tru (fast drying) tennis courts which are the scene of the annual U. S. Tennis Championships. Billie McGhee, a Delt of Tulane University, has played here and no doubt other Deltas have who are not known to the writer.

Another of the delightful spots around White Sulphur Springs is the mosaic-tiled swimming pool. It is under the same roof as the hotel and is 102 by 40 feet in area. It is filled by continuously flowing crystal-clear spring water of regulated temperature. It is one of the most beautiful pools in the country. An internationally-known instructor has charge of it.

In addition to the beautiful surroundings where the Karnea is to be held, the Karnea Committee feels that it will have an excellent program for the enjoyment of Delts who attend—not only for active and alumni members, but also for the ladies who will be in attendance.

The Fraternity was founded at Bethany, West Virginia, more than eighty years ago. At that time Bethany was in the State of Virginia. Delts in West Virginia and Virginia urge their brethren everywhere and of every age to come on back home to the White Sulphur Springs Karnea.

It is a chance of a lifetime to combine a vacation with a Karnea at the Greenbrier Hotel, at rates within easy reach of all.

Route U. S. 60 passes the hotel gates and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad station is within a thousand feet of the hotel.

Call or write your classmates, urging them to meet you here.

Chapter Reunions Attracting Many Delts

The last several Karneas have shown an increased interest in chapter reunion programs during the convention. Many Delts find that the August convention dates can easily be worked into vacation schedules, and they look forward to using the Karnea as a means of getting together with classmates and with the men of their chapters.

The White Sulphur Karnea will offer unusual facilities to promote reunions at leisure rather than in the usual hustle and bustle.

A number of enthusiastic Karnea goers are writing personal letters to all classmates, encouraging attendance at the White Sulphur Karnea, because of the unusual opportunity for a real reunion. In a number of chapters one man from each class has volunteered to write personal letters to the members of his class. There will be hundreds of Delts writing similar letters individually. Have you written your letters yet?

Make plans now to spend August 21, 22, 23 at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. Select several classmates whom you have not seen in many years and drop them a line, suggesting White Sulphur as the logical point for a meeting.

Low Cost

The cost is not going to be high. The dates for the Karnea come during an off-season for the famous White Sulphur resort. The charges are based on the American plan, and Delts will enjoy the privileges of this famed resort at a cost which will be even less than first-class rates in the city hotel. For eight dollars a day the Convention goer will have an individual room and three meals, plus full privileges of the vast Greenbrier estate. A number of Delts have written, "That rate cannot be beat. In the beautiful White Sulphur section, when one has paid for his room and board, there is nothing more he wants to do than just enjoy the fellowship of old and new acquaintances; whereas, in the city it always seems that so much more is essential to arrive at the same purpose—this means more money spent. I am looking for a real saving, as well as a real treat, in attending the White Sulphur Karnea."

The information is requested as an aid to the Karnea Executive Committee, which is busy with arrangements.

Gamma Chapter—Eighty Years in Delta Tau Delta

By John Dickson Rynd, Jr., Gamma (Washington and Jefferson), '42

WASHINGTON and Jefferson College, a Presbyterian institution, owes its origin to that belief in religious piety and sound learning which was characteristic of the pioneers and early settlers of this country. However, the college has not always been Washington and Jefferson but from 1780 until 1865 there were two separate schools—Washington in Washington, Jefferson in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania. Washington College was founded at Washington in the year 1780 by Dr. John McMillan, a Presbyterian minister. Jefferson, on the other hand, was founded in 1802 at Canonsburg by the Reverend Thaddeus Dodd. The two log-cabin colleges were allies rather than rivals at first; but, with the growth of the respective schools, an intense rivalry developed which served to block the progress of both. As a natural consequence, suggestions were made for effecting a union. At last, during the Civil War, which took a particularly heavy toll of the enrollment of both schools, the boards of trustees voted to unite the two institutions; and in March, 1865, the legislature of Pennsylvania granted a charter for the united college.

However, even after the union all was not well with the school. This time the trouble seemed to emanate from the friction between the students and administration. The controversy resulting from the merger had caused intense and bitter feeling in the community and it had pervaded the student body and fraternities. Partly due to this there existed an unfriendly feeling toward the college administration by some of the fraternities which, of course, prognosticated trouble. As a result of this feeling the faculty tried to eliminate fraternities altogether by pledging incoming students to refrain from joining any fraternity. Immediately upon this action a large body of the students threatened to withdraw from the college. Reconsidering, the college recalled their pledges which resulted in a better feeling between the two.

Delta Tau Delta, the chapter of which was first established at Jefferson College in February, 1861, and the chapter chartered at Washington College in October, 1861, naturally figured prominently in this controversy. The chapter at Washington was established as Zeta, but the name of Gamma was given it shortly afterward by the portion of the Fraternity at West Liberty College at West Liberty, West Virginia, which then became Gamma Prime. The consolidation of the two colleges resulted in the union of the two chapters, Gamma being retained as the chapter name. This Gamma chapter of Delta Tau Delta has been the only chapter of the Fraternity to be in continuous existence since the year 1861.

At the time of the union of the colleges the Delta Tau Delta chapter was the "Alpha," or governing undergraduate chapter. In 1869 the Alpha moved to Ohio Wesleyan College and from there to Allegheny College where it was at the time of the change in governing bodies from the Alpha chapter to the Arch Chapter in 1884.

The history of Gamma, as does that of Delta Tau Delta, seems to parallel that of other fraternities in general. All three groups had common difficulties. The largest of these obstacles was undoubtedly the wide-spread feeling that the colleges were on one side of the fence and the fraternities on the other. For some years now every fraternity and college have been aware of the fact that what is good for the fraternity is also good for the institution. Next ranked the conquest of the fraternities over the barbarities of the so-called "Hell-Week." Delta Tau Delta was the first fraternity on the Washington and Jefferson campus to abolish this method of "training" freshmen and was instrumental in obtaining its total abolition on this campus.

The third obstacle which all fraternities in general were forced to contend with was the matter of scholarship. With the help of the National Interfraternity Conference the fraternities succeeded in raising the scholarship of their respective organizations from the unsatisfactory situation which had formerly existed. As we all know, Delta Tau Delta was one of the first of the national fraternities to succeed in this struggle and Gamma chapter is proud to realize that it has done its share of the job and more. For the last ten years we have been among the leaders on our campus in fraternity scholarship.

It is not possible to overemphasize the part that Delta Tau Delta has played in ironing out these early difficulties. Gamma chapter, being the oldest chapter of the Fraternity in continuous existence and being an intrinsic part of the organization of Washington and Jefferson, the oldest college west of the Alleghenies, has played a momentous part in this achievement. In the early years of the chapter the members of the young organization had a typically difficult time in the administration of their fraternity activities. Up until 1865 the members of Gamma had no house. They met in the rooms of the members, generally those who had the largest rooms. This was during the period of the Civil War. Shortly after this period however, the chapter, secured a meeting room above a grocery store in downtown Washington. This room satisfied their needs until they could afford to establish a chapter which was maintained until the World War. Again many of the members of the chapter were called to serve their country. With this decrease in membership it was necessary for the chapter to share a double house with another fraternity on the campus. After the war was over the chapter secured the present Shelter at 150 East Maiden Street.

The chapter's files abound in historical material concerning the growth of both the chapter and the Fraternity. One of the documents contains the names of the charter members of the Fraternity. To the best of our knowledge the first members of Gamma chapter were John Alexander Coutler, F. L. Sutton, William Sill Foster, George Stockton Graham, James S. McKee, William Stevenson Bradley, Origen G. Bingham and Hiram Hull Hugus. Three of these men, McKee, Bingham, and Bradley were killed in action during the Civil War.

Each year the president of the house has the honor of wearing the fraternity pin of one of the founders of the chapter. Inscribed on the back of this jewel are the words: "Gamma, F.L. Sutton, 1861." In the late fall of 1940 the chapter received from Mrs. Henry Clay Ferguson of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the pin of her late husband, Henry C. Ferguson, Gamma '82. We also have among our files one of the copies of the Constitution of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity adopted in 1883 by the Twenty-fifth General Convention held at Indianapolis, Indiana.

Some years ago the alumni of Gamma formed the Delta Tau Delta Club, Inc. This group, with a board of directors composed equally of Washington and out of town alumni, has proved to be an indispensable aid to the active members. These men have always been ready and able to help us succeed in any project we have undertaken and have added almost innumerable improvements to the Shelter.

Our present chapter adviser, J. L. Dunn, Jr., who tops an impressive list of men who have held this position, is still at heart an active member of the chapter. He drops into the house regularly and is as enthusiastic and coöperative as any active member could hope to be.

All this brings us up the year of 1941—a year which is the biggest in the history of Gamma. The chapter celebrated its eightieth anniversary February 8, 1941. All the members and many alumni labored hard and long to make the day an outstanding success. All our worry and planning did not go unrewarded, for a more successful occasion could never be anticipated.

Due to the combined efforts of our alumni chairman and the alumni themselves we succeeded in reaching an amazing number of Gamma alumni. Their hopes were realized when seventy-five alumni members of Gamma returned to the Shelter for the anniversary festivities. Many men returned to renew old friendships that had been almost forgotten down through the years following their graduation.

The first big event of the day was our annual winter initiation. Sixteen pledges were inducted into the Fraternity at what was, according to many of the alumni, one of the finest initiation ceremonies in the history of the chapter. We are proud of these sixteen new members, not only because of their superb characters and qualifications, but because this group of initiates has been equaled in size only once in the history of the chapter—in 1929.

After we had welcomed our new brothers, the entire group—actives, alumni, and initiates—proceeded to the George Washington Hotel for a memorable initiation banquet. The Arch Chapter of the Fraternity was represented by G. Herbert McCracken, Gamma Sigma (Pittsburgh), '21, President of the Eastern Division and Garth B. Slater, Gamma Upsilon (Miami), '38, field secretary. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, President of Washington and Jefferson College was one of the speakers of the evening.

President Hutchison complimented Gamma on its impressive record in connection with the College and he outlined a plan by which Washington and Jefferson intends to attempt to repay the nine national fraternities on the campus for their contribution to higher education. This plan involves a Fraternity Row to be constructed in conjunction with the Washington and Jefferson College Campus Plan. Under this system all the fraternities on the campus would be joined together in one location and would be on an equal basis as far as living facilities are concerned. It is Dr. Hutchison's opinion that fraternities should not build fraternity houses; they should be provided by the college. He stated that in his estimation the collection of fees in the name of brotherly love is an anomaly.

G. Herbert McCracken, the principal speaker, told us of the progress that Delta Tau Delta has made in the fraternity and educational world. He too, complimented our chapter on its excellent record and standing. In conjunction with this observation he reviewed the chapter's past scholastic record. And then—to our profound surprise and extreme joy—came the crowning event of the day. Brother McCracken announced that Gamma had won the Eastern Division Scholarship Award for the third time. During the years that

Traditional Northwest Initiation Held in Seattle

TOMORROW alumni guests were to arrive in town and undergraduate guests should be arriving at the Shelter. Until then there was nothing to do but relax and wait for our company. But what was this? Eight of the boys from Delta Mu at Idaho appeared Friday night about fifteen hours ahead of schedule and as yet not a vacant bed in the house. The housing committee monopolized Gamma Mu's telephones for a few minutes and routing out the town men—ordered them to mobilize as soon as possible and start making up extra beds in their homes.irate mothers threatened nearly everything and the sleepy town men failed to realize the importance of the situation. However, Harry Hunt, Gamma Mu '43, created a record by housing six guests at his home and everyone of them was filed away on a Beautyrest mattress too. What had happened? Seattle was again playing host to Delts from all over the Northwest at the traditional annual Northwest Honorary Initiation and Banquet at which Paul G. Hoffman, President of Delta Tau Delta, was to speak.

A few days previous when alumni and chapter members felt that everything was taken care of, the Seattle Delt Mothers and Wives Club appeared on the horizon and wanted to know what about Mrs. Hoffman. A telegram to President Hoffman was answered saying that Mrs. Hoffman would definitely be coming west with him. Rapid fire action being the middle name of the Delt Mothers Club, within a day they had planned for Mrs. Hoffman a dinner at the Women's University Club, all invitations out, all arrangements made, and everything taken care of—boy, those girls really can work—and all by themselves, too.

In the meantime the Shelter had been besieged with a flood of calls from the local Studebaker agency, the Traffic Council, the downtown press, and other people and organizations wanting to know President Hoffman's plans. Selfishly, alumni and actives steered these people away so that Mr. Hoffman would not be lost in a maze of business appointments. Word was received that Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman would arrive at Seattle's New Washington Hotel at 3:30 Saturday afternoon. Several chapter members dashed to the hotel to act as an informal welcoming committee, but 3:30 came and went and no Hoffmans. Finally President and Mrs. Hoffman arrived from Portland. President Hoffman went directly to a business appointment. He was followed by the now desperate chapter officers. The chapter delegation arrived at the local Studebaker company just in time, reporters were beginning to jockey for position and the more dogmatic cameramen were lounging in the 1941 models in the showroom waiting for the so-called psychological moment. We suspected that the local dealers were glad to have the committee chat with Brother Hoffman for a few moments, for they looked flabbergasted. We would like to know just what he had said to them to make them look that way. . . .

Upon arriving at the hotel an hour or so later the bulletin board informed guests that the initiation was to be held in the Holland Tavern (no sacrilege intended). The Western Division's new vice-president, Edward L. Campbell, Gamma Mu (Washington), '23, who has probably initiated more Delts than any other man in the country, was again in charge of the initiation. His alumni team did a fine and impressive job and is to be congratulated. Each of the four northwest chapters sent two honor pledges to be initiated by this special Seattle alumni team. After the initiation ceremony, came the banquet. Gamma Mu's chapter adviser, Lane Summers, Delta (Michigan), '11, acted as toastmaster, introducing among others, Seattle's oldest Delt, Brother Harvey L. Glenn, Gamma Pi (Iowa State), '78. Brother Glenn attended Iowa State in the days when fraternities were not permitted on the campus and had the thrill as well as the dubious honor of belonging to a sub rosa chapter. Brother Glenn is loved by northwest alumni and undergrads alike for his active interest in the Fraternity and his undying enthusiasm.

It seems that somewhere between the salad and the main course of the dinner Gamma Mu's chorus rendered to the assembled multitude the very appropriate number, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," immediately followed by "Water Boy" . . . Toastmaster Summers then introduced Paul G. Hoffman, the guest of honor. Brother Hoffman spoke upon the value of a trained mind and of various Fraternity activities and values—things which we had all heard of before to be sure, but things which had never been so sincerely and so convincingly presented. President Hoffman's address was appreciated by everyone: pledges, actives, alumni, and a Sigma Chi photographer who happened to be hired for the evening. As a conclusion to the formalities of the evening, Ed Campbell presented to Gamma Mu the plaque awarded by the Fraternity for the highest score in the 1940 Fraternity Examination. This was received by the chapter president and the meeting was then adjourned as Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman had to catch a train for San Francisco.

To President and Mrs. Hoffman, "Come again soon when you can stay longer." To our many guests, "Come again any time and stay as long as you like." To the Seattle Alumni Association, "Congratulations!"

Delts Draw "Fantasia"

THREE Delts played important roles in the creation of Walt Disney's latest masterpiece, Fantasia. Strangely enough, all three worked on the sequence which interprets Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony, although Fantasia includes in its score eight world-famous symphonic works, visualized on the screen in color, action and story.

Oliver M. Johnston, Beta Rho (Stanford), '35, was Supervising

Animator of the sequence. Many of the conniving cupids and seductive centaurettes which flit through the Disney translation of this music are creatures of Johnston's skill. Although he sketched thousands of cupids for Fantasia, he remains untouched by the love bug as yet.

Before John W. Elliotte, II, Beta Theta (Sewanee), '24, left New York for Disney's, he became so entranced with the literature of the California Chamber of Commerce that he presented his raincoat to the janitor of the apartment house. Now a loyal Californian, he refuses to purchase another slicker, which fact has made it very inconvenient during flood time! Disney animator Elliotte was also a creator of centaurs and centaurettes.

Rodell C. Johnson, Beta Rho (Stanford), '36, joined the Disney staff immediately after finishing school and became an assistant animator. Fantasia's Bacchus and Jacchus are straight from Johnson's pen.

Elliotte and Johnson are now active in the production of Dumbo, Disney's next feature, and Johnston is working on Bambi, to be released next winter.

Now that Gamma has for the third time been awarded this honor, the plaque will remain in the possession of the chapter.

The last feature of the evening took place when George F. Hinkens, President of the chapter and

Dr. M. A. Dickie, President of Delta Tau Delta Club, Inc., burned the mortgage which had been placed on the Shelter when the house was purchased in the year 1920. This mortgage had been satisfied by the active members of the chapter over the twenty-year period without any alumni aid whatsoever. So now Gamma stands head and shoulders above any other fraternity on the campus financially, scholastically, as well as in all other respects.

We, the members of Gamma of Delta Tau Delta, wish to close this eighty-year review of constructive Deltism with a tribute to the oldest living Delt and an alumnus of Gamma—Washington D. Brandon of Butler, Pennsylvania, Gamma '68. It was with great disappointment that we received his letter informing us that he would be unable to attend the eightieth anniversary ceremonies due to the bad weather we were experiencing at the time. He added that his work in the legal profession kept him quite busy. (Brother Brandon is ninety-four years old.)

Lawrence College Dedicates Dormitory

Delta Nu Has a New Home

A Dream Come True . . .

This occasion marks the end, and at once the beginning, of an era in college-fraternity history. The Quadrangle was the dream not of one man, but of many; it was the idea not of the fraternities alone but of the trustees and officers of the college as well. It is a perfect example of teamwork on the part of all. We Lawrentians may take just pride in this achievement, for these buildings are much more than handsome living quarters for our undergraduates: they are eloquent proof that the fraternity, properly directed, is a vital and significant part of the educational program.

Delta Pi Is Installed at University of Southern California

By Frank A. Zimmerman, Gamma Upsilon (Miami), '31, Delta Iota (U.C.L.A.), '31
and Barry N. Hillard, Gamma Eta (George Washington), '17

SOME eighteen years ago a small but select group of loyal Deltas, enthusiastic about the future of Southern California in general and Los Angeles in particular, gathered together in a serious huddle. Delta Tau Delta was not represented by a chapter in this rapidly growing section and the feeling among us was strong that it was high time we did something about it. A good group of boys had formed a local at the University of Southern California and expressed a preference for Delta Tau Delta. The result was a petition hopefully submitted—and promptly rejected by the Fraternity.

Two years later the same loyal group, with a few added recruits, having swallowed their disappointment and caught their second wind, went vigorously to bat for a fine local group at the University of California at Los Angeles, then known as the Southern Branch of the University of California. This time success was their reward, and in May, 1926, Delta Iota was started on the way that has since been so well justified by a fine, representative chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

Once again we rested upon our oars for a few years until, in 1930, we were approached by what was at the time the oldest local in the United States—a fine group at U.S.C. This was something to be enthusiastic about and we swung into action quickly and energetically. A petition was once more drawn—this time more elaborately—and submitted to the Fraternity—and once more promptly rejected.

This was discouraging—and so was the depression that descended upon us all for an extended period. The net result was that nothing further was attempted in the way of developing a possible Delta chapter at U.S.C. until the early fall of 1939. At about that time the president of the Los Angeles Alumni Association, in talking to one of our members whose attendance had fallen off to practically nil during the preceding several years, was told that there were a number of Delta alumni here in Los Angeles who had similarly fallen from grace and were not attending Los Angeles Alumni affairs because they resented the failure of the Fraternity to appreciate the importance of installing a chapter at U.S.C.

This posed a challenge that could not be overlooked, so the said President immediately offered a proposition in somewhat the following words: "If I undertake to conduct a thorough, intelligent and intense campaign to have U.S.C. approved by the Fraternity as a spot for expansion and, having secured such approval, to develop a group who will qualify as petitioners, will you in turn come back with your gang to our luncheons and functions and take the part therein you used to?" The answer was "Yes," the deal was made, and everyone went to work.

The first step was to assemble all the data about U.S.C. and our entire territory of Los Angeles and Southern California. Among other things we learned was that the University of Southern California was a member of the Association of American Universities, was accredited by the California State Board of Education; was rated

Class "A" by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars; was a member of the College Entrance Examination Board; had an active chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi and practically all other national scholastic and professional honorary fraternities, and enjoyed a very high rating in its colleges and schools of Architecture, Dentistry, Law, Journalism, Social Work, Education, Medicine, Commerce and Business Administration, Music, Pharmacy, Library Science, etc. Furthermore, the University had been founded in 1884 and had graduated approximately 30,000 students, with a present enrollment of over 7,000 full-time students, over 4,500 of them men.

We discovered that this big University had only twenty-one national fraternities, and of these perhaps less than half could be bracketed with the most prominent.

All of this information and much, much more was incorporated in a Resolution of the Los Angeles Alumni Association of Delta Tau Delta stating that in their opinion it was time Delta Tau Delta recognized and approved U.S.C. as a place for expansion. One hundred thirteen signatures of Deltas from thirty-six different chapters were secured to this petition in a very brief time, and it was forwarded to our Committee on Chapters and Charters for presentation to the Arch Chapter, supported by very voluminous data to back up every assertion.

The date of the filing of the Resolution was, I believe, some time in December, 1939, or January, 1940, and at the following April meeting of the Arch Chapter the University of Southern California was at long last approved as a spot for expansion.

Well, there we were! We had the baby we had been crying for for so many years, but how to mature it was another problem. The Fraternity was unwilling to authorize any expenditure of funds that might have made colonization possible, and there was no local in existence at the University. It looked as though we were stymied just when we could begin to see a chance of a reward for our long and at times, unremitting labors.

Lady Luck could not keep frowning upon us forever, though. By a pure stroke of good fortune one of our members was interviewed by several representatives of a group on the campus at U.S.C. who had heard that Delta Tau Delta might be interested. This group had existed for many years at U.S.C. and maintained a house on campus as a purely professional fraternity.

The competition in rushing was getting tougher all the time, however, and they were finding it increasingly difficult to maintain their position against the better known national social fraternities. To make a long story shorter, we refused to have any negotiations whatever with the group as long as they were in the situation then existing. The result was that such of the boys as wished to do so promptly formed a local and petitioned the Faculty Committee on Organizations for recognition as the "Crescent Club." This recognition was granted May 22, 1940, and it was then that we started to work with a vengeance.

Plans were immediately outlined for a vigorous campaign of summer rushing; a lease was entered into for a year's occupancy of the house Delta Pi Chapter is now using, and everyone pitched to with a will to try and break all records in presenting to Delta Tau Delta a group of whom they might be proud. Thanks to the efforts of many fine Delta alumni and the constant, all-summer work of the boys of the Crescent Club, that group came to the end of last fall's rushing season with a class of fifteen pledges that we knew to be tops on the campus, and who have since more or less proven it by leading all fraternities at the University in scholarship for the past semester by a considerable margin, electing the President of the 1941-42 sophomore class and placing one regular and one alternate in Squires—the sophomore honorary society.

This was progress, and we felt it placed us in a position to proceed with a petition for a charter. Consequently, a petition was prepared and submitted to the Arch Chapter. To our great delight, Philip S. Van Cise, our National Secretary, was immediately appointed Phonarch Especial and assigned the task of making a thorough investigation of both University and the Crescent Club. Phil arrived in Los Angeles about December 1, 1940, and proceeded to lay bare everything and everyone in sight—he couldn't have overlooked one single phase that would be important to the Arch Chapter's consideration. His subsequent report to that august body must have been almost as favorable as we were hoping it might be, for, on January 17, 1941, we received the flash that the Arch Chapter has unanimously granted the petition of the Crescent Club, the new chapter to be known as Delta Pi. What a night that was!! More than one celebration was held to celebrate the achievement of a goal long sought.

The next thing now was to arrange the installation as quickly as possible. We found out that President Paul G. Hoffman could be with us if we held it the middle of February, so the 14th was selected and the many important preparations were begun. What a night it turned out to be—in more ways than one. The good, old "Oregon Mist" descended upon us with a vengeance, with the result that many or most of the 301 Delts who participated in or attended one or all parts of the celebration almost had to swim into the University Club. Most unusual!!

The ceremonies began at the Club promptly at four o'clock with the initiation of the twenty-one Crescent Club actives by a team composed of the following alumni: Dick Callahan and Frank Field, Delta Iota; Darrell Johnson, Gamma Rho; Jerry Stewart, Beta Rho; Dick Best, Beta Omega, and Stew Pomeroy, Delta Epsilon. "Blondie" Paul, Vice-President of the Western Division, who participated in the installation of Delta Iota, was to have taken part but was stricken with appendicitis on the eve of the initiation. Arnie Ballantine, vice-president of Delta Iota, stepped into the breach and saved the day. The ceremony was one of the finest in the memory of many of the oldest brothers there, and was a fitting introduction of our new brothers into Delta Tau Delta.

Following the initiation of the active members, ten pledges and five alumni members of the Crescent Club were initiated by a team of actives headed by King Cable, president of Delta Iota. Bob Beckham and Jim Haugh of the Beta Rho active chapter journeyed down from the Stanford farm to take part, and did a splendid job.

The installation being over, everyone repaired to the main dining room of the Club, which had been reserved for our Founders Day and Installation Banquet. Of the 301 Delts present for the afternoon ceremonies, 273 stayed for the dinner to set a new record for Founders Day celebrations in Los Angeles. Practically every chapter of the Fraternity, active or prime, was represented.

For the formal part of the evening, "Beau" Adams of Beta Rho was Master of Ceremonies. He introduced Nat Fitts, Jud Crary and Owen Orr, former members of the Arch Chapter, and Hans Jepson, President of the Western Division. Dave Wilkinson, president of the new chapter, then presented a parchment scroll, embellished with the signatures of all of the actives, pledges and alumni of his chapter, to Barry Hillard as a token of their appreciation and esteem for all of his effort in helping them to obtain their charter. On behalf of the University of Southern California, Dr. Rufus B. von KleinSmid, the University's President, welcomed Delta Tau Delta to the campus. Further representing the University at the speakers' table were Henry W. Bruce, Vice-President and Comptroller; Dr. Albert S. Raubenheimer, Director of Educational Program and Dean of Liberal Arts, and Dr. Francis S. Bacon, Dean of Men.

The high spot of the evening came when "Beau" Adams introduced, as one of Los Angeles Alumni Chapter's past presidents, one who has traveled far since he held office in 1922, Paul G. Hoffman, President of our Fraternity. Paul gave one of the finest talks ever heard by any of us. Simply and straight-forwardly, Paul talked right from the heart, and all of us who heard him came to realize more keenly than ever that, in these trying times, our Fraternity has the right man at the helm.

And now to give credit to those many loyal Delts whose continued interest and unflagging energies made possible Delta Pi Chapter. In retrospect at first glance it seems to have been a whirlwind achievement—this installation of a chapter one and one-half years after the first steps were taken; but remember that behind this concentrated period of activity lay many long years of striving for the goal and preparation for the eventual attainment of it. It would be impossible to name all of the fine brothers who from time to time helped materially, but it is possible to name the group who were finally honored by being named Founders of

There remains little more to be told, save perhaps a few words about the location of the University of Southern California and of the fraternities there. Southern California occupies a campus of approximately fifty acres almost in the heart of Los Angeles. Magnificent new buildings have been added almost year after year until today the campus forms a truly imposing sight. Just a few blocks removed from the campus proper, on West 28th street, the University has succeeded in having that street for several blocks zoned for fraternity use, and it is there, at 700 West 28th Street, that Delta Pi is, for the present at least, quite adequately housed right in the heart of Fraternity Row. The Shelter now occupied will accommodate up to eighteen resident members, with ample facilities for taking care of a chapter of up to forty-five or fifty men, which number we soon hope to reach. The chapter owns all furnishings and equipment and already has a substantial sum in the new house corporation just being incorporated, looking toward that time when Delta Pi may build its own Shelter.

In closing this, let us suggest to all travelling Delts that they will be made most welcome at the new baby chapter. Come and see us—and, if you can't do that, do be sure and send on the names of any likely material you may know to be entering U.S.C.

PREPARE FOR PEACE! By Henry M. Wriston, Gamma Zeta (Wesleyan), '11. Pp. 275. New York: Harper and Brothers. $2.50.

Reviewed by ALAN VALENTINE,
President of the University of Rochester

THE ancient Greeks had a proverb: "After the war, aid." The modern Greeks may soon have reason to quote this wisdom of their ancestors, with pointed glances in our direction. They will not be alone in that, for no matter who wins the war, and upon what terms, aid will be needed by many peoples, and America, if any one, will be in a position to give it.

One form in which Europe will need that aid from America will be in the formulation of intelligent and durable terms of peace. If we do not make this contribution from generous motives, we should make it from self-interest. Dr. Wriston, the president of Brown University, contends that it now is not too soon to begin our mental preparations for that important task. He convinced me, at least, that some things can be said and done, now, to make the next "peace" more secure and successful than the last one. His book can be read and understood by thousands. I hope it will be.

Dr. Wriston marshals his arguments over so wide a front that some of his outposts might not withstand expert attack. But his general position seems to me sound. It may be only quibbling to suggest an inconsistency between his statements that "war often purifies and makes effective the democratic impulse" and that "war is in itself a failure in morals," but the former of these is uncomfortably near the ministerial unctious that made some of us writhe in 1917 and are already oozing again from a few pulpits in 1941. Dr. Wriston is not of that school, if one can judge from the rest of his book.

Victory, he points out, is often only a temporary advantage and is relatively sterile unless used as the starting point for a new organization of the world's forces which, properly handled and continuously adjusted, can perpetuate peace. The tragedy of Versailles was "too much faith in victory as a solution." War came from the previous failure of reason, and mere success in arms will not restore peace. Nations must somehow emerge from war with enough energy and sense of objectives to work intelligently together for peace terms that will work.

At this point Dr. Wriston is more concrete and helpful. His view of history, in particular his analysis of Versailles, enables him to make definite suggestions. A peace must be made swiftly, before reaction toward "normalcy" sweeps over a thousand market places, or revolutions rob peace delegates of their representative authority. Peace treaties are like New Year's resolutions: their chances of success are greater if they are not too ambitious. Therefore peace conferences should concentrate upon a few essential points, providing machinery for the adjustment of details, and flexibility for adjustments even in major issues as conditions change.

The need for celerity requires careful study and preparation during war-time, in advance of peace. This demands pre-peace organization, both within a nation and between allies. Allied nations must confess their chief aims and disclose their secret treaties. America should provide for the constant intellectual renewal of its professional diplomats by a foreign service college, along the lines of our Army war college, in which a carefully chosen personnel could study the coming problems of peace organization from a professional point of view. Their studies should be supplemented by organized groups of scholars and laymen, who will supply the professional diplomats with detailed studies and general points of view—acting also as interpreters between public and diplomat, before as well as while the peace is made. Every effort should be made to prevent rivalry and loss of self-esteem between the laymen and the professionals, who should carry the banners. Dr. Wriston defends the importance of trained diplomats, who know how to reach and phrase the necessary compromises so that nations can make concessions and still save face.

A peace can be successful only if it is reasonably acceptable to the temporarily vanquished. The best way to win the acceptance of a defeated nation is to give places to its representatives, in full equality, around the peace table. Failure to do so was the weakness of Versailles. A peace can be successful only after its framers have sincerely agreed upon whether its terms are to be centered about the principle of international league or balance of power, with America at the balance, since events seem to make this a logical and familiar device of peace.

World trade of the future can be "political" economics or "free" economics. Trade dominated by national politics is likely to lead to economic decay and renewed war. Free economics allows a fair maximum of private initiative and private responsibility. It is the way of democracy and the way of peace. Only by a respect for the integrity of the individual can the peace of the world and the democratic bill of rights be preserved. Respect for the individual is the long-term antidote for all forms of intolerance—racial, religious, social, economic. Dr. Wriston concludes with a strong and uncompromising stand for individualism in peace and in war. He is more optimistic than many of us that modern wars can be won without great centralization, and that in any case America will promptly regain any war-time losses in democratic freedom.

Simply winning a war, says Dr. Wriston, does not make a world safe for democracy. This is the underlying conviction of his admirable effort. It cannot be said too often or too forcefully to every American, and every ally of America. It is well to recall and be chastened by those stirring and now ironical words which Woodrow Wilson wrote in pencil on a scrap of paper and announced to the American people on Nov. 11, 1918: "The armistice was signed this morning. Everything for which America fought has been accomplished." —New York Herald-Tribune, May 11, 1941.

BENJAMIN BLAKE. By Edison Marshall, Gamma Rho (Oregon), '17. Pp. 443. New York: Farrar and Rinehart. $2.50.

Reviewed by GEORGE CONRAD

BORN in the middle of the eighteenth century and destined for more than one man's proper share of brawls, adventures, loves and the buffeting of fate, Benjamin Blake is not a hero for anemic tastes, nor is his story—as he warns you at the beginning of it—a thing of elegant expression and learned syntax in the manner of Lord Bolingbroke and Horace Walpole. From the time he was old enough to fight his own battles, either with his fists or his wits, he was accustomed to living dangerously and speaking bluntly. You can take his measure in the novel whose title is his name, a lusty, galloping yarn of bygone days in England and in far corners of the globe.

By the age of twelve Benjamin had been toughened by the usual experiences of a lad who realized that unless he grew tall and tough as ash he would be trampled in the scuffle. He had "seen a hanging, wagered a farthing on a cockfight, hardened his heart at a bear-baiting and knew well that no stork hatched him in this lewd world." No legitimate father had anything to do with the matter, when it comes to that, for Toby Mallow's pretty wife had run off with Godfrey Blake and both had died of fever after Ben's entrance on the scene. Godfrey's brother had taken possession of the property and was the arrogant squire of Breetholm. Toby Mallow went looking for better luck in the far-off colony of Virginia and Ben's grandfather, a good gunsmith and a kindly soul, gave the boy what affection and schooling he had.

Affairs took a turn for the worse when Toby Mallow returned to England and connived with Squire Blake to drive Ben from his home. The squire took him on as hostler. Ben thought that was a good break. "Horses are clean beasts. I had feared he would put me in the dining hall to watch him chew. 'Fore God, it would have fluxed me."

Squire Blake was as evil in appearance as he was in mind, and he resented the lad's fine physique and his manner that reminded him of a brother he had hated. He undertook to break Ben's spirit by flogging. Ben stood more of it than he would have if the squire had not had a daughter as beautiful as her father was repulsive, but he escaped finally and set forth in quest of adventure as a seaman, vowing that he would be avenged in due time. He played a part in many a rousing episode, and now and then a romantic one. And when he returned to England he paid off old scores in quite a different fashion from what he had planned. —New York Times.

IN THE CONSULSHIP OF PLANCUS. By Frederic Marcus Wood, Zeta (Western Reserve), '97. Pp. 66. Painesville, Ohio. F. M. Wood. $1.00.

RECOLLECTIONS of the Gay '90s in the dormitory of Adelbert College, the building now known to Western Reserve University students as Pierce Hall, are contained in a new book which is finding favor among alumni of the college and other persons familiar with collegiate activities of the era.

The book, entitled "In the Consulship of Plancus," is the work of Fred Wood of Painesville, a member of the class of 1897 at Adelbert and at one time a reporter for the Cleveland Plain Dealer. It is an All-Adelbert publication in that the publisher is E. C. (Chet) Lampson of Jefferson, Ohio, well known as a country printer and newspaperman. Lampson was a member of the class of 1898 at Adelbert.

From the small group of students who spent their idle hours on the dormitory steps have come doctors, teachers, legislators, business men, journalists and others who attained national reputation. Wood has written of these men in his book. He has embroidered it with countless stories of happenings, comic and tragic, which occurred at Adelbert, just as they did at many colleges in the country in the years covered by the book.

The printing is limited to 300 copies. They are available through Karl Davis, alumni secretary, or through Wood directly.

AROUND THE FIREPLACE

WITH GOOD DELTS

Editor's Note: We recommend to every reader, young or old, this fine address by Ernest Haycox, well-known author, presented at the Western Division Regional Conference at Corvallis, Oregon, February 22, 1941.

Not long ago one of America's great publishers took his pen in hand to say that Americans were an unhappy people, unhappy about themselves and the world around them; that they were a nervous and gloomy people, seeing no future and oppressed by the existing realities of conflict, disruption and war.

He might well have added that our unhappiness dates back to the beginning of the depression ten or eleven years ago. Before that time we had a good deal of optimism and a good deal of courage, and we thought we had the key to perpetual bonanza. Everything we touched turned to profit and every Saturday night was Christmas. But our courage and our optimism seemed propped up by success and when success failed us the nation began to weep in its beer and has been steadily weeping since.

No nation is a great nation unless it has a feeling of its own destiny, unless it has a feeling of national unity and purpose. I do not mean the kind of a false destiny and goal imposed upon it by a man on top, or the ideologies set up by a ruling class. I mean the feeling of people that they are on the march toward a goal. One goal or another, we had that feeling in America up to about 1929. We have not had it since.

I think it is important that we try to seek out the cause of our forlorn and somber state of mind. That search takes us at once to the individual citizen; for it is the citizen, his qualities and his hopes and dreams which make a country. When we come to look at the citizen I think we will find that his tears and self-pity come from two fundamental misconceptions he has—one a misconception regarding the world, one a misconception regarding himself.

As to the first misconception: The average man seems to have the feeling that the ordinary and normal course of the world is one of peace and plenty of good will; therefore this man now feels that since he is in a world which is confused and at war he has been deprived of his rightful environment and consequently he feels sorry for himself. He looks back through the roaring twenties and back through the First World War—which for Americans didn't strike home very hard—to those long days and years of prosperity and apparent serenity of the Victorian Era. And this, he thinks, is the normal world.

But it isn't. The world we are now living in, its wars, its tragedy and poverty and breakup, is the normal world. Until the average man adjusts himself to that fact and disciplines his thinking by it, he is always going to be confused; he is always going to be marking time until better days return.

ERNEST HAYCOX

Gamma Rho (Oregon), '23

I do not say we must not look and work for a better world. We must indeed. But we must gear our thinking to this present kind of world if we are to get along with our chores. If we were all to put off getting an education, if we were to delay our business plans, our marriage and the begetting of our children until a more golden day arrived we should end up our lives as fruitless men. For us it must be "Business as usual," regardless of the times, if we are ever to get anything done; just as it is business as usual for the London shopkeeper who, bombed out of his store, spreads his goods on the sidewalk.

As to the second misconception: We keep thinking that the great goal of man is to achieve happiness. More silly and pallid sentiments concerning happiness have been expressed than concerning any other single quality of living. The Good Cheer Boys bleat it at us, the love songs whine about it. "Are you happy? I'm Happy. You should be Happy Too." . . . You will remember that the Declaration of Independence said, "Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," were the inalienable rights of man. Not the guarantee of happiness, but the pursuit of it. And we have pursued it much as we set about to break the record for the 100-yard dash; and since happiness does not come that way we stand about wondering: "What's wrong?"

Happiness is not a goal at all. It is a by-product. It comes as the result of something well done, something suddenly heard or seen in the day, some phrase of music, some taste of salt sweat at the end of a hard job, some feeling of great and deep contentment at having not failed yourself. Those moments have to be fought for and won; they last for a moment and are gone—and then we must be about another chore to win them again.

These are our misconceptions. Out of them we frequently arrive at two very sorry states of mind. If we are fatalists we are apt to say, "What's the use? What can one man or one vote do? Why struggle?" We are apt to say: "I didn't ask to be born into this world. It was none of my doing. Therefore, I'll have nothing to do with it."

Or, if we are of rebel types we rise to frenzy, say the world is all wrong and must be put aright instantly and we tear down all old things because they are old and put up new things because they are new; and we build a very cockeyed habitation for ourselves and wonder why we are not pleased. In that respect we are the world's most emotional people.

We have, in our country, perhaps the most expensive and thoughtfully planned of all educational systems in the world; yet our educational system has not helped us much. Being American, it has been built around the idea of efficiency and practicalness; its prime mission seems to be to turn out a twenty-three-year-old man into a job at once. If you want to learn how to run a metal lathe, or become a summer resort hostess, or sell logs to China, if you want to become an insurance actuary, a doctor or dentist or electrician, our system is wonderful.

But if you want to delve into the core of all mysteries, if you wish to go to the heart of all knowledge, if you wish to learn something of that one thing which is more important to you than any other in this world, it is not very good. I speak of your knowledge of yourself, and your relation as an individual to other individuals. . . . All knowledge starts there, all wisdom starts there; and your success as an integrated person as well as your success in the bond business starts there.

When a man comes to study himself there are two things he soon discovers which, at the moment are apt to change the whole course of his life; although some men never do discover them because some men never really do look seriously into themselves.

The first discovery is that every man—every man, no matter how illiterate or slow or thick-headed—is a bundle of talents and capacities and emotions all tied into a knot of energy beside which the greatest power of smashed atoms is very small indeed. Each of us is a deep reservoir of possible achievements. Every thought and feeling man ever had since the beginning of time is in us; the will, the force, the power of thought, the ability to conceive and execute, to plan and dream and do—all are there. In us is the accumulation of every achievement of the race, every great invention, every theory, every poem, every act of heroism and sacrifice. Each of us is the owner of this.

Yet—and this is what a man soon comes to discover, or should discover—not one of us ever uses more than a quarter of our capacities. We are like wells from which the best water is never touched, we are like lumps of burning coal out of which only a fractional energy is ever captured. The rest lies in us, at our command and ready for use, but never used. . . . Some of you at this moment may be thinking of that funny paper creation, Superman. But remember, if the mind of a man can envision a Superman, the mind and the will of man can at last create a Superman. If we can conceive a thing, we can, somehow and sometime, do it.

Why don't we? Because if we are a bundle of talents and abilities, we are also a bundle of fears and prejudices and sloths and inertias. And so then we discover one more thing about ourselves. If we are to become well rounded individuals, if we are to achieve in any degree those things which we are capable of achieving, we must impose upon ourselves a discipline. Knowing ourselves and our capacities, we must lay them out for orderly use, and say to ourselves, "These are the things we must do, this is the way we must go, this is the pattern of life." Otherwise we follow the more common pattern of life, which is failure or half achievement, which is a wasting of all the greatness the gods bestowed upon us. It is of those who so drift along, the great bulk of us, that Shakespeare spoke when he said:

"There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which taken at the flood lead on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound
In shallows and miseries."

It is in this world of fury and uncertainty and break-up we must live; not in any golden age of our imagining. It is in this particular world, here and now, we must do our work and leave our record. If it seems rather hard and unfair to us that our generations should have to operate in such a world, let us remember that two of the most remarkable periods of the world's history—two periods in which the spirit of man flamed out and left a brightness scarcely equalled since—were both periods like our own, full of trouble and disaster and uncertainty, the period of the Renaissance and the Elizabethan Age.

You may seek the pages of history over and you will scarcely see two such remarkable characters, for example, as Leonardo da Vinci and Michelangelo of the Italian Renaissance. They reflected their age—an age of intense activity of the mind, an age of tremendous enthusiasm and vitality. Here was a pair of men, so engrossed in the wonderful and unexplored possibilities of the world about them that the days were never long enough to do what they wanted to do; here were men so wholeheartedly alive that they could turn from painting to sculpture, from sculpture to dissection of bugs and animals, from dissection to the theoretical invention of flying machines, to the designing and building of aqueducts, to sanitation and soldiering, to treatises on art and design—to a thousand things that caught their active minds. If you look at those two men you will find they had, above all other things, a tremendous curiosity about life, a tremendous zest and a tremendous energy. They were up and doing.

It is the same with the Elizabethans who swept the oceans in search of new worlds to conquer, who wrote the greatest of our poetry and drama. No doubt they had their bellyaches and their itches and their miseries as we have them; no doubt they had their introverts and their despairing souls. But the over-all picture we get is of an age, in each instance, that had a keen feeling for life, that played its part well, that seized its opportunities and made the most of them.

I think we may draw a parallel. Here we are, looking back through the centuries, seeing those ages in which men were submerged by their fears and superstitions, seeing the ages of weakness and littleness in which men were not great. Then we come to the people of the Renaissance and to the Elizabethan people and we see them towering above these other ages, and we say of them: "These people were great. They played great parts. They represented all that is best of the doggedness and the daring of the human spirit."

Some day in the far future, other generations will look back as we are now looking back. They will come to our time, to the Twentieth Century. They will pause a moment to weigh us. Will they say: "These were a great people, conscious of destiny and playing their parts well"? Or will they say: "Here were a people made small by their fears"?

I have but one more comment to make. A little while ago I said that people were mistaken in believing happiness was the great end of life. Perhaps you may wonder what other thing is greater for the individual. I might name usefulness as one other thing. Certainly that is greater than the item of happiness. But still to me usefulness is not the final test of a man's life.

Here we all are, born as blanks, as white pages upon which nothing has been written, into a world which is not so much hostile as completely indifferent. Simply stated, this universe simply does not care what we are or what we do. We claim immortality because we are men; but if we claim it we must prove it. The universe does not care. The universe, by its indifference, lays its snares for us, snares which arise out of our own weaknesses—the weaknesses of fear and prejudice and bigotry, of little visions or no visions at all, of energies spilled out in a thousand useless directions, of down-right laziness. In a sense we are, each of us, challenges laid down upon this planet by the Maker of it; and our destiny is to prove that we can throw off the littleness that is in us, to use the greatness that is in us so that, starting as ciphers in this world we become at last rounded and whole people, knowing our talents and using our talents, and thus in the end justifying the grandeur and the dignity and the power of the human soul.

The Right Reverend WILLIAM T. MANNING, Beta Theta (Sewanee), '93, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York, denounced Hitlerism and called for swift and unlimited aid to Great Britain in an address before The Church Club of New York at the club's twenty-fourth annual reception and dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria. William E. Sims, president of the club; Mrs. Sims, and Bishop and Mrs. Manning received the guests before the dinner.

"A power of almost incredible evil has arisen in the world, a power which seeks to extinguish the light of human liberty, of free thought, and of human progress, a power which seeks to enslave not only the bodies but the minds and souls of men and which proclaims its wicked purposes both by its words and by its deeds of cruelty and inhumanity," said Bishop Manning.

"I ask how can any one dare to stand up in this land and say that it makes little difference whether Hitlerism prevails or whether Democracy prevails in this world conflict? No matter how sincere he may be, anyone who holds that view shows almost unbelievable moral and spiritual blindness.

"Speaking as an American, as a Christian, and as a Bishop of the Christian Church I say that we cannot be neutral in this conflict without the loss of our own moral ideals and of our own souls, I pray that our Senators and Representatives in Washington may speedily end their discussions and give our utmost and unlimited aid to the people of Great Britain in their heroic struggle for all that we hold sacred in human life before it is too late."

NELSON T. JOHNSON

MICHAEL J. CLEARY, Beta Gamma (Wisconsin), '02, president of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, speaking on the occasion of the ninety-second Founders Day feat of the University of Wisconsin, asked that we "preserve and improve the United States way of life."

"I am grateful for this opportunity to speak for the Milwaukee alumni—a goodly number of whom are assembled here tonight. In their name I send greetings to our fellow alumni wherever they are.

"I am asked to speak about our obligation and opportunity for service in these troubled times. The obligation of service and of leadership rests heavily upon the shoulders of the direct beneficiaries of the training in a tax-supported University.

"But where do those obligations attach in times like the present?

"To me it is clear that a first and all-important responsibility is the preservation, for future generations, of the benefits and blessings that we of this generation have had and still enjoy. We must recognize the fact that these privileges came to us through the sacrifices of those who preceded us here. We must recognize the fact that we are trustees for the generations yet to come.

"It is not a platitude to say that a major necessity of these troubled times is sane thinking. It is neither cynical nor harsh to say that there is a great confusion in our thinking today. I fear that we are too much motivated in our attitude and actions by our emotions and too little by our reason.

"The work of America is not done. The frontiers of opportunity in America are not exhausted. The concept expressed in the political, economic and social plan and structure of America is not out-moded.

"What we have here is not perfect. It is the product of human minds. It was not given to us humans to be perfect in conception or execution. However, I confidently assert that this structure, with all its faults, has brought more hope, happiness and opportunity than has any other similar structure in the history of man. Its capacity for giving is not ended.

"So I say, the first and most important responsibility of leadership today is the preservation and improvement of the American plan and way of life. That responsibility rests upon all leadership—industrial, labor and educational, as well as political.

"Another crying need today is national unity. The solution of America's problems is the joint responsibility of all Americans. It is your job and mine. No miracle man or Moses is coming to do that job for us. The preservation of America and the solution of its problems means sacrifice. Not sacrifice by a group or class but sacrifice by all who enjoy its blessings. Sacrifice was necessary to create America and sacrifice is necessary to perpetuate it. Leadership must not only make us conscious of the necessity of unity and of sacrifice but it must show the way. It will be tested by its ability to do that thing.

"I do not ignore the pressing necessity of today's program of preparedness. All agree that that tremendous and immediate necessity must be met now. Serious and important as are the conditions that produced that program, the problems and decisions that are to come after it is finished and after the wars have ended will be deeper and more diversified. We must plan and train to meet them.

"Wisconsin is proud of the men and women it has trained and given to the Nation in the past. They occupy conspicuous places in every field of human endeavor. Wisconsin will go on training men and women for leadership in performing the stern tasks and making the grave decisions that lie ahead."

Life at Tigara, Eskimo village at Point Hope, Alaska, was both exciting and hazardous for Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Rainey, who left College of Alaska in January, 1940, to live for eight months with the natives and discover at first hand the facts about Eskimo life. Dr. Rainey, Gamma Alpha (Chicago), '29, Beta Upsilon (Illinois), '29, told of harrowing experiences while hunting on the pack ice, mushing for thirteen hours straight in an arctic wind, and living, on one hunting trip, in a six-by-eight skin igloo with five Eskimos.

The pack ice on which he hunted during the day and watched seal nets on moonless nights, was, he said, "the most desolate world I've ever imagined. The awful groaning and screeching of moving ice does not cease to terrify me even yet, and its effect is far worse at night."

He took a ten-day sledge journey with Ebrulik Rock (the man who played Apati in the movie Eskimo), during which they traveled 200 miles down the coast and then through a big loop inland to the reindeer camp and along his trap line. They ran into some of the coldest weather ever recorded. For several days it was forty to fifty degrees below zero and there was a gale out of the north. Ebrulik froze his face badly but Rainey had no serious frost bite. One day they traveled forty miles straight against the wind at forty-five degrees below zero, going continuously from 10 a. m. until 11 p. m., and then they found the trapping camp, where they hoped to get a warm supper and a warm place to sleep, abandoned and with no stove. Dr. Rainey expected almost certainly to freeze that night, but discovered that a reindeer sleeping bag is a marvelous thing!

What surprised him most was to see how well the dogs stood the trip. They all bled at the nose and were nearly blinded by the driving snow, but they kept into the wind all day with only an hour's rest.

The worst inconvenience at Tigara was the shortage of fuel. He had to borrow coal from the teacher until a supply arrived from Cape Lisburn. Many of the Eskimos have no fuel at all, not even seal oil, and the temperature in their houses is often as low as twenty or thirty degrees below zero.

Dr. Rainey found the Eskimos very communicative, and he gathered valuable biographical material from individual natives.

Athens

THE ANNUAL spring initiation of Beta chapter provided a fine get-together for many alumni. Along with many local Deltas, several of the boys drove a long way to be at the fine affair. John Galbreath, of Columbus, who was recently appointed trustee of Ohio University by Governor John W. Bricker; Ross Alkire, Sr., and Fred Young, both of Mt. Sterling, enjoyed the meeting and made short talks.

Fred Stone, B'36, a Gallipolis High School teacher until recently, has joined the Army and is now located at Fort Bragg, N. C.

N. HOOVER, JR.

Atlanta

AN OLD-FASHIONED hay ride and barn dance the night of March 18 was the feature of the spring activities of the Deltas in Georgia. Although engineered by the Atlanta alumni, almost the entire chapters of Georgia Tech, Emory University and the University of Georgia also turned out with their fair ladies for the occasion. The boys from Athens chartered a bus to bring them and their dates to Atlanta.

A genuine old-fashioned hillbilly orchestra furnished the music, and the figures were called by a professional country square dancer. The enormous appetites developed by the strenuous dancing were satisfied by a substantial buffet supper. The bald heads (alumni) held their own in the acrobatic dancing even if outnumbered by college boys. The traditional rivalry between the Tech and Georgia men reached a new high in conflicting claims as to which group had the biggest time bringing their dates to the dance—the Tech boys on the hay ride or the Georgia boys on the long bus ride.

Plans are beginning to get under way for the annual May outing scheduled for sometime next month.

At the last regular meeting Joe

Westbrook resigned as president in order to take over Gordon Curtiss' job as Tech Chapter Advisor, Gordon's number having come up at the draft board. Fritz Roberts was elected president, and W. B. Spann was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy created by Fritz's elevation to presidency. Sam Meyer was elected treasurer, a position which Gordon Curtiss had also held. Since the election, Brother Curtiss was notified his actual induction would be delayed a short time and so he will continue his duties as chapter adviser as long as possible. His many friends are delighted that he does not have to leave immediately.

RANDY WHITFIELD

Boston

THE BIG news of the Boston Alumni Chapter for this issue concerns our Founders Day Dinner, held March 5 at the University Club when one hundred Deltas, including twenty undergraduates each from Beta Mu and Beta Nu Chapters, convened to pay tribute to $\Delta T \Delta$ and to meet Herb McCracken, Eastern Division President. It was the chapter's first celebration of the Fraternity's birthday, but by popular acclaim, it will not be the last.

Following our dinner, President Windy Winde introduced Toastmaster Henry Merrill who in turn put the head table through a rise-and-bow act, introducing Delt dignitaries John Fisher, former traveling secretary of the Fraternity; Henry Linden, President of Beta Mu; Sterling Iviston, President of Beta Nu; Joe Reynolds, Eastern Division Vice-President; Les Hines, Beta Chi adviser; Jim Swift, dean of active Boston Deltas; and Ferdie Brigham, Beta Mu Delt who had just returned from France.

The program of the evening opened on the musical side with the Beta Mu Glee Club giving us a repertoire of songs, ranging from solos through a barber shop quartette to the closest of harmony at full strength and convincing us that Fred Waring's Glee Club had best look to its laurels. Then came the highlight of the evening, a fine talk by Herb McCracken who not only told us a great deal about the administrative side of the Fraternity and its development and future program, but by pounding home the never-too-old theme of Delt Spirit, aroused many a dormant Delt "bug." As Herb had a busy week's schedule of Founders Day dinners, we felt extremely fortunate in having him with us, and we are putting in our reservations on him early for next year. The wind-up spot on the program went to our own Elliot Smith, former vice-president of the Society of American Magicians, who stood the boys on their collective ears with his feats of ventriloquism and legerdemain. And to climax the evening, the chapter joined the Beta Mu Glee Club in the singing of Delta Shelter, and Jim Swift led us through a Delt Walk Around, ending with a Rah! Rah! Delta for Herb McCracken.

The next news of note concerns our weekly Thursday noon luncheons. Their increasing popularity has resulted in our outgrowing our old location, so we have moved to a more spacious place at Patten's Restaurant at 41 Court Street (upstairs). One reason we had to make the change was that we had a visitor at a recent luncheon, none other than Garth Slater, popular traveling secretary of the Fraternity. We don't know whether it was Garth's goodly girth or the goodly number who came to meet him, but we decided it was time to expand. We were most pleased to have Garth with us and hope he'll be back again soon.

Such is the news from the Boston Alumni Chapter for another quarter. Before very long, we hope to have plans made for another get-together this spring. Nothing is definite yet, but the chapter's officers admit that something is on the fire that will bring them in from far and wide.

DICK PARKS

Buffalo

THE BUFFALO Alumni Chapter is still holding the weekly luncheons at the University Club on Mondays around 12:30.

Recently the entire list of Delts in this vicinity was canvassed to bring our roster up-to-date and results indicate that the coming spring and summer will bring renewed interest in Buffalo Alumni Chapter activities.

Tentative arrangements have been made to hold our annual golf match with the Rochester alumni June 26.

Our prexy, Bob Wilson, attended the annual meeting of the Toronto alumni recently and reported a very fine time and the usual Toronto hospitality.

DENNIS C. LILES

Clarksburg

IT is respectfully requested that you who have started to peruse this alumni article of the Clarksburg chapter, whether you be from our fair state or not, go ahead and finish it, I think I have a message for you.

Have you ever driven down a long, white highway into a blazing red sunset? Have you experienced the thrill of the lofty loneliness of a mountain top, below which stretches a wide panorama of cool, green valleys and moist, plowed fields? At night, have you watched tall, dark trees silhouette themselves against a silver moon, or gazed into the dark depths of blue-black mountain lakes and streams? In the early morning, have you gazed down upon misty white fog blanketing the lowlands? In soft summer, have you wondered at the splendid magnificence of millions of sparkling diamonds showered against a purple, velvet sky? If you haven't, or even if you have, you must often dream of such experiences. We have all prayed that perhaps some day the lap of luxury would be broad enough to include us all, so that we could afford to spend days traveling through such mountain splendor.

Brother, your time has come. The good Lord and an enthusiastic Delt Fraternity have most wisely chosen Brother Anthony McCue as prophet and guide to lead us into the promised land. And, think of it, the assessment will be EIGHT DOLLARS A DAY. That's all it will cost to live at the White Sulphur Springs Hotel, meals included. White Sulphur Springs—cradled in the arms of the Switzerland of America—West Virginia.

But that isn't all. Sports lovers will find this a summer paradise. Lovers of romance will find the cream of Southern femininity, the charming sweetness of true womanhood, for courtin' purposes. Some of America's finest entertainers are Delts, and they'll be there for your pleasure.

These are trying times, and we all need a sort of rejuvenation. Come on down and let us furnish that shot in the arm—it's guaranteed to work. You'll feel better, both physically and spiritually.

So much for the Karnea. The local chapter held its monthly meeting Tuesday, April 15, and a goodly crowd was there. George Post was elected secretary-treasurer to replace Berk Lynch, who is leaving to serve a year in the Army. (Lynch will attend the Karnea if humanly possible.) It is understood that Brothers "Huck" Ruble and "Chud" Dollison have also been called into the Service.

G. BERK LYNCH

Cleveland

AT THE time of this writing the Cleveland Alumni Chapter is experiencing a short breathing spell. We're about half-way between the annual banquet and the spring golf tournament.

Our annual banquet was held the evening of February 22. In one full swoop we give the nod to Founders Day, active chapter initiation, and election of alumni officers for the following year.

As usual, it was a gala event. About 100 Delts from Cleveland and vicinity gathered around the banquet board to hear inspiring speeches, meet the initiates, bestow honors, sing and elect officers. After the smoke of the battle cleared it was found that Randall (Mike) Ruhlman had been elected president by popular acclaim. Others were vice-president—David Thomas; secretary—H. Jack Bartels; treasurer—Harry Howland; editor of the Bulletin—again Mike Ruhlman.

At the Northern Division Conference held in Chicago during February we were well represented. H. C. (Hop) Hopkins, member of the Distinguished Service Chapter and Russel A. Griffin, Chapter Adviser to Zeta, and member of the Western Reserve University Faculty, acted as delegates.

The next function to be held by Cleveland Delts is the spring golf tournament in May. A special dinner party is planned for June and in July we will again have the annual summer picnic. This is a family basket picnic for alumni and actives, wives and sweethearts. In the past we have been fortunate enough to have Brother Joe Wood's cabin on Lake Lucerne at our disposal.

There are so many interesting bits slated for the personal column that we are forced to mention only some of the highlights—Dr. George W. Crile, head of The Cleveland Clinic and nationally known surgeon, was a passenger on the Eastern Air Lines transport that recently fell in a Florida swamp, a little south of Melbourne; Brother Crile fortunately was not seriously injured. This, by the way, is near N. Ray Carroll's ranch.

Randall M. Ruhlman since last October has been affiliated with the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce in the capacity of Assistant Legislative Counsel. Besides this and a lot of other work he has managed to get the $\Delta T \Delta$ Bulletin out, without missing a single month, for over six years.

Lee Roesch, well known among the Cleveland Delts, was married to Katherine Peters January 25. Eugene Nichols is the proud dad of a son born January 27. George Noland, who played a lot of football for the Reserve "Red Cats," was married, February 15, to Mary Jane Morgan. Noland, who is a lieutenant in the 107th Cavalry is now reported to be at Camp Forrest, Tenn.

Evansville

A FELLOW could not keep on saying no to a guy as persistent as the Editor is in regard to some news for THE RAINBOW. There's mighty little to tell, but here goes anyway:

Plans are being completed for our annual spring get-together sometime in May. We shall try to have representatives here from Indiana, DePauw and Purdue, so they can meet some of our high school seniors who will enter these schools in the fall.

A few personals—

Henry Bockstege, Beta Alpha (Indiana), '41, is with the 38th Division at Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss.

Arthur S. Berger, Delta, (Michigan), '33, is with the Sun Oil Company here and was married last fall to Virginia Klammer of Evansville.

Other newcomers to Evansville in the last year or so are: Noel W. Engel, Delta Epsilon (Kentucky), '33, with Superior Oil Company; Joseph F. Ross, Gamma Delta (West Virginia), '34, with American Fork and Hoe; and Harold Ziss, Beta Alpha (Indiana), '38, with Sunbeam Electric and Manufacturing Company. He returned to the United States early last year after two years' study in chemistry at several German universities.

BEN J. LURIE

Fort Lauderdale

THE LOCAL chapter has not entered into any activity. We wrote to Delta Zeta chapter asking for information for their Founders Day celebration, but so far have not heard from them.

The Fort Lauderdale Alumni Chapter would like to dedicate this letter to the memory of Brother H. W. (Bill) Langmead.

FRANK L. RICKARD

Fort Worth

PRECEDED BY two meetings, one in January and one in February, Fort Worth Delts have finally gotten in line again and wish to report the formation of an alumni chapter of thirty-seven. Luncheons are held in the Texas Hotel on the third Thursday of each month at 12:15 p. m. All Delts in or around Fort Worth are invited to attend. All others are cordially invited to come up when they are in town.

Election of officers at the last meeting resulted in the selection of Harry McGown, Gamma Iota (Texas), '12, as chapter head; Austin Anderson, Gamma Iota, '09, as his stand-in, and Hubert H. Crane, Jr., Gamma Psi (Georgia Tech), '41, secretary-treasurer.

This reorganization represents the first concerted Delt movement in Fort Worth since 1927, when the old chapter was allowed to die. Primary purpose of the group is to help the Texas chapter get men from this location. There have been but two men from Fort Worth initiated at that point in the last eight or nine years.

We are happy to welcome to the fold such good Delts of the old school as Willis Finley and Dr. Hal Thomason, Jess Norman, the old organization's treasurer, Julian Harris, who taught the boys at Dartmouth how to yell like Indians back in '07. He, John Sewell and Austin Anderson are our oldest members, having graduated in '07, '08, and '09, respectively.

Georgia Tech men will be glad to hear that A. O. (Tex) Evans, their prexy in '31, is the proud father of two.

Hubert Laney, who hung around the same school in '34 is now the instigator (or something) of another Delt. Christened Hubert Douglas, he won this correspondent a steak dinner by being a "He."

Charles Moore, Tulane '36, and Ed Hudson, Missouri '23 are in business together in the Electric Bldg.

Dr. Sim Hulsey, Texas '21, has been sent to Fort Sam Houston. He was a reservist in the Medical Corps.

Will Collins, Columbia '16, is still trying to forget that his only son went Fiji.

Woody Woodruff, Fort Worth's only Emory man (?), spends all his spare time at his home on Lake Worth. He has a beautiful place, and his invitation to all Delts to drop in anytime is not one to be ignored. A former Columbia, Georgia boy, he has brought Southern hospitality to Texas in a big way.

The entertainment committee promises to have a dance arranged for sometime in May. The chapter got started a little too late to have a Founders Day Dance. Plans are being formed to borrow some of Commander McDaniel's fine motion pictures for summer rush functions.

HUBERT H. CRANE, JR.

Fox River Valley

THE SPRING season didn't wait around the corner long this year. 'Long about March 15, jolly Sol beamed down on the Fox River Valley and he's had his lantern burning brightly ever since and he certainly was obliging during the dedication of the Lawrence College Quadrangle; and, of course, you know that Delta Nu is now sheltered in a new Lannon stone mansion.

The alumni welcomed two famous Delts during the dedication ceremonies, Dr. Henry M. Wriston, former Lawrence College prexy, and Mr. Alvan E. Duerr, veteran performer of many responsible Fraternity positions. Both of these Delts shared the spotlight in the dedication program and they lived up to any and all expectations.

However, more important than their main addresses were the numerous informal chats with all the returning Delt alums. The alums turned out in large numbers to greet one another, to talk of their college days, to praise the local chapter situation, and to lay plans for future alum associations. Delts from all over the Valley talked business, politics, foreign affairs, and $\Delta T \Delta$ in various bull sessions. Besides Brothers Wriston and Duerr, the following Delts registered at Delta Nu during the dedication exercises:

Other special guests included Hugh Shields from the Central Office, J. S. Walworth of Kenyon College, Si Kloehn of Appleton, Wisconsin, and Mr. S. C. Boyce.

Any interested person desiring to know what kind of entertainment this group indulged in after business hours could find the essential details by writing to Pete Traas' CHUMMY SPOT or by addressing your secretary. Until the next issue—

Indianapolis

SINCE THE writing of the newsletter for the February edition of THE RAINBOW, the Indianapolis Alumni Association has been mainly concerned with the annual Founders Day banquet and dance held March 14, at the Columbia Club.

It was generally agreed, after the smoke had cleared away about four o'clock Saturday morning, March 15, that this annual affair was one of the best that has ever been held. The banquet was opened with the invocation by Francis M. Hughes, son of Bishop Edwin Hughes, former National President of the Fraternity. Following the delightful dinner, Jesse C. Pritchett, Jr., President of the Indianapolis Alumni Association, welcomed the 250 Delts and introduced as toastmaster Robert H. Loring, Deputy to the Secretary of the State of Indiana.

Bob's first pleasant duty was the introduction of prominent Delts seated at the Speakers' Table. They included Ernest Miller, general chairman for the banquet and dance; Harold B. Tharpe, past National President; Kurt F. Pantzer, Supervisor of Scholarship; Hugh Shields, Comptroller of the Fraternity; Francis Hughes, Northern Division's Secretary; Wm. H. Martin-dill, vice-president of Northern Division's Secretary; Wm. H. Martin—the five Indiana chapters, Herman Brecht, chapter advisor of Beta Alpha at Indiana; John A. Cartright, chapter advisor of Beta Beta at De Pauw; Eugene B. Hibbs, chapter advisor for Beta Zeta at Butler; Larry L. Sheaffer, chapter advisor for Beta Psi at Wabash; and Charles E. McCabe, chapter advisor for Gamma Lambda at Purdue.

Further introductions of prominent Indianapolis Alumni included Joseph R. Morgan, Harlan Hadley, Foster Oldshue, chairman of the Special Awards committee, and the four officers of the Indianapolis Alumni Association. Last, but certainly not least, the toastmaster introduced Clarence "Dad" Pumphrey of Cincinnati, Ohio, the most revered and respected gentleman of $\Delta T \Delta$ today. A Delt gathering, whether large or small, seems incomplete without "Dad's" presence. He always is able to add something to an occasion and the Indianapolis Delts are always pleased when he is able to attend our functions.

Bob introduced Foster Oldshue who presented Beta Alpha, Beta Beta and Beta Zeta with beautiful hall clocks for perfect attendance. He further presented Beta Psi with the annual scholarship award of a plaque and a $50 check which was accepted for the chapter by Karl Kohlstaedt.

The main speaker of the evening was Dr. Howard P. Fischbach, Chi (Kenyon), '06, a distinguished Ohio doctor and surgeon who has been an active member of the Cincinnati Alumni Association for many years; one who has been a living example of the $\Delta T \Delta$ spirit, proven by the fact that his two sons both of whom are doctors are also Delts, and were present for the event. Dr. Fischbach spoke on "Delta Tau Delta Today." He gave the undergraduate brothers and alumni much good philosophy and advice which they would do well to accept and follow.

A feature in the evening which is always looked forward to with anticipation is the chapters' stunts. Beta Alpha, Beta Beta and Beta Zeta gave performances, with Beta Beta taking the first prize.

Following the banquet a very enjoyable dance was held from ten until two with music furnished with Indiana University's "Warpy Waterfall."

The success of the 1941 Founders Day celebration was largely due to the unusually fine cooperation shown by all of the members of the alumni association, more particularly the various banquet and dance committees.

The decorations were particularly outstanding with purple, white and gold centerpieces on each table, the same tri-colored festoons from the chandeliers, and behind the speakers' table was a gold curtain on which was placed a big purple and white Delta Tau Delta. The wives of some of the committee members worked hard on the decorations, and deserve the association's sincere thanks.

Our next big event is the annual summer golf tournament and rush party in the early fall. Many of the brothers are already making plans, and certainly doing a lot of talking about the Karnea at White Sulphur Springs in August, and as usual, that event will be well attended by Indianapolis alumni.

BOWMAN DOWNEY

Kansas City

THE KANSAS CITY Alumni Chapter this year held the banquet at an inconvenient time as regards THE RAINBOW, for we just missed one publication date and the next is so far distant that the news is stale before being published. Anyway, here it is—

Due to the fact that the Regional Conference was scheduled for February 14 and 15 at Lawrence, we had our Founders Day celebration at a convenient time for the actives and over eighty undergraduates were present from the various chapters attending this Conference. A good representation of alumni from Kansas City and surrounding territory was also on hand, so that our total attendance was not far from 150.

We were especially fortunate to have with us for that evening Hugh Shields, Hans Jepson and "Hob" Turner, and we hope these annual affairs will grow in size and popularity until we can interest a large number of the Fraternity's national officers in attending it.

Our principal speaker for the evening was Brother Howard E. A. Jones, Headmaster of the Pembroke Country Day School in Kansas City, and we also enjoyed talks by Jepson and others. "Pinky" Tomlin, who is playing here at the Muehlebach, came over and gave us a short talk full of humor, which added materially to our program. Several of the nearby chapters put on specialty numbers, which were well up to the usual Delt standard and were enjoyed by all.

FRANK SIEGRIST

Lexington

IT SEEMS that the Lexington Alumni Club of $\Delta T \Delta$ is furnishing its full share of brothers participating in the National Defense preparations.

At the present time seven of the club members are serving in, or are under orders to the Army of the United States.

C. D. Blair is serving at Camp Lee, Virginia; Ben Creasley is at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Bill Tut is a Cadet in the Air Corps and is stationed for primary training at East St. Louis, Illinois.

Three more of the boys, Jimmie Shropshire, Ben Fawler, and Charles Parrish are reporting to Camp Shelley, Mississippi, the last week of April.

This leaves a reserve of nine reserve officers in the club who will probably follow soon.

CHARLES M. PARRISH

Long Beach

WE HAVE not been holding regular meetings for some time but we are not inactive. A number of the boys attended the installation of the new chapter at the University of Southern California. We also had a good representation attend the annual initiation at the U.C.L.A. chapter.

A. BATES LANE

Los Angeles

EDITOR'S NOTE: Full report of the activity of the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter is given in this number in the article which tells of the installation of Delta Pi chapter at the University of Southern California.

Miami

EDITOR'S NOTE: There is no news this time from Miami, but we received a letter from Jack Thompson, and if we read between the lines correctly, the Deltas of Miami are going into some activity this summer in assisting the Florida chapter with rushing.

Nashville

SEVERAL WEEKS ago Charles Pearson obtained the films showing activities among Deltas from Irving McDaniel and showed them at our regular meeting. These pictures were thoroughly enjoyed by all and it was of particular significance to the Nashville chapter inasmuch as "Hoot" Gibson assisted in taking the pictures.

It is with the deepest regret that we learn Irving McDaniel is having to resign as President of the Southern Division. We wish him every success during his coming assignment. We also regret to announce that John Huffaker is returning to Charlotte, N. C. John has been vice-president of our alumni chapter since its organization and his presence and interest will be sorely missed.

The love bug is at work again. One of his victims is none other than Dr. Benton Niel, who was married early this spring. Another good Delt, Elbridge White, is scheduled to middle-aisle it in the near future. We wish both these brothers much happiness.

GARLAND SWEENEY

New York

THE ANNUAL Founders Day banquet was held March 7, 1941, at the Barclay Hotel on 48th Street. One hundred fifteen Deltas assembled to enjoy an excellent roast beef dinner, entertainment that was young, amusing, tuneful and comely, too, and fraternal conviviality that included everybody.

John Tynan, Upsilon '27, President of the New York Alumni Chapter, turned the meeting over to Bruce Bielaski, Gamma Eta '04, our genial and distinguished Toastmaster, who introduced Bert Hulen, Beta Mu '11, Washington correspondent for the New York Times. Bert gave an excellent outline of the foreign situation, the Washington viewpoint in connection therewith, as well as his own views. After dinner and the entertainment, Bert was constantly surrounded by questioning groups wanting answers to specific aspects of the European incident.

The committee worked hard to make this banquet the success that it was. The Committee headed by Jim Hodges, Gamma Sigma '26, included Bruce Bielaski, Gamma Eta '04, Carl Fairbank, Gamma Eta '18, Ralph Lochner, Beta Omicron '20, and Bill Young, Lambda '24. The official program ended about 10:30 p. m. with a Walk Around led by Ernest Hunt, Gamma Epsilon, '85. As certain as the sun will rise in the morning, you can with equal certainty expect to see Brother Hunt at most of our activities.

Herb McCracken, President of the Eastern Division, Gamma Sigma '21, had trouble shuffling around the dates for Founders Day banquets, so that he could attend all of them in his Eastern Division. He graced the speakers' table at our banquet. Tom Slater, Beta '30, announcer for the Mutual Broadcasting System, vibrated the microphone for the entertainment program. Tom got a big kick out of introducing young feminine pulchritude to his brother Deltas. Jack Schroers of the Barclay staff, Gamma Eta '22, saw to it that we had everything we wanted. Upsilon chapter was present in force.

The monthly luncheons are continuing to be held at Stouffers' Restaurant on Fifth Avenue between 44th and 45th Streets, on the third Thursday of each month. It is quite possible that the luncheon normally to be held on May 15 will be substituted by an informal dinner on Thursday evening, also to be held at Stouffers' Restaurant on Fifth Avenue. The last luncheon meeting was unusually well attended. Even at that, we should have a larger number at our luncheons.

Omaha

THE CHIEF activity of the Omaha Alumni Chapter during the past month was assembling the delegation to attend the Founders Day banquet held in Lincoln March 26. Although a minor epidemic of illness reduced the number of attendants, there was a representative group of Omaha alumni on hand. On this occasion, announcement was made of a dinner to be given the Beta Tau chapter in Omaha this fall at which the Omaha alumni will act as hosts. Tentative plans had been made to set the date of this complimentary dinner during the present school year, but the difficulty of fitting a date between the Founders Day dinner and the annual spring banquet in Lincoln made a fall date more desirable.

The Omaha Alumni Chapter will hold one or more luncheons during April to make plans for getting out that attendance at the spring banquet. On this occasion definite plans will be presented for cooperation in the rushing in Omaha during the coming summer.

ROBERT H. MANLEY

Philadelphia

THE PHILADELPHIA alumni celebrated Founders Day March 8 by holding their annual banquet at the University Club. Each year we hope our party will break all records but an annual blizzard actually snows us out. We had a good party in spite of the snow, and we can brag a bit about the pledge class of twenty-nine men brought by the undergraduates from Omega (Pennsylvania). Few houses had as successful a rushing season as the Omega Deltas.

Our Founders day speakers were L. P. Warner, Cornell '02, who gave an inspirational talk primarily to the undergraduates, dealing with the "will that drives men on," and Colonel W. L. Clay, Penn State '09, who spoke on National Defense. Our genial toastmaster was Jordan Gauthier, Penn State '14. Concluding the program a movie, "The Football Highlights of 1940" was shown.

Two of our members were married February 22. Francis Mitchell, Miami '23, was married to Miss Charlotte Hoskins of Marberth, Pa., and Karl Winsmore, Rensselaer '33, was married to Miss Ruth Rolf of Wayne, Pa. The writer has known all four individuals for a number of years; he attended the weddings and receptions and can assure our readers that we have added to our list two fine Delt wives. Francis lives in Overbrook Hills, Philadelphia, Pa., while Karl returned to Venezuela, S. A., with his bride. Jim Harper, Rensselaer '32, and the writer acted as ushers for Karl.

The April luncheon was so well attended that we exceeded our seating capacity. That's what we like, because Ed Rankin's stories are really good, and deserve a large audience. Ed, Lafayette '12, has a bigger job now as sales manager for his concern, which requires him to travel a great deal. It was good to have him in town again. Ed is president of our association. Garth Slater, Miami '38, was also at the luncheon. He is the first Field Secretary we have had with us for a long time.

CHARLES C. GRAY

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH JUST finished staging probably the finest and surely the largest Delt celebration of its kind in our history. Two hundred twenty loyal alumni and undergraduates gathered at the Hotel Roosevelt for our sixth annual Founders Day banquet, March 22. M. M. Grubbs, of Tau, was chairman and was assisted by Lee Martin, president of the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter. A most interesting program was presented—Dr. Harold D. Meyer, of the University of North Carolina, was the main speaker. At the speakers' table in addition to the above mentioned men were Norman MacLeod, past National President of the Fraternity; Dr. Herbert L. Spencer, President of the Pennsylvania College for Women; Judge Joseph A. Richardson; and Reverend N. R. H. Moor, Dean of Trinity Cathedral.

Portland (Oregon)

AS ALWAYS, the Portland Alumni Chapter is more than glad to be represented in THE RAINBOW. However, this time we won't be able to do any more than appear in print, because our activities have been quite limited.

A fairly representative group of us meet once a week for a luncheon, and although our activities outside of this have been confined to bridge parties and informal get-togethers, these luncheons tend to keep us fairly well intact as a group.

We are getting new members in our group almost every month, and I am glad to say that most of the new members are young men just out of school, who we hope will be in town for a long time. The draft may change their addresses. The draft has already taken quite a few of the older fellows. Joe Price and Dr. Warren Hale have already been called, and a few more are expecting it.

We have planned, as I mentioned last time, two or three rush parties and picnics for the coming sum-

Rochester

THE ROCHESTER Delts held their Founders Day banquet, March 27—a bit later than usual, for we had a special reason. Brother "Chris" Cross informed our President Elmer Davis that his brother who had been connected with the French Embassy and recently returned from France would be in town the latter part of March. What could be better than to have Brother Cecil M. P. Cross as our "guest of honor"?

We held our banquet at the University Club and 22 Delts were around the banquet table. It was good to see Brother Cecil M. P. Cross again. Now he is leaving for Brazil. We wished him the best of success in his new post. Needless to say we had a grand time and were pleased to see a couple of new Delts out. Brother Phelps Harding of Cornell and Brother John Schwartz of Baker. As this was their first Rochester appearance, we believe they will want to make our other events.

We had an interesting thing a short time ago in that Brother Elmer Davis met Brother Harold Dallas at one of our affairs. They were at M.I.T. together—so the Delts do carry on.

Next on our program is a bowling party so the brothers can keep fit.

DICK WILBUR

St. Louis

THE OUTSTANDING feature of our activities since our last letter was the Founders Day dinner of March 7. As originally planned Earl Page, Gamma Kappa, was to make the principal address but he was called out of town the day before, and inasmuch as we were unable to obtain a substitute speaker on such short notice an informal quiz program on the Fraternity was substituted. Paul Johnson, Gamma Kappa, starred as the quiz master, with John Sullivan, Joe Griesedieck, Bill Gentry and Karl Spencer getting the best of the answers along with Edward Larson. Questions all related to the Fraternity and the session was enjoyed by all present.

We issued March 1 a roster of all of the known Delts in St. Louis and vicinity, a copy being mailed to each Delt on the list, and copies also to the Central office, Missouri, Illinois and Westminster chapters. This lists 119 brothers in this territory including five additions since the roster went out.

On the evening of March 25 some of the younger Delts held their regular monthly meeting. Unfortunately, this was not as well attended as previous meetings of this group and we hope that any one unable to attend our regular Monday luncheons will take advantage of these evening meetings to meet some of the brothers.

We are glad to welcome to our Monday luncheons, George Seielstad, Albion, who is at present attached to the area headquarters of the U. S. Army.

"Ike" Macy, Miami, is managing the Arthur Murray School of Dancing with headquarters in the Hotel Statler.

Don Holt and George Buchanan, both Gamma Omega, enjoyed a short reunion when they met in North Carolina the latter part of February, which substituted for regular luncheons here which were missed during that time.

Lest we forget, Paul Johnson and Charles Drake get the credit for managing the Founders Day dinner and making it click.

Jack Turley, Gamma Kappa, reports that in spite of missing most of the regular meetings he has been successful in sending along three good boys to $\Delta T \Delta$ during the past few months.

San Diego

SAN DIEGO Alumni Chapter's most important news of the last quarter will be covered—as usual—by the reporter for the Los Angeles group, but we're laying eight-to-five down here that El Angeleño will neglect to cover also the state of the weather. So, to the Los Angeles account, sticklers for detail may add the paragraph which follows.

Eighteen San Diego alumni pledged themselves to attend the ceremonies at the University Club in Los Angeles, February 14, which marked the installation of Delta Pi of $\Delta T \Delta$ at the University of Southern California, and the initiation of the pledge group of Delta Iota. Six San Diegans who went up the night before or on the early morning train made the grade; the others encountered a typical Los Angeles shower and were turned back by flood waters. Of the six, two took off shoes and socks, rolled trousers to their thighs and waded waist-deep in water through the Los Angeles streets between club and hotel when the festivities had ended. Never the less, the event was worth the wetting. The ceremonies were staged most impressively; the Los Angeles crowd ran true to form with a gathering that has done more for alumni interest in San Diego than may be realized.

Those of us who know Owen Orr and of the service he has given to the Fraternity were particularly pleased by his citation to the Distinguished Service Chapter.

In our February letter we reported that Lynn E. "Bob" Rogers, Stanford, '37, had joined the United States Army Air Corps. Now, with regret, we must record that Bob was killed in line of duty at Ryan Field, Hemet, California, March 10, when the plane in which he was flying was hit by another ship in the hands of a student-pilot.

One reply has been received to our request for the local addresses of Delts who may have been brought into San Diego recently by our mushrooming defense activities. That came from Clarence "Dad" Pumphrey, of Cincinnati. We still are hoping for more from others.

STUART N. LAKE

San Francisco

AS USUAL your tired but wide-awake San Francisco correspondent is just catching the deadline for the local alumni letter. D. Power Boothe, Jr., our local president and financial angel has just succeeded Hans Jepsen as chapter adviser at Beta Rho, so "Pod" has been receiving the congratulations of all alumni as this is his second appointive position in the Fraternity—the other being treasurer of the Western Division. The San Francisco alumni members of Beta Omega turned out en masse March 3, at the Berkeley chapter house on the occasion of Beta Omega's Formal Initiation, and to watch Fred Boole, Beta Omega '18 receive the Distinguished Service Chapter award. Melvin Belli, Beta Omega, '29, San Francisco's most promising young criminal attorney, was speaker of the evening and his rhetoric held everyone present spellbound. While we were naturally disappointed that Paul Hoffman was unable to attend our weekly gathering, he was able to visit the Stanford house. Hugh Shields visited both local chapters on his recent trip and both houses certainly benefited by the visits.

EDWIN H. CLARK

Tampa

EDITOR'S NOTE: A. K. Dickinson, secretary of the Tampa chapter, couldn't send us any news items for this number; however, his letter indicates promise of the Tampa Deltas being on the lookout for young men who will leave Tampa this fall for the University of Florida or other schools where we have undergraduate chapters.

Topeka

OUR TOPEKA Alumni Chapter has been active this spring. Five of us attended the Founders Day banquet in Kansas City last March and were treated to a swell time.

We have had two dinner meetings this year, the last one being April 4. We are planning another get-together in May. We had as our guests April 4, seven actives from Gamma Theta who rendered us several Delt songs and led our singing.

We are planning to draw up a new membership list and have election of officers in the near future.

We cordially invite all fellow Deltas who may be in Topeka to look us up.

C. G. BLAKELY, III

Toronto

AH SPRING! How difficult it is to cease my nature study long enough to prescribe this sedative to that insistent Editor chap, Brother Green.

Our activities this year have been few but concentrated. After our general meeting last fall when Wally Rankine became president we opened the season with a rushing party for the actives at the house. The results were so good that old members wanted to pay their initiation fees all over again. From here we helped the actives have a successful formal dance at Crofton Villa where young and old mingled gleefully without any casualties.

In March we had our own banquet at the King Edward Hotel allowing the actives to tag along at reduced fees—Nunc pro Tunc! Brother Herb McCracken, the Eastern Division President came all the way from New York to give us the best address we have had in a long time. Buffalo alumni were our guests.

Brother Rankine has one more meeting scheduled before the summer arrives, it will likely be about the middle of May.

The Wives & Mothers Club is doing excellent work in sending boxes to the Delt boys overseas. Tinned goods, chocolate bars and tea balls form the bulk of the gifts. If you, you, and you would like to help, send your tins, chocolates, and balls to the secretary or Mrs. Jean Hardy, 421 Eglinton Avenue, West Toronto. Cash might be easier.

Thumbs up!

CHARLES E. HAWKE

Tulsa

THIS YEAR the Tulsa Alumni Chapter had a rather unique Founders Day celebration, March 14. Captain Max Balfour, of Beta Pi, Director of the Spartan School of Aeronautics, invited us to hold our banquet at the Spartan School. Before the dinner Edwin Bush, Gamma Xi, chief instructor in mechanics at the school, took a group of us on a tour through the school; it is amazing to see how things have developed and grown out there in the past year. After this interesting tour we held the banquet in a private dining room in the new cafeteria building of the school. Thirty-five were out for the banquet. Five of these, Ewing Gafford, Bob Williams, Joe Owens, Shelby Green and Jack Richards, are actives at Delta Alpha who came over for our Founders Day. Bruce Beesley, Delta Alpha, formerly active here but now living at Oklahoma City, also came over for the celebration. Everybody had a good time. Howard Newman, Delta Alpha, our president and treasurer of the Budweiser Distributors here, managed to get some free beer for those of us who like it. Recent additions to our Tulsa Alumni Chapter who were out for their first or second meeting were Max Duckworth, George McMullin, Chi; Jim Richards, Delta Alpha; John F. Cheadle, Delta Alpha; Balfour, and Bush.

At the Founders Day celebration we started the ball rolling for our annual Easter Dance. This will be held Saturday, April 12, at the University Club. The Ramblers Orchestra from Oklahoma University will supply the music. Carl Pinkerton, Lambda, is chairman of the dance committee, with Lawrence Wilson, Delta Alpha, in charge of the arrangements and George McMullin in charge of the decorations. Of course, it is taking a lot of good hard work on the part of Newman, Norbert Proctor, Delta Alpha; Russell Pride, Gamma Pi; Ralston Edmunds, Beta Omega; Burdette Smith, Delta Alpha; and a lot of others as well as Pinkerton, Wilson, and McMullin, but it looks like things will really go over with a bang.

Dave Stafford, Beta, one of our old standbys, has been called by the Army and is now with Battery F, 160th F. A., 45th Division, Camp Barkeley, Texas; Dave had a few days' leave and was here in Tulsa last week-end. Jim Richards, a reserve officer, was sent to an army post at Salt Lake City, Utah. Harry Sewell, Jr., Omega, is a reserve officer sent to Camp Barkeley. Harry Lane, Gamma Tau, was sent to Ft. Sill, Oklahoma. Some of the other Tulsa Deltas are reserve officers or National Guardsmen or subject to the draft, and by the time the next RAINBOW is issued perhaps more of us will be serving Uncle Sam.

Harvey Heller, Gamma Theta, and Lawrence Wilson were down to Norman for Delta Alpha's Initiation and Founders Day. Harvey wanted to take a look at Oklahoma University and is now visiting other schools in the east and south; his son, Harvey, Jr., is graduating from Culver this June and will enter college this fall.

Bob Bates, Delta Alpha, is in Houston, Texas, attending the National Geological Convention.

Bert Bass, Gamma Tau, served as an official in the selection of Miss Oklahoma 1941.

J. P. Mize, Gamma Theta, and Herrick Babcock, Delta Alpha, now have paid up Loyalty Fund Memberships.

Recent visitors in Tulsa were: Rev. George McDonald, Long Beach, California, formerly active in Tulsa Alumni affairs; Edwin Clark, Beta Omega, of San Francisco; Jack Davis, Delta Alpha, former all-American swimming star and now president of Hutchinson, Kansas, Junior Chamber of Commerce, who was in Tulsa to book an Indian show for the Hutchinson 70th Birthday Prairie Pow-Wow; and Senator Charles Duffy, Delta Alpha, Ponca City, Oklahoma, who was recently principal speaker at the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce "Open Forum."

BURDETTE C. SMITH

Washington, D. C.

DELTS in Washington to the number of one hundred and thirty-five sat down at our annual Founders Day Dinner at the National Press Club, March 18. Our perennial toastmaster, Camden McAtee, Beta Alpha (Indiana), '07, was in fine fettle and introduced the honor guests of the evening. Conspicuous by their absence, however, were our several legislators from the Capitol who, because of the pressure of emergency and defense bills before Congress, were unable to be with us. Although speeches of a serious nature were taboo, we broke down to let Rev. Harry Lee Virden, Beta Pi (Northwestern), '08, now on active duty in the War Department, give an inspiring talk on our Fraternity. To prove that Washington is a cosmopolitan city we had a roll call of chapters and graduates of forty-six chapters responded, including four charter members of Gamma Eta. Others heard from were W. C. Markham, Gamma Theta (Baker), '91, recently designated for a Citation to the Court of Honor, and Loy Henderson, Beta Pi (Northwestern), '12, just back from war-torn Europe where, as a member of the diplomatic corps, he has been stationed for a number of years. Ralph Wray, Beta Kappa (Colorado), '20, former field secretary and composer of a number of Delt songs, led the singing.

We have had an increase in the number of Delts in Washington due to the defense program. Newcomers are always welcome and should let us know of their presence just in case we decide to have some luncheons or a picnic or maybe just a plain old-fashioned Delt get-together. We have also lost several who have been called into the military or naval service. Most active of the latter group was Commander Irving McDaniel, president of the Southern Division whom we regret exceedingly to lose.

GEORGE A. DEGNAN

Wichita

OUR REGULAR monthly meetings at the Wichita Club each month, on the last Wednesday in the month, have been well attended, no doubt this attendance is accounted for by the fact that the treasurer is prohibited from asking the members for their dues on Wednesdays.

The boys from Gamma Tau are looking forward to the Gamma Tau Alumni Reunion at the chapter house in Lawrence, Kansas, May 3 and 4. Brother H. E. "Bill" Woods of Atchison has been handling the promotion for this event, and he has really done a good job.

Our Delt of the month here is probably Paul Skinner, Sales manager of the Hobbs Chevrolet Co., who has just been selected from this zone to attend the Chevrolet Sales School for several weeks, in Detroit. We don't believe they could have made a better selection.

RAYMOND HAWES

Wilmington

CONGRATULATIONS and cigars are in order—F. Stratton Knox, Jr., Gamma Phi, one of our local brethren, was instrumental in recently giving us a potential Delt, Class of 1962 (perhaps), who goes under the name of F. Stratton Knox, III. Donald C. Miller, Beta Phi, '36, is the proud father of a daughter, Ann Lee, born March 30.

Founders Day was observed in Wilmington at a dinner March 7, at the Hob Tea Room. We had as our guest speaker Mr. C. E. Fulmer, Principal of the Wilmington High School, who enlightened our group with facts and predictions on the present international crisis. Mr. Fulmer is recognized as an authority on current events, and his talk was most instructive and educational to all of us.

Since Founders Day marked the end of our fiscal year, the following new officers were elected at that meeting:

John H. Perry, Gamma Nu (Maine), president; George W. Cochran, Jr., Mu (Ohio Wesleyan), vice-president; James O. Otis, Delta Kappa (Duke), secretary; and John L. Mallard, Jr., Mu, treasurer.

Friday, March 21, several of our group attended a very inspiring address by Bishop Hughes, a well-known Delt, who spoke at St. Andrews Church, Wilmington, during the Interdenominational Lenten Services.

Our local alumni group boasts of two authors who are widely recognized as experts in their respective fields. Our prexy, John H. Perry, is author of the Chemical Engineer's Handbook (often called Perry's Handbook), which is nationally known as the Chemist's "Bible." At present he is laboring with a new edition, which will include the new developments in this rapidly-changing chemical world. Brother Perry is with the DuPont Company.

Our other author, Samuel R. Russell, Upsilon, explosives expert of the DuPont Company, has written a very informative article in the DuPont Magazine, entitled, "Stone for Chemical Uses." In this article Brother Russell describes the technique used in blasting stone quarries with high explosives. Further, he outlines the various alkali chemicals obtained from blasted stone and their wide industrial use.

Less than a year ago, the Wilmington alumni had their first informal luncheon. A real organization of over forty members is the result. Delts in other cities, having no such organizations, should waste no time in getting started with a similar group.
