Delta Tau Delta's Supervisor of Scholarship

ONCE UPON A TIME, when the world was young and fair, I dwelt in a land, a pleasant land, of story books and fantasy, of fairy princesses and questing knights, of high adventure and of dark enchantments. I wondered often just what I would say and do, if some powerful wizard should appear and offer to grant me three wishes of my heart. My choices were not always the same, but I remember that I often thought that I should ask the power of foretelling the future. One does not always become wiser with the passing years, but one does become more cautious. I think that now, if Merlin should appear, I should not have the courage to possess that awful power. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

But in a sense, and to a limited degree, each one of us has that power. We just don't use it very wisely. It's a form of magic. You mix together the correct ingredients, and touch the mixture to your eyes, and lo! your eyes are opened! Of course, everyone who studies magic knows that if you use the wrong recipe, or employ the least little substitute, the spell will all come out wrong, and you may see turreted castles where there is really a deep abyss, or snakes and snails and puppy-dogs' tails where there is really a treasure chest. When magic powders and elixirs look a good deal alike, it is so easy to make these mistakes. There are two bluish powders, for instance, which some find it very hard to tell apart: they are called, respectively, Stark Realism and Defeatism. They aren't the same thing at all, but it is very easy to pick up the wrong box. There are two bright-colored liquids that must be distinguished with care, for one is a powerful healer and the other a poison: they are Faith and Wishful Thinking. You have to be careful not to mistake Learning for Wisdom; or Expert Opinion for Fact; or Disappointment for Disaster; or Victory for Success.

Even so, and in spite of the obvious pitfalls that beset the would-be Sorcerer's Apprentice, the temptation is great to attempt the spell. Not that I should care to try to foretell details, but in the midst of a welter of uncertainties and grave questionings, and all the repetitious tidings of setbacks and defeats which grind upon us by day and gibber in our ears in wakeful hours at night, I venture to take as my theme the defiant note which is sounded by the conference now in session on our campus: "We Will Come Through."

That is the message which flashes at us through European broadcasts: . . . —; the V for Victory. That is the sign which appears mysteriously overnight chalked up on battle-shattered walls, on Nazi officers' luggage, on the windowpanes of the conqueror's military headquarters all over the face of Europe, where men and women are smitten into silence, and where all that makes life worth while seems buried hopelessly and forever in the debris and destruction that marks the path of the New World Order. That is the oath of the Serbian guerrilla, of the Norwegian patriot who starts an avalanche above the enemy's supply lines in his native mountains, of the Russian ski-trooper who sets his face westward in the blinding snows. It is the "Thumbs Up" of the British Tommy and WAAC. It is the password of the United Nations.

Watch out, Mr. Apprentice, for that Wishful Thinking bottle! It's Faith you want. I think we can use a little History, carefully strained. You can use a bit of Expert Opinion, but only as a solvent; it's no good without that Essence of Facts and Figures. Now, with a touch of This and That, I think we are ready.

Yet, when the magic drops touch our eyes, the vision is not too satisfying, at first glance. The war stretches ahead of us to an appalling length, nor can our own land expect to escape its violence. We can foresee clearly a disruption, to a much greater extent than we now experience, of our social and economic way of life—even of our chosen and accustomed means of earning a living. Even with the naked eye, we could get some glimpse of the long-lasting economic revolution which will mark the days of peace as well as of war.

Still the spell has lifted from our eyes the mists of discouragement and cleared away the low-lying fog of demoralization. We will come through. The Axis Powers have inflicted upon us desperate losses in men and territory and equipment, and have added to their own resources vast potentialities in conquered lands. The end of that process is not yet come. We must brace ourselves against, and discount in advance as far as we can, still further enormous losses and morale-shaking defeats in the field. But we still have tremendous potentialities of our own, and we have good reason to believe that our capacity for developing those resources far out-reaches the capacity of the Axis. The Allied cause consists of Time and the United Nations together. The Axis populations and the members of the Axis armed forces may, perhaps, represent what their governments boast they represent: fanatical and jubilant devotees of the New World Order. Yet we have some solid reason to believe that even within their home borders there are many who view their nations' course with dismay and hostility; and it is certain that elsewhere their power rests upon conquered and subject populations whose contributions to an Axis victory can only be enforced by great garrisons and overawing masses of military equipment which would otherwise be at the front, and by an expenditure of economic pressure which would be considered exorbitant in view of the net returns if the military need were not so desperate. On our side we can count upon voluntary and ever-increasing efforts by our populations, who now have everything to gain and nothing more to lose by an all-out expenditure of energy and wealth for victory.

Almost everywhere, our military and naval policy is, perforce, dominated by Fabian tactics, except in Russia, where they may have to be adopted when Spring returns. You may remember that Fabius kept his Roman armies constantly in contact with the advancing and superior Carthaginian forces, but wisely withheld offensive action until such time as his slowly increasing strength should give him the necessary superiority. For us, too, that superiority will one day be established, and we shall have our leaders to thank if they can contain their souls in patience, and suffer defeats and the insistent clamor of self-appointed civilian boards of military strategy, until that day has come.

We will come through, and there is a world to be rebuilt. Little by little, and bit by bit, some of the shadowy outlines of that new world are taking shape. The vision which our spell has conjured up of the world of the future seems to indicate a reallocation of the uses of raw materials, a liberalization of the rules of international exchange and trade, a series, perhaps, of startling steps in the direction of political and economic federations, a renunciation for ourselves of the right which we would deny our enemies: the right to act as a law unto ourselves when once we have succeeded in reestablishing a world of law.

But there are two kinds of prophecy: There is the prophecy of the fatalist.

"With Earth's first clay They did the Last Man knead,
And there of the Last Harvest sow'd
the Seed:
And the first Morning of Creation wrote
What the Last Dawn of Reckoning shall read."

That is passive. What will come, will come. Mrs. Lindbergh seems to have accepted that form of prophecy in The Wave of the Future. We are foolish to struggle so, for what we face is not simply a human foe: it is Destiny, it is Kismet, it is Fate.

Against that conception, we react with all the vigor in our being. We, too, can prophesy what the future shall be—not what it was destined to be before Time and the Earth began, but what shall be because it can be, and because we will it to be so. It is not a gift of the gods, this future, which we must accept because it was written long ago in the Role of Human Fate. It is not a gift at all, but a guerdon which we must fight to win.

The other night I heard, over the radio, a recent poem by Richard LeGallienne, which I have not been able to locate. I wish I could, for I am no poet, and his words were powerful. He says that men are asking themselves, in fear and doubt, "After the war, what then?" As if this war, with its devastation and its withering power, were sweeping away the world that we have known beyond hope of any return; as if we should have nothing left, when peace comes back again, with which we can rebuild. Short memory of man! How many scores of times, from ancient days to now, has life lain prostrate amid ruined towns and blackened fields, and shattered hopes and keening grief? How many times have men seen night descend and cried out that day would never come again? How many times have men rebuilt their lives? How many times, when the thunder of the guns has died, and the cries of the suffering are stilled, has life slowly but surely resumed its upward path, and the valley has bloomed once more? So shall it be again.

Much has been lost, and more losses will come. London's Guildhall lies in ruins, and Coventry's magnificent cathedral is open to the sky; and they are gone forever. But the institutions for which London stands, and the chants of an ancient faith which have echoed for centuries among the beams and arches of the old cathedral, live and shall live for generations yet to come. Much has been lost, but little is irretrievably lost. The loss will be irretrievable only if we lose our Faith, and our cool heads, and our sense of proportion, and our determination, and our Will to Victory.

"We must be free or die, who speak the tongue
That Shakespeare spake: the faith and morals hold
Which Milton held. . . ."

We will come through. Prophecy is not so hard, if you know what you earnestly wish the future to hold, and have the will to bring it about, and the means to do it. We of the United Nations do know our dream; we do have the means to make it come true; we must have the will to do it.

Our leaders do well to face the facts, and to give those facts to us without sugar-coating. "I have nothing to offer," said Mr. Churchill, "but blood, toil, tears and sweat." Dragging weeks of them; weary months of them; possibly years of them. But "there will come a better day" if we valiantly strive for it. This is not the end of the world. This is not the finish of civilization. This is not the Twi-

Delts "Keep 'Em Flying"

ENID, OKLAHOMA. The speeding tempo of the nation's war effort struck this basic flying school with full force as the latest graduating class, 42-E, finished the middle stage of pilot training one week ahead of schedule. Graduation had been set at March 23.

Basic training time was thus cut from nine to eight weeks by the change, which came in orders from Headquarters of the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training Center at Randolph Field, Tex.

Class 42-E was the second to graduate from this school, which started its first class only last December 20.

While here the fledgling fliers mastered the pilotage of basic training craft and obtained basic knowledge of cross-country navigation, aerial acrobatics, night flying and landing, and instrument technique.

From here they will go to advanced schools for another eight or nine weeks, and then they will be graduated, be rated as "Pilots" and commissioned as 2nd Lieutenants in the U. S. Army Air Corps Reserve.

The flying school itself has set something of a record, advancing from a mere project "on paper" to a fully-functioning military establishment within a period of eight months.

It was just last August that workmen arrived at the field to transform it from an Oklahoma plain to a small city of buildings, airplane hangars, runways and taxiing ramps which could carry on the business of training pilots for Uncle Sam's growing Air Force.

Representing Delta Tau Delta fraternity in the graduating 42-E class of Aviation Cadets are Roscoe L. Ball, of Muncie, Ind., who attended the University of Kentucky (Delta Epsilon), 1939-41, and Robert H. Young, of Wooster, O., who attended Ohio State University (Beta Phi), 1938-41.

Delta Tau Delta is also represented at the Enid Army Flying School by Albert R. Boylan, Amherst (Gamma Phi), '40, of the lower class, 42-F, of Cadets, and two officers, Lt. William F. Yeager, Illinois Institute of Technology, (Gamma Beta), '41, assistant engineering officer, and Lt. David F. Difford, Kentucky (Delta Epsilon), '36, utilities officer.

LT. DAVID F. DIFFORD
Utilities Officer, Enid Flying School

"West Point of the Air"

RANDOLPH FIELD. Delta Tau Delta is contributing six more men from as many chapters to the U. S. Army Air Forces. The six men are now in basic flight training at Randolph Field, the "West Point of the Air," and all will win "wings" upon graduating from advanced flying schools.

Two of the men, from Massachusetts, already hold commissions; the remaining four Aviation Cadets will be awarded second lieutenant's commissions as well as their "wings."

The Delts who are helping the U. S. to wing its way to victory over the Axis are:

Aviation Cadet Kenneth F. Strong, 24, of Berkeley, California, who worked on stage and scenic research for Warner Brothers before volunteering for the Air Force. He attended the University of California.

Aviation Cadet William G. Bryson, 22, of Ashland, Kentucky, a member of the University of Kentucky chapter, Delta Epsilon. He was a member of Pershing Rifles and Scabbard and Blade.

Student Officer Russell Nash, 27, of Somerville, Massachusetts, received a B.S. degree in engineering from Tufts College in 1940. He was a varsity letterman in golf.

Student Officer Peter Horton, 22, a second lieutenant in the Air Force, attended M. I. T., 1937-40. He went out for crew and was a member of the M. I. T. Boat Club. His home is Ipswich, Massachusetts.

Another Delta Tau Delta who is an Aviation Cadet, Max W. Henny, of Springfield, Ohio, received a B.S.A.A. degree from the University of Cincinnati in 1941, and a B.S. degree from Wittenberg, Springfield, Ohio, in 1942.

Aviation Cadet Robert James Morrow, 22, of Camp Hill, Pennsylvania, joined Delta Tau Delta while a student at Pennsylvania State College, 1938-41. He won freshman and varsity numerals in lacrosse. He was a member of the freshman swimming team. Other activities included membership in the Druid Society, Clique chairman, junior prom chairman, and water safety instructor.

Delts at the Gunnery School

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA. While three of them wear smart military blouses emblazoned with the bars of ranking officers and two of them sport nothing more pretentious than khaki shirts, five brothers of Delta Tau Delta are in service together in the United States Army Air Corps at the Air Corps Gunnery School at the desert town of Las Vegas, Nevada.

The officers are Captain Harry C. Billings, First Lieutenant Louis V. August, and Second Lieutenant Robert K. Bonnett, Jr., all graduates of the University of Idaho and members of Delta Mu chapter.

The two wearers of khaki shirts are selective service men, Privates

CORPORAL JAMES WILEY, MAJOR P. H. HAYWARD, CAPTAIN V. H. BROWN, and LIEUTENANT SAM W. HALL. HAYWARD and BROWN are Deltas from Beta Beta (DePauw), WILEY and HALL hail from Beta Upsilon (Illinois).

Robert H. Protz, Delta Nu of Lawrence College, and William L. Miller, Jr., of Delta Eta at the University of Alabama.

Captain Billings is an Ontario, California, boy who was graduated from the Idaho University engineering college in 1926 and who was called to active duty in the Army Air Corps, April 9, 1941. He reported to Moffet Field and was transferred to the Gunnery School, June 14. The captain is now the commanding officer of the 690th Ordnance Company, beside acting in the capacity of post ordnance and post chemical officer.

Faculty members and friends still remaining at the University of Idaho are sure to remember dynamic Lieutenant August and his years as a highly successful boxing coach at that University. Army life has not put a crimp in his coaching, for he is serving as post athletic and recreation officer and has organized a post team which already is whipping into shape to meet West Coast schools and Golden Gloves teams. Lieutenant August hails from Moscow, Idaho, and was graduated in 1937 from Idaho with a B.S. in physical education. He was called into active service at Ft. Wright, Spokane, Washington, July 15, 1941, and was sent to the Gunnery School August 29.

Lieutenant Bonnett boasts affiliation with two Delt chapters, the first being Delta Mu at Idaho U. and the second Gamma Lambda at Purdue. He received his B.S. degree from the University of Idaho. The lieutenant, whose home town is Lafayette, Indiana, reported for duty July 15, 1941, at Ft. George Wright, Washington. He is now acting commander of the 84th Material Squadron, is assistant chemical officer, and technical supply officer of the 79th air base group.

"Brother Deltas from all over the country seem to be doing all right by themselves, but why shouldn't they?" observes Pvt. Robert H. Protz. "They're members of the world's best fraternity." He is a Manitowoc, Wisconsin, boy who is a 1939 graduate of the Manitowoc high school and who attended St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wisconsin, prior to entering Lawrence College. He became a member of Delta Nu at Lawrence after his second semester, but came the draft and he was inducted August 6, at Camp Grant, Rockford, Illinois. He is now a member of the 51st School Squadron at the Gunnery School.

Private William L. Miller, who writes this article, is a Ludington, Michigan, boy who was graduated with a B.A. degree in commerce from the University of Alabama. He was initiated by Delta Eta chapter. After graduation he was employed as an advertising man on the Ludington Daily News and more recently on the Ft. Smith, Ark., Southwest Times-Record. He was inducted into the Army July 17, at Ft. Custer, Michigan, and is now a member of 353rd School Squadron at the Gunnery School and is attached to the morale office.

LUBBOCK, TEXAS. Two members of Delta Tau Delta completed their advanced flight training in the United States Army Air Corps at the Lubbock Army Flying School, Lubbock, Texas, April 29, 1942. They are Second Lieutenant Richard T. Cella, member of Beta Nu at M.I.T., and Second Lieutenant Richard L. Hattendorf, member of Beta Theta at Sewanee.

Lt. Cella, who holds a reserve commission in the Coast Artillery, received his training as a student officer, while Lt. Hattendorf was commissioned at the conclusion of his training at Lubbock.

After a period of primary training, both men went to Randolph Field for basic instruction. At the Lubbock Army Flying School their training was in the twin-engine bomber type of aircraft.

A Delt With the "Flying Tigers"

Experiences Over Burma Unfold

IN AUGUST, 1941, Charles H. Older, Delta Iota (U.C.L.A.), '39, resigned his commission as a pilot in the Marine Corps and sailed for China where he expected to test fighting planes, train pilots, and "knock down a few Japs."

His expectations were realized after he joined the American Volunteer Squadron and was appointed leader of a flight of P-40 pursuit ships.

Reports from Chungking in January, 1942, named him as the pilot of one of four flights which shot down three Japanese bombers at a "casualty" cost of only three bullet holes in the victors' planes.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Older, of Los Angeles, received a letter from him in March which told of more recent activities and of the needs of the American Volunteer Group before it could gain superiority in Burma.

The Chinese and Burmese have named this American Volunteer Group, the "Flying Tigers," and they praise the heroic and history-making exploits of these fine flyers.

Over Rangoon and Kunming, Lt. Older has accounted for at least thirteen enemy planes, yet it is not on his own and his comrades' successes that he writes so much as on the shortage of fighting planes that has hampered the "Flying Tigers" in their duels with Hirohito's aerial legions. He frequently mentioned the point that the Allies can never win unless they gain superiority in the air.

He described the high quality of Japan's planes and pilots and woefully admits that "everyone underestimated their ability before the war."

LT. CHARLES H. OLDER

In terse terms Lt. Older, now somewhere in Burma, describes the first heavy fighting done by the American Volunteer Group in the Rangoon sector.

"After the United States got into the war our squadron, the 3rd Pursuit Squadron, known as 'Hell's Angels,' was sent to Rangoon. The 1st and 2nd squadrons went to Kunming.

"Our first big raid came on December 23. We had about fifteen planes. The Japs sent over sixty heavy bombers and twenty fighters. We knocked down fourteen of them. I was lucky and got two bombers. One of them was the leader of a twenty-seven plane bomber formation.

"Their twin-engined heavy bombers are fast and seem to be darn good planes. They fly beautiful formation and their air work is very good.

"Our next raid came on Christmas Day and they sent over eighty heavy bombers and thirty fighters. We had thirteen planes, P-40's, in the air divided into two flights. Our flight bagged eighteen planes and the other flight got seven planes. I knocked down two bombers and a fighter. The Royal Air Force knocked down a few both days, too.

"A few days after that we were relieved by the 2nd Squadron and we flew to Kunming, where we've been stationed since. On January 17, four of us went out to intercept some bombers near Kunming. We caught three of them about one hundred miles south of Kunming and shot down all three. I got the leader and Lt. Thomas C. Haywood of St. Paul, Minn., and I bagged another one together.

"We have a darn good outfit. Col. Chennault is the commanding officer and he's really the man for the job. Everyone admires him and we know we couldn't have a better man for a leader.

"Our planes are superior to the Japs' and we seem to have much more experience than their pilots."

This good Delt now has earned a rating of "Ace." He apparently wanted action when he resigned his commission to join the American Volunteer Group. The reports tell that he got it.

Older received his initial flight training at the Long Beach Naval Station, later was graduated from Pensacola, and served nine months with the Marines in the Virgin Islands.

Fifty Years at Wesleyan

"Fifty Years at Wesleyan"—a history of Gamma Zeta Chapter and its forerunner, the Phi Rho Literary Society, from 1890 to 1940—has been prepared by Orliff H. Chase, Gamma Zeta (Wesleyan), '08, and presented to the chapter. The book, representing long hours of research, investigation, and compilation, is in bound form and starts with the earliest days of the Phi Rho Literary Society, which was chartered Gamma Zeta of Delta Tau Delta at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, in June, 1902.

Carrying several pages of illustrations—chapter houses, leaders and prominent members, and maps of the University and town—the history is written in an entertaining style. In addition to the essential data, Brother Chase has imbued the story with local color, quoting from publications of the chapter and school and from letters, and recounting the behind-the-scenes incidents so much a part of any history, which are so often lost in retelling.

Brother Chase has divided the history into three chapters: Chapter I, 1890 to 1902; Chapter II, 1902 to 1915; and, Chapter III, 1915 to 1940.

The first chapter deals with the period of the Phi Rho Literary Society and in it Brother Chase has traced the development of the group from a nonsecret organization to a local fraternity group. He states: "Despite the announced intention of the founders, progress toward fraternity status was headlong. The following from the '95 Olla Podrida indicates the speed of this movement:

"The Phi Rho Fraternity at Wesleyan was founded in the fall of 1891 as the 'Wesleyan Non-Fraternity Literary Society.' Meetings were held weekly for literary and rhetorical purposes only. In February, 1893, the Society was given a more permanent and comprehensive form and the name Phi Rho was adopted. Later in the year, the Society, which then had thirty members, was organized as a permanent local fraternity and a house was secured. The fraternity was non-secret for a short time after its organization. In 1894 the fraternity removed to its present quarters on Cross and Mt. Vernon Streets."

Chapter II depicts the early adjustments of the group as a chapter of Delta Tau Delta, although Brother Chase states:

"The transition from the Phi Rho local to Gamma Zeta of Delta Tau Delta was effected without any special adjustments. The chapter proceeded under its old by-laws and at some leisure made such amendments as were necessary to adapt them to the new conditions. Unfortunately President McKillip had been unable to remain for the installation and an initiation was held for him at the beginning of the year. The new chapter continued to live at the Pike House on College Place and the same officers, plus two or three made necessary by the Ritual, continued in office. The undergraduate chapter for the year 1902-03 consisted of forty-one men—ten seniors, seven juniors, eleven sophomores, and thirteen freshmen."

In Brother Chase's own phraseology, Chapter III is the story of development:

"The purchase and occupancy of the chapter house marks the halfway point between the earliest beginnings of Phi Rho and the present. It also marks the end of an epoch. As the man who has established a home applies himself to providing for the present and future of his growing family, so henceforth our story changes from an account of acquisition to an account of development."

The author ends Chapter III with this paragraph:

Chicago's Park System

By L. M. Tobin, Beta Upsilon (Illinois), '01

THE LAST TIME I went to Chicago and drove down the famous Outer Drive which runs along the shore of the big lake I reflected proudly that one of our br'ers from Beta Upsilon was the head of the great park system—one of the largest and most important in the country—of which the Drive is a part.

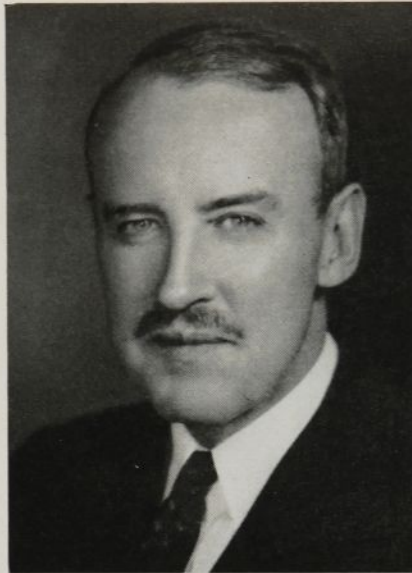

When Chicago in 1934 combined twenty-two park districts, including the big South Park with which he had been connected for many years, into the great Chicago Park District, George T. Donoghue, Beta Upsilon (Illinois), '06, became general superintendent of the enlarged system, a job he has held ever since with great credit to himself and lasting benefit to the city.

George rules over 136 parks, 205 miles of boulevards and driveways in the country's second largest city—all with a total area of 6,912 acres. The system is a veritable city within a city, with one of the country's foremost park police forces, an engineering staff that has distinguished itself in the construction of the great Outer Drive and impressive lake front improvements, and a horticultural staff known throughout the world for its excellence.

The budget of the system last year was $23,000,000, of which approximately $11,000,000 was spent for maintenance and operation. There are 3,500 employees.

People who know tell me that George has been a leading figure in the American scene in all that is involved in the modern concept of park operation. This, they say, means far more than pure engineering, covering as it does community recreation, sports, and horticulture, as well as the strictly engineering phases of improvement and operation of vast public properties. Thus, they also say, George could be best termed a "human" engineer.

V. K. Brown wrote a sketch of George for the magazine Recreation a few years ago from which the following paragraphs are taken:

GEORGE T. DONOGHUE

"As chief engineer of the Lincoln park system he had to battle the problem of shore protection against the storms of Lake Michigan. He had to solve the intricate problems of park construction and maintenance. Outside of his technical responsibilities he was drawn into the human service phase of operations. The community houses engaged his attention. It wasn't long before the recreation program was turned over to him. He has never become so engrossed in material or administrative problems as to lose interest in making the entire park equipment and organization an agency of service to the people. The landscaped vistas are to him a means of bringing beauty into the drab ugliness of city life.

"George was superintendent of the South Park board during the period of park expansion when the lake shore acreage was under construction. The problems were critical. For miles along the shoreline filling operations were progressing and a new water front was being formed, dedicated to beautifying the city but also demanding a bulwarked frontage strong enough to withstand the shock of winter storms driving great ice floes against the flimsy man-made ramparts built to protect the fill.

"There were problems of highway and bridge construction to be installed above a yielding lake bottom. There were problems of adjustment of differences with some of the great corporations and the railroads. The superintendent, representing the people, sat at the table with the keenest legal minds, matching his legal inexperience against their long training in driving advantageous bargains. The contracts were written and rewritten but at the end they safeguarded the interest of the people of Chicago.

"George Donoghue was appointed general superintendent of the consolidated system to wrestle with the problem of bringing to solvency a system many of the parts of which were utterly insolvent, and of welding into a unified organization a group which had never worked together before.

"Loyalty to the public interest demanded that the engineer grapple with new problems—finance and human psychology. The task of building morale into the newly assembled organization fell largely on his shoulders. The workers from the most exalted positions down to the humblest began to feel the thrill of a resolve to do the job. The system came to the discovery it had developed a morale unawares.

"That is an accomplishment in human engineering greater than the network of boulevards, than the Outer Drive bridge, sinking its supporting caissons down through quicksands to bed rock, greater than the solution of problems of shore protection against islands of ice, wind-driven to pound the timbers that protect park areas by the lake. It is an accomplishment that marks George Donoghue an engineer, not alone of the mastery of materials but in the commanding of the spirit of men."

On this fine note, let's turn to George himself.

Soon after George said good-bye to the old Delt house at 410 Green Street he started as an instrument man on the engineering staff of the Sanitary district of Chicago, progressing to a division engineer by 1910. In 1913 he became chief engineer of the South Park system. Except for an interlude as head of a construction building corporation from 1921 to 1924 he has been a park executive ever since.

Interest in sports was a natural result of the programs of the system and the inclusion of the Soldier Field stadium in its area, where football games, track meets and the Dempsey-Tunney battle were staged. George has been vice-president of the Amateur Athletic Union, president of the Central A.A.U. for six years and a member of the track and field games committee of the 1932, 1936 and 1940 Olympics (the last wasn't held). Now he's on the track and field committee for the U.S.A. Sports Federation which is promoting the Pan-

American games. You are likely to see him snapping a watch or picking a place in the big track meets as one of the officials.

He's a past vice-president of the American Institute of Park executives; member of the American Society of Civil Engineers; honorary member of the Chicago Society of Landscape Architects; and a director on the board of the University of Illinois Foundation.

The Donoghues—the missus was Clara Roche before June 18, 1912—have three sons: George T., Jr., an assistant U. S. district attorney but entering the Navy at last reports; Edmund R., a resident in surgery in the Cook County Hospital, who expects to go into service in a base hospital unit, and Lawrence, an honor graduate of Illinois Institute of Technology, with the Martin Aircraft Company in Baltimore, and three daughters: Mrs. Katherine Donoghue Smith, Marie, a teacher in the Chicago public schools, and Cecily Joan, student in Aquinas high school.

George came to Illinois from the Chicago Engineering High and Manual Training School in 1902 and was initiated in March, 1903. He has a perfectly good middle name, "Terry," but was immediately nicknamed "Tim." He became president of the chapter, in his junior year, too, if memory does not fumble.

Some of the stable of celebrities the various fraternity magazines trot out, it must be feared, have taken little or no interest in their fraternity since they left the campuses but George is not one of those birds. He's always been deeply interested in the welfare of Beta Upsilon.

Next time you're in Chicago, if your tires are not too old, take a drive around the park system. If, as a stranger, you run a light, take the wrong turn or do something like that, maybe if you mention George's name to the white-gloved policeman he will smile and be a little easier on you. It's a cinch he'll smile anyway. People generally do when George is mentioned for everybody likes him.

light of the Gods. Great things are waiting for mankind behind those mists of the future, but to win them and to enjoy them, mankind must be free. There will be bluebirds over the white cliffs of Dover; there will be love and laughter, and there may be peace ever after, Tomorrow—but only "when the world is free."

"My lance is shattered, and my noble steed

Lies yonder, helpless, by a heap of slain.

My wounds have left their trail across the mead,

My sword is blunt, my shield is cleft in twain.

Yet will I fight as long as I draw breath,

For while my heart is stout I shall not quail.

My cause I shall defend unto the death—

And even tho' I die, it shall not fail.

These pleasant vales, these hills of misty light

Shall hear again the happy lovers' song,

And men shall lift their heads in freedom's right:

Be stout, my heart! O arm of mine, be strong!"

"This ends the story of fifty years of Phi Rho at Wesleyan and of thirty-nine years of Gamma Zeta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta. There yet remains eleven years before the half century of the chapter is rounded out. This is sufficient time to realize the Delta Prophecy. To Phi Rho and Gamma Zeta we give you 'NINETEEN FIFTY-TWO.'"

In addition to the three chapters, the preface, and the illustrations, the history includes a very complete appendix, which incorporates the following:

Charter of the Phi Rho Literary Society.
Charter of Gamma Zeta of Delta Tau Delta.

Roll of Chapter Members—by Delegations.

Roll of Chapter Members—Alphabetical.

Initiations and Initiates.

Phi Rho Members who are not Delta Tau Delta.

Ritual of Phi Rho Literary Society.

Petition—Phi Rho to Delta Tau Delta.

Reports on the Petitioners.

Dr. Lockwood's Letter.

Trustees and Officers of Phi Rho Literary Society, Inc.

Roll of Chapter Presidents.

Roll of Chapter Advisers.

Phi Rho Circular Letter—February 1912.

Lease—Phi Rho to Gamma Zeta—1922.

Undergraduate Honors: Scholastic, Athletic, Musical, Social, Literary.

Jackson Cup Scholarship Ratings.

In compiling this history Brother Chase has performed a service of inestimable value to his chapter and to the Fraternity. He has preserved for future chapters at Gamma Zeta much of the background of the Fraternity at Wesleyan and given them a firm foundation upon which to build the story of the chapter as it unfolds.

A Delt in a Clipper

By Hugh Shields, Beta Alpha (Indiana), '26

Comptroller of Delta Tau Delta

SAMOA, Singapore, Hong Kong, Pearl Harbor, Midway, Wake—names much in the news today—are names which conjure pictures of far-away and off-the-beaten-path spots in the world—daydream-invoking places for most of us, but to Bob Buschmann as familiar as Main Street, Kankakee, Keokuk, and points west.

Captain Robert O. Buschmann, Beta Zeta (Butler), '33, and Gamma Lambda (Purdue), '34, Pan American Airways pilot, had made his plans to be a heating and air conditioning engineer in his college days, but his B.S. degree in mechanical engineering is about as close as he ever came to it.

For a man who can navigate the China Clipper "on the nose" to Hong Kong at his first opportunity, Bob arrived at his present position by a very circuitous route, and without any outward evidence of that astute navigation which allowed his superior officer to commend his accuracy on the flight to Hong Kong with the comment of "good work—or good luck."

Bob was spending a short vacation with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Buschmann, at Indianapolis, Indiana, when we talked with him about his present work and events leading up to it. Probably before this article is off the press, Bob will be in Africa where he has been assigned by Pan American to duty, more specific mention of which is not possible because of wartime censorship. (In fact, we could write at least a couple of paragraphs just naming topics, any discussion of which is forbidden.)

That circuitous route by which Bob arrived at the captaincy of his plane on the route between Brownsville, Texas, and Port of Spain, Trinidad, began when Captain McIntyre, R.O.T.C. officer at Purdue the year Bob was graduated, invited him to go along on a trip to California.

Once there, Bob made the acquaintance of "Richie" Hay, who invited him to stay at the Delt House at California, Beta Omega Chapter, where he met Ralph Beck, whom he later encountered in Oahu, T. H. Spending about a year in California doing such assorted jobs as stacking sugar for Western Sugar refineries, working at Sears, Roebuck & Company, Standard Oil, and Montgomery Ward & Company, Bob became interested in aviation because a ground school was established near the University. "Just for something to do" he enrolled with several others from the Delt house. After spending a few months there, he made application and was accepted for the United States Navy's flying cadet training course, which had just been established.

In August, 1935, Bob was sent to Pensacola, Florida, where he became interested in sailing, a sport which has given him an exciting moment or two at various times and places since then. He stayed at Pensacola for a little more than a year, leaving there in 1936 with his wings as an aviation cadet. In fact, Bob received his wings with the first class to be graduated from a Naval Air School under the law establishing naval aviation cadet training. From Pensacola, he was sent to Pearl Harbor, where he remained for the balance of his four-year term of enlistment in the Navy.

While at Pearl Harbor, Bob continued his interest in sailing and skippered the Ilima, an "S" type craft, in several regattas. On Labor Day in 1938 the Ilima ran into trouble in the open seas outside Pearl Harbor, near Barber's Point, when the backstays were broken. Bob and his crew were rescued by the Coast Guard and returned to the air base.

Although Bob's modesty bade him slip over the yatching races with mention of them as a hobby and diversion, apparently from some of the clippings which we saw he was a member of a crew which had considerable success in the races, so much a part of the air base life at that time, when days at Pearl Harbor were a succession of routine flights and observation, sports, and naval duty (girls and lei, too, from some of the pictures in Bob's collection).

A part of the training of a naval aviation cadet at that time included flying to other Pacific bases and spending several days to two weeks there in observation, bombing target practice, and working out navigation problems. In this connection, Bob spent some time at Midway, as well as Johnston, French Frigate Shoals, and other islands of the Hawaiian group.

One of the outstanding events of his stay in the Southwest Pacific was a trip to Samoa, where he made quite a collection of native handwork. He "purchased" these by the barter system. In fact, it would seem that he almost returned from Samoa in the traditional state of the native, if one believes in the movie version. Shirts, undershirts, and all types of clothing were at a premium there and he traded nearly all of his clothes for native trinkets.

Another trip of interest was one which took Bob to Swains Island, a small privately-owned island, not far from Samoa, which was "discovered" and claimed by a New York family, the second generation of which still owns the island and handles its output of copra. When Bob was there, his ship was the first to stop in seven or eight months, and it was most welcome. One of the owners of the island came aboard and went with them to Pago Pago, Samoa, to make arrangements for boats to call for the copra, the last boat having met with disaster.

Bob was located at Pearl Harbor during the days of fruitless search for Amelia Earhart and he made a trip in a coal-burning tug which took some part in the search for her in the direction of Samoa.

During Bob's service at Pearl Harbor the aviation cadets were somewhat of a problem to their officers, as they had no rank at that time, but were, nevertheless, regarded as more privileged than the enlisted men. About ten days before Bob's term of service in the Navy ended, the regulations were changed and the present law became effective, granting the commission of Ensign to all aviation cadets who win their wings; therefore, Bob received his commission dated back to the time he received his wings at Pensacola.

Upon his return to the United States, Bob made application for a berth with Pan American Airways and was accepted. He was then sent to Brownsville, Texas, where he spent a period of three months in the shops learning the fundamentals of Pan American plane maintenance. For a year and a half after that he flew as copilot on the Brownsville to Trinidad run, and for about five months his base was Trinidad, which is a British West Indies Island, with a 70 per cent colored population.

Later he was transferred to the Pacific Division of Pan American, which includes scheduled flights to Hong Kong, Singapore, and Auckland, New Zealand. While in that division, Bob made five trips—two Hong Kong, two Auckland, New Zealand, and one Singapore. Last December he was returned to Brownsville as captain, on the Brownsville-Trinidad flight.

Bob is a quiet chap, tall, slender, brown-haired, brown-eyed, steady of hand and calm of eye. He is very matter of fact about this life of his which would spell Romance and Adventure with capitals for most of us. We asked him about special incidents and persons encountered in his flights and he mentioned in an off-hand manner, Clare Boothe, Ernest Hemingway, and Doris Duke, as among the headline personalities flying the routes he has traveled. He remembers Hemingway as a fishing enthusiast, who struck quite a friendship with Captain Steven Bancroft, of Pan American, who shares his interest in the sport; Clare Boothe as a good cribbage player; Doris Duke, as a "glamour girl" who is really shy; and Dee Breedin, writer for National Geographic, as a good bridge player.

Among other Deltas, employed by Pan American, whom Bob has encountered in his work, are Edwin D. Avary, Beta Rho (Stanford), '32; Elkins H. Hale, Beta Omicron (Cornell), '29; Noble Springer, Gamma Chi (Kansas State), '28; and, Henry J. Chase, Beta Omega (California), '30.

New Field Secretary

Delta Tau Delta went out to the State of Nebraska for its new man on the Field Secretary Staff. Nebraska claims him as a native. . . . He was born in Verdon and took his elementary and preparatory training in Minden public schools.

It took several letters to bring out all the information we sought from this modest Nebraska gentleman. His biographical sketch continues . . . skipped the third grade . . . won three college scholarships . . . basketball captain . . . outstanding senior. College: . . . president of Beta Tau . . . campus publications . . . assistant in the English Department for three years . . . earned Fellowship. Hobbies: golf in particular but most other

THE DELT AUTHORS

THE FIREDRAKE. By Elgin Groseclose, Delta Alpha (Oklahoma), '24. 354 pp. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company. $2.50.

IN THE Eighteen Fifties it seemed as if man had conquered nature, as if there were no limit to his achievement or end to his prosperity, as if audacity were the sure weapon for measureless triumph. That was when the missionary's wife, Abigail Carfax, became Boston's most glamorously popular novelist and when the architect Fenton Swayton built the largest and most daring of all the clipper ships. And that is the time and scene, this is the story's framework, of the excellent and unusual new novel by the author of "Ararat."

Abigail had lived for thirteen years in Persia, since her marriage at 17 to Rev. Martin Carfax, founder of the American College of Salamat. When her son was 12 years old and her daughter 11 she reluctantly undertook a three-year absence from her husband, to settle the children at "home" in Boston, in school. She herself had given them most of their education hitherto, and whatever she could she had put in story form. On the tedious voyage she whiled away the time by telling them an exceptionally long story about the brave, freedom-loving Vikings of centuries ago; and on the casual suggestion of a fellow-traveler she relieved her own restless loneliness by writing it down.

As expenses mounted in Boston it occurred to her that she might earn a bit of money by writing. But the "success story" which ensues upon the publication of "The Bride of the Viking" does not follow the conventional lines. Abigail Carfax is lured to destruction by the "firedrake," but that demon is not one of material wealth, or fame, or new romance, nor does destruction take a spectacular fictional form. Abigail loses her hold on realities through the glorification of her own power and freedom, not only self-absorption but a kind of self-deification as well. It is what the Mayor puts into proud words at the great clipper ship's launching: "Be gods, be afraid of naught. Challenge the stars!"

Much has happened by that time. The promoter Bismith has reared the up-ended pyramid of a huge shipping enterprise on nothing at all, and Abigail's publisher, Pitcrest, has mortgaged his conservative business to turn himself into a shipping magnate. The thoughtful young marine architect whose serious talk Abigail has enjoyed at Mrs. Hutchins's boarding house has built a large swift ship for the new firm, and another and another and another, each outdoing everything before it, until "Monarch of the Deep" is the only name great enough for the great new vessel. Abigail has postponed her return to

ELGIN GROSECLOSE

Persia while she writes another novel, and another, and then fulfills a contract for five more. She has let her imagination play, and her swift words flow over all the earth and all the ages; but when she tries to meet the critics' suggestion that she write about something nearer home the exciting life of expanding mid-century America doesn't lend itself so well to her talents, and when she produces an imaginative tale of the picturesque South she gets involved in the slavery controversy. Meanwhile her son—appropriately named Jason—has set off as a modern Argonaut to California, and her daughter has found her own gentle but no less individual way of life and thought, and romance as well.

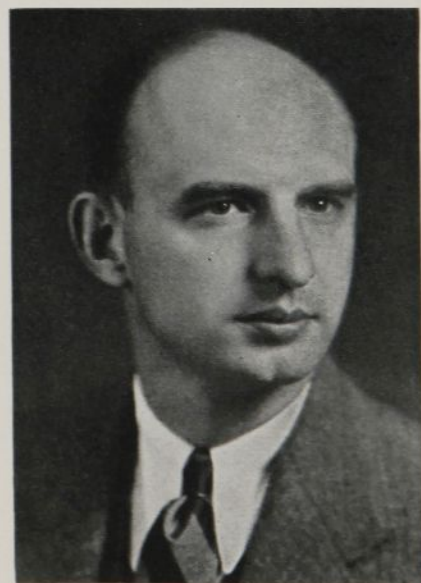

At the end, of course, the speculation crashes, the ship is wrecked. Abigail is overwhelmed with a sense of defeat as she faces a final necessary decision, the brilliant architect is utterly lost in the intoxication of his limitless ambition. Only those lives stand firm which have accepted submission to something beyond the untrammelled human will, which can fit their very individual freedom into the patterns of humanity. And the men and women who have "challenged the stars" in their apotheosis of human power have failed, not because of some celestial nemesis, but essentially because they have lost touch with the realities of human existence. To say that such a novel is subtly written is tautology; this author could have dealt easily with the schoolmen's old question of how many angels could dance on the point of a pin. But if his work is fine-spun it is not for that reason fragile.

Elgin Groseclose, we may remember, is a professional economist.

In all the objective makings of a novel "The Firedrake" differs vastly from "Ararat," so much so that it is hard to compare the quality of the two books. A singular story this certainly is; and as it is original and intense, so it is compelling. It is written with a quiet effectiveness which is the result of thoughtful sensitiveness rather than of effort. And it is much more timely than its dating might lead us to think.—KATHERINE WOODS in The New York Times.

ALDER GULCH. By Ernest Haycox, Gamma Rho (Oregon), '22. 302 pp. Boston: Little, Brown and Company. $2.

You're not likely to find a better Western story at the moment than this latest by the author of "Rim of the Desert," "Saddle and Ride" and so forth. (Reviewers may be calling Mr. Haycox the dean of Western scribes any time now.) The tale may strike you as a trifle sober-sided at times, but that's the idea—impressive romantic narrative without much comic relief. We're all set for a serious bout of love when Jeff Pierce meets Diana Castle in Portland after jumping off the hell-ship Panama Chief, and the two of them have their share of agony before long. Both have emotional problems to solve, especially Jeff, and there's also a fine assortment of Montana adventures, coming to a head with vigilantes, hangings, shooting and a final understanding.—N. Y. Times.

R. E. McCONNELL, Beta Kappa (Colorado), '09, and Gamma Epsilon (Columbia), '10, has been named by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to act as one of the managing directors of General Aniline and Film Corp. This corporation has been under supervision of the Treasury for several months and the Department has taken title to ninety-seven per cent of the stock which was registered in the name of foreign nationals.

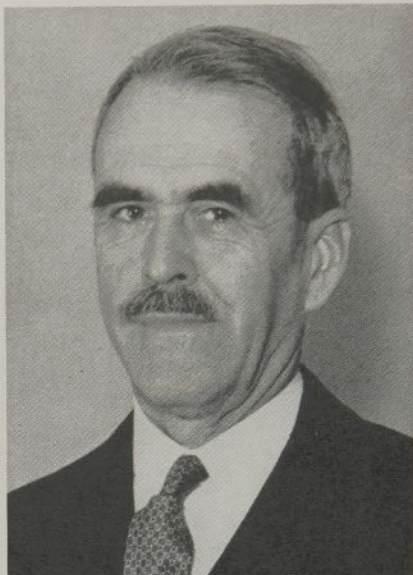

McConnell is the chairman of the Engineers Defense Board comprised of five representatives of each of the large engineering societies and consulting engineer to the War Production Board.

FRANK S. MACGREGOR

The DuPont Company has announced that FRANK S. MACGREGOR, Beta Nu (M.I.T.), '07, is the new assistant general manager of the R. and H. Chemicals Department. MacGregor had been director of DuPont's Priorities Division since June, 1941.

A native of Lawrence, Mass., MacGregor was graduated from M.I.T. in 1907 and worked as a metallurgist and consulting engineer before joining the DuPont Company in 1916. During his twenty-six years with the company he has served as assistant Director of the Development Department, control manager of the Paint Department, general manager of the Acele Department of the former DuPont Rayon Company and president and general manager of Ducilo S. A. Productora de Rayon in Buenos Aires.

Two members of the University of Wisconsin's Board of Regents are members of Delta Tau Delta. M. J. CLEARY, Beta Gamma '02, and A. T. HOLMES, Beta Gamma '15.

The official missionary magazine of the Episcopal Church, Forth, has in its April, 1942, issue, an article which tells of the activities of Delt Bishop A. A. GILMAN, Beta Theta (Sewanee), '98. Bishop Gilman has been serving in China for years. The title of the article is "Happy Prisoners Send Greetings," which was the cabled message received from him recently by the article's author, Rev. A. Ervine Swift, who returned to the United States after serving with Gilman since 1938.

"As the most recent member of the Hankow diocese to leave that city, I can only try to imagine the present situation of our people there, living as they are under Japanese wartime regulations.

"The recent cabled message from Bishop Gilman, 'Eight happy prisoners send greetings,' is characteristic of him. Apparently they are suffering no dire hardships physically, but I know, as one who lived for three years with the army of occupation in Hankow when America was still neutral, what the psychological hardships must be. Nevertheless the Bishop and the seven with him in the Wuhan cities, Hankow, Wuchang, and Han-yang, have apparently settled down to take life as it comes.

"When I left Hankow, Bishop Gilman and the Rev. Claude Pickets, acting mission treasurer, were living on the compound of St. Paul's Cathedral. The Bishop is quite a radio technician, and the fact that the Japanese have undoubtedly taken away his equipment would work a severe hardship were it not that he is also an authority on flowers, and we trust his garden has been unmolested.

"Just how much work Americans are allowed to do is of course problematical. There are plenty of our native clergy in the city to carry on services, and episcopal visitations may even be permitted. Bishop Gilman's love for the people, particularly through these years of suffering, has forever endeared him to them. One could almost call him a Taoist or Buddhist high priest as well as an Anglican bishop. . . ."

BENJAMIN C. HILLIARD, JR., Omicron (Iowa), '20, is the 1941-42 Commander of the Colorado Department of the American Legion. Hilliard is an attorney in Denver, his home, and has been practicing there since completing his law studies at George Washington University following the World War.

JOHN A. FERGUSON, Gamma Mu (Washington), '33, Beta Omicron (Cornell), '33, who has spent most of his time in Alaska since leaving college, is with the Northern Commercial Company, reports that he is to be transferred this spring from Nenana, to Fort Yukon. Through him we have the report that THOMAS H. CAMPBELL, Gamma Mu (Washington), '34, professor at the University of Alaska in Fairbanks, is a proud father. The report does not say whether a pledge pin is needed from $\Delta T \Delta$ or a sorority.

JOHN T. WHITAKER, Beta Theta (Sewanee), '27, the well-known foreign correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, has had his back broken to correct an old injury. His purpose is to become eligible to serve in the United States Army. He fractured his back while boxing in college and the injury did not properly heal. He reinjured his back two years ago while playing tennis in Rome.

This Delt newspaperman entered New York's Polyclinic Hospital January 16 for the operation and must remain in a cast for five months.

Whitaker, who was expelled from Rome last year because his dispatches displeased the Italians, explained his operation with the statement: "After watching the Germans bully and beat a lot of poorly equipped Europeans, I'd like to participate with American troops when they make them whimper."

FRANCIS F. PATTON, Gamma Alpha (Chicago), '11, Chairman of the Distinguished Service Chapter

ROY W. BALDWIN, JR.

Gamma Sigma's ROY W. BALDWIN, JR., who played his way to campus fame on the organ and accordion at the University of Pittsburgh, is now a cadet in the Army Air Corps Basic Flying School at Gardner Field, Taft, California.

Last June when Roy was called to the colors, he was assigned to Ellington Flying Field, Texas. There his accordion and his ability as a writer singled him out for quick advancement, and he became a corporal in Ellington Field's Public Relations Department.

But his ambition pointed higher and soon he was on the march again. Roy applied for cadet training in the Army Air Corps, and in December he was accepted and began his primary training at Thunderbird Flying Field near Phoenix, Arizona. He is now completing his aviation course at the Army Air Corps Basic Flying School at Gardner Field, California.

While at Pitt, Roy was in great demand at rushing events, interfraternity parties, and campus functions. His accordion pepped up many college events. He also played the organ in Pittsburgh's famous Buhl Planetarium, a project of The Buhl Foundation of Pittsburgh for which Charles F. Lewis, Alpha (Allegheny), '09, serves as director.

WITH GOOD DELTS

Looking Back

Hundreds of Delts will receive their sheepskins during May and June and as they read these scrolls in a moment of triumph there will come an empty feeling of heart; there will come a moment of loneliness with only the question, "What is ahead?" and that will offer little comfort. There will come the thought of leaving the associations which have developed during the four years of higher education, associations that now seem to be lifelong. There will come the thought of appreciation for having been a part of a group where aims have been to serve as "an adjunct to the system of higher education."

A 1941 graduate wrote shortly following leaving his campus . . . "I miss the Delt house a great deal. It was difficult to leave in June. The house meant a lot to me in my four years at . . . , and it will always mean a great deal to me. Delta Tau Delta did a great job in fitting me for my life's work."

This note is typical of scores received each year from seniors . . . looking back. It is this sort of expression which builds the optimism for that drive ahead toward "that lofty eminence." It makes alumni want to contribute, no matter how busy their schedules. It makes undergraduates want to realize the purpose for which they are on the campus. It makes individuals strive with greater effort. It draws individuals with high aims together, forming groups with standards which force men to step out and meet the future with optimism . . . and continually to "do better."

Looking Ahead

The senior leaving the campus is stepping into a world where his Fraternity will offer him spiritual guidance because he is taking with him, never to be lost unless by his own volition, the beautiful Ritual of Delta Tau Delta.

Many seniors will be unable to follow their plans for a career. Their country needs them . . . and will call them. This gives cause for optimism. Whatever your job these next few months or years, that job can be a steppingstone to that same career . . . only the plan for climbing the ladder will be different. This is a lesson that graduates back through the years have learned . . . the plan may be changed but the spirit in the heart which guides men to success follows the same formula.

It is too late to prevent World War II but it is not too early to plan and build for World Peace. All men, and particularly young men, are by their actions today either building toward that goal of World Peace or are driving the wedge of greed and hate which will make the next generation say as we say, "History repeats itself." Again, . . . it is the spirit of men.

It is said that the willingness to sacrifice brings out the spirit of men. We are all going to sacrifice. Let every Delt make his sacrifices with the willingness that will build optimism in his heart. Let every undergraduate look upon his sacrifices as a contribution to that peace.

Is the spirit exemplified by the Square Badge living or dead in your heart? You have your choice, it can be either. If it is dead in your heart you are not thinking of men. If it is alive, you are thinking as a Good Delt.

Many of the Akron alumni of Δ T Δ have changed their employment status during the past two or three months.

Willis "Bid" Edmund resigned as Akron's director of City Recreation to accept a position on the Personnel Staff of the Goodyear Aircraft.

Jim Fitch has also joined Goodyear Aircraft in helping produce more airplanes for Uncle Sam.

Bill Warmington, was recently inducted into the armed forces. Good luck to Bill.

Robert Stopher, a member of the Akron Beacon Journal editorial staff, gave a very interesting talk at our latest meeting. His subject was "War in the News." Stopher is a Delt from Beta Psi.

On March 12 the Atlanta Alumni Association had its regular monthly alumni meeting. Members of the Georgia Tech Chapter, the University of Georgia Chapter, and the Emory Chapter were invited to attend this meeting. In addition we had a large number of the alumni, who came to hear the final plans for the Southern Division Conference and celebration of Founders Day.

A program of motion picture horse races proved both entertaining and, to a few, profitable.

The election of new officers for the alumni association included Bill Fulghum, president, Bob Griffith, vice-president, Howard Parks, treasurer, and Jack Morrison, secretary. The nominating committee proposing this slate was composed of Paul Potter, chairman, T. I. Miller and Graham McDonald.

The Atlanta Alumni Association joined with the two local undergraduate chapters in serving as hosts to the 1942 Southern Division Conference. The Conference was held in the Biltmore Hotel. Highlights were the Conference Ball and the Conference Banquet which served also as the Atlanta Alumni Chapter's Annual Founders Day Banquet. Dean DeOvies gave an inspiring Founders Day address which was a fitting climax to a successful Conference.

FRITZ ROBERTS

Boston

Eighty good Delts, including undergraduates from Beta Mu and Beta Nu chapters convened at a Founders Day dinner, March 26, at the Hotel Manger for the latest gathering of the Boston Alumni Chapter. This was the second Founders Day that we have celebrated, and it was fully as successful as our initial meeting.

President Bob Wright and our ever-faithful Joe Reynolds were the guiding lights, and they gave us a fine meeting. Feature speaker for the occasion was John Fisher, former Field Secretary of the Fraternity, who not only told us about his work as a Field Secretary, but gave us an up-to-the-minute picture of the central administration of the Fraternity, a subject on which many alumni get rather out of date. It proved to be a most timely and instructive subject for the occasion.

Entertainment was furnished by the Beta Mu Glee Club, winners of the All-Fraternity Sing at Tufts College. The boys entertained us a year ago, and their performance showed us why their vocal accomplishments put them in real demand these days.

Unquestionably, the high-light of the evening was the formal initiation with all the trimmings of two Beta Mu pledges. The Beta Mu initiation team brought back many a memory to the alumni who had not attended an initiation since their undergraduate days.

Although the Founders Day dinner represents the peak of the activities of the Boston Alumni Chapter, we plan to have another meeting this spring, as yet unannounced.

And this summer we plan for the first time to hold a rushing party. With college schedules as mixed up as they are, the chapter feels it should help undergraduate chapters as much as possible by making the name of Delta Tau Delta known among prospective rushees living around this area.

Again, we fail to have a few personal items for THE RAINBOW. We're trying to compile a list of our members going into various branches of the service, but constant additions make it difficult. Our membership roll has decreased because of it, and we want to recognize these Delts who have left us for this reason.

DICK PARKS

Camden

Our news for this issue of THE RAINBOW is quite brief. Most all the boys are busily engaged in defense work or they are up to their necks in their own work so that none of us have been going places or doing things.

With the arrival of the golf season Bud Bottomley and Phil Diehl have taken out their golf clubs, cleaned off the rust and have started in trying to beat old man par.

The writer has been transferred by his company to the Cleveland office, effective April 15, 1942.

All the members of the Camden Alumni Chapter were greatly concerned over the serious illness of Brother Richardson's wife. We understand she is now on the road to recovery.

We sincerely request all Delts in the vicinity of Camden to come to our regular monthly meetings held the last Wednesday of each month at the Walt Whitman Hotel.

Chicago

Nineteen-forty-one for the Chicago Alumni Chapter was an outstanding year due to the very able work of the officers and committee chairmen under the leadership of President Don Snell. A full program of alumni activities was carried on during the year. Emphasis was placed on the Fall Rushing Party, a Delt Employment program, and the Founders Day luncheon in February.

An evening party was held last spring at the Lake Shore Athletic Club. Swimming in the club's pool was followed by an excellent dinner. "Stu" Fox and "Bunker" Bean had charge of this outstanding evening affair. "Bud" MacNamee was chairman of the golf committee which arranged an unusually good golf outing in May. A large number of Chicago Delts attended the Karnea in August.

Our Fall Rushing Party was again held at Brother Sheldon Clark's Rainbow Farm in Barrington. This affair is rapidly gaining a reputation as the best rushing party in the Chicago area each year, due largely to the attractive spaciousness of Rainbow Farm. George Traver was again responsible for the success of this annual function.

The Beta Pi Durbar was held at the Chicago Town and Tennis Club, with the active participation of the Chicago Alumni Chapter. Carl Wolf and Merrill Dwinell arranged a most interesting evening. Just before Christmas, "Shorty" Egan rounded up a number of the brothers who contributed to the Goodfellow Fund, a charity organization sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

Probably the most outstanding contribution of the Chicago Alumni Chapter during the past year was the start of a Delt Employment program, under the able direction of Carl Kuehnle. This plan was explained rather fully in the August, 1941, issue of THE RAINBOW. The committee was successful in every problem presented to it by deserving Delts. One man in particular had his choice of seven positions. Delts who want jobs in the Chicago area or with companies whose personnel department is located here should get in touch with this committee.

Many Chicago Delts are with the armed forces. We are sorry that we can't give a complete list, but among those whom we do know about are:

Orville Dewey is a lieutenant with the Navy, in charge of Naval Intelligence work in Indiana.

Don Cranston is a lieutenant with the Army Military Police, stationed in Chicago so far.

Bill Yeager is in the Army Air Corps.

Ed Peebles is a captain in the Army, Field Artillery.

Bob Fabry is in Officers Training School.

Cliff Burnham is a colonel with the Army Ordnance Department in Chicago. Many more have made application for either the Army or Navy and by the time the next issue of THE RAINBOW is ready, we will try to have a more complete list.

The annual Founders Day Dinner was held the last Saturday noon in February at the Palmer House. Cy Dennis, Dean of the School of Speech, Northwestern University, gave one of the best talks ever given before a fraternity group. His thoughts on present-day education and the "shape of things to come" really opened the eyes of all who were fortunate enough to hear him. We are very sorry that we do not have his speech in full for this publication.

New officers for the coming year were elected at the Founders Day luncheon. They are: President, Stuart K. Fox; treasurer, Karl Digel; secretary, Walter C. Begland; vice-presidents, Jerry Flanigan, Beta Pi; Ross Tullgren, Gamma Beta; Scotty Brubacker, Beta Upsilon; and George Sando, Beta Psi.

WALTER C. BEGLAND

Clarksburg

Our latest meeting was held about two weeks prior to this writing at the Waldo Hotel. An innovation of having the ladies present at the meeting was tried and proved a great success. The meeting was well attended, and being strictly informal was enjoyed by all except the secretary-treasurer who had to make up a deficit with the cashier. Our president, Dr. L. Esker Neal, aided by his lovely wife, presided. We suggest that other alumni chapters might try this plan as it seems to add to the interest of the members.

JOHN LIVINGSTONE
Gamma Delta (West Virginia), '39

Our chapter has been inexpressibly saddened at the loss of Brother John Livingstone who died in the service of his country, April 4. Brother Livingstone was a member of Gamma Delta chapter and received his A.B. Degree from West Virginia University in 1939. At the University he was a cadet officer, a member of Scabbard and Blade (honorary military organization), and manager of the baseball team. Upon his graduation he entered the Army and for a time served as a Ski Instructor at Plattsburg, New York. Brother Livingstone had qualified for a 1st lieutenantancy when he joined the Air Corps. After Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, Brother Livingstone ferried Curtis P40 planes from Rochester, New York to San Diego before being transferred to Australia. Insofar as we know, Brother Livingstone was the first West Virginia Delt to be killed in action and his loss is a grievous blow to the Fraternity and the city.

John's brother, Stanley Livingstone, also a member of Gamma Delta '40, and of our alumni chapter has volunteered his services to the Navy and is expecting his call momentarily.

We received information that another member of our chapter, "Bill" McCue has recently been made a 1st lieutenant in the Air Corps, his advancement being effective as of July 15, 1941. Brother McCue was a member of Gamma Gamma chapter at Dartmouth and graduated in 1941. His present address is Kessler Field, Biloxi, Mississippi.

Our secretary was recently appointed captain in the West Virginia State Guard and several other of the boys are expecting calls to the Army within a short time. The next meeting of our chapter will probably take place in Tokyo or Berlin.

GEORGE W. POST

Cleveland

The Cleveland Alumni Chapter held its annual meeting and Founders Day celebration February 21, at the Alcazar Hotel. More than 100 Delts gathered to hear Brother Carl V. Weygandt, Chief Justice of the Ohio State Supreme Court, William Ganson Rose and Hebert Spring deliver interesting and inspiring addresses. Robert Godfrey was toastmaster and did an excellent job of keeping the party moving at top speed. The actives of Zeta chapter joined with the alumni for this party to celebrate the initiation of the splendid class of young men who had received their Square Badges on that day. "Bud" Latimer, Zeta president, before introducing the initiates, paid a glowing tribute to Russ Griffin, the chapter adviser. During the business session which preceded the oratory the following officials were elected for the alumni chapter: President, Gordon C. Nichols; Vice-president, James P. Riley; Secretary, Randall M. Ruhlman; and Treasurer, Jack Bartels.

The party itself was a real get-together, and a farewell party for C. D. Russell, who was leaving for a war production job in Texas, and Harry Howland who was departing for his home prior to entering military service. A number of the brothers made the trip to Cleveland from distant points to attend this function. There were representatives from Columbus, Akron, Sandusky, Warren, and other Ohio cities, with the long distance honors going to Bob Hompe from Philadelphia and Probate Judge Kellogg from Medina.

Our recent activities, exclusive of the February 21 party, have been limited to the Friday luncheons. In spite of the general speed-up in the tempo of our lives the Cleveland Delts still find, or take, time for these meetings and the attendance has been normal.

On March 13, Lt. Commander Sam Lind, U.S.N., was the speaker at our luncheon meeting. Dr. Lind, who is located at the Great Lakes Naval Training Base, was in town on leave, and in spite of an extremely busy schedule managed to get to our meeting. In 1935 Dr. Lind organized a specialized medical unit for the Navy, and on last December 23 was called into active service at the Great Lakes Naval Training Base.

Merthyn Thomas is also a Lt. Commander with the same unit.

A committee composed of Bill Barry and Carl Ertle has been appointed to list Cleveland Delts who are in any branch of the armed forces. It is our desire to keep in touch with all of these boys, sending them our Bulletins and other notices and to render any services which are possible.

Under the heading of "What Some of the Delts in Cleveland Are Doing" we can report:

Mack Yost has just returned from a vacation trip to the West Coast.

Bill Watts was recently named Manager of the Colonnade Restaurant in the Rockefeller Building.

C. D. Russell becomes Secretary of the Texarkana Defense Corporation.

Frank "Pat" Moran is reported engaged to the very attractive Mary Elizabeth Pierce.

Don Pattison has been named Sales Manager for the Warner-Swasey Company.

Ben Fiery is Chairman of the Cleveland Bar Association War Aid Committee.

Bill Hecker is head of the Euclid School Board.

Gordon Nichols was re-elected Mayor of Chagrin Falls.

Bob Weaver is a member of the Mayor's Committee to raise $100,000 for Civilian Defense.

Dr. Frank Ferris was the principal speaker for the 88th year Banquet for the Y.M.C.A.

Published handicaps rate Frank Pelton as one of the leading golfers in this district.

Dick Overton is working with OPM in Washington. He expects to have his specific job finished in the near future and hopes to return to Cleveland.

The Cleveland Delt Bulletin is now in its eighth year of continuous publication. This monthly news sheet has always been well received by local Delts and has helped to keep interest at a high pitch. In that regard we would like to mention and compliment Don Van Buren for his very excellent Columbus Alumni News Letter. There are a number of Cleveland Delts located in Columbus and we particularly appreciate the opportunity of following their activities.

As we have stated in other news letters, it is the desire of the Cleveland Alumni Chapter to have all Delts in this area participate in our affairs and enjoy the fellowship of our Fraternity functions. We will be glad to mail our Bulletin and other notices to any Delt if he will send his name and address to the Secretary.

RANDALL M. RUHLMAN

Columbus

Our regular Wednesday noon luncheon meeting at the University Club, April 8, was the best attended of the current series starting last September. Twenty good Delts were present—at least a dozen more telephoned regrets.

We were happy to have Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt (Wooster, '12) as a guest of honor, and of course were more than pleased with his informal remarks on Delt meetings he has attended recently. The Chief Justice reported the Northern Division Conference at Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Michigan, on March 7, was the best planned and most instructive of any conferences he has ever attended. Brothers Zimmer and Frank represented the Columbus Alumni Chapter at this conference, and we record with pleasure that Clemens R. Frank (Western Reserve, '19) was reelected President of the Northern Division of $\Delta T \Delta$ for another term.

Sharing the speaking honors with Chief Justice Weygandt at this Wednesday luncheon meeting was Robert J. Kegerreis (Ohio State, '43), recently reelected President of Beta Phi Chapter, Ohio State University. Brother Kegerreis made a plea for continued alumni support of Beta Phi activities—calling attention to the increased need of alumni help and cooperation in rushing activities this spring and summer. He extended a cordial invitation to all Delts to participate in the formal spring initiation by Beta Phi of ten pledges at 5:00 p.m. Monday, April 27, at the Shelter, 80 Thirteenth Avenue, Columbus—dinner at 6:30.

J. Robert Tanner (Ohio State, '24) called at our office last week. He is practicing law in London, Ohio, with his father, John Tanner (Ohio State, '00).

Football—Ohio State football teams held their first spring scrimmage Saturday, April 11. On the red team Delts Don McCafferty played left tackle and Bill Vickroy center. On the white team Les Horvath did very well at left half. The Sunday Columbus Dispatch of April 12, had this to say:

"Les Horvath, who weighs only 157 pounds actually, but shows a ton of courage, stole the show as left halfback with the second string Whites. He ran brilliantly and his rugged defense brought cheers from the 100 or more fans who watched the 'closed' scrimmage in the typical football weather."

John Peters (Ohio Wesleyan, '41) has joined the Army. He reported at Fort Hayes Monday, April 20.

DON C. VAN BUREN

Dallas

On the occasion of Founders Day the Dallas Alumni held a Banquet at the Melrose Hotel. Thirty members attended and Albert S. Johnson spoke on the history of our Fraternity's progress from its founding up to its present position among modern fraternities.

Brother George Peak, returned to Dallas from several years of world traveling presented Brother Zach Brinkerhoff, the assistant secretary, the original charter of the Dallas Alumni Chapter. Peak received the charter in 1915 during the days the Central Office was in New York City and recently discovered the document had been in his files some twenty-seven years.

Brothers Roundsaville, Betzer, Jones, Collins, Peterson, and Cook have answered the call and are now on active duty with the armed forces.

Our next alumni get-together date is May 11, 1942.

LLOYD BIRDWELL

Denver

With the present turmoil in national affairs, the Denver Alumni Chapter is proceeding on a much more informal basis than ever before. Uncle Sam periodically finds it necessary to remove active alumni from our chapter and place them on his lists—then too, many haven't waited to be called but rather have volunteered. Just such an occurrence in the past few days has necessitated a quick change in your reporters because the regular secretary, Edward Sproul, is now on active duty with the U.S. Navy as a petty officer.

To list all of the Denver Alumni Chapter members now on active duty in the country's armed forces would consume more space than practical. However, the following are a few of the many: Allen Hiestler and John Hickman in the Navy, William Moody, William H. Southard, Bill Reno, a Captain in the Quartermaster Corp., are in the Army. All of these men are Beta Kappa, Colorado, alumni.

The Denver Ordnance Plant of the Remington Arms Co., is under the direct command of Major Seth Wiard, Upsilon Chapter. Two other Delts, Boyd Edwards, Beta Tau, and Don Mealy, Beta Kappa, are busy at the plant helping to keep production levels at a peak.

The black-outs on the Pacific Coast resulted in Leon C. Moore, Delta Xi, former Manager of Electrical Products in Seattle, transferring his talents to the Office of Production Management as Advisor on Electrical Illumination. Many wonder why one needs an advisor on illumination during a black-out, but anyway that's his title.

The Denver Chapter is happy to welcome Kenneth Penfold back to the "wonderful West." Ken is known to many of you as one of the better traveling secretaries for the Fraternity during the last few years. However, he has relinquished his duties as a Fraternity secretary to assume the new position as a statistician and accountant with the C. A. Norgren Co., in Denver.

The Western Division Conference in February was particularly well attended by delegates and actives from all of the chapters in the division. Although Beta Kappa Chapter was the host of the Conference, the Denver alumni attempted to help in any way possible. The principal contribution of the alumni was the staging of a formal initiation ceremony preceding the Founders Day Banquet, at which ceremony the two outstanding pledges of the Beta Kappa were initiated by the Alumni Initiation Team. The ceremony was received with such enthusiasm that it was decided to make it a yearly occurrence preceeding each Founders Day Banquet. The alumni who participated on the team were Hubert Wolf, George Phillips, Homer McMillan, L. Allen Beck, Bill Williams, Blaine Ballah, Jr., Ralph Hubbard and Neal Smith.

Officers for the coming year were elected at the Founders Day Banquet and are as follows: George Phillips, President; E. Neal Smith, Vice President; and Edward Sproul, Secretary-Treasurer.

Active plans are being drawn for spring rushing in the Denver area, and it is hoped that the alumni will be able to convince many more young men that Delta Tau Delta is the finest fraternity in the world.

E. NEAL SMITH

Ft. Lauderdale

EDITOR'S NOTE: F. Laird Rickard, the Ft. Lauderdale Alumni Chapter's dependable reporter since the installation of the chapter, is now a lieutenant, j.g., in the U. S. Navy. He had left home for the service before the deadline so could not give us a newsletter. Good luck and we hope you will be back doing your reporter's job real soon.

Fort Worth

The Fort Worth Alumni Chapter was most delighted to have had the following actives from Gamma Iota with us at our luncheon, April 3: J. C. Nelson, Bob Hobbs, Beverly West, and Pledge Bill Hulsey. We are always glad to have any of the Brothers with us.

We have just had an election of officers for the new year 1942 and the following will head our association: Harry McGown, president, Gamma Iota; Jess Norman, vice-president, Gamma Iota; and Homer Woodruff, secretary-treasurer, Beta Epsilon. We are already making plans to assist our local actives in their rush activities this summer, and hope to be of real help to them. Several suggestions have been advanced for "outings" that only real "Delts" can give.

We have lost several of our alumni to Uncle Sam. Austin F. Anderson, Dr. Sim Hulsey, and Dr. Lester D. Burrough are now serving with the armed forces. We wish them well, and join with them in a fight for victory that must come to preserve the American way of life and all that it stands for.

Brother J. C. Nelson gave us an interesting discussion of the condition of the chapter at the University of Texas, and the fine record of achievement it has attained. We all enjoyed his talk.

We are planning on a picnic for our next meeting, the third week in May, and at that time discuss helping our actives in Fort Worth with their summer rushing. We plan to have some pictures for the next issue.

H. D. WOODRUFF

Fox River Valley

The Fox River Valley Delt Alumni met with the local chapter, Delta Nu, in celebrating Founders Day, March 26, at the chapter house. With President Hedges of Delta Nu extending the alumni a welcome hand, the old boys really enjoyed themselves. Wally Patten and Dick Garth of the active chapter lead the Delta Nu choir in singing "Old Man River" and "Sing to the Royal Purple." It sounded like a professional performance.

The alumni were lead by Ralph Gowan, who presented a short but timely talk on "The Undergraduate's Position During the Emergency." The theme centered on the need for leadership and initiative in the present crisis.

Following the banquet the men enjoyed an evening playing cards and talking over old times.

CLIFF BURTON

Houston

The president of the Houston Alumni Chapter, Lt. Col. J. Clexton Parks, Texas '15, has been transferred by the army to San Antonio, making about 90 per cent of the officers of the chapter now in war work, and about the same percentage of the younger blood of the alumni.

For the duration, it appears that meetings will be seldom as those remaining here seem to be air raid wardens, Red Cross teachers and the like with heavier duties and less time for personal affairs than ever before.

However, we will try to make this column a gathering place of items about the brothers, and until the writer is away from here himself, it will be a pleasure to pick up as many items as possible hoping that some of the boys in uniform at many near and far places will enjoy hearing about present whereabouts of the brothers.

James F. Noel is with the Marines and stationed at San Diego.

Ott Wymer is pushing War Bonds now with offices in First National Bank Building.

Dr. Alfred E. Diggles, dentist here, has a son trying to get into the Navy Air Corps. Looks as though he cannot be rushed for $\Delta T \Delta$ until after the war.

Paul A. Langford, officer in World War I, is a lawyer with Baker, Botts, Andrews and Wharton here and an air raid warden instructor.

Ed Richardson, who is with Brother R. A. Johnston's oil firm here, has been to New Orleans lately checking on his application for U. S. Navy.

Dan Johnston is a flying cadet with U. S. Army at Kelly Field.

Edward M. Griffith is at Ft. Riley, Kansas, in officers school for Military Police.

Silas B. Ragsdale is Editor in Chief of The Galveston News, oldest daily newspaper in Texas.

J. O. "Jack" Beardson has moved to Houston and is with the Humble Oil Company.

Everett R. Filley, Jr., has made application to U. S. Marine Corps for officer training.

J. C. Baldwin has opened an office in Shell Building, Houston, handling some oil properties.

CARL BRECHT

Indianapolis

Among the local Delt Alumni in the armed forces are the following:

Capt. Alfred S. Coffin, Ft. Monmouth, Redbank, N.J.; Corp. A. T. Isaacs, Med. Det., 38th Div., Camp Shelby, Mississippi; Maj. Glenn E. Comstock, Camp Shelby, Mississippi; Capt. Robert Huncilman, Ft. Benning, Georgia; Lieut. Richard Weidig, Convoy School; Lieut. John P. Voliva, Camp Gordon, Georgia; Lieut. Arnold Berg, Camp Chaffee, Arkansas; Private Wm. Lieb, address unknown; Seaman Richard A. Hutchison, South Atlantic Fleet; Private James W. Hutchison, Canal Zone; Private Carter Tharpe, Finance School Ft. Harrison, Indianapolis.

This is only a partial list of course and we would welcome information regarding others.

There are a lot of us "on tap" so to speak. However, two of the boys who have enlisted and are awaiting assignments are "Bud" Tucker and Bowman Downey.

Kurt Pantzer recently addressed the Indianapolis Junior Chamber of Commerce. He was introduced by Edward Humston, late of the Butler Chapter, who was in charge of the program.

Things have been happening to the Gene Hibbs'. Last month a nine-pound son arrived (and was promptly pledged). At the same time pappy was rating a writeup in THE RAINBOW for his excellent job of editing a new Delt song book.

Remember your chapter needs a lift on the rushing this spring. There is nothing more important than lining up good Delt material and it's a job we can all help do!

Indianapolis has been awarded the Northern Division Conference for next year. The alumni chapter will be the hosts and we intend to do a bang up job! Our members attending at Hillsdale this year were John Cartwright, chapter adviser at DePauw; Francis Hughes, Northern Division treasurer; and Hugh Shields, comptroller and manager of the Central Office.

There was some elegant singing at the Indiana State Dance and Banquet. The DePauw Chapter was as good as always and had perfected a stirring arrangement of martial airs. Then during dance intermission Seward Baker, Ruell Moore and Virgil Hebert sang a medley of Delt songs. They sing as it should be done too!

April 14, at the Riley Hotel, we had a dinner and get together. The Riley is famous for food and we had several surprises lined up for entertainment.

The alumni chapter has many plans for the balance of the year. More night meetings, some with the ladies present. A golf shindig this summer. A Pledge Banquet next fall.

The principal speaker at our annual Founders Day Banquet was Delt William E. Jenner, president pro tem of the Indiana State Senate. Fred Hill was chairman of the banquet and did a fine job.

SEWARD A. BAKER

Jacksonville

The Jacksonville Alumni Chapter of $\Delta T \Delta$ had one of its most outstanding Founders Day Banquets this year, March 21, in the Seminole Hotel. The principal speaker was Alvan E. Duerr, past national president of $\Delta T \Delta$ and at the present time director of public relations of Manufacturers Trust Company of New York.

Other persons high in the Fraternity who were present were N. Ray Carroll, also a past national president of the Fraternity, Hugh Shields of Indianapolis, Comptroller of the Fraternity, and Dr. George F. Weber of Gainesville, chapter adviser of Delta Zeta Chapter. The affair was attended by active members of Delta Zeta Chapter from Gainesville who contributed to the program of the evening.

The banquet was attended by about sixty Delt and ladies, including from the armed forces John Polk of Texas and Robert Garlick from George Washington University.

In addition to Mr. Duerr's address, Brothers Carroll and Weber gave short but inspiring talks regarding the Fraternity.

At the conclusion of the program the members of the active chapter led in community singing of Delt songs.

G. W. BOTTS

Kansas City

Kansas City members of $\Delta T \Delta$ celebrated the 83rd anniversary of the Fraternity with their traditional Founders Day Banquet held March 6, at the University Club. Making the occasion a gala one were sixty members of the local chapter aided and abetted by fifteen actives from Gamma Kappa who made the 130-mile trip from Columbia and several from Gamma Tau at Lawrence.

After wading through one of those tender, tempting Kansas City steaks for which the University Club is justly famous, Walt Hausmann, the new prexy, introduced Martin Dickinson, who gave the scholarly report you would expect from a Phi Beta Kappa lawyer, on the Western Division Meeting at Boulder a few days previous. Following this, Walter introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Tom Collins of the Kansas City Journal. And if you think Bob Hope is funny . . . wait 'til you've heard Collins! After talking for forty minutes, the guy was more popular than the after-dinner speaker who said, "Waiter, give me the check."

And that's popular!

ERNIE WHITNEY

Los Angeles

With more than two hundred fifty alumni and active members of Delta Tau Delta present, the annual Founders Day Banquet of the Fraternity was held the evening of March 6, at the University Club. Loyal alumni from as far south as San Diego and as far north as Santa Barbara, gathered for the evening's festivities, while the active chapters of both Delta Iota (U.C.L.A.) and Delta Pi (U.S.C.) were present en masse.

The evening was accorded a success from the opening ceremony when Dr. James Hamilton Lash, pastor of the Hollywood Congregational Church, delivered an invocation for all members of the Fraternity now serving in the armed forces of the nation, to the moment of adjournment.

The featured speaker was Brother Neil Petree, president of Barker Bros., who gave a highly interesting and inspiring talk on the efforts of the retailer to cooperate with the government in regulating prices. Neil has been making monthly trips to Washington where conferences have been held with Mr. Leon Henderson so his subject was not only familiar but timely. Brother Howard Mills, who has just been appointed California Administrator for Defense Saving, in his inimitable style introduced Brother Petree.

In an effort to build up the libraries at U.C.L.A. and U.S.C. the alumni brought to the meeting approximately one hundred books, which will eventually be distributed between the two chapters. A name plate is to be inserted in the front of each book with the donor's name and the name of his chapter.

With much sorrow announcement is made of the passing to the Chapter Eternal of Brother Owen C. Orr, Beta Gamma '07. Owen was always ready with a helping hand and sound advice and was constantly alert with respect to the welfare and betterment of the Fraternity. His passing leaves a big gap in the front line of the Fraternity stalwarts. It was at our last annual dinner that he became a member of the Distinguished Service Chapter. He was Secretary of the Alumni for two years, Treasurer for four years. I am sorry to close this report to you with this sad news.

EARL C. ADAMS

New York

The Founders Day Banquet was held February 6, 1942, at the Ambassador Hotel. An enthusiastic group of alumni assembled to renew old friendships. Whenever the New York Delt assemble at this annual banquet, it is a festive affair and this year was no exception.

The highlight of the evening was the conferring of membership in the Distinguished Service Chapter to

Tulsa Alumni Greet President Hoffman

The Tulsa, Oklahoma, Delts heard that the city's Chamber of Commerce had invited Paul G. Hoffman to address its Annual Banquet. The Alumni Chapter immediately went to work and planned a reception for $\Delta\tau\Delta$'s president which stole much of his time from the main show in Tulsa, January 14.

Delts were on the reception committee which met Hoffman's train. A strictly Delt reception was held from three to five o'clock in the afternoon. At the banquet members of $\Delta\tau\Delta$ were asked to stand and be recognized in honor of the Fraternity's leader.

Delts from distant points throughout the state numbered among those in the audience of 1,600 Tulsa citizens and guests who heard Mr. Hoffman's address, "Dual Date With Destiny."

Reading from top:

GEORGE CAMPBELL, BILL SUTTON, JOHN WAMSLEY, and BOB BATES are caught by the photographer as they turn from the refreshment table.

The photographer found CLARK TAYLOR, H. F. MACDOWELL, EUGENE BUCHANAN, and MAJOR PERRINE having a lively discussion in one corner of the reception hall.

Below: Banquet group which was addressed by PRESIDENT HOFFMAN.

Alvan E. Duerr. The presentation was made by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes who was also principal speaker. It was both an impressive occasion and talk.

It is always a customary procedure at our banquet to have Dave Reeder call the chapters. It is a rare occasion when there is not a response from one chapter. There has always been great rivalry between Upsilon and Omega in the number of alumni at the banquet. This year Upsilon took the honors. The latter chapter always has an enthusiastic and loyal group of alumni present at our meetings.

Our monthly luncheon meetings have been changed from Thursday to the third Wednesday in each month. Some alumnus generally speaks at these meetings. At the March meeting, Jim Hodges spoke on black-out lighting. We learned a lot about the dangers of striking a match to light a cigarette. At our April meeting, Brother Hemphill told us a great many things about asbestos. At our next meeting, May 20, Walter Morris will talk on telephone sterilization. More alumni should attend these luncheon meetings. Election of officers for the succeeding year will be held at the May meeting.

JOHN M. MONSTREAM

Philadelphia

Beginning with January our monthly luncheon meetings have been held at Kugler's Restaurant, Chestnut Street, east of Broad.

On Saturday, March 7, at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, the Philadelphia alumni celebrated Founders Day by holding the Annual Banquet jointly with the undergraduates of Omega Chapter. It was unanimously agreed, by those who attended, that Frank Cornell, chairman of the banquet committee, had arranged an outstanding program for the occasion. Dave Reeder, vice-president of the Eastern Division, presided as toastmaster and introduced the speakers in his entertaining style. Dr. G. M. Piersol, Omega '02, spoke on "The Fraternity," directing his remarks largely to the undergraduates. As guest speaker, Mr. Melvin K. Whiteleather, columnist and former European news correspondent, gave us his personal observations of the dictators and the events in Central Europe leading up to the present.

Special entertainment numbers and the rivalries between undergraduate groups kept the program going at a lively tempo.

HERBERT RADER

Pittsburgh

Another Founders Day Banquet and a good one too—when over 125 Pittsburgh Delts got together, March 28, at The Roosevelt Hotel, and listened to one of the finest programs ever put on here.

Our Toastmaster was Judge Joseph A. Richardson, Gamma Sigma '15—and our speaker was Doctor Ralph Cooper Hutchison, President of the Washington and Jefferson College. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a service flag to each of the three Pittsburgh Chapters.

Many Pittsburgh Delts are now with the colors—some 80 of the 500 Delts residing in this area.

One alumnus, Charles F. Gimber, Gamma Sigma '38—was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross for his rescue of nine men, who had been forced to bail out of a bomber, far out at sea off Hawaii. Delts from all corners are setting up many fine records with Uncle Sam.

Rochester

Sorry that we have no news to report and that we did not have a Founders Day Banquet, but everyone seems so busy in defense work. However, we do have a new Delt here, Glen M. Reem, manager of Guardian Life. He attended Hillsdale in 1913-14.

DICK WILBUR

St. Louis

Our sincere sympathy to Bill Root, Minnesota, upon the loss of his son Dick. Former star football man at Washington, St. Louis, he was killed in action in the Philippines December 10, while a fighter pilot.

Frank Bell, North Carolina, was recently transferred to Chattanooga, Tennessee, with the U. S. Geological Survey.

The past three months have been big ones for former Corp. George Seielstad, Albion. Without letting any of the boys in on the secret, George got leave for the New Year holidays and on January 1 married Gretchen Stakel, Kappa Delta, Albion classmate, which we understand is somewhat of a tradition for the Delta and Kappa's at Albion. In February George was promoted to Technical Sergeant, then to Line Sergeant. In March he and his bride departed for Ft. Benning where he will attend Officers' Training School.

Don Holt, North Carolina has been appointed Chairman of Safety Committee for the North Carolina Cotton Mills in their annual safety drive.

Sgt. Will Beck, Lawrence, reported by card that he is in good health.

Earl Page, Missouri, returned from a business trip to Florida reporting that he had seen some evidence of the submarine activity mentioned in the papers.

Don Holt and George Buchanan, North Carolina, spent a very pleasant week end together and visited the University for a few hours.

To any Delts in the Service in St. Louis or vicinity, we will be glad to have you join us at lunch any Monday.

G. H. BUCHANAN, JR.

Seattle

The Seattle alumni group started off the year with an annual meeting at Gamma Mu chapter house. Recognizing that the active chapters are facing greater problems because of the war the alumni elected a five-man board to control alumni activities for the ensuing year. This board is composed of Jim Ryan, Eddie Feek, Frank Knowlton, John Luker, and Winston Brown. The board then chose alumni officers outside the board as follows: Ernest Crane, president; Carlos Flohr, vice-president; and R. F. Watt, secretary.

Alumni luncheons are held regularly every Tuesday noon at the Arctic Club with an average attendance of about eighteen. The luncheon, held April 14, brought out nearly fifty Delt alumni to listen to Pest Welch, the University of Washington football coach, and line coach Herb Duggans.

A young married group of Delt alumni has been organized by a few of the more recent grads and their wives who hold simple dinner parties at one another's homes weekly. This crowd of young married Delt alumni sponsored a dancing party at the New Washington Hotel, April 11, to which all Delts were invited.

Sunday afternoon, April 12, Gamma Mu initiated six men at a very impressive ceremony.

Following the initiation the Delts attended their banquet at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel where John Nelson, president of the active chapter, presided as toastmaster. Principle speaker of the evening was Delt alumnus DeWitt Williams. Brother Williams stressed the point that the boys now coming up in the chapter are the ones who will have to make a fight for the preservation of fraternities. He called attention to articles that have appeared in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer criticizing the Greek-letter fraternities system. Other Delt alumni who addressed the boys were Ernie Crane, president of the Seattle alumni, and Lane Summers, chapter adviser.

Plans are now being laid for the annual Delt golf picnic which will be held in May.

Wilmington

The Wilmington alumni met on Founders Day at a dinner at the Hob Tea Room. Twenty-two Delts attended, which made a fair showing for the Wilmington group. We were fortunate in having as our guest James S. Guernsey, Headmaster of Tower Hill School, who gave us a very interesting talk on the various phases of education in time of war.

As Founders Day closes our fiscal year, the election of officers for the coming year was held with the following results: President, James O. Otis, Jr., Duke '35; vice-president, W. Murray Metton, Lehigh '25; secretary, Everett W. Rowe, Cornell '08; and treasurer, Spencer Hukill, Brown '25.

The war conditions do not seem to cause many changes in our group, but we do note the promotion of William George Dukek, Lehigh '38, to Captain, as of March 1, and his transfer to the Radford Ordnance Works, Radford, Va.

John W. Eckleberry, Ohio Wesleyan '08, was recently elected Chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Delaware Harvard Club.

James B. Castner, M.I.T. '26, was recently promoted to position of Process Manager of Military Explosives Division of the DuPont Co.

Frank S. MacGregor, M.I.T. '07, is now Assistant General Manager of the R & H Department of the DuPont Co.

James O. Otis, Jr., Duke '34, our new alumni association president, has just been promoted to Assistant Sales Manager of the National Vulcanized Fibre Company of Wilmington, Del.

As a reminder to our own group, and any and every Delt who may visit Wilmington, we have made a change in our luncheon hour on Mondays. The time has been extended from twelve to one-thirty. This will give the late-comers a chance to meet with those whose lunch hour starts at twelve. The Hob Tea Room is in the Delaware Trust Building, so you visiting Delts make yourselves known to the Hostess, ask for the Delts on any Monday and I guarantee that you will be welcomed.

AMERICA'S OLDEST AND MOST PROGRESSIVE FRATERNITY JEWELERS

A RING FOR IDENTIFICATION

In these days of world conflict a ring is worn for identification. It enhances the appearance of your hand—and gives instant recognition wherever you go and identifies you with your fraternity.

WEAR YOUR RING PROUDLY.

Stationery samples sent to interested members. Frequent letters to your friends in the Service build strong morale and are a very definite defense contribution. Be Patriotic.

The 1942 Edition of the Balfour Blue Book carries a fine selection of rings as well as other gifts and favors.

★ Huge massive rings for men—or fine gold filigree for women.

★ Theme rings that suggest past associations.

★ Fine designs to show your good taste and discrimination.

★ Write for your own free copy on a government post card today.

See the special line of Chapter Gifts for men called to Service. The Balfour representative will show you these special gifts on his next call.
