One Moment, Please

Our cover pictures Merrill Hall, the heart of the campus at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio, where Delta Omega Chapter will be installed on February 24 and 25, 1950. Delta Tau Delta's entry this month will be the occasion for a great Delt reunion, culminated by the traditional installation banquet on Saturday night. Complete details of this event will be provided in the May issue of THE RAINBOW.

Our first story for February gives an account of the large number of Delts who have achieved outstanding records in one of the world's most honored professions—journalism. No doubt several names which properly belong in these pages have been omitted, but, as they say in the movies, any such omission is purely unintentional. Even with this reservation, we believe the reader will be proud of the Fraternity's substantial contribution to this vocation.

Karneia stock is booming this year. The General Chairman on Page 55 gives you a prevue of what Columbus is stirring up for next August 23, 24, 25, and 26, when Ohio's capital city rolls out the carpet for the Half-century Karnea. Early returns from throughout the Purple's broad expanse presage the largest Delt gathering in our 92 years.

Other features in this number point up a Delt cartoonist winning new acclaim, a Delt Christmas that makes the Creed more meaningful, two coaches of football who are both producing results, and a Delt architect with 63 years of useful service behind him. Generous contributions from the undergraduate chapters and alumni complete our Founders Day issue.

Delts of the Fourth Estate

"THE PRIMARY FUNCTION of newspapers," according to the creed of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, "is to communicate to the human race what its members do, feel, and think.

"Journalism, therefore, demands of its practitioners the widest range of intelligence, of knowledge, and of experience, as well as natural and trained powers of observation and reasoning. To its opportunities as a chronicle are indissolubly linked its obligations as teacher and interpreter."

Journalism has been called a profession of public service, closer to life as it is actually lived than any other influence. Expressing the drama of human progress and mortal folly as it is enacted from day to day, the newspaper has become the world's most effective vehicle for the advancement of civilization.

The Fourth Estate, Fleet Street, gentlemen of the press, newsmen—call them what you like—they follow a proud profession. No other group has a higher code of ethics. No other group demands more of its disciples. No other group has finer esprit de corps, commands

Edmund Burke said that there were three Estates in Parliament, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder there sat a "Fourth Estate" more important far than they all.

greater respect, or feels its obligations more keenly.

Many Delts have wielded the flaming sword of the press since the day the first Square Badge appeared. One of the eight Founders of Delta Tau Delta was for many years a newspaper editor. The second President of the Fraternity followed the newspaper craft and pioneered one of its many by-products—the trade journal.

In modern history, Delts who have played a major role in American journalism are numerous. You will discover in these paragraphs two Pulitzer prize winners, a nominee for another Pulitzer prize, the president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, a founder of Sigma Delta Chi, three presidents of the National Press Club, a Pulitzer traveling scholar, and a recipient of the Theodore Roosevelt Medal "for distinguished public service as a private citizen." You will find 27 of these Delts listed in the tomes of Who's Who.

Many are editors of great metropolitan dailies. Chief among these is BENJAMIN M. MCKELWAY, George Washington, '19, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Like most of the Delts we present to you here, he started as a reporter, working his way up to the top via assignments as city editor, news editor, managing editor, associate editor, and finally editor in chief. He served briefly with the Washington Times, then the New Britain Herald (Connecticut), landing with the Washington Star in 1921, where he has remained. He has been editor of that publication since 1946. Mr. McKelway is a trustee of George Washington University.

Another Delt editor in the same locality is HENRY T. CLAUS, Tufts, '05, president of the News-Journal Company of Wilmington, Delaware, and editor of the News-Journal. Mr. Claus started with the Boston Transcript in 1905, became its editor in 1925. He remained with the Transcript until 1939, when he took over the Wilmington daily.

One of the outstanding newspaper editors of the South is L. K. NICHOLSON, Tulane, '03, who has been president of the Times-Picayune Publishing Company of New Orleans since 1918. His brother, Y. P. NICHOLSON, Virginia, '03, was for many years vice-president of the company, until his death in 1948.

Death claimed one of America's greatest newspaper editors on December 11, 1949. He was EDWARD T. LEECH, Colorado, '14, editor of the Pittsburgh Press, whose biographical sketch was carried in the last issue of THE RAINBOW. Known as the "boy wonder of the Scripps Howard chain," he had been a full-fledged editor since he was 23 years of age.

On the day following his death, it was announced by Dr. Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the School of Journalism at Columbia University and chairman of the Pulitzer Prize Award Committee, that Mr. Leech had been nominated for a Pulitzer prize.

In a telegram Dr. Ackerman said, "Last week, Friday, I received a personal letter from Bernard M. Baruch nominating him for a Pulitzer prize. We honor and respect his memory as a great crusading editor."

The nomination by Mr. Baruch, the nation's famed elder statesman, was made on the basis of Mr. Leech's series of articles, "Utopia on the Rocks," describing British Socialism in action.

Another of the great Delt editors of all time was CHESTER H. ROWELL, Michigan, '88, who died in 1948. From 1898 to 1920 he was editor and publisher of the Fresno Republican (California), and from 1932 to 1939 he was editor of the San Francisco Chronicle.

Truly a citizen of the world, Mr. Rowell figured prominently in international affairs. He was a trustee of the World Peace Foundation from 1932 to 1939, prominent in Republican politics, having served at one time as a member of the Republican National Campaign Committee, and a delegate to both the International Congress of Penal Law in Brussels (1924) and the International Labor Conference in Geneva (1939). He was a regent of the University of California and a prime figure in multitudinous other state, national, and international events. In 1940 he was awarded the Theodore Roosevelt Medal "for distinguished public service as a private citizen."

Delta Tau Delta claims a co-founder of Sigma Delta Chi, famous national journalistic fraternity, in Editor WILLIAM M. GLENN, DePauw, '10, who was also the first local president of Sigma Delta Chi at DePauw University, birthplace of the fraternity. Mr. Glenn has been editor of the following papers: Morning Sentinel (Orlando, Florida), West Palm Beach Post and Times, and Orlando Times. He is now associate editor of the Miami Beach Sun-Star. A past president of the Florida Press Association and the Associated Press Club of Florida, he is a member of the advisory board of the University of Florida School of Journalism.

LINWOOD I. NOYES, M. I. T., '17, is cofounder of the Ironwood Daily Globe (Michigan), of which he has been publisher since 1919, and officer of two other metropolitan dailies. He is a past president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association and of the Inland Daily Press Association. He is community chairman of the Committee on Economic Development and a member of the committee negotiating a code for newspapers.

WILLIAM A. BAILEY, Baker, '05, is editor and manager of the Kansas City Kansan (Kansas). He has held that position since 1921. He is also president of the KCKN Broadcasting Company and an ex-president of the Kansas Press Association.

A well-known newspaperman of the past was ROBERT F. PAINE, Buchtel, '77. He started early by being editor of the Cleveland Press from 1882 to 1902. He was subsequently general manager of the Scripps-McRae Press Association, editorial secretary of the Scripps papers, chief editorial writer of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, and manager of the Pacific Coast Service and the Paine Service. He died in 1940.

Managing editor of the Baltimore Sun is MILES H. WOLFF, North Carolina, '19. He has been with the Sun since 1934. Prior to that time he was Baltimore bureau chief of the Associated Press.

WILLIAM C. DEMING, Allegheny, '90, was editor and publisher of the Wyoming State Tribune Leader from 1901 to 1937 and an author of several books. He was president of the board of trustees of the University of Wyoming and president of the U. S. Civil Service Commission from 1923 to 1930. He died in 1949.

One of the most respected medium-circulation dailies in Ohio is the Findlay Republican-Courier. Its editor for many years has been RUSSELL L. HEMINGER, Ohio Wesleyan, '14.

The Fourth Estate's most colorful personage is the foreign correspondent. The reportorial gang-plank leads him to the remote corners of the earth, where he writes the living history of civilization. Names that most of us know only through textbooks—Bombay, Teheran, Shanghai, Omaha Beach, Okinawa, Lisbon, Tel Aviv—have been forwarding addresses for many famous Delts.

Dean of all foreign correspondents is FREDERICK PALMER, Allegheny, '93, whose globe-trotting and reporting cover a half century. He started in 1895 as a London correspondent. He covered the Greek War in 1897, the Klondike and the Philippines in 1897-98, and he returned around the world with Admiral Dewey in 1899. Then he was back to the Philippines and with the expedition for the relief of Peking in 1900. He covered the Macedonian insurrection of 1903, and he was with the first Japanese army in the field for Collier's Weekly and the London Times from 1904 to 1905. He saw the Turkish Revolution in 1909 and the Balkan War in 1912. He was the only accredited American press correspondent with the British army and fleet from 1914 to 1916.

In World War I he went to France with the A. E. F. as press censor, and he later traveled both Europe and Asia. Unable to resist the call of World War II, he went into action with the British Army in France in 1940, and he covered the German and the Pacific campaigns with the American forces.

Colonel Palmer has written many books based on his newspaper experience. The most recent was It Can Be Done (1944). His Fraternity, too, has claimed his services; he was national librarian of Delta Tau Delta for a number of years.

EDWARD P. BELL, Wabash, '97, was not far behind Colonel Palmer. Entering newspaper work in Terre Haute, Indiana, he reported the Chippewa outbreak in Northern Minnesota in 1898 and the North Carolina race riots the same year. Later he exposed jury bribing in Cook County, Illinois, and legislative corruption in Springfield. His brilliant reporting won him an assignment with the Chicago Daily News as London correspondent. He became the first correspondent who ever interviewed a British secretary of state for foreign affairs, and he had extensive experience with the British fleet, army, and flying services.

He devoted 1924 and 1925 to interviewing leading men of various countries, including President Coolidge, Marx, Mussolini, Poincare, Ramsay MacDonald, and Shidehara. He accompanied Herbert Hoover on his Latin-American good-will tour in 1928-29. He vigorously attacked British-American bickering and originated the idea of a conference in Washington of the English-speaking states to lay foundations of permanent peace in the English-speaking world (1929). In 1934-35 he toured the world for Literary Digest, interviewing at length premiers and foreign ministers of the principal countries of Asia and Europe on the problem of world peace.

For a time president of the Association of American Correspondents in London, Mr. Bell wrote several books and many short stories. He died in 1943.

Another correspondent of the old school was CHARLES S. SMITH, Iowa, '97. After a start with the Omaha Bee, the Des Moines Capital, the Washington Post, and the Washington Times, he began his 'round-the-world duty with the Associated Press, which took him to Washington, New York, South America, Europe, Asia, and Africa from 1913 to 1935. He covered the conferences of Versailles, Riga, Genoa, Hague, and Lausanne growing out of World War I. He also covered the Russian famine of 1921-22 and was in charge of the Associated Press service in Moscow during 1934-35.

He found time also for his Fraternity, serving a tour as President of the Southern Division. When he retired from active service, he purchased Havre de Venture, home and burial place of Thomas Stone, signer of the Declaration of Independence, Port Tobacco, Maryland. He died in 1940.

One of the most famous of contemporary Delt foreign correspondents is EDWARD ANGLY, Texas, '19. He was one of the first three American correspondents to reach Pearl Harbor from the United States after December 7, 1941, and he was the first correspondent to report the arrival of U. S. forces in Australia in March, 1942. He was one of only two correspondents to cover the Teheran conference of Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin.

After various assignments in Galveston, New York, London, Paris, Berlin, and Moscow, Mr. Angly became head of the London bureau of the New York Herald Tribune in 1939. Beginning in 1940, when he was with the British Expeditionary Forces and the Royal Air Force in the retreat from Flanders, he covered almost every phase of World War II. From Bordeaux, Great Britain, Greece, Crete, the Soviet Union, the Eastern Front, and the Western Front, he wrote the gripping story of battle. During this period he served the Chicago Sun as well as the Herald Tribune.

Mr. Angly has contributed numerous articles to the Saturday Evening Post and other periodicals and has written one book, Oh, Yeah!

JOHN T. WHITAKER, Sewanee, '27, was widely recognized as one of the ablest American correspondents of the last decade. An ardent student of military affairs, he covered so many campaigns that his friends called him "Colonel." His telling accounts, written for the Chicago Daily News, were syndicated in leading papers of the United States. He was the author of And Fear Came and We Cannot Escape History.

Fatally stricken with a disease he contracted overseas, Whitaker returned to this country after the war, and on September 11, 1946, he died at Walter Reed Hospital.

Other correspondents who ably reported war news from foreign ports are WILLIAM B. DICKINSON, Jr., Kansas, '29; GORDON A. GASKILL, Tennessee, '34; LEWIS A. HAWKINS, Hillsdale, '29; and GEORGE H. TUCKER, Virginia, '29. Dickinson, who operated out of Australia during much of the war, is now foreign news editor with the United Press. Gaskill has been for a number of years a staff member of American Magazine. Hawkins reported the Omaha Beach landing and other major European engagements. He is now Denver bureau chief of the Associated Press. Tucker was Associated Press correspondent in Egypt, Turkey, Iran, Iraq, India, Russia, and other points. Formerly a feature writer and columnist, he was known before the war for his syndicated column, "Man About Manhattan."

A relative newcomer is BEN A. THIRKFIELD, W. & L., '36, formerly with the news staff of World Report, who is now reported to be in China.

Dean of the editorial writers is F. LAURISTON BULLARD, Wooster, '91, winner of the Pulitzer Editorial Prize for 1926. He was chief editorial writer with the Boston Herald from 1919 to 1943. He is the author of numerous books and magazine articles. A student of Abraham Lincoln history, he was awarded in 1941 a diploma of honor for "distinguished contributions to the study of Abraham Lincoln" by Lincoln Memorial University.

JAMES E. CRAIG, Missouri, '07, is another well-known Delt editorialist. Coming to New York after working for various Kansas City and St. Louis papers, he was city editor and dramatic critic with the New York Evening Mail from 1921 to 1924. From 1925 to 1943 he was an editorial writer with the Sun and was chief editorial writer from 1943 until recently, when the Sun was purchased by the World-Telegram. Mr.

Craig has been a frequent speaker at Fraternity gatherings, was the principal speaker at the National Interfraternity Conference's annual meeting a few years ago. He wrote the Masonic Outlook prize essay in 1925.

JOHN H. CLINE, Ohio State, '29, is chief editorial writer with the Washington Star. He has been with the Star since 1928 and has been chief editorial writer since 1940.

LEVERETT A. CHAPIN, Colorado, '22, staff writer of the Denver Post, was winner of the 1948 prize in editorial writing given by the Denver Press Club. Other Delt editorial writers are ROBERT N. ESTABROOK, Northwestern, '39, of the Washington Post, and ROBERT H. STOPHER, Wabash, '29, of the Akron Beacon-Journal.

Ever been in Washington, D. C.? You can hardly turn around there without bumping into a Delt newspaperman. In the next issue of THE RAINBOW you will read about the three Delts who have been president of the National Press Club, including the newly-installed chief, RADFORD E. MOBLEY, George Washington, '30, who has been a Washington correspondent since 1928.

WILLIAM C. MURPHY, Jr., Wabash, '18, who died last November, was the first Delt president of the Club. He had served as chief of the Washington bureau of both the United States Daily and the Phila- delphia Inquirer. From 1945 until the time of his death, he was director of publicity of the Republican National Committee.

The other member of the presidential trio is CHARLES O. GRIDLEY, Northwestern, '21, who has been a Washington correspondent since 1922, having served both the Denver Post and the Chicago Sun. He was president of the Club in 1944.

SAM W. BELL, Kenyon, 'og, correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune, was chairman of the Standing Committee of Correspondents of the National Press Club in 1934.

A famous Delt byline went out of print last summer. BERTRAM D. HULEN, Tufts, '11, was one of a group of American correspondents killed when the Royal Dutch Airlines Constellation crashed north of Bombay last July 13. Washington correspondent for the New York Times since 1926, he was the oldest reporter in point of service in the State Department pressroom.

During his long career in the nation's capital, he came to know intimately most of the Secretaries of State since the Harding administration. He enjoyed the confidence of Charles Evans Hughes and Cordell Hull when they were heads of the State Department.

Mr. Hull issued the following statement concerning his friend: "Like all who knew and worked with Bertram D. Hulen, I feel a deep sense of loss. When I was at the State Department, as I am certain was the experience of my predecessors and successors, he was recognized as a most trustworthy chronicler of events and in every other way on the top human level."

Mr. Hulen's many important assignments included covering Lloyd George's tour of Canada and the United States in 1923; covering the Pan-American Conference in Rio de Janeiro in 1942; and the American Economic Conference in Bogota, Colombia, in 1948. He reported Calvin Coolidge's campaign for the presidency in 1924, and he first covered Franklin D. Roosevelt when he ran for vice-president in 1920.

He was the author of a book entitled Inside the State Department.

FRANK A. HALL, Wabash, '20, started with the Washington Post and was city editor of that paper for two years. In 1924 he went with the National Catholic Welfare Conference News Service, of which he has been director since 1932. In 1942 he was awarded the Hoey Medal for outstanding contributions to the cause of interracial justice, and in 1924 he was decorated a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great by Pope Pious XII.

CHARLES VAN DEVANDER, Georgia Tech, '22, a well-known figure in the capital, has been chief of the Washington bureau of the New York Post since 1942. He is the author of the book The Big Bosses (1944).

CLIFTON J. STRATTON, Kansas State, '11, has been Washington correspondent since 1926 for Capper publications and other farm journals. He is the writer of the "Clif Writes" column in the Daily Capital.

Others in Washington are JOHN G. NORRIS, George Washington, '29, who covers Army news for the Washington Post and has done a good deal of globe-trotting in reporting on world-wide Army and Navy events, and EDWIN N. LEWIS, Columbia, '16, director of public relations of the Washington Community Chest Federation.

A former Southern Division President of the Fraternity, CARL H. BUTMAN, Dartmouth, Cornell,

GEORGE E. GOODWIN
Pulitzer Prize Winner

George Washington, 'og, has handled numerous reportorial jobs in Washington — with the Associated Press, the Air Service Journal, the Wall Street Journal, director of the War Department News Bureau in World War I, and with the War Production Board Information Division in World War II. He is presently a radio consultant and free lance writer.

In the Deep South, a Delt who has proved himself one of the best reporters in the business is GEORGE E. GOODWIN, W. & L., '39, winner of the 1947 Pulitzer prize for local reporting. His story which won not only the Pulitzer prize but also Sigma Delta Chi's Distinguished Service Award was his coverage for the Atlanta Journal of the Telfair County, Georgia, vote frauds, an exposure of highly irregular practices in the 1946 gubernatorial election. His exploits were dramatized on the N. B. C. radio program, "The Big Story."

LEE MILLS MERRIMAN, Albion, '22, who was a Pulitzer traveling scholar in 1923, has been managing editor of the Pasadena Star-News (California) since 1930 and assistant publisher since 1944. He is the author of a book on journalism, Between Deadlines (1940).

Come to Columbus!

By W. EDGAR WEST, Ohio Wesleyan, '23

General Chairman, Sixtieth Karnea

Karneia Headquarters—The Deshler-Wallick Hotel, with the LeVeque-Lincoln Tower behind it.

THIS IS THE YEAR of the Half-century Karnea.

Columbus is proud to have been chosen as the location for that great event. Ohio has more Delt chapters and more Delt alumni than any other state. It seems natural, therefore, that at the midpoint of the twentieth century Delta Tau Delta should choose Ohio as the place to celebrate nearly a century of progress, to review the accomplishments of its chapters, and to make plans for the future that will continue it in its aim toward its Prophecy.

Headquarters for the 1950 Karnea will be the Deshler-Wallick Hotel with its 1,000 guest rooms. The Deshler offers more than adequate accommodations. There are ample private rooms for group conferences, as well as two large rooms for business sessions and other special events. Located in the center of downtown Columbus, the Deshler is easily reached from other nearby hotels and is likewise easily accessible to those who may want to stay outside the city or business district at nearby chapters such as Beta Phi at Ohio State, Mu at Ohio Wesleyan, Chi at Kenyon, or Beta at Ohio University. Some of these chapters are planning to have their houses open during the Karnea so that alumni may stay at their own chapter houses if they wish.

Ideal for conventions, Columbus in 1949 was host to more than 650 convention groups of every size and type. It is known as the third most active convention city in the world and is definitely established as the finest convention city between Chicago and New York. It has a yearly average of some 600 state, regional, national, and international groups meeting here each year.

Outstanding conventions and events in Columbus for 1950 will be: Delta Tau Delta Fraternity Karnea, Key Club International Convention, the Professional Golfers Association Tournament, the American Bowling Congress, which is returning to Columbus for the third time within eighteen years, and a host of others.

We thought you might enjoy some of the interesting facts about our host city, so we asked the Convention Bureau to assist us in assembling some of the high lights of what our members should look for while visiting here.

The LeVeque-Lincoln Tower is one of the world's tallest buildings. It is higher than the Washington Monument; the Observation Tower at the top provides a most interesting view of Central Ohio. From this point you can see why the song Beautiful Ohio was written and given the title it bears.

The beautiful civic center located just one block from the Deshler-Wallick Hotel includes the LeVeque-Lincoln Tower, City Hall, Departments of State Building, Central High School, and the new Federal Building. The Center will soon be enhanced by the addition of a Veterans Memorial Building and Convention Hall.

Battelle Memorial Institute, the largest private research institution in the world, is located in Columbus. Some 1,400 employees of the Institute are constantly striving to "serve mankind through the making of discoveries and inventions." In addition to the more than 600 scientists using the great laboratories, America's leading scientific schools send students to Battelle for graduate work. Each year finds this Institute expanding its facilities, and at this writing it is in the process of organizing a new department of agricultural research.

In the metropolitan area of Columbus are located five colleges and universities. The largest and best known is Ohio State University, the sixth largest school in the nation. Its enrollment is in excess of 24,000 students divided among ten colleges. The ten colleges have 96 departments of instruction taught by more than 2,000 faculty members. In addition to the beautiful campus located just at the edge of downtown Columbus, the University has a large farm and airport and a 36-hole golf course. Ohio State University's stadium has a seating capacity of 78,000; it has been the site of many of the outstanding football games of all time.

The Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society, housed at the Ohio State Museum, is the home of one of the greatest historical collections in the United States.

The United States Army maintains the Columbus General Depot just at the eastern boundary of the city. This Depot is the largest in the world and is a principal supply and storage base for our armed forces.

The State Capitol, dedicated in 1861, is one of the most perfect examples of Doric architecture to be found in the world today. Its 24 huge limestone columns measure six feet in diameter and stand 36 feet high. The works of several famous artists hang in the Rotunda, and its priceless art and war exhibits are of interest to the thousands of people who visit it each year.

Against this picturesque backdrop, the Sixtieth Karnea will come to life. An outstanding feature of the extended week end will be the outing at Brother John Galbreath's (Beta, '20) famous Darby Dan Farm. One event of the Darby Dan outing will be a polo match between an all-Delt team and a team from the Harbor Hills Polo Club. Chapters are being asked to send to the Karnea entertainment committee names of candidates for the Delt team. Other surprise features are being planned for the outing, to which all Delts and their wives will be invited.

The program for the business sessions will follow its customary form, and the extra day which has been

Bishop Karl M. Block

PHYSICALLY, mentally, and spiritually, the Right Reverend Karl M. Block, George Washington, '06, Episcopal Bishop of California, is a big man.

In 1937, when he was rector of the Church of St. Michael and St. George in St. Louis, Missouri, he toured the country with other clergymen under the National Preaching Missions, and he spent some time in California, preaching in both churches and theaters to great congregations. Episcopalians listened, and they were impressed by the manner in which the Gospel was presented. For Dr. Block is a powerful preacher, with a mellifluous voice and a magnificent flow of words.

When, in 1938, the time came to name a successor to Dr. Edward L. Parsons, then Bishop of California, only one man—Dr. Block—was considered, and he was elected on the first ballot.

Bishop Block has been a popular diocesan. He revised policies all along the line, changed canons here and there to fit the structure of his goals. He worked hard. The results have been gratifying: almost every mission receiving missionary aid in 1940 is now a self-supporting parish, and many new missions have been opened in smaller communities.

His hobby has been his work. Through his leadership, the church conference centers have flourished. Oriental missions claimed his attention; it is under his direction that the great new plant of True Sunshine, Oakland, is being built. When the recent triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church met in San Francisco, he was the genial host.

Those who have written about Bishop Block remark the way children react to him. In any home where he visits, children are enamored with him and always find a welcome retreat in his lap—an observation which underscores the fact that he is loved also by adults, even though they may disapprove his policies.

The Bishop is a noted raconteur, and his annual tea for the clergy and their wives is a high light on the church social calendar. The reputation of his Virginia Smithfield ham, which also appears at the annual tea, is just as good as that of his anecdotes.

At 63, he continues strong, after 39 years in the ministry. Prior to coming to California, he had served churches in Haddonfield, New Jersey; Norristown, Pennsylvania; Roanoke, Virginia; and St. Louis. He is a trustee of Mills College. He has written two books.

As one of the highest tributes paid him, Bishop Block has been described as truly a pastor to his clergy. "Whether it be sickness, parish squabbles, family troubles, financial difficulties, death, mental illness, or what not," one of his co-workers wrote, "the Bishop is the kind of man who understands—and acts. There is an impulsive generosity about the man that warms the heart of anyone in any kind of trouble."

Ed Dodd Earns SDX Cartooning Award

Copy Post-Hall Syndicate

To ED DODD, Georgia Tech, '25, creator of "Mark Trail," Sigma Delta Chi presented its medallion for distinguished service to journalism, officially recognizing one of the nation's top comic-strip artists. The fact that it was the journalistic fraternity's first award in the field of newspaper cartooning gives added significance to the honor.

Mark Trail, the woodsy, outdoor hero of Ed's strip, first appeared April 15, 1946, and has caught on so rapidly that his adventures now are run in more than 200 newspapers in this country and abroad.

Ed's cartooning itch first cropped out during his undergraduate days in Gamma Psi Chapter. "Luckily," he will tell you, "Delta Tau Delta had on its enrollment during this time all the editors of the various college publications, including Georgia Tech's annual, The Blue Print. In this way the forerunners of Back Home Again [Ed's first syndicated comic feature] found their way into all the campus periodicals and in doing so established the fact that fraternity loyalty can be—and was—powerful enough to overcome the poorest sort of drawing."

The lure of the drawing board ultimately overpowered the attractions of an architectural career, and Ed traveled to New York to enroll in the Art Student's League. A day-time job wrapping packages and handling circular letters kept body and soul together, while a position as monitor in the art class paid the tuition. Speaking of his classmates in the League, Ed recalls, "The entire group, with one or two exceptions, was stony broke and the idea of sharing and sharing alike had been developed to an unbelievable point."

After a year of this life, he shook off the fetters of city dwelling to embark on a series of adventures that were to provide the rich background for Mark Trail's authenticity. For three years he guided horseback pack-train trips through

ED DODD demonstrates that he knows whereof he draws. His principal creations are outdoor characters like himself: Mark Trail (above) and Cherry (below).

Yellowstone National Park, ran a dude ranch in Wyoming, and took a short turn with the rangers in Glacier Park. Through Daniel Carter Beard, founder of the Boy Scouts of America and a painter of animals, Ed became interested in drawing animals. He got to know Beard when he worked for him at his camp for boys in Pennsylvania and studied animal drawing with him. The strip creator was also for three years special instructor in camping, woodcraft, and nature study at New York Military Academy, Cornwall, New York.

He has traveled and camped all over the United States, Norway, other parts of Europe and visited around England, France, Belgium, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, and Cuba.

During all this time the sketches were piling up. Animals, places, customs, people, and sports were drawn directly from life. "I must have at least 5,000 sketches of everything in the world," he says. He has four large files of pictures, catalogued, and another two files of outdoor articles on varied subjects from magazines.

While he was traveling, Ed started writing. He contributed to newspapers, Boy's Life, and Country Gentleman. The Atlanta-Georgian eventually took some of his drawings, which inspired a trip to New York and the idea of attempting a syndicate connection. With the country deep in depression, however, Ed soon discovered that the demand for cartoons had shrunk, that there was little or no market, and that good cartoonists, laid off the payroll, were waiting to be called again.

After six weeks in New York, both his spirit and his financial resources had just about played out. As a last desperate chance, he packed up his drawings and applied to United Feature Syndicate.

A Delta Shelter Christmas

"NO SANTA CLAUS! Thank God! he lives . . . he will continue to make glad the hearts of childhood."

Delts helped resurrect that be-whiskered gentleman last December, as chapters from coast to coast opened their Shelters and their hearts to bring the joys of Christmas to the orphans and the underprivileged children of their communities.

With many chapters, it is a custom of long standing to provide a Christmas party for local urchins; with others, the idea is just catching on. But the ingredients are the same: one well-upholstered St. Nick, tinselled Christmas tree, piping carols that the kids can sing, gifts in abundance (not all of them practical, please), entertainment in some shape or form, and as much ice cream and cake as a taut little stomach can uncomfortably hold. Mix these well and you get a violent reaction—so powerful, in fact, that orphan hearts swell almost to the bursting point.

The kids aren't the only ones who get a kick out of this festival. The brothers enjoy it, too. You get the Christmas spirit fast when you see it shining in the eyes of a youngster.

Take the case of Upsilon Chapter, Rensselaer. Even Marley's ghost would have had to smile at that one. The 14 orphans who surged into the Shelter found Brother Bovina in the guise of Santa Claus, dispensing toys as fast as eager hands could snatch them. Magicians Cassidy and Lillis performed their mystifying experiments to the delight of an enraptured audience, while the chapter mascot, "Blackie," proudly went through his repertoire of stunts. Of course there was dinner, and finally a sled for each moppet.

The same scene was duplicated in other chapters—at Ohio Wesleyan, Lafayette, Butler, Oklahoma, and Florida. And there were intriguing variations of the Yuletide theme. At Wabash, Chapter Adviser Larry Sheaffer showed movies to the tiny guests. This entertainment was quickly followed by a turkey dinner, and then the children were whisked off to an intramural volleyball game, where their noisy cheering section inspired another Delt victory.

Beta Rho (Stanford) annually entertains Chinese orphan girls from the Ming Quong Home of Los Gatos. This year there were movies, magic by Jim Bradshaw, Santa in the person of Joe Pinotti (with pillows), and gifts—with the finale consisting of Christmas carols sung by the little girls themselves.

The entertainment at such parties varies. Beta Kappa (Colorado) added a treasure hunt, Beta Eta (Minnesota) found moving pictures effective, and Gamma Rho (Oregon) called on the Tri Delts to serenade its privileged guests. At Purdue, Gamma Lambda Chapter wanted company, called on the Pi Beta Phis to give a hand with the candy, presents, and the like, while Omega (Pennsylvania) turned the boys of Beth Eden Home loose for several hours of planned games and fun. Omega does it up brown every year, with prizes for everyone and all the traditional accouterments. This year the gifts and decorations were made available through the generosity of Mr. Robert Rader.

At Beta Epsilon (Emory), a shortage of fur-trimmed red suits developed, and Santa was forced to deposit his presents on the doorstep of the Shelter, without ever setting foot in the house, to the amazement of several orphans from the Methodist Children's Home!

Christmas alone isn't enough for Delts of Delta Pi (U. S. C.), for their 20 orphans are feted at both Thanksgiving and Christmas. Delta Theta (Toronto) may be faced with the same situation some day, for after a round of dinner, gifts, and Jack Pulford's impersonation of St. Nick, none of the kids wanted to go home!

At both Tulane and Georgia Tech, the Delts centered their efforts on individual needy families. Georgia Tech's Jack Vanderbleek was Santa Claus to six children, all of whom received much-needed clothing and toys. The eldest boy was given a brand-new bicycle. Under the guidance of Carl Hakenjos and Don Harris, Tulane Delts fed a kitty for weeks in advance to buy gifts for their needy family. In Cincinnati, Gamma Xi Chapter sent clothing and food to a family in France and also provided baskets of food and gifts for a needy family in its city.

Several Delt chapters join with other fraternities on their campuses to light the fires of Christmas. At Dartmouth, for instance, each fraternity selects a class from the Hanover Grammar School or other surrounding schools and entertains the children on the Friday afternoon before the holiday vacation commences. Gamma Gamma's Howie Geist donned the red and white uniform of the toy-dispenser as chapter members enjoyed the high point of its social calendar.

Delta Epsilon (Kentucky) has for many years shared its Yuletide spirit with some of Lexington's underprivileged urchins. This year Delt Bob McCowan suggested that the program be expanded to include participation of all fraternities and sororities on the campus. The result: a committee headed by Delt Jerry Inman, working with principals of various schools, set up a program which enabled nearly 100 boys and girls to feast on turkey and experience the thrill of Santa's visit on Kentucky's Greek row.

One of Delta Tau Delta's youngest, Delta Upsilon Chapter, set the pace at Delaware, giving a party for 20 orphans from a local home. The youngsters were taken to a wrestling match and basketball game, thence to the Shelter for refreshments. It was the first time that the boys of this institution had been treated by a Delaware fraternity, but it is predicted that others will follow suit next year.

And, out at Santa Barbara, California, newly-installed Delta Psi, proud of winning its first campus sing as a Delt chapter, took its glee club to the county home to sing Christmas carols. The group was warmly received by the ward for indigent women; so now Delta Psi has "adopted" the ladies of the ward and will bring them a touch of friendliness with flowers and remembrances on future Mother's Days and other special occasions.

There you have it—Christmas, 1949, observed by the Good Delt. To borrow a line from Dickens, "It was always said of him, that he knew how to keep Christmas well."

Trinity Cathedral Again Resounds to "Delta Shelter" At Annual Yuletide Service

Of all the many events on the calendars of Pittsburgh district Delts, none has more inspiration to offer than the annual Christmas service in Trinity Cathedral.

Now in its fifteenth year, the Delt Christmas program, held under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter and conducted by the Reverend N. R. H. Moor, Dean of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral and a member of the Fraternity from Chi Chapter at Kenyon College, has become an established tradition among Delts from all over the tri-state area.

This year, the service, held at eight p. m. Sunday, December 11, 1949, was attended by undergraduates from five chapters and by Delt alumni from many more. Delegations from Alpha, Delta Beta, Gamma, Gamma Delta, and Gamma Sigma were present to represent Allegheny, Carnegie Tech, Washington and Jefferson, West Virginia, and Pitt, respectively.

Featuring an address by Dean Moor on the subject of "Keeping Awake," the service included a solo by Bob Buell, Pitt, '45, and the awe-inspiring rendition of "Delta Shelter" as it came, seemingly, from within the walls of the darkened sanctuary, from the deep, rich voice of Bill Collins. Bill sang at the first Trinity Delt service in 1934 and has repeated this presentation of the "Shelter" at each ensuing Christmas program.

Following the service, the nearly 300 Delts, their wives, and sweethearts moved into the parish house auditorium for another sing contest between undergraduate teams from Allegheny, Tech, W. & J., and West Virginia. The Pitt team also sang, but at its own request was not considered in the judging, because of a lack of preparation. The Gamma Sigma vocalists had been handicapped by having had to devote all their practice to the preparation of songs for the Pitt interfraternity sing.

Pinch hitting for Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter President C. Robert Schar, John V. Snee, W. & J., opened the informal program and called on Sing Chairman Bob Buell to conduct the contest.

Appraising each team's performance of the required Delt song ("Delta Queen") and the optional selection were Judges Miss Emma Steiner, J. Knox Milligan, and Charles Hall. Miss Steiner is director of a well-known high school a cappella choir; Mr. Milligan is organist at St. Anne's Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh; and Mr. Hall is tenor soloist at Trinity Cathedral.

The 80-mile journey from Morgantown to Pittsburgh paid off in full for the West Virginia Mountaineers. Led by Walter Case, the Gamma Delta combination of Buck Bebee, Chuck McCauley, Bob Mall, Charles Kibble, Kay Halloran, Jim Ellison, Bob Marcum, and Joe McGuire won first place in the contest.

Completing the shutout of district teams, the Allegheny delegation of Krueger, McClune, Carpenter, Brownell, Choquette, Koffard, Feilding, and McIndoe copped second place, to make their long trek from Meadville, Pennsylvania, a success. This contest was the first in which either Allegheny or West Virginia had taken part, and also the first in which the Carnegie Tech team, three-time winner, had been defeated.

Charles R. Wilson, Pittsburgh, '26, recently honored by election to the Fraternity's Distinguished Service Chapter, presented the trophy to the victorious Gamma Delta team. First prize is a handsome mantel clock donated last year by a group of alumni headed by Harry R. Birmingham, W. & J., '10.

added this year will allow ample time for the transaction of business and full discussion of Fraternity programs. The four-day schedule will include chapter reunions and a model initiation, concluding on Saturday evening with the traditional banquet and dance. An outstanding list of speakers from all parts of the nation will spark the banquet program. Wives and guests will also be included in the plans for the banquet. In addition, several features are being planned for the entertainment of visiting wives.

Worth While and Fun—This Game!

By G. HERBERT McCracken, Pittsburgh, '21

Past President, Delta Tau Delta

There are fewer injuries, more participation, and better football among the grade-school sand-lotters since Coach McCracken and other fathers organized the Junior Football League.

LAST FALL I was head coach of the "Buzzards," a football squad of 25 boys, 12 and 13 years of age, who attend the Scarsdale (New York) schools.

My qualifications for the job included three years of coaching at Allegheny College and then twelve years at Lafayette College, followed by eight seasons of special scouting for Army, Columbia, Yale, and other eastern colleges.

After this long career in football, I naturally was sold on the values inherent in the game and firmly believed that it should be offered to our youths on an organized basis. Hence, in 1944, a half dozen other fathers in Scarsdale and I joined in organizing a Junior Football League for youngsters ten and eleven years of age.

That was in 1944. The following year my son, George, then nine years old and a fourth-grader, joined the squad as a "reserve in special training." He was not eligible for the so-called varsity, being only a fourth grader, but he could practice with them and absorb as much football knowledge as possible for future use.

The fact that in 1949 I was coaching the eighth grade team proves only that George had been advanced one grade in school each year and that I had been "promoted" along with him.

Today, after six years of junior football, it still is the feeling of the fathers, as well as the village recreation director, that our boys can enjoy their Saturday morning football more if taught something about the fundamentals of the game and if properly equipped with good shoes, pants, jerseys, and helmets. We also believe that organized leadership and supervision make the game more interesting, particularly as they give every youngster an opportunity to be active throughout practice sessions as well as playing in the games.

One of the fundamental rules which all father-coaches follow is that every boy should get into every game, if only for a few plays. To insure an active program for all, the substitutes of the two competing teams play a "fifth quarter" immediately following the regular game. This feature is very popular with the youngsters, for it gives them an opportunity to have started and played in a game of their own.

It is an impressive sight to watch these youngsters execute good blocks and accurate tackles, and to perform plays which call for line-men in the interference and double and triple ball-handling by the backs. It is natural for some boys to play better than others and for a number of them, even at this early age, to stamp themselves as future high school and college players.

Of course it is difficult to know how large a boy will eventually grow, so his position on these teams may not be the one he will eventually play. Since most of the boys on the fifth-sixth-grade team are fairly even in size, it is generally the fastest boys who become backs and ends.

The present program involves two separate leagues—one known as the Junior League, for the boys in the fifth and sixth grades; and the other known as the Junior Intramural League, for boys in the seventh and eighth grades.

GEORGE McCracken, captain and halfback of the Buzzards, takes a tip from the coach—his dad—a former All-American back with POP WARNER's Pittsburgh eleven. Vice-president of Scholastic Corporation, publishing house, HERB McCracken finds time in a busy schedule to contribute to this worth-while community enterprise.

When a boy becomes a ninth-grader, he comes under the supervision and coaching of members of the high school staff. This practice was deemed advisable when we discovered that the father-coaches found the going a bit strenuous when the boys reached 14 years of age and the game became more complicated and rugged.

In Scarsdale a boy is not eligible for the high school team until he is a sophomore (tenth grade). All this training, therefore, represents excellent basic preparation for varsity playing. More important, however, is the fact that the program caters to the boys' natural play drives.

Since they are going to play football anyhow, we want to see that they play it under the best possible conditions. We knew before the program was instituted that many boys were playing Saturday morning games without a proper knowledge of the fundamentals and without officiating and coaching supervision.

What a contrast to the present set-up! Last fall you could find 250 youngsters in full team uniforms on four regulation gridirons playing scheduled games every Saturday morning in October and November. Each game was officiated by members of the Westchester County Officials Association who wore regular officials' uniforms; and usually a doctor was in attendance—thanks to the fact that most of the competing teams had at least one player on the squad whose father was a member of the medical profession.

When the League was organized, most parents expressed concern about the injury menace of tackle football. We assured them, however, that there would be fewer injuries in the new program than in the rough-and-tumble scrimmages which were being played in the community lots and playgrounds.

During the six years of the League's existence, there have been no serious injuries and few bumps which have kept a player from missing more than part of a game. The coaches keep a strict watch on every player on every play. They substitute frequently, particularly when a boy has been bumped fairly hard or has made an exceedingly long run. We believe that boys will seldom be injured if they are fresh and eager.

We are not concerned about alumni or faculty, but we do have rabidly interested parents who practically join their sons' squads in pre-game and between-half "strategy" meetings. On many occasions when talking with a player on the sideline, I have looked back over my shoulder and found both the mother and father intently listening in on the conversation. And it is a common sight to see a coach address his squad between halves with as many parents in attendance as players, and this group includes mothers.

I have watched many boys start in the fourth and fifth grades and develop physical skills and stature and an understanding of the purpose of team play and competition, as a result of participating in this program. They have learned at an early age how to win and how to lose; how to be starters and how to be substitutes; how to respect captains, officials, and coaches. They have learned how to play hard against their best pals and classmates. They have learned to be good sports.

It has been a pleasure to work so closely with my own son from age nine through thirteen, so see him develop physically as well as in leadership and team play.

As captain of the team last fall, he shared with me many exciting experiences on the field as well as at home. He frequently brushed me off when he felt he was in the right, particularly on the playing field when as captain he was called upon to make decisions with the referee. I respected him for his initiative and confidence and must say he generally came up with the right answer. He and the other players gave me many chuckles and thrills because they all played with such vigor and abandon and with such wholesome regard for their opponents.

The Scarsdale Junior and Intramural Leagues include football, basketball, and baseball, with fathers in charge of all coaching responsibilities. The recreation director of the village serves as co-ordinator of the program, which has become a model for many other communities in the area.

To me personally it has been an unusual experience following a career as a college coach and scout, and in some respects it has been the most interesting and challenging coaching work I have ever done. At least when the game was over you knew that all the parents and the boys were happy about it and there would be no telephone calls or letters from alumni suggesting that you resign!

Delt Scholar Explores Literature of Travel

DR. EDWARD G. COX, Wabash, '99, professor emeritus in the English department at the University of Washington and managing editor of The Modern Language Quarterly, has recently published a third volume in his series of books on early travel.

The latest, issued by the University of Washington Press, is A Reference Guide to the Literature of Travel.

At one time a great traveler himself, Dr. Cox now explores the literature of travel. His first work, on Europe, Asia, and Africa, was published in 1935 and the second, covering the South Seas, Australia, and the Americas, in 1938.

Dr. Cox taught at Cornell University from 1900 to 1911. He went to Washington in 1912 and has remained there all but two years since then. Although he retired in 1947, he keeps daily office hours, poring over rare book listings and editing copy for The Quarterly. He recently completed the manuscript of his fourth volume, which will deal with Ireland and will contain items missing from the preceding works.

He now plans to devote himself to more creative studies, one of which will be a contribution to a memorial volume in honor of Professor George Taylor, of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Cox's principal diversion from his work consists of cruising the waters of Puget Sound and salmon fishing.

Jess Neely, Texas' "Coach of the Year"

By SILAS B. RAGSDALE, Texas, '18

DELT JESS NEELY, coach of the 1949 Southwest Conference champions, the Rice Institute Owls, landed another of his teams in a bowl game this year.

Not that Jess is growing tired of such engagements—that breed of coach is not extant, you know—but over the years he has been to several of them and there are good indications he will get into a few more before ol' rocking chair claims him.

Neely, a Delt from Vanderbilt (old Lambda Chapter), now inactive, in taking the 1949 title, racked up a record of nine victories against a single loss. Rice did not lose or tie a conference game, the first time this has been accomplished in the Southwest since 1939. Its only defeat was a 7-14 early season deal with the Sugar-Bowled Tigers of Louisiana State University.

His team's January 2 appearance against North Carolina in the Cotton Bowl is not the first such venture for the coach who put Clemson College on the grid map before coming to Houston early in 1940. Three years ago, 1946, Rice was conference cochampion, having tied with Arkansas for the title. These Owls went on to the Orange Bowl and defeated a good Tennessee team 8 to 0.

And before he came to Texas, he was not unfamiliar with bowl appearances. For instance—

In 1931, while he was helping Wallace Wade coach at Alabama, the Crimson Tide took a Rose Bowl game 24 to 0 from Washington State. While at Clemson, his powerful 1939 team lost its only game by a single point, 7-6, to Tulane and then went on to dump Boston College 6 to 3 in the Cotton Bowl.

For the record, including the 1949 regular schedule, Jess over the years as a coach at Rice has a total of 62 wins, 37 losses, and 4 ties, a mark that any big-time coach would be proud to point to.

So Brother Jess knows his way around in grid circles. He is highly respected as a man who teaches sound, clean fundamentals to the boys who gather about him each year. He is something of a perfectionist, choosing to spend many hours during the season on blocking and tackling techniques, not to mention team timing and precision. His 1949 Owls, for example, came to be known as an efficient machine that went about winning its games in a cool, co-ordinated, workmanlike manner. Which reflects exactly the sort of coaching they had received at Neely's hands.

He feeds his teams bowl games. This year his Rice Owls bumped North Carolina 27-13 in the Cotton Bowl. Texas sportswriters elected him their "Coach of the Year."

Jess Neely's home town is Smyrna, Tennessee. He went to high school in Smyrna and Branham and to Hughes Prep School and then entered Middle Tennessee State College. On the Saturday before enrolling at Vanderbilt three days later, he played against the Commodores, whereas on the next Saturday, he was a full-fledged Com battling against Tennessee.

Jess played offensive halfback and defensive end on Vandy's undefeated teams of 1921-22. He was captain of the '22 team that tied Michigan 0 to 0. (Incidentally, Jess' brother, Bill Neely, also captained the Vanderbilt team—led the Southerners in a tie game against Yale in 1910.)

Neely left his alma mater in 1922, coached high school football one year at Murfreesboro, Tennessee, then returned to Vanderbilt for a 1924 law degree. But coaching continued to intrigue him, and from 1924-27 he served as head coach and athletic director of Southwestern University, Memphis, Tennessee. In the spring of 1928, he was assistant baseball coach at Princeton, later that year going to Alabama to assist Wallace Wade, who was assistant coach at Vanderbilt when Neely played there.

After the Rose Bowl engagement, Neely transferred to Clemson College in South Carolina where he coached football and baseball and became athletic director. His grid record there was 43 won, 35 lost, 7 ties, with 21 of the losses and only 12 wins coming in his first four years.

Neely married Dorothy Doucher of Flint, Michigan, in 1930. They have two lovely daughters, Joan and Mary. The whole family, you might say, loves football. Which is just as well, of course, because Pop—and right successfully, too—gives that topic lots of time and thought.

Brother Neely was initiated in 1920 by the old Lambda Chapter of Delta Tau Delta at Vanderbilt. Upon his arrival in Houston, nearly ten years ago, Delts from throughout this section staged a big party in his honor at the Houston Country Club. His words of wisdom, particularly along grid lines, are always put forth with a drawling wit that makes him a good after-dinner speaker. He proved it on that occasion back in 1940 and on numerous occasions, many of a civic nature, since.

JESS NEELY

There his idea for "Back Home Again," a cartoon which depicted a typical small town, caught hold, and in a short time it was released to newspapers throughout the country.

"Back Home Again" ran for nine years. Then one day a friend put the question to him: "Why don't you do something you know all about?"

And with what was Ed Dodd most intimately acquainted? Animals, people, the out-of-doors. They were all close to his heart. And they became the elements of which Mark Trail was compounded.

Ed has been described as a "natural" for the comic-strip business. He is an excellent artist, and he knows how to tell a story. Moreover, he is a perfectionist for detail. At one time, because he did not like some aspect of a story, he threw away six weeks of a completed strip, did it over, and made it one of his best sequences.

Even though his strip calls for a good deal of research, Ed boasts that he can do most of it right in his workshop-studio-apartment in downtown Atlanta, Georgia. He adds that he can shift the locale of his feature from North America to another continent and still draw authentic trees, plants, animals, topography, and customs. To make the story seem more real, he even has a file of many colloquialisms.

There's nothing formal about the working atmosphere of the Dodd apartment. He, his two assistants, and his secretary have regular office hours, but Ed works in a loud plaid hunting shirt and slacks, and the pipe-in-mouth is an integral part of his character.

Normally the working day ends like a business rather than an artist's day, but if some special project comes up, they'll agree good-naturedly to work overtime or on week ends. That's the way Mark Trail makes its deadlines: Ed Dodd doesn't see why worry over late work should be added to all the others they come across in putting out a strip.

He loves hunting and fishing and has camped and hunted in 20 different states. Twice every year he travels to Northeast Pennsylvania to a special fishing spot. He makes friends easily wherever he goes. His sense of humor and good showmanship, combined with that slow Georgia drawl and feel for an audience, make him tops on the list of lecturers in demand—as Delts who attended the last two Southern Division Conferences will testify.

One reason he has so many friends is that he answers every letter he gets, and as soon as possible. Again, you will find many Delt chapters which will bear witness to this fact.

Finally, Ed is an ardent Delt. Rush week at Georgia Tech finds him celebrating the proverbial busman's holiday, by doing autographed sketches for rushees at the Gamma Psi Shelter. Maybe that's one good reason why Gamma Psi has such successful rush weeks!

Fourth Estate, but to add just a few: JACK C. BISCO, Missouri, '30, vice-president and general manager of the United Press; MARION M. BURSON, Illinois, '38, night editor of the Chicago Associated Press; OLIVER HOYEM, Columbia, '16, Washington reporter and author; OLIVER O. DISNEY, JR., Oklahoma, '37, Washington Star reporter; WILLIAM S. NEAL, Wabash, '12, Washington newsman; and JOSEPH C. SCHELEEN, Butler, '28, staff of the Daily Traffic World.

The list is by no means complete. Even as these words are written, scores of undergraduate Delts in 82

Shelters around the nation are belaboring their typewriters. They are tomorrow's reporters, editorial writers, foreign correspondents, and editors in our Fourth Estate.

For great is the fascination of the newspaper game. These anonymous couplets express it rather well:

I see a man strut through a jam in the hall,

Take a seat 'mid the speakers and chat with them all.

"Is this Hoover?" I ask, "that the crowd he defies?"

"No," says someone, "he's one of the newspaper guys."

I see a man start on the trail of a crook, And he scorns all assistance, but brings him to book.

"Mr. Burns?" I inquire. Someone scornfully cries:

"Burns? Naw, he's just one of them newspaper guys."

I see a man knock on a president's door And the sign, No Admittance, completely ignore.

"Is this Morgan that privacy's rights he denies?"

"Morgan? Shucks! It's just one of those newspaper guys."

And someday I'll walk by the great streets of gold

And see a man enter, unquestioned and bold.

"A saint?" I'll inquire, and old Peter'll reply:

"Well, I should say not. He's a newspaper guy."

Public Relations

Some excellent advice came out of the National Interfraternity Conference's round-table discussion on fraternity public relations.

Good public relations for the fraternity, it was decided, depend primarily on the actions and performance of the various fraternity chapters and local interfraternity councils. In this respect, fraternities are exactly like business and industrial institutions whose reputation with the public depends in large part on the quality of the product they manufacture or the service they render.

And what are the visible products of a fraternity group by which it is judged? The round table named these: 1. Excellence in scholarship; 2. Full assumption of civic responsibilities; 3. Wholehearted co-operation with college officials; and 4. Personal development of the individual.

Publicity cannot begin, it was pointed out, until a good job has been done.

Design for Kansas City

By FRANK R. SCHULTHEIS, JR., Kansas, '44

Since 1887, when Architect Fred Gunn returned to his home town, he has blue-printed scores of Kansas City's important buildings.

SIXTY-THREE YEARS ago, Frederick C. Gunn, Upsilon, '87, armed with a C.E. diploma from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, set out to make a name for himself in architecture. He did just that.

The six-state area around Kansas City, Missouri, is dotted with Roman-arched courthouses, city halls, and railroad stations, products of his drawing board. He saw the skyline of Kansas City change, and he had a hand in the changing. His father, Major O. B. Gunn, first engineer for the M-K-T Railroad, designed the railroad bridge (1875) across the Missouri River at Atchison, Kansas. In those days spanning the horizontal was more important than shooting skyward on costly downtown sites.

The emphasis on stress and strain has changed in direction. Kansas City has reached upward and outward in the 50 years, the skyscraper era, of Fred Gunn's practice. He still has an office in the National Fidelity Life Building, which he designed to an 11-story height in 1912. When asked his age, he laughed and said that his wife "wouldn't ever let me tell."

Fred Gunn's career really started at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute where he wore the square badge of Delta Tau Delta. He remembers his prankish college days as though they were yesterday. With great pride he describes R.P.I. as the "oldest English-speaking scientific school in the world" (founded 1824) . . . then, "easy to get in, awfully hard to get out." He fared better than most, stubbed his scholastic toe only once.

Today Gunn would be known on campus as a B.T.O., a "wheel." As president of the class of '87 and editor in chief of the famous year book, Transit, he needed his 54-inch bicycle to get to his next activity.

FREDERICK C. GUNN, architect for 63 years, who still has a hand in the moulding of Kansas City's skyline.

Delta Tau Delta had 31 chapters at that time. Upsilon, with 15 members, met on Friday nights. Gunn belonged to the Bicycle Club, Tennis Club, played poker, polo (hockey on roller skates), went out for football. His football career was brief, ended abruptly when "a fellow stuck out his hand and hit me in the neck."

Fred Gunn was treasurer of the R.P.I. Association, passed up lacrosse and tobogganing for the Glee Club. Once when the group was singing the leader stopped the music, said, "You, fellow, get out!" Gunn looked around to see whom he meant, discovered he (Gunn) was the "fellow" . . . and migrated with his guitar to the Banjo Club where he had "a lot more fun."

When school let out in 1887, Fred Gunn, loaded with energy and ability, returned to the booming "cow town" that was his home. In the 1890's, Architect Gunn was supervising construction of Kansas City buildings. There was the old City Hall, in which he had a hand, and the new City Market, and the city hospitals and nurses' homes on Hospital Hill. Fred Gunn is a Democrat from 'way back. The public buildings, mostly built by Democratic administrations, show many an impress of Gunn design.

He knew Colonel Thomas H. Swope, when the Colonel had a benevolent civic hand in the development of Hospital Hill, and he knew Harry Truman when Truman was a building judge of the Jackson County Court, before he ever dreamed of the White House.

Gunn kept his office in Kansas City when he was appointed Superintendent of Public Buildings for the United States. He revised the city's building code, with new classifications as to fire resistance for each type of occupancy. He supervised construction of the $4,000,000 Jackson County Courthouse, tallest building his professional hand helped design.

In retrospect, however, Gunn speaks most warmly of his association with the building of Hospital Hill. There he exercised a combination of his tastes in designing to meet a need . . . the modern, efficient and upward, along with reminders of the spirit behind the Greeks, the Romans, Shakespeare, and the Victorian age.

In 1930 Fred Gunn placed a symbol on the newly completed General Hospital No. 2 for Negro citizens. He remembers gathering some of the staff outside its entrance and pointing skyward, above its six floors, to a pediment in which is graven the head of a ram. Now what would the head of a ram mean to a staff schooled in the penicillin age of medicine?

Architect Gunn instructed them.

"The ram is there," he said, "to inspire those who will carry on this hospital's services, that they may be equal to the needs of the suffering."

"The ram is the sign of Aries, first constellation among the celestial stars, a symbol, in this case, of a head, brains, for the intelligent use

Colonel DeCoursey Directs Army Research

COLONEL ELBERT DECOURSEY

COLONEL ELBERT DECOURSEY, Kentucky, '24, holds one of the most important posts in the Army Medical Corps as Commandant of the Army Medical Department Research and Graduate School at the Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C.

The senior officer, he is an expert on medical aspects of atomic explosions.

After his graduation from the University of Kentucky in 1924, Colonel DeCoursey took his M.D. degree from Johns Hopkins University; later he received advanced instructions at the school which he now commands.

Prior to his appointment as Commandant last spring, Colonel DeCoursey served as a consultant to the Division of Biology and Medicine for the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

In 1945, as director of the Army group at Nagasaki, Colonel DeCoursey was a member of the Joint Commission for the Investigation of the Effects of the Atom Bomb in Japan. He was also a member of the Naval Medical Research and Radiologic Safety sections with "Operations Crossroads" at Bikini in 1945.

Colonel DeCoursey is a fellow of the College of American Pathologists, the American College of Physicians, and the American Society of Clinical Pathologists. He is a member of the National Board of Medical Examiners.

Mythical Millions Are No Help to Rockefeller

IN AN amusing autobiographical account in a recent issue of This Week Magazine, Delt John J. Rockefeller, Rensselaer, '23, relates the headaches, adventures, and laughs which his famous name has brought him during his lifetime.

Although he is totally unrelated to the wealthy John D. Rockefeller, his constant denials of a relationship have been interpreted only as a becoming modesty, and he has been the recipient of unearned homage from headwaiters, mammas ambitious for their daughters, debutantes, and others ad infinitum. He has been besieged, too, by "benevolent" organizations and "charities," intent on his mythical millions.

Mr. Rockefeller is actually an employee of the Veterans Administration in Washington, D. C. His account of joining Delta Tau Delta, as reported in This Week, is of particular interest to Delts. It follows:

Then came the day when I enrolled as a freshman at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y., and life began to bristle with amusing, weird and sometimes annoying experiences which have continued to this day.

At first I was a little slow catching on to what it meant to be a "Rockefeller." When the best fraternities began to rush me, orating earnestly on the glories and benefits which membership in one of their organizations could bring, I wrote home that college life was even better than I had thought it would be. I was sure my parents would be impressed with all this appreciation of my true worth.

As far as my looks are concerned I would not now or then give a matinee idol anything to worry about. But in those first days in college I would look at myself long and searchingly in the mirror.

The boys in the houses were, of course, much too tactful to say anything openly about my "money" (which amounted to a weekly allowance of five dollars) and it hadn't occurred to me what had caused all this extraordinary attention towards a freshman. So rushing went on, and I made my way around the campus in ever-growing self-confidence, smiling graciously on the "older men" of 18 and 19 who treated me with such deference.

I joined one of the groups, the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. I never was aware of when it actually dawned on my brethren that while I was indeed A Rockefeller, I was not one of The Rockefellers. But I am happy to relate that even after what must have been a disillusioning discovery, we continued to be good friends.

Parents Favor Fraternities

The National Panhellenic Council Education Committee in a recent bulletin refers to the Survey on Higher Education, published in the September, 1949, issue of Fortune. A wide sampling of public opinion revealed, among other things, that parents favored those colleges with fraternities and sororities by a 2-to-1 margin.

Ever willing and eager to serve his Chapter and our Fraternity, Omega Chapter, Philadelphia Alumni Chapter, Eastern Division all acclaim him for more than twenty years of faithful and devoted service. Former Secretary of the Philadelphia Alumni Chapter, Omega Chapter Adviser, Charter Trustee of the Omega Fund, former President of the Eastern Division, and member of the committee of three which guided Omega Chapter through World War II. His patience, interest, and calm understanding have marked him as one of the finest examples of true Deltism.

NIC Urges High Scholastic Standards

THE BREAKING of attendance records and the wide participation of nationally known men made outstanding the 41st annual session of the National Interfraternity Conference, held November 24, 25, and 26 in Washington, D. C. For the second time in the history of the organization, the session was held outside of New York City.

More than 700 persons were present, including 90 educational officers and 282 undergraduate representatives of local interfraternity councils from all sections of the United States.

Official delegates for Delta Tau Delta were Norman MacLeod, Pittsburgh, '17, former President of the Fraternity; Hugh Shields, Indiana, '26, Executive Vice-President; John C. Oliver, Ohio State, '43, National Capital Alumni Chapter; and N. Sidney Nyhus, U.C.L.A., '33, National Capital Alumni Chapter, who was also Delt representative on the Host Committee on Arrangements.

Two DeltS were among the several nationally prominent men who participated in the conclave. Dr. Edwin Holt Hughes, Ohio Wesleyan, '89, senior Bishop retired of the Methodist Church, pronounced the invocation for the Conference banquet. Bishop Hughes is the oldest living past President of Delta Tau Delta and a former Editor of THE RAINBOW. Tom C. Clark, Texas, '22, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, headed the Conference's panel discussion of the juvenile delinquency problem.

Juvenile delinquency, a defense against subversive groups on college campuses, scholarship, public relations, and "racial discrimination" were the topics which received the most attention. Nine resolutions were passed, most of them growing out of Conference and round-table discussions.

In a much publicized resolution, the Conference emphasized that it

Scholastic Achievement Emphasized

Following is a resolution unanimously adopted by the National Interfraternity Conference:

That the general and national officers of its member fraternities re-emphasize, through every means possible, the intellectual aims of the fraternity;

That each local interfraternity council consciously and constantly encourage on its campus the maintenance among fraternity men of high scholastic standards as one of the primary goals of the program;

That each individual chapter seek to stimulate an attitude and atmosphere conducive to the encouragement in, and the recognition by, its members of good scholarship as the major objective of college life; and recognizes that it has no authority with respect to the membership provisions of member fraternities and that selection of their members is entirely the responsibility and privilege of individual fraternities, but it recommended that member fraternities give consideration to the question. A motion to substitute a resolution insisting that member fraternities should eliminate all "discriminatory clauses and bylaws" was lost for want of a second.

That each fraternity member accept as his personal responsibility not only his own self-improvement through the facilities of his institution, but also participation in the intellectual stimulation of his chapter to the end that good scholarship be made synonymous with good fraternity membership.

Other resolutions recommended the establishment of higher scholastic records; the active participation of member fraternities in measures to combat subversive influences and activities on college campuses; the giving of assistance to local agencies for eliminating juvenile delinquency and full participation in such efforts; an increase of public relation efforts with full appreciation of the fact that public attitude depends primarily on the performance and accomplishments of fraternities; and the consideration of ways and means of extending and improving chapter participation in the various forms of group discussion.

Resolutions were also passed expressing the appreciation of the Conference to Cecil J. Wilkinson, Phi Gamma Delta, chairman, and his associates of the Host Committee, and to Chairman Frank H. Myers, Kappa Alpha, his fellow officers, the Executive Committee and all standing and special committees for their loyal and efficient work in the year passed.

The Conference elected William J. Barnes, Theta Xi, Chairman for the year 1949-50.

High light of the session was the Friday evening banquet. Patrick J. Hurley, Sigma Chi, former Secretary of War, served as toastmaster. Principal speaker was George M. Morris, Delta Kappa Epsilon, past president of the American Bar Association, whose subject was "The Fraternities

Are Affirmative Agencies in the College Educational Process." Among the guests were Fred M. Vinson, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; Associate Justices Harold R. Burton and Sherman Minton; Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson; and Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

Representing Delta Tau Delta at the banquet, in addition to the official delegates and Bishop Hughes, were Rhesa M. Norris, George Washington, '14, Thomas H. Eager, Washington, '28; and Henry C. Lipscomb, Missouri, '13.

The presentation of awards brought recognition to Leroy A. Wilson, Lambda Chi Alpha, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, "for distinguished service to youth through the American college fraternity" and to the Cornell Interfraternity Council for its constructive program of activities which advanced the interfraternity cause.

According to the report of the Committee on Fraternity Expansion, as of September 1, 1949, the 58 NIC fraternities have a total of 2,087 undergraduate chapters and 116 colonies, an increase of 132 new chapters and 33 reactivated chapters

James Melton Visits Beta Delta Chapter

JAMES E. MELTON, Georgia, '25, Vanderbilt, '25, star of metropolitan opera and the International Harvester program, "Harvest of Stars," is probably one of the most famous alumni to visit Georgia's Delta Shelter in many years.

When Brother Melton entered the University of Georgia and was initiated into Beta Delta Chapter, few people had even the vaguest idea that he would one day gain international recognition as one of the top tenors in the music world. But he knew he would attain his goal! "You must believe in yourself, but ability alone will not get you anywhere. Success takes work, work, work." He accomplished his goal as a result of many years of hard work and preparation.

Melton was born in Moultrie, Georgia, in the Deep South. Soon after his birth, his family moved to Citra, Florida. Young Jimmy first entered the University of Florida. His prime love had always been music, but somehow he decided he would be a lawyer. One day, after about three weeks on the Florida campus, one of the music teachers heard him singing and recognized a better than average voice. After a long conference with the aspirant lawyer, he convinced him that he should change his major to foreign languages with a minor in music. This would equip him for singing the opera roles in the tongues that are demanded of an opera singer.

While on the Florida campus, he organized and directed a dance band to earn his expenses. The orchestra proved quite popular on the campus and provided him with good experience.

Melton entered the University of Georgia in 1924, while in his sophomore year. He wasted no time in recognizing the good points of Delta Tau Delta, and it was here at Georgia that James Melton became a Delt. Hugh Hodgson, now head of the University of Georgia's music department, was a good friend of Melton's while he was on this campus. Hodgson describes him as being a happy-go-lucky sort of person in those days. "But his voice was certainly a gift of God," he commented.

From the University of Georgia, Melton transferred to Vanderbilt in Nashville, Tennessee. While a student at Vanderbilt, he studied voice under a prominent teacher. He soon gave up college work to pursue his music studies on a full-time basis.

Melton arrived in New York with the grim determination that he would succeed. He set out to get an audition before "Roxy" Rothafel but failed. This, he decided, would not keep him from being heard. Immediately he burst into song just outside the manager's door. So beautifully did he sing that he was immediately signed on as a member of the Roxy Gang. As a member of this group, he was frequently heard over the Columbia Broadcasting Company. Many other engagements followed and the name James Melton became synonymous with good singing.

He decided to try out for metropolitan opera. In only five days he had memorized the role that won for him a contract. His best-known appearance for Metropolitan is "Madam Butterfly." Later he was starred in four Hollywood movies including "Ziegfeld Follies of 1945." When asked about Hollywood, he said he definitely would never make another movie. "In Hollywood, a singer has no control of his destiny," he said. He also complained of the long working day there. "A singer needs rest. Hollywood is too unreal."

During his visit here, Dean William Tate escorted him over the campus. He said it seemed good to see and talk with his old friends again. Following his appearance at the Fine Arts Auditorium, a reception was given in his honor at the Shelter. Over 400 people gathered in the house to greet him.

Tenth Anniversary

On December 2, 1949, the tenth anniversary of Delta Omicron Chapter at Westminster College was observed with a banquet, with Martin B. Dickinson, national Secretary, as the main speaker of the evening. Attending the tenth anniversary affair were more than 65 persons, including several alumni and four charter members of Delta Omicron. Emcee John Altheide introduced each of the latter and they were called upon for short talks.

Mr. Dickinson commented on the values that one derives from a small college like Westminster. He told of the progress of Delta Tau Delta and praised the high quality of Delta Omicron. The Arch Chapter, its members, policies, and plans were reviewed. The celebration was ended with the singing of "Delta Shelter."

Tennessee Delts Observe Silver Anniversary at Homecoming Banquet

IT WAS A GREAT celebration for Delta Delta Chapter November 4 when the Knoxville Alumni Chapter had a Homecoming banquet for itself and the chapter's actives and pledges.

Nine of the chapter's 24 charter members were present, along with other good Delt alumni who had not returned to the chapter since graduation. For many of them, this was a span of up to 25 years.

It all began with the publication of a special Silver Anniversary edition of the Volunteer Delt by a committee of the active chapter. The publication was a large volume of 36 pages, including a heavy cover with a full-color crest, a plastic spiral binding, 24 pages of photographs saved over the 25 years of the chapter, and a complete listing of all names, addresses, and classes for the chapter's members. It cost the chapter $500 and required several weeks of hard work by the committee. All technical work, except the printing, was done by actives.

When Paul O. Canaday, '26, up in New York, received his copy, he immediately contacted Bud Mann, '34, president of the Knoxville alumni, and other members and requested that, in connection with the University of Tennessee's regular Homecoming game with Georgia Tech, the Delt alumni have their own Homecoming banquet on the eve of the game and a buffet supper-open house following the big game—all this to thank the active chapter for publishing the anniversary issue of the Volunteer Delt and to celebrate the chapter's 25th anniversary.

Letters were sent out to all Delta Delta members during the summer months. Responses were immediate and encouraging.

Finally November 4 arrived. The banquet room of a downtown hotel was reserved for the night. As the eight o'clock hour arrived, Deltas and their wives and dates began arriving at the gaily-decorated banquet hall.

Old relationships were renewed. Friends saw one another for the first time in years, and in every corner, one could see nothing but old friends congregating. As more and more joined the party, it soon became one big, full hall of more than 200 persons—gathered for a good time.

Arthur D. Gray, '21, chapter adviser, finally arrived, went to the head of the table, and the banquet got under way. After the meal, Mr. Gray stood up, rapped for order, and asked men to stand and identify themselves.

Among the first to announce themselves were B. Y. Morris, '23, of Chicago, one of the charter members, and Ben P. Hazlewood, '23, from Jackson, Tennessee, another charter member.

Others present were Ed Pickett, Jr., '40, from Birmingham; Charles D. King, '41, from Obion, Tennessee; David Pack, '43, Sevierville; and Lewis Tansel, '37, from Chicago.

John W. Fisher, II, '38, came from Muncie, Indiana. N. Key Hart, '26, from Washington, was there; Paul E. Hilliard, '26, came from Bluefield, West Virginia; John F. Warlick, '28, came from Alexandria, Virginia; J. D. Lawhon, '42, came up from Macon, Georgia; R. O. Lawhon, '22, Laurel, Mississippi; Paul O. Canaday, '26, New York; E. Hugh Shackleford, '43, Birmingham; Eugene Magette, '48, Chattanooga.

From around the state came Thomas E. Guthrie, Sr., '23; John T. Hoffmeister, '46; Douglas Smith, '45; Walker Meacham, '46; Dow Drews, '46; Carlton B. Cook, '49; Bill Maiden, '48; Paul B. Francis, '39; Rudolph Heinrich, '28; Henry M. Dent, '43; A. Jack Fisher, '34;

W. A. Carden, '43; William Middleton, '48; H. B. Jarnagin, '41; Harry Miller, '29; Hubert W. Dungan, '37; Sam K. Carson, '29; John Dinsmore, '44; Paul Bradshaw, '47; and Robert Arrants, '47.

This was an exceptional turnout for a Homecoming week end for any chapter.

Many of the older Deltas had to turn in somewhat early, while the remainder stayed until early Saturday morning for the dance, which was also provided by the alumni.

The next day, following the game—which Georgia Tech won—a number of interesting conversations were heard around the Shelter. The older alumni, who had not been to the Shelter in quite some time, were taken on a tour around the house and shown the chapter room. During the course of the tour, Benjamin Y. Moore noticed the large badge he and a group of other brothers had built 25 years ago. He remarked about its excellent condition. Another item of interest was brought out in conversation by Brother Moore and Brother Hazelwood. They were reminiscing over the close call the old local, Beta Sigma Alpha, had when it decided to become a national fraternity. They remembered how the original members had petitioned one national fraternity for affiliation and had worked strenuously to secure the affiliation, only to be consistently refused.

Someone remembered, according to Mr. Moore, that Dr. C. N. Gordon, a professor at the University, who was loved and admired by all his students, belonged to a fraternity. They decided then and there to see the venerated professor and ask him which fraternity he belonged to, to determine whether he could help them get a local chapter organized.

They saw Dr. Gordon. It was Delta Tau Delta he belonged to. Then things began happening. Everyone immediately became excited over the gleaming possibilities in Delta Tau Delta.

The local group petitioned—only to be refused. It again petitioned and ultimately got its charter.

Delta Delta Chapter feels extremely gratified that our publication brought back so many alumni—and especially nine of the 24 charter members of the chapter.

of this building to the patients it serves."

And above the entrance to General Hospital No. 1, is graven this sermon from Shakespeare:

"The quality of mercy is not strained. It droppeth as the gentle dew from heaven upon the place beneath. It is twice blessed. It blesses him that gives and him that takes."

Architect Gunn is pleased when he hears that the havens for the sick on Hospital Hill are living up to his symbols. Architecture, he is sure, should combine the poetic with the utilitarian, to be broadly utilitarian.

Although Fred Gunn wears the white beard and the long memory now, he is still active in his office. With keen eyesight and a quick mind he works every day on the unsolved problems of his profession. Kansas City, in its centennial year, salutes a pioneer . . . Delta Tau Delta is proud of Brother Fred Gunn.

Governor Fuller Warren, in his presentation eulogy, traced the Vice-President's outstanding career from birth in Kentucky in 1877 to the present day.

The "Veep," in a full round of appearances, rode at the head of the 50-unit Homecoming parade, attended the Gator Growl pep rally, and was the principal speaker at the annual Blue Key Homecoming banquet.

Accompanied by his fiancée, he was honored with a 19-gun salute at the opening of the Gator Growl celebration.

Delta Zeta Chapter responded to the Vice-President's visit by outshining 23 other fraternities to win the Homecoming float decoration contest. The float, a model of the Delta Queen showboat, featured Chapter Vice-President Bob Kiker and a host of beautiful girls.

The float was constructed by Al Rodriquez, Bill Jones, Joe Norris, Leslie Guest, and Dave Hodges with help from the entire chapter.

WILLIAM VOLK, sophomore of Beta Delta Chapter at the University of Georgia, may be another breaststroke champion, according to Coach "Bump" Gabrielsen. And he couldn't even swim before he came to the University.

"Foggy," as he is known around the Delt house, won the 100-yard breaststroke event at the annual Thanksgiving Invitational at the University of North Carolina. He not only won but also set a new pool record of 1:04.7.

Bill has unofficially equaled the world's record for the 50-yard breaststroke event, having been clocked at 27 seconds flat.

L. ALLEN BECK, Baker, '09, associate counsel of the National Association of Insurance Agents, was one of the speakers at the 51st annual meeting of the Association in Indianapolis recently.

One of the original 216 C. P. U.'s (Chapter Property and Casualty Underwriters), Mr. Beck is a past president of the Colorado Association of Insurance Agents. He recently assumed the position of director for the state of Colorado of the National Association, which automatically makes him a member of the national board of directors.

He conducts a column entitled "We . . . the Agents" in The Insurance Field, trade journal for insurance men. Another Delt—ALPHONSO RAGLAND, JR., Texas, '24, formerly edited the page.

Mr. Beck teaches a course in casualty insurance at the University of Denver's School of Business Administration. A master of wit and repartee, he is much in demand as a speaker.

A member of the Distinguished Service Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, he is a former Supervisor of Scholarship and Secretary of the Fraternity.

"Economic Life" Series To Be Resumed

In succeeding issues of THE RAINBOW, the "Economic Life" series of articles, first introduced to the Fraternity in 1945, will be resumed. The articles have been presented with the objective of giving guidance to college men and recent graduates in the selection of their life work. Each essay has covered a different vocation or profession.

Scheduled for early issue in this volume are articles on agriculture and education.

Dr. Henry M. Wriston, Wesleyan, '11, President of Brown University, will be the author of the essay on the educational field. Dr. Wriston is president of the Association of American Universities and a former Supervisor of Scholarship of Delta Tau Delta.

General Thomas D. Campbell, Cornell, '05, the world's largest wheat producer, will write concerning the inducements and rewards of agriculture as a vocation. A well-known champion of industrialized agriculture, General Campbell has been frequently consulted by officials of foreign countries desiring to improve their farming methods.

since November 1, 1948. The report of the Conference secretary gave an approximate total membership of 1,226,710 as of July 1, 1949.

A united front on the general problems that affect all fraternities was called for by Judge Frank H.

Myers in his closing remarks as Chairman of the Conference: "I say with the firmest conviction that the strongest fraternity cannot function alone in the American College fraternity system. . . . The sooner that every member fraternity recognizes this fact the sooner the Conference will be worth while and effective for the college fraternity system."

Among the Delt educators who attended the sessions were William Tate, Georgia, '24, Dean of Men of the University of Georgia, and Russell A. Griffin, Hillsdale, '29, Dean of Men of Western Reserve University. Harold G. Bergwall, Brown, '50, represented Brown University as president of its interfraternity council.

Eastern Conference Meets in Philadelphia

THE EASTERN DIVISION re-elected Albert J. "Bud" Murphy, Jr., Penn State, '38, Division President at its biennial Conference, held December 2 and 3, 1949, at the Hotel Warwick in Philadelphia. Omega Chapter (Pennsylvania) and the Philadelphia Alumni Chapter were Conference hosts.

High light of the Conference was the banquet Saturday evening. Principal speaker was President W. H. Brenton. Dr. Walter S. Cornell, charter member of Omega Chapter, and Dean George L. Schuster, chapter adviser of Delta Upsilon Chapter (Delaware), also appeared on the speaking program.

Frank M. Cornell, Pennsylvania, '28, former President of the Eastern Division, was presented his citation to the Distinguished Service Chapter by Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields, representing the Committee of the D. S. C. Jordan Gauthier, president of the Philadelphia Alumni Chapter, was the banquet toastmaster.

The Conference social program included a dance at the Hotel Warwick on Friday night. Dates for visiting Deltas were obtained by members of Omega Chapter.

Business sessions were devoted mainly to discussion of such programs as rushing, scholarship, and alumni relations, with a liberal interchange of ideas among delegates of the various Eastern Division chapters.

Alumni of the Philadelphia Alumni Chapter attended the sessions. Also present and participating were Division Vice-Presidents Paul J. Franz and Thomas G. Meeker; Warner D. Orvis and Henry S. Otto, president and vice-president respectively of the Beta Omicron (Cornell) house corporation; and David K. Reeder, former Division vice-president and former officer of the National Interfraternity Conference.

Scholastic Quotations

"Study is the job of the college student, and good scholarship means that he is acquitting himself like a man, with a realization of obligation to himself and his surroundings."

—ALVAN E. DUERR, former Supervisor of Scholarship and President of Delta Tau Delta.

"It is the qualities behind the grades, the achievement they reflect, which Delta Tau Delta wants."

"The best way to prepare for the future is to take good care of the present; and for the college man that means creditable scholastic standing."

—ALVAN E. DUERR.

Secretary of War under President Roosevelt from 1933 to 1936, this great Delt died August 27, 1936, at the height of a brilliant political career.

His chapter was Beta Tau (Nebraska), where he was a charter member in 1894. A leader in everything he put his hand to, he was captain of the University of Nebraska football team which won the Missouri Valley title in 1894.

After his college career, he moved to Utah to become a prime mover in that state's mining industry. He was general manager of the Consolidated Mercur Gold Mines, which in those days operated the largest gold mine in Utah, and he was co-inventor of a roasting process for the reduction of refractory ores.

In 1924 he entered politics and was elected Governor of Utah on the Democratic ticket at the same time that Calvin Coolidge carried the state by a large majority. During his tenure as Governor, he was twice chairman of the national governors' conference, declining a third term.

He was a loyal wearer of the Square Badge. He attended the National Capital Founders Day dinner in 1936 with the intention of slipping away early to be present at an important diplomatic reception, but as the evening wore on, he enjoyed the company of his Fraternity brothers so much that he completely forgot the diplomatic reception.

President of the University of Wisconsin for 15 years, he was widely recognized as one of the country's foremost thinkers and a leading progressive.

He was a Delt at Beta Pi Chapter (Northwestern) in the class of 1912. From 1912 to 1916 he served as assistant to the president of Northwestern University. Even at this early stage of his career, he had become well-known as a lecturer throughout the country.

In 1916 he moved to New York to enter the editorial field. He was a member of a group headed by Ex-President William H. Taft that drafted a covenant for the League of Nations, which was considered by the Peace Conference in Paris during 1918 and 1919.

After serving four years as editor of The Century Magazine, he was appointed president of the University of Wisconsin at the relatively young age of 38. From 1925 to 1940, the year of his death, he wrote a daily editorial which was widely syndicated in American newspapers. During this period he also wrote several books, one of the most popular of which was America's Hour of Decision (1934), which rapped the Roosevelt régime smartly on the knuckles. His thesis that no government could succeed which secured votes through promising the moon to millions was widely received, and at one time he was considered a prospect for the Republican presidential nomination.

During his latter years he was president of Rural Progress, Inc., and editor of Rural Progress Magazine.

His death in September, 1940, at the early age of 53, deprived America of one of its most able educators and writers.

Playright and poet, this Delt was known as a "student of the human heart." A native of Terre Haute, Indiana, and a graduate (1894) of DePauw University, he was for a time President of the Northern Division of the Fraternity and Editor of THE RAINBOW.

Most of his life he devoted to writing. Some of his best known works are: Jesus: A Passion Play, Desiderata, The Wife of Marobius, and Poems.

When his alma mater celebrated its centennial, he was chosen to write the DePauw University Centennial Ode. He was cited to the Fraternity's Distinguished Service Chapter in 1937.

His most famous work is A Prayer (1903), which is reprinted below. It has been translated into 32 languages and dialects and has been more widely circulated than any other prayer written in the English language, with the exception of the Lord's Prayer. More than a million copies have been printed. It has been set to music. It has been inserted into the Congressional Record. It has been stolen from public buildings, pirated, modified and plagiarized, found on the bodies of suicides, the last solace of condemned criminals, the daily lesson of millions of school children, the cherished possession alike of the Fifth Avenue millionaires and the Bowery poor.

Even after 47 years, it still retains its universal appeal, bringing inspiration and consolation to countless thousands.

A PRAYER

Let me do my work each day; and if the darkened hours of despair overcome me, may I not forget the strength that comforted me in the desolation of other times. May I still remember the bright hours that found me walking over the silent hills of my childhood, or dreaming on the margin of the quiet river, when a light glowed within me, and I promised my early God to have courage amid the tempests of the changing years. Spare me from bitterness and from the sharp passions of unguarded moments. May I not forget that poverty and riches are of the spirit. Though the world know me not, may my thoughts and actions be such as shall keep me friendly with myself. Lift my eyes from the earth, and let me not forget the uses of the stars. Forbid that I should judge others, lest I condemn myself. Let me not follow the clamor of the world but walk calmly in my path. Give me a few friends who will love me for what I am; and keep ever-burning before my vagrant steps the kindly light of hope. And though age and infirmity overtake me, and I come not within sight of the castle of my dreams, teach me to be thankful for life, and for time's olden memories that are good and sweet; and may the evening's twilight find me gentle still.

THE DELT CHAPTERS

Alpha—Allegheny

With the support of the entire pledge class, Ray Cook and Bud McIndoe, both pledges, were elected as freshman class president and treasurer, respectively. Their campaign featured a typical Delta serenade and a cider-and-donut party in front of Allegheny's main gate.

About the middle of the term, the entire chapter migrated to Wooster College to serenade President Bob McCune's recently-pinned girl. With the exception of a slight accident, the trip was very successful. Another trip was taken by the "Delt Eight" to Trinity Cathedral in Pittsburgh, where the Pittsburgh Alumni Association sponsored a religious service and singing contest. Second-place honors were taken by Alpha in this competition.

Our intramural football, volleyball, and golf teams made a good showing against other fraternity competition, and the basketball team is well under way to a successful season. In other intramural contests, Sophomore Arnie Lewis took first place for the second time in the annual "Turkey Trot," a one and three-fourths mile cross-country race.

On varsity teams, Freshman Pledge Ray Cook received a letter as second-string tackle on Allegheny's football eleven, while Arnie Lewis earned his first soccer letter, having played center-forward for two years. Bummy Davis also was presented with a letter for senior manager of the soccer team. With the beginning of basketball season, Alpha has two representatives, Rink Kofford and Bud McIndoe, on the first string varsity.

As far as scholastic achievements are concerned, Alpha's treasurer, Tom Fort, won the high scholastic honor of election to Phi Beta Kappa. At present, Tom is the only undergraduate member; he earned his position through a 90.4 overall average. Alpha's newest initiate, Jack Goellner, leads his class with an average of 94. In the Men's Extemporaneous Speaking Contest, Pax Hart placed second out of eight contestants.

Socially, the calendar has been filled with Wednesday evening student-faculty discussion forums, pledge-active smokers, reciprocal dinners with other fraternities, and, of course, the highly-anticipated Christmas formal. This year, the dance was carried on the theme of an 1890 Christmas, the Shelter being literally hidden with holly, mistletoe, pine, and candle-light. The traditional boar's head was placed in the middle of the refreshment table, and, naturally, Santa Claus was present to hand out favors to the girls and present our house-mother with her gift. Plum pudding and caroling by the "Delt 16" added to the enjoyment of the some 140 attending.

BILL WALKER

Beta—Ohio

Highlighting its fall activities with an intramural sweep and a Homecoming victory, Beta Chapter included in its activity roster some unusual social events and an increased drive toward activity participation.

The intramural victories were secured in a stadium contest which provided the Deltas with the All-Campus Intramural Football Championship. This victory had been preceded only briefly by the winning of the Fraternity Tennis Championship.

At Homecoming, Deltas from near and far flocked to the Shelter to produce a near-record crowd of 300 celebrants. Included in the Homecoming festivities were a second-place house decoration trophy by the Fraternity, the annual "Walk-Around" before Lindley Hall, and many other traditional events.

In the extracurricular department, Deltas secured leading posts on major campus Student Council committees, in addition to spring work with the Junior Prom and Greek Week committees. On the Ohioan magazine, six Beta Chapter men were named to executive positions, including editor, business manager, sales manager, associate editor, and assistant sales manager.

The big event for the beginning of the new semester was Founders Day, selected to honor two classes of initiates and returning alumni.

On the varsity athletic line-up, a new Delt power was visible in all ends of the sports field. Three Deltas were starring members of OU's varsity football team, one a member of the freshman team, with other Deltas on the varsity swimming and cross-country teams. In addition, unusual prospects are in view for a steady increase in this interest during the coming spring months.

For outstanding activity participation, Ralph Dunbar, a junior from Birmingham, Michigan, was selected to membership in J-Club, junior men's activities honorary.

Ralph included among his interests the chairmanship of the Military Ball, active work in senior military organizations, membership on the varsity tennis team, theater and musical work, and leadership of the Delt glee club.

In disposing of its monetary award for the First-Prize Ohiodelt, the chapter completed its new set of sterling silverware for the dining room.

ALAN E. HIMELICK

Gamma—W. & J.

The rushing program at Gamma, under the leadership of John Kreuer, was successful this fall, as it produced 17 of the best pledges on the W. & J. campus. The pledge class is composed of 15 freshmen and two upperclassmen. One of the high lights of the rushing season was a party held with the Delta Beta Chapter.

On November 5, Peter Price, Duncan Gosling, Donald Smith, Boyd Warne, and Karl Keffer were initiated into the Fraternity. The initiation was followed by a banquet at the Auld Hotel, with Dr. Dickey, Gamma, '09, and Al Sheriff, Gamma, '49, sharing the speaking honors. The^s attempted to illustrate to the men the im^s portance of their status as active member^s and the extra efforts which they should^s put forth to keep Delta Tau Delta at its present level of performance.

The Deltas are again represented on the varsity basketball team, with Dave Knoche and Charles Devic holding down starting positions. Norman Sirianni is one of the leading hoopsters of the junior varsity five. On the swimming team are Stu McCombs and Don Smith.

On December 6, Gamma was honored by having W. H. Brenton, Hugh Shields, and Norman MacLeod, former national President, visit the Shelter. It has been quite a while since anyone has delivered such an inspiring speech as did President Brenton. He emphasized the principles of the Fraternity, how they have been applied, and the results that have been achieved through their application.

The Greek Swingout at W. & J. this year was one of the most successful ever held. On the evening of the dance, a formal dinner was served; then the brothers and their dates danced to the music of Ray Anthony, after which they returned to the Shelter for a party and breakfast. On the following night, a Christmas party was held, complete with dancing, Santa Claus, and general merrymaking.

JOHN DURITSA

Delta—Michigan

By the time the next RAINBOW is published, Delta Chapter should be boasting a new three-way radio, record, and television set. We are sure we will all enjoy it.

The Dels have proved themselves tough foes by reaching the finals in wrestling, swimming, and volleyball. The swimming team defeated the defending champs early in the semester—only to be upset in the finals. Athletic Director Dick Genthe is now molding a basketball team that should go a long way in intramural competition.

The social calendar has been quite active under "Arranger" Doug Mooney. A highly successful exchange dinner with the Thetas was one of the finer parties, and a caroling party with the Delta Gammas was also a huge success, ending with square dancing in the dining room led by "Painless" Peter Palmer.

The Christmas formal was, of course, the big social event of the season. The first couple of hours of the party were rather disorganized, but then everybody settled down and danced to the fine music of a combo from Detroit. Thanks to Brother Larry Doolittle, the beautiful dates were given corsages made from orchids flown from Larry's back yard in Honolulu.

February brings about the graduation of Harold Rumble, Bob Higbee, Tony Montagano, and Dick Lewis. We are sorry to have these fellows leave us, and we wish them lots of luck with the cold, cruel world.

RICHARD W. TINKER

Epsilon—Albion

Delts from Epsilon Chapter are playing a major part in the campus' extra-curricular activities this year as Bill Monahan and Charlie Mohl lead the sophomore class as president and treasurer, respectively, and Lee Gleason rules as treasurer to the junior class.

Peirce Lewis, one of Albion College's leading debaters, was recently awarded the Berry and Bancroft Trophies for debate last spring, and the Baldwin Senior Award for first prize at the Senior Horn Oratorical Contests. Lewis was one of 15 college students selected to represent the College in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for 1950.

The chapter completed one of its most successful rushing programs with a total of 23 men being pledged out of 26 bid.

Bill Monahan and Al Carducci won their football letters this fall, while Pledge Jim Holmes was one of the few freshman runners to be given a cross-country letter. The intramural football team turned in an average season ending up with a .500 average. Wayne Lindow and Tom Johnson, however, were second and third in individual scoring for the league. Mohl captained the intramural cross-country team to third place in the College's first run.

In the annual pledge-active touch football game, the actives turned in a 19-0 triumph, only to have the invading nine-man team from Kappa Chapter down them, 13-7, in an on-again off-again snow storm. Charlie Mohl, who was one of the few freshmen to win a letter last year on the basketball squad, is starting at center on the Briton's court squad this year.

Guests at the Fraternity recently were the presidents of the campus' six sororities and the leaders of the two independent women's groups for a dinner honoring them for their work. College President Dr. W. W. Whitehouse and his wife were faculty guests.

Early in the fall, the Shelter was the scene of a gathering of more than 50 alumni for the College's annual Homecoming. Leading the visiting Epsilonites was the distinguished D. Harvey Ott, '89.

Initiated into the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national honorary musical fraternity, were James Clark and John Ludington.

JAMES DUNNE

Zeta—Western Reserve

A float and a gigantic Red Cat were our contributions to the gala festivities of homecoming. The game was centered about the theme of honoring Reserve alumni; our float had Old King Grad seated atop his throne. The mammoth Red Cat perched on his haunches had just scrubbed up an Ohio University football player and was all ready to run him through the wringer. That cat was three-dimensional, stood almost 14 feet high, and weighed more than 500 pounds. It took 23 men to carry him to his front lawn position. We took first prize with it for house decorations, and our float took second prize at the game.

On December 3 we held our Christmas formal at the Tudor Arms Hotel. This year every week end has had some form of planned entertainment through the efforts of Dave Alden, student at law, and his social staff. This Christmas formal was tops. Some 80 couples attended, dancing to the music of Hal Lynn.

Our 16 pledges planned and staged a party for the active chapter on December 10. The fellows put on a terrific show which lasted some 45 minutes, and the Shelter rocked with laughter.

A word about sports. Although an accurate account has yet to be compiled, we should be leading in points for the intramural all-sports trophy. (Last year we were runner-up.) Both our "A" and "B" football teams went undefeated, the "B's" becoming their league champs, and the "A's" smashing their way to the hard-won title of University champs, having defeated the teams from the various graduate schools of Reserve and Cleveland College.

Our "B" team has been setting a blistering pace in sports, going undefeated through football, volleyball, and, so far, the basketball tournaments.

LEON LEE

Kappa—Hillsdale

It is a bumper year for Kappa Chapter. Many Dels are making names for themselves in campus life. New Initiate Art Chuzum had the guiding hand that led to the organization of the Economics Club, with Howard Bitzinger and Frank Kuehn latching on the membership chairmanship and secretary's jobs respectively. Jack Kreehn, Ken Kraft, Bill Lashbrook, and Bill Chapman are also early members.

The dramatic honorary society, Alpha Psi Omega, was brought to Hillsdale this fall largely through the efforts of Jack Rice, who heads the list of charter members. Bill Chapman and Bill Lashbrook round out the list of Dels in the organization. Bill Kuni was recently appointed social chairman for the Federation and has been doing a very good job.

Star Basketball Player Gil Edson and Jack (Finger-in-Every-Pie) Rice make up the Delt contribution to the national Who's Who on college campuses.

The Refrigerator Bowl game at Evansville, Indiana, was quite an affair for Tom McCarthy. "Chips" held the lucky scorecard and came home with a large icebox under his arm.

Kappa Chapter has three men who are cinches to be big guns on the Hillsdale College varsity basketball team before the season ends. Led by former All-Conference Center Gil Edson, they are Tom Lusk, Dick Gettings, and Pledge Jim Reinbold.

Christmas week was the biggest week of the year. On top of our annual dinner, serenade, and party, it was Rush Week. Kappa came out ahead with a fine crew of 18 men.

Our winter formal, annually called the Bowery Brawl, came off in sterling style with the "Down-and-Out" Quartette supplying some of the best barbershop that has been heard in these parts for many a moon. Bud Giauque, Morman Taylor, Joe Savarino, and Bill McGee made up the outfit.

Mu—Ohio Wesleyan

Chapter Mu started its second semester of the school year on a sad note as it lost 11 seniors who had been leaders both in the Fraternity and on the campus. Those who were graduated are Nason Allen, Bill Gunn, Ed Heckendorn, Will Hoge, Mike Kevesdy, Clyde Knapp, Joe Ladd, Al Theis, Sterling Parker, Lynn Wilson, and Ray Yinger.

On the brighter side of the picture, though, several of the underclassmen have won new honors for Mu during the past few weeks. John Yoder was elected president of the Wesleyan Players, actors' group. Bill Besuden and George Legge were elected to Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's activities honorary, and Dave McClure was appointed chairman of the South Delaware Committee, an organization that performs relief work in the negro section of Delaware.

Dick Rowland, forward on the varsity basketball squad, was elected to the University's mathematics honorary, and Dave Read and Lynn Wilson are new members of the chemistry and political science honorary fraternities, respectively.

Several of the men of Mu were members of Ohio Wesleyan's athletic teams last fall, and Mu's intramural teams have made good showings to date but have not won an individual sports crown thus far.

On the social side, the brothers were quite active during the early part of the winter, decorating the Shelter for their annual Christmas formal and Ozark Party. In keeping with Mu's policy, several orphans were invited to the Christmas banquet, where they were given presents of toys and clothing.

BILL GUNN

Nu—Lafayette

Brothers George Hassler, '52, and William McCloskey, '51, attended the Eastern Division Conference in Philadelphia on December 2, 3, and 4. On the last day of the Conference President Brenton and Executive Vice-President Shields came to the Nu Shelter for Sunday dinner. After dinner President Brenton gave an interesting and inspiring talk on the value of the Fraternity.

The rushing program this fall was one of the most successful in the chapter's history. Fifteen men were pledged as a result of the rushing led by Brother Fredrick Heller, '51.

In interfraternity football Walt Shaw was elected all-campus center. His outstanding defensive play was the keystone of the Delt defensive team. Four other brothers were also nominated for positions on the all-campus team.

December 15 brought around the annual Christmas party for underprivileged children of Easton. The Shelter had a number of kids to the house for dinner, a Christmas tree, and presents.

Brother William Seaman, '51, was elected captain of the Lafayette varsity soccer team for next year. He has held down the position of goalie for the past two years.

This year has brought a closer bond between the Lafayette and Lehigh chapters. The presentation of a trophy has been arranged to be awarded to the chapter that wins two out of three games during seasons of competitive sports. Nu of Lafayette won the first sport in defeating Beta Lambda of Lehigh in football 8-0.

Omicron—Iowa

Next to our 22 top-flight pledges, the most welcome addition to the Shelter is a new oil-burning furnace. Due to the efforts of Chapter Advisor "Wib" Cannon and Ned Raymond, house corporation treasurer, the much-needed new heating plant was installed late in November.

The new furnace is much more compact than the old. This space-saving, plus some moving around, has given us a new room. Plans are under way to convert this into a chapter room when the money is available.

Plans are also being made for Omicron's Second Postwar Founders Day banquet. Invitations are being sent to all Iowa Delts for the affair which will be held early in March.

Another new addition to the chapter will come this spring when an Omicron Mothers' Club will be formed. Mothers will be invited to spend the Mother's Day week end at the Shelter, at which time final plans will be drawn up for the organization.

On campus, Lloyd Jackson was recently named to the Student Board of Publications. This group controls University publications, including the number one college newspaper, The Daily Iowan. Bob Geigel was a cocaptain of the Iowa football team this fall and has been named to a similar position on the University wrestling team.

Social life at Iowa has, as usual, been great. The pre-Christmas season was a particularly busy one in this respect. Four hundred sorority pledges were entertained at the Shelter December 11 at our annual open house. The annual Christmas Masquerade was held December 10 and was, as usual, a tremendous success. A "hot chocolate" party and gift exchange took place December 15.

WAYNE MCCLOW

Rho—Stevens

The opening of the fall term found the chapter in a considerable state of flux, with house improvements being the leading theme. Heading the list of accomplishments was the second-deck head, with new walls and plumbing being installed. All the work was done by the members and the project was financed from funds from last year's magazine drive.

In line with house improvements, a House Restoration Fund drive is being conducted. This fund is to provide items such as new rugs, desks, and other furniture, in addition to financing repair work. Many contributions have already been received from the alumni.

Former Prexy Van V. Rowland, the chairman of this drive, was presented with a gavel as a token of the house's appreciation for his efforts as past president of the house. This presentation was made at the annual Fathers' Night Banquet.

Another important phase of Delt life, sports, found the Delts well represented on the soccer squads, with Brothers Bob Gooley, Bill Graf, "Pluto" Fredericks, Jim Taber, and Pledge Charlie Davis on the varsity. Mainstays on the J. V. were Bill and Don Landmann, Ed Wilson, and Pledge Frank Troeger. The basketball season finds Brother Norm Dayton slated for an important role on the team.

In I. F. C. sports, the Delts have placed second in softball and in football and have copped the bowling championship, with high hopes for the basketball and ping-pong tournaments which have yet to be played.

The chapter rolls passed the 500 mark last November when six men were initiated. Brother Bill Austin had the honor of being the 500th man to be initiated by Rho. Prexy Bill Ganther and Al Ronveaux were the chapter representatives at the recent Eastern Division Conference. They gave an excellent report to the house on the results of the Conference.

WILLIAM H. GRAF

Upsilon—Rensselaer

The social activities started off with the school's 125th Anniversary Week End celebration bringing many of the Delt alumni back to the Shelter to make the week end a complete success. Included in the festivities of this momentous occasion was a formal banquet at the Shelter in honor of the returning brothers. Seventy strong, including the actives, was the attendance at this banquet.

November 12 found the chapter once again engrossed in another big week end with the Interfraternity Ball, one of the big formal dances of the year on the "Hill." A formal banquet at the house preceded the Ball.

With Christmas just around the corner and vacation time a week away, our annual Christmas party was held on December 10. Brother Smith put all his talents of the soccer field into practice that evening to win the balloon breaking contest and walked away with the fabulous prize—a dime and ring.

To conclude our Christmas festivities prior to vacation time, the annual orphans' Christmas party went off with a bang, as Santa Claus—Brother Bivona—arrived, bringing with him "laundry" bags full of toys and joys for the 14 orphans. A hearty dinner was served to the children, followed by magic stunts performed by Magicians Cassidy and Lillis. Even the Shelter's mascot, "Blackie," aided in the evening's entertainment by going through his list of tricks. Presents were plentiful for each child, including sleds for all.

FRANK CASSIDY

Phi—W. & L.

Summarizing the field of achievement leads one ultimately to the conclusion that Phi is up to its usual standards. Roger Mudd, senior from Chevy Chase, Maryland, was elected senior class executive committeeman in elections held in November. Jock Morrison, senior from Rome, Georgia, was selected for Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership society founded on the campus of Washington and Lee, in ceremonies held December 16. Both Roger and Jock have been selected for Who's Who in American Colleges. Sigma Delta Chi found two of its initiates in Russ Applegate and Bob Pittman, juniors in the journalism school.

Phi is moving right along toward another intramural title by taking the lead in tennis, handball, bowling, table tennis, basketball, and wrestling. Irv Winick and Wilson and Morgan Lear have regular berths on the W & L wrestling team which has copped the Southern Conference Title for two consecutive years.

On the social calendar, the house party held December 3 and the annual Christmas Party were outstanding. The house party was particularly significant as it was the first one held since the remodeling of the house was completed.

The midsemester reports found three Delts on the Honor Roll and four on the Dean's List. Clark Garrecht, from Memphis, was one of the few freshmen making the Honor Roll. A study hall supervised by an active is now being held every night for all pledges failing to obtain a C average at midsemester. Those needing aid in particular courses are tutored at this time.

letics, in other school activities, and the social functions of the chapter were especially enjoyable and well-planned.

Heading the list socially, of course, was the Kenyon Fall Dance Week End. Our boy Tom Carruth, a senior who is chapter social chairman and who heads the school social committee as well, did a fine job in planning the school dances and our own chapter parties. Nearly everyone who has been at Kenyon for any length of time said he thought it was one of the best dance week ends in a long, long time.

In athletics, too, Chi was in the forefront. Besides having ten men playing first-string varsity football and eight men playing soccer, our "Big Red" intramural football team had an undefeated, untied, and only once-scored-upon season, covering eight games.

On Awards Day, President Pete Weaver was honored by the President of the College. This year Pete earned his fourth varsity football letter; he is also one of the leaders on the lacrosse team. Bill Schneebeck has been invited to spend his Christmas vacation at one of the large hotels in Nassau, the Bahamas, where he will play tennis tournaments and exhibitions. Bill is Ohio Conference champ.

Strengthened by a pledge class of 21 men, the chapter is looking forward to success in the winter months.

DAVID BELL

Omega—Pennsylvania

Omega Deltas were proud and happy to entertain representatives from the East over in the Division Conference held here in November. Omegans exchanged greetings and ideas with the visiting Deltas from Toronto to West Virginia during the con-fab, ball, and party at the Shelter. It was a great pleasure and honor for us to meet here at Penn with our alumni and actives of neighboring chapters.

Football season saw a series of postgame coffee hours in the Shelter for alumni, actives, and guests, plus several bang-up football parties in the evenings. Promoting intercampus good will and friendship, Omega has entertained invading groups of Deltas from Pittsburg, Cornell, and Dartmouth, as well as a company of cadets from West Point over Army week end.

The Mask and Wig Show made its annual road trip throughout the East and Midwest, boasting a five-man representation from the Delt house. Senior Ange Demos, veteran Wigger and vice-president of the Club, took the limelight again, accompanied by Soloist Jack Smilgin, high-stepping Charlie Franzen and Scott Fuess, and singing Bud Fretz.

Junior Class President Bob Polliard piloted the Junior Week End—Chapel, traditional Cane March, Prom, and all—to a rousing success; while Jim Austin, playing the cantankerous Ebenezer Scrooge, starred in the lead role of Dicken's "Christmas Carol," a Yuletide presentation by Penn Players.

Omegans have shown their prowess academically, too, having risen ten places last term in the fraternity academic line-up. An extensive program has been undertaken to keep the pledges' averages up to par.

Omega looks forward to a terrific winter and spring season. Topping the list of activities, we find the nucleus of Penn's crew right in the Shelter. Art Houlihan, Charlie Mellen, Irv Miller, Steve Littauer, and Fred Willoughby will pull for Penn in the Annual Regatta of the Palm Beaches against Yale.

Cage activities see Veteran Dave Blaetz still racking up the points, while Bill Rommel and Bill Willimas show promise in approaching some of those old Penn track records.

Omegans, too, will be taking part in the newspaper spring offensive. Bill Rader, Paul Killion, Jack Beattie, and Charles Russell keep the hot news on the presses, scratching out stories for the Daily Pennsylvanian.

CHARLES K. RUSSELL

Beta Beta—DePauw

Beta Beta looks back on a successful semester. Outstanding points include positive adoption of The Delt Development Program. Under the skillful leadership of Bill Dehner, we have turned out a class of freshmen who are truly Fraternity men, not alone in "rah-rah," but in understanding of all phases of Fraternity life.

Next semester will bring two of the brothers back to the campus. Gordon Sinks will return to weave a tale concerning his six-months tour of Europe, and Stan Barkley will be giving us the "straight scoop" dealing with Army life at West Point.

An item which will interest all chapters concerns interfraternity dealings here at DePauw. This year an interfraternity day was set aside during which all men's houses "exchanged" members for meals during the day. Following the evening meal, each house held a meeting concerning all phases of fraternity life—that is, finances, pledge training, public relations, etc. These meetings were attended by faculty as well as students. Everyone could pick out the meeting which interested him most and attend some. Different houses presented their outlooks and policies, which proved to be quite helpful. In this person's estimation, the whole thing showed foresight and thought.

We find Brother Lee Cooper again in the limelight in that he recently attended an important committee meeting of the Northern Division in Chicago. Brother Hugh Hawkins, our 97-pound giant (mental), won his state nomination for a Rhodes Scholarship but lost in the finals at New Orleans.

As a parting item, we submit a picture of what we consider to be a well-rounded cabinet. It is these men's duty to form house policy and to guide the chapter along the established lines. By co-ordinating these offices and officers, we have a smooth-running house.

HERB HOOVER

Beta Gamma—Wisconsin

Beta Gamma has picked up the ball where it stopped rolling last year. The intramural football team fought its way to third place, the bowling team is undefeated, and the midwinter sports are just getting under way. The Homecoming program went off with a big bang, and the entire social season was topped with the Christmas formal on December 10.

The Beta Gamma Mothers' Club has done a great deal in adding the "woman's touch" to the Shelter. The evening bridge party given was a tremendous success and all proceeds were invested in revamping the living room furniture. Mrs. Hansen has spent a great deal of time in keeping the place looking like home. The entire chapter owes her and all the mothers a great deal of thanks.

Brother Bill Schrader, our song chairman, has formed the nucleus of what we believe is the choir that will win the all-University sing next May. One of our alumni, Gerry Wallen, has given a great deal of valuable assistance, besides directing our mixed choir of Delts and Tri-Delts. The mixed choir is something new at Wisconsin and should lend to better serenading.

Members of Beta Gamma are in prominent positions throughout campus life. Bob Marshall is on the Cardinal (student daily newspaper) staff. Ernie Warren is a member of the boxing team, Gordie McKay and Bob Wartinbee are members of the honorary R.O.T.C. fraternity. Jack Stillwell was one of the chairmen of "Campus Carnival," and other members are in many prominent positions.

THOMAS TWOMEY

Beta Delta—Georgia

In a whirl of activities, Beta Delta brought to a close one of the most hurried quarters it has seen since its reactivation in 1946. Stunt night, Homecoming, receptions, and a full load of academic work caused the brothers to stretch their will power.

James Melton, Beta Delta, '24, popular star of stage, radio, and screen, was feted with a reception in his honor when he revisited Beta Delta during his recent appearance here. Over 400 persons, many of them old friends and brothers, crowded the Shelter to greet the famous singer.

Not one to rest on its laurels, the chapter proceeded to take first place in the contest for the best homecoming decoration. In a barnyard scene titled "Bama is singing the barnyard blues," the chapter showed the best art work of any fraternity on the campus. Julian Stewart, who managed the whole show, received the gold cup which is given to the first-place winner each year.

Stunt night rolled around, and the chapter was more than prepared for it. With brothers helping paint the scenery and many taking part in the stunt, the chapter won honorable mention out of some 50 fraternities and sororities at the University. Beta Delta's quartet, composed of Brothers Bill McElroy, Bill Rabun, Julian Stewart, and Willis Parkins, set off the skit, "Black Spirit." Brother Parkins played his harmonica and Brothers "Jug" Campbell and J. S. Green finished the skit with a soft shoe dance featuring luminous derbys, canes, and shoes.

With stunt night still fresh in their minds, the chapter planned its annual "Sadie Hawkins Day" party. The Shelter took on the air of "Dogpatch" and all the characters of the comic strip "Li'l Abner" appeared.

Plans are still going forward for a new chapter house. All brothers and alumni are hoping to see construction begin soon.

GEORGE THOMPSON

Beta Epsilon—Emory

Beta Epsilon brought the fall quarter to a gay close with its annual Christmas party for orphans from the nearby Methodist Children's Home. Six children were present—three boys and three girls. Each child was given some article of clothing and as many toys as he could carry away. Due to a scarcity of red suits, Santa Claus was forced to leave his presents at the door for his Beta Epsilon helpers to distribute. After stuffing themselves with ice cream and cookies, the children went back to the orphanage. The evening was completed with dancing and carol-singing by brothers and dates.

The outstanding social event of the quarter was the presentation of the Delta Darling of 1949-50. The presentation party was preceded by a series of "rush" parties for girls nominated by high school sororities or by the brothers themselves. At the presentation party, Miss Pat Duncan was crowned Delta Darling for the coming year. At this time each of the candidates received a silver bracelet bearing the crest of the Fraternity.

We point with understandable pride to two of our men for their participation in sports—Bill Taff, who made All-Emory in football, and Johnny Beane, who received his silver football in recognition of his participation on the junior football team. In this year's wrestling meet we tied for second place. The annual Taulette Bowl game between pledges and brothers was held with the brothers winning (naturally) 17-12.

Beta Epsilon is well represented in the various campus organizations. We have five men in the famous Emory Glee Club, three men on the Emory Wheel, the campus newspaper, two men in intramural football, three men on the Emory wrestling team, and one man in the Emory Players.

We were especially proud last quarter of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, for 30 years director of the Emory Glee Club. In recognition of his work, more than 1800 former glee club members presented the University with a portrait of him painted by Wilford T. Conrow.

JOHN W. PATTILLO

Beta Zeta—Butler

Beta Zeta had the honor of receiving the Arch Chapter of Delta Tau Delta November 11 at the Shelter. After meeting the chapter in the reception line, the Arch Chapter, as well as others, enjoyed refreshments served in the dining room. Decorations and arrangements for the event were handled by Jim Wilson.

A Christmas party was given at the Shelter December 14 for 15 underprivileged children which included gifts given by the chapter. The party was a great success due to perfect planning by Dean Finley, Jim Buchanan, and Fred Rohr.

After the party, elections were held by the chapter. The newly elected officers for the coming year are Bill Robinson, president; Harold Gunderson, vice-president; Phil Shrock, recording secretary; Bill Loebig, corresponding secretary; and Bob Bush, sergeant at arms.

Paul Bevilhimer and Art Fougousse are representing Delta Tau Delta on the varsity basketball team, while four pledges are playing with the freshman squad. The intramural team is expecting to have a successful year this season, led by the leading scorer, Harry Farmer.

The pledges honored the active chapter by giving the Annual Rose Ball December 10 at Long Acre in Indianapolis. Each girl was presented with one dozen red roses under a rose arbor.

Gene Tovey and Marlin Husted are representing Beta Zeta in the intramural ping-pong tourney. They have won seven and lost three games.

WILLIAM LOEBIG

Beta Eta—Minnesota

The "biggest" accomplishment for Beta Eta fall quarter, and without a doubt, the "biggest" thing to hit campus in many a quarter, was the Delts' first-place animated homecoming statue of Paul Bunyan. With a centennial theme to go by, Beta Eta erected a 33½-foot statue, the largest statue in the world of the giant lumberman.

Paul's reign, however, was short-lived and ended as many heroes' do, in a blaze of glory. Beta Eta had decided to leave Paul up to greet President Truman in his Truman Day parade through the University. But at 12:30 Halloween night, pranksters put a torch to the huge statue. Within a few minutes two charred posts were all that were left. Paul became only a myth and a headline in a morning newspaper.

Beta Eta's alumni committee has really started the machinery rolling on an all-out campaign to get more alumni interested in the "goings on" at the Shelter. It has scheduled a series of class dinners to be held throughout the year. The first was the 1915 through 1920 and was met with a great deal of success. It is hoped that the rest of the dinners will meet with an equal or even better turnout.

The rushing committee, which has also been in a beehive of activity throughout the quarter, boasts of the 15 men that are now wearing the Delt pledge pin.

The fall quarter was rounded off by Beta Eta's playing Santa Claus to ten underprivileged children. The children were brought to the Shelter for dinner, after which they assembled around the Christmas tree and were presented with candy and gifts. They were then taken to the union, where they were entertained by movies. After the movies, ten rather tired but starry-eyed youngsters were taken to their respective homes.

THOMAS F. ALLEN

Beta Theta—Sewanee

Beta Theta was saddened by the death of the University's assistant professor of biology, Waring Webb, on November 23. The chapter has taken out a U. S. Savings Bond for his small children with the hope that their education may not suffer.

The Delts took third place in the intramural volleyball tournament against great odds. The support of chapter members at these games had much to do with our victory, in addition, of course, to the fine playing of Brothers Ralph Roscher and Paul Uhrig.

An event of the Thanksgiving week end was the touch football game between the actives and pledges. The actives were victorious.

With the Christmas holidays beginning December 16, the Delts had another bang-up party at the Shelter prior to departure. The entertaining song-fest was led by Brother Alan Bell. Our Christmas party is always one of the high lights of the first semester and surely is a good send-off for the vacation.

Intramural basketball, the next competitive sport, begins in January, and the first-place berth has been reserved by the Delts. The practices show the team to be shaping up to perfection, and with the continued support of the actives and pledges, the season will be a great one.

C. RICHARD ALFRED

Beta Kappa—Colorado

Of the 200 who went through rush week, 37 ended up wearing the Delt pledge button. Although the class is a large one, there is not one man in the group who is not excellent Delt material. This class has more spirit than we have seen in a long time.

Sixteen underprivileged children were entertained at Beta Kappa in an elaborate Christmas party. A treasure hunt and the appearance of Santa Claus added to the festivities. The kids received everything from toy dishes to footballs during the party. Delts and their dates took care of the fascinated kids, and plenty of Christmas food was enjoyed by all.

The 1949 Homecoming events were another big success for Beta Kappa. A new event, a chariot race, was held this year. Each organization built a regular chariot to be pulled by six men with one driver. The race proved to be exciting, with various chariots falling apart and in the end the Delts coming out victorious over the field.

The float won second place in the school contest. It was themed "The Colorado Round-Up" and was composed of a herd of cattle with a cowboy rounding them up.

Intramurals for the fall quarter put the Delta Tau Delta boys ahead of everybody in activity points. We were league winners in both waterpolo and volleyball, but lost out in the all-school playoffs. Our football team, after winning five straight, faltered and missed getting into the playoffs.

Two men represent Beta Kappa on the varsity basketball team this season. They are Jack Froistad, who lettered last year, and Jack Anderson, who is up from the freshman team. This year's freshman team is dominated by Delt pledges. The starting five has three of our men on it. They are Ken Koop, Glen Leyden, and Whitey Gompert. As reserves we have Gordon Macdonald, John Welker, and Bob Lawson.

"Pennies From Heaven" was the theme of the Delt formal which was held in honor of the pledges. Guests entered through a set of pearly gates into the cloud-covered ballroom. Caricatures of each pledge were the pennies which were emerging from the clouds.

JAMES W. FENN, JR.

Beta Lambda—Lehigh

Beta Lambda Delts can rightfully boast of a highly successful start in the present school year. Along the sports line, Art Ferris and Alec Smith, cheered on by Cheerleader Bob Kradoska, held down end positions on a strong Lehigh eleven. Harry Stowers and Scotty Malcolm have recently gained places on the basketball team, and Chuck Hyatt is a manager. Stan Lawler is wielding the épée for the fencing team, while Wrestling Captain Dick Kelsey is defending his second straight Eastern title in the 136-pound class.

Beta Lambda and Nu of Lafayette entered into a pact for yearly competition in football, basketball, and softball with the winner gaining possession of a cup. Besides being fun, this should strengthen already strong relations between the two chapters.

As this article is written, Lehigh's semester-long rushing is not yet over, but a two-week intensive rushing period has just ended and all indications point to a fine pledge class at the start of the second semester.

Gradual improvements are being made to the Shelter with the kitchen heading the list. A complete modernization of the kitchen, including repairs to the damage caused by the fire mentioned in the November RAINBOW, is planned for over the Christmas holidays.

Rounding out the pre-Christmas activities, Beta Lambda held a formal party which was enjoyed by all.

FRANCIS W. LEONARD

Beta Mu—Tufts

Beta Mu completed another successful Rush Week this fall, as 14 men were pledged. As a token of appreciation for the 21 Jackson College girls who helped us in the rushing program, a dinner party was given for them at the Shelter after Rush Week.

The 1949 Homecoming Day was marked by the return of many alumni from nearly all classes. Arthur Simms, our reliable chef, turned out one of his special chicken dinners for the occasion. The chapter glee club favored those present with a few songs following the dinner. Many of the more recently graduated alumni remained at the Shelter for the house party given that evening.

Berets and striped T-shirts were in order on November 10, when Beta Mu had its first big house party of the year, with Gay Paree as the motif.

The annual pledge formal was held the first week end in December at the Parker House Roof, in Boston. Stanley Harris and his Orchestra returned to furnish the music, and the spacious and beautiful surroundings turned the affair into one of the most successful formals in recent years. On the night following, the pledges gave their traditional house party for the actives. Excellent entertainment and decorations made it an enjoyable evening for all. Santa Claus, in the person of "Tiny" Imboden, distributed gifts to all the actives.

RICHARD MCGRAW

Beta Nu—M. I. T.

With the last of the 1949 year rapidly going by, we have our final chance to write up a story about the Delts and their activities on the Tech campus. We now have five captains in the house, representing six sports. They are: Jerry Austen, soccer; Hans Eckardt, squash and tennis; "Leaky" Dyke, sophomore football; Oscar Eubank, crew; and Hank Sharp, lacrosse.

Technology Christian Association is one of the largest extracurricular activities on the campus. Fred Mellin is president and Jerry Austen is head of the public relations. Art Swanson and John Stewart are both members, while Bob Oliver and Jack Redlien have just started to do a first term's work there before becoming members.

Right now the chapter is working to get alumni relations to the level where they should have been long ago—a level where we can at least feel that we have a few of the older alumni friends outside of the immediate Boston area. Within a short period, an edition of the Beta Nu's will be sent out to all alumni. It will be sent in an envelope stamped with a return address. By this we hope to have a means of checking on all the good mailing addresses in our new files. Once we have an idea how many of the addresses are good, we will start sending out more alumni material. Then, early in 1950, when Tech will have its Open House, we have plans for an alumni reunion. There is also the possibility that after this next year we can have an annual Alumni Day in the spring term. It has proved successful at many colleges and preparatory schools, and who knows but that this may be the thing for our chapter.

ROBERT M. OLIVER

Beta Xi—Tulane

Delts at Tulane recently got into the true Christmas spirit when they entertained at the Shelter for a family of underprivileged children. For weeks ahead of the party, a contribution bottle was standing on the table in the living room as actives and pledges dropped pennies, nickels, and dollars to help old St. Nick out with the presents for the children. After the kids had received their gifts and the Delts "showed them how they worked," all retired to the dining room for ice cream and cakes. Special recognition should be given to Carl Hakenjos and Don Harris, who organized and planned the party.

Another party which gained city-wide attention was Beta Xi's annual "Delta's Inferno." The door to the Shelter was transformed into a huge devil's head, through which Delts, dates, and guests had to pass before entering. Sulphur candles and flares dotted the front lawn to give an eerie appearance; crinoline devil costumes, with horns and forked tails, completed the job. So unusual and successful was the party, that The Item, a daily newspaper, gave the party a six-picture spread.

The Mothers' Club has also been busy lately. A tea for the mothers of the new pledges was closely followed by a book review by Mrs. John St. Paul.

Charlie Ramond has recently been moved up again on the staff of the Hullabaloo, campus newspaper. Charlie is now the new associate editor of the paper.

A. J. CLES, JR.

Beta Omicron—Cornell

Beta Omicron's fall activities were highlighted this year by the alumni homecoming week end which was held on the week end of the Cornell-Princeton football game. A large number of the alumni were present at the Shelter for the annual house corporation meeting and the party that followed.

Three Delts participated in a successful Cornell football season this year which was climaxed by a thrilling 29 to 21 defeat of the University of Pennsylvania. The men are Jeff Fleischmann, fullback; Vince Di-Grande and Mike Riordan, guards. Fleischmann finished the season by scoring two touchdowns in the last game, which made him Ivy League high scorer in all-game competition and gave him a tie with George Sella of Princeton for Ivy League touchdowns. He was also leading ground gainer for the Big Red.

In the field of intramural sports Beta Omicron is well on its way to another successful season. The Delt A. C. took third place in the annual cross-country race and is undefeated so far in basketball. A repeat performance is hoped for in taking the intramural basketball championship. Vill Van Gilder took the University Novice Boxing Championship in the 140-pound class. Jim Leaton and Bob Dilatush were runners-up in the 160-pound and 170-pound classes respectively.

Frank Trau was the chapter representative at the Eastern Division Conference in Philadelphia. At the Conference Frank presented the chapter's views on rushing, pledge training, and the many other problems confronting Delta Tau Delta today.

On December 13 Beta Omicron initiated Robert Ashton, Edward Carney, Raymond Cantwell, and Richard Peel as active members of the chapter. Initiation was followed by a banquet at which Joe Barr, the chapter advisor, was guest speaker and Bert Ahearn was toastmaster.

The last function of the chapter before the Christmas holiday was an extremely nice Christmas party and banquet. The success of the evening can be attributed to the new steward, Ray Cantwell, and the new social chairman, Danny Birchard, who acted admirably in their new capacities.

Beta Omicron will be greatly hampered in the second half of this year, however, by the graduation of Chapter President John Servis. John has more than ably carried out his duties and has been a large factor in the constant rise of Delta Tau Delta at Cornell since the war. John was captain of Cornell's track team last season. His position as president will be filled by Vice-President Pete Smith for the remainder of his term of office. Also being graduated in February is Fred Vander Poel who acted as steward last year and played J. V. football.

JOHN H. HOLLANDS

Beta Rho—Stanford

Three members of Beta Rho are playing basketball on the Stanford varsity this season. Veteran Gus Chavalas and Sophomore Jim Ramstead are starters, while Bruce Iverson, another sophomore, is a reserve.

Cocaptain Chavalas is playing his fourth year of varsity competition and will be one of the few athletes in Stanford history to win four letters in one major sport. He is one of the better guards on the Coast. His fancy dribbling and sure eye make him the key man in Stanford's fast-break attack.

Ramstead, a center, and Iverson, a guard, were stars on last year's frosh squad and show great promise for the future. Ramstead has already cracked the starting line-up and appears to be only a year away from All-Coast honors.

An exceptionally busy fall social program was directed by the social committee, headed by Ted Westphal. A number of week-end informal firesides and parties were given at the house, and Halloween and Big Game Parties were held off-campus. The Los Laureles Lodge in Carmel Valley was the site of the chapter's Big Game Party this year.

Approximately 20 Chinese orphan girls from the Ming Quong Home were entertained at the chapter's annual Christmas party.

Rushing season started December 19, and off-campus parties were held in San Francisco and Los Angeles during the Christmas holidays. Rushing Chairman is Jim Bradshaw.

BILL SWIGART

Beta Tau—Nebraska

A feather in the Delt hat was the pledging of Tom Novak. Tom was selected four times for All-Big Seven honors. In his freshman year the burley product of Omaha South was a fullback but played his last three years at center. The "Train wreck's" competitive ability made him the only unanimous choice on Notre Dame's All-Opponent team last year. This year found him being selected for the West's starting center in the Shrine game at San Francisco and at first-string center on the International News Service's All-America line-up.

Stop with football? What for? He's also

Baseball Coach Tony Sharpe's first-string catcher. He holds the distinction of clouting one of the longest balls out of the Husker ball park.

He's a first-rate pledge and we're proud and glad to call him a Delt.

On December 7, a famous Beta Tau alumnus paid us a visit. George Sauer, All-America fullback from Nebraska and now head football coach at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, stopped at the Shelter for a chat with some old grads as well as the undergraduate chapter.

This year the intramural wrestlers took the first-place team trophy. Harley Richardson won the 177-pound crown by virtue of his five victories.

The University Singers presented their annual "Messiah" December 10. Pledges Kay Patitz and Ray Stover and Active Hank Pederson are members of this group.

The housewarming party for the new Shelter is being planned for the latter part of February. It will indeed be a social event that the whole campus will be watching for.

DICK SIMONSON

Beta Upsilon—Illinois

One of the outstanding week ends this fall was our traditional "Dad's Day Week End." Besides the exciting football game, one of the predominant features of the Dad's Day activities was a banquet given in honor of our dads. Following the dinner, our chapter was privileged to have as guest speaker Francis Hughes, the Fraternity's national Vice-President. The subject of Mr. Hughes' speech was "Loyalty of the Good Delt." Another guest speaker was Perry L. Smithers, the second president of the Illinois Dad's Day Association.

Closing the football season and the enjoyable football week ends, the homecoming week end saw much activity at the Shelter, with working on decorations and the greeting of our brother alumni.

The basketball season has now opened, and our house is well represented by Robert Johnson and John McMackin working out on the varsity squad. Peter Truran and William Tate also began on the frosh squad. Another freshman hopeful is James Deremiah, out for track.

The Delts took the division intramural trophy in football and now have their eyes on the basketball award.

Another trophy was added to our shelf when four of our pledges took second in the traditional campus pajama race.

After the Christmas holidays, our chapter held a dance in honor of the pledges, which terminated our fall-semester activities.

DONALD HALLAHAN

Beta Phi—Ohio State

The Beta Phi version of the annual Sadie Hawkins dance was held on October 28 in a large barn which was practically made to order for the occasion. There was plenty of local color, including gay Dogpatch decorations, real outdoor restrooms, a square-dance caller, and a very old-style country orchestra. Delts and their guests were hilariously dressed in costumes right out of the "Li'l Abner" comic strip. As usual, the dance was open to all students at the University.

There will be no more parties at Beta Phi until June, 1950. The brothers are taking this opportunity to bring their scholarship up in the highest bracket. The scholarship committee is working out ways of punishing those whose grades fall down by requiring a minimum point hour to live in the Shelter and by rewarding those who pull our average up. Alumnus Brother Charlie Flick of Columbus has given $100 to the chapter for scholarship improvements. Of this $100, 50 goes to the man who has the greatest improvement during winter quarter and the other 50 is for improvement in spring quarter.

ROBERT B. COLE

Beta Chi—Brown

In their quest for their fourth straight year as holders of the Brown interfraternity athletic trophy—the coveted Lampher Cup—the Beta Chi Delts whipped all opposition in winning the fraternity touch football title. Their only loss was at the hands of powerful Edwards-Hopkins, a club-dorm team, by two touchdowns. Captained by Allan Roberts and tailbacked by Kingsbury Steitz, the Delts finished the season with an 8-1 record, their only really close one being in the game with Theta Delta Chi, which the Delts won on Bill Monroe's dropkick, 21-20. The volleyball team went easily into the final round of eliminations, but was upset, two games to one, in its last game.

There were many Beta Chi brothers prominent in varsity athletics here at Brown. Brothers Bob Searles, Joe "The Toe" Condon, and Joe Bowdring played on Coach Rip Engle's 1949 football powerhouse. Bob played a fine game at offensive right end, and Joe Bowdring was a reserve left end, who saw action in many Brown games. Condon, Engle's reliable after-point and field goal producer, broke up the Columbia game this year with a vital fourth quarter field goal, which smashed the 7-7 deadlock.

Beta Chi Chapter had six men on the soccer team. Brothers Herb Wieboldt (captain), Dave and Gray Michael, Curt Kruger, Al Bartunek, and John Petty represented the Delts on the soccer field. Dave Michael was elected to the captaincy of the squad by his teammates for next year, marking the second straight year that a Delt has captained the soccer team. We also have Brother Bob Barlow, a consistent winner in the 50-yard event, on the swimming team. Chuck Whelan, Dave Thurrott, and Kenny Holmes are the Beta Chi Delts on the present basketball squad.

Under the direction of Phil Steger, alumni relations received a "shot in the arm" this fall. Phil staged an alumni smoker on November 17 that was a huge success. He reported that there was a 25 per cent turnout of alumni at the affair. Delt Paul Mackessey, Brown's Director of Athletics, showed movies of this year's Yale game, and afterward, Phil told the assembled alumni that the chapter needed more positive action from them in respect to rushing, undergraduate loans, and house improvement. Speaking for the alumni, Brother Al Lemon promised more active and positive alumni support in the future.

NEIL B. DONAVAN

Beta Psi—Wabash

The Delts of Wabash are sparking the basketball team with three men. Argyle Jackson, starting center, and Ron Geschcidler, starting guard, will be aided by Dick Neidow, a sophomore guard. Jackson was high-point man in the recent victory over Hanover.

Also in the field of sport, the Delts recently tied for first place in the intramural volleyball contest. This victory, plus the second-place award in football, adds high hopes for that coveted intramural championship crown.

The Shelter has acquired that new look with the addition of all new dining room chairs and several other accessories such as floor lamps, table lamps, and ash trays. This was made possible largely through the aid of the alumni association.

The annual Christmas Formal of Beta Psi was held on December 3 with more than 100 people in attendance. The dance was preceded by a dinner. The entire affair was very ably directed by Thayne Sando, social chairman.

Also under the heading of social activities, the most worth while achievement was the annual party for underprivileged children in the community. Last year the Delts were host to the orphan's home, and this year we entertained 21 underprivileged children of grade-school age. The party began with the showing of movies by our chapter advisor, Larry Sheaffer. This was followed by a Christmas turkey dinner. Then our little guests formed a cheering section and helped us to win a volleyball game. This is an annual affair at the Wabash Delta Shelter, and occurring as it does the week before Christmas vacation, it makes the vacation mean a little more to us than just a series of dances and a holiday from the books.

WILLIAM J. REINKE

Gamma Gamma—Dartmouth

With formal rushing ended, Gamma Gamma found herself with 18 new pledges, all representing a variety of college organizations varying from track and lacrosse to the Glee Club. Frank Smallwood acted as master of ceremonies at the formal banquet, where we were honored with the presence of "Tubby" Merrill, '13, Murray Austin, '15, and Nat Merrill, '48, as guest speakers.

With every football season come celebrations and parties, and the Delt Shelter on the Hanover plain was no exception. House party week end, during which Dartmouth soundly won over a previously unbeaten Cornell team, was topped by a Saturday night dance followed by a party on Sunday. Informal dances were featured at the other two home games.

Our congratulations go to Brother Paul Staley, who played an outstanding game at center during the season, for his election to the captaincy of next year's football eleven.

Every year Gamma Gamma holds a Christmas party for the grade-school children of Hanover. This year, with hearty Howie Geist as Santa with a bag full of presents, the annual event was a great success.

The house would like to thank the 50th Anniversary Fund Committee for the fine work it is doing in connection with present mortgage drive. Under the leadership of Moe Fry, '45, the committee has worked long and hard to get in contact with our 600 alumni and inform them of the work of the committee.

In October, 1951, the chapter will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its founding at Dartmouth. The present drive is being conducted in an effort to discharge the $22,000 mortgage debt. To all committee members and alumni contributing to the drive, the chapter gratefully says, "Thanks!"

HERMAN CHRISTENSEN

Gamma Delta—West Virginia

When this copy has hit the mailing lists, Gamma Delta will have entered into its fiftieth year of existence. As we look back on the records, we find them very impressive. To enumerate these accomplishments would mean to take up an entire volume of THE RAINBOW, so for the present we will forget the past and take up the present.

On March 5 we are going to have a banquet to celebrate our half century of existence. At this time we shall have the unveiling of the portrait of Anthony McCue, who has backed this chapter through thick and thin, and whom we always feel that we are able to call on whenever there are any major problems confronting us. Members of the Arch Chapter will be present to speak to the members. On the fourth we are planning a smoker for the entertainment of any and all Deltas who can find it possible to attend. A cordial invitation is extended to all Brother Deltas to help us to observe this anniversary.

The Gamma Delta Octet went to Pittsburgh this year to take part in the annual church service and sing contest held for the chapters of the surrounding territory. This was the first time that Gamma Delta took part, but the Octet came away with first prize, a ship's clock.

A few weeks ago the Shelter was honored with a visit from W. H. Brenton, President; Hugh Shields, Executive Vice-President; and Norman McCloud of Pittsburgh. Their stay was all too short for us to become well acquainted with them, but we hope that they will come again soon and stay longer.

On November 27 our new housemother, Mrs. Dora Beavers, was feted with an informal tea. The house was decorated with flowers in the fraternity colors. Punch and fraternity cup cakes, done in the purple, white, and gold motif, were served to a group of 200 guests. Mrs. J. Layman, former housemother here at the Shelter, presided at the punch bowl.

In closing, we wish to remind you again, reserve the dates of March 4 and 5 to be at the Gamma Delta Shelter.

THOMAS L. WILLIAMS

Gamma Zeta—Wesleyan

After placing among the three top fraternities in rushing last fall, Gamma Zeta has been enjoying a successful year. With brothers on most of the athletic organizations and men active in the extracurricular activities, the house is well represented on campus.

Bill Malamud, who was elected secretary of the senior class in November, is also on the College Body Senate and is news editor of the campus paper, the Argus. Bob Herbert is cochairman of the senate parley committee, which is planning an intercollegiate meeting to discuss world affairs. Several personalities active in current affairs have been contacted by Bob for the parley which will take place in March.

Bob Frazer has been elected to Theta Nu Epsilon, the honorary athletic society on campus. Bob is among the top six on the varsity squash team, as are Ralph Jones and Hal Carney.

The house basketball team is well prepared for the winter interfraternity basketball competition, and chances for a highly successful season look good. Last year the team came within one point of winning the campus championship.

Continuing its tradition, Gamma Zeta sponsored Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners for the underprivileged children of Middletown. Chef John Kelly prepared special dinners for the children, and the brothers entertained them. At the Christmas dinner Charlie Hoyt acted as Santa Claus and passed out presents which had been purchased from money raised from a collection taken among the members of the house. The spontaneous enthusiasm of the children as they opened their gifts was very rewarding. This tradition will undoubtedly be continued in the future.

Along the lines of scholarship, Seniors Larry Mason and Andrew Wisemann were awarded Phi Beta Kappa in November. This honor is especially high, since only six men are given this award before the end of their senior year. These men, along with two other seniors, are working for distinction.

In winter sports, Pledges Bill Roche and Bill Nelson are on the frosh basketball team, while Snuffy Smith is frosh basketball manager. Carl Chapman, Pete Lintin, and Freshman Dutch Hinsch are on the fencing team, and Jack Braitmeyer is vice-commodore of the Yachting Club.

GEORGE K. DORSEY

Gamma Eta—George Washington

With Cheerleaders Bob Cochran and George Rawnsley leading the way, Gamma Eta showed its school spirit at a number of events during the past football season. In addition to a chili supper before the W. & L. game, an All-U Open House was held November 12 following the Duke game. The Delt house was again the scene of a lively dance following the homecoming game. On November 5 we journeyed to College Park, where, following the football game, we were invited to Delta Sigma's new Shelter for coffee and doughnuts.

Having succeeded in the election of Charlie Crichton as president of the G. W. Student Council last semester, the Deltas ventured once again into the field of politics and this time had Walt Cottrell elected sophomore class president. High light of the campaign was "The Smoke-filled Room," a "meet the candidates" open house at the Shelter, arranged by Campaign Manager George Dowd and Party Boss Frank Bowron.

A number of actives also came in for scholastic and leadership honors on campus this fall. Charlie Crichton was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Don Myrick, who represented George Washington at the Student Conference on "The United States' Foreign Policy Toward Europe," held at West Point, was elected to Gate & Key, honorary leadership fraternity. Don was also elected to Phi Beta Kappa, joining Brothers Joe Rawlings and John Toomey. Connie Hoffman is business manager of Cherry Tree, University yearbook. Paul Sifton was elected president of the Literary Club and secretary of the French Club. Dick Daniels and Chris Maskaloris are members of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity.

MEL BRENNEMAN

Gamma Theta—Baker

Baker Deltas are especially proud of Jack Flickenger, who was voted an all-conference end. Wagoner Fox was given honorable mention for his fine football playing.

The Delt social season opened October 22 with the 60th Annual Chicken Fry. More than 300 people attended. The pledges held their party November 19 with Deltas and dates attending dressed as song titles. "Delt Wassail" was the theme of the winter formal held in the house, December 17.

In basketball Jack Thomas is showing brilliant play. Four Delt pledges are also on the basketball team.

Gamma Iota—Texas

Gamma Iota has had another "bonanza" in social activities for the fall of 1949. We began our year with a fine "New Yorker" party. Representatives of every class living in New York, from soda jerks to business tycoons, from dramatic actors to boxers, were present to insure a good time.

Three weeks later we had our annual Oklahoma-Texas Delt party in the Adolphus Hotel at Dallas. Texas had just been defeated for the second consecutive year by the same score of 14-20. It was a disappointed group of Texas Deltos who entered the ballroom to meet the conquering Sooner Deltos in the Adolphus that night, but a fine time was had by all before they left at two or three o'clock the next morning.

Scarcely had the memories of the Texas-Oklahoma party slipped into oblivion when our social chairman, Bill Webb, and his able designer and general architect, Dan Powell, came up with plans for a barn party to end all barn parties. Our fine, modern Shelter was converted into a state-of-the-art barn under the agile hands of Dan. But it was the diligent work of the pledge class that transferred the drawings to a reality, and as the guests arrived that evening, they were bewildered by the transformation that had taken place.

Finally on December 18, a grandiose Christmas party was enjoyed by Deltos and their dates. Fun began as Santa Claus, Pledge Bill "Slim" Grant, came hustling into the living room and distributed gifts to the dates. Of course, Santa knew for whom the gifts were meant, but just to have a little fun he read poems about the girl for whom the gift was intended, most of which brought the house down.

C. R. WALKER

Gamma Kappa—Missouri

John H. Vaisey, Rochester, New York, was recently named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Students selected for the publication are chosen from more than 600 colleges and universities by campus nominating committees. They are chosen on a basis of scholarship, co-operation in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship and service to the school, and promise of future usefulness to business and society.

Vaisey will be graduated in June. He is president of Mystical Seven, senior honorary; historian of Omicron Delta Kappa, national upperclassmen's leadership honorary; and a member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary. He is a past business manager of the Missouri Student, campus newspaper, and chapter corresponding secretary.

Last spring he was selected to attend summer school at the University of Edinburgh under the auspices of the International Institute of Education.

At a Christmas banquet, December 18, Robert F. Karsch, Westminster, '32, was formally introduced as our new chapter adviser. He replaces Professor Horace W. Wood, Jr. Dr. Karsch, assistant professor of political science at the University of Missouri, was for four years chapter adviser at Delta Omicron, Westminster. He has written a number of songs, including the official Missouri fight song, "Fight, Tiger." His arrangement of "Delta Shelter" appears in the songbook. In recognition of his activities, Dr. Karsch is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership honorary.

Ingenuity has again paid off for us, as the Deltos took second place in Homecoming house decorations. Actually we reaped a double distinction by being the only house on campus to win a prize two years straight. Last year we took third place.

One of Gamma Kappa's strong points this year has been its excellent alumni correspondence. Alumni Chairman Ben Ornburn has issued several series of personal letters. Birthday and Christmas cards also have been mailed. A patient search has located a number of alumni whose names will appear in a directory to be published in the spring.

Stan Hafer, in charge of Parents' Day, November 6, whipped up a successful program, as 130 guests were entertained.

In athletics, Bob Ebinger was elected cocaptain of the Missouri grid team. Ebinger, left end, and Jack Frier, quarterback, played for the Tigers in the 'Gator Bowl against Maryland.

Martin B. Dickinson, Arch Chapter Secretary, paid a social call to the chapter en route to a dinner at Delta Omicron, Westminster.

RALPH W. JOHNSON

Gamma Lambda—Purdue

The fall semester brought fame to the Gamma Lambda Chapter in the first few weeks, as the men from Purdue participated successfully in the Homecoming decorations contest. Incorporating the idea of an enormous shoe crushing an Illini Indian, plus the realistic screams produced by the pledge class, the Boilermaker Deltos took second place in the fraternity participation.

The fall semester also brought individual recognition to many of our outstanding Delt brothers. Tex Wright, who is already captain of the Scabbard and Blade chapter at Purdue, drum major of the band, and a major in the R. O. T. C., was pledged to the Purdue Order of Military Merit. Bob Tam, who is noted more for his musical accomplishments than for his military ability, was also pledged to the Purdue Order of Military Merit. Bob is also keeping up his accomplishments in the musical world by producing his own radio program once a week over WBAA. Quarterdeck society, a Naval honorary founded here at Purdue a couple of years back, has asked Bob Perrone to join. And our president, Allen T. Cazier, has had the honor of being elected assistant managing editor of the Purdue Rivet, campus humor magazine.

During the Christmas holidays the chapter sponsored a party for the needy children of Lafayette, with Bill Olds taking care of all the details and buying the presents for the kids. With the help of the Purdue Pi Phi chapter, we showed the kids a wonderful time and enjoyed every minute of our efforts in doing so.

J. N. NORTHUP

Gamma Mu—Washington

Starting off with a house cruise around Puget Sound to provide a pledge-active get-acquainted party after rush week, Gamma Mu led an activity-jammed social schedule. After a romping barn dance, one of our finest pledge dances, theatre parties, firesides, and intermixed with numerous exchanges complete with combos, we entered the Christmas spirit with one of our high lights of the quarter, our annual Christmas Serenade.

In this yearly Gamma Mu function, we joined with the Thetas in caroling Greek Row. We began by serenading the Children's Orthopedic Hospital, and we continued serenading until midnight. When we returned to the Shelter with the Thetas, Mother Johns had cocoa and doughnuts prepared. By the time seven other houses had dropped in on us, the old Shelter was literally bursting with Christmas cheer.

This fall at our open house and buffet dinner during homecoming festivities week, we entertained one of the largest and most auspicious alumni gatherings in Gamma Mu history. The Mothers' Club sponsored a successful open house which gave relatives and friends an excellent chance to see the whole Shelter.

Two of the seven chosen from the entire student body to serve as Rotarians are Brothers Bill Gellermann for scholarship and Joe Cloidt. Joe was voted the "Inspirational Player Award" on the Husky varsity football squad, the first junior to receive this in many years. He was also voted co-captain of next year's varsity eleven.

Brother Bob Muckelstone was voted the "Outstanding Sophomore Award," which is presented annually to one student by Purple Shield, campus underclassmen's activities and scholarship honorary.

Frosh Pledge Jim Watson is now sporting a new numeral sweater for football play, and Freshman Rod Vanderhoof is winning high praise for the way he is leading the regular varsity milers in time trials. The freshmen are representing us well in the activities and athletics on campus.

JULES DIEBENOW

Gamma Xi—Cincinnati

The Cincinnati Deltas have again come through a busy and successful fall season. At the close of the football season we are in second place in the intramural standings. To date our volleyball team has won its first three games and is attempting to repeat last year's championship in this sport. Our basketball team also gives promise of doing big things.

On the varsity football scene, Don Uphoff received a letter for his great play at end for the Bearcat's defensive team. Don was awarded a watch by the local fans for being the outstanding player in the All-City Championship game with Xavier University. Dan Sestakaukus was initiated into Ulex, honorary fraternity, bringing the number of Deltas in that group to six.

Over 100 actives, pledges, and dates journeyed to Lexington for the annual party with Delta Epsilon following the Kentucky-U. C. football game. This was a trip that will be remembered by all. A delicious buffet supper was followed by the combined singing of the two chapters.

The Shelter was decorated in true Yuletide spirit for the Christmas Formal, which was a big success. Entertainment for the evening was provided by Dick Hanauer, Phil Thorsell, and George Karlsson. Entering into the Christmas spirit, the actives and pledges are sending clothing and food to needy families in France and providing a basket of food and gifts to a family here in Cincinnati.

To round out a good Delt fall season, actives, pledges, their friends, and families all gathered for a gala Christmas party at the Shelter, the affair being sponsored by the Delta Dames, our mothers' group.

JOHN J. ABELE

Gamma Pi—Iowa State

The first big social function of the year was a Halloween Party, "Spook Mizzou," the Friday night before the Missouri football game. Costumes were weird and varied, the main attraction being a slide entrance from second floor to the first.

Two weeks later, the chapter served as host to 35 migrating Deltas from the University of Nebraska. Things were really crowded for the week end.

A new addition to the Shelter is Mark, a four-month-old boxer pup. He is now pledged, and after a definite course of training he will be installed as chapter mascot.

Remember February 18, 1950. This is the date set for the Orchid Formal. We extend a cordial invitation to all Gamma Pi alums.

The quarter has also seen several new honors to our members. Carl Mahnke, Jr., has been pledged to the Knights of St. Patrick and will be initiated in the winter quarter. Carl was elected on the basis of scholarship and activities. Our pledges are in there, too. Wayne Burger, pledge class president, has been elected vice-president of the Interfraternity Pledge Council. Don Volpp, a sophomore pledge, was one of few underclassmen to be initiated into the Order of the Sextant, an N. R. O. T. C. honorary. Don served as the commander of the pledge class. Bill Byrus is a boy to watch for next year's football squad. He received his numeral for his outstanding record on the freshman squad this year.

CHARLES VOGELGESANG

Gamma Rho—Oregon

After placing second for two consecutive years in the University's annual homecoming contest, Oregon Deltas walked off with the first-place trophy this year. The sign depicted an Oregon duck atop a huge "green machine" which represented Oregon's football team. As lights flashed on, an Oregon State beaver appeared on top and was immediately kicked into a large funnel at the other end of the machine. Colored lights flickered on the machine, and an arm appeared out of an opening holding a beaver pelt. Then the lights went out until the beaver appeared on top again.

Dick Nelson and Bob Welch worked together in designing the prize-winning sign, and Howard (Boomer) Davis worked out the wiring problems.

Our annual Christmas party for underprivileged children was a huge success again this year. Bob Shetterly, as Santa Claus, handed out toys and candy to our young guests. Later, caroling Tri-Deltas serenaded the youngsters, and then came in and joined the party.

JOHN BARTON

Gamma Sigma—Pittsburgh

As the Deltas of Gamma Sigma prepare to troop home for Christmas, they can look back upon a thoroughly profitable and enjoyable fall season under the able leadership of Prexy Ira Houck. A quick look around the Shelter will show many new improvements, not the least of which is the new paint job on the outside woodwork and the overall steam-cleaning job on the brickwork—all accomplished in a feverish pre-Rush Week work session led by Meredith Miller. The results of the extra-sharp house and ever-sharp actives were apparent in our fine pledge class of 21, including two winners of the coveted freshman Panther Key, Jim Keagle and Leo Kairys.

Sports occupied a big share of the time at Gamma Sigma, and our football team took second pace in interfraternity competition as the result of a tie in a sudden-death play-off and also placed a man on each of the first three teams of the all-campus team. In varsity competition, Sophomore Wingback Paul Chess stepped into the regular Pitt line-up late in the season. Incidentally, his 57-yard run against Penn State set up a touchdown that helped us to win a sheepskin on a wager with Tau Chapter. Other athletes include Neil Huffman on the JV's and Pledge Don McGann with the frosh; Bill Brehm, regular guard on the Panther basketball team; and Pledge Art Malmberg on the second five and George Aitcheson on the JV cage squad.

In other fields, too, Pitt Deltas moved forward. In scholarship, we advanced seven places in the IF standings, the actives posting one of the highest averages on campus.

School activities once again beckoned a large number of Deltas: Ralph Douglas and Bill McKinley as business and circulation managers of the Panther humor magazine; Jack Barilar and Ira Houck as cheerleaders; Bill Swanson as vice-president of Student Congress, President of Omicron Delta Kappa, publicity manager of Men's Debate, and member of Delta Sigma Rho (forensic honorary); Fred Purdy also in Omicron Delta Kappa and Delta Sigma Rho, assistant manager of debate and chairman of Intercollegiate Conference on Government; Jack Plowman, Bill McKinley, Ira Houck, and Jim Anderson also in debate; Anderson, Swanson, Bill Gibson, Ken Smiley, and Jack Neslage in Scabbard and Blade; and Bill Gregory and Jack

The fall social season, planned by Social Chairman Joe Edmundson, was successfully concluded by the annual fall Dinner Formal, held at South Hills Country Club. At this time, the new Delta Queen, Miss Pat Nelson, was crowned and honored by the chapter.

Gamma Tau—Kansas

October 21 marked the opening of the social season for Gamma Tau with our annual Paddle Party. All plans, decorations, and entertainment for this western party were handled by the pledge class.

The week end of October 29, we were hosts to about 60 Deltas from Kansas State and their dates for the K.U.-Aggie game. The morning before the varsity game, the "Delt Bowl" game was played between the football teams of both chapters. The brothers from Gamma Chi won the game with a last-minute touchdown and were able to keep the football trophy for another year.

Our homecoming was November 19, and over 500 grads and friends were at the Shelter for dinner before the game. Our house decorations won first place this year. This makes the second straight year that Gamma Tau has won the first-place cup for homecoming decorations. Most of the credit goes to President Dean Hawley, who designed the decorations and directed the construction.

Bill Rinehart and Monty Gaston brought acclaim to Gamma Tau this fall. Bill, better known as the "Toe," was number one place-kicker for K.U.'s football team. Bill did all of the extra-point kicking, and he will be back playing again next year.

Monty Gaston received the honor of being elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

Completing a successful semester were our Winter Formal and our Formal Christmas Stag. The Winter Formal was held December 10 in the ballroom of the Student Union Building. About 400 Deltas, their dates, and their guests from other fraternities on the "Hill" danced to the music of Matt Benton. The Stag was held December 20 at the Shelter.

WILLIAM F. GROSSER, III

Gamma Upsilon—Miami

Looking back over the fall football season, four of Gamma Upsilon's seniors again brought honors to themselves and Delta Tau Delta. Completing their fourth year as varsity lettermen were Quarterback Mel Olix and Center Bob Kappes, while Arch McCartney and Ray Green won the coveted three-year award, an "M" blanket. Olix added the All-Ohio rating to his laurels again and was honored with a bid to play in the North-South All Star game at Montgomery, Alabama, on December 31.

As basketball season opened after Thanksgiving vacation, Bob McPhee developed into a permanent fixture on the starting quintet. On the sidelines, as was the case all fall, Cheerleaders Jack Quinn and Chuck Shawver had the situation well under control.

On the social scene, the Miami Deltas were very active with the Hollywood Party and the Winter Formal highlighting the campus calendar. The Hollywood Party, held in mid-November, proved to be one of the best costume dances in years as every character imaginable, from Carmen

HAL PURVIS, Miami's Homecoming King.

Miranda to Ma and Pa Kettle, managed to make it down to the house.

On campus several men of Gamma Upsilon were initiated into honoraries—Mel Olix, Phi Sigma (zoology), and Jack Thornbury and Forest Singhoff, Les Politiques (government). Hal Purvis kept up the postwar tradition of a Delt Homecoming King every other year as he reigned over the October 23 week-end festivities.

October 8 marked the initiation of 28 new Deltas which was celebrated at the initiation banquet held at the Shelter that noon. Guests included all Delt members of the faculty and Dr. Howard Fischbach and his son, Dr. William Fischbach. The elder Dr. Fischbach, long prominent in Delt affairs, as principal speaker presented a fine, sincere portrayal of what Delta Tau Delta can mean to a man. The chapter certainly enjoyed the privilege of entertaining such distinguished alumni as the Fischbachs.

JACK THORNBURY

Gamma Chi—Kansas State

Gamma Chi is looking toward the basketball season with greater than usual interest this year. The Wildcats are preseason favorites in the Big 7, and the Delt contribution to the team is John Gibson, forward, who is a member of the traveling squad.

Delt Dick Johnson, starting right end of the Wildcat football team, was elected captain of the offensive team for the season of 1950. This is an honor which has not been conferred on a K-State football player since 1938.

For the Homecoming game, Gamma Chi went all out in its efforts to erect suitable decorations. They received an honorable mention. The Shelter was filled with alumni before and after the game.

Passes to the Wareham Theatre for the entire chapter were received from the manager of that Theatre. He thought the Deltas had the best decorations and showed his opinion by this gesture.

traveled to Lawrence to play a game with Gamma Tau the morning of the KS-KU game. This is an annual affair whose winner retains the miniature keg trophy. For the second year, Gamma Chi won the game. The score was 12 to 6.

Four Gamma Chi Deltas are receiving honors for extracurricular activities and scholarship. Kenneth Sellers was elected to Who's Who. Jay Honeywell was elected to Steel Ring, local engineering fraternity; Dean Kays to Sigma Tau, national engineering fraternity; and Don Matlack to Alpha Kappa Psi, national business fraternity.

DEAN KAYS

Gamma Psi—Georgia Tech

Gamma Psi's fall program of activities was brought to a most successful close with its annual Christmas party. As in years past, the chapter helps some needy children to have a more joyful Christmas. A needy family with six children was selected. The children ate dinner at the Shelter and afterwards Santa, in the person of Prexy Jack Vanderbleek, gave clothes and toys to all the children and a bicycle to the oldest boy.

Six brothers spent the Christmas holidays touring the principal cities of Germany with the Georgia Tech Glee Club. The tour, sponsored by the Army Recreational Service, covered a period of three weeks, during which the Glee Club sang at hospitals and opera houses for the purpose of entertaining our occupation forces. Brothers making the tour were Bob Gibson, Louis Gates, Jimmy Robertson, Tommy Varnson, Barry Christophine, and Garner Hallman.

Gamma Psi's leadership in campus publications was strengthened recently by the election of Bob Gibson as business manager of The Technique, Georgia Tech's newspaper. Other leaders include Don Usher, who is editor of The Technique, and Hank McCamish, who is editor of the 1950 Blue Print, the official yearbook of Georgia Tech.

Several other brothers received high honors during the fall quarter. Brother Hank McCamish was elected to Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic fraternity. Brothers McCamish and Don Usher were selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Bob Gibson was selected for Pi Delta Epsilon, journalistic fraternity. Prexy Jack Vanderbleek was initiated into Scabbard and Blade military order. Herbert Bradshaw was selected for Koseme, honorary junior society. Bob Beard was selected president of Wand and Rabbit, campus magicians' club. Brother Chuck Ferrell continued his good work as cheerleader.

WALTER H. LEE

Delta Alpha—Oklahoma

Delta Alpha has had a busy fall schedule. Beginning with athletics, our touch football team had a successful season, going to the semi-finals before losing a heartbreaker to the Phi Gamma Deltas.

Our wrestling season was even more successful. We won the University Intramural Wrestling Championship Cup with a grand total of 32 points. Our nearest competitors scored 22. The following men won championships in their respective weights: Dick Teubner, 128 pounds; Bud Cole, 155 pounds; Frank Boucher, 165 pounds; Joe Norton, 175 pounds. An example to show the extent of our participation is the fact Bud Cole had to wrestle Harry Holt for the 155-pound championship, so we took first and second in that weight. Other men who were active in the program were: John Johnson, third in 136 pounds, Don Anderson, and Bob Acres.

The Glee Club, led by Bill Bender, is in the midst of a busy year. The songsters started out by participating in an all-school talent program welcoming new students to the University. Christmas time found the group being presented over Norman Radio Station WNAD in a program of holiday music. After a successful Christmas serenade to all of the sweet young things on the campus, the boys are ready to go after the spring University Sing cup for the fourth consecutive year.

Jack Anthony, Delta Alpha's prize comedian, is rapidly gaining a name for himself both here on the campus and around the entire state. His excellent capacity as a comedian and master of ceremonies is being recognized and requested by a great many organizations. Jack has worked hard in providing entertainment for all of the chapter functions and very capably easing the tension of blind dates.

Delta Beta—Carnegie Tech

At the start of the fall semester members of the Delt chapter at Carnegie Tech set up a competitive scholarship fund within the chapter. This idea originated in the chapter's scholarship committee and was passed on to and accepted unanimously by the chapter. Each member in the chapter contributes to the scholarship fund and each member has an equal opportunity of winning regardless of his scholastic standing when the contest started. Awards will be made at the end of the present semester to those who have made the largest factor increase from their overall school average. The experimental idea has produced additional incentive for Tech Deltas to better their scholastic work in keeping with the Fraternity's scholastic policy.

Delt intramural teams fought hard this fall and came out of the season with notable records. The Delt volleyball team worked its way to the school championship play-offs and came out of the contest as all-school runner-up. The chapter's wrestling team finished its successful season this year as runner-up in the all-school league. Basketball practice is now under way, and from the form and spirit displayed on the playing floor, Delta Beta expects to have another winning team.

In addition to the well-rounded scholastic and athletic program, the chapter's social events have been the best. The social committee, under the direction of the talented George Wilson, has developed and carried out successful theme parties. The "dress-all-the-same" party, Halloween party, and the homecoming and theatre parties brought out Delt spirit in true form.

The past four months have been busy ones for Delta Gamma Deltas. The football season is history and basketball is well under way. Brothers Jack Van Arsdale and Norm Bartholow finished their college football careers with a great game against Iowa Teachers on Armistice Day. Brother Van led the team all the way, scoring both touchdowns. Brothers Merle Houck, Mike Hooker, Duff Lorentson, and Stan Rhinehart all earned varsity letters also.

The basketball team is again headed by high-scoring, All-Conference Forward John Diefendorf. Brothers Don Johnson, Larry Johnson, and Bud Carleton are also members of the varsity. Brother Dale Roberts is expected to see a lot of action when fully recovered from an appendectomy.

Homecoming found many alumni returning for a visit to the Shelter. Under the leadership of Brother Tom LaFollette, Delta Gamma placed second in originality with its "Toast to the Victor" float.

The social calendar this fall included a successful fall formal. We used a Thanksgiving theme with a new angle. Brother Jim Hegert painted murals of a Pilgrim hunting a wild turkey and carrying it home. Fluffy, white dogs were given our dates as favors.

One of the most successful social events on the campus in recently years was Delta Gamma's Arabian Nights party. Invitations were sent to all dates inviting them to join Sultan Abdullah Ibn Ben Delta's Harem. Brother Mike Hooker as the Sultan was slightly terrific.

Brother Deltas are again found in many important positions in campus activities. Bob Shield is business manager of the Volante, campus paper, and Pledge Keith Wrage is on the sports staff. Karl Kabeisman again leads the debate team and is president of the Political Science League.

Brother Dean Bailey was elected "Mr. Pop" by the student body this fall.

TED WRAGE

Delta Delta—Tennessee

One of the greatest honors to be given a senior student came Delt Frank Lester's way when he was selected as a Torchbearer at the University of Tennessee. University officials choose Torchbearers—five boys and four girls—on the basis of scholarship and number of campus activities. On the "Hill," Frank serves as secretary-treasurer of the Fraternity Relations Board, is secretary of Alpha Psi Omega, vice-president of the Playhouse, vice-president of Radio Workshop, Usher Corps member, Choral Society member, and member of the Photographers' Club.

In addition, he is chief announcer at the new U-T radio station, WUOT. Other Delts working at the station are Harry Baird, program director; Gil Trythall, musical director; and Bick Cook, script writer.

The chapter at the beginning of the winter quarter was in a tie for fourth place among the 16 fraternities in intramural competition. Our athletes, under the direction of Manager Watson Chamblin, nailed down third place in swimming and fourth place in volleyball.

A look at the calendar shows that the week of February 26 to March 4 has been set aside for Fraternity activities. The round of proposed activities begins Tuesday with the Founders Day banquet, followed on Wednesday by a Delt-sponsored interfraternity and sorority fashion show at the University gymnasium. Thursday should see our chorus competing in the All-Sing Finals. The formal dance will be held Friday, with a weiner roast Saturday to close the curtain on the week's program.

Jim Haynes has been elected president of Omicron Delta Kappa and Aubrey Tramel, vice-president. Parties so far have included a hayride, the annual Christmas party for a group of Knoxville children, the Homecoming banquet given by alumni with nine of the 24 charter members attending, a party given by Tri-Delt Sorority, and a King-for-a-Day party for pledges.

Joe Mayberry is new president of Phi Eta Sigma. Harold Wessen is vice-president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Pledge Class President Al Paetzel is president of the Forestry Club. Laurens Massey has been elected treasurer, and Gene Ellison, assistant treasurer.

ROBERT E. LEE

Delta Epsilon—Kentucky

This year, largely through the efforts of Delta Epsilon, nearly a hundred little boys and girls feasted on roast turkey and experienced the joy of a visit from Santa Claus.

At Christmas time for the past several years, the boys at the Shelter have taken a group of youngsters who were known to be underprivileged and have given them one glorious evening of food, gifts, and entertainment. This year, Brother Bob McCowan decided that this program should be expanded. He suggested that we contact all of the fraternities and sororities on the campus and see if they, too, would entertain a similar group of boys and girls. The response was gratifying, and a committee, headed by Brother Jerry Inman, with the help of the various school principles selected the children and furnished transportation to the fraternity and sorority houses.

The week preceding the turnout for the holidays was climaxed by our annual Christmas Formal at the Shelter. This year, since we are on the delayed pledging program, the dance served as a farewell get-together for the boys and a rush party as well. The Shelter was decked out in her Sunday Christmas best, and everyone seemed to share the holiday spirit and have a wonderful time (maybe it was the relief from classes).

It is with a great deal of regret that Delta Epsilon bids farewell to Jack Feierabend. Jack has been head of our "music department" and last year led us to victory in the All-Campus Sing. We'll miss him, but our loss is Delta Eta's gain. Jack has accepted a position at the University of Alabama as director of music studies there.

GLENN WILLS

Delta Zeta—Florida

Delta Zeta's social life was sparked by a homecoming week end in which Brother Alben Barkley visited the Florida campus and received a degree in Doctor of Humanities while the local Delts pitched in and built a prize-winning float for the week-end celebration. Fall Frolics week end found the Delts in full swing with a campus-wide dance featuring Charlie Spivak and Glenn Gray in the "Battle of the Bands." The Delts also threw a novel Lower Slobbovia dance at the Shelter. Christmastime just around the corner, Delts threw a party for the local underprivileged children. Refreshments and presents were presented to all children with the able assistance of the Tri-Delts. This semester was also boasted with several sorority receptions.

In the political field, Brother Bill Fleming was elected president of the Sophomore Class, bringing the total to eight Delts actively participating in the Florida student government.

In the field of publications, Brother John Trinkle returns to edit another year's supply of college humor and stories in the Orange Peel, and Brother Julian Clarkson is found serving as managing editor of the campus weekly newspaper, the Alligator.

Brother Al Harrington took charge in intramurals and organized teams in all sports, leading to our taking top positions in all sports. In swimming, both varsity and intramurals, the Delts had many entries. On Florida's top-notch swimming team we find Fred Teed, Jack Comey, and Thomas Jenny and Pledges Gene Soldwedel and Joe Capo. In basketball, "Sleepy" Johnson returns for another year for Florida's basketball team and is joined by Harold Burt, promising sophomore.

Beginning next spring, Delta Zeta Delts will bend their every effort toward a campaign which they hope will end in the complete refurbishing of the Shelter. It is hoped this drive will be climaxed with the installation of a new television set.

ALAN B. CHAMBERS

Delta Eta—Alabama

Delta Eta began its 25th year on the University of Alabama campus with a week of rush parties, which resulted in its pledging one of the largest and best pledge classes since its reactivation in 1946. Other major social functions were: the annual Fall Formal at the Tuscaloosa Country Club; two "after-the-game" dances in nearby Birmingham following the Tennessee and the Auburn games. During the homecoming week end the chapter was fortunate enough to have as its guests a greater number of its alumni than it has had in many years. This interest was greatly appreciated by the members of the chapter, and we look forward to seeing more of the alumni in the future.

Since the beginning of the quarter many improvements have been made on the Shelter. Typical of these was the installation of modern kitchen equipment and an enlargement of the old kitchen. A new radio-phonograph was installed in the date parlor, and the coal furnace was converted to gas.

The Delts were again among the top contenders in the intramural sports during the fall. Even after several crippling injuries, the football squad emerged with third-place league standing. Joe Kern and Carroll Dailey, who was regional Junior Davis cup winner, '49, went to the semi-finals in the tennis tournament. Events of the past several weeks' practice indicate an even more successful basketball season during the winter quarter.

In an effort to establish a second chapter of Delta Tau Delta in the state of Alabama, Southern Division Vice-President Marion Coley, upon authorization of national, recently conducted an investigation of existing conditions favorable to colonization at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Alabama. Mr. Coley, chapter advisor for Delta Eta, has submitted a favorable report to the Arch Chapter for its consideration. In the meantime, much preparation has been begun by Delta Eta toward organizing a potential Delt chapter at Auburn as soon as authorization has been received from the Arch Chapter.

ED MURRAY

Delta Theta—Toronto

Ten new members were welcomed into the fold of Delta Theta Chapter in November. A most spirited class, the new actives were feted with a dinner at the Windsor Arms Hotel on December 5. The keynote of the evening was a speech delivered by Assistant Treasurer Brian Judges, who, in his own inimitable style, gave an interesting account of his and Brother Bill Rankin's activities while attending the Eastern Division Conference at Philadelphia.

Several Delts were conspicuously active in this year's Engineer's Show which ran for three consecutive nights. Brothers Bert Bethune and Brent Rowe teamed up in a "gay ninety" dance routine which was most outstanding, while the show's direction was in the capable hands of Brother Jack Pulford, assisted by Brian Judges.

Considerable work has been done around the Shelter lately, much of it by the Delts themselves. The kitchen has had new cupboards built, sink fixtures installed, and the floor repainted.

Several rooms have had the wallpaper removed and repainted. The donation of more furniture to the Shelter by several alumni has been a welcomed feature and is evidence of the keen interest the alumni have in the Shelter's welfare.

On December 16 the Delts were hosts to ten underprivileged children from Woodgreen Community Centre. The highly successful party was complete with turkey dinner and Santa Claus (Brother Jack Pulford), who handed out numerous gifts to all the children. The success of the party was emphasized by the fact that none of them wanted to go home when it was all over.

Later the Delts had their Christmas dinner and party with token gifts interchanged, which ranged from the sublime to the ridiculous, but added much to the spirit of the occasion. Dancing and entertainment followed which climaxed a very enjoyable Christmas party.

D. C. WILLIAMS

Delta Iota—U. C. L. A.

Delta Tau Delta was well represented on the varsity football squad this fall, having four brothers playing first string, either offensively or defensively. They are Gayle Pace, Bob Watson, Darrell Riggs, and Roy Jensen. Outstanding among the group was Halfback Bob Watson. He was termed by Coach Red Sanders "by all odds the outstanding back on the team."

In regard to intramural football, Delta Iota did not come off quite as well as expected, losing two while winning three. Big guns in the Delt attack were Ray Beindorf, Jim Harvey, and Captain Joe Klingner. Thus far in intramural volleyball we are undefeated, sporting a five and zero record. Prospects for winning the interfraternity championship are excellent.

More good prospects are in store for the chapter in intramural basketball. Last year's interfraternity championship team is back practically without exception, and some new brothers are expected to turn in outstanding performances.

The social season has been a successful one, highlighted by the annual Delt-Dee Gee Ball. This was the twelfth annual renewal of the ball, which is the oldest fraternity-sorority dance on the U. C. L. A. campus.

With the advent of a new cook, Herman McCoy, formerly a vocal arranger for leading bands, Delta Iota has taken on new stature in singing. A quintet, the Deltones by name, has been formed and has performed creditably. Recently they were on a popular local television show and as a result have received several offers to sing professionally.

Delta Iota wishes once again to extend an invitation to those brothers who may wish to come to California. Our doors are always open in welcome.

DICK WILLIAMS

Delta Kappa—Duke

The limelight of Duke has recently been focused upon the Delt intramural basketball quint which has fought its way to top place in campus standings by rallying over three tough opponents, meanwhile keeping a zero in the loss column. The team, made up of Brothers Frank Allen, Jack Clowar, Jim Allen, Don Farinella, Dick Reardin, Louis Viau, and Bob Silkett, threatens to make a clean sweep of the courts this season.

Don Farinella and Charlie Duttweiler won the doubles handball championship this season, with Duttweiler also claiming runner-up position in the singles division.

Bob Silkett, stellar racket swinger, placed runner-up in the tennis championship matches; together with Jack Underwood, he also won the runner-up position in the doubles division.

On the Duke varsity wrestling scene, the Delts have all but taken over, with Joe and Randy Orzano, Dick Kime, Bill Rogers, Bill Scott, and Paul Ronca making up the majority of the team. The Delts claimed one University intramural wrestling champion and two runners-up positions. Bill Scott handily won out in the 128-pound division, while Bill Rogers and Mark Bidison were edged in the finals.

Brother Jack Matlock, of Greensboro, North Carolina, has added his name to the list of notables who wear the "Phi Bete" key. Majoring in history here on the Methodist Flats, Jack has repeatedly distinguished himself as a scholar. We of Delta Kappa are justly proud of him.

December 10 chalked up another red-letter day for Delta Kappa Chapter in the form of a successful informal Christmas dinner-dance. Beginning with soft lights and good food, and ending with soft lights and lovely dance partners, the affair proved to be one of the best in years. During the break between dinner and dancing, there was never a dull moment, with Magician Dick Kime bewildering those present with his array of tricks and the Delt quartet leading the songs in a true holiday spirit.

WILLIAM SHUFORD

Delta Mu—Idaho

At a dinner recently given in his honor, Mauno Saari was presented a jewelled pin in recognition of his outstanding service. The pin was given to the chapter for presentation to a worthy Delt, and Mauno has established his value in the past as treasurer, house manager, and mainstay of the house corporation. His sharp ideas and interest in every homecoming, junior week and other functions have contributed outstandingly to the honors Delta Mu has won.

The usual confusion of Homecoming again found the Delts in the thick of the scrap, and one of the largest floats ever seen at Idaho was entered. In shape of a huge barge, sloganned "The Goddess of Victory . . . Returns to Idaho," the colorful float drew conspicuous comment and an honorable mention.

In campus activities, Pledge Pat Duffy was elected president of the freshman class this year. We also find Dar Cogswell new vice-prexy of Interfraternity Council, Jim Ingalls, secretary-treasurer of Young Democrats, Pledge Dick Miller, news editor of Idaho Engineer, John Hasbrouck and Dick Johnson, recently initiated into Alpha Zeta honorary, and Russ Baum, newly initiated into Sigma Tau, engineering honorary, and Phi Mu Alpha, men's music honorary.

BRYAN LAWRENCE

Delta Nu—Lawrence

Delta Nu's big project for the year is its choir under the direction of Larry Futchik. The choir has instituted a joint serenade with Pi Beta Phi Sorority; the combined groups gave a program of Christmas carols prior to the Christmas holidays, with the hope that the tradition will be continued in future years.

The interfraternity touch football trophy hangs again in the Shelter for the eleventh consecutive year by virtue of our 27-13 victory over Beta Theta Pi, giving us a record of 9-1 for the season. Bob Hill

2. PETE WEAVER, ex-president of Chi Chapter (Kenyon), lacrosse star, letter-winner in football for four years.
3. Delta Sigma won a combination radio-phonograph in a campus-wide contest at Maryland. Here BOB NOLAN, EARL WILLIAMS, FRANK WRIGHT, JOE DODGE (standing), and DICK STRATTON give it the once-over.
4. Westminster Delts who are members of Omicron Delta Kappa: BOB LOWARY, BILL TATE, and HOWARD WHITEWAY. TATE and WHITEWAY were also named to "Who's Who."
5. DICK HALVERSON, North Dakota, operates his own amateur radio station from within the Shelter. His call letters are WZHN. He is also an announcer with the University station.

was a varsity letterman on the championship Midwest Conference Cross Country team. John Watson, cocaptain of the varsity swimming team, heads a Delt aggregation of Ray Carlson, Jim Prims, Bob Hanisch, and Jack Hoag, with Bob Belle the team manager.

Delta Nu won first place in the house decorations contest during homecoming—a paper mache tribute to the campus mascot residing in the Delt House as the special guest of Bill Gilham.

Kelt Packard was elected to "Sunset," drama group. Kelt also is the current Delt representative on the Lawrence Student Council. Larry Futchik starred in the Lawrence Theatre production of "Berkley Square." Charles Crowder is appearing in recitals given by the Conservatory of Music.

Dick Bickle, chapter president, and Bob Hanisch are cochairmen of the committee on speakers for the annual Lawrence College Careers Day conferences.

HAROLD STEWART

Delta Xi—North Dakota

The annual Kris Kringle Christmas party was held December 16 in the I. O. O. F. Hall in downtown Grand Forks. Harold Stewart, social chairman, was in charge of the activities, and he was ably assisted by Erwin Strecker and Dale Sellheim. Refreshments and entertainment were well taken care of by the Delt Quartette furnishing some Christmas songs and Don Peterson handling refreshments.

Richard Halverson has the honor of being the only fraternity man to operate an amateur radio station from within the house. He just started operating his station this fall, and already he has contacted operators from many parts of the United States and Canada. During our recent storm here, Dick was at his radio all the time contacting various operators and checking on the weather conditions. In case there are any Delts in other chapters who would like to contact Dick, his call letters are WZHN. He also is a part-time announcer at the University Station KFJM.

This year for the first time the Blue Key is sponsoring a Winter Week End Carnival in conjunction with the UND-Minnesota hockey games of January 13 and 14. A Carnival Queen will be chosen to reign over the festivities. Fraternities, sororities, and halls will make sculptures in the snow and compete for prizes.

Ronnie Fett, graduate of 1948, former president of Delta Xi, member of Blue Key and Sigma Delta Chi, and editor of the Student, has recently been selected for a position with the Department of State on the "Voice of America."

The Mothers' and Wives' Club fixed up some Christmas confections for the boys for their Gift Exchanging Party held in the chapter house December 19.

WALLACE C. OLSON

Delta Omicron—Westminster

Moving at a rapid pace, Delta Omicron has a good start for 1949-50. Climaxing the fall's activities were the Decade Dance and the tenth anniversary banquet. The Decade

Intramural touch football team of Delta Nu (Lawrence), which won the College championship for the eleventh consecutive year.

Dance had the Shelter decorated in the Fraternity's colors, with special emphasis on the numeral ten. The banquet honored us with the presence of Martin B. Dickinson, national Secretary, four charter members of Delta Omicron, and several other alumni.

Another event in the fall was the Dad's Day program in which Delta Omicron barely missed the Dad's Day trophy. Winning our softball game and golf match, we lost the tennis match by two games. The intramural track meet was held that day and we placed fourth, taking firsts in the 880 relay and 880.

Delta Omicron ended its fall sports with a fair showing. We had a record of 6-3 in softball, 7-2 in golf, and 4-5 in tennis.

More "B. M. O. C.'s" were added this fall. Pledge Lee Denner was elected president of the freshman class. Allen Oakley gained president of Chi Alpha Omega, a local preministerial fraternity. Prexy Bill Tate joined Howard Whiteway and Bob Lowary in ODK, and Tate and Whiteway were named by the college to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

John Altheide, through the spirited campaign of Delta Omicron, was elected Snow King at William Woods College, trouncing severely the Miami Triad candidate and the other fraternity's candidates. The school annual, the Bluejay, is dominated by Swendseen, Gore, Gay, Moberly, Sandin, McCue, Bros, Oakley, Shields, and Tate. Adding to the Shelter this year and for many more, we hope, is our new boxer mascot, Duchess of Yorke. "Dutch" is only five months old; she is expected to reach maturity next spring.

For the start of the Christmas activities, the Shelter has enjoyed the annual Christmas banquet with pledge entertainment and the Christmas formal.

TOM SHIELDS

Delta Pi—U. S. C.

Delta Pi for the second straight year won top honors in the annual Homecoming Float Contest. Designed by the originator of last year's winner, Jerry Hosack, the float turned out to be a masterpiece, well depicting the theme "Alumni Get Big Hello, While Injun (Stanford) Get Put Below." The float consisted of a monster gold helmet with a red plume overlooking a sword and shield supposedly covering the face of an Indian, whose war bonnet provided the front and sides of the float. Following the giant parade down Los Angeles' Broadway Avenue, Delta Pi's entry was awarded the sweepstakes trophy.

Our annual formal dance was held in the Terrace Room of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel December 10. Music was provided by Brother Sam Spence and orchestra.

Seven men were initiated to Delthood on Sunday, October 16. Guided through the paddle ceremony by Brother Art Astor and the Rite of Iris by Roger Bond, these men were formally initiated and later honored by a banquet.

A large group of the brothers, led by President Doug McDonald, will migrate to beautiful Yosemite Valley this Christmas vacation for a week of skiing.

The Shelter played host to some 20 orphans for both Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. Cartoon movies and Santa Claus with a present for each little boy helped make it a merrier Christmas for all.

Ed Illsley was awarded honorable mention All America for his ability as a free style swimmer in the intercollegiate meets. Ed is also captain of the varsity waterpolo team. Pledge Bill Ross won the Canadian Nationals of 1949 in the 200-yard breast-stroke event. The Delts tied with SAE Fraternity for first place in the interfraternity basketball match.

Pledge Norbert Lamoreaux is currently touring the East with the Southern California varsity basketball squad. We hope he will be able to score a few when the team meets Long Island University in Madison Square Garden. Another hopeful is Pledge Don Ward, who is holding down guard position on the frosh team.

Delta Rho—Whitman

Actives and pledges worked hand in hand to achieve second place in the traditional All College Revue. Under the capable direction of Bob Webb and with the assistance of Jim Campbell's unique lighting effects, Delta Rho turned out what critics termed "the most professional show that ever hit the revue in its 14 years of presentation." Similarly, the chapter gained another second place with its beautiful homecoming float which featured a complete cheering section of the campus beauty led by Boyd Blakesley.

In the local intramural race, Bob Aug and Pledge Charles Talbot recently walked off with the debate cup which is the first ever to grace the Delta mantel. Jack Bailey and Dick Morrow narrowly missed a win in the golf tournament; likewise, with only one defeat, the tennis team pulled through in number two position.

Delts prominent in campus activities this year are Art DeBoer, member of the Press Club, journalism honorary, with his own column in the Pioneer, and Spence McCartney, associate editor of the Clocktower. Jake Van House is currently making a name for himself in the campus dramatic circle by recently holding the lead in "The Drunkard," and six-foot-five Sophomore Hugh Kabrich is presently holding center position on the varsity basketball squad. Delta Rho also boasts three members of the well-known Whitman College A Cappella Choir.

The pledges stunned the campus this year with their spectacular pledge dance, the "Kigmy Ball," featuring beautiful decorations of Al Capp's latest creations.

As Christmas approached this year, several deeply appreciated gifts were received by the chapter; from the Mothers' Club came an automatic electric toaster and a smart cream and sugar set for the table. And from the pledges to the house was a set of sterling candle holders for those candlelight firesides which have become so popular this year. To add inspiration to pledge scholarship, the actives purchased an 18-inch silver cup to be awarded each year to the pledge with the highest grade point.

R. S. MCCARTNEY

Delta Sigma—Maryland

Delta Sigma was highly honored on Friday, December 2, by a visit from the President of the Fraternity, Mr. W. H. Brenton. President Brenton was guest of honor at a dinner given by the chapter in the Terrapin Room of the University dining hall and attended by members of the Washington and Baltimore Alumni Chapters. A brief talk was given by the President on the meaning and importance of family unity within the Fraternity. He stressed the need for continued and improved co-operation between the undergraduate and alumni chapters. At an informal coffee-and-doughnut session at the Shelter, President Brenton discussed chapter and Fraternity affairs with members.

Delta Sigma is proud of its chapter advisor, Mr. Paul Kemerer. An article titled "Our Youngsters Don't Have to Be Killers" in the December 17 issue of The Saturday Evening Post pays tribute to Mr. Kemerer for his fine work in promoting driving safety.

Rushing came to a highly successful conclusion with 17 new men wearing the Delt pledge pin. In addition, 12 new brothers were initiated at ceremonies held November 20.

The collection of cigarette wrappers paid off to the chapter in the form of first prize in the local Phillip Morris Contest. We were supposed to receive a television set, but instead received a radio-phonograph combination, which was second prize. It seems that notification to the Maryland and University of Pennsylvania winners became confused. We received second prize which was won by Omega Chapter, while another fraternity on the local campus has received our television set. Phillip Morris representatives are straightening out the situation, but meanwhile, we are making good use of the radio-phonograph.

In athletics, the chapter basketball team is off to an impressive start with two decisive victories in the only games played to date.

EMORY HEAPS

Delta Tau—Bowling Green

Intramural activities have dominated the interest of the chapter in recent months and the Delts have managed to finish in the top three in virtually all intramural activities. Second place was garnered in both golf and tennis, and at present the bowling team has a secure hold on third place. In the all-intramural standings, the Delts stand third out of the 15 fraternities on campus. With the beginning of basketball and baseball, intramurals activities will receive another impetus.

A "casino" party was the major social function of the past few months, although exchange dinners, serenades, and informal house parties supplemented the social program. For the casino party, the house was transformed into a gambling den, complete with roulette wheel, crap, and black-jack games, with everyone gambling his play money with wild abandon.

The Delt household acquired a new mascot shortly after Thanksgiving when Dick Smith was fortunate enough to secure a cocker spaniel puppy. Temporarily named "Puddles," she has succeeded in giving the Shelter the "new" look. Under the special care of our housemother, Mrs. Thompson, Puddles has acquired that contented, well-fed look, and she has become the pampered idol of the whole house. Some misgivings have been voiced by a few members about a furniture replacement fund, but thus far Puddles has ignored all accusations.

The theme of the Christmas decorations placed emphasis on a religious outlook. A large figure of Christ was placed near the roof, overlooking a globe figure of the world. Cassidy, Snow, and Eaton were primarily responsible for the splendid Christmas decorations. After a Christmas dinner on Monday, December 19, gifts (25c limit) were exchanged by all the members.

Rush Chairman Rusty Games has initiated a vigorous rushing program; as a result, the Shelter has been the scene of many entertaining smokers and programs. A minstrel show was included among many other programs.

JACK MILLER

Delta Upsilon—Delaware

Most important of Delta Upsilon's fall activities was a party held for 20 orphans from a local home. The youngsters were first taken to a wrestling match and basketball game, and then to the Shelter, where they were served refreshments. This is the first time in University history that such a project has been carried out for the boys of this institution, and we are proud that we were able to sponsor it. The evening was such a success that most of the other houses on campus have made similar plans for the future.

Bob Billingsley was honored for his fine scholastic achievements by being chosen as one of two representatives of the University at the U. S. M. A. Foreign Affairs Conference held in West Point, New York, recently. One of the principal speakers at the Conference was a distinguished Delt alumnus, Paul Hoffman.

When Harvey Day was appointed General Chairman of the I. F. C. Ball held this fall, he went right to work to give us one of the finest dances on this campus for several years. In his spare time, Brother Day is senior class president. Also representing the Deltas in the planning of campus social activities is Art Diver, who has been chosen as the chairman of the publicity committee for the Junior Prom.

Our representatives at the Eastern Division Conference were Art Diver and Jeff Weekley, who brought back many new ideas for better chapter operation. Several other brothers visited the Conference and enjoyed meeting some of our brothers from other schools. We are looking forward to renewing these friendships at the Karnea.

Delta Chi—Oklahoma A & M

Midwinter finds the Deltas here at A & M completely engulfed in college activities. The season has thus far offered many events which both the members and pledges have engaged in. Some of the more outstanding chapter activities include football listening parties, steak fries, hayrack rides, entrance in the homecoming house decorations, a booth in the annual Blue Key Carnival, and participation in intramural athletics.

Holiday festivities included having potential pledges of next fall from the high schools visit and spend a week end at the chapter during which they saw a thrilling basketball game between A & M and Arkansas. Other than this, the chapter sent six men to sing in an all-fraternity Christmas serenade of the women's residence halls and the sorority houses. Climaxing the holiday activities was the annual Delt Sock Hop in the chapter, where fun and laughs were plentiful as the Deltas recited poems of their own written to their dates.

Midterm rushing is now being pushed in an effort to make us one of the larger and stronger of the Delt Chapters.

DUANE W. PUGH

Delta Psi—Santa Barbara

Delta Psi wound up its full winter social schedule with a formal dance and with caroling at a local home for spastic children and at the county hospital. At the county hospital, the chapter sang in the ward for indigent women. The old ladies, some of them more than 100 years old, had tears in their eyes when the chapter sang to them the traditional Christmas songs. Delta Psi intends to "adopt" the ward and send the women gifts and flowers on Mother's Day, Christmas, and other suitable holidays.

Sportswise, Delta Psi came out above all the other campus fraternities this winter. The chapter won both the intramural and intrafraternity football championships. The chapter had two teams entered in the competition. The "A" team was composed of actives and the "B" team of pledges. The two Delt teams had to play each other to determine the college champions. The actives won, of course.

The chapter also won the A. M. S. volleyball championship and horseshoe tournament.

Entering for the first time as a chapter of Delta Tau Delta, Delta Psi won the campus sing during homecoming week end. The men sang two songs, "Delta Hall" and an old Negro spiritual.

Delta Psi came in for a good deal of publicity during football season. During halftime activities at a game with Occidental, a Los Angeles college, the chapter abducted the neighboring college's mascot, a full-size plaster tiger. The Deltas held the tiger for about a month, while everyone wondered who had taken the animal. Then at a college variety show, the chapter returned the animal to representatives of Occidental. It was the peak moment of the show when the black-faced members of the chapter, simulating an African safari, brought the animal to the stage.

Scholastically, the chapter was rated third among campus fraternities. The chapter grade-point average was higher than the All Men's Average.

▼ THE DELT ALUMNI CHAPTERS ▼

Akron

The efforts of our alumni group to see a Delt chapter installed at Kent State University at nearby Kent, Ohio, have been rewarded by the announcement from Hugh Shields that the Arch Chapter, on November 11, approved the petition of the local Gamma Tau Delta group at Kent State University. Many members of the Akron alumni group have worked long months on this project, and this announcement from Indianapolis was particularly heartening to them.

Our dinner meetings this fall have largely centered on plans for a chapter at Kent State, and since the announcement from Hugh Shields, these meetings have taken on increasing importance. Brother John Hart heads a committee to work on preparations for installation, which we have been informed will take place on February 24 and 25. He is aided by former Governor of Ohio Thomas J. Herbert; Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court; Akron Alumni Chapter President Harold Wies; E. Turner Stump and James Fosdick of the Kent State faculty; and Arthur Briggs, Dr. Louis Carabelli, and Robert Stopher.

We are looking for a great turnout at installation ceremonies on February 24 and 25, and we particularly urge every Delt within a 125-mile radius of Kent, Ohio, to make every effort to be present, if not on both days, at least on one of them.

C. L. HUGHES

Last year at this time, a chain reaction of Delt Founders Day gatherings spread from coast to coast and into Canada, with an unprecedented number of alumni celebrating the Fraternity's birthday.

As you read these lines, the Founders Day chairman of the Delt alumni chapter nearest you is eagerly awaiting YOUR reservation for the chapter's annual commemoration of the founding of Delta Tau Delta 91 years ago. It is obvious that if Delta Tau Delta had not proved itself a constructive adjunct to higher education, it would have long since ceased to exist. One of the most important contributing factors to its growth and development has been its continuously interested alumni.

If YOU haven't made YOUR reservation for the Founders Day celebration nearest you, DO IT NOW!

* * * *

Two new alumni chapter charters were granted to petitioners at Manhattan, Kansas, and Eugene, Oregon, at the fall meeting of the Arch Chapter. We welcome these fledgling chapters to our rapidly expanding roster of alumni chapters spread throughout the continent.

Additional groups are organizing and will soon petition for charters. I stress again the tremendous potential force for the progress of the Fraternity in our more than 35,000 alumni.

* * * *

Delta Tau Delta has consistently held the record in the fraternity world for attendance at conventions. The reason for attaining and maintaining this unique record is the exceptionally large alumni attendance at Karneas, which speaks volumes for the place that Delta Tau Delta holds in the hearts of its members.

It is not too early for you to be planning to attend the Sixtieth Karnea to be held in Columbus, Ohio, August 23-26, 1950, under the sponsorship of one of our most consistently active Delt groups, the Columbus Alumni Chapter. Karnea attendance becomes a habit, attested by the rapidly growing body of "Karnea Hounds," made up of those who have attended five or more Karneas. It's a grand habit! See you at Columbus!

Joel W. Reynolds

Secretary of Alumni

Battle Creek

The Alumni Chapter of Delta Tau Delta of Battle Creek, Michigan, cancelled its regular luncheon meeting for December, because of many other seasonal activities. The meetings continue after January 1, 1950, at the Williams House, on the second Friday of each month at 12 o'clock. Any alumnus or active Delt coming to Battle Creek might put that date in his appointment book. We shall be glad to have you with us.

An alumnus of Iota Chapter of Michigan State College, Brother William G. Merritt is able to sit up and walk around for a few hours and will soon be home again. Mr. Merritt fractured his pelvis in a fall from a ladder at his home last fall. We are looking forward to having him at our next meeting.

Our chapter extends best wishes for a very happy New Year to all other Deltas.

CHARLES T. MCSHERRY

Boston

The Boston Alumni Chapter is completing plans for its first postwar Founders Day Dinner to be held early in March. Weekly luncheons are well attended at Patten's every Thursday.

DUNCAN NEWELL

Buffalo

On December 28 the Buffalo Alumni Chapter entertained 15 actives who were home for the Christmas holidays. We had a luncheon at the University Club. There were 20 actives present.

Altogether ten chapters were represented by the actives and 14 chapters by the alumni. All told, there were 20 different chapters represented by the group of 35 alumni and actives.

The Buffalo Alumni Chapter is planning a Founders Day Banquet, and we hope for a good turnout.

RALPH E. FRANK

Cincinnati

More than 60 Cincy alumni gathered at noon on December 22 to enjoy the gala festivities of our annual Christmas Party. As in years past, we held our party at the Cincinnati Club. Following an excellent luncheon, the attending brothers whiled away the afternoon bowling, card playing, or participating in the usual bull sessions.

The only order of business at this meeting was our annual election of officers. Here are the officers for 1950: Fred E. Tower, president; Wilbur J. Adams, vice-president; Richard Reiman, corresponding secretary; Charles A. Leonard, recording secretary; and Robert Weber, treasurer.

Let's give them all co-operation possible to make 1950 a banner year for our organization.

ART JACOBS

Dayton

The Dayton Alumni Chapter will continue having its regular noon meetings at The Biltmore Hotel on the first Friday of every month.

The January meeting will include a report from Brother Rollin Rosser on undergraduate days at Ohio Wesleyan. The February meeting will feature an interesting report from Brother Henry Gerth on fraternity life at Minnesota. The alumni of Ohio State are hoping he forgets to mention the football game between the two schools last fall.

We cordially invite any Delts in the Dayton area to share the fellowship of our meetings.

FRANK E. WILSON

Houston

It wasn't the Shamrock this time . . . but in the shadow of this fabulous "Greenhouse," Houston Delts gathered at Ye Old College Inn for dinner and the annual election of officers.

After recalling the good old college days and chatting with new alumni, Brother Hirst Suffield, president of the Houston Alumni Chapter, opened the meeting with an "expansion" address. Expand THE RAINBOW subscription. Expand the social program. Expand the rushing program. And these recommendations were not all. "We have the facilities in Houston for the Karnea. There is no reason why we shouldn't have it within the next five years," Hirst said in closing.

No event of the meeting was greater than the presentation of a Founders Day Banquet Scrapbook to Maurice Angly. Maurice was the gem of the state-wide banquet last April, who with his active support and his undying love for Delta Tau Delta, made a Delt Day in Texas that none shall forget. Standing beneath a six-foot replica of the Badge and fingering through the presented scrapbook, Maurice said, "This is more than I deserve. Thanks."

Dub Singleton, toastmaster for the evening, introduced the principal speaker, Si Ragsdale, Jr. Si, Jr., the son of a great Delt, Silas Ragsdale, Sr., was president of his chapter at the University of Texas in 1948. He reviewed present-day college life for those who had not been in contact with student life for several years. He reported the discussions and results of the 1949 Western Division Conference. He urged a strong alumni chapter by saying, "The strength of an active chapter lies within its alumni."

Brother Bob Ives, chairman of the nominations committee, submitted the committee's recommendations for the 1950 officers. With no nominations from the floor, J. N. Troxell was elected president, Ed Richardson first vice-president, Walter Babel second vice-president, and Bill Hawkins, secretary-treasurer.

Brothers Claxton Parks, Talbot, and Westmoreland, members of the program committee, arranged for a movie review of 1948 Southwest Conference Football, which ended the evening's festivities.

President Troxell, being in Canada on the date of the election dinner, made a brief address at the monthly luncheon which is held on the second Friday of each month. He praised the work of the chapter's past and urged even greater accomplishments in the future.

Lexington

Someone must have installed a revolving door in Lexington during 1949. While another year was slipping off the calendar, Delts were coming and going in what seemed to be the biggest turnover since the war years or the one or two immediately thereafter.

The local alumni group has continued to survive as such, however, and during the fall got back on a regular schedule of monthly dinner-meetings, with the heavy work of arranging and summoning in the capable hands of Chuck Bohmer, president, and Carlisle Myers, secretary.

Among those who have taken leave of the city, for what we hope will be temporary absences, are Jim Richardson, who is now teaching law at Stetson University, DeLand, Florida; Bill Haag, who has become a professor of anthropology at the University of Mississippi; Buddy Barret, who has moved to Hazard to practice law; and T. C. Edicott and Bill Ogden, both of whom have moved to Louisville and have positions there.

Seems there's a good chance now that Ogden and Edicott can get together with Dr. Al Miller, Ben Cooper, and Bill Ryan to put some life and organization into the growing Delt alumni colony in Louisville.

While a number of Delts were leaving Lexington, others were coming in to take their places. Dr. Jack Floyd is back now, after about a year in the mountains, to practice general surgery. Ike Moore has returned to make his home here and has started a fertilizer business, and William R. (Pat) Patterson apparently is back from Detroit to stay. Bill McCowan, Bill Overhultz, Bill List, Earl Prater, and Phil Robertson, all recent graduates of the University of Kentucky, have located in Lexington and are showing some interest in the alumni organization.

The Lexington alumni club, continuing a project of trying to maintain contacts and an alumni file for Delta Epsilon Chapter at U. K., printed and mailed a newsletter late last summer and the same with another issue at Christmastime.

LAURENCE SHROPSHIRE

Long Beach

The Annual Ladies' Night Dinner of December 7 at the Hotel Lafayette was a red-letter affair. Good food, the warmth of friendship, and a most enlightening and stirring tale by Mrs. Dennis V. Smith (Hazel Littlefield) of her recent three-weeks journey in Czechoslovakia behind the Iron Curtain were indeed a winning combination.

In an appealing, informal manner Mrs. Smith gave us a first hand picture of the subjugation and deliberate annihilation of a splendid people by the ruthless Russian Communistic power.

We all take our hats off to a courageous, cultivated woman, originally hailing from Littlefield Lake and Clare County Area, Michigan. Delts are not only blessed with able members but with their charming and distinguished wives. We have never had so many after-party glowing comments.

Dr. George B. Hanson, as president of the alumni chapter, presided. All business was postponed until the regular January meeting. Mr. Floyd Vinson, our secretary-treasurer, is attending professional business at Sacramento. Hence this very special invitation to all of the 1950 meetings by your scribe:

VICTOR A. MINGERS

Los Angeles

On December 1, 1949, the Los Angeles "All-American" Alumni Chapter held its annual election and named the following officers to serve for 1950: Sidney S. Wilson, Western Reserve, '88, president emeritus; William N. Schwab, Kentucky, '24, president; George W. Rochester, Chicago, '22, secretary; Herbert W. McKenzie, Brown, '15, assistant secretary; Roy P. Crocker, California, '14, Cornell, '15, treasurer; Karl R. Lippitt, Chicago, '12, first vice-president; Robert L. Meyer, U. S. C., '45, second vice-president; Carradine B. Elliott, Missouri, '16, third vice-president; Jack Cain, California, '47, fourth vice-president; and Stuart McKenzie, U. C. L. A., '42, cantor.

Brother John R. Mudge, Iowa State, '21, was elected president for the forthcoming year on the first ballot. Brother Mudge resigned and it is with much regret that his resignation was accepted. He was immediately voted membership in that "great august group" of past presidents.

The year 1950 is going to be a great one for Southern California Delts, now that there are three active chapters in this area. The newest, Delta Psi, Santa Barbara, was a "baby" of this alumni chapter. Interesting events that are being planned are the Founders Day Dinner, the summer

High Jinx and the Past Presidents' Day.

It is hoped that Deltas who plan to travel to Los Angeles will read this letter and pay us a visit. ALL ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO ALL FUNCTIONS. There are our luncheon meetings every first and third Thursdays, 12 noon, Los Angeles Athletic Club, 7th & Olive; monthly dinners at Taix's Restaurant, 321 E. Commercial Street, last Thursday at 6 p. m. Many prominent Deltas are usually in attendance among whom are Fran Patton, past national President, and Dan Ferguson and Nat Fitts, past Western Division Presidents.

At this writing all brothers are looking forward to the Christmas Party, December 29, at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. This annual event affords a gala get-together of alumni and brothers from active chapters who are home on Christmas vacation.

WILLIAM N. SCHWAB

National Capital

Attended by over 125 enthusiastic Deltas and their ladies from the Greater Washington area, the annual 1949 Fall Formal staged November 19, 1949, by the National Capital Alumni Chapter was a huge success.

In line with the usual custom, the dance itself was preceded by a "scrumptuous" chicken dinner served in the ballroom of the Washington Golf and Country Club, scene of the festivities. High light of the dinner was an impromptu midmeal Delt songfest featuring the vocal efforts of Gordon Delk (Gamma Eta, '33), Sid Nyhus (Delta Iota, '33), Larry Hill (Beta Upsilon, '25), Bob Van Sickler (Gamma Xi, '29), John Benson (Delta Epsilon, '30), and Paul Hayward (Beta Beta, '21), whose wife starred in an ivory-tickling role.

As special guests of the local alumni, fine turnouts from both of the local active chapters, Gamma Eta (George Washington University) and Delta Sigma (University of Maryland) were present to join in the dance fun. Since the dance was held the evening before G. W.'s annual Homecoming game with Georgetown University, there were considerable 'tween-dance banter, good-natured rivalry, and school yells.

Heading the capable dance committee was Dr. John Swarthout (Gamma Eta, '32), who was ably aided by Ken Clark (Delta Sigma, '49), Riggs Monfort (Chi, '30), and Raymond G. Clark (Beta Omicron, '19). Hosts for the evening were Rhessa Norris (Gamma Eta, '14) and Sid Nyhus, members of the country club.

Oklahoma City

Oklahoma City was honored recently with a visit from one of our most famous Deltas. Dr. Clifford Edward Barbour, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in this country and pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church at Knoxville, Tennessee, visited us on November 6. He spoke on Christianity's fight against "selfish materialism" for men's souls at Oklahoma City's First Presbyterian Church. Dr. Barbour is now working hard for union between the northern and southern Presbyterian factions which split during the Civil War.

One of the high lights of the winter season here in Soonerland is always the big homecoming game. This year our Sugar Bowl-bound Big Red breezed to an easy 34-7 win over the Iowa State Cyclones to impress the many returning alumni. The customary good times were had by Delta Alpha alumni and Deltas from other chapters . . . the visits with our beloved Mother Allen, the tales of other college years that will never be forgotten, the color and the genuine thrill of big-time football, the warm hospitality shown us by members and pledges of Delta Alpha Chapter. This was homecoming.

GEORGE ANTHONY

Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh Deltas were saddened by the news of the sudden death of Brother Edward Leech, Beta Kappa, '14, world renowned editor of the Pittsburgh Press.

Perhaps overshadowed by the traditional Christmas service, several other events drew the attention of Pittsburgh area Delt alumni during the closing weeks of 1949.

On November 18, alumni and undergraduates of Pitt's Gamma Sigma Chapter celebrated the 35th anniversary of its founding.

Early in December many alumni returned to their chapter houses to greet national Fraternity President W. Harold Brenton, who, with Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields, visited the W. & J., Tech, and Pitt Shelters.

Several days after the Christmas Service, C. R. Wilson received another new honor, when the friendly manager of the Roosevelt Hotel was elected president of the Pittsburgh Hotel Association.

Good attendance continues at the weekly luncheon meetings of the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter, and all Deltas are urged to stop in at the Law & Finance Building Restaurant around noon on Tuesdays.

BILL RAINES

Portland

Portland Deltas gathered together for the social event of the year on December 27 when the annual Delt Christmas formal was staged at Portland's famous Rose Bowl of the Multnomah Hotel. Judging from the enthusiasm of the revelers, this was the finest yet of the annual dances.

Joe Dardis Orchestra supplied musical entertainment while Deltas danced to fox trots, sambas, rumbas, and waltzes. Intermission entertainment found all hands enjoying a few of the good old college songs, while actives of Gamma Rho and Delta Lambda added a few vocal renditions. Along with predance and postdance activity, it all added up to a grand time for all Deltas, who are looking forward to an even bigger and better dance next year.

Congratulations and best wishes are in order for the new Delt alumni chapter in Eugene, Oregon. And Portland Deltas extend to all Deltas everywhere their most sincere wishes for a happy and prosperous 1950, and when in Portland, be sure to drop in on us at our weekly luncheons at the Portland Chamber of Commerce each Monday.

DICK McNAMARA

St. Louis

We have been holding our regular Tuesday noon luncheon get-togethers and have had regular monthly meetings at night. Attendance at the monthly meetings has approximated 20 brothers. We have made a concerted effort to further the activity of rushing and at present are preparing a list of prospective rushees for Delta Tau Delta.

Another project has been to lend advice and aid to a new organization which has been formed on the Washington University campus in St. Louis. This organization is composed of about 15 members at the present time, of which six members are Delta Tau Deltas from other chapters. This organization assumed the name of "Delts."

Our alumni group in St. Louis is not large, but we hope that our activities of rushing and aid to a local fraternal group will eventually increase the activity of all the alumni in St. Louis and eventually result in the establishment of another chapter for Delta Tau Delta. It is realized that this is a rather ambitious program, but, at the present time, it does not appear to be impossible of attainment.

At the present time we are planning to hold our Founders Day Banquet on February 26, and some plans have been formulated for this event.

We wish to extend an invitation to all alumni of the greater St. Louis area to attend our regular meetings and to extend an invitation to all alumni traveling through St. Louis to meet with us whenever possible.

G. A. FISHER, JR.

St. Petersburg

Delts in St. Petersburg now meet at noon on the first Wednesday of every month at the Garden Cafeteria, owned by Brother Howard S. Helt, Gamma Sigma, '20. Brother Helt reserves the table and holds it until 12:15 each meeting date. Among those present at our last meeting was our president, Dr. S. P. Smiseth, Epsilon, '20; Brother Harry R. Hewitt, Beta Gamma, '02, vice-president and former member of the Arch Chapter; Brother John B. Wallace, Gamma Pi, '16, and Omega, '17, Henry's brother; Brother Charles Belden, Beta Nu, '09, famed cowboy photographer and former mayor of Pitchfork, Wyoming; Dr. C. K. Donegan, Delta Kappa, '41; Edwin B. Ellis, Beta Iota, '24; and yours truly, George Bartlett, Beta Gamma, '22, secretary.

From the Tampa Alumni Chapter, President Smiseth has received 20 tickets to that chapter's Christmas dance. We have invited Sellers B. McNally, of Delta Beta Chapter, St. Pete's lone pledge of the year, to go to the dance and invite any companions whom he considers likely material. You see, as we are just beginning, we have to make the most of what we have. So far, our efforts have been feeble indeed, since we are completely snowed under by other fraternities here. Christmas week in St. Petersburg is just one fraternity dance after another, and it's strictly white tie and tails!

GEORGE W. BARTLETT

Santa Barbara

We are admonished by the calendar that the most important birth anniversary in the history of civilization is just around the corner; and I, as president of Santa Barbara Delta Tau Delta Alumni Association, take this occasion to wish you and all the alumni chapters and the members of our Fraternity, yuletide greetings and sincere wishes that the New Year may be replete with substantial attainment.

It pleases me to report that the Santa Barbara Alumni Association since receiving its charter has made most satisfactory progress. We have on our rolls 43 members, with approximately 50 per cent attendance at our monthly dinners. On Tuesday, November 15, a group of brothers from the Los Angeles Alumni Association came up and we enjoyed a luncheon with them at the Barbara Hotel. There were 19 of us present. There were Nat Fitts, Dan Ferguson, Gordon Carey, Executive-Secretary Herb McKenzie, and Frank H. Rethlefsen.

In the afternoon the five visiting brothers drove out to the Shelter at 1700 Mission Canyon Road, where they met and had a visit with all of the boys—numbering approximately 40. Secretary Evert Arnold and I joined the group out there for dinner, out of doors, on the balcony, under the spreading oaks.

During the year the alumni association sponsored a formal dinner for all of the undergraduates in the Shelter at "Elmer's"; two weeks later at the Homecoming occasion—which was really a gala affair—we had a real parade down State Street with band, drum corps, and floats. The Delta Tau Delta float, while not winning first place, received honorable mention.

It will be of interest for you to know that the Delta Tau Delta male chorus, in competition with all fraternities and groups in the College of Santa Barbara, University of California, won first place. The Shelter was thronged for several days with visitors, and on Sunday morning, there was a Homecoming breakfast at the Montecito Country Club which was attended by all of the undergraduates and by a large sprinkling of alumni. Among the latter were Drs. Jones, Monroe, and Seefeld of the University faculty; Brother George O. Relf, former president of the Chamber of Commerce; "yours truly" and others; and, of course, the wives of all the married boys and the sweethearts of all those who were not married.

Our election of officers for the coming year will be held in March, and the installation will be held in April. The executive committee of the alumni association has decided that all executive officers shall hold for only one year, with a possible exception of the treasurer.

Seattle

The latter part of November, the Seattle Alumni Chapter held a dinner dance at the Inglewood Golf and Country Club. The event was well attended, with approximately 50 couples enjoying the festivities. A similar social event will be held sometime in February or March.

At the December meeting, Charles "Bud" Bushell, Gamma Mu, '32, was elected president, and the writer, Gamma Mu, '40, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Seattle Alumni Chapter for 1950. A vote of thanks has been given to Wilson Gaw, Gamma, '30, and Howard Tomasi, Gamma Mu, '39, for the excellent work they did during 1949 as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

To Delts everywhere, best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year.

Southeast Kansas

Southeast Kansas Delts have enjoyed two small but enthusiastic dinner meetings thus far this winter. Our first was December 28 when ten of us sat down to a good roast beef dinner at the Hotel Besse in Pittsburg and continued to "chew the fat" long into the night after the dishes had been cleared away.

A second meeting the night of January 11 honored one of Delta Tau Delta's patriarchs, Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, former President, former RAINBOW editor, member of the Distinguished Service Chapter Committee, and father of Francis M. Hughes, now on the Arch Chapter as Vice-President. The beloved 83-year-old Bishop was in Pittsburg at the time speaking nightly in the Methodist Church during the Week of Prayer services sponsored by the Pittsburg Ministerial Alliance. Delts of the district took advantage of his visit to pay him a brief tribute. Adverse weather conditions cut down anticipated attendance. Active chapters at Baker, K. U., and Kansas State and the Kansas City Alumni Chapter had been invited to send representatives. Martin B. Dickinson, Secretary of the Fraternity, sent a letter of greetings on behalf of the Kansas City Delts.

But the dinner was held in spite of the threatening storm, and the few who were present found the Bishop still a master at telling funny stories and as vigorous as ever in defending the fraternity system and insisting that Delta Tau Delta continue to maintain its high ideals and scholastic standards.

There are close to 30 Delt alumni down in this Southeast Kansas district, mostly in Pittsburg, Fort Scott, Columbus, Parsons, and Erie. This figure does not include the pledges and actives now enrolled in various colleges and universities. If ever we're able to get the entire gang together for a real shindig, you'll be able to open your windows there in the Central Office and hear the echo when we all bear down on "Delta Shelter."

Syracuse

During the school semester just closing, the Syracuse Alumni Chapter has enjoyed many outstanding associations with the active members of Gamma Omicron. Homecoming week end on November 19 saw many visitors and alumni members gathered at the house for the annual meeting of the Gamma Omicron association, and each football week end after the games the active chapter held open house.

Initiation at the house on December 3 found several alumni attending and the initiation banquet was well attended.

During the remaining months of the school year, the active chapter is extending an open house invitation to the alumni chapter for monthly meetings.

Plans for the coming months include an alumni dinner-dance and an outing in the late spring.

It is the aim of the alumni chapter to work closely with the active chapter to maintain constant contact in all matters pertaining to the Fraternity, and, to begin the new year, the alumni chapter wishes to express its sincere appreciation to the active chapter for the splendid record it has achieved during the first year of re-activation.

With best wishes for a year of growth and progress to the Fraternity, we now look forward to the Karnea this summer.

Tampa

With the approach of the Christmas Season, Delts of the Tampa Alumni Chapter have become a beehive of activity. The cause for all this hustle and bustle? Tam-pa's first annual Christmas Dance, held December 22 at the Palma Ceia Country Club in Tampa. The function was a huge success and made many friends for the Fraternity in Florida. Alumni and actives travelled from Plant City, Lakeland, Sarasota, Fort Myers, Clearwater, and St. Petersburg to lend support to this function.

Friday noon, December 30, the Delts gathered again at luncheon to renew acquaintances and swap news of the Fraternity. Many members of the chapters at the University of Florida, Florida State University, and Georgia Tech attended, along with about 25 alumni from the Tampa area.

The month of November saw Brother Bob Allen at the head of a whirlwind fund-raising campaign to purchase a television receiver for the Shelter at Gainesville. The campaign was a success and the money has been forwarded to Delta Zeta Chapter.

Tampa alumni recently elected officers for the coming year. Brother Henry Cole, prominent Tampa attorney, was named president; J. Gary Ennis, vice-president; George Strauss, treasurer; and Sandy Geer, secretary.

Again we repeat our standing invitation to Delts travelling in Florida this winter—attend our meetings. Contact any officer of the alumni chapter for time and place.

SANDY GEER

Topeka

Attendance at our monthly luncheons has been improving this winter, and we are finding these meetings very much worth while. At the last meeting the president appointed a calling committee to assist the secretary in notifying the membership.

There are several new Delts in Topeka, including Mr. Clement Gibbs, from the University of Texas, who has returned to Topeka to be associated with his father in business here.

At our November meeting, Colonel J. P. Shumate, executive officer for the army, who is stationed in Topeka, gave us an interesting talk.

One of our members, Mike C. Oberhelman, has been in demand this season as referee or field judge in about 16 football games over the country. He has worked at Logan, Utah, Dallas and Houston, Texas, and will go to New Orleans as an official at the Sugar Bowl game, January 2.

With the best of New Year's wishes from the Topeka alumni, we hope that any visiting Delts will give us a call. Congratulations and best wishes to the newly organized alumni chapter at Manhattan, Kansas.

FRANK F. HOGUELAND

Tulsa

A Christmas dinner party at the Twin Oaks was enjoyed by more than 40 alumni and wives on the evening of December 14. Brief reports on activities at Delta Alpha and Delta Chi Chapters were given by Jack Harlow, Bob Bates, and Bob Jones. Billie Bates and Virginia Harlow are busy activating a mothers' and wives' club in Tulsa. They will welcome all recruits.

New members of the Tulsa Alumni Chapter who were greeted for the first time are: David Walker and Howard Sowers from Oklahoma U. and F. A. Nance of Tennessee. We hope to see them and their lovely wives at all functions this year.

Bob and Lou Jones vacationed in San Francisco last month and visited Beta Rho and Beta Omega Chapter Houses during the California-Stanford game activities.

Many Delta Alpha stalwarts are looking forward to their New Year's trip to the Sugar Bowl with the all-victorious Sooner football team.

WILLIAM L. MCKAY

The death of WILLIAM LINCOLN MCKAY, Nebraska, '98, on October 29, 1949, marked the end of a Delt career which had recorded many years of tangible devotion to Delta Tau Delta.

Mr. McKay was Ritualist and a member of the Arch Chapter from 1908 to 1913. He had also served as acting Editor and business manager of THE RAINBOW. He was a member of the 1911 and 1933 Chicago Karnea Committees and was a past president of the Chicago Alumni Chapter. Throughout the years he maintained an active interest in his own chapter, Beta Tau, and was always generous in his support of its programs. In 1936 he was cited to the Distinguished Service Chapter.

Bill McKay, as his coworkers in the early 1900's always called him, was one of those men who work quietly and unostentatiously behind the scenes, who accept the thankless jobs with the same willing spirit that they accept any other job. He could—and often did—speak eloquently at banquets, organize a Karnea, write an article for THE RAINBOW, serve on any committee, or perform the other duties that were assigned him.

He attended his last Karnea—probably against his doctor's orders—at French Lick in 1948. A sudden heart attack put him in bed at the hotel, but it did not mitigate his enjoyment of attending that great Delt gathering, and his keen interest in the progress of his Fraternity never wavered.

Mr. McKay was president of Keolyn Plastics, Inc., of Chicago. He was a past president and director of the North Evanston Fourth of July Association, Inc., and was one of the originators of the North End Improvement Association. He was appointed by the mayor of Evanston to serve on a citizens' committee on postwar planning during World War II.

Following is the text of his Distinguished Service Chapter Citation:

"Ritualist of the Fraternity. One of those men who were active in raising and maintaining the standards of Delta Tau Delta a generation or more. His interest in the Fraternity is still manifested by his continual attendance at Karneas, Conferences, and other Fraternity gatherings. Known and loved by us all because of his unselfish service and devotion to duty."

The death of CHARLES E. McCABE, Wabash, '11, on November 1, 1949, wrote into the records of Purdue University, Gamma Lambda Chapter, and Delta Tau Delta the final chapter of an imperishable contribution of personal, constructive service.

In a manner of speaking, Charlie was a "foreigner" at Purdue, for he was from another chapter. But he represented the real meaning of Delta Tau Delta, which transcends provincialism and the boundaries of a single chapter and a single college campus. He took Gamma Lambda and Purdue University into his heart, made personal sacrifices, and gave to each for more than a quarter of a century his constant interest, devotion, talents, and practical service at times when he could ill afford to give of them.

In 1925 he answered a call from the Arch Chapter to become chapter adviser when there was urgent need for a man with loyalty, courage, honesty of purpose, and a resolution which would accept no compromise where the best interests of the chapter, the Fraternity, and the University were concerned. He saw the day when Gamma Lambda established itself in a position of pre-eminence.

Next to his family, which so willingly shared his devotion with Delta Tau Delta, his chapters—Beta Psi and Gamma Lambda—Delta Tau Delta overall, and his colleges—Wabash and Purdue—meant more to him than his profession as a lawyer or the accumulation of this world's goods. He was a man of action in behalf of his Delta fellowmen from beginning to end.

In 1935 he received the Fraternity's highest honor, a Citation to the Distinguished Service Chapter. Following is the text of the Citation:

Vice-President of the Northern Division; Chapter Adviser of Gamma Lambda and in great degree responsible for its Shelter. Honest in his opinions, fearless in his duties, loyal in his actions.

JOHN T. McKEOWN, Ohio State, '50, lost his life heroically on November 11, 1949.

Back of the tragedy was a youthful life that had been cheerful, unselfish, devoted to his Fraternity and his brothers in the chapter. Endowed with a becoming faith in human nature, Jack believed that all people were generally trying to do the best they could, and he felt that it was his obligation to help them.

When he was unexpectedly confronted at an early-morning hour with a boy threatening to depart on an unreasonable and rash act, no doubt his first thought was to save this youth from getting himself deeper in trouble, but back and under it all in his mind must have lain the conclusion that his future brother, his chapter, and his Fraternity were about to suffer severe disgrace . . . and that something had to be done about it.

Jack acted—quickly and willingly, without regard to personal danger—and he sacrificed his life at a time when it was about to reach the climax of youthful hopes, ambitions, and endeavors. This, to save the good name of Delta Tau Delta.

Rising above the cloud of tragedy, the name of Jack McKeown will remain as a symbol of heroism in the annals of Delta Tau Delta.

BISHOP MANNING

On November 18, 1949, death came to the Right Reverend WILLIAM T. MANNING, Sewanee, '93, retired Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, internationally renowned church leader.

Bishop Manning had served churches in California, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee before coming to New York in 1903 to be vicar of St. Agnes' Chapel in Trinity Parish. He was later assistant to the rector of Trinity Church and in 1908 rector, ably administering its affairs until 1921, when he was elected Bishop of New York.

Persistent promotion of the construction of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, 112th Street and Amsterdam Avenue in New York City, was the Bishop's most publicized activity. Now two-thirds completed, the Cathedral is the largest place of worship in the United States. His sphere of influence extended to many fields, and he never hesitated to speak straightforwardly or to act on any issue which clashed with his ideals.

Bishop Manning was the recipient of many honors. Decorations conferred in honor of his notable services in numerous fields included the Legion of Honor from France, the Order of the Crown from Belgium, the Order of the Holy Sepulchre from the Patriarch of Jerusalem, and the Order of Phoenix from Greece.

Bishop Manning's successor, the Right Reverend Charles K. Gilbert, who celebrated the burial office, said of him: "The death of Bishop Manning marks the end of a long life of notable service to the church and to the country. He will be remembered as one of the outstanding leaders of our time. He was a brave and forthright champion of the Christian faith and of every worthy movement for national and human welfare. All that he accomplished in the building of our great cathedral stands as an enduring symbol of what his untiring service meant to his church and to the diocese of which he was Bishop for a quarter of a century. DR. CHARLES C. STROUD, Tufts, '94, one of the most distinguished and beloved personalities in Southern athletics and education, died at his home in Natchitoches, Louisiana, December 8, 1949.

Dr. Stroud was head of the health and physical education department of Northwestern State College from 1923 to 1939, the date of his retirement from active service. He had previously served as director of athletics at both Mercer University and Louisiana State University.

During his undergraduate days, Dr. Stroud played varsity football and baseball for four years. In 1948 he was picked by Gerry Moore of the Boston Post as an all-time end on the honorary team representing the best football talent that had passed through Tufts since the game was initiated at the school in the seventies.

Dr. Stroud maintained a constant interest in his chapter and the Fraternity throughout the years and could always be counted on for unselfish support.

The Right Reverend BARTELLE H. REINHEIMER, Kenyon, '11, retired Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Rochester, died November 12, 1949, at the age of 60.

Bishop Reinheimer was chancellor of Hobart College and trustee of both Hobart and the University of Rochester. He had also been chancellor of the Colleges of Seneca and William Smith.

During his 35 years in the ministry, he had served churches of Gambier, Cleveland, and Dayton, Ohio. He was for ten years executive secretary of the Southern Ohio Diocese and Archdeacon for six. In 1931 he was named executive secretary of the field department of the National Council of Episcopal Churches.

He was consecrated Bishop in St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Rochester, New York, in 1936. He became Bishop of the Rochester Diocese in 1939 and continued in that capacity until November 2, 1949, the date of his retirement.
