The Delta Creed

- I BELIEVE in Delta Tau Delta for the education of youth and the inspiration of maturity, so that I may better learn and live the truth.
- I BELIEVE in Delta Tau Delta as a shrine of international brotherhood: her cornerstone friendship, her foundation conscience, her columns aspiration, her girders self-restraint, her doorway opportunity, her windows understanding, her buttresses loyalty, her strength the Everlasting Arms.
- I BELIEVE in Delta Tau Delta as an abiding influence to help me do my work, fulfill my obligations, maintain my self-respect, and bring about that happy life wherein I may more truly love my fellow men, serve my country, and obey my God.

One Moment, Please

On February 12, 1950, a man who had been the spiritual leader of Delta Tau Delta for nearly three-quarters of a century entered the Chapter Eternal. For the more than 30,000 Delts whose lives he has made richer, and for succeeding generations of Delts who still will benefit from the inspiration that he imparted, Hugh Shields in these pages pays him a final tribute.

To Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Ohio Wesleyan, '89, this May, 1950, issue of THE RAINBOW is humbly dedicated.

We are privileged to present on Page 130 one of the concluding articles in the "Economic Life" series. Dr. Henry M. Wriston, a noted Delt educator, offers a stirring challenge to the numerous Delts contemplating or embarking upon a teaching career.

As another college year moves rapidly to a close, the May RAINBOW chronicles a particularly active era and one marked by achievement. The story of Delta Omega's impressive installation at Kent State University will bring home the fact that the Fraternity's eighty-third active undergraduate chapter represents a worth-while addition.

The response from our undergraduate correspondents has stretched the capacity of these pages and makes the department "The Delt Chapters" in this number a veritable encyclopedia of achievement. You will remark that the vague generalities that often characterize chapter news are being supplanted by concrete illustrations of leadership and distinction.

You will find, too, the recurrence of a common theme—enthusiasm for the Sixtieth Karnea. The call of Columbus is great. Bring yourself up to date (Page 127) on the details, and then make up your mind to come to Columbus!

I MUST ADD HERE a column that will put down the Fraternity's credit on the ledger of my life. She took me into her halls an awkward youth, neglected for a year by all Ohio Wesleyan Greeks, until some of them discovered their blunder! She pinned on my young and eager breast the Square Badge of her glory and bade me wear it as a proud jewel beyond price. She set before me in her Ritual ideals that protested against coarseness and lewdness and drunkenness and black-guardism and made me feel that, though her radiance shone on what seemed an inaccessible height, it was still so attractive that one could not give up its pursuit. She gave me four years' experience with as fine a group of actives as I have ever known, joyful puritans who exalted clean habits into a gospel and never deemed a swine field a worthy resort. At my first Karnea at Cleveland in 1888, where only forty-two sat down to the banquet, she brought me into contact with Roy O. West, Kendric C. Babcock, and Ira B. Blackstock, and made the four of us an unbreakable quadrangle of love for all the years. She has given me hundreds of friends, and in that growing circle of affection I have traversed the continent in gladness. At last, here near the end of a happy life, she grants me the chance to make my heart young again as I greet many of the men who helped to amass her glory into a great fund; and, as I greet many others still youthful and under the gracious dominion of her altar, these others to whom we hand her glowing torch that they may hold it higher and make it shine the more as fed by their own exhaustless love. Thus, if we have given, she has given back again, proving that the law of action and reaction operates in her homes in proportion, if not in equality; and pouring back upon our hearts and minds her gifts shaken down, pressed together, and running over.

—From EDWIN HOLT HUGHES' address to the

Edwin Holt Hughes, 1866-1950

By HUGH SHIELDS, Indiana, '26

Executive Vice-President of Delta Tau Delta

EDWIN HOLT HUGHES—churchman, author, educator, orator, fraternity leader—how shall we record for all time his position in the church, in the Fraternity, his profound influence on all who knew him, his illimitable activity spanning a long life dedicated to his fellow man? How express in bleak black and white the twinkling eye, the gracious charm, the scintillating wit, the warmth and strength of character? How estimate the sense of irreparable loss at his passing?

On a cold, gray February day those of us gathered at Greencastle, Indiana, to pay final tribute to his earthly tenure heard him characterized by Bishop Richard C. Raines as one of the "Princes of the Kingdom." That deserved appellation lifted our sorrow, constituted a benediction, and brought us to the realization that Bishop Hughes had touched our lives in a measure which transcends death itself—that he will live forever.

Delta Tau Delta was privileged to feel the magic of his mind and personality and his constructive leadership for more than 65 years—for a longer period than the church, the colleges he served as president and trustee, or the countless thousands of peoples and organizations, large and small, which came within the orbit of his influence.

The Fraternity was 25 years old when, on October 28, 1884, Edwin Holt Hughes at 17 joined its ranks at Ohio Wesleyan University as a member of Mu Chapter—as he always liked to recall after about a year of waiting for the invitation he thought would never be extended. From that day on, he regarded membership in the Fraternity not as an added symbol of honor but as an added call to service. He caught the spirit of Delta Tau Delta at once. He was a working fraternity man, active in the affairs of Mu Chapter and Ohio Wesleyan University. He was a delegate to the Northern Division Conference and to the 1888 Karnea where he shared the speakers' banquet table with Professor L. S. Lowe, one of the Founders, and spoke on "The Future Delts."

He was one of that group of pioneers, which included Alvan E. Duerr, who came along at Kenyon in 1889 to make up that incomparable team of Hughes and Duerr, that picked up the fledgling Fraternity by its bootstraps and through devotion to Fraternity ideals, vision, integrity, and high personal character established the permanent foundations of Delta Tau Delta which have made it an institution of merit and distinction.

Bishop Hughes' official positions with the Fraternity included Editor of THE RAINBOW, in which position he served from November, 1895, until June, 1899; President, from July, 1899, until October, 1901; and member of the Committee of the Distinguished Service Chapter, on which he had served continuously since 1932.

BISHOP HUGHES at Chicago Karnea in 1946, when he conducted Memorial Services for Delts who died in the service of their country in World War II.

BISHOP HUGHES when he was President of Delta Tau Delta.

His contributions in the field of service to Delta Tau Delta are many and varied. As a steady beaconlight pointing up the spiritual concept of Fraternity, he stood through the years for the best in morals and ideals for the undergraduate and alumnus alike. The strength of his character, the brilliance and constancy of his devotion to the ideals of Delta Tau Delta, the unrelenting zeal with which he defended her interests and criticized her weaknesses placed Edwin Holt Hughes above official rank, made him by universal acceptance in and out of the Fraternity the Delt ambassador extraordinary, accountable only to his own conscience, the integrity of which had long since been established—the living symbol of a magnificent ideal in the eyes of the youngest freshman, who perhaps knew only of his name and fame, and in the eyes of the oldest alumnus, whose knowledge of or contact with the man himself had been a rich experience.

Among the measurable gifts to Delta Tau, as he always called her, was his concept of THE RAINBOW. After he became Editor in November, 1895, he had in one month mailed the November number, with practically all its writings from his own pen. During his editorship, he introduced the practice of confining THE RAINBOW to Fraternity subjects, a policy which is adhered to to this day. Almost overnight the improvement in THE RAINBOW was apparent. It took on new dignity and seriousness. It became the vehicle for promoting the Fraternity's ideals. He set the cadence for the magazine for years to come. He provided the precept and example for fraternity journalism, and he acquired a pride and interest in THE RAINBOW which carried through his life. One of his fondest memories of official duties with Delta Tau Delta was of the years when he was Editor.

With Will D. Howe and Oscar Storer, he was author of the Ritual substantially as it stands today.

In his report to the 1901 Karnea at Milwaukee, President Hughes was enthusiastic in viewing the future. He expressed his confidence and his modesty in connection with his own efforts in behalf of Delta Tau Delta by saying: "Down the years I see with confident eyes the larger achievements of Delta Tau Delta. On the day of her coronation I shall be glad to feel that any small gem has been worked by my hands into the diadem of our Queen."

To this Karnea he recommended the establishment of an endowment fund, the better to insure the future growth and greatness of the Fraternity. He was the first person to suggest the idea, which the Fraternity translated into action two years later and which today is the Loyalty Fund.

During his presidency and down through the years, Bishop Hughes took the stump for many issues. He was much against honorary initiations: "Let fraternities rear their own sons and then we will allow them all the enjoyment of a just pride." Delta Tau Delta has no honorary memberships to this day. He visualized Delta Tau Delta as more than an undergraduate organization to cease when college days are over, and he saw the value of alumni interest in the work of the chapters and in furtherance of the broader scope of the Fraternity's influence: "We only say now to secretaries that they can do their chapters no service more valuable and lasting than to keep their alumni interested in the affairs of the general Fraternity."

He was ambitious concerning the kind of men who should be Delts, and he urged chapters to select their best representatives as Karnea delegates: "Send men who are gentlemen without being fops, bright without being mouthy, and solid without being unduly reserved." He insisted on honesty in public relations and fair play in dealing with other fraternities: "To chapter secretaries: Do not offer rash expectations, and remember that comparisons are odious."

Unswerving in his convictions, he never hesitated to speak up for what he knew was right. And, though members of the Fraternity sometimes failed in their interpretation of Deltaism, he never lost faith, never abandoned hope, never broke ranks to hide his disappointment. With his unerring sense of timing, he would return to the battleground at the opportune moment, to inspire the Fraternity to greater achievements.

Addressing the 1919 Karnea at Boston, he drove another wedge for the cause of good scholarship which since the early days he had striven to make a distinguishing mark of Delta Tau Delta. He believed that scholarship was a requisite to the all-around man and that scholarship should be a man's major interest at college as it is his major reason for enrollment in an institution of higher learning. His efforts were largely responsible for establishing a satisfactory scholastic standing as a requirement for initiation.

On finances, he believed that no organization could endure without adhering to sound business practices. As Editor, he had pulled THE RAINBOW off the financial rocks, and it was he with Alvan Duerr who first focused the Fraternity's attention on its overall financial responsibility.

From the early days of his Fraternity career, he had advocated extending the frontiers of Delta Tau Delta to make its benefits available to many more fine young college men in institutions of high educational standing. In official capacities he was instrumental in the installation of Beta Chi (1896), Gamma Gamma (1901), Gamma Delta (1900), Gamma Zeta (1902), and Delta Theta (1926) Chapters. He was a source of great pride to the two chapters with which he had the closest personal connections—his own, Mu Chapter at Ohio Wesleyan, and Beta Beta, his adopted chapter at DePauw.

Many official gatherings of the Fraternity were made memorable by his addresses. At one time listed among the ten best orators in the world, he gave freely of this talent to Delta Tau Delta. He maintained a constant and active interest in the Fraternity until his death February 12, 1950. Just four weeks earlier, in Pittsburgh, Kansas, he had attended his last Delt meeting, responding to an invitation to address Delts of the Southeast Kansas Alumni Chapter.

He spoke truly in 1901 when he said, "I expect always to be her [his Fraternity's] loyal son and subject. I cannot conceive that my eyes shall ever be too dim to look upon her stars; my ears too deaf to thrill to the sound of her magic words; or my heart too frigid to answer to the warmth of her splendid fellowship. . . ."

church works, Fraternity articles, and to a number of books, the last of which, his autobiography, I Was Made a Minister, was published in 1943. In it, as always, he paid tribute to the Fraternity and to the friends he made through it. The return to the Fraternity for the associations he gained was thousand-fold.

Upon the Fraternity as a whole he exercised an ever continuing influence by what he himself called his "unfailing idealism." None will ever know how many men, young and old, came within the ken of his searching yet sympathetic eye and went on with strengthened heart, taking something of his wondrous philosophy with them to stand them in good stead the balance of their lives.

An enthusiastic booster of the fraternity system and a partisan for Delta Tau Delta, it was with great love and pride that he watched his sons and then his grandsons become members of the Fraternity. The sons are: Ebbert M. Hughes, Mu, '19; Edwin Holt Hughes, II, Mu, '20, and Beta Beta, '21; and Francis M. Hughes, Mu, '31, currently Vice-President of the Fraternity. The grandsons are Edwin Holt Hughes, III, Beta Beta, '43, secretary-treasurer of the Northern Division; Allan B. Hughes, Beta Beta, '48; and Charles E. Hughes, Mu, '50.

Come to Columbus!

IS THERE A DELT in the Fraternity today who doesn't know the significance of the dates August 23-26, 1950?

Who doesn't know that Columbus, Ohio, of all the cities in the Union, has acquired new stature by virtue of a vote taken at French Lick two years ago?

Who hasn't heard the clarion call of the Half-century Karnea?

If there is, he must be miles from an alumni chapter. He must have been excommunicated from his undergraduate chapter. He must be holed up with a carton of K Ration on an uninhabited island somewhere south of South Africa.

"See you at the Karnea!" has echoed with increasing volume throughout the Fraternity. The Karnea hounds—that loyal clan with five or more Karneas under their belts—have long since vowed that this is one meeting they must attend—while Karnea converts, stirred by reminiscences of White Sulphur, Chicago, and French Lick, have also set aside those four days in August for an event they will never forget. Every day you run into another Delt who has signed up for Columbus.

And will Columbus be ready?

Well, they've been "winding up" ever since last fall (see November RAINBOW). They've had the welcome mat out since last winter (see February RAINBOW). They've talked, eaten, and planned Karnea for so long that they count Delts in their sleep.

And you ask if Columbus is ready!

Chairman Ed West, Charlie Flick, Walt Heer, Bob Zimmer, and the rest of them not only will leave no stones unturned—they'll roll out a few boulders of their own. The Karnea Committee and the Columbus Alumni Chapter are resolved to put the Sixtieth over with an atomic bang.

Take a look at the official program. Nearly four full days, in the first place. Time enough for ample discussion of issues vital to Delta Tau Delta, for work shops and round tables, for committee reports, for ringing Delt speeches, for camaraderie, for the things that make a great Karnea—and for a program of entertainment that will top all previous Karneas.

President Brenton will bring his gavel down on the opening session shortly after noon on Wednesday, August 23. This formality will have been preceded by registration in the lobby and a great deal of handshaking as Delts from the wide dominion of the Purple converge on the Deshler-Wallick Hotel.

There will be time for Delts to get acquainted on Wednesday, since at this writing there is no official event on the program for that evening. But after Wednesday, hang onto your hats—there will be something doing every minute.

Fraternity officers predict record attendance at business sessions and round tables—the outgrowth of healthy, widespread interest among both undergraduates and alumni in affairs of the Fraternity and condition of the chapters. That's the major concern of a Karnea—considering and planning and passing measures that will make better chapters, a better Fraternity.

The fellowship and the good times together, however, are of equal importance, and this is where your Karnea Committee shines. Take Thursday, for instance, when the traditional chapter reunions are slated. An alumnus of every chapter who lives in the Columbus area will be designated as chairman of his chapter's reunion. He will arrange the details of the chapter's get-together. With nine Delt chapters in the state of Ohio and many others nearby, you will see some spirited competition to determine which chapter can turn out the most alumni for its reunion.

On Friday afternoon one of the most impressive events of any Karnea will be staged. We mean the model initiation. A well-rehearsed team under the direction of Robert K. Zimmer will perform the Ritual in exemplary manner.

Following the initiation service, Karnea-goers will be treated to a rare form of entertainment that only Columbus can provide. Busses will be waiting to whisk them out to John Galbreath's fabulous Darby Dan Farm. Ramping through these picturesque 4,000 acres, Delts will enjoy such events as a polo match, possibly a horse race, and other sports. For dinner, a barbecue such as no Karnea has ever seen before.

In the evening, chapter entertainment is scheduled. Remember

French Lick? Remember the enthusiastic reception accorded the chapter singing groups down there? The success of that innovation makes it a "must" for the Sixtieth Karnea.

The Karnea Committee has other ideas up its sleeve for Friday night. It would only spoil things for you if we spilled all the beans three months ahead.

Saturday—the final day—brings the concluding business sessions, committee reports, the election of officers for the next two years. In the evening, the Karnea banquet in the Deshler's great ballroom provides the sparkling climax of four pleasure-packed days.

Nationally famous Delts will be at the speakers' table. In recent years such prominent men as Paul Hoffman, Tom Clark, and Branch Rickey have addressed Karneas. The tradition for superlative oratory will be upheld at the Sixtieth Karnea.

Other features of the banquet program are the introduction of Fraternity officers, presentation of chapter awards, and presentation of Distinguished Service Chapter Citations.

Concluding event of the Karnea is the Karnea ball. Dates for the undergraduates? If you think the committees at French Lick and Chicago did themselves proud, wait till you see what Columbus has to offer! Don't worry, men; there will be dates!

And is that all? Well, hardly. That's only the bare outline—the framework. There are side dishes almost too numerous to mention. Like the ladies' program. Of course the Delta Dames are invited to the banquet, the ball, and the Darby Dan outing, but there will be other amusements for them while their husbands are attending business sessions.

The "get-together" lure of the Karnea is one of its most satisfying rewards. It accounts for the mounting numbers of "Karnea Hounds." Did we tell you that one of the co-chiefs of the Kennel of Karnea Hounds has already signified his intentions of attending the Half-century Karnea? He's Judge Harry R. Hewitt, Wisconsin, '02, former Ritualist of the Fraternity. Both he and Joseph R. Morgan, Butler, '89, have attended 15 Karneas.

You will meet other great Delts at this Karnea—past Presidents of the Fraternity, former and present members of the Arch Chapter, members of the Distinguished Service Chapter—those sons of Delta Tau Delta who "have helped to amass her glory into a great fund."

Columbus has been talking about attendance records. Will we surpass the world's record chalked up by the Fifty-eighth in Chicago in 1946? The call of Ohio is great—10,000 Delts within 300 miles, 15,000 within 500 miles. Chicago had better look to her laurels!

THE RAINBOW gratefully acknowledges the generosity of these Good Delts who contributed Karnea cartoons for this issue: Ed Dodd, Georgia Tech, '25, creator of the "Mark Trail" strip, recent recipient of an award of merit from Sigma Delta Chi; Erwin G. "Morie" Morrison, Stanford, '26, author of the syndicated cartoon feature "Take a Tip From Morie," writer of sports books; and Alex Cook, Ohio Wesleyan, '49, editorial cartoonist with the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Two famous Delts—Thomas C. They will lead the largest group of nationally prominent men ever assembled at a Delt Karnea.

Economic Life XVI: Teaching

By DR. HENRY M. WRISTON, Wesleyan, '11

President, Association of American Universities; President, Brown University

THE PRESSURE for educating all American youth has steadily increased under the egalitarian principles of American democracy. It is obvious, therefore, that a larger proportion of young people are to be in school for longer periods of time than ever before in the history of the world. That being so, the opportunity of the teacher is greater than ever before.

The profession carries rich rewards for men with broad outlook, catholic taste, cultural appreciation, and dynamic enthusiasm for learning. It is true that the monetary rewards are not great. Even though salaries have been increased within recent years, no instructor worth having will ever receive what he is worth commercially. Like intelligence, like industry, like personality would bring much higher pay in other fields. Minds, however, are not governed by the same scale of values; some people ardently desire wealth, while some do not care so much for money as for other satisfactions.

There are many compensations for the spirit of sacrifice which teaching will always require. Chief among them is the enormous satisfaction that comes to a teacher as he watches his students develop poise and power and insight—flowering from youth to adulthood. Those who somehow catch the flame of a teacher's zeal for truth and reality become veritable foster children in whose lives and work he finds a perpetual fountain of youth. If these intellectual and spiritual offspring enter into the service of the public, then he also serves who prepared and inspired them. Their success brings more joy than his own.

The relationship between the teacher and his students should be founded upon a sincere affection for youth and a passion for its fullest and richest development. Only when that is true does the student occupy the center of the stage. If the affection and passion of the instructor are for the subject matter, and if the student is only the incidental guinea pig, there is a fatal distortion in his teaching which nothing can repair. The wealth and richness of appreciation of his subject find its best outlet in his research; but teaching requires that the accent should be upon the potentialities, the gifts, and the unfolding capacity of the student. Good teaching will carry each student to the fulfillment of his intellectual and personal promise.

It is essential that affection should not deteriorate into a sentimental view of the student. There is probably no worse pest than the member of the faculty who thinks he understands the students' point of view and insists upon representing it at all times. It is important to understand it; it is equally important not to surrender to it. A sincere affection for youth may often involve a sacrifice of present and superficial popularity for a deeper and more enduring respect and regard. It is true that love is forever giving, but it is not true that it is always giving precisely what is asked.

A primary requirement for a successful teacher is that he manifest in his own life the possibilities of education. We have laid so much emphasis upon training, and more especially upon specific training, that we have minimized unduly the kind of man the teacher ought to be. We have been so concerned with his competence in the field of his specialty that we have withdrawn attention from his clothes, his haircut, his manner of speech, his grammar, his table behavior, his cultural interests, and many other things conspicuously important in a teacher. We have failed to insist that teaching is to a large degree a matter of personality—that a man's teaching power will increase only as he enriches his own life, as he broadens his own tastes, as he enlarges his own horizons.

The good teacher should have a life so abundant that many forms of experience are heaped up, pressed down, and running over. The scientist cannot excuse his bad grammar because he has specialized, for language is the medium of expression, and if the language be not clear, the expression is inaccurate. The historian may not excuse his unfamiliarity with music because he has been giving thought to dates and their sequence. You cannot have an unbalanced mental ration and expect a full life; you cannot let your left arm decline in effectiveness merely because you use your right arm more often.

It is probably fair to say that teaching is the extension of one's personality through the medium of subject matter. The influence of the effective teacher will in most cases last much longer than the information he imparts. The statement is intended, of course, to detract in no way from the importance of what he teaches. The subject matter must form an adequate vehicle; it must have intrinsic significance; it must be of such character as to make the teacher's dedication to its expansion and transmission worth while. In short, it is not merely a vehicle for the exercise of his personality.

Strictly speaking, it is not possible to have a rich and significant personality without intellectual power; only a superficial definition of personality could omit that essential. The teacher must not only master his field; he must have a breadth of mastery which is out of the reach of a small mind. But beyond mastery he must have a creative relationship to the subject of his teaching. Knowing is not enough; the teacher must make the knowledge live; without the creative spirit that is impossible. Without being an independent thinker, the instructor can never hope to stimulate his students to independent thought.

It is vital, therefore, that a successful teacher have a sound education. A genuine education has no terminal facilities; if it is not continuous, it is void. When neglected, nothing atrophies more rapidly than cultural interest; nothing dies sooner than esthetic appreciation; nothing fades more rapidly than literary familiarity.

Graduate study is too frequently a deliberalizing experience. During the heat of intense application upon one thing, the student is deflected from the rich and normal and expansive life which should be the mark of a liberally educated person. All this is done in the name of giving him a competence, but the price is too great when that competence is secured at the expense of dehumanizing him, of teaching him bad habits of health, poor methods of eating, negligent methods of clothing himself, carelessness in social intercourse, poor habits of speech, a limited rather than an expanding vocabulary. The successful teacher must resist the narrowing experience of graduate study and continue his liberal education through the years of specialized training.

His preparation is complete only when he dies or retires. After he is forty years old, it is almost irrelevant whether or not he has a doctor of philosophy degree. If attaining the degree was not a manifestation of intellectual vitality and scholarly interest, its benefits have been lost by the time he has attained that age. The man without a Ph.D. but with capacity and zeal will, by the age of forty, have trained himself and will still be in the process of training himself. If he has not been given an inferiority complex by his colleagues who look down their noses at the shortness of his hood in an academic procession, he will have gone, intellectually, far beyond the person who attained the Ph.D. degree but not much subsequently—and there are many such.

I would by no means disparage the genuine value of graduate study and advanced degrees for persons entering the teaching profession. An honestly earned Ph.D. makes for more effective teaching due to better preparation, and consequently to greater respect on the part of the students. But too many people work for a doctor's degree, not because they are interested in scholarship, but solely as an avenue of promotion. After they have received their degree they abandon their use of foreign language, abandon all effort at creative scholarship. In numerous school systems attainment of the master's degree results in an increase in salary; the outcome has been such pressure on the master's degree that it has been virtually destroyed as a meaningful symbol. These practices are utterly sterile and misconceive the function of education.

The question of professional training for teachers requires some consideration. Preoccupation with subject matter should not obscure the necessity for a well-considered educational philosophy—and for techniques for reaching the desired objectives. Though teaching is an art, it must be remembered that an art is not mastered without specifically directed effort, and discipline under guidance often saves much wasted trial and error. The most learned are not always the best teachers. Enthusiasm in addition to learning, while essential, is not enough; the enthusiasm must be infectious. Anything that courses in educational psychology or the technique of teaching can do to shorten the period of apprenticeship is real gain.

However, the problem of secondary school and college teaching is fundamentally one of stimulation. While the methods and practice of teaching are significant, they do not occupy so dominant a position as in the elementary years. Unhappily so little, relatively, is known of the actual processes of learning at the higher intellectual levels that most of the professional courses do very little to expedite mastery of the art, and some unquestionably retard it. Any tendency to regard this special training as a substitute for more significant intellectual and emotional qualities is to be deprecated.

Indeed, teaching can never be reduced to a standard technique; it must always be a manifestation of those individual differences of which we speak so fervently when discussing the student, but forget so completely when talking of teachers. They should have a free hand, each adapting his methods to his own capacities.

Some years ago an investigator was seeking the characteristics of fifty or a hundred great teachers of the last generation. It had been my good fortune to come under the influence of three of them. When the inevitable questionnaire was filled in, it revealed that these men were totally dissimilar in most technical matters. In method of assignment, in using lecture or discussion, in type and manner of lecture, in recitation procedures, in examination techniques, in grading, and in most other things of that character, they had very little in common. The essential qualities which each possessed were two—intellectual and emotional power, and significant personal qualities. Even in these respects the men were markedly dissimilar; the nature of their mental and emotional gifts were sharply contrasting, and the aspects of personality which made each a great influence were quite individual.

The idea that a man can teach only what he has been taught in college or graduate school is obviously unsound if there is ever to be any scholarly progress. And the idea that a man should teach merely his specialty is not only an unkindness to him because it limits his development, but it is a denial of the validity of the philosophy of a lib-

Kent State Welcomes Delta Omega

By E. TURNER STUMP, Miami, '17

PRESIDENT BRENTON handed the charter to Chapter President Shelley and Delta Omega of Delta Tau Delta came into being. It was not only the culmination of weeks of planning and two glorious days of preinstallation ceremonies, but it was the realization of a dream, the fulfillment of a vision which had been held for 25 years by Delts and those who would become Delts—a vision which would not be denied.

Gamma Tau Delta Fraternity had been Delt in principle and purpose for a quarter of a century. Under the guidance of the late Emmet Stopher, Wabash, '06, the fraternity had wrought well on the Kent State University campus. Its members were respected and the house in which they lived was excellent. Delt alumni and neighboring active Delt chapters gave their support. These things, together with the location of Kent in the very heart of Delt land, argued for the location of a chapter. In the words of President Brenton, "Here is a chapter tailor made. Almost all that is necessary is to place the Delt crest on the Gamma Tau Delta house and our eighty-third chapter is in operation."

Despite these facts, there is always work, hard work, connected with the processes of installation. A local committee, headed by John Hart, Ohio State, '31, worked long and well to make all smooth for the culmination exercises. His committee included Carl Weygandt, Wooster, '12, Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, and Thomas Herbert, Western Reserve, '15, former Governor of Ohio. Representing the Akron Alumni Chapter on the committee were Dr. Louis Carabelli, Kenyon, '22; Harold M. Weiss, Iowa State, '27; Robert Stopher, Wabash, '29; and Arthur Briggs, Ohio, '34. Also members of the committee were James Fosdick, Hillsdale, '40, advisor to the local chapter, and E. Turner Stump, Miami, '17. Both Mr. Fosdick and Mr. Stump are members of the Kent State University faculty. The committee had at all times the full support of the University President, George A. Bowman, Sigma Nu. As plans progressed, Gordon Jones and Al Sheriff served as liaison of the local fraternity and the planning committee with the Central Office. These men worked arduously and commanded the respect of fraternity and committee alike.

Installation really began on Friday, February 17, with the inspiring

Rite of Iris conducted by Dr. Russell A. Griffin, Hillsdale, '28. Dr. Griffin, Dean of Men at Western Reserve University, brought with him the men of Zeta Chapter for this impressive exercise. Many older Delts who had never experienced the beauty of this symbolic ceremony were present.

The actives of Gamma Tau Delta and the alumni of that group, totaling 83 men, were initiated into Delta Tau Delta on Friday and Saturday, February 24 and 25. The work was conducted by initiating teams from Zeta, Chi, Beta Phi, and Gamma Lambda Chapters.

On Saturday, February 25, a memorial luncheon paid fitting tribute to the memory of Emmet C. Stopher, for 22 years advisor to the local chapter. In a simple ceremony, Mrs. Stopher and her daughter, Margaret, were presented. William Martindill, Ohio, '32, and Ward Davis, Kent, '29, spoke of the contribution of Mr. Stopher to the local chapter and to Delta Tau Delta.

On Saturday evening, February 25, Wills Gym of Kent State University became a banquet hall. Dignitaries of Delta Tau Delta hailing from many states, the President of

Committee Chairman

John N. Hart, Ohio State, '31, served as chairman of the alumni committee which planned and executed the details of the installation.

This was by no means a "paper committee." Capitalizing on the wealth of Delta alumni in the Kent area, John Hart and his committee put many Deltas to work. They rode herd on arrangements from start to finish, and in the face of icy roads and inclement weather they turned out a record crowd to give Delta Omega an impressive send-off. The installation committee deserves a special salute for turning in an outstanding performance.

Mr. Hart is economist with the B. F. Goodrich Company in Akron and a resident of nearby Hudson.

Kent State University and many of his administrative staff, representatives from campus sororities and fraternities, and representatives from many chapters of Delta Tau Delta were present to applaud the installation of Delta Omega Chapter. Those who could not attend in person were represented by sheafs of congratulatory telegrams and letters coming from every chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

John N. Hart, Ohio State, '31, presided. Invocation was pronounced by E. Turner Stump, Miami, '17. Following the banquet, President Hart introduced Carl Weygandt, Wooster, '12, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Ohio. Judge Weygandt did a masterful job in introducing a galaxy of distinguished guests. Among them was Stuart K. Fox, Wisconsin, '20, President of the Northern Division, who presented the members of Delta Omega Chapter.

President Brenton, Iowa State, '20, in presenting the charter to A. Guy Shelley, Jr., president of Delta Omega Chapter, said, "Each fraternity has a special purpose to each member. To me the purpose of Delta Tau Delta is to build better men. I can think of no simpler way to say it than to build better men. The colleges and universities of this country have developed into great educational institutions. They are training the minds of the young men and women. But there is something more than the training of the mind to meet some of the problems that face us. And that is where a college fraternity chapter comes to take its place. Because a good chapter of a good fraternity can do those things and give a person those things that cannot be given in most cases in the classroom. And the men of the colleges of this country are going to be running the country soon. You must learn from your fraternity the problems you will have to meet someday. We want you to learn to live together and to encourage good scholarship. I am not so much interested in just where you rank with the other fraternities on the campus in scholarship as I am that your scholarship is above the average in scholarship because you men are a small group."

Thomas J. Herbert, Western Reserve, '15, former Governor of Ohio, congratulated the Fraternity for entering a great growing University, not forgetting to congratulate the school on its great president, George A. Bowman, under whose relatively short presidency great expansion has taken place. Mr. Herbert emphasized his feeling that the potentiality of development in human relations is still the greatest potentiality that we have and indicated how Delta Tau Delta on the campus can contribute to this purpose of education.

Dr. George A. Bowman, Sigma Nu, President of Kent State University, worked untiringly for the coming of Delta Tau Delta to the campus. When Chief Justice Weygandt introduced him, he received a spontaneous and thrilling ovation, to which he responded by thanking Delta Tau Delta for choosing the Kent State campus and the men of Gamma Tau Delta for the eighty-third chapter.

The main address was given by G. Herbert McCracken, Pittsburgh, '21, past President of Delta Tau Delta. In an enthusiastically received address, the speaker outlined the basic purpose of Delta Tau Delta as follows: "Individual personality is that value in life in comparison with which all other values are quite secondary. Delta Tau Delta exists fundamentally to serve and to enrich the individual lives of its members and the community and society of which they in turn are members. It is our deep set and historical desire as a fraternity to develop young men with a capacity to think clearly, to feel deeply, and to decide and act in accordance with those ethical standards which through the long years have been tried and tested and found to be good. To be a member of Delta Tau Delta is to be lifted out of our singleness as individuals into a fellowship as brothers in which we are forever being reminded that we as individuals have a social and ethical obligation and that it will only be as we live and play and study together that our individual personality will be socially matured and a happier fellowship achieved. Delta Tau Delta believes that there is no substitute for a trained and disciplined mind."

Mr. McCracken emphasized that the Fraternity is confident of Delta Omega's ability to contribute to the fulfillment of the purpose and to the future growth of Delta Tau Delta.

The meeting was closed in traditional manner by the singing of "Delta Shelter." The great and inspiring day closed with the Installation Ball.

Thus came into being Delta Omega, the eighty-third chapter of Delta Tau Delta in the populous section of northeastern Ohio, the very heart of Delt land. Few chapters have had longer or a more intensive training in Delt tradition or have been ushered in more auspiciously than Delta Omega.

THE AUTHOR: E. Turner Stump, Miami, '17, is head of the Department of Speech of Kent State University and director of the University Theatre.

Interested in the development of the local Gamma Tau Delta for several years and one of those who gave time and assistance to the petitioners, he served on the Delta Omega installation committee. A gifted speaker, Professor Stump presided at the effective Emmet C. Stopher Memorial Luncheon during the installation week end.

Pilots Seamen's Church Institute

THE FIXED GREEN LIGHT that casts its beam six miles across New York harbor from the memorial Titanic Tower of the Seamen's Church Institute is a landmark little known to landlubbers. Seamen who follow the beam will find a welcoming door, port and starboard lights gleaming on either side, and above it the figurehead of a ship, Sir Galahad.

Beneath the figurehead, 6,000 seamen pass each day, 1,400 men find beds there every night, more than 1,000,000 meals a year are served inside and, perhaps most important, the institute runs a postoffice that handles as much mail as a city of 30,000 persons. Every language and salty dialect on earth is spoken there—Dr. Hall [Raymond S. Hall, Brown, '31] calls it, "the junior United Nations."

Dr. Hall, the waterfront sky pilot, had tough training for his job; he was in the lead plane in the invasion of Normandy, a paratroop parson who always jumped with his men. Wounded on that job, he was sent back to England and tagged "L.O.B." for the thrust into Holland—"L.O.B." means "Left Out of Battle."

"I went to see the colonel and argued with him, and I won the argument, but only halfway—he let me go in by glider. Paratroopers would rather trust a chute than a glider—we saw too many of them crack up in Normandy. You get to know your men very well just before an invasion—it's like the time before a big race or a football game in college—a kind of frightened excitement. Only when you 'jump for pay dirt,' you jump for keeps. After an invasion a lot of boys always came around and told me, 'Chaplain, I really saw the light this time—from now on I go to church!'"

Dr. Hall was among the many Americans captured in Holland, and he spent Christmas in a prison camp in Poland:

"No candles, no trees, no presents—you get a chance to think about the real meaning of Christmas in a prison camp."

After three months he escaped

through Poland and Russia and out by way of the Black Sea. Stories like that travel fast among seamen, and down at 25 South Street they know their Reverend is quite a man—they even know he used to be captain of the swimming team at Brown. When he shoots pool with seamen they know they don't have to watch their talk so much. . . .

He's fiercely proud of the men, stoutly maintains that few are drunkards and few are Reds, "in spite of all the talk you hear." He will tell you the story of a one-time able-bodied seaman, well educated, who went to sea to stop drinking—"he's a $15,000-a-year man in a government agency now!"

But for his own three sons and to all romantic youngsters, he has this warning: "A boy can't just run away to sea any more—he must have passes, shipping passes. And there are four or five men for every job these days."

For Dr. Hall, this is the most encouraging characteristic among seamen: "They hate debt. When men 'go on the beach,' without a job or money, they can use our credit system here—no collateral or interest on what they borrow from us. We thought that was better than charity. When we first set up that credit system fifteen years ago, only one out of ten paid us back—since the war, it's gone up to better than six out of ten."

Kappa's Jack Berger Headed for Perfect Scholastic Record

Jack Berger, senior of Kappa Chapter, is about to accomplish something that has not been done at Hillsdale since our fathers were babies. It has been more than 50 years since anyone has been graduated from Hillsdale with a perfect scholastic record. At this writing, Jack has seven perfect semesters to his credit. That's right—seven semesters of straight "A."

This feat has not gone unnoticed. Recently Jack was awarded a $750 Horace Rackham scholarship to the University of Michigan. Even more recently, he was named valedictorian of his class. Majoring in physics, Jack plans to continue his education and enter law school, later specializing in corporation law.

Delts will be pulling for Jack, wishing him a perfect finish in his remarkable scholastic achievement.

Jim Halsey Builds an Institution

By CHARLES E. ST. THOMAS, Alpha Tau Omega, Maine

JAMES H. HALSEY, Wabash, '27, does not qualify as a magician, but he is turning many a trick in the education world!

This Delt is one college president who can point to his institution and say that it is doing what many consider the impossible—operating year after year without a budget deficit, expanding its facilities, and assuming the role of a leading urban university.

As president of the University of Bridgeport, Jim Halsey has the distinction of being one of the youngest college executives in the country. He is 44; he assumed his post in 1946. He has been a president before, too—of his chapter, Beta Psi, at Wabash College.

People in the field of education are taking notice of the University of Bridgeport. They are also looking to Jim Halsey for the secret formula that has enabled him to perform the greatest of all university wizardry—operating in the black, without a deficit.

"There is no secret, no sorcery, and no black magic involved," he revealed, "it only takes a little common sense."

The common sense he referred to is the key to his success. The University of Bridgeport is operated as a business, and, like any other private enterprise, three factors must be present for it to be successful. They are the product to be sold, the customer, and the desire to purchase. Brother Halsey has all three in his nonprofit, nonsectarian institution.

His product is education and it is of the highest caliber at the University of Bridgeport. His customers are the 3,370 students now enrolled in the day and evening courses. The desire to purchase, a nebulous quantity that businessmen can measure only after they put their wares on the shelves, is also present. According to a Chamber of Commerce survey, Bridgeport was, before the establishment of its University, the largest area in the nation not being served by an institution of higher learning.

Brother Halsey came to the University in 1938 as assistant to the president. At that time, it was still being operated under the charter of the Junior College of Connecticut—New England's first junior college. He was named president eight years later, the same year that the Junior College was changed to the University of Bridgeport. From the start, he accepted a challenge to mold the University as he saw fit. This was no common opportunity, and, realizing it, he attacked it vigorously.

Another of the fine new buildings accumulating on the Bridgeport campus.

What have been the results? Jim Halsey is now chief of a university that is housed in 31 separate buildings, operates under a $1,750,000 annual budget, and serves the Bridgeport area to its fullest capabilities with over 300 persons on the faculty and staff.

He and the University are now bywords in the Bridgeport community. The college is assuming the role of "Bridgeport's Own Urban University"—a phrase initiated in the city and now on everyone's lips. Jim and his wife, Julia, play an active part in the affairs of the city. Hardly a day goes by without some reference to their work with Bridgeport's many clubs and organizations.

Mrs. Halsey, first lady of Bridgeport U., was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1927. While her first job is an obvious one with her three boys, keeping her husband in good spirits runs a close second. He describes her as "a wonderful partner"—and attributes all of his success to her understanding ways.

James Herron Halsey has three prospective Wabash Delts and the oldest, James, Jr., 16, is fast approaching the college age. The others, John, 12, and George, 6, will have to wait a little longer.

Educational administration is not new to Brother Halsey. After leaving Wabash, he went to Paris as assistant headmaster of the MacJannet School. After this period abroad, he returned to his home in Hammond, Indiana, and taught at the high school there until 1933, before moving to the Morgan Park Military Academy in Chicago. From there, he transferred to the Irving School at Tarrytown, New York.

During his early years at Bridgeport, he worked under the founder of the school, E. Everett Cortright, on public relations and student recruiting. Apparently, he did the job with his usual enthusiasm and thoroughness. When President Cortright

Delts Start New Tradition at Syracuse

THAT TRADITION plays an important role in the life of every college is a statement that goes without question. Syracuse University is no exception to this rule and what promises to become one of the leading traditions at the upstate New York educational center was recently begun by Gamma Omicron Chapter.

As befits an 80-year-old institution, Syracuse already has a plenitude of traditions, many of them sponsored by the various Greek-letter societies. For many years campus residents have been awakened at eight o'clock every morning by the Delta Kappa Epsilon chimes. Archbold Stadium has been rocked innumerable times by the Alpha Tau Omega cannon blasting out news of another score by the Syracuse football squad. Each Syracuse gridiron victory is greeted by the tumultuous clanging of the Alpha Chi Rho bell.

But now something new has been added to tradition on the Piety Hill campus and—thanks to the Gamma Omicron Delts—13,000 Syracusans can now witness a year-long display of that mythical, mystical something called school spirit. Focal point of the new tradition is the Old Oval flagpole, located in the heart of the Syracuse campus, from which there now flies the brilliant orange-and-blue banner of the University. The flag was purchased and is being maintained by members of the Syracuse Delt chapter. Measuring four by six feet, it has the University's seal emblazoned in blue on a bright orange background.

Start of the idea to fly the University colors over campus every day dates back to last December when Brother Jack Abele suggested the chapter begin the tradition as a triple benefit project: service to the University, publicity for the chapter, and—last but not least—an extra chore for the pledges. The latter have the proud duty of raising and lowering the flag each day, not always a pleasant assignment in view of the vicissitudes of Syracuse weather.

The suggestion received enthusiastic response from the chapter and Abele was commissioned to formulate plans for the adornment of the then forlornly-naked Old Oval flagpole. After consultation with university administrators and flag manufacturers, the Syracuse banner was ordered and the unveiling date was set for Saturday, March 4, a date that would coincide with initiation ceremonies and a Founders Day banquet.

Auspicious occasions are not without their trials and tribulations, however, and the Delt flag-raising ceremony was no exception. Came Friday, March 3, and the flag had not yet arrived—the coal strike had tied up shipments and delivery would not be possible for several days. Faced with the prospect of having a flag-raising ceremony with no flag, the chapter hurriedly contacted the University's athletic office which graciously consented to loan one of its banners for the presentation program. The campus was none the wiser for the substitution and everything went off as scheduled.

Present at the Saturday noon dedication was a crowd of several hundred people, including students, campus leaders, and University officials. Speakers included Mr. Forrest H. Witmeyer, former president of the Gamma Omicron Alumni Association and a guiding force in the chapter's reactivation; Robert B. Treen, chapter president; and Dr. Finla G. Crawford, vice-chancellor of the University.

The presentation program was aired over WAER, campus radio station, and a recording of the broadcast is now a treasured possession of the chapter. The program was concluded with a singing of the Alma Mater which, fittingly enough, contains the words:

"Flag we love, Orange,
Float for aye,
Old Syracuse, o'er thee. . ."

Favorable comment on the inauguration of the Delt flag tradition was forthcoming from various campus personalities and the Daily Orange commended the chapter for "not giving any Syracusan a chance to forget his school colors." Men's Student Government passed a resolution praising the chapter for its action and the presidents of the Interfraternity Council and the Traditions Commission also paid tribute.

FREDERICK C. TUCKER
Beta Beta, '08

President, Chapter Adviser, Director of Home Association of Beta Beta; President of Indianapolis Alumni Chapter; repeatedly a Karnea delegate; a tireless worker in Delta Tau Delta whose devotion and loyalty have made him a pillar of strength at Beta Beta and a respected stalwart throughout the Fraternity. His pride and interest in Delta Tau Delta have been the inspiration for countless efforts of other men who have been better Delts for having known him.

ONE YEAR AGO this month, these columns carried a statement concerning the Fraternity's membership qualifications. At that time it was pointed out that our qualifications are closely similar to those of almost all other large national fraternities, and Delts were reminded that our requirements for membership are a part of our Constitution and may be changed only by a vote of Karnea delegates and ratification by the undergraduate chapters.

Some of our members had stated that they would like these qualifications removed for their chapters. "The President's Page" emphasized the fact that Delta Tau Delta is a national fraternity; its laws must be decided by the required majority, and the minority must abide by such decision if it wishes to retain the benefits of our national organization.

The hope was expressed that, since the issue had been raised, it would be fully considered from both sides. Such consideration, it was felt, should be accomplished slowly and thoughtfully with a full understanding of the changes that would be brought about in our social, fraternal relationships of the past. Should our Karnea delegates and chapters in sufficient number wish the law changed, it was further pointed out, they may effect the change as provided by our Constitution.

At our 1946 and 1948 Karneas, the subject was fully considered by committees and was presented on the floor. There is no doubt that a very large majority was opposed to any such change.

Delts were assured one year ago that if the question of membership qualifications still existed at the 1950 Karnea, it would have fair consideration. No Delt need conceal his favor to a proposed change. I did urge, however, calm consideration with an understanding of our Fraternity's purpose.

In the past two years, the intelligent discussions that have taken place among members of Delta Tau Delta have been most gratifying. Such discussions have occurred in chapter houses, alumni meetings, Division and Regional Conferences, interfraternity campus groups, and at informal meetings.

At no other time since this issue has been seriously before us have so much intelligent consideration and thought been given to it. It seems that all aspects have been presented and explored.

Such a method is the preferred means of considering so important a question. It has been considered not through the heat of battle, but by a mature, reasoned, and calm thinking based on many facts. Learning to meet problems in this manner is an important function for a college fraternity man. A good fraternity thus increases its usefulness in training men to meet life's strenuous problems in a sensible manner.

Two types of persons have favored the removal of fraternity membership qualifications: One group is composed of sincere members who honestly believe that democracy is best served by the removal of all qualifications for fraternity family membership. The other group is made up considerably of persons outside friendly fraternity membership. These individuals, if not opposing fraternities on this point, would be tearing at their foundations in some other manner.

Whatever is done must be decided by our own informed, loyal membership. Reiterating my statement of a year ago: The right to make a change belongs to our Fraternity. The decision should not be made for us by others, many of whom would tear down our family in some other way if not in this.

When next we meet, at the 1950 Karnea in Columbus, Ohio, our law-making body will be better prepared than ever to consider intelligently our laws on membership qualifications. There is no other way than by a national convention for an organization with 83 chapters scattered over a vast area, and with more than 34,000 living members located in many parts of the world, each with an equal interest in Delta Tau Delta, to consider its problems. Time to consider is an essential part of wisdom.

This page has been written so that those who are most anxious for the consideration of this issue will know that it has not been tucked away in an unimportant section of our activities. On the contrary, it has been assigned an important place in the Karnea schedule. This statement is presented, not in an attempt to forecast the outcome of the Karnea's consideration, but in an effort to assure you that the thinking has been so deep that the ultimate decision will be in the best interests of the Fraternity. It is the responsibility of each delegate to come to the Karnea with sufficient background and information to cast his vote intelligently.

Any person deserving to belong to our Fraternity must make his decisions based on that which will augment our strength and usefulness and not weaken or destroy us. If changing our membership qualifications will increase our usefulness, then proper changes should be made. If, on the other hand, such changes will diminish our usefulness, then we should avoid them with understanding.

Whatever the outcome, we have been deliberate, we have examined our heritage and our foundations, and we approach the Sixtieth Karnea with sufficient understanding to make a strengthening decision.

Delta Tau Delta, by the decision of its own informed and loyal membership, must remain strong and useful in its major objective: building better men.

Bishop Phillips of Southwestern Virginia

MANY PEOPLE TODAY have forgotten that the Right Reverend Henry D. Phillips, Sewanee, '04, Episcopal Bishop of the diocese of Southwestern Virginia, was once captain of football at the University of the South and is a former Southern Division President of Delta Tau Delta besides.

There is no reason why a future Bishop should not play whacking good football, which Bishop Phillips did. He was a member of the Sewanee eleven for four years, playing on the 1900 team which lost only one game during the season, and that the first loss in four years. He was elected captain of the 1902 team.

He held down first sack on the baseball team, moreover, and managed the squad.

In 1903 he represented the University in the intercollegiate oratorical contest. From 1900 to 1905 he was head proctor of the University. It should be noted, in addition, that he was elected to both Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Beta Kappa.

Bishop Phillips was active in the Fraternity, too. He represented Beta Theta at two different Karneas—Milwaukee in 1901 and Cleveland in 1903. He returned for official duty with the Fraternity as President of the Southern Division during 1920-21, and he presided over the 1921 Southern Division Conference in Atlanta, which THE RAINBOW of that period described as "the most successful Conference in its [the Southern Division's] history."

During this same period (1919-22) he was also president of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Bishop Phillips still is a busy man, with multifarious interests. He is president of the trustees of three separate institutions—the Virginia Episcopal School, Lynchburg; Stuart Hall, Staunton, Virginia; and Boys Home, Covington, Virginia. He is chairman of the Commission on Religious Education for the Province of Washington, and he has been the recipient of a citation for community service from the National Community Chest.

Although he was a Philadelphian by birth, Bishop Phillips has for many years belonged distinctively to the South. He is a former chaplain and professor of English Bible of the University of the South. He has served pastorates in both Georgia and Tennessee. From 1922 to 1938 he was rector of Trinity Church, Columbia, South Carolina.

He has been Bishop of Southwestern Virginia since 1938.

flexible, high moral standards, he was a leader in the work of amalgamating the Methodist churches of America. He served as chairman of the Joint Committee on Union of the American Methodist Churches. His church career began in 1892 when, upon receiving his degree as Bachelor of Sacred Theology from Boston University, he was pastor at Newton Center, Massachusetts. There he remained until 1896. From that date until 1903, he was pastor at Malden, Massachusetts. In 1903, he entered the education-connected phase of his career, as President of DePauw, serving until 1908, when he was made a Bishop of the Methodist Church. He served as acting President of Boston University in 1923 and acting Chancellor of American University in 1933. From time to time he was a lecturer at Vanderbilt, DePauw, University of Southern California, Southern Methodist University, and Dickinson. He was a trustee of DePauw, Ohio Wesleyan, American University, and Dickinson.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Bishop Hughes held academic degrees which included A.B., Ohio Wesleyan, 1889; A.M., 1892; D.D., 1904; LL.D., 1909, Ohio Wesleyan; Bachelor of Sacred Theology, Boston University, 1892; Doctor of Sacred Theology, Syracuse University, 1903; LL.D., DePauw University, 1908; and LL.D., University of Maine, 1919.

In 1940, Bishop Hughes was retired, but he was recalled to the Washington Area in 1943 and again to the Wisconsin Area in 1947. He retired permanently in 1948, but his retirement encompassed an activity which would have exhausted many a younger and seemingly stronger man. Always greatly in demand as a speaker, he traveled thousands of miles each year during the period of retirement as well as before in the services of the church.

Though he had marked his eighty-third birthday two months before his death, he was youthful in spirit with an unexcelled zest for living. In 1946 he expressed his devotion to the ideals of Delta Tau Delta and, in a measure, his faith:

"... We shall discover that horizons refuse to disappear and the flying goal allures us onward—to heights so lofty that they may at first discourage, and yet so wonderful that we cannot give up their pursuit."

BISHOP HENRY D. PHILLIPS

Third Delt Heads National Press Club

By CARL H. BUTMAN, Dartmouth, '09; Cornell, '10; George Washington, '11

TO BE SWORN into office by a Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court is an honor itself, even in the nation's Capital, but to be sworn in by a brother Delt seems really worth mentioning in the lead of a story about the inauguration of Radford Ellis Mobley, Jr., George Washington, '30, as president of the National Press Club.

Into a rather exotic scene, labeled as Miami and later as Hawaii, ten stalwart members of the Press Club Board, dressed in Hawaiian costumes, carried Rad Mobley on something resembling a cross between a stretcher and an open sedan chair, Saturday night, February 11. Although he was carried in to his inauguration, let me state here that he was on his own feet almost immediately and walked off the stage later.

He had been elected the forty-second president of the Press Club sometime previously by an astounding record of 493 out of 510 votes cast this year, which tends in a way to show his popularity, or perhaps his status as a politician.

Incidentally, he is the third Delt to be president of this newspapermen's organization founded back in 1908. The first was William C. Murphy, a grand Delt from Wabash, '19, who served in 1934 but who died recently while Director of Publicity for the Republican National Committee. The second was Charles O. Gridley, Northwestern, '21, long a Washington correspondent and writer. He was president of the Club in 1937 and is still one of the most active members, participating in its many activities and serving as a mentor for new members and officers.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: Carl Butman, who was for several years President of the Southern Division of the Fraternity, keeps us posted on distinctions which come to Delts in the nation's Capital. His long record as a working member of the press makes him particularly well qualified to write about our Fourth Estate Delts.

Incidentally again, a quick check of the Club's recent book, Dateline, Washington, shows that there are at least 25 members of Delta Tau Delta in the Club, not counting several nonresidents.

Returning to my initial theme, it would not seem out of place to write something about my hero. Rad represents the Knight newspapers, including the Akron Beacon-Journal, Chicago Daily News, Detroit Free Press, and Miami Herald, as well as the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, owned by Delegate Joe Farrington.

Rad was born in Eutaw, Alabama, in 1905. Before getting into the newspaper game, he attended the University of Alabama where he acquired an A.B., '27, and a Phi Beta Kappa key, which he never wears, because, he says, his small daughter lost it, and that anyhow he hasn't the type of stomach across which to stretch a gold chain with a dangling key. In fact, I don't believe Rad has a stomach; he is a neat, well-dressed, ruddy cheeked man and doesn't weigh much over 130 in his Hawaiian swim trunks.

He came to Washington way back in 1927 and started out to be a sleuth for the F.B.I., where he became a fingerprint expert. At about the same time he enrolled as a law student in George Washington, and was shortly afterward initiated into Gamma Eta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta. Newspaper work intrigued him a little more than did the law, and after two years he and another man started a news service for some 25 out-of-town papers. One of the papers was owned by the Knights and it wasn't long before Rad became the local representative of both the Akron Beacon Journal and also the Miami Herald—and later all four of the Knight papers. About that time he dropped his legal studies, chiefly because representing four or more newspapers in Washington is a full-time job.

How he's going to run the Press Club, even if he has a competent staff, and still write copy for some five papers is beyond me, unless he gets a couple of deputy writers to help his routine newspaper office work. As president of the NPC, he's going to be busy, especially after December 31, 1950, when the Club takes over 77 per cent of the common stock of the National Press Building Corporations and has to administer it and keep up payments on the mortgage. Still he is about two-thirds an attorney, as well as a fingerprint expert, and maybe he can handle it as well as the onerous duties as the Club's first gladhandler, at which he excels.

On the night of his induction, Brother Tom C. Clark, of the U. S. Supreme Court and formerly Attorney General, had the honor and privilege as an associate member of swearing Rad in and did a novel job. He made Rad swear what he wouldn't do rather than any definite plans he had for actually doing things. Brother Tom, Texas, '22, was assisted in the inauguration by Senators Pepper, Florida, and Ferguson, Michigan; Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and Representative Smathers of Florida; Delegate Joe Farrington of Hawaii; and over a thousand NPCers, all present in person and apparently inspired. The United States Navy Band, led by Charles Brendler, also an associate member, and some 16 stout naval musicians furnished an excellent musical program.

Following the dual skit, staged in front of a realistic sea-scape, first of Miami and then Hawaii, showing a clear blue sky and sea background, with a sloop skimming along at a 45-degree angle, a scantily clad beach girl, a few palms, and a "one-armed bandit," Rad began introducing his staff, which had been elected along with him. Clad in his colorful Hawaiian sport shirt, his ever-present black derby (one of the few still extant in the Capital), and his inevitable seegar, Rad had a lot of nice things to say about his collaborators for the ensuing year. Among them was another newspaper Delt—John G. Norris, also a Gamma Eta man, '29, and a national reporter on the Washington Post. He was elected secretary-treasurer and will have to help Rad out on club financial problems as well as curtailing that old mortgage on the Press Club home.

Jack, as he is called, won his election fairly too but didn't pull as many votes as did The New President; he did manage, however, to get 268 votes out of 310 cast, which is at least a fair indication that the members had faith in him as a financial monitor.

All the Delt cheerers lustily but weren't allowed to sing about the Delta Shelter on this occasion. They did very shortly, however, because the annual Delt banquet was staged in the same place within a few weeks.

Rad himself says he didn't want to be president any more than another local president from Missouri, but he started in on his press political career long ago, serving in minor capacities, and then was elected vice-president a little over a year ago, with 473 votes out of 491, which was pretty good, but he did better in the presidential race, as has been stated.

What Rad wants most, he said, is a "Redeal" program, especially in the Club card room; there he seeks a standing rule for the switchboard operators to say, "Sorry, he isn't here," when any member is called, to save paging so many who don't or won't respond to the clarion call of the loud speakers.

During the skit, which was pretty amateurish (after all, they were all active or working newspaperman), a big fish was passed around from hand to hand in an effort to identify it, but it was not until someone handed it to Brother Tom Clark that the denouement was reached. After looking at it carefully, Tom said to Rad, "Well, it isn't a 'red herring,' is it?" One of Tom's admonitions to Rad was that he solemnly promise not to write anything which would in any way reflect on either of them, which Rad gladly promised.

A feature of the entertainment was the issuance of a special extra edition of the Miami Herald, devoted 99¾ per cent to the occasion of Rad's inauguration and the members of his staff. Its leading and front-page cartoon depicted Rad as driver of the 1950 Press Club covered wagon from which the mules, labelled Press Club, had escaped and were dashing off into the distance, while Veep Lyman was wielding his mule skinner's whip over the space where they should have been. Complaining, President Rad says, "Say, Veep! Something tells me they went that-a-way." One reason for this description is that the cartoon was by Jim Berryman, another Delt NPCer, who is also a Gamma Eta man, cartoonist of the Washington Evening Star, and recently elected vice-president of the famous "Press Senior Society," the Gridiron Club, to which Rad himself was recently elected.

Just to give an idea of what some of Rad's associates and competitors in the press said in the special issue of the Miami Herald, and also so that THE RAINBOW Editor will have a swell chance to cut this story without spoiling its perfect continuity, I quote a few items in part, with due credit, of course, to the Miami Herald of February 11, 1950.

Henry Flynn said, "Mobley might be called a newspaperman's newspaperman, if anyone can figure out what that would be." Commenting on how Rad started his political career, he said he didn't go about it the hard way. "He just permitted the few doubtful voters to make the acquaintance of his very attractive wife (Barbara Martin, of Madison, Wisconsin, whom he married in 1934)—and his personal shortcomings were disregarded. She'll be seeing him again about a year from tonight."

Edwin Al Lahey wrote: "Rad operates the handshaking concession on the twelfth floor of the National Press Building. He is the Mr. Fixit of the Washington Knight Bureau—anybody directly or remotely connected with any of the papers who wants anything from opiates to hotel reservations instinctively calls Rad."

"Rad stands for radar," says Riley H. Allen in his column. "I can now reveal a military secret better kept than the atomic bomb story or the size of the national debt: They named radar for Rad. Rad can do more with a battered typewriter, a faded ribbon, and a shopworn cigar than sixteen Houdinis—all this without removing his hat (Derby), which he seems to regard as not merely an essential but an indispensable part of his anatomy."

Economic Life

eral education. For example, a member of the history department should be able to give any of the undergraduate courses in history, most of the courses in government, and with a special effort, one or two in economics or sociology. In my early years I was compelled to teach what is now regarded as an abnormally wide variety of courses. It was a gruelling task, but also an enriching experience.

There is nothing in human experience to justify the superstition that a fertile mind is made more fertile by confining it within narrow limits. A change in mental diet from time to time helps restore the fertility of the jaded mind. It is untrue that a specialist may not know, in any significant way, what lies beyond his own field. One of the most distinguished legal teachers in America is almost equally famed as a botanist and one of the greatest chemists is a naturalist of high repute. If it be contended that such men have a touch of genius, the answer must be, so have we all, but too few dare to exploit it.

Teaching requires an original mind and the creative spirit. While these may exist without participation in some research project, it can safely be said that an enlightened piece of research is the best available evidence of their presence. The mind of the teacher must be not only original and creative; it must be fresh and vigorous. The greatest single source of academic refreshment is research. There is no real validity in the notion that competent research work and brilliant teaching are seldom to be found in the same person. The very opposite is true. Of course, there are exceptions; sometimes preoccupation with research problems leads a man to neglect his teaching; and occasionally a brilliant teacher finds other outlets for his creative intellectual energies. But the broad rule is that the two gifts go together.

Successful research tends to improve the instructor's relationship to his students. It affects teaching not only directly through his own gain in power but indirectly through the gain in respect upon the part of the students. Undergraduates learn to distrust and dislike the authoritarian attitude of an instructor but equally they appreciate and admire real authority. The greatest barrier to teaching is not the lack of capacity upon the part of students, but emotional resistance. An important aid is the emotional harmony which arises from mutual respect.

Teaching offers a great opportunity, balanced by great responsibility. The demands for preparation, for breadth, for growth must be matched with the grant of confidence, freedom, and appreciation.

Bishop Gravatt of Upper South Carolina

Bishop of the diocese of Upper South Carolina since 1939, he is also president of the trustees of the Episcopal Church of his diocese. Heading organizations comes naturally for him; he is president of all the following institutions: the Church Home and Orphanage, Episcopal Society for Advancement of Christianity in Upper South Carolina, and Vorhees Normal and Industrial School. In addition, he is a trustee of the University of the South.

He is a Virginian through and through. Born in Hampton, Virginia, he was a student for seven years at McGuire's School in Richmond, and he received his A. B. from the University of Virginia, where, in 1900, he was initiated into Beta Iota Chapter. After instructing for two years at McGuire's School, he attended the Episcopal Seminary in Alexandria, Virginia, and was ordained a deacon of the Church in 1908. A year later he was ordained priest.

After serving with the Students Missionary Association and the Board of Missions, he became rector of Slaughter's Parish in Rapidan, Virginia, in 1911. He served churches in Frankfort, Kentucky, and Staunton, Virginia. He was rector of Trinity Church in the latter city for 20 years.

Other activities have claimed his time. He is president of the board of managers of Kanuga Conference. And he's a Boy Scout, too, being a recipient of the Beaver Award of that organization.

was retired in 1946, Jim Halsey, then 40, stepped into his place.

Being a university president is no picnic, he revealed, recalling the fact that he has twenty bosses to work for instead of the usual one. "However," he conceded, "our trustees know what we are trying to do at Bridgeport and they work hand-in-hand with me."

Actually, he credits the trustees, President Emeritus Cortright, and the faculty for the success of the University.

This story appears at an opportune time because the University has just dedicated its new $650,000 engineering building. The structure is located at the Seaside Park Campus along beautiful Long Island Sound, adjacent to the old Phineas T. Barnum estate which now serves as a men's dormitory.

From president of his chapter to president of a $3,000,000 University is a big step—but Jim Halsey has taken it in his stride and neither the University nor its president have shown any signs of slowing down yet.

Henry West Typifies "Good Alum"

YOU CAN'T BE a member of a good fraternity chapter—a good Delt chapter—for long without waking up to the realization that there's a strong and often subtle influence at work which helps to make the chapter what it is.

Always, that influence is one of those alums whom the undergraduate fraternity man can point to with pride and say simply, "He's a good alum." And frequently those simple words lend added distinction because, by necessity, they must be limited to a restricted few.

I suppose it was at a banquet following my initiation into Beta Delta Chapter that I first became aware of the personality who, in my fraternity experience, was to fit this mold best of all.

He was Henry H. West, Georgia, '15. In an after-dinner address, informal despite the formal trappings, he was telling us in down-to-earth language that to merit the title "fraternity man," each of us had to do more than merely pay an initiation fee and go through the rote performance of a prescribed ritual.

He meant that we had to achieve a loyalty—a continuing loyalty—in the only way that it can be achieved, by working hard at it. There was something in the manner in which he told us this that made us know immediately that he'd done things the right way and had a right to speak.

Beta Delta was then struggling to its feet following some inactive years during the war. Inactive years break the continuity of a chapter and have a drastic effect, sometimes, on alumni loyalties. This, coupled with the fact that the chapter must secure and furnish a more adequate house as it expanded from scratch, meant that there were jobs and headaches for everyone.

Just how does a new chapter, untried in the eyes of alums, get new equipment? The answer: by working hard at it. That means the spontaneous generation of a whale of a lot of enthusiasm, sweat, and persistence. It also means that someone has got to be at the helm.

To express our case, we became the workers and Henry West became the director. We couldn't have worked under a better boss, even if we never, as I recall, thought of him in that light. He translated our enthusiasms into sound action; he saw to it our sweat wasn't wasted; he provided the encouragement that sustains persistence.

Despite the fact that privately and publicly he's a busy man—he's judge of superior court, secretary-treasurer of a local corporation, owner of a hotel, and a gentleman farmer—he ended up by turning in a top-notch executive performance for the chapter.

Not only that, but where ready cash was necessary (we used credit to the limit, otherwise), Henry West shelled out. "Go ahead and get it," he'd say. "I'll stand behind you." And he didn't look around, either, to see if other alums were doing the same thing.

"The Judge," as he's often referred to in the chapter, is also good at rushing. He's avoided the unconscious cynicism that ruins the effectiveness of many alums in rushing; he still knows how to "turn on the heat." And when he recommends a boy as "good Delt material," he also follows him to the chapter house and uses better-than-Dale-Carnegie techniques.

All this the Judge "sandwiches in," just as he sandwiches in a vigorous community life which incorporates, among scores of other things, the scoutmastership of a Boy Scout troop.

So far as I know, the Judge has never been singled out for any acclaim. But quietly enough, down in the Deep South, he's proving to at least a few Deltas what the true colors are. And the chapter which shares his influence—and of which I am now a proud alum—exhibits in endless ways the vigor due to that influence.

Gamma Delta Honors Anthony McCue With Portrait for Shelter

When Gamma Delta Chapter (West Virginia) celebrated its fiftieth anniversary March 5, a portrait of Anthony F. McCue, West Virginia, '06, was unveiled and presented to the chapter. Mr. McCue, prominent Clarksburg attorney and staunch supporter of his chapter for many years, was present to participate in the ceremonies, sharing the speaking honors with Francis M. Hughes, Vice-President of the Fraternity.

"Only twice in my lifetime have I had a lump in my throat, produced by kindness," said Mr. McCue, "which made it difficult for me to talk. For both of these handicaps my brothers in Delta Tau Delta were responsible. . . . The fact that members of this chapter desired to hang my portrait on these walls, and did it, expresses a sentiment which touches me deeply. . . ."

He spoke concerning the challenge which is today presented to the Fraternity, and particularly to Gamma Delta Chapter, situated in the state of the Fraternity's nativity. He pointed out that two of the Founders of Delta Tau Delta were West Virginians and commented that the ground upon which the Shelter stands was obtained from a near relative of John C. Johnson, the last surviving Founder.

As president of the Gamma Delta house corporation, Mr. McCue has worked hard for his chapter. He was General Chairman of the Fifty-sixth Karnea in 1941. He was cited to the Distinguished Service Chapter in 1939.

DR. J. F. BATEMAN, Ohio, '21, superintendent of the Columbus State Hospital, Columbus, Ohio, recently released research findings which promise to be highly significant in scientific thinking about dementia praecox — the nation's most prevalent type of insanity. The research was conducted in conjunction with Dr. James W. Papez, of Cornell University, over a period of three years.

In essence, the researchers found that the disease is caused by abnormal growth within the brain nerve cells. This abnormal growth was found to be protein bodies never before described in the brain nerve cells of dementia praecox patients. The more protein bodies, the more the patient was deranged, Dr. Bateman said. He described three stages in the destruction of the nerve cells, each stage corresponding to a growth in derangement and in the number of protein inclusions.

Discovery that dementia praecox, which accounts for 52 per cent of all patients in United States mental hospitals, is not caused by environment or abnormal conditions at birth may revolutionize scientific thinking on the disease, Dr. Bateman reported.

In the February issue of THE RAINBOW, in the feature "Delts of the Fourth Estate," we erroneously reported that CHARLES S. SMITH, Iowa, '97, noted foreign correspondent, had died in 1940. Mr. Smith's friend of long standing, LEONARD SNIDER, Georgia, '98, wrote immediately to "resurrect" him. Mr. Smith himself wrote from Panajachel, Guatemala, to tell us:

"I am very much alive down in this beautiful land of eternal spring, bathing every day in Lake Atitlan, eating strawberries eight months in the year and enjoying life generally. No worrying here about the coal strike or Uncle Joe's hydrogen bomb.

"My good friend and Brother Delta, RICHARD HART VAIL, Illinois, '97, and I have bought a home here in this village, a mile high and surrounded by mountains which shelter us from the northers which Texas passes along at times. Three volcanoes look down upon us from heights of 11,000 to 12,000 feet, but they are not working and we hope they are permanently retired.

"Panajachel is about seventy miles from Guatemala City on the highway which all tourists take through the Guatemalan Highlands. Our home is only a few blocks from the leading tourist hotels and we shall be glad to have any visiting Deltas drop in. . . .

"We know only one other Delta in Guatemala. . . . DR. ELLIS J. WHITAKER, Iowa, '00, who lives in Guatemala City, but passes much of the winter and spring at Stann Creek, British Honduras, where he has a home on South Water Cay, a delightful little coral island covered with cocoanut palms and surrounded by charming pink sand beaches. Brother Vail and I have often visited him in this delightful retreat twelve miles out in the Caribbean. . . .

"I am accustomed to being killed off. The press put an end to me out in Manchuria in the 1917 Bolshevik revolution. The Smiths die hard, but they are so numerous it is difficult to keep them properly catalogued. I fully realize the problems of a publication's morgue through over 40 years of experience."

Delta Tau Delta's entry in the New York City University Club's Fraternity Team of Four Bridge Matches this winter came out on top, winning the coveted big silver cup which goes to the victorious team.

The Delt team was composed of J. RENTON HANEY, Pennsylvania,

'10; CYRUS B. AUSTIN, Ohio Wesleyan, '17; PAUL E. DOHERTY, Wesleyan, '30; and G. ROBERT CARLEY, Pennsylvania, '44.

DR. PAUL B. SEARS, Ohio Wesleyan, '12, will join the faculty of Yale University next fall as Professor of Conservation, a new post. Botanist and leading authority in the conservation field, Dr. Sears is the author of Deserts on the March, Life and Environment, and other books. He is at present professor of botany at Oberlin College.

WILLIAM TATE, Georgia, '24,

Dean of Men at the University of Georgia, will probably agree with those who claim that a college dean ought to have a sense of humor. For Dean Tate was named "Campus Character" for the February issue of The Georgia Cracker, student-edited magazine at the University. With the honor went a shrewdly executed caricature. (See cut.)

The article which accompanied the caricature conceded that the Dean is "amiable," and he is. His picturesque personality, moreover, led to his selection as toastmaster at the climaxing banquet of the annual convention of the National Association of Deans and Advisers of Men, held March 15 to 18 in Williamsburg, Virginia.

A book on philosophy, entitled

The University of Georgia's popular Dean of Men TATE.

Enduring Satisfaction and written by DR. WILLIAM P. McEWEN, DePauw, '34, was published in January. Its intention, says Dr. McEwen, is to help laymen who are conscious of the "spiritual crisis of modern man" to work out a satisfactory design for living.

In a critical evaluation of the book before publication, Dr. Edward S. Brightman of Boston University stated, "In my opinion McEwen's book is in the great tradition, and is a sign of a better day in philosophy. . . . The reader will not only gain insight through the author's interpretations, but will become familiar with the main currents of contemporary thought insofar as they bear on the problem of the value and meaning of life."

Dr. McEwen is acting chairman of the philosophy and psychology departments of Hofstra College. As an undergraduate at DePauw, he was a Rector Scholar, winning Phi Beta Kappa honors. He served as president of Beta Beta Chapter. He played fullback on the varsity football team.

During World War II, he went overseas with the American Red Cross, serving as an executive director of operations in the Middle East and North Africa. He is now completing the second draft of a novel based on his wartime experi-

THE DELT CHAPTERS

Alpha's President, PAUL STORING (left), and Rush Chairman JACK OLOFSON present the Distinguished Pledge Plaque to ELLSWORTH MYERS.

Alpha—Allegheny

Alpha's athletic year thus far has been highlighted by successes in intramural football, cross country, basketball, and bowling.

The football team won its first three games before losing to the Phi Delt in the championship play-off. Arnie Lewis took individual honors in the cross-country race for the second consecutive year, though Delta Tau Delta finished only third in the meet. In one stretch of three contests, the basketball team compiled 163 points to their opponents' 37, with Lewis, Hares, Storing, Davis, and Smith playing consistent ball. A record-breaking 859 pins was recorded by the Delt bowling quintet in the second line of a match against Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Bill Brownell, captain of the team, and "Bummy" Davis earned positions on the Big Ten of the league.

QUARTET SINGS "SWAN SONG"

The mellow blending voices of the Alpha "Delta Squares" has been a familiar sound at Allegheny for three years. These senior songsters can look back upon many effective formal appearances on campus, during serenades and chapel programs, as well as innumerable informal get-togethers. As these "barbershoppers" leave our midst—Bill Brownell, Irwin Krueger, Al Carpenter, and Bob McCune—an era in Alpha's musical history comes to a close.

"THE LONESOME TRAIN"

A unique factor in Alpha's extracurricular activity was its presentation, in conjunction with the Alpha Xi Delta Sorority, of the Millard Lampell-Earl Robinson musical cantata, "The Lonesome Train." A depiction of America's reaction to the death of Lincoln, and the journey of his funeral train through this country, "The Lonesome Train" was given as part of Alpha's contribution to the Allegheny World Student Service Fund Drive. Director Art Jonas did an admirable job in blending the voices of the chorus (mixed), as well as training the principal performers—Dick Smith, pianist; Bill Brownell, ballad singer; Pax Hart, Abe Lincoln; Bob McCune, square-dance caller; and Fred Fielding, preacher.

BANQUET FOR PRESIDENT BRENTON

The visit of President W. Harold Brenton to the Alpha Shelter on Friday, February 24, was a memorable and a stimulating experience for all those who met him. Several of the Meadville alumni, the President and Deans of the College, and all actives and pledges attended the luncheon-banquet given in the President's honor. After a round of Delt songs, two renditions by the "Four Delt Squares," and brief speeches by Dr. Benezet, President of Allegheny, and Paul Storing, president of Alpha Chapter, Mr. Brenton presented a very challenging message to the guests.

AGAIN FIRST SCHOLASTICALLY

The beginning of Allegheny's second semester saw the initiation of 16 new members into Delta Tau Delta. Two of these new initiates, Dean R. Titus and Jack G. Goellner, entered the Fraternity with "A" averages. In addition to the initiation of these two "A" men, Alpha is proud to claim the distinction of winning for the third consecutive semester first place in the Allegheny Men's Scholastic Rating. The chapter's average of 76.58 is considerably above the All Men's Average and slightly greater than the All College Average.

A custom at Alpha for the past three years is the awarding of a Distinguished Pledge honor to the pledge who the chapter feels has shown commendable interest in the Fraternity, his studies, and the activities of the College. This year's award was presented to Ellsworth Myers.

Beta—Ohio

Beta Chapter opened the new semester with a series of rushing parties, which resulted in the pledging of 14 men. Pledge Peter Yensen, of this group, was later chosen for Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's scholastic honorary.

STRAIGHT "A" PLEDGE

On February 19, 12 pledges from last semester were initiated into Beta Chapter. A goal was set by Alan E. Riedel, a new initiate, for the members of oncoming pledge classes. Riedel maintained a 4.0 average throughout his pledgship, while carrying 18 semester credit hours of courses in the College of Arts and Sciences.

DUNN ELECTED

Dale Dunn was elected chapter president for this year. Dale is a member of the Footlighters; president of the Childhood Education Club; and an active participant in Junior Class organization. He has held major parts in three productions of the Ohio University Theatre.

Other newly elected officers are: Zenon Carol, vice-president; Alan E. Himelick, recording secretary; Allan Brogan, corresponding secretary; Dick Sullivan, treasurer; George Klier, assistant treasurer; George Shepard, guard; and Ralph Dunbar, guide. Don Anderson has been appointed pledgemaster, and Phil Reid is the new advisor of pledge training.

Jim Shreffler is Beta Chapter's candidate for J-Prom King. Bob Finley, campus comedian and emcee, is in charge of his campaign. Finley was recently elected president of the Newman Club.

Ralph Dunbar was elected to Men's Union Planning Board, which added another top office to his many activities. Dave Keller, last year's president and graduate, was tapped for Torch, senior men's honorary, before his graduation. John Poles, debater and 3.9 student, was graduated with Dave and is studying law at Harvard University.

SHREFFLER RETURNS FOR DIAMOND FINALE

On the sports scene, members of Beta Chapter served on the swimming team; others will serve on both the baseball and track squads for the University. Don Anderson and Dave Jones were our mermen. Jim Shreffler closes his college athletic career upon the end of the baseball season. Last year, he was chosen on the nationwide "All-America" second team. "Shreff" is again expected to show outstanding work on the team. Hurler Howie Frank, Pledge Joe Mickey, and Pledge Nick Moraz all hope to contribute to this major sport.

Ray Johnston, record-setter, will be a key man returning to Ohio's track team. On the freshman track squad, Tom Williams and Pledges Haffner and James represent Beta Chapter.

Gamma—W. & J.

As usual, Gamma is adding more and more of her brothers to the honoraries around the campus. Recently Howdy Gift, Arch Weisbach, Bill Poehlman, and Rod Norris were extended bids to join Pi Delta Epsilon, the honorary journalism fraternity. These men have been preceded by Fuzz Forsythe, Walt Stuart, and Jack Kreuer. Jack is vice-president.

D.I.T. CONCLUDES

The D.I.T. has just ended. The D.I.T., of course, is none other than the Delt Invitational Tournament. The house was divided into six basketball teams. These teams proved to be even more equal than we thought. The largest margin by which any team won was six points. The winners at the end of the thrilling tournament were none other than Norm Sirianni's famous Delt Dukes.

ALUMNI DAY SET

Many of our alumni were back at the Shelter recently for the initiation ceremonies. After the initiation the alumni went into a corner and had a meeting. At that time it was decided that in May of this year we would have an Alumni Day. It is our hope to get well over 100 of our alumni back to the Shelter for THEIR day. Come on, Brothers—let's all come back!

Delta—Michigan

The Delts' second semester started in with the election of a new slate of officers. Bill Ohlenroth and Norm Goeckel replaced Jim Burk and Ken Bay as president and vice-president, respectively.

As the new officers took over they were able to envision another successful year with the pledging of eight fine men. Rushing chairman was Dick Lee who did a terrific job. Delta Chapter initiated ten pledges who were treated to an initiation banquet thrown by the active chapter.

TREASURER OF IFC

Dick Tinker was elected treasurer of the interfraternity council, following in the footsteps of retiring Vice-President Richard Morrison. Another man in campus activities is Jack Waidly, who was appointed chairman of the speaking committee for the Phoenix project for atomic research.

Also in the limelight this spring is hard-hitting Catcher Pete Palmer, who is rapidly approaching the apple of Coach Fisher's eye. Spring football practice for the mighty Wolverine will see Bill Ohlenroth, Dick Gess, and Carl Hedner.

PLAN FOR MOTHERS' WEEK END

The spring social calendar presents a fast-moving pace. First on the agenda will be Michigras—all-campus carnival with the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and the Delts sharing the main spotlight in a "Gay Nineties" review directed by Bob Morrison. This will be followed by the traditional Mothers' Week End, at which time mothers spend the week end in the Shelter.

Graduation this spring will see the last remnants of the Club $75 leave (approximately 15 men). At this time all the members of the undergraduate chapter will be eyeing the Karnea to be held at Columbus, Ohio, with great anticipation of meeting all our far-flung brothers.

Epsilon—Albion

Scholarship took the number one place in Epsilon Chapter's activities during the first semester at Albion College with the result being shown in the chapter's winning the Dean's Cup for scholarship with a 1.82 average on a 3.00 point system.

The Delts' sprint to capture the trophy that was held three quarters ago was led by Harry Hunter, Peirce Lewis, and Robert Richards, who each pulled a straight "A" average.

DELTS ARE RUNNERS-UP

On the athletic front, the Delt quintet ended the intramural season by snagging second place. In the play-offs, the team pinned the first and only defeat of the season on the championship Delta Sigma Phi five, only to lose in the third and final play-off game.

Led by towering Ham Scharff and Bud Parker, the Delts suffered only one defeat against seven wins in regular play. In the intramural free throw tournament, Parker took third place.

TWO ARE TAPPED O.D.K.

Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honorary leadership fraternity, tapped two Delts during activities. Lewis and Dan Harrington were both selected among 15 candidates for the honorary organization.

Between semesters, the Delts celebrated their annual Black and White week end that was started back in 1932 and has been an annual affair ever since. For the last Friday night in January, the Shelter was turned into a huge cave with a false ceiling and stalagmites and stalactites from the floor to the ceiling.

The following afternoon the Delts and their dates went to a country club for outdoor activity, and that evening the formal dinner-dance was held. Some 120 actives, pledges, alumni, and their dates attended the affair.

NUCLEUS OF GOLF TEAM

Charlie Mohl, regular center on the Britons' varsity basketball team, was awarded a letter. Mohl, Larry French, and George Wagner, all lettermen, form the nucleus for the 1950 edition of the Albion golf team, while Jim Holmes and Bob Ball are being described as sure point-getters for the track team. Hunter, who turned his attention to pre-med studies last spring, is back on the tennis team where he lettered in 1947 and 1948.

Iota—Michigan State

Iota Chapter held its first Founders Day banquet (henceforth to be an annual affair) on March 4. The luncheon welcomed back more than half of the Iota alumni to the Shelter for the week end. High light of the banquet was the introduction of our newly appointed chapter advisor, Berley Winton, Kentucky, '22.

A long anticipated added attraction was the presentation and reading of the leather-bound history of the chapter, "'72 to '50," by Arthur Stadelmeier, Iota's first president in the 1947 reactivation.

In the evening, the chapter's third Anniversary Ball, a formal dinner-dance, was held at the Hotel Olds.

TWO JOIN STUDENT COUNCIL

Newly elected to Student Council membership were Bill Richardson and Chris Jennings of Iota. This makes a grand total of five Delts serving MSC in the Student Council. Lou Hekhuis is still serving as president of this organization.

DELT SWIMMERS TRIUMPH

Iota Delts rated high in last term's varsity and intramural sports activities. Dave Hoffman, Clarke Scholes, and Al Omans were members of the Michigan State swimming team. The squad fashioned a season marred by a single defeat. State tankers defeated a strong University of Michigan team for the first time in the schools' 28-year pool rivalry.

In the Central Collegiate Conference meet held in March, Hoffman took top honors in the 1500 meters, 440, and 220 free style events. Scholes scored a major upset in the NCAA meet at Columbus, Ohio, splashing to a victory in the 100 free style. He was clocked in 50.9.

PRESIDENT VISITS SHELTER

President Harold Brenton and Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields paid the Shelter a visit last January 28. It marked Mr. Brenton's first appearance at Iota since its reinstallation.

SPONSOR YULETIDE CEREMONY

Iota Delts sponsored MSC's annual tree-lighting ceremony just prior to the Christmas vacation. Some 5,000 students joined in caroling as lights rainbow-tinted swirling snowflakes. State President John Hannah threw the switch that lighted the 580 bulbs on the evergreen located by the union building. The chapter has been invited to handle the event each Christmas-time.

Mu—Ohio Wesleyan

Myriads of posters . . . campaign speeches and promises of better student government . . . midnight rallies and demonstrations by sororities and fraternities . . . everyone more interested in the election returns than in his studies . . . these were the prevailing conditions about the Wesleyan campus as the student voters elected Brother Dick Rosser as secretary of the student body March 21.

Campaign managers and the loyal Delt constituency entered into the election week with all the fervor and enthusiasm of bona fide politicians. While there was no evidence of graft or vote-buying, the brothers helped Dick in his campaign by extending a welcome to the entire student body at two successful open houses prior to election day.

CAPTURE COLUMBUS CUP

Mu Delts had much to sing about after the Founders Day banquet in Columbus March 3. The octette from the chapter song group returned to the Shelter that evening with a new cup for the trophy room, as a result of winning first place among the Ohio chapters in attendance. The trophy was presented by the Columbus Alumni Chapter.

Brother George Legge, director of the group, was especially pleased, for it was the second song trophy the group has won in two years. During George's first year as songleader for Mu, the "Thirsty Thirty" songsters won the Phi Mu Alpha all-campus song fest.

Nu—Lafayette

Nu elections for the coming year placed Frederick Heller, '51, as president; Walter Shaw, '52, vice-president; Jack Roeder, '51, recording secretary; and Joseph Parnell, '52, corresponding secretary.

February 27 was the date of initiation of ten new brothers. Initiation was followed by a banquet, attended by Professor Plank, faculty advisor, who participated in the initiation ceremony.

THREE ON DEAN'S LIST

The midyear grades show three brothers on the Dean's List. They are: Joseph Parnell, '52; Walter Shaw, '52; and Edward Matthews, '50.

JAVELIN RECORD FORECAST

Peter Carril, one of the new initiates, starred for the Lafayette varsity basketball squad this year. This "mighty mite," who stands 5' 7", ended the season by being high scorer in the College's last game, with Rutgers.

Also along the line of athletics, predictions by the Lafayette Alumnus states that Brother Morgan Heller, '50, should break the school javelin record for the fourth time, when he throws the spear for the track team this season.

The Shelter has earned many points on the Lafayette Interfraternity Sports Cup by placing second in swimming, third in basketball, and third in bowling in the league. In the swimming meet, Delt Robert Adams set a new meet record in coping the backstroke race.

HEADS STUDENT UNION

David H. Kuch was elected president of the Brainerd Student Union, one of the largest and most influential organizations on the campus.

Omicron—Iowa

Scholarship Chairman Bob Connors is a happy man since Omicron Chapter walked off with the Scholarship Improvement Trophy. He did a good job of seeing that the Shelter realized its objective of being well above both the All Men's and the All Fraternity Averages. In addition, the Shelter has three candidates for Phi Beta Kappa honors—retiring President Marsh Berg, Jim Holbert, and Lloyd Jackson.

STUDENT COUNCIL CAMPAIGN

Jim Bullard, winner of this year's Carl Kuehnle Pledge Scholarship Plaque, was selected by the chapter to run in the Student Council election. An intensive campaign is being held under the able direction of Campaign Manager Lou Suiter. Many novel innovations have been used, including a sextet of Delts singing "originally composed" campaign songs. The Delta Rhythm Boys accompany Jim on all of his speaking tours. We are all looking forward to a fine showing for Jim when the ballots are counted.

Also currently prominent in campus affairs is President Dick Colville. Dick is finance chairman of the All-Iowa Collegiate Conference and a member of the Central Party Committee.

DELT GOLFERS UNLIMBER

With spring sports now under way, Delts Jay Storey and Ford Clark are working the kinks out of their golf swings in order to be ready for all competition offered the varsity golf squad. Brothers Tom and Don Rowe will be contending for freshman numerals with the freshman golf team. The spring sun will also find freshman numeral winner Frank Barile practicing splitting the uprights from all angles, as well as performing T-formation strategy.

Rho—Stevens

There are probably many Delts who have visited New York City, stayed a week, and left without ever knowing that there is a Delt house ready to receive them with warm brotherhood within 20 minutes of Times Square.

Yes, Rho Chapter at the Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, New Jersey, is situated directly across the Hudson River from New York City. From the windows of the chapter house, the skyline of Manhattan can be seen, as the house is located on a promontory overlooking the great metropolis. In less than half an hour, a bus from Hoboken takes one to Times Square, the heart of the city. Even nearer lie the cities of Jersey City and Newark.

At times, men from other chapters do drop in for a visit, or perhaps a night's lodging or more. Recently a graduate of California, Tom Bunn, from the Beta Omega Chapter, stayed at the house for over a week. Last year, when Bowling Green was playing basketball in New York, members from Delta Tau Chapter who were rooting for their team were accommodated for a while.

There are probably more, however, who visit New York and never visit Rho, because they do not know of its nearness. The chapter is always ready to greet a brother and give him Delt hospitality.

RHO WINS INTRAMURAL TROPHY

Rho of Delta Tau Delta copped the Interfraternity Sports Trophy, nosing out its nearest rival by one point. The coveted trophy will be awarded to the chapter at the Spring Sports Week End in May. Last year, Rho Deltas came in second in the trophy race, losing the lead by only four points.

The chapter took the bowling plaque for the second consecutive year, going undefeated. Also won for the second year in a row was the basketball plaque.

The winning of the trophy can be attributed to a united effort of the entire house, members and pledges. Almost every member in the house competed on one team or another and can be justifiably proud of the trophy.

LACROSSE LUMINARIES

Under Captain Dick Fredericks, a senior at Rho Chapter, nine Deltas are playing varsity lacrosse for Stevens Tech. Dick is the sparkplug on the attack, with a wicked left-handed shot that goalies have difficulty stopping. Don Ottens and Bill Graf are playing their last year of varsity ball on the attack, and Frank Hildebrand, newly elected chapter president, is seeing his last season of defense.

Wes Coe, Charly Davis, and George Sheridan are seeing their first year of varsity ball, but their JV experience should stand them in good stead. Chet Lloyd and Ed Wilson will bolster the defense in their first year of varsity lacrosse.

Tau—Penn State

Another intramural cup was added to our trophy case through the winning efforts of our swimming team. The only close competition was encountered in the final test against Sigma Chi. The score in this contest resulted in a 25 to 16 Delt victory. The excellent showing in swimming plus good teams in football, boxing, tennis, and handball have placed the Deltas fifth in the intramural race out of a field of 48 fraternities. The prospects for spring championship teams look good and this, of course, will determine our chances for the all-sports trophy.

THETAS GET GARDENIAS

The social calendar for Tau Chapter has been very busy this past winter and early spring. The high light of our program was the entertainment of two campus sororities—Kappa Kappa Gamma and Kappa Alpha Theta. The main features at both entertainings were centered around short skits, dancing, and buffet suppers; however, the Thetas were given an additional surprise when they were all presented with gardenias.

SHARE ACTIVITIES

Activities for Tau Deltas have not taken a secondary position this spring. Paul Kortwich, president of the college choir and vice-president of the Penn State Glee Club, is now engaged in group Glee Club trips throughout neighboring states; Quintin-Toews was recently elected business manager of Froth, campus humor publication; Dick Evans has just finished a main role in "Life With Father"; spring football drills have drawn the attentions of Bill Mathers; Harry McMahon is engaged in head golf manager duties, while Jim Lamaree and Jim Mullard are trying hard for first-team positions.

Dave Timothy and Bob Freebairn are both working hard for the coming track season. Bob has won letters in cross-country and track and has just completed a successful indoor season.

Phi—W. & L.

Phi Chapter started off the new semester by holding annual elections, in which Wilson H. Lear was elected president. Willie, a junior from Jenkintown Manor, Pennsylvania, and a varsity swimming, wrestling, and lacrosse letterman, succeeds Bill Corbin, a graduating senior. Talbot Bond was elected vice-president.

SEEKING INTRAMURAL TITLE

At present Delt holds down third place in the intramural contest at W. & L. After recently being crowned volleyball champs, the boys look like a sure bet to capture bowling honors also. This will place us in undisputed first place.

SCHOLASTIC ACHIEVEMENTS

Although the official scholastic standings for the semester have not yet been reported, Phi will probably be found in the top half due largely to the fine records of Eddie Gaines, who recently made Phi Beta Kappa; Dave Bien, who had straight "A's"; and Clark Garrecht, a freshman who made Phi Eta Sigma.

DELTS DOMINATE SPRING SPORTS

Numerous Deltas hold down positions on W. & L.'s many spring sport squads. Morgan Lear and Don Shuck, both sophomores, are baseball hopefuls. The crew boasts the services of Dick Denny, Bob Huntley, and Roger Mudd, while Jack Lethbridge, Bob Swinarton, and Eddie Gaines serve on the tennis team. The lacrosse team is composed almost entirely of Deltas. Tommy Tongue, Jim Gray, Dave Bien, Tal Bond, Willie Lear, Bill Corbin, and Ned McClellan are on the varsity squad, while the freshman team is boosted by Ken Spence, Clarence Wheelwright, Jack Dodd, Bob Smith, Jack Delahunty, and Spence Snedecor.

Chi—Kenyon

By far the most important activity in recent months for Chi Chapter was the installation of Delta Omega Chapter at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio. The chapter initiating team, anxious to give a good account of itself in the proceedings, practiced diligently in the week preceding the Kent trip. The team's efforts were more than rewarded by the impressive job done at Kent by members of all of the initiating teams which took part in the ceremonies.

The new chapter, Delta Omega, proved itself to be a thoughtful, hospitable host. The week end, both in formal ceremonies and in informal social functions, provided a very good time and a rewarding and inspiring experience for the large number of Chi men who attended the installation.

Phi Chapter.

Chi Chapter wishes publicly to express its thanks to the men of Delta Omega for the hospitality shown at Kent.

Chi Chapter presented a Bible to Delta Omega Chapter as an initiation gift. We of Chi hope that the fine relationship now existing between Chi and Delta Omega will continue and will grow and thrive, providing the true fraternal bond between men of both campuses.

STARS AS KING LEAR

Long noted for its excellence in many diverse fields of campus and scholastic activity, particularly in varsity and intramural athletics, Chi Chapter proved recently that the interests of its men are constantly expanding into hitherto little-explored fields.

Early in March, the Kenyon Speech Department produced William Shakespeare's great and extremely difficult tragedy, King Lear, as part of the season's repertoire of plays. The production was directed by Mr. James Michael of the Department.

Three of our men were active in the production: newly-initiated Caleb Smith, playing the title role of Lear, and newly-initiated Edward Ames and Pledge Tilden McMasters, in less prominent but nonetheless important parts.

Smith's portrayal of Lear was truly professional in nature. He received acclaim by the student body, the faculty, and the producers of the play. It was stated that he displayed talent seldom found in amateur college dramatics, particularly in Shakespearean drama, and his performance was a credit to the school and to the chapter. He is a junior, majoring in English.

The production of the play was so successful that, since every regularly scheduled performance was completely sold out far in advance, extra performances had to be scheduled. These, too, were near sellouts.

Omega—Pennsylvania

Omegans have lost one of their most popular and prominent men in Robert K. Polliard, who died in the fire which swept the third floor of the Shelter last February.

Bob, or "Bugs" as he was more commonly known, was one of the most active men on the Penn campus. A member of the undergraduate council since his freshman year, he became president of the junior class late last spring. He was also the Delt representative on the interfraternity council, chairman of the campus chest drive last fall, and a member of Scabbard and Blade military society.

Bob's death was felt deeply throughout the campus. The University chaplain held special services for him, and editorials were carried by the Daily Pennsylvanian as a tribute to him. Members of the Penn Pics staff voted to use their funds for the establishment of a Robert K. Polliard Cup to be awarded henceforth to the outstanding member of the junior class.

Other fraternities on campus and other Delt chapters extended their sympathy after the tragedy; many of them sent flowers to Bob's parents in Butler, Pennsylvania.

In a final, solemn tribute, better than

ROBERT K. POLLIARD

40 Omegans, as well as the Assistant Dean of Student Affairs, traveled the 650-mile round trip to Butler to attend the funeral and to offer what solace they could to the bereaved parents.

To Bob, who died at 22, when his future seemed so promising, it was a last farewell from a group of men who had lived with him every day and had come to consider him one of their closest friends.

ALUMNI PARTY SET

A more concentrated plan to further relations with the alumni and with sororities and fraternities on campus has been adopted by Omega.

Jim Austin, alumni committee chairman, working in conjunction with Social Chairman Jack Smilgin, has arranged for an alumni party at the home of Skip Meyers on May 6.

In addition, the social committee sponsored a series of afternoon dances with sororities. The Tri Dels, Kappas, and Alpha Chis have already been around this term, and others are planning to attend before the school year ends.

Other fraternities have also been in on the social calendar. Several have attended week-end parties, and the entire campus was present at open house held at the Shelter on Callow week end.

MARCH IS BIG MONTH

March is traditionally the big month for Omegans, with both interfraternity week end and initiation on the agenda.

This year both occasions were a big success. I F week end was officially ushered in on Friday night with a formal dinner at the Shelter. Immediately afterwards the chapter traveled to the Broadwood Hotel to finish the evening by dancing to the music of Sam Donahue and Howard Lanin.

The annual Delt intraclass crew race took place Saturday afternoon. Thirty-two men, each decked out in original garb, manned the oars for their respective classes. Although merriment prevailed, the competitive spirit was not lost, and the juniors, boasting three varsity oarsmen, came through victorious.

Fred Willoughby, Charlie Mellen, Art Houlihan, Dick Greer, Dave Blaetz, George Wallhauser, Sumner Brumbaugh, and Doc Whitely rowed for the winning troupe—the same squad which triumphed in their sophomore year. In keeping with crew tradition, Dick Wood, junior coxswain, was tossed into the river after the race—a penalty for piloting the winning boat.

As a fitting finale to the gala week end, the soon-to-be-initiated pledges sponsored a party at the house Saturday night. Plaudits are in order for Chuck Shaffer, pledge president, and the entire class for a job well done.

Informal initiation took place the Friday night following I F week end, with formal ceremonies on Saturday afternoon. Fifteen new brothers took the Delt oath.

To wind up festivities, a banquet was held honoring the new Dels. A number of prominent alumni attended to wish them well. Among them were Ed Irving, Bill Grier, Chuck Hoerger, Jim Pawson, Skip Meyers, and Bill O'Neil. Also present was Dave Reeder, another prominent Omegan and former vice-president of the Eastern Division, who spoke on Fraternity life and what it should mean to the brothers.

Crew Mentor Rusty Callow, one of the most colorful but respected athletic coaches on campus, also spoke to the men.

Beta Alpha—Indiana

The chapter's alumni, actives, and pledges are making plans for one of the biggest celebrations in the history of Delta Tau Delta at Indiana University. On October 20, 1950, Beta Alpha is going to burn the mortgage on the Shelter that was built after the fire that destroyed the old house in 1934. The Hurrayin' Hoosiers are scheduled to play Notre Dame on that week end and plans are under way to house and feed over 500 guests. Again we want to urge all loyal alumni to set aside that week end for a celebration second only to the Karnea.

HOLD FIRE FORMAL

On March 11, Beta Alpha held its annual winter Fire Formal, which marks the burning of the old Shelter. Some 150 couples joined in the evening's fun.

I.U. ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT FETED

On March 29, Beta Alpha feted the athletic department of Indiana University by giving a banquet in honor of the various coaches and their staffs. Among those attending were Mr. J. A. Franklin, vice-president and treasurer of Indiana University; Paul "Pooch" Harrell, athletic director; Gordon Fisher, track coach; "Chili" Cochran, Kansas State Delt, Bob Ravensberg, Steve Sinko, Don Edmonds, Ted Whereatt, football coaches; Bob Cook, athletic publicity director; Tom Miller, assistant publicity director; Frank Jones, assistant track coach; Kenneth Price, chief counselor; Ernie Andres, baseball coach; Don Dunker, Beta Alpha, '42, assistant baseball coach; Robert Royer, swimming coach; Dale Lewis, tennis coach; Otto Ryser, gymnastics coach; and Bob Meyer, Beta Alpha, '49, ex officio football coach.

more to come. Bub Wright served as toastmaster and Bob Cook introduced the coaches and told short anecdotes about each of them.

Beta Beta—DePauw

The Regional Conference of the Northern Division was held at the Beta Beta Shelter on March 17 and 18. The weekend Conference was highlighted on Friday night by a banquet followed by an informal date party. Brother Darrell Moore, Gamma Lambda chapter advisor, gave the main address at the banquet to Delt alums, Central Office officials, Deltas from eight chapters, and University guests.

TWO DELTS IN PHI BETA KAPPA

On March 24 two Beta Beta Deltas, Hugh Hawkins and Dave Ware, were elected to the DePauw chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Brother Hawkins, besides being a scholar, was president of DePauw's debating honorary—Delta Sigma Rho, copy desk editor of the DePauw, a member of Sigma Delta Chi, one of four students on the University Disciplinary Board, a member of DePauw's dramatic honorary, secretary of the senior men's honorary, and a finalist in the Rhodes Scholarship competition.

Brother Ware, a Rector Scholar at DePauw, added to his academic studies such activities as assistant business manager of the Mirage, a member of Alpha Delta Sigma, a writer on the feature staff of the Boulder, and the duty of scholarship chairman of the house.

DELTS IN SPRING SPORTS

DePauw's six-man tennis team this year carries three Deltas. Boots Duesing and Bob Radle, from Cincinnati, and Kenny Parlin, from Battle Creek, Michigan, have all gained a position on the traveling squad. On the baseball diamond Bob Gebauer hurls for the Tigers, while Tom Christy and Floyd Kruger vie for starting positions in the infield.

DELTS WIN POLITICAL OFFICE

Lee Cooper, who established two DePauw swimming records this season, was elected on the senior slate of the University Party to the Student Governing Board. He is one of two candidates for the Senior Class Presidency.

New officers of Beta Gamma: REILLY, guide; WINTER, recording secretary; BAILLEY, president; SCHRADER, treasurer; and FORSBERG, corresponding secretary.

DIXIELAND HITS THE SHELTER

The rage of Dixieland jazz has hit Beta Beta this spring, and the result is a six-man combo. Brother Parlin manages a hot trumpet and directs the combo at the same time. Ed Casassa and Jim Dyer handle the tenor saxes, while Tom Wright performs on the clarinet. With Brother Radle on the trombone, Herb Hoover strummin' a banjo, and John Stephens thumping a "wash-tub" bass, the combo is complete. The group performed often in spring rush and was used to arouse campus interest in the political campaign.

ALUMNI DAY PLANS UNFOLD

Under the direction of Norval Stephens, John Heskett, and Dick Helfrich, Beta Beta's second annual Alumni Day plans are now being formed. This is a follow-up of the Shelter's Alumni Day last year which received national recognition in Banta's Greek Exchange. Tentative plans for June 10 include an alumni versus active softball game, a steak fry on the Shelter lawn, singing, and a meeting of the house corporation, house officers, and alumni.

Beta Gamma—Wisconsin

In the social spotlight, Beta Gamma has already hit a high mark on campus. Taking advantage of the season, Deltas and their dates journeyed to Blackhawk Hill for a toboggan party. That same month saw Beta Gamma entertaining Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Gamma Delta Sororities at exchange dinners, while assisting as hosts with Gamma Phi Beta Sorority in a campus informal mixer.

Not content with the successful operation of these affairs, Brothers Jim Zimmerman and Gordie McKay carried out a successful Barn Dance Jamboree which has become an annual Beta Gamma affair. Plans are already under way for the Spring Formal and other parties, one of which will include the "Dixieland Clam-diggers," a student combo which broadcasts over a Madison radio station.

OUTSTANDING DELTS

A fraternity is no better than its members and this is one of the big reasons why Beta Gamma is right up on top at the University of Wisconsin. Helping to make that true, Brother Ernie Werren saw service as a member of the University's boxing team and earned a 2.4 scholastic average, while Pledge George O'Brien, Illinois all-state high school quarterback in '48, is currently battling seasoned veterans in spring football practice. In the social world, Brothers McKay and Zimmerman are representing the army and navy respectively, for the 1950 Military Ball. To round out the picture, Brother Bob Forsberg was recently awarded Freshman Honors in the College of Agriculture, for his outstanding work in that field.

Beta Delta—Georgia

Beta Delta's Bill "Foggy" Volk has made swimming history. The 21-year-old commercial art senior, who has made the butterfly breaststroke his own special property, became the first Southeastern Conference entry in history to qualify for the finals in the national intercollegiate swimming championships which were held in Columbus, Ohio, on March 23, 24, and 25.

The University of Georgia's entry, Volk placed fifth in the finals of the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:02.3.

This, however, was not Volk's first encounter with records. In an invitational meet at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, he set a Southern record with a time of 1:04.7. He then proceeded to break his own record with a timing of 1:03.7 to win the Southeastern Conference championship.

The most peculiar thing about Volk's record is that he learned the breaststroke only a year ago. Georgia swimming Coach "Bump" Gabrielsen says Volk is a "natural" breaststroke man.

Volk comes from Brunswick, Georgia, where he learned to swim in the Atlantic Ocean. He's a likable guy with a blonde crew cut and a terrific appetite. He says that while none of his relatives is a Delt, he hopes to be the first of a long line.

Beta Epsilon—Emory

In this issue of THE RAINBOW we of Beta Epsilon would like to pay tribute to someone who has meant much to us through the years—our housemother, Mrs. R. S. Humphries, more familiarly known as "Gran'ma."

"Gran'ma" has been looking after the boys of Beta Epsilon for 16 years. She became housemother in 1934 when the Shelter was located off the campus. It was under her guidance and supervision that the present house at Number 1 Fraternity Row was furnished and decorated. It is she who now plans meals, supervises their preparation, keeps the Shelter running smoothly, and still finds time to be mother, friend, and advisor to all of the men in the chapter.

"Gran'ma" is a native Atlantan, although she lived in New York for 17 years after her marriage. After the death of her husband she returned to Georgia. Almost immediately, she came to Beta Epsilon at the request of Edmund Phillips, then president of the chapter.

During the early war years, "Gran'ma" took time from her household duties to be a Red Cross first-aid instructor and to do numerous other similar jobs. When the house was closed in June of 1943, she patiently awaited the end of hostilities and the return of the brothers.

If "Gran'ma" can be said to have a chief gripe, it would be the fact that the frail ladder-back chairs in the entrance hall are forever being used for chapter meetings. Whenever she catches a brother using the chairs for this purpose, she promptly puts him to work. It is surprising how often the chairs remain in the hall on chapter meeting nights.

To us and to all alumni since 1934

"Gran'ma" is Beta Epsilon. When we think of Delta Tau Delta, we think of the friendly white house and its gracious and charming hostess, providing the homelike atmosphere.

Yes, we are proud to claim "Gran'ma" as our housemother and look forward to many more years under her guidance and love.

Beta Zeta—Butler

In the seventy-fifth year of the existence of Beta Zeta Chapter, 15 new names have been proudly inscribed on its mounting roll of membership. The appearance of our Shelter has taken on new life following a rigorous week of "fun and recreation." Formal initiation and a banquet were held at the Indianapolis Athletic Club March 29. The chapter was honored by members of their alumni at the banquet. The Rite of Iris ceremonies were performed the week before the new brothers received their square badges.

INITIATES ACTIVE ON CAMPUS

Activities of the initiates around the campus are both numerous and varied.

Sportswise, Brothers Curtis, Masterson, and O'Connor received '53 numerals for freshman football. Basketball numerals went to Goodnight and Bell. O'Connor is also a varsity swimmer.

Whaley, Mathis, Tanguy, Mays, Husted, and Shrock are Butler ROTC-ites.

Northam is a member of the "Marching Bulldogs," the University band. His father, John T. Northam, is a 1927 Beta Zeta Delt.

Beta Eta—Minnesota

Beta Eta and its alumni were highly honored to have President Harold Brenton; Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields; and President of the Western Division John W. Nichols at our sixty-seventh annual Founders Day banquet. This gala event was held at the Shelter on Sunday afternoon, March 20. This was the first Founders Day banquet to be held in the Shelter since before the war. It afforded many alumni a chance to see Beta Eta for the first time in many years. The hundred brothers that attended will agree that there has not been a Founders Day celebration which exceeded this year's in fellowship and good spirit.

After a delicious ham dinner, Chuck Lewis, Beta Eta's president, gave a summary of the chapter's operation and progress during 1949. He was followed by President Brenton, who gave an inspiring talk on Delthood which will be remembered by everyone who attended. A wonderful evening was rounded out with some good old Delt harmony and reminiscing of the years past.

ANNUAL FAMILY NIGHT

Another enjoyable evening was had by all on March 5, at our third annual family night dinner, arranged by our very capable Mothers' Club. During the evening entertainment was provided by a vivacious girl accordionist, who was joined by the brothers and their families in song. We all hope that these informal family

TWO TAU BETA PIS

Beta Eta is proud of its two engineering wizards. Both Dave Braum and Bob Carlson were elected to Nu Kappa Nu and Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary societies, for this year.

Beta Theta—Sewanee

As was expected by everyone on the campus, the intramural basketball trophy was as good as won by the Deltas even before the season started. This certainly does not mean that it was a pushover in any way. In almost every game the Delt team, backed up by a good deal of enthusiasm and spirit from the sidelines, came from behind to win, and in many instances during overtime periods. With a record of ten wins and one loss, the Deltas took the Intramural Trophy and also managed to put three men on the all-star teams.

Spring is here again, and everyone is looking at the softball prospects; once more this year the Deltas stand an excellent chance to repeat their performance. The team will be sparked by four returning all-star men, several other seasoned veterans, and some of the members of our newly-initiated pledge class.

BANK ON "OLD MAN NOAH"

At the end of April, all the fraternities on the Mountain will compete in the annual Blue Key Sing, each one singing one comical and one serious piece. The Deltas have been practicing over two months on "Old Man Noah" and Henry Purcell's "In These Delightful Pleasant Groves." Our group of about 25 men is composed of members of the choir and of the Billings Group, two organizations in which the Deltas hold a decisive lead.

The Deltas are not only pushing forward in everything else but scholastically ranked third among the fraternities, which indicates the well-rounded character of the chapter. The chapter is well-represented in every phase of campus life and next fall we shall be looking forward to rush week for the opportunity to pledge men to Delta Tau Delta and to add them to those ranks of men who are making the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity so strongly felt on the Sewanee Mountain.

Beta Kappa—Colorado

Converging on the Welshire Country Club in Denver on February 17, Beta Kappa Chapter celebrated Founders Day with an excellent banquet. An estimated 126 pledges, actives, and alumni attended.

After a savory dinner, the young and old Deltas settled back in their chairs for some light entertainment. Bill Mark, president of the Denver Alumni Chapter, was master of ceremonies; his humor was supplemented by Chief Emcee of Jokes Kim Barnes.

The program began with renditions of several old favorites by the Delt quartet who harmonized on "Coney Island Baby," "Frivolous Sal," and several others. Other entertainment consisted of a professional jazz trio called the "Three Notes" and a lovely songstress named Beverly.

One high light of the evening occurred when Brother Pete Hondius presented Art Cross with a sword and scabbard for his "valorous deeds in the U.S.N.R." The scabbard was inscribed "Don't Give Up the Ship" and "Death Before Dishonor."

On the serious side of the program, Brother Allen Beck, past Supervisor of Scholarship, presented a short history of the Fraternity. He pointed out that since its founding nearly a century ago, Delta Tau Delta has become one of the most financially sound and best organized fraternities in the United States.

The evening ended with a Choctaw Walk-Around led by Brother Phillip Van Cise. Bill Mark and the entire alumni chapter are to be congratulated on such a fine banquet.

CROWN DELTA QUEEN

Miss Suzie Flugstad, freshman Delta Gamma from Denver, was crowned Delta Queen at our annual Coronation Ball, March 4. The high light of the evening at the Park Hill Country Club in Denver, Miss Flugstad received a tall loving cup and a huge bouquet of roses and lilies from Vice-President Bud Arnold. She reigned from her purple, white, and gold throne as the entire chapter of Deltas rose spontaneously and softly sang "My Delta Queen."

RETIRE BASKETBALL TROPHY

On March 7 the Deltas won the all-school basketball championship for the third time with a 36-34 win over the independent "Basketeers." Carl Lathrop sank one from the middle in the last ten seconds.

In order to get into the fraternity division semi-finals, the Deltas won over Beta Sigma Tau, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Tau Omega, and Phi Kappa Tau. In the semi-finals the boys defeated the Sigma Chi five by a score of 46 to 30. This game, too, was very close throughout the first half, but the Deltas steadily pulled away during the last half.

The team performs well with any combination on the floor. There is no single player who is particularly outstanding. Only two are seniors, four juniors, three sophomores, and five are freshmen; so the Deltas should have championship teams for years to come.

By winning the all-school championship we have possession of a beautiful gold trophy. Our name is inscribed on it twice, and now that we are again victors, it will become a permanent fixture in the Shelter.

Beta Lambda—Lehigh

Alex Smith, Beta Lambda senior, was picked as a representative of Lehigh University for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The selection was made on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and co-operation in educational and extracurricular activities. Alex is a former president of Beta Lambda, vice-president of the senior class, and a member of Pershing Rifles, Tau Beta Pi, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Eta Sigma, and Pi Tau Sigma.

DELT WRESTLER REPEATS

Craig Kuentz retained his interfraternity wrestling crown this winter. For the second straight year he was champion of the 185-pound class. Craig also throws the shot for the varsity track squad.

EASTER PARTY PLANNED

On April 15 Beta Lambda is giving an Easter party for some of the underprivileged boys of the town. A big time is planned for all and we should have as much fun as the kids. The party will start with a buffet lunch and lots of ice cream. Then Stan Lawler and Paul Varley will present a magic show. The afternoon will end with games and general fun-making.

Beta Mu—Tufts

Beta Mu points with pride to Bob MacLeay for his outstanding record at Tufts. A great asset to the track team, Bob has won five varsity letters in track and cross-country. He was also presented with the Scoboria Track Trophy, donated by a former Beta Mu Delt, for the most improved track man throughout the year. His athletic ability carries over into the Fraternity house, where he has competed in intramural track, softball, wrestling, and golf.

Not only has Bob done well in athletics, but he has also proved his worth scholastically. An engineer, he is a member of Tau Beta Pi and the Engineers' Council, and he is president of ASCE. (Bob is the third Delt in the past four years to be president of ASCE.) This year Bob received the Donald A. Conderly Scholarship.

Throughout his college career, Bob has been encouraged by his wife, Margie. They have two fine sons, Robert and Richard.

OUTSTANDING SENIOR

Jim Sherman, one of the most outstanding members of his class, has led an active college life. He has been a member of Sword and Shield, Ivy Society, and Tower Cross, the sophomore, junior, and senior honorary societies. In his junior year he was secretary of the Student Council, and he is now its president. He is also past president of NSA. Jim was co-editor of the all-college handbook and is now the editor in chief of the yearbook. He has been a member of the Forensic Council for four years. To make his life even busier, Jim is vice-president of the Interfraternity Council, and he is marshal of the senior class.

Jim has done well scholastically, too, for he will graduate magna cum laude. He is planning to further his studies at Harvard Law School.

Beta Nu—M.I.T.

Tau Beta Pi has smiled upon Beta Nu again. This year it has added the name of Jerry Austin to its M.I.T. chapter. Jerry, Beta Nu's new vice-president, seems to be following the scholastic precedent established by the retiring vice-president, Whitie Eubank, who obtained similar honors last year. Jerry appears to have no partiality toward any one honor society, however. His name is also to be found on this year's roster of Pi Tau Sigma, the honorary mechanical engineering fraternity. Further scrutiny of the Pi Tau Sigma roster would reveal the name of Al Hein, who was awarded the M.E. honors also.

MANAGES TECH SHOW

Probably no other extracurricular activity at Tech deserves and receives more praise from the general public than does the Tech Show. The show has built for itself a reputation that has assured it a moderate success each year. Dick Stephan was business manager of this year's production. Largely due to his promotional and managerial efforts, four times more people attended the show this year than ever before, a fact which raised the show's success from moderate to tremendous.

DELTS ARE SPORTS CAPTAINS

Beta Nu did not hole up for the winter athletic season. The activity and interest aroused in the fall carried over into the sports season. In track, Jerry Lewis was lead-off man on the powerful M. I. T. mile relay team that introduced its heels to such powers as Harvard, Princeton, and Yale in the Eastern track meets this winter.

The swimming team was ushered through a successful season by Captain Bob Edgar. Delt Tom Kelly was a prominent member of the team also. Chris Whitcombe kicked water for the frosh squad.

Another team captain, Hans Eckhardt, lent his skills in the squash courts. The Whitie Eubank to John Stewart to Dave Bean combination became a much feared, high-scoring threat that left the opposition goggled-eyed in five out of seven intramural basketball starts this season.

Spring at M. I. T. means essentially three things: (1) lacrosse, (2) crew, and (3) baseball. Lacrosse Cocaptain Hank Sharp is not a lone Delt on the playing field. Pete Ehrenberg, Charlie Springer, and Walt Morton and Bob Oliver seek to accompany him on the varsity squad, while Chris Whitcombe, Jack Redlein, and Jim Fenske are battling for freshman positions. With the spring crew season close at hand, we find Don Christensen making a strong bid for a seat in the varsity heavyweight shell, while Chuck Buntschuh and Bill Rogers are aspiring heavy- and light-weight frosh oar-benders respectively.

In baseball practice Ken Foster has been baffling freshmen batters with his varied delivery from the mound. Many of the other Delts are out every afternoon for baseball—out in Braves' Field, that is, to cheer on Boston's entry in the National League pennant race.

Beta Xi—Tulane

Beta Xi has started dabbling in campus politics. By obtaining the support of the entire Pan-Hellenic Council, Beta Xi has secured the nomination of its man for the office of president of the Student Body. As yet the results of the election are unknown.

CHADICK PLAYS HERCULES

Ed Chadick seems to have a very promising career as an actor. Although a freshman and new initiate of Beta Xi, Ed took the leading role in "The Boar," one of three one-act plays presented recently by the Tulane University Theatre. Even more recently Ed played the role of Hercules, a genial but cowardly giant, in the Theatre's production of Julian Thompson's "The Warrior's Husband."

HEADS LEADERSHIP COUNCIL

Jack Weiss, as the representative to the Leadership Council of the University of the newly formed spirit organization "Pelicans," was elected chairman of the Council. Since his association with the "Pelicans," Jack has proved that he has the makings of a true leader.

Another outstanding leader on the campus is Charles Ramond. Serving as associate editor of the Hullabaloo, official news organ of the campus, and a member of the Editorial Board of Carnival, a campus literary magazine, "Chas" still had enough time to make the Dean's List in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Buddy Roepe represented Beta Xi in the recent Campus Night production of "Dig Your Grave," an original play which was a smash success with the audience.

Beta Omicron—Cornell

Spring finds Beta Omicron warmly engaged in campus activities. Brothers Reg Rice and Dan Birchard are braving spring football practice, thus adding two more names to an already impressive roster of Delt pigskin-luggers.

Delts are also taking care of managerial positions pretty well. Dave Buckley is an assistant football manager, and Charles Robbins recently became assistant wrestling manager. To complete the coverage, Bill Fox is competing for a similar position with the varsity track team.

RICE BECOMES TAU BETE

The chapter points with pride to Jerry Rice, who lately became our newest Tau Beta Pi man. Others gained recognition on the campus when the Cornellian board announced Robin Westbrook's promotion to associate editor along with the election of Bill Vickroy and Tom Harrison to the editorial and art boards.

The Delt A.C. basketball squad was forced to relinquish the intramural crown acquired last year. However, the abdiction did not occur without a stiff fight, since the boys battled their way clear to the semi-finals only to lose a real heart-breaker in overtime play.

A goodly group can be found gathered around the piano these evenings after dinner. For under the able direction of Maestro Jim Casey, the Delt Glee Club is whipping itself into shape for participation in the annual Interfraternity Sing.

PREPARE FOR PRESIDENT

Word of the projected visit of President Brenton and Hugh Shields has stirred up a flurry of preparation for receiving these distinguished guests, who are to arrive at Beta Omicron early in May.

Beta Pi—Northwestern

In sports and campus activities the Delts of Beta Pi are well represented this spring. The Day brothers, "Fatso" and "Pee Wee," first-stringers on the football eleven, are together again patrolling the outfield on the baseball team. Returning from a spring tour in Florida, "Fatso" was batting at a .444 clip, and "Pee Wee" was hitting well over .300.

FENDLEY NAMED COCAPTAIN

In basketball, Jake Fendley has been named cocaptain of the Northwestern team. It will be Jake's third year on the varsity squad.

The chapter was represented on the wrestling team by George Collias, who wrestled in the 155-pound class.

TOP BILLING IN WAA-MU

The annual Waa-Mu Show, one of the greatest and best known of all college musical productions, will see John Lagerlof in one of the leads. For three years now John has had top billing in the Waa-Mu productions. He has also done a great deal of professional work. Just recently he finished a 13-week engagement at the Black Hawk Restaurant in Chicago and has appeared on many television shows with a quartet called the "Cordmen."

Bill MacLachlan is another Beta Pi Delt who is connected with the show. He is the stage manager for the complete production.

ALUMS TURN OUT FOR SMOKER

Early in March a smoker was held in the house for alumni living in and around Chicago. Four hundred invitations were extended. It met with great success. For many of the "alums" it was the first chance to see the house since it has been redecorated with new carpets, draperies, and rugs.

May 13 is the date for the Spring Formal. It's an all-day affair at the Villa Hotel Resort at Pestakee Bay, Illinois. There will be swimming, boating, golf, and riding in the afternoon, and the formal dinner-dance at night. Busses will transport the Delts and their dates both ways.

Beta Rho—Stanford

The Delt name has become synonymous with leadership in athletics at Stanford.

Four Beta Rho athletes, now living in the house, are captains or cocaptains of the varsity teams on which they play:

Charlie Cole, veteran centerfielder, is

cocaptain of this year's Stanford varsity baseball team; Gus Chavalas, four-year varsity basketball letterman, was cocaptain of the '49-'50 cage team; Don Williams captained the Stanford wrestling team last quarter; and Bill Arce, a graduate education major, was starting third baseman and captain of the baseball team last year.

A fifth captain, frosh Basketballer Fritz Fenster, was pledged during the past rushing season and will be moving into the house next fall.

Team captains at Stanford are truly the leaders in their sports inasmuch as they are traditionally elected by the votes of their teammates.

Don Williams is a junior in school and will be back for another year of wrestling competition. Cole and Chavalas are both seniors, and Arce, a graduate, is no longer eligible for competition.

Charlie Cole, a smooth-swinging left-hander, has always been a nifty character with a bat and a glove. He came to Stanford from Yakima, Washington, where he was all-state in high school, and stepped immediately into the starting first-base job on the Stanford varsity.

Last season he shifted to centerfield and has remained there this year. He is presently hitting at a .333 clip and has never slipped below .300 in conference play.

Gus Chavalas, the only four-year basketball letterman in Stanford history, climaxed his college career this year by co-captaining the varsity team along with All-Coast Forward George Yardley. Gus came to Stanford in 1946 when relaxed wartime eligibility rules, which allowed freshmen to participate in varsity competition, were still in effect.

Chavalas has also compiled an enviable record as a leader in student government at Stanford. He has served as a member of the student executive government and was last year elected president of the Stanford Student Body.

Don Williams, 145-pound wrestler, has the distinction of being elected captain of his sport while only a junior. He expects to step up a notch to 155-pound competition next year.

Bill Arce, captain and third baseman of the baseball team last season, is coaching baseball at nearby Menlo Junior College this spring.

It is unlikely that the Delts' record of four captains at one time will soon be matched by any other fraternity on campus. The Delt name has truly come to mean leadership in athletics at Stanford.

Beta Tau—Nebraska

February marked the beginning of a new era in the history of Beta Tau Chapter. The Delts have moved into their new Shelter on the Nebraska campus. After some 15 years of shifting about, especially during the war days, we have finally settled down in a permanent and livable home. The Beta Tau alumni graciously presented the new Shelter to the Delts on January 28, 1950, and have thus established a stepping stone in the progress of the chapter.

The exterior of the house is buff-face brick with panels of stained wood above the main entrance and French doors on the south entrance. The general structural lines are horizontal with a flat roof.

The interior of the Shelter is contrast-ingly presented in various shades of pastel colors. The floors are finished with asphalt tile with the exception of the second-floor hall which is laid in cork tile to reduce distracting noises.

The leather furniture which is used throughout the house blends with the color scheme of the interior.

The house is designed to accommodate comfortably 46 men, with dining facilities for 100.

On February 25, the Delts officially opened the new house to the University of Nebraska campus. Hundreds of students, faculty members, and well-wishers were guests during the course of the afternoon. As a climax to the day's festivities, an informal dance was held in the Shelter during the evening.

BRING HOME TWO TROPHIES

Acting seemingly under the inspirational influence of the new house, Beta Tau's athletic teams hit new heights in intramural competition. The first laurels were brought home by the bowling team, which breezed through to victory in all-University leagues. Keith Skalla added to these merits by compiling the high tournament average.

Keeping pace with the bowlers was the Beta Tau basketball team. The cagers were league winners, sweeping through to 12 victories without defeat. With emphasis on well-balanced team plays, the Delts were paced by the scoring of E. Vandel, Harry Breetzke, and Ray Van Norman and the play-making of Jim Sharp and Gardy Johnson.

Beta Upsilon—Illinois

The Delt basketball team annexed the University Recreational Title by defeating Sigma Alpha Epsilon 50-34. To gain the finals in a tourney in which over 90 teams competed, the Delts had racked up eight consecutive victories.

Having just won the Rec Title, we are now aiming our sights at the championship in intramural basketball.

Three Delts are participating in spring athletics at the University. Bill Tate and Pete Truran are in the running for full-back and quarterback respectively on the

SIGNS WITH DETROIT

Les Pinkham, Delt initiate, signed a professional baseball contract with the Detroit Tigers. In doing so, Illinois lost one of its most promising freshman football players, but Beta Upsilon hopes to have one of its members in the major league ranks before long. Les plans to attend Illinois during the fall semesters long enough to receive his degree in law.

HONOR NEW DELTS

On March 11, the chapter initiated 16 men into Delta Tau Delta. The class is one of the largest to be initiated in recent years and also one of the most outstanding. After the formal ceremonies, a banquet was given in their honor which, in turn, was followed by an informal get-together of the entire chapter.

President Brenton and Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields honored the undergraduate chapter by stopping at the chapter house January 20. A luncheon was held which both undergraduates and alumni attended.

Beta Phi—Ohio State

Beta Phi has been honored this past quarter by having several brothers initiated into honorary societies and fraternities on the Ohio State campus. Brothers Jim Rhodes and Paul Moffat are now members of Tau Beta Pi, the national engineering fraternity. Among those recently initiated into Scabbard and Blade, the national R.O.T.C. fraternity, were Brother Jim Rhodes and Pledge Brother Dan Davis.

In the athletic field, Brother Dan McKinney was captain of the O.S.U. fencing team for the 1949-50 season.

DELTS GET SEA LEGS

The high light of the winter quarter dramatic season here was the Scarlet Mask production Sea Legs. Brothers Dan McKinney, recently elected president of Scarlet Mask, and Don Gotschall, along with Pledge Brothers Dick Behrend and Glen Reid, were in the cast, and eight other brothers composed the dancing chorus of the production. These men, along with several others from the chapter, made Sea Legs a Delt show.

TWO ARE CHARTER MEMBERS

We have two charter members of the Ohio State chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, national commerce fraternity, in Brothers Russ Spetrino and Joe McGraw. Brother Bob Folger was recently initiated into this fraternity.

BOWLING TROPHY GARNERED

Our pledge class won another trophy in intramurals the past quarter. This one was in bowling.

DATE BUREAU GETS SET

Preparations are under way to exercise our duties as host chapter for the coming Karnea. A date bureau will be set up for the incoming Delts. We hope the Ohio State girls will prove worthy of their responsibilities.

Beta Chi—Brown

The Beta Chi Delts are leading again this year in the Lanpher Cup standings for the fourth year in a row. This year they hold a narrow 36-point margin over their nearest rival in the race for the coveted intramural athletic trophy.

Much of the credit for the excellent showing of the Brown Delts must be heaped on Earl Wagner, the intramural director, for the Beta Chi's have won only a single team championship thus far. They have piled up their point total on seconds and thirds and participation points. The Delts finished second in track and wrestling and third in basketball, and should they win the Lanpher Cup again this year, it will be the first time in the history of the trophy that one house has monopolized it for four consecutive years.

BROTHERS STAR GRAPPLERS

The Michael brothers, Grey and Dave, were the stalwarts on Brown's wrestling team this year. Dave Michael's string of undefeated wrestling years was broken in the EIWA bouts this winter by Army's Dick Swygert in a close 5-3 decision.

Brother Bob Barlow was elected co-captain of next year's Bruin swimming team. A short distance free-styler, Barlow swam anchor on Brown's New England championship 400-yard relay team. It was Barlow's eyelash win over Bowdoin's Bob McGrath that gave Brown the decision in the New England swimming meet.

Beta Chi President Chuck Whelan played from the guard position on Brown's basketball team, and Al Boyer was a pole-vaulter on this winter's track team.

ELECTED TO SIGMA XI

On the scholastic scene, Arthur D. Foster was elected to Sigma Xi, an honorary society for engineering students.

Beta Psi—Wabash

The Little Giant Delts are ahead at present in their efforts to regain the intramural championship they lost last year by a few points. Last fall we won second place in the football play-offs, and recently we won first place in both basketball and in volleyball.

The Delts held the trophy in 1948. Now only baseball stands between the award and our fireplace mantel. Last year, we won the first-place award in baseball, and many players of that team are still with us.

LAUNCH RUSH PROGRAM

On March 25, Beta Psi held its first rush party of the year. The party was under the direction of Rush Chairman Bob Hepler.

About 12 men entering Wabash next year were guests of the house.

The house corporation, under the direction of Bowman Downey, recently visited the chapter. Plans were laid for future action. New chairs and tables were added to the card room through the co-operation of the alumni association.

GEORGE R. EKSTEDT
Chapter Eternal

PROMINENT SENIOR IS KILLED

George R. Ekstedt, senior of Beta Psi Chapter, lost his life in an automobile accident February 10, 1950. An outstanding athlete, he had played on both track and football teams at Wabash. He had been president of his freshman class and a member of Sphinx Club. He was vice-president of Beta Psi Chapter last year.

The Little Giant Delt, chapter publication, will be dedicated to George's memory this spring.

Gamma Beta—Illinois Tech

Ernest Nordquist and Robert Richter were honored by being elected to membership in Tau Beta Pi. Both men have been live wires in activities both on campus and in the Shelter.

TOP JOBS GO TO DELTS

With Illinois Tech looking forward to the festivities of Junior Week Open House, the Delts have landed two men in top jobs. Lee Richards was chosen as General Student Chairman, while Marty Hoelt was selected as chairman of the Junior Week activities.

Men at the Shelter are training for competition in the Interfraternity Track Meet, Pageant, and Sing, top events of Junior Week. This year Gamma Beta will be aiming to capture first-place honors in the I F Sing for the fourth year in succession.

TWO ON ALL-STAR TEAM

During the past semester the Delts have shown a good display of strength on the athletic field. The football team placed second, losing only one game in the play-offs for the championship. In basketball the Shelter came in a strong third, placing its two outstanding players, Greg Opelka and Anson Whitfield, on the interfraternity all-star team.

Gamma Gamma—Dartmouth

On the ice of the Davis Rink, Gamma Gamma edged Alpha Delta Phi for the college hockey championship, 2-1. Scoring early in the first period, the Delts staved off the Alpha Delt's fast-moving attack until the third period when the opposition tied the game up. Aroused, the Purple and Gold quickly sent a long shot by Pete Stanley past the Alpha Delt goalie, to put the game "on ice."

Outstanding were Court Cross and Andy Timmerman on defense, and for the attack, the three "Petes," Pete Stien, Stanley, and Vosburg, and also Bobby Smith and Howie Geist. The Delt won the single elimination tourney by defeating Kappa Kappa Kappa, DKE, Phi Gamma, and Alpha Delta Phi. This victory brought hope for a first place in interfraternity athletic standings.

Meanwhile Bob Morris was crowned 145-pound boxing champ and Duke MacArthur took the 135-pound title. On the wrestling scene big Bill Ford won the 175-pound title.

SHINE IN VARSITY ATHLETICS

During the winter season, Delt were well represented on most of the varsity teams. In squash, Rick Austin and Bobby Mauk were outstanding, while Don Smith, Jim Wylie, and Whit Sawyer played for the J.V.'s. Lee Coulter in swimming, "Red" Austin in skiing, and Nels Ehinger and Herm Christensen in track completed the Delt winter athletic representation.

LEAPS SIX AND HALF FEET

Ehinger, only a sophomore, was especially outstanding—jumping 6' 5½" in the Cornell meet and placing second in the IC4A high jump. He was voted "Athlete of the Week" for his outstanding achievements.

SENIOR SOCIETY ELECTIONS

Congratulations must go to Frank Smallwood, Dick Barnes, and Paul Staley for their recent election to Casque and Gauntlet, and to Pete Stien for his election to Dragon.

With the big spring week end—The Green Key Prom—approaching, preliminary planning is already in process for this big event. Dick Barnes, vice-president of Green Key, the junior honorary society, Frank Smallwood, in charge of publicity, and Paul Staley, decorations, are all assisting to make this Dartmouth week end one of the best. Concurrently, the Delt Shelter on the Hanover plain looks forward to one of its best springs.

Gamma Delta—West Virginia

Looking back on our Fiftieth Anniversary celebration, we find it only fitting to use a line of this copy to thank Brother Francis Hughes for his address on this festive occasion. His topic, "The Good Delt," will serve to inspire us to greater deeds for many years to come.

In conjunction with our Fiftieth Anniversary, eleven new members were added to the rolls of Gamma Delta. The initiation served to bring back many memories to the alumni who returned to the Shelter to help us in the recognition of this, our fiftieth year of existence.

DELTS MAKE HONORARIES

We are justly proud of Brother Bill Patterson for his scholastic achievements since he has been with us. Brother Patterson has been duly initiated into Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national earth science honorary, and also into Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honorary. Bill has shown not only his ability in the scholastic line but also his great interest in the chapter as well.

ANNUAL SMOKER

On March 25, our annual smoker was held with Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity. In the past years, it has served to strengthen our bonds with this fraternity and also for a greater understanding of different fraternities.

CAGERS CUP CUP

The basketball players of the Shelter came through this year with a first place in the interfraternity A league. The boys, in their new uniform, have made quite a showing for themselves this year. The team included: Frank Allen, Bob Kettlewell, Bob Marcrum, "Jeep" Sheets, Dick Tetric, and Bill Marcrum.

Gamma Zeta—Wesleyan

Early this year Gamma Zeta enlarged her forces by some 16 new brothers. On February 14, these shiny new Delt crossed the final doorway to the Fraternity and sat down to a wonderful banquet prepared by Chef John Kelly. The high light of the evening was the welcoming speech given by Brother Raymond Baldwin, '16, Chief Justice of the Connecticut Supreme Court.

ONE ACT PLAY SLATED

In the first week in May, Gamma Zeta will present the one act play, "The Man With His Heart in the Highlands," as a part of the first Interfraternity Play Contest since the war. The play will be directed by Brothers Hal Carney and Bud Dorsey; the actual cast has not as yet been chosen. Later that week, we again hit the campus contests with a presentation of the Glee Club, directed by Brother Bob Herbert, singing "Serenade" in the Interfraternity Sing.

DEBATERS WIN

The Delt debaters, Jack Bussing and Bill Malamud, won the Interfraternity Debate Tournament and placed another loving cup on our trophy shelf.

Our hats are off to Brothers Larry Mason and Dick Ramette, who were recently elected to Sigma Xi, the national scientific honor society, and to Brother Ralph Jones, who was elected to Skull and Serpent, the campus senior honorary society.

DELTS SERVE ON VARSITY

Brothers Ralph Jones and "Gig" Giviglio are starring on the new Wesleyan nine, a club for which a great season is predicted.

In the last issue of THE RAINBOW, we reported that the sterling Delt basketball team was facing a fine season. We were blinded by our own words; still, we didn't hit the cellar but rather bounced and came to halt on the fifth step.

Brother Dick Grant was awarded a varsity letter for wrestling, and Brother Hal Carney received his letter for varsity squash. Freshmen "Dutch" Hinsch and Fred Wandall received their class numerals in fencing.

The Delt wrestling team, under the capable handling of Brothers Jack Braitmayer and Dick Grant, came up in great style in the interfraternity wrestling matches but was nosed out of first place by one point; however, it easily captured second.

Gamma Eta—George Washington

What is it like to be a Delt at George Washington University's Gamma Eta Chapter in Washington, D. C.? How does it feel to attend a school minus a large campus, located in the world's largest, most important international city?

First, consider that Delta Tau Delta at GWU represents one of a total of 17 national fraternities on campus. Gamma Eta came into being in 1903 and became inactive during the last war. In 1947, the flag of purple and gold was again unfurled when a handful of Delts reactivated the chapter.

If you were a Delt at George Washington, you would probably live at home, either in the city or in nearby Maryland or Virginia. The Shelter, a remodeled 20-room house located a block from the campus, sleeps but 14 men, thus creating a special problem in itself. The traditional fraternity house is absent at GWU, and with the absence of a fraternity row, a majority of the fraternity houses are spread over the northwestern end of the city.

"What! No traditional fraternity house!" you cry. "How can you exist?" Which brings us to yet another problem. The Delts are very much alive at George Washington, as any of the other fraternity men will readily testify. When but two years old (from the time of the rebirth in 1947), the Delts boldly entered campus politics and emerged with the president of the Student Council and the prexy of the Sophomore Class.

Measured in terms of their larger brother chapters, Gamma Eta is small indeed. The active chapter numbers 36 men and the spring pledge class totals 14 hand-picked men. So the Delt chapter is a "tiny band of fifty men." Realizing that the largest chapter on campus has 70 men and the majority have less than 50, however, the Delts' position is not as precarious as it might seem at first glance.

Well, if you were a Delt in Washington, D. C., you would have enjoyed a full Fall semester social program, highlighted by the annual "Mardi Gras" costume ball. You might have secured a good grade point average because of the nearness of the Library of Congress and the Federal departments (however, this isn't necessarily so).

If you were a George Washington Delt, you would be host to the entire campus social life at the annual "Blossom Time Ball." You might be able to induce one of the many famous alumni to appear at rush parties and other important functions. You would enjoy a close friendship with the Delta Sigma Chapter at the University of Maryland and come to know them as brothers.

As a Delt in D. C., you would play host to hundreds of brothers from all over the United States. You would participate in a myriad of activities, both social and athletic. Most of all, if you were a Delt from Gamma Eta, you would contribute to the chapter's most prized possession—a spirit of sincere friendliness that marks the Delt chapter in Washington. Our doors are always open.

Gamma Theta—Baker

Gamma Theta really started things off with a bang on the second semester by winning Baker's annual Fun-Fest. This event is sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association with half of the groups on the campus participating.

This year's skit was entitled "Time Will Tell" and dealt with Joe Stalin and his attempts to "espionage" the Baker campus. Joe finally decides in the end to come to Baker and be a capitalist. Fine performances were turned in by Jon Ely as Joe Stalin and Milie Wade as Yatisha.

The skit included songs by the group and scenery done by John Vogt and Ted Forlow. The cup, if won three successive times, becomes the permanent property of the Delts.

TAKE OPERETTA LEAD

In the dramatic line, also, were two Delts who had leads in the Music Department's operetta. This year's operetta was Mozart's "Bastien and Bastienna." Bob Lamb and Don Shelby created the part of Bastien on two different nights. Jim McGlumphy and Ted Forlow were members of the cast's chorus.

CHOSEN CAMPUS CLOWN

Gene "Gopher" Welch was voted Campus Clown by the student body. This election was held with Baker's Community Chest Campaign. Gene successfully campaigned with serenades held for the women's organized houses.

Gamma Iota—Texas

"Only one week till Round-Up," and with that thought uppermost in their minds, the Delts at the University of Texas began making preparations for the annual homecoming celebration held at the University last month.

The first item on the agenda was the float. Gamma Iota took top honors in the Round-Up Parade last year with first prize in the fraternity division for its magnificent showboat, "The Delta Queen." Determined to make a repeat performance, the Delts again went nautical when they decided upon a Viking ship as their float entry. "Chili" Nelson was appointed chairman of the float committee. With Dan (the slave-driver) Powell supervising the manufacturing of some 40,000 crepe paper flowers, and J. J. Robertson serving as chief construction engineer on the frame, even Leif Ericson himself would have been proud of the finished product.

On the morning after the parade, Gamma Iota Chapter had a breakfast at the Shelter for the six visiting sweethearts from the other Southwestern Universities—S.M.U., T.C.U., Baylor, Rice, Texas A. & M., and Arkansas. Delta Tau Delta was one of five fraternities honored when selected by the University to entertain the sweethearts. The breakfast was a big success, with the sweethearts and the Delts alike enjoying it immensely.

Two great parties planned by the social committee chairman, Stan MacAfee, closed the Round-Up celebrations, as that night found all the Gamma Iota Delts entertaining themselves, their dates, and their alumni out at a private club in Austin. A buffet luncheon was served, after which dancing was in order for the balance of the evening. Then the following day found Delts and dates on a barge party out on Lake Austin. All in all, it was a highly successful Round-Up.

DELT 'MURAL VICTORIES

'Twas Fight Nite once again at the University of Texas, and when the closing bell was rung, the Delts walked away with two championships and two runners-up tucked under their belt. Big Wilson Taylor, wrestling in the unlimited weight class, came through with a mighty victory to win the unlimited crown. Paul "Punchy" Colley took the boxing crown for the 145-pound class. Jerry Culver also wrestled his way to the top to be runner-up in the 135-pound class, while Del Glidden boxed his way to runner-up in the 175-pound class.

Water polo found the Delts swimming their way to runner-up in the all-University contest. Team Captain Dick Walker, along with Fonse Ragland, led in scoring while taking the Delts to the finals with an undefeated record. There in a two out of three series, the Delts lost a heart-breaking third game by a score of 2-3.

Gamma Kappa—Missouri

Delta Tau Delta maintains her eminent position on the Missouri campus largely through the efforts and activities of a group of men who can claim high achievement in several diverse fields—athletics, scholarship, publications, and leadership. Earnest endeavor in his chosen field has made each of these men well-known and highly respected on this campus.

Dr. Robert F. Karsch, chapter adviser, was for four years chapter adviser at Delta Omicron, Westminster. He is assistant professor of political science at the University of Missouri, author of several school pep songs, and has arranged "Delta Shelter" for the Delt songbook. In recognition of his activities, Dr. Karsch is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership honorary.

Roger Englert is a three-year varsity letterman in baseball and holds three football awards. In addition to his varsity and intramural athletics, he coached freshman footballers last fall. He is president of the Missouri varsity "M" Club, member of Future Teachers of America, and member of Mystical Seven, senior men's honorary. Despite his numerous activities, "Rog" is the chapter's top scholar. His versatility has been recognized by his election to Omicron Delta Kappa.

Ben Ornburn, hustling alumni chairman for the past term, has a long skein of activities in the College of Engineering. He is past vice-president of Missouri's student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers and is current circulation manager of Missouri Shamrock, engineers' monthly publication. Ben has further distinguished himself as vice-president of Chi Epsilon, civil engineering honorary, and is a member of Pi Mu Epsilon, mathematics honorary. During recent Saint Patrick's Day activities, Brother Ornburn was tapped Knight of Saint Patrick, cum laude.

Again in the athletics department, we have Jack Frier, former baseball captain, now working toward his fourth varsity letter. Jack has three football awards and made two Gator Bowl trips with the Missouri Tigers. He is a past vice-president of "M" Men's Club and former chapter vice-president.

FOOTBALL COCAPTAIN

Big Bob Ebinger will be out to get his third football letter when he enters the line-up next fall at left end for the Missouri Tigers. He is team cocaptain. Mel Sheehan, twice All-Big Seven end and second team All-American, is a graduate assistant coach to Don Farout and helped to coach Ebinger last fall. Last year Sheehan was a member of Mystical Seven and is former chapter president.

Mild-mannered John Vaisey has proved himself repeatedly as a capable and respected leader. Jack's interests lie in journalism and political science. He was selected last fall for Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities and is historian of Omicron Delta Kappa. He is president of Mystical Seven, senior men's honorary, a member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary, past business manager of the Missouri Student, weekly campus newspaper, and is chapter activities chairman.

PUBLICATIONS MEN

Frank Tuttle, Wally Eggers, and John Wilson carry the load as publications men. Brother Tuttle is sports editor of the yearbook, Savitar, assistant managing editor of the Missouri Student, weekly newspaper, and a member of Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising fraternity.

Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary, has recently initiated John Wilson. John has been a writer and promotions director for Savitar and the Missouri Student, in addition to editing the chapter newspaper for the past year. Wilson won high praise this spring from University officials for his handling of the student government elections, acting as chairman of the elections committee.

Wally Eggers, chapter vice-president, has already begun an impressive record while still in his sophomore year. Wally is advertising manager of the Missouri Student, a member of the University Men's Burrall Commission in connection with social services, philosophy, and religion, and in the Student Government Association he has done outstanding work as freshman class representative.

Mark P. Wren, former RAINBOW correspondent, was elected as a freshman to Phi Eta Sigma, scholastic honorary. Mark is now a graduate assistant in the history department at the University of Missouri, member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary, and Kappa Alpha Mu, photography honorary. He served as chapter guide and editor of chapter publications.

BEST SCHOLAR

Possessor of the highest semester's grade ever made by a Missouri Delt, is W. Donald Fleck, past president of the chapter. Don has held committee chairmanships in everything from Interfraternity Pledge Council and Student Government Association all the way to University Men's Burrall Cabinet and justice of the Interfraternity Court. He is chairman of the activities committee of Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, and was recently elected to Omicron Delta Kappa.

BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

Delta Tau Delta won this year's championship scrap in intramural basketball, coming out at the top of a heap of more than 100 teams. The team won several games and dropped only one, as it won the fraternity championship, and then went on to defeat the independent league champions to gain the school title. In the polling for an all-University All-Star team, Roger Englert and Jack Frier were selected for a team of ten men. More than 750 athletes were considered in the polling. This year's plaque trophy hangs neatly beside the one that Missouri Deltas won last year in fraternity basketball.

Gamma Lambda—Purdue

Top news at Gamma Lambda is the pledging of Brothers Jack Dubs and Bob Tam to the Gimlet Club. This organization is composed of fraternity men on campus who are leaders in activities.

Jack is associate sports editor of the campus daily, The Exponent, and will soon be eligible for the editor's position. He is also the treasurer of Skull and Crescent, a fraternity honorary for sophomores.

Bob Tam has been active in numerous activities. He is manager of the Concert Choir, star soloist for the Purdue Varsity Glee Club, and recording secretary for Scabbard and Blade, a national military honorary. Bob also presents a weekly show over WBAA, the Purdue radio station.

Jack and Bob were both elected to chapter offices in the recent elections, Jack being made president and Bob, vice-president. Congratulations are in order for these two brothers, both outstanding Deltas.

TEX VOTED TO COURT

The "Gold Diggers" dance was held on campus March 25. For this dance, the girls invite the boys, make them a corsage, pick them up, and do all the other things that a boy normally does on a date. A king and his court are picked by the girls. Gamma Lambda's nomination, a brother from the Lone Star State, Jason "Tex" Wright, was voted to a place in the court. Tex is another big wheel in activities, being a captain in Scabbard and Blade and drum major for the Purdue Military Band.

RUNS FOR PURDUE RELAY

In track, Ben Sheaffer has been doing a great job on Purdue's mile relay team. Ben has helped the team to first-place honors in the Michigan State Relays and second places in the Western Conference Meet and the Illinois Tech Relays.

PLEDGED TO HONORARIES

Bill Wainwright was recently pledged to Chi Epsilon, national civil engineering honorary. He is also a member of Sigma Pi Sigma, national physics honorary. Bill had the highest grades in the chapter last semester. With 6.00 being perfect at Purdue, Bill finished with a 5.67. In addition to his scholastic honors, Bill sings bass in the Delt quartet which took fifth place in the national barbershop contest last spring.

Another brother recently pledged to campus honoraries is Albert "Hub" Melin. Scabbard and Blade and Eta Kappa Nu, a national electrical engineering honorary, both selected Hub for their pledge classes.

Gamma Mu—Washington

Gamma Mu's pledges seem to have run wild in activities these last two months. Frosh Day at the University of Washington on February 3 was run by Bob Boye, who had the honor of acting as president of the University in place of President Allen. Craig Campbell served as managerial council representative, and Dick Thor, Phil Bursett, and Rod Vanderhoof were a big part of the seven-piece Frosh Day orchestra. Frosh football numeral Winner Jim Watson helped the freshmen pull the sophomores into the Frosh Pool in the annual tug o' war.

Soon after Frosh Day Pledges Bill Peterson and Len Thompson were elected members of Malamutes, campus service honorary. Then, Rod Vanderhoof, now the best miler at the University, sprint Aspirant Dick Thor, and baseball hopefuls Bob Boye and Donner Buchet "turned to" in the University's spring athletic program.

As a group the pledge class also gave promise of a bright future for Gamma Mu. They presented the actives with as fine a dance as has ever been attended by Gamma Mu members. The theme of the dance, "Behind Those Swinging Doors," coupled with the Seattle Police Department orchestra to supply the ultra-friendly atmosphere.

Six of the nine players on Gamma Mu's basketball team that took division championship were pledges. Phil Bursett will lead Gamma Mu in its try for "Song Fest" winners this spring. Pledges will be heavily numbered among softballers who plan on bringing home the All-University championship this spring. They will also participate in Gamma Mu's "Sophomore Carnival" entry, which has two firsts and one second in its three last entries. The future of Gamma Mu looks bright, for these men will soon become actives.

Gamma Xi—Cincinnati

On February 19, Gamma Xi initiated its 91st class of new Delts, with the initiation banquet following at the Hotel Alms. Alum Cliff Mueller was the toastmaster, with Garth Slater the principal speaker.

Following the initiation we proceeded to pledge ten new men, bringing the spring pledge class to a total of 23 men. Led by Pledge Brother Carl Lottman as president, we are expecting great things of this class.

THREE IN SCHOLASTIC HONORARIES

Delt activity on the UC campus continued, with Brother Larry Gard winding up his duties as business manager of the Student Directory and Brother Charlie Eckert beginning his term as the next business manager. Dick DeLong was initiated into the Arnold Air Society of the AROTC, and almost immediately was elected as adjutant recorder of the local chapter. Ray Schubert, as president of the Engineering Tribunal, was active in making a success of the annual UC Co-op Day. Dick Sand is a News Record reporter, as well as Delt publicity chairman. Brothers George Lockwood and Glenn Russell have been elected to Tau Beta Pi, while Al Grimm is our newest addition to the ranks of Phi Beta Kappa.

ELECTED TO KING'S COURT

Our campaign to elect Bill Cuni as Campus King fell nine votes short of succeeding, but he was thus the first man selected for the King's court. The campaign was highlighted by a successful open house, preceded by a serenade, under the capable direction of Bill Rengering. Bill, with Tom Leonard and Pledge Brother Don Coffman, was also featured on the front page of the Cincinnati Times-Star as the first afternoon picnickers in Burnet Woods.

Phil Leisinger, social chairman, did a very good job in putting across the Delta Carlo, a gambling party in costume. The party, held in the Shelter, was featured by the presentation of prizes to Dan Miller, who won the most money with a total of $240,000, and Phil Thorsell as the best dressed man of the evening.

Gamma Omicron—Syracuse

If at first you do succeed, lose ten pounds and succeed again. That's the way Delt Tim Curley, mainstay of the Syracuse University champion boxing team, does things.

Tim won the 145-pound Eastern Intercollegiate title last year and came back this year to capture the 135-pound Eastern title. Tim's victory at the recent Eastern boxing tournament at Syracuse was one of five championships won by the Orange ring men.

The Rome, New York, slugger fought at the lower weight this year because of a surplus of 145-pound material on the Syracuse squad. It meant a lot of tough training, dieting, and sacrifice to get down to the lower weight and stay there, but Curley managed to do it, completing the season with a 3-1 record and a fine show in the Eastern tournament.

Originally only a track and cross-country man, Tim started sparring as a means of training for the running sports. Boxing Coach Roy Simmons spotted him working out one day and before long Tim was given a berth on the varsity ring squad and was on his way to fistic titledom. He is still a cross-country man and last year served as captain of the Syracuse hill-and-dale crew.

The 26-year-old army veteran has been president of the Syracuse chapter of Scabbard and Blade, military honorary; a mem-

Gamma Pi—Iowa State

Gamma Pi Delts are celebrating the 75th Anniversary of their original founding at Iowa State this year. The celebration started with the Diamond Jubilee Orchid Formal which was held on February 18. President and Mrs. Brenton were among the guests in the reception line. The dance featured the traditional orchid tree bearing 85 orchids for the dates of the Delts. Gamma Pi's housemother, Mrs. Bernice Peden, received the white orchid proclaiming her as the Delt Sweetheart for the evening.

On April 23, the alumni of Gamma Pi will meet at the Shelter to help conclude the celebrations. The 75th Anniversary Founders Day banquet will see more alumni of the chapter back at the Shelter than have ever been together at Iowa State at one time in the history of the chapter. President Brenton will be on hand to speak.

CONSTRUCTION TO BEGIN SOON

The new Shelter planned for Gamma Pi has reached the final stages. These final plans have been received and the fund-raising campaign has almost reached its goal. It is hoped that construction can begin by July. The plans call for a 54-man house which will make it the largest fraternity house on the Iowa State campus.

CHAPTER HAS "MOVERS"

Gamma Pi has many undergraduates out among the "movers" on the campus. Walt Bones completed his term of office as president of the Interfraternity Council upon his graduation in March. Walt was house president during the past year. He was also very active in organizing the Ames "Pucksters," the college hockey team, but a warm winter kept the activities of the group at a minimum.

Pete Meeks has just been elected head cheerleader for the coming year. Pete has been on the cheer squad for the past three years and has served as president of Pep Council during the past year. He is also a member of the Student Properties Board and a member of Sextant, the navy honorary.

There is one active who was not seen around the Shelter very much during the past quarter, but his time is consumed in one of the larger positions on the campus. Charles Vogelgesang is editing the Bomb, Iowa State's yearbook. Chuck has just completed the book and is sitting back taking a short breather awaiting the distribution. He is also a member of the Bomb Publication Board and holds three Journalism I Awards for outstanding service to campus publications. He is also the recipient of an Activities I award for his extracurricular activities.

Pledge Bill Byrus is now a member of the varsity football squad. Bill received much recognition on the freshman football squad, playing first-team guard. Also active in sports is Bud Ostrand, who is working out on the Iowa State golf team.

Bud keeps himself busy during the winter in the capacity of vice-president of the Industrial Economics Club, one of the largest departmental clubs on the campus.

Representing the Delts on the Iowa State swimming team is Ed LaBerge. Ed swam on the 440 relay and broke several pool records in individual free-style events. He was chosen to travel to the AAU swimming meet in Columbus, Ohio.

Gamma Rho—Oregon

One of the biggest fraternity events on the University of Oregon campus this year was Gamma Rho's observance of Founders Day. A banquet at the city's leading hotel and open house at the Shelter highlighted the day-long affair.

Honored guests included Harold Brenton, national President; Hugh Shields, national Executive Vice-President; John Nichols, Western Division President; Vergil Fogdall and Donald M. DuShane, of the University's Office of Student Affairs; Paul Eckleman, Portland Alumni Chapter president; and Tom Collins, acting president of the newly-chartered Eugene Alumni Chapter.

More than 70 undergraduates and alumni, representing all sections of the state, attended the observance.

FRATERNITY ADVANTAGES

High light of the banquet was Mr. Brenton's address. He pointed out the many advantages of Fraternity living and asserted that part of a Fraternity man's role in college is using his experience to help the younger men in the Fraternity. Toastmaster was Gamma Rho Chapter President Bob Welch.

Following the banquet, the group returned to the chapter house, where the visiting dignitaries and house officers held an informal meeting to discuss rushing, pledging, and finances. Between them, they were able to make several improvements in the chapter's already smoothly running policies.

Also discussed at great length was the University's proposed deferred rushing plan, which, to all indications, will go into effect next year. The group agreed on several points which would make the proposed system more easily handled.

Everyone who attended the event profited greatly from his association with old and new acquaintances. Undergraduates and alumni alike were reminded just how strong the Fraternity link is.

Gamma Upsilon—Miami

Five Delts will be members of Miami's track squad this spring. Lettermen Marv Moorhead and Hal Purvis will compete in the dashes and middle-distance events respectively. Former state high school Champion Dick Sisteck seems to have regained his preservice form in the high and low hurdles. In the field events, Lettermen Max Leonard and Francis "Bucky" Walters, a three-year man, are expected to continue to cop 1-2 positions in the pole vault. Walters has participated in several indoor meets this winter and took first in the Illinois Tech Relays and the Central Collegiate Conference meet with jumps of 13' 4½" and 13' 5½".

THREE ON MIAMI DIAMOND

Three men expected to play a large part in Miami's baseball fortunes are Delts John Sanders, Carmen Cozza, and Scott Knisley. The only veteran of the trio is Sanders, who after two fine starts in '49 was plagued by a shoulder injury. With Sanders in top form again and Sophomore Carmen Cozza throwing brilliantly, the pitching staff has a fine nucleus.

A second baseman, Knisley is playing his first year here, but with several years of semipro experience, real speed, and a timely bat, he promises to solve Miami's keystone problems.

THORNBURY MAKES PHI BETA KAPPA

Recently elected to the national scholastic fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, was John Thornbury, past president of Gamma Upsilon. This high honor climaxes four eventful years for Jack, who claims many other activities and achievements. These include: Phi Eta Sigma, Omicron Delta Kappa, Les Politiques, three years on the staff of the Miami Student, sports editor of the M-Book, and corresponding secretary and president of Gamma Upsilon Chapter.

QUARTET COPS HONORS

Our vocal quartet composed of Jim Ceteras, Jack Thornbury, John Sanders, and Jim Clapper recently brought an additional honor to Gamma Upsilon. In competition with 16 other fraternities in a campus-wide "Barber Shop" program, these Delts took second place while singing three numbers. They have entertained at many social functions and chapter events during the past year.

Gamma Chi—Kansas State

An occasion of prime importance this semester was the presence of President Harold Brenton and Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields in the Gamma Chi Shelter for a short visit and a meeting to discuss the plans for the forthcoming new Shelter.

The meeting was held Friday, March 10. After dinner, President Brenton gave an exceptionally fine talk on the aims and the meaning of Fraternity life.

VARSITY SPORTS

Spring brings with it the track season. Gamma Chi supplies two of the K-State cindermen. Dean Kays, a junior and returning letterman, is a miler, and Don Thurlow, sophomore, is an outstanding prospect in the two-mile event. Both boys are also proficient in the middle distances. They make up half of the two-mile and four-mile relay teams, and Dean also runs one leg of the mile relay for the Wildcats.

Dick Johnson, football cocaptain, also is a varsity outfielder on the K-State baseball team. His prowess in the batting department is well known and respected by the hurlers in the Big Seven Conference.

BARBECUE TIME

Gamma Chi is looking forward to the annual barbecue with unrestrained enthusiasm, as always. May 6 highlights the calendar for this spring, for the barbecue is the event where the food is nutritious, the girls delicious, and many of the stories fictitious. After several days digging the pit and cutting wood for the fire, one is in the right mood for the party, and a few Delt songs soon bring the girls into the spirit of the barbecue.

Gamma Psi—Georgia Tech

Gamma Psi celebrated its BIG week end the second week in April with its annual Rainbow Dinner Dance at the Piedmont Driving Club. Over 80 members and their dates attended the function which was sponsored by the alumni.

High light of the night was the tapping of the 1950 Delta Queen. Prior to the tapping, the seniors and their dates appeared in the senior leadout. After the completion of the leadout selection by Bill Clark and his orchestra, the seniors and their dates formed an aisle through which marched the Queen's attendants—Joyce Brown, Mrs. Pat Jones, Louise Hunter, and Jackie Meser—on the arms of their dates.

The dates withdrew and the attendants formed a semi-circle facing the members. Queen Alice Wilson then marched in on the arm of her date and was met in front of the bandstand by President Herb Bradshaw. Brother Bradshaw led the new Queen to the bandstand, presented her with her crown, the traditional kiss, and the Queen's gift. The 1949 Delt Queen, Mary Frances Ferguson, presented her with her bouquet, and the members broke out with "My Delta Queen."

The Rainbow Dinner Dance was the high light of a full week end for Gamma Psi brothers. The Shelter was turned over to out-of-town dates of the brothers. The dance was Friday night and the brothers journeyed out to Lithia Springs Saturday night on a hayride. The Saturday-night activities featured a barbecue and an informal dance to the music of a colored combo.

GLEE CLUB TOURS EUROPE

Seven Gamma Psi Delts contributed their talents to the "Ramblin Reck" Glee Club in a recent tour of the principal cities of Germany and Austria. The tour, sponsored by the Army Recreational Service, covered a period of three weeks, during which the glee club sang in hospitals and opera houses entertaining our occupational forces.

Among the cities in which the club performed were Frankfurt, Rheinmain, Bremen, Bremmerhaven, Berlin, Salzburg, Linz, Vienna, Heidelberg, and Stuttgart. At Berlin a concert for the public was given in the "Titania Palast," a famous opera house there.

The group also visited Berchtesgaden, Hitler's Mountain Home, where they enjoyed looking over the impressive ruins and the beautiful Bavarian Alps.

The Tech Glee Club is composed of 26 male members and a female soloist. Seven of the members, including the accompanist, Bill Kerr, are Delts. Brothers making the tour were Bob Gibson, Louis Gates, Bill Kerr, Jimmy Robertson, Tommy Varnson, Barry Christophine, and Garner Hallman.

An interesting night was spent in an Aschaffenburg night club by the Delt members of the club. They met Delt Brother D. O. Dishong, Beta, '48, and his wife and partied with them. She had never heard "Delta Queen"; so our traveling songsters accommodated her with what we are told was a heart-rending performance.

Delta Alpha—Oklahoma

Activities are again consuming a large part of members' and pledges' time. Bill Karnes has been elected to the presidency of the campus Y.M.C.A. Two of our new initiates, Dick Patten and Joe Nelson, have been pledged to Phi Eta Sigma, national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Spring initiation of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, brought seven Delts into the organization. They are C. D. Blanks, Harry McMillan, J. A. Allford, Bob Thomas, Charles Rhyne, Tom Graves, and Dick Teubner.

Bob Thomas, one of our potential geologists, has been pledged to Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national honorary earth science fraternity. Curtis Marshall is a new pledge to Delta Sigma Pi, national honorary business fraternity. Many other campus organizations have several chapter men on their active members list.

DELTS SPONSOR CHURCH SERVICE

Delta Alpha is proud of the part it plays in the annual Mother's Day Week End program here on the campus. The All-University Sing held the Saturday afternoon of the week end always finds the Delts in the favored role. Delta Alpha's biggest contribution of the week end is the annual Mother's Day Church Service, which we sponsor. The idea for the service came about through the lack of facilities of the Norman churches to handle the crowd on that particular Sunday.

The first service, held in May of 1948, was planned and put over through the combined efforts of Ed Daniels and Howard Borden. Last year, Howard Borden and Dick Teubner took over the service, and this same duo is handling the service again this year. The service itself is nondenominational, put on entirely by the men in the house, with the exception of the sermon, which is given by a member of the faculty. Last year saw approximately 700 students and mothers attend, and an even larger attendance is expected this year. The University gives us its complete co-operation for the service, and has asked us to make it an annual affair.

Delta Beta—Carnegie Tech

Tech Delts are now preparing to win their third consecutive victory in the annual buggy races. Always a high light of Carnegie's Spring Carnival, the races culminate weeks of precision balancing, running in, and speed testing—all done under close guard and out of scouting range of other contenders. Everytime the sleek black number 13 has been entered in competition, it has chalked up a new record for the three-quarter mile course.

HOLST IS SKI CHAMP

The chapter is proud of Trygve Holst, who recently won the Pennsylvania State Championship for cross-country skiing. Trygve, a native of Oslo, Norway, made the seven-mile trek in 49 minutes.

RATES SECOND SCHOLASTICALLY

Delta Beta has plunged ahead scholastically, assuming second place among 12 campus fraternities. As usual, the chapter is represented in many school activities, among them the school paper and technical magazine, varsity and intramural athletics, and professional and class honorary societies.

Tau Beta Pi includes three Tech Delts in its active membership—Barry Rowles, Roger Wiewel, and Robert Johnson.

Delta Gamma reluctantly bids "adieu" to one of its most illustrious members this spring. He is Johnny Diefendorf—Dief to all of us—Mr. Basketball of the University of South Dakota and of the North Central Conference.

The greatest basketball player in the history of South Dakota, Dief has broken all existing scoring records at USD and several of the North Central's. In 12 Conference games, Dief scored 271 points, averaging 22.6 per game—a new Conference record. In accumulating this total, Dief swished through 103 field goals—another Conference record. For his season's total in 21 games, Dief scored 434 points, averaging 20.7 per game—a new USD record. His single game total of 39 against Augustana this year set a new record for both USD and the Conference.

Left: South Dakota's JOHNNY DIEFENDORF, Mr. Basketball of the North Central Conference. He smashed University and Conference records.

Hard-driving JOHN DIEFENDORF burned up the North Central Conference this season.

To most people this represents most of Dief's basketball playing. But to anyone with a knowledge of basketball, Dief is also one of the finest team players in the country. His floorwork is at times incredible. One moment the ball is on one side of the floor, and the next someone else is going in for the lay-up on the other side. His passing has left spectators gasping and opposing teams dumbfounded. Pure wizardry we call it here at USD. One has to see Dief to believe everything that he can do with a basketball.

In saying "so long, Dief," Delta Gamma and all of Delta Tau Delta wish you all the success we know you deserve. Your name will never be forgotten by USD students. We've been proud having you as an active Fraternity brother and know that the school and chapter's loss is the outside world's gain.

Delta Delta—Tennessee

A crowd that packed one of the biggest theaters in Knoxville attended Delta Delta Chapter's first annual Fashion Parade, which is expected to become a tradition at Tennessee.

Originator of the idea for the show was Henry Hancock. The program climaxed months of hard work on his part in selection of judges, arrangements for cups, and preparation of a souvenir program based on the cover of Esquire magazine. Hancock was helped by Bick Cook, Harrell Barton, and Bob Lee.

Winners were Mary Adair House of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, and Alfred Robinson of Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity.

HOLD COUNTRY CLUB FORMAL

Spacious Holston Hills Country Club was the scene for the Fraternity's formal dance March 3. Since formals at Tennessee are limited to one every two years, the dance committee, headed by Tom Woodward, gave careful thought to every detail. Music was by Dick Jones, popular local orchestra leader. Following the dance, members and their dates gathered at a downtown cafeteria for an early breakfast. Peggy Galligher, a junior, was elected queen.

DELTS HOLD CAMPUS OFFICES

A number of chapter members have been busy capturing honors for the Fraternity in extracurricular activities during the past few months. Some of the highest offices held by Delts are Fred Parker, elected vice-president of the student body; Fred Kitts, president of Phi Eta Sigma and vice-president of the sophomore class; M. E. Heneger, president of Kappa Kappa Psi; Joe Maybury, pledgemaster of Delta Sigma Pi, senior advisor of Phi Eta Sigma, and member of Phi Kappa Phi and Beta Gamma Sigma; Jim Montgomery, president of Alpha Phi Omega; Bob Lee, member of the Publications' Council and managing editor of the school newspaper; Fred Parker, also managing editor of the school paper; Frank Lester, a Torchbearer; Harold Wesson, vice-president of American Society of Mechanical Engineers; Al Paetzel, president of the Forestry Club; James Haynes, president of Omicron Delta

HUGULEY SPEAKS TO CHAPTER

Speaker at the chapter's Founders Day banquet March 30 was Clinton Huguley, vice-president of the Southern Division. Delta Delta was happy to have Mr. Huguley as its guest.

Championship singing is a Delt trade mark at the University of Kentucky. This year the Delta Epsilon Chorus won for the twelfth time in the 14-year history of the All-Campus Sing.

This was perhaps a surprise to no one but the Delts themselves, who have become known as the "Singing Delts" because of their traditional prowess in musical activities. Rumors are still frying around the campus that a "pre-pledging-pitch-pipe-test" is a part of the Delt ritual, but Delts have proved by their all-around participation in every campus activity that it takes nothing but hard work and the Delt Spirit to excel in any field of endeavor.

A great deal of the credit must go to Brother John Tully, a journalism senior, whose painstaking planning and inspired direction contributed much toward placing a new cup on our "Baby Grand."

NEW PLEDGES WELCOMED

February 15 was a big day for Greeks at the University of Kentucky. After a full semester's rush, freshmen who had made a University standing were eligible for pledging. Delta Epsilon's rush teams (consisting of the entire chapter) had done a thorough job, though, as was evidenced by the fine pledge class welcomed in the chapter on that day.

DUTCH STUDENT "ADOPTED"

The chapter has voted to sponsor a Dutch student at the University next fall. Luuk Ketel, a former Dutch Navy man, will room and board at the chapter house for one semester while on a scholarship at the University. The Kappa Sigma Fraternity will sponsor him for the next semester, and we hope that other fraternities will adopt this plan.

ORCHID FORMAL COMING UP

Spring has sprung, and all thoughts have turned to our Orchid Formal. We have sensational plans for decorations, but it is too early to let the cat out of the bag.

Last year our dance was the "talk of the town"—this year it should be the "talk of the nation."

Plans are also under way for Founders Day which is a big occasion each year. As we are just starting on our second quarter of a century (26 years), we will make a special effort to make this Founders Day the best one yet.

SEE YOU AT THE KARNEA!

Delta Zeta—Florida

At the annual Military Ball social week end, which was held recently, Brother Bob Kiker was tapped to Scabbard and Blade, the honorary military fraternity. Other brothers in Scabbard and Blade are John Trinkle and Dave Bowman.

The military department has drill every Thursday afternoon and this is usually concluded with a parade honoring some special group on campus. The department is divided into two divisions, the air force and the ground force. It is also divided into the advanced and basic units. We have 25 members in the advanced program, out of which 15 are officers. Brothers Herb Bickel and Charles Richter are active members of Pershing Rifles, the crack drill platoon which is open only to men in the basic program. The platoon was first organized by Brother Bob Kiker. This military unit is rated as one of the best in the south.

CELEBRATE SILVER ANNIVERSARY

The Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Delta Tau Delta on the University of Florida campus was celebrated with a banquet honoring the charter members on March 25. In all, seven charter members plus Dr. G. F. Weber, the chapter's faculty adviser since its inception, were in attendance.

The seven charter members present were: Gary Ennis of Tampa; Jim Vaughn of Jacksonville; Dr. Glenn Meade of Gainesville; Francis Auger of Orlando; Dr. Percival Guinand of Clearwater; John Burwell of Ft. Lauderdale; and John E. Pearce of Short Hills, N. J.

Brother Pearce, who also made a few remarks following the dinner, traveled all the way from his home to Gainesville—approximately 1,000 miles—just to attend the banquet.

Syd Lenfestey, President of the Southern Division, gave the main address. He urged the brothers to be as active in all phases of campus life as possible and then defended the Fraternity from the many attacks made on it by critics recently.

Acting on behalf of the alumni of the chapter, Brother Lenfestey presented Dr. Weber with a wrist watch in appreciation for his service to Delta Zeta. Dr. Weber responded with a short address, thanking the group for its support and help.

Pledge Class President Ronnie York gave the active chapter two silver punch bowls as gifts from the pledge class.

The initial contribution to the furniture fund was made by the Tampa Alumni Chapter through Representative Gary Ennis. The gift of $100, plus any other contributions that are received from the other state alumni, will be used to refurnish the Shelter.

Other speakers during the evening included former President Jim Morison; Bill Fifield; Dr. R. B. Eustler, head of the house corporation; and Dean R. C. Beaty, Dean of Men at the University.

A skit, headed by Brother Walter Newton, chronicling the growth of the chapter and solos by Brother George Sistrunk

Kentucky Delts go wild after it is announced that they have won All-Campus Sing for twelfth time in 14 years. JOHN TULLY, the man with the cup, is director of the group.

rounded out the program planned by Brother Bob Morgan.

Delta Eta—Alabama

When the spring rolls around at Delta Eta, we are never devoid of athletes as anyone can see with a glance at Carol Daily and Joe Kern, 'Bama varsity tennis men.

Honors for these boys on the courts are not a new story, since Carol won his division of the Junior Davis Cup finals and Joe walked off with prep honors while in high school at Ardmore, Pennsylvania.

In the past on the freshman team Joe had plenty of trouble with his right and hitting wrist due to an earlier accident, but now he seems to have licked his trouble enough to make a good showing with the varsity.

Carol says that his main handicap is "not being where the ball is," but a look at his record proves otherwise.

If the Crimson Tide court boys have any chances for the Southeastern Conference Championship, there is one certain factor: Joe and Carol will figure heavily in the victories.

CAPTURE JASON'S TROPHY

With what was termed the most different act ever presented in the annual Jason's Jamboree, Delta Eta walked off with the honors, trophy and all.

The Jamboree is a long-standing function of the Jason's, junior honor organization, and it yearly consists of four fraternity, four sorority, and four independent acts selected from the contestants by a group of faculty judges.

After introducing the show as being dedicated to "the education of youth and the inspiration of maturity," Jack Feierabend led off with a concerto. About half way through three other tuxedoed brothers, Phil Welch, Bill Land, and DeLeslie Black, kicked off on a Dixieland "Jadda" with banjo, clarinet, and trumpet.

The show progressed from there with a Delta Tau Delta commercial by announcer Chuck Morgan and assistants (the DDT four), Dick Heffington, Joe Kern, John Kern, and Bob Jones.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY AT DELTA ZETA

J. GARY ENNIS (top), charter member of Delta Zeta, presents the chapter a gift of $100 from the Tampa Alumni Chapter.

R. C. BEATY, Dean of Men at Florida, speaks to assembled Delta Zeta alumni and undergraduates.

Southern Division President G. SYDNEY LENFESTEY was principal speaker at the Silver Anniversary and Founders Day banquet.

Dr. GEORGE F. WEBER (bottom), charter member, outlines growth of the chapter. He was presented a gold watch by Florida alumni in recognition of his 25 years as chapter adviser of Delta Zeta.

The star of the show, DeLeslie Black, amazed the crowd of 3,000 by playing the banjo behind his head, giving perfect copies of Doodles Weaver and Sugar Chile Robinson, and playing torrid banjo parts in "Four Leaf Clover."

The crowd did not stop its applause until it gave the act the first encore of Jason's history. After that, it was just a matter of counting the audience's votes.

Highly favorable publicity was received throughout the state, and the act itself was televised by the campus television department.

Delta Kappa—Duke

Lou "Babe" Viau, star line-backer on Wallace Wade's Blue Devil eleven of last year, didn't even think they were going to let him play. Football? No, basketball. It all began when the four big schools of North Carolina put their heads together and decided to feature their football stars in a benefit basketball tournament.

North Carolina State, Wake Forest, the University of North Carolina, and Duke gathered together all the big football names who they thought could give a good account of themselves on the court and sent them to Duke Indoor Stadium on January 8-9. Lou's football name was certainly big enough to qualify him as a member of the Duke "basketball" team, but nobody was sure that he could play basketball. In fact, he almost didn't dress for the game.

To shorten the story and get to the point, he did dress and he did get to play. When he finally did get in the first game, he was so hot that he was high scorer for the night. The next night nobody doubted that the Babe would be in the starting line-up. He wasn't high scorer that night, but he was everywhere at once on the court. He had the ball so much people were beginning to believe that there were two balls in the game. After it was all over and the awards were being given, who do you suppose walked off with the big gold trophy for the most "valuable" player? You guessed it—the boy who almost didn't get to play—the "Babe."

BASKETBALL ALL-STAR

When Delts Frank Allen's and Frank Chamberlein's sports column came out in the last edition of Duke's Chronicle, it contained 1949-1950's all-star intramural basketball team. Listed among the first five was Don Farinella, captain of the Delts' squad. Don's play on the intramural courts was outstanding this season. He was well deserving of the honor he received.

BANQUET OPENS PLEDGE TRAINING

Delta Kappa's pledge training period got off to a gala start, March 5, in the form of a combined banquet honoring the new pledge class and several rushees.

After dinner everyone joined in for a lengthy session of group singing, which has become a popular pastime for the Delts. Bill Rogers and his faithful uke supplied the accompaniment.

Under the guidance of Pledgemaster Jim Simpson, the big brother system has been installed again for the first time since the war. Every week the pledges and their big brothers, along with other members, gather at one of the local restaurants for dinner. This and numerous activities are designed to bring the pledges into a closer brotherhood with the rest of the chapter.

Delta Lambda—Oregon State

Highlighting last term's events was a two-day visit by our President, Harold Brenton, accompanied by Hugh Shields, Executive Vice-President, and John Nichols, the Western Division President. Monday noon a banquet was held, to which were invited Oregon State's President and Dean of Men. This was preceded by a buffet dinner Sunday evening, followed by a social get-together, which was enjoyed by everyone. Attending this event were many alumni who became acquainted with President Brenton.

This was the second time in Delta Lambda's history that the national President had been here, and it will be remembered a long time by those present as a wonderful visit with our interesting President.

THREE MAKE HONORARIES

Carrol Davies was initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary, which requires a 3.5 the first term or a 3.5 average for the entire freshman year.

Bob Turina achieved Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary. Membership is based on a person's scholarship, fellowship, and character.

Delta Mu—Idaho

Delta Mu is doubly proud of its long, outstanding record in the Interfraternity Council. This pride was freshly renewed when Darwin Cogswell was recently elected president after holding the office of vice-president during the past year. Not only did it break a precedent for a vice-prexy to be elected president, but emphasized the fact that since 1944 Delts have occupied responsible positions in this interfraternity organization. During these six years of consecutively holding office, two presidencies, three vice-presidencies, a secretaryship, and a treasury office were in the hands of Delts. This is the way it stands:

- 1944-45—Bob Gardner, vice-president.
- 1945-46—Bob Dalstrom, treasurer.
- 1946-47—Clark Armstrong, secretary.
- 1947-48—George South, vice-president.
- 1948-49—Dick Boyle, president.
- 1949—Darwin Cogswell, vice-president.
- 1950—Darwin Cogswell, president.

BOYLE ELECTED PHI BETA KAPPA

Louis Boyle takes first place among those tapped for national honoraries by making Phi Beta Kappa. Louis has also been active in both chapter and campus activities as a member of Greek caucus, Phi Eta Sigma, KUOI radio announcer, scholarship chairman, and housemanager.

Other members tapped or initiated into national honoraries include Gordon Henning and Tom Bergerud, Phi Eta Sigma; Bob Webb, Alpha Zeta; Bob Peterman, Kappa Delta Pi; Robert Rawlins, Kenny West, Bill Peterson, John Kugler, John Edwards and David Lau, Alpha Phi Omega; John Kugler and Elroy Brandt, Pershing Rifles.

The seventeenth annual Russian Ball is now another page in the scrapbook. With its unique costumes, beards, and decorations which distinctively portray Imperial Russia, it is undoubtedly the biggest social event of the year.

Being the only campus dance to begin early in the afternoon, it starts with a smorgasbord followed by various games and activities, such as bingo and card playing.

A large crowd of Delts and their guests, arrayed in colorful peasant, noblemen, or Cossack costumes, attend the evening ball. The dance programs, in accordance with the theme, are miniature newspapers entitled "The Daily Shirker," a highly satirical paper containing many "take-offs" on members and pledges alike.

Once again, the old tradition of being the "friendliest house on campus" was apparent, for at the dance one could easily find representatives from almost every group on the campus.

Delta Xi—North Dakota

The first Winter Week-end Carnival, sponsored by Blue Key, was highly successful in all respects. The UND "Sioux" swept the home hockey series with the University of Minnesota, and Delta Xi took top honors out of a field of 25 entrants in the snow sculpture contest. Our winning entry consisted of two hockey goalies, one representing the "Sioux" and the other the University of Minnesota. The slogan "Goals against the Gophers" was quite appropriate.

FRATERNITY PRESIDENT VISITS

The chapter was honored with a visit by Harold Brenton, national President; Hugh Shields, Executive Vice-President; and Division President John Nichols on February 27, 1950. Other guests included University President John C. West; Assistant to the President D. J. Robertson; Chapter Faculty Advisor Wilson Laird; and Chapter Advisor Mr. Merritt Welch.

HOCKEY TEAM UNDEFEATED

The Delta Xi hockey sextette finished the 1949-50 season without a defeat, and the touchball team copped first place in the Bomber League. The bowling team also came up from a slow start to take fourth place.

Delta Omicron—Westminster

For the second time in four years, Delta Omicron has won the Intramural Basketball Trophy with one of the finest teams that has ever been seen at Westminster. Because of the evenly matched teams, league play was highly competitive.

MISSOURI ORATORICAL CHAMPION

Brother Bob Lowary, '50, a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Pi Kappa Delta, was awarded the State Championship in Oratory at the State Forensic Tournament in Warrensburg, Missouri, on March 4. Bob was selected over a field of eleven other contestants and will represent the state of Missouri at the national tournament to be held at Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, the latter part of April.

FOURTH DELT JOINS O.D.K.

Another member of Delta Omicron, Tom Williams, has been selected for O.D.K., the national honor fraternity. Membership in O.D.K. is based on leadership, service, scholarship, and character. Men are judged for eligibility by a point system, with 15 points needed for membership. One major honor must be included in the 15. In Tom's case the major honor came from scholarship.

Only two per cent of the student body may belong to O.D.K. at the same time. Other brothers already in O.D.K. are William Tate, Bob Lowary, and Howard Whiteway.

Tom is a graduating senior from St. Joseph, Missouri. He is a premed and a leader in activities, both in the Shelter and in campus life.

Delta Pi—U.S.C.

Three ancient automobiles have made Delta Tau Delta the most talked-of fraternity at the University of Southern California.

"Chuckled-over" would perhaps be a better title. Delts and their friendly jalopies have clowned their way into being the sensation of an otherwise ordinary school year.

It all started last August, when three Delta Pi brothers pooled their finances ($35) to buy a discarded 1927 Model-T Ford from a local junk yard.

The car had a personality. It had to be coaxed to wake up in the morning. The front windshield was smashed in, giving it the appearance of a kid who just lost his first fight. The rear end sagged uncertainly, causing the car to waddle from side to side.

Delta Pi members dubbed it the "Delta Queen."

Rush season got under way, and the Delta Queen made her campus debut. While other fraternities hustled their rushees off to parties in impressive, plush convertibles, Delts paraded their guests in the weather-worn, shabby model-T. Rushees had to hug the sides, the fenders, and running boards; they were bounced and jostled; they were deafened by the roar of a straining motor; and—they loved it.

The school immediately adopted the Queen as sort of an informal mascot. SC yell leaders were chauffeured to every home football game in the Delta Queen. Students used her free taxi service between Fraternity Row and the University. Notes scribbled on her sides added 1927 atmosphere—"Keep Cool With Coolidge," etc.

One day in February a brother drove a 1929 Cadillac touring car up in front of the Shelter. Truly an aristocratic machine, it was immediately named the "Delta King" and was pressed into service for the house. More than a personality, someone observed, this car "has quality."

New Delta Shelter at Oklahoma A. & M.

Within less than a week another salvaged auto came into the Delta Pi family and was christened the "Delta Prince." It had once been the front section of a 1925 model-T truck and looked like a folded-up version of the Queen. The Prince took its place behind the other jalopies, but it too had cultivated personality. . . an outboard battery . . . a crank . . . all the comforts of home 25 years ago.

Delta Pi has benefited greatly from the friends these old cars have won by being friendly to everyone.

Delta Rho—Whitman

Whitman Delts bid a fond farewell to the last of the original eight founders of Delta Rho who are being graduated this year. These men who have served in practically every possible position in the chapter are Jack Davis, Chuck Daiger, Art De Boer, Fred Ladd, Roy Nilson, Jake Van House, and Gordon Zerbetz. Aside from being a guiding influence under which the chapter has progressed successfully, these men have proved a source of inspiration to the whole group and deserve a vote of thanks from everyone in the house.

Our thanks also go to Chuck Whitmore, who, in his capacity as steward, has managed to make the kitchen show a profit at the end of its first year. Chuck devoted a good part of his time last summer to the setting up of the table and through efficient management has paid the cost of the kitchen's capital equipment from operating profits.

NEW ADVISER NAMED

Delta Rho recently installed a new chapter adviser, Bob Parsons, in place of Reese Lamb who has guided the chapter since its beginning in 1947. The chapter sincerely appreciates Reese's great help and good advice when a little help meant so much. Also leaving us is Dr. Richard L. Woolbert, former faculty adviser, and his place will be filled by Mr. Robert Comegys, a Whitman professor.

BANQUET FOR FRATERNITY OFFICIALS

On March 2 the chapter was honored by the presence of President Brenton, Executive Vice-President Shields, and Western Division President Nichols, who stopped over on their way to the Regional Conference at Seattle. A banquet was held that evening for the officers; Dr. Chester Maxey, President of Whitman College; Dr. Haigh, head of the Chemistry Department; Dr. Charles Armstrong, Dean of Administration; Mr. Robert Comegys, faculty adviser; and several prominent alumni, including Bob Parsons, Dick Lamb, and Paul Troeh.

Delta Tau—Bowling Green

Versatile Don Eaton, cartoonist and artist extraordinary, has originated a new comic strip for the Bee Gee News, student publication at Bowling Green State University, and in so doing has brought no little fame to the Delt chapter.

Don, who is a sophomore in Art Education, has labeled his newest brainchild the "Kampus Kopp." His creation, a result of spare-time doodling, developed into a four panel strip and, as a result of encouragement from his brothers, can now be seen in the weekly edition of the school newspaper.

Beset by problems comparable to those of the professional cartoonist, Don usually finds that it takes approximately three hours to transform an idea into a finished strip. The "Kampus Kopp" is an original character creation similar to George Baker's "Sad Sack," although the cop is a little more voluble. College rules, situations, friends, and Fraternity brothers all contribute ideas for the antics of the Kopp.

If special recognition is ever given to those who have been active in the campus literary circles here at Bowling Green, Delta Tau Delta will receive a large share of the honors. Since 1947 "Delts" (then old Kappa Tau) have dominated the editorial staff of the Eyas, the campus literary magazine.

The Eyas, published once a semester, accepts contributions of short stories, essays, poetry, and photographs from members of the student body.

William "Bill" Leiser, '49, of Dover, Ohio, was the first of what may prove to be a long succession of Delt editors of the Eyas, serving the 1948-49 school year.

William Wagner, '50, and Gus Horvath, '50, succeeded Leiser as coeditors. Both served under Leiser, Wagner as poetry editor and Horvath as short story editor.

With the graduation of Gus Horvath in February, Carl Huston was named to replace him as coeditor.

The latest Delt addition to the Eyas staff is Al Iandolo of Brooklyn, New York, now serving as publicity manager.

Besides editing the Eyas last year, Leiser, Wagner, and Huston also established a new honorary society on campus. Known as the "Lucians," it is a literary society for staff members of the magazine and contributors.

Delta Upsilon—Delaware

Due to a concentrated scholarship program, Delta Upsilon was able to move to third place scholastically among the fraternities on campus.

As a result of his extra hard work, Bob McFarlin has been initiated into Tau Beta Pi. During his stay at college, Bob has been a member of the varsity football team and E-52, the University's dramatic club.

RUSH IS SUCCESSFUL

Rush week was successful this year. Sixteen top men selected Delta Tau Delta as their Fraternity. These pledges have already shown their interest in such extra-curricular activities as wrestling, lacrosse, choir, and band. Jim Russell was rushing chairman and is to be congratulated for the fine job he did.

ATTEND WASHINGTON BANQUET

On March 2, 25 Delta Upsilon actives traveled 125 miles to Washington and the Washington Founders Day banquet. We still haven't forgotten the wonderful reception given us by both the alumni and the actives from George Washington and Maryland.

Delta Chi—Oklahoma A. & M.

On June 1, we brothers of Delta Chi will happily take possession of our new chapter house. The house is located on a corner lot—conveniently reached from the school campus and from the other fraternity and sorority houses. The true Dutch Colonial style architecture lends itself to an ideal Delta Shelter. Plans for complete redecorating and refurbishing will keep members and pledges alike plenty busy for a while after school ends in May. The house will be finished and ready for rush week in September.

ANNIVERSARY BALL

The first annual "Anniversary Ball," which was in celebration of the installation of Delta Chi last May, was a huge success. The formal dance held on March 10 was preceded by a gala open house at the Shelter for all Delts and their dates.

HENRY JUSTIN ALLEN, Baker, '91, former Governor of Kansas, United States Senator, and newspaper editor and publisher, died January 17, 1950, at the age of 82.

Mr. Allen began his newspaper career in Kansas in 1894, as editor of The Manhattan Nationalist. Later he owned and published several other Kansas newspapers until 1907, when he acquired the Wichita Beacon.

During World War I he went to France under the auspices of the American Red Cross and organized the "home communication service" of that organization.

While abroad he was elected Governor of Kansas and served in this office from 1919 to 1923. In 1924 he was named as a special commissioner to investigate the Near East Relief and traveled in Southern Russia, Armenia, Syria, Turkey, Greece, Palestine, and Persia.

He served for a period at this time of his life as a special adviser to the state department in Washington on the preparation of a treaty between the United States and Canada governing the development of the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes for navigation and power.

In 1928 Mr. Allen was appointed to fill out the unexpired senatorial term of Charles Curtis, who had been elected Vice-President of the United States. Later he served for a time as president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and he was director of publicity for the Republican Party in the 1928 and 1932 campaigns.

He became editor of the Topeka State

Akron

The Akron Alumni Chapter is proud of its part in the successful installation of Delta Omega at Kent State University. The committee, of which John Hart, Beta Phi, '31, was chairman, along with about thirty members of the Akron Alumni Chapter, devoted a lot of time and energy in co-operating with the KSU undergraduates and the Central Office.

The proceedings for the week end moved along with the least amount of delay, all had a good time, and the Akron Alumni Chapter, in co-operation with the committee, was able to give the new chapter its robes and over $200 in cash.

We wish to welcome the alumni of Delta Omega Chapter into the Fraternity and extend them a cordial invitation to attend our meetings on the third Wednesday evening of each month at Semler's Hotel. We expect to have some meetings in Kent in co-operation with the new chapter and be of all the assistance we possibly can.

The following new officers have been elected for the coming year: W. Randle Truogg, Ohio, president; Al Heston, Carnegie Tech, vice-president; and Dr. Louis P. Carabelli, Kenyon, secretary.

We are extremely sorry to lose Clifford S. Hughes, Ohio, '33, who as secretary-treasurer the past year did yeoman work for the alumni both locally and in helping in the work for Delta Omega Chapter. He has accepted a position with National Distillers Chemical Corporation as Safety and Personnel Director at Ashtabula, Ohio.

We expect to have a good delegation to the Karnea at Columbus, Ohio, and hope to see you there.

DR. LOUIS P. CARABELLI

Ashtabula

Letting every Delt know his responsibility for keeping America free, William A. (Dutch) Keslar, Gamma Upsilon, insured the success of our Founders Day meeting held at the Swallows in Ashtabula on March 23, 1950. "Dutch" is the president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Ohio and devotes most of his time and effort in stirring Americans everywhere to stand up and fight for their liberty. Seventeen brothers attended this meeting. We welcomed into membership Clifford L. Hughes, Beta, former secretary of the Akron Alumni Chapter; David S. Nantz, Delta Epsilon; and Cort Turner, Beta Nu. These three are with National Distillers who are in the process of completing a $10 million plant in Ashtabula.

We have greatly missed Robert Hoisington, Beta Kappa, who accepted the post of manager of the city of Springfield, Ohio, shortly after the first of the year. Bob was not only a fine city manager of Ashtabula, but a real Delt who answered every call.

Brothers Madison Humphrey, Ab Lampson, Richard Baldwin, Ray DeLaMotte, and Ernest Hewins represented our chapter at the Kent State installation and reported the installation the finest Fraternity Ritual they had ever experienced. Our chapter had worked diligently for the acceptance of this undergraduate chapter and is proud that the charter membership included Kenneth Webb of Ashtabula.

Among recent meetings, one of the most enjoyable affairs was a joint social meeting with the Phi Gamma Delta Alumni Chapter of Ashtabula, held on January 23, 1950. Not having a University Club or other Greek association in this area, the meeting represented an innovation, and its gratifying success assured that similar meetings would be held in the near future. There is an immediate need for graduates of all fraternal organizations to ally themselves to withstand the attacks of the enemies of institutions such as our American fraternity system, and such group

For the 43 years since the Thirty-ninth Karnea at Chicago in 1907, Delta Tau Delta has continuously held the record for attendance at fraternity conventions. Three successive new highs have since been set by the Fraternity. Peak attendance was recorded in 1946, also at Chicago, when 1,055 Delts registered.

Although the legislative voting majority is properly in the hands of the undergraduate delegates, nearly 75 per cent of a Karnea registration is Delt alumni, only a small number of whom are official alumni chapter delegates.

There is something about Delta Tau Delta and a Karnea that impells this large number of Delt alumni to return to the altar fires of the Fraternity in answer to the "Call of the Karnea." There are hundreds of "Karnea Hounds," who have achieved that status by attendance at five or more Karneas; there will be many more when:

The Sixtieth Karnea convenes at Columbus, Ohio, August 23-26, with the dynamic Columbus Alumni Chapter as sponsors and hosts. From indications to date, we confidently expect to exceed all previous Karnea registration records!

YOU will not want to miss this most interesting forthcoming Karnea Program!

Alumni support will be further enhanced this spring and summer as the many Delt alumni groups, in areas not now covered, complete their organizational plans for new alumni chapters. The Arch Chapter looks forward to receiving several new petitions for alumni chapter charters for action prior to the Sixtieth Karnea.

Another wave of Delt seniors is advancing towards graduation in June. Immediate contact by the new graduates with Delt alumni in the area in which they locate can be mutually beneficial. Delt alumni and alumni chapters can be of material assistance to these new alumni Delts in getting oriented as they take up their new status in your vicinity; the new graduates can add and bring much to regional alumni activities!

See you at the Karnea!

Joel W. Reynolds

Secretary of Alumni

meetings seem one answer to this challenge.

With the Karnea being held in Ohio this year, President Dick Baldwin appointed a committee composed of Clifford Hughes, Madison Humphrey, and George Maynard to see that all of the Deltas in this area are fully informed as to all the plans for the Karnea, and also to arrange for a real representation at the meetings by the Deltas of Ashtabula County.

For those graduates of Gamma Upsilon who are still in doubt, Dick Regner remains a confirmed bachelor. Robert Buckett, Alpha, recently sold his girl on the advantages of being a Delta Queen.

Our regular meetings are being held every other month as dinner affairs at various hotels, but if any of you stop over in Ashtabula, we can always gather enough brothers for a get-together.

JOHN M. KERGER

Atlanta

The Atlanta Alumni Chapter continues having monthly meetings the first Monday in each month.

The April meeting was held at the residence of Brother George Hill on Dellwood Drive and a nice attendance was enjoyed. After a brief and interesting business meeting, the remainder of the evening was devoted to cards, refreshments, and plenty of conversation.

The May meeting will be an outing held at North Fulton Park. The active chapters in the state will be invited to attend and all alumni are urged to attend. Last year we had an excellent representation. In addition to a very nice spread of eats and drinks, there will be almost any form of recreation available, including golf and softball.

Although we have had very nice attendance at all meetings, the same brothers are attending and we are very desirous of seeing some new faces. If you want one night a month of real fellowship and enjoyment, please try to make the next meeting. Meetings are announced by mail notices, and if you have not been receiving them and wish to, please drop the under-signed your name and address.

FRED H. DENDY, JR.

Chicago

The chapter celebrated Founders Day with a luncheon at the Union League Club Saturday, March 11. About 100 Deltas, graduates and undergraduates, heard an inspiring talk on the Fraternity by Brother John Hutchinson, Beta Pi, '22, who is doing an excellent job as chapter advisor and house corporation president for the Beta Pi boys.

Dr. Theodore Van Dellen, Beta Pi, '32, could have held the attention of the brothers for the rest of the evening with his most informative and well delivered history of the new drugs ACTH and Cortisone, in the development of which he shared. But election of officers for the coming year was on the agenda and was efficiently conducted by the retiring President, Ralph Butz, Gamma Theta, '32. It resulted in the naming of C. C. "Bunker" Bean, Beta, '10, as president; Harold Bever, Beta Psi, '20, vice-president; Don Cranston, Beta Psi, '14, treasurer; and Larry Clark, Delta Nu, '48, secretary. The meeting adjourned with the singing of "Delta Shelter" led by the undergraduates from Beta Pi and Gamma Beta.

The new directory for the Chicago Alumni Chapter is now at press. It is hoped that its appearance will put new energy into the activities of the Chicago Alumni Chapter, which welcomes all visiting Deltas at its weekly luncheons, Mondays, 12:30 p. m., Hardings at the Fair.

LAWRENCE A. CLARK

Cincinnati

The Cincinnati Alumni Chapter started off the second half of the century with an enthusiastic program. Bill Schwarburg, Cincinnati Bearcat football coach and Gamma Xi of '36, gave us the coach-eye-view of the Glass Bowl contest between the "Bearcats" and Toledo as he narrated the game movies. We adjourned to Robert Heuck's (Gamma Xi, '13) rathskeller where Fred Tower, Gamma Xi, '31, our new president, presided over the evening's program.

On Sunday, February 19, the alumni greeted 19 new initiates of Gamma Xi's 91st Initiation, and paused to hear Garth Slater, Gamma Upsilon, '38, former field secretary, present his requirements of what a good active and alumni chapter should be. He expressed the need of closer co-operation between the Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky Alumni Chapters.

We hope to be in the new chapter hall, dedicated to the memory of our beloved Clarence "Dad" Pumphrey, for next year's formal initiation, and the Chapter House Association has made commitments along this line to assure this. At the banquet, Herb Schroth, Gamma Xi, '16, was praised for his faithful and constant effort in the campaign to make the new chapter hall a reality. As Dr. Howard Fischbach, Sr., Chi, '06, put it, "If there is one man who has kept this effort going, it is Herb Schroth."

On March 4, the Shelter was crowded with such "old" alums as Otis Games, Gamma Xi, '20, and John Maescher, to hear Robert Heuck, that inimitable raconteur, commentate his color slides of Europe and England. Again the large turnout testified to the worth of the increased program activities of Orv Retsch, Gamma Xi, '49, and his crew.

We were saddened in March by two events. Ralph Sigmund, faithful and enthusiastic alumnus since his graduation in 1922, left our fellowship to pursue his work in California. A special Tuesday luncheon meeting, on March 14, was called in his honor, and he was given a rousing send-off. Robert C. Gowdy, Gamma Xi, '06, nationally known physicist, Dean Emeritus of the College of Engineering of the University of Cincinnati, and active member of our chapter, passed on to the Chapter Eternal on March 27.

The 1950 officers promise to make this year a year to compare to, as far as outstanding activities and programs are concerned. All alumni in the Cincinnati area are urged to try to attend our Tuesday luncheon gatherings at the Cincinnati Club and our regular May meeting. A prominent baseball figure will be the principal speaker.

RICHARD REIMAN

Columbus

The high light of the past month was Founders Day, March 3, observed by a dinner at the beautiful Rainbow Room of the Columbus Athletic Club. Over 100 Deltas were in attendance, 60 of whom were alumni. There were no formal speeches, but entertainment was afforded by a beautiful song contest between the Mu's at Ohio Wesleyan, who will hold the cup for the coming year, and the Beta Phi's at Ohio State, who also entertained with a fine magician's show.

The great topic for Founders Day, as it has been for the Columbus Alumni Chapter for the past six months, was the plans for the colossal Half-Century Karnea to be held in Columbus, August 23-26. Ed West, Ohio Wesleyan, '23, chairman of the General Karnea Committee, introduced the various committee chairmen who outlined their special plans. Gordon Jones, Editor of THE RAINBOW, who made a trip from Indianapolis for the occasion, outlined the importance of the Sixtieth Karnea. It is certain that the Columbus Half-Century Karnea this summer will be the finest and the largest of all time. The Columbus Alumni Chapter takes this opportunity to extend to all members of Delta Tau Delta everywhere a cordial and a warm invitation to "COME TO COLUMBUS AND DISCOVER AMERICA" at the great Sixtieth Karnea.

The Delt Wives Club is holding a Bridge-Dance, at which there will be a drawing for a television set, Friday, April 28, at the Seneca Hotel for the benefit of the planned new Beta Phi house. The attendance at the weekly alumni luncheons each Friday at the University Club has been extremely gratifying. We welcome any visiting Delts who may be in the city.

DEAN STRASBAUGH

Dallas

On February 2, 1950, the Dallas alumni had a banquet at the Melrose Hotel and elected officers. They are: president, Sam W. Clark; vice-president, Byron Cain; and secretary-treasurer, Joe Nash.

The chapter voted to hold a state-wide Founders Day Banquet in 1951. Judge John A. Rawlins was appointed to write a letter to start publicity on it.

Southern Methodist University asked us to get a principal speaker for its Greek Week. General Albert Sydney Johnson contacted several internationally known speakers, but none could accept; the assignment was very capably handled by our own Elmer Scott.

The chapter voted to meet at different places each time; so a committee of Billy Ben Huckaby and Bruce Williams (formerly chapter adviser of Delta Chi) was appointed. The first meeting under this plan was March 6 at the Dallas Athletic Club Terrace Room.

W. F. JACOBY, JR.

Dayton

Plans are being made for a big family picnic in the spring or early summer. These family affairs are always a success.

The featured speaker at the March meeting was Brother Reed who reminisced on his undergraduate days at George Washington. The usual discussion followed, being led by Henry Gerth and Judge Jackson.

Our very capable president, Dr. R. Dean Dooley, will report at the April meeting on the Northern Division Regional Conference recently held at Greencastle, Indiana. The busy doctor was selected as chapter delegate and was happy to accept as it permitted a return to his own school and chapter.

Dayton will probably be well represented at the Karnea in Columbus next August.

We always extend a cordial invitation to any Delts in the vicinity of Dayton to join in the fellowship of our meetings, held at the Biltmore Hotel on the first Friday noon of every month.

Greater New York

Our biggest bit of news since we last made ourselves heard was our Founders Day dinner, which was held on Friday, March 3, at Whytes Restaurant here in the city. We had a very nice turnout of close to 100 brothers representing in all 17 chapters. Guest speaker of the evening was Dr. Frank R. Ferlino, who is connected with the Medical Board of Examiners for the New York Boxing Commission. He gave us an excellent and interesting talk on medical procedures in the sports world.

We also had a color movie, "Operation Crossroads," on the atomic explosion at Bikini, which was explained and amplified by Bob Emott, one of the brothers who was there as an observer.

We are continuing to build up our active membership and urge all those brothers passing through the area or who have recently moved to the "big city" to get in touch with the secretary for further details on various luncheon and evening meetings.

RICHARD J. DIAZ

Houston

Houston Delts were honored recently with a visit from one of our more noted brothers. Ed Angly, foreign correspondent and writer, has been in Houston for the past few weeks working on his new book. After completing his book, Brother Angly will return to New York.

President Troxell has appointed a rush committee which will work with the active chapters in this area during summer rush. Dub Singleton has been appointed chairman of the rush committee, with Perin White serving as a member. The committee is anxious to receive names of rushees from the alumni along with any available information concerning the rushee. President Troxell emphasized the importance of summer rush at our monthly luncheon and urged co-operation from all Delts in the Greater Houston Area.

Other standing committees appointed by President Troxell were: an entertainment committee headed by Charles Westmoreland with Otto Wymer and Jim Pryor; a Delt promotion committee with Claxton Parks and Ed Richardson; a membership committee with Hirst Suffield and Walter Babel as members.

Luncheons are still held on the second Friday of each month at the Houston Club. All Delts in this area are urged to attend.

BILL HAWKINS

Indianapolis

The annual Indiana State Founders Day banquet and dance, held on February 25, was one of the most enjoyable in recent years.

Brother Russell I. Richardson, Beta Zeta, '23, gave the principal address which covered conditions in England today.

Brother Harold B. Tharp, past President of Delta Tau Delta, presented the Distinguished Service Chapter Award to Brother Fred C. Tucker, Sr., Beta Beta, '08. The citation climaxed almost a half century of loyal and unselfish service to our Fraternity by Brother Tucker.

The chapter stunts were excellent. Beta Beta Chapter nosed Gamma Lambda Chapter for first-place honors. Beta Zeta Chapter received the annual scholarship award which is given to the Indiana chapter with the highest scholastic index.

A group of over 250 couples attended the dance that followed the banquet. They were treated to some fine singing by Brother Robert Tam, Gamma Lambda, '51, and by the nationally famous Gamma Lambda quartette.

Our sincere thanks for this party go to Brother William Welch and his committee of Richard Englehart, Lloyd Rossebo, and Fred Hill.

WADE L. NEAL

Kansas City

The new year saw the annual election of officers of the Kansas City Alumni Chapter. The large turnout for the election made us feel that the interest is still strong in this area. The new officers for the year 1950 are: Ralph Black, Georgia Tech, president; Ken Johnson, Kansas, vice-president; Walt Loudon, Kansas, secretary; Jim Lowry, Missouri, treasurer.

For those alumni who are constantly moving into this area or passing through we would like to mention again that our weekly luncheons are held at the University Club, 918 Baltimore, 12:15, on Thursdays. We have been having very good turnouts of late and wish to keep them up. Herbert A. Moore, with the Jamar-Olmen Construction Company, a good K-State alumnus, was one of our recent luncheon attendants.

Brother George Leonard, Kansas, has purchased a new home near 86th and Holmes Street, Kansas City 5, Missouri. He plans to continue his legal work with USA from an office in Kansas City, Kansas.

Our Founders Day banquet was April 14 at the Pine Room in the Union Station. Representatives from our five local chapters—Kansas, Kansas State, Missouri, Westminster, and Baker—were invited.

The banquet was the kickoff for our grads to acquaint themselves with the local chapters as a help for next year's rushing. Plans are now under way for a spring get-together and additional rushing.

President Ralph Black has informed our alumni group of the Half-Century Karnea, and several are planning to attend. Kansas City alumni representative will be chosen at a later date.

We were happy to welcome at recent Thursday luncheons such men as Fred Gould, Wisconsin, '05; Dwight Steele, Illinois, '33; Bill Icenogle, Westminster, '47.

W. R. LOUDON

Lexington

Our state this year is observing what has been termed "My Old Kentucky Homecoming," a program to encourage former Kentuckians now living in other areas to visit their old state again, and the idea has brought no veto from Delts in the land of the Blue Grass.

Those in the Lexington alumni group turned their efforts early in the spring toward working up a good turnout for the annual Founders Day observance of Delta Epsilon Chapter, a banquet on May 13, recalling installation of the University of Kentucky chapter on May 10, 1924.

Carlisle (Windy) Myers is the new Lexington alumni president, his election a reward for the good work he did in telephoning and in mailing out a lot of notices during the past year while serving as secretary. Chuck Bohmer is the retiring president. William R. (Pat) Patterson, apparently back in Lexington to stay after spending several years in Detroit, now faces the labors of the secretary's job.

LAURENCE SHROPSHIRE

Los Angeles

The Los Angeles Alumni Chapter is continually enjoying visitations from many Deltas. Of course, members of the local active chapters at U.C.L.A. and U.S.C. are ever present. Faithfuls from U.S.C. have been Jack Ewing, Don Thomas, Guff Worth, Gene Biedebach, Doug McDonald, Judd Roberts, Harry Aster, Bob Wilcox, and Tom Bunn. From U.C.L.A.: Dick Cruise, Ray Beindorf, John Chandler, Bob Van Dyke, Bill Rainbolt, and Rich Guerin.

Jay Perrin and Fred Montgomery are doing a great job as chapter advisors for Delta Pi and Delta Iota, respectively.

Recent visitors have been Reed Shafer, Purdue, from Greenville, Ohio, and William Leib, Indiana, now living at Santa Monica.

At our recent meeting at Taix's Restaurant, we were privileged to hear from Brother Henry A. Babcock, M.I.T., now a consulting engineer of Los Angeles. He has gained public recognition by his proposed solution to the Los Angeles traffic problem. His plan is known as the Babcock Plan. He illustrated his interesting and informative talk with charts and photo slides.

At another of the monthly dinners, our genial and lively Brother Gerry Steward, Stanford, took over and held the audience spellbound with his dissertation, "Now, It's This Way."

More than 190 Deltas in the Los Angeles Area gathered "round the banquet board" at the University Club, Tuesday evening, March 2, and paid tribute to the eight brothers who founded our first chapter at Bethany College in 1859. It was a grand occasion, highlighted by the address of Dr. Joseph A. Brandt, Oklahoma, '21, presently head of the Graduate School of Journalism at the University of California at Los Angeles and former President of the University of Oklahoma. Brother Brandt's subject dealt most interestingly on the topic which gives rise to a hopeful future and possibilities for a peaceful world.

Dr. Brandt was introduced by Brother

The banquet was presided over by Brother W. N. "Bill" Schwab, Kentucky, '24, president of the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter. President Schwab introduced Dick Cruise, president of Delta Iota; Don Thomas, president of Delta Pi; and James "Bud" Bottoms, vice-president of Delta Psi. Each spoke briefly on "Delt Doings" and achievements at his respective active chapter and school.

Continuing with a precedent started a year ago, the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter again awarded Delt crest signet rings. On this memorable evening, the proud recipients were Al Schinnerer, Delta Pi; Ray Beindorf, U.C.L.A.; and George Carlson, Delta Psi.

This annual presentation is made to the outstanding member of each of the active chapters. Brother Frank Rethlefsen, Colorado, made the gifts speech; he effectively and eloquently related the merits and serious purpose which formed the basis for the awards.

Delt enthusiasm prevailed at an unusually high pitch. It was really a reunion that precipitated singing of many Delt songs—songs a la community style. Maestros who rallied to the occasion and directed the harmony were none other than "Hi" Stickney and Bill Warfield of U.C.L.A. and U.S.C. The gathering was held spellbound when treated by the U.C.L.A. "Deltones," a quintette of television and radio fame.

Delt acquaintances were renewed over and over again. Here and there in the large dining room were brothers in groups, rejoicing—Deltas from more than FORTY different chapters. Aside from the splendid attendance and interest of the local active chapters, the banquet was graced by the presence of Captain Paul Jones, Santa Barbara, now Director of Placements; Dan Ferguson and L. Nat Fitts, Chicago and Colorado, respectively, both past Presidents of the Western Division; Howard Mills, Western Reserve; Colonel George Rochester, Chicago; Roy Crocker, Cornell and California, perennial treasurer of the alumni chapter; Judge Thomas Cunningham of the Superior Court; W. G. "Blondy" Paul, Stanford; Gerald G. Stewart, Stanford; and Gordon Carey, Iowa and U.C.L.A.

Other out-of-towners who couldn't be kept away were Burton Clark, Baker (who came all the way from Visalia, California—250 miles) and Bob Taplin, Minnesota, now of Long Beach, who brought a group of Deltas from his city. There were also six from the active chapter at Santa Barbara, 100 miles distant.

As usual, no function would or could be successful without the arrangements committee. In there pitching were Brothers Herb McKenzie, Brown; C. B. "Bo" Elliott, Missouri; and Carl Jessen, Indiana. As weary Deltas trotted homeward on that evening, the following words were heard over and over again attesting the event: "It was one of the best Founders Day celebrations I ever attended."

WILLIAM N. SCHWAB

National Capital

On March 3, 1950, the National Capital Deltas held another whiz-bang Founders Day banquet. One of the reasons it was such a success was that we had an excellent banquet chairman in our former field secretary, John Oliver. Of course, he had some real help from Ed Young, Burr Christopher, Eric Collins, Ralph Wray, Ray Clark, and others.

Another reason was the splendid undergraduate turnout. We counted 96 of them. There were 36 Delta Sigma boys from Maryland University, 35 from Gamma Eta at George Washington, and 25 from Delta Upsilon at the University of Delaware! The Delaware boys and some of the alumni who attended had a trip of over 100 miles. As usual, Brother Russell Page and his group came over from Baltimore. That shows real Delt spirit and loyalty. We hope they will be with us at our next Founders Day banquet.

Los Angeles assembles a large throng to observe Founders Day, to hear Dr. JOSEPH A. BRANDT, noted educator and publisher.

The last reason, but certainly not the least, was our banquet speaker, Major General Douglas L. Weart, Commanding General of Fort Belvoir in Virginia. General Weart is a fine speaker, and we all thoroughly enjoyed his talk.

Sid Nyhus was our toastmaster for the evening, and although he swore up and down that it was his first attempt at such an assignment, he handled it like a veteran (jokes and all) and really did a swell job.

Each year the National Capital Alumni Chapter presents an award to the outstanding undergraduate in each of the nearby chapters. Each chapter selects its own member to receive the award. This year Gamma Eta selected Charles Crichton, Delta Sigma selected Terry Hatcher, and Delta Upsilon selected Arthur Diver. Congratulations are certainly in order to these three fine Deltas.

For those of you who haven't heard—Henry Price is no longer with us. Henry is now working for the Navy Department in San Francisco as legal counsel. We sorely miss him, for he was an enthusiastic worker for Delta Tau Delta and well-liked by all. We suppose the next time we hear from him he will have five children.

A man who has done a grand job all this year is Burr Christopher, our past president. Burr is one of our most faithful and loyal Deltas and is to be congratulated for guiding us through such a successful year.

The new officers elected on March 3 for the coming year are: E. Riggs Monfort, president; Harold H. Hill, vice-president; Ken Clark, treasurer; and Lowell H. Moran, secretary.

Riggs Monfort comes from a little college out in Ohio. Most of us never heard of it until Riggs came along. If you've met Riggs, you know its name, for he sings its praises continually. So to further Riggs' efforts, we had better say it is Kenyon College and Chi Chapter.

The first week in May the National Capital Deltas are looking forward to a golf tournament at the Argyle Country Club in Maryland.

LOWELL H. MORAN

Northern Kentucky

With a deadline staring over our shoulder and Vint Stegeman, president of the Northern Kentucky Alumni Chapter, riding herd on us, this report was forwarded prior to March 31, when our regular monthly meeting was scheduled. Plans were all in order for our first square dance with our Delta Dames, under the capable direction of Ollie Hunter, Ollie Hall, Garth Slater, and the "Ole Stewwinder," John "Boots" Wuest, the pride of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. A record-breaking attendance was anticipated.

Walter "Jacket" Vest continues to hold the title of being the "travelingest" Delt in the fold. He is a faithful attendant and completes a 50-mile round trip from his home in Walton, Kentucky, where he is applying his knowledge of Blackstone, habeas corpus, corpus delecti, and Corpus Christi.

We were glad to welcome to recent meetings Clem "Boone" Fennell, Ohio; Jim Founders Day in the nation's Capital.

Speaker was Major General DOUGLAS
WEART (third from right).

Decker, Illinois Tech; and Jack Mutchler, Miami.

Len Weakley and Johnny Bullock were slated to be on the missing list for the March 31 Highland Fling. Len and Johnny, both members of Senator Bob Taft's law firm (free adv.), were heading for New York to do some "lawin'."

We finally rooted Dan Fries, University of Cincinnati's All-American football star a few years ago, out of hiding and he has been attending meetings with regularity. Ditto for Bill Petty.

"Doc" Fred Stine and his Marge are now proud parents. It was a gal!

Bill Schwarberg, one of Cincinnati University's major football domos, is hard at work with spring practice. A meeting never passes unless the Cincinnati and the Miami get into a verbal free-for-all over the relative merits of the Redskins and the Cincy Bearcats.

Sue Casner was in town for the Christmas party, but her hubby, Kentucky's Jack, who deserted the Blue Grass State for the California sun, failed to make it on time.

Plans are already being discussed for our annual rush party in August. More than 50 prospective Deltas attended last August.

CAMERON COFFMAN

Oklahoma City

The big news from Soonerland is the Western Division Regional Conference which was held at the University of Oklahoma on March 17 and 18. Delta Alpha Pittsburgh Founders Day. BOB MILLER, MALCOLM CORNER, JIM LUDWIG, and BILL COLLINS. CORNER is alumni president.

Chapter was host and made the Conference a whopping success.

Hugh Shields and many other "Deltas of Distinction" attended the Conference. Charles B. Duffy, attorney from Ponca City and former state commander of the American Legion, was toastmaster at the Founders Day banquet held Friday night.

Delta Alpha alumni present included Eugene Chastain, John W. Nichols, John Herring, and Harry Gilbert, Oklahoma City; Lawrence "Honk" Wilson, Bob Bates, and Jack Harlow, Tulsa; Savoie Lottinville and Kenneth Harris, Norman; and Don Rodkey, Edmond. Nichols is President of the Western Division and presided over the business sessions at the Conference. Chastain, Duffy, and Lottinville are chartered members of Delta Alpha.

Many other outstanding Delt officials and guests and Oklahoma University officials contributed to the success of the Conference. Conferences of this type are truly wonderful sources of enlightenment for all, because they give one an opportunity to meet Brother Deltas from other chapters and to work out suitable solutions to important Fraternity problems.

GEORGE ANTHONY

Pittsburgh

Top event on the spring calendar, the annual Founders Day banquet, drew together over 100 Deltas from the Pittsburgh district to salute the beginning of Delta Tau Delta's ninety-second year. Meeting March 3 in Pittsburgh's Hotel Roosevelt, undergraduates from Pitt and W. & J. and alumni from a score of chapters heard Joel Reynolds, Secretary of Alumni, paint an encouraging picture of the state and future of the Fraternity.

Delta Tau Delta is growing at a pace undreamed of by her eight founders, Brother Reynolds declared, with new chapters, better financial condition than ever before, and important strides forward in undergraduate leadership and scholarship. Closer alumni-undergraduate co-operation in this latter field was urged by the Alumni Secretary, as a means of bolstering the Fraternity's standing in this important phase of college life.

Other high lights of the program included a brief report of the recent Eastern Conference, by A. J. (Bud) Murphy, Jr., President of the Division, and a description of the installation of Delta Omega Chapter at Kent State University, as witnessed by Norman MacLeod, past national President of the Fraternity.

A great burst of applause saluted the reading of a card from W. D. Brandon, W. & J., 1868, oldest living alumnus of Delta Tau Delta. Expressing regret at being unable to attend the Pittsburgh dinner because of previous commitments, Brother Brandon sought consolation in the fact that he has participated in quite a few Founders Day celebrations in his 85 years as a Delt.

Much of the credit for the fine turnout and interesting program go to Malcolm Corner, chairman of the 1950 Founders Day banquet. "Mac" was assisted by Bill Collins, Jim Ludwig, and Ken Query in arranging for the banquet and obtaining the services of the "Laughteteers," a group of young "singers" who kept the assembled Deltas in fits of laughter with their pantomime accompaniment of Spike Jones records.

Harris Hawkins, Pittsburgh insurance executive, was elected president of the chapter as the alumni took time out during the banquet to name officers for the next year. Also elected were: Malcolm Corner, vice-president; Bill Raines, secretary; and Bill Collins, for the second year in succession, treasurer.

Losing no time in getting the 1950-51 program rolling, Brother Hawkins named a committee to work out plans for the annual spring baseball dinner. Chairman Pete Chalfant, assisted by R. B. Scott, Harry Snyder, Art Stroyd, Bill Collins, and "Mac" Corner, set May 9 as the date for the dinner and game. As in years past, plans were made for Brother Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and John Galbreath, Delt co-owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, to head the program of entertainment. After the dinner at the University Club, the Deltas will move down to Forbes Field to see whether or not Brother Galbreath's Pirates can turn the tables on the "Bums" this year and give the partisan Pittsburgh alumni something to celebrate. Last year Brooklyn won the game on the night of the Delt banquet, exactly as Brother Rickey had predicted.

For the summer months, at least one golf party and a picnic are on the agenda for the outdoor men of the chapter. Of course, the Sixtieth Karnea will be the big event of the summer, since the proximity of the convention to Pittsburgh will make it possible for many local alumni to attend all or part of the four-day meeting. Although it is too early to start counting noses, the chapter should be well represented in Columbus next August.

BILL RAINES

Portland

First major Delt event in Portland of 1950 was the annual Honor Initiation conducted alternately by the Seattle and Portland Alumni Chapters, recognizing distinctive scholarship achievements by freshmen of Pacific Northwest active chapters. The initiation was held on Saturday, March 18, at the Multnomah Hotel in Portland. About 70 Deltas attended for the initiation of the two leading scholastic freshmen from Gamma Rho, Gamma Mu, Delta Rho, and Delta Lambda. Toastmaster for the event was Bill Collins, Gamma Rho. Bob Gilley, Gamma Mu, was main speaker for the evening. An address of welcome to all initiates and Deltas was made by Paul Eckelman, Gamma Rho, president of the Portland Alumni Chapter.

Pacific Northwest Deltas were recently honored by the presence of President W. H. Brenton, Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields, and John Nichols, President of the Western Division. President Brenton was the honored speaker at Gamma Rho's Founders Day banquet, after which Gamma Rho officers, officers of the Eugene and Portland Alumni Chapters, and the national and regional officers entered into a discussion of problems of mutual interest. A visit to Delta Lambda Chapter at Oregon State concluded this day's activities.

Delt names are making interesting news. Here are a few: Gene Rossman, Gamma Mu, appointed county commissioner for Multnomah County last year, will be running for the same office in the forthcoming elections. Jim Dunlap, son of William G. Dunlap, who is a charter member of Gamma Rho, was recently married in Silverton, Oregon. Dr. George Eagon, Chi, is now a welcome and hard working member of the Portland Alumni Chapter. In the interests of improving our weekly luncheons, investigations are now under way for a new Monday meeting place.

Looking forward with enthusiasm to the forthcoming Karnea, Portland Deltas will be represented by a group if at all possible. Again, we welcome all Deltas to attend our Monday luncheons.

DICK McNAMARA

Rochester

Sixteen enthusiastic members of the Rochester Alumni Chapter gathered at the University Club Friday evening, March 17, to celebrate the ninety-second anniversary of the founding of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity. The evening was a huge success, combining an excellent meal, an interesting and inspirational speaker, and the invigorating fellowship that can always be found when good Deltas gather together.

The principal speaker of the evening was Dr. Wilbourn E. Saunders, Brown, '16. A noted educator, an informed and inspiring minister, and a Christian gentleman, Dr. Saunders, through his life and work, has continually exemplified the tenets of Delta Tau Delta. At present he is the director of the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School.

Dr. Saunders spoke to us about the present trends and some of the shortcomings of our educational system, and his address was most enlightening and thought provoking. A question and answer period followed, centering around the question of what we, as college graduates, could do to help improve and further American education.

A short business meeting preceded the address, at which time President Frank Smith summarized the past year's activities and Secretary Bill Runyan presented a financial report. The nominating committee, headed by Herm Norton, presented the group with a selection of officers for the coming year. President Frank Smith and Vice-President Allan Fisher were unanimously re-elected to their respective positions, and J. Seward Smith was elected as secretary, replacing Bill Runyan who will be leaving Rochester this summer.

The first year of the Rochester Alumni Chapter since its return to active status has been an eventful one, and we all hope that it will continue to grow. Once again we would like to urge any new Deltas in the vicinity who are not on our mailing list to contact J. Seward Smith, c/o University Club, Rochester, New York.

BILL RUNYAN

Seattle

The most outstanding event of the winter quarter for the Seattle Alumni Chapter was the invitation to attend the Western Division Regional Conference and Founders Day Banquet sponsored by Gamma Mu Chapter. The banquet was held March 3 at the College Club in Seattle.

It was a very impressive gathering and provided the Pacific Northwest alumni and undergraduate students with an excellent opportunity to meet and talk with the Fraternity's national and Western Division officers. The main speaker of the evening was Harold Brenton, national President, who gave an inspirational and enlightening talk. Also present for the occasion were Hugh Shields, Executive Vice-President; J. W. Nichols, Western Division President; and H. J. Jepson, vice-president of the Western Division.

The master of ceremonies spot was very capably conducted by DeWitt "Dee" Williams, Gamma Mu, '29, prominent Seattle attorney.

In addition to the distinguished list of Fraternity officers and delegates from the western active chapters, there were in attendance many outstanding alumni from far and near: John J. "Jack" Sullivan, Gamma Mu, '09, Seattle lawyer, one of the original founders of Gamma Mu; H. H. Cloutier, Beta Eta, '07, who aided in organizing Gamma Mu; Ed Jones, Omicron; Cleo Kirby, Gamma Mu, Mayor of Monroe, Washington; Magnus Anderson, Gamma Mu, '30, Bow, Washington; Charles Higley, Rho, Hoboken, N. J.; Tom Sill, Gamma Mu, '44, Spokane; and many others whom this reporter did not have the opportunity to meet. Of course, recognition should also be given to James M. Bradford, Gamma Mu, '27, the perennial heckler, who contributed a very entertaining impromptu speech.

At the March meeting, Dick Dunnington, Gamma Mu, '44, gave an interesting and informative talk on his recent travels in Europe. He and his wife studied in Norway for several months. Also present at the meeting was Dick Wood, Gamma Mu, '38, who has been living in South America for several years.

By popular demand, the Seattle Alumni golf tournament will be held this year. The event is being chairmanned by Dick Pfeiffer, Gamma Mu, '44, and will be held at the Sand Point Golf and Country Club on May 5.

The many friends of Bob Whitely, Gamma Mu, '43, were shocked to learn of his untimely death at his home in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, during the latter part of December, 1949. Bob, before moving to Coeur d'Alene, was secretary-treasurer of the Seattle Alumni Chapter.

WILL TELLER

Syracuse

On February 16 the active chapter held a smoker and open house for the alumni chapter to show off the many improvements which have been made in the house in the past year. A goodly number of alumni showed up and reports were given by the house officers to the assembled alumni of progress and plans.

Founders Day was celebrated March 4, with initiation ceremonies at the house and a dinner at the University Club of Syracuse. Both the dinner and the initiation were well attended by alumni, and an outstanding talk was given by Professor Warren Shepard, Northwestern, '14.

Plans are under way for the annual meeting in April, at which time the delegates to the Karnea will be determined. Several alumni plan to attend, among whom are Forrest H. Witmeyer, president of the Syracuse Alumni Chapter; Fred Stone, chapter adviser to Gamma Omicron; and the undersigned, secretary. It will, indeed, be good to see old friends again and see the new crop of promising young Delts coming along.

Plans are well advanced by the alumni and active chapters for a renewal of the annual Battle of The Bat at the outing to be held May 13 at Ernie Deming's El Rancho Costo Too Mucho, and, if the crowd increases proportionately as it did last year, it will soon be necessary to buy another forty acres to accommodate the festivities.

The Syracuse Alumni Chapter wishes to take this opportunity officially to congratulate, within the fraternity, the Undergraduate Chapter Gamma Omicron on its outstanding record of achievement during the past year and a half since reactivation. The future is bright for the chapter and the alumni pledge their continuing support to its success.

ERNEST R. DEMING

Tampa

High point for Delts in the Tampa area in recent weeks was the big Founders Day banquet put on by Delta Zeta Chapter in Gainesville. The boys pulled out all the stops and put on a swell show.

The event also commemorated Delta Zeta's twenty-fifth year as a going concern at the University of Florida. Members of the Tampa Alumni Chapter who attended the big event were: Gary Ennis, Syd Lenfestey, Jack Boling, Ralph Morgen, A. K. Dickinson, Bob Allen, Sr., Gilbert Parker, and Sandy Geer. Brother Lenfestey delivered the talk of the evening, and Brother Gary Ennis, a charter member of Delta Zeta Chapter, also spoke briefly.

Brother Ennis, on behalf of President Cole and the Tampa Alumni Chapter, presented Delta Zeta with a check for $100 for its furniture fund.

Delta Zeta Chapter is to be commended for the top-notch celebration it planned for Founders Day. The event was well received by alumni from all over the state and did much to foster closer ties between the undergraduates and the alumni.

Plans for the spring and summer show promise of the most vigorous rush program ever staged in the Tampa area.

Delegates to the Sixtieth Karnea will be chosen at the next meeting of the chapter.

SANDY GEER

Topeka

Attendance has improved the past few months for the Topeka, Kansas, luncheons, and we are hoping to have good meetings all through the summer. At our January meeting we had our past president, Mike Oberhelman, as a speaker, who had just returned from New Orleans where he served as one of the officials of the Sugar Bowl game.

Vice-President Gail Wilson presided at our February meeting and filled in for the speaker that day. He is one of our most loyal members, and is especially well informed on real estate and housing conditions, and his talks on homes and housing are always welcomed by our group.

At our March luncheon, Fred Conger, manager of local Radio Station WREN, spoke on the subject of radio advertising, and the operation of a radio station, and we all enjoyed his talk. For April, our speaker will be Cliff Stratton, Washington correspondent of the Topeka Daily Capital, and we always look forward to having him with us.

We welcome Gordon Danielson, a new attorney in Topeka, and Ernest Rice, an assistant to the United States District Attorney, both new Delts here. We also welcome Clement Gibbs, who will assist his father in operating three clothing stores in Topeka. Ferd Voiland, Kansas State Printer, and Bert Mitchner, Director of Revenue, are two Kansas State officials whom we can usually count on to be present at our luncheons.

Any visiting Delts will be more than welcome if they will look us up. We are planning a picnic later in the summer.

FRANK F. HOGUELAND

Tulsa

Tulsa's recent loss is Los Angeles' gain in the recent transfer of our 1950 president, Bob Jones, back to California. Bob is 100 per cent Delt, for which the Stanford chapter undoubtedly deserves some credit for good undergraduate training. The alumni chapter as well as our new active chapter at Oklahoma A. & M. has benefited greatly from his unstinting effort and real organizing ability. All Tulsa Delts join his many other friends in wishing good luck to Bob and his wife, Lou. They are both good Delts.

Paul Fielding, previously executive vice-president, has stepped into Bob's shoes and already initiated a bang-up publicity program for the annual Easter Dance. The March 30 issue of the Tulsa Tribune carried a society page spread about the Fraternity nationally and locally with a cut of the alumni chapter officers. Besides Paul there were Keith Frazier, second vice-president; Harold Schultz, third vice-president; Bob Dow, treasurer; and Claude Gordon, secretary. What a crew!

The first stag dinner meeting of the year was held in February at the Tulsa Country Club with 24 enthusiastic Delts attending. Our search for a suitable location seems to be ended for we were served excellent food in complete privacy. The club left nothing to be desired. Ever-faithful Bob Bates had just undergone an operation and was unable to attend. He bounced back quickly, though, and was present at the March meeting, which also served as his birthday party. Many happy returns, Bob!

Also at the March meeting were such stalwarts as Harold MacDowell, Larry Wilson, Howard Newman, Parke Davis, Herick Babcock, and Clark Taylor. Harvey Heller and Larry Reis couldn't make it but had been present in February. We were mighty pleased to see Harlan Holstein out and hope he will continue to make it. Each meeting will be bigger and better than the last.

New President Paul Fielding says that the stag dinner meeting at the Tulsa Country Club has become a regular affair to be held on the second Tuesday of each month at 7:00 p. m. Twice a year the ladies, bless 'em, will join us to mellow the atmosphere and add their good companionship.

Speaking of ladies, our eligible bachelor, Gordon Watts, proved himself by marrying the loveliest gal in Mexico City. We met them the other day at lunch and can verify the accuracy of his boasts. Welcome to Tulsa, Mrs. Watts—we look forward to your being an active member of the Delt Wives Club.

At the March meeting Parke Davis outlined plans to build a new Shelter for Delta Chi at Stillwater. The actives have really been working over there and deserve every bit of help we can give them. Our immediate contribution to the new house will be the raising of $4,000 to finance the furnishings. Delta Chi is young and healthy and with strong alumni support will soon be tops on the A. & M. campus, as Delta Alpha is now at the University.

All alumni meetings this year have concentrated on plans for the annual formal Easter Dance, a tradition established in 1936. Like last year, the dance will be held at the Topaz Room of the Tulsa Hotel on Saturday night before Easter. As always, the actives and pledges of the Oklahoma active chapters, Delta Alpha and Delta Chi, are the invited guests of the Tulsa Alumni Chapter. When this is read the dance will be a pleasant memory adding to our anticipation of next year's event.

March 17 and 18 saw delegates from 13 active and 19 alumni chapters gather at the Delta Alpha Shelter for a Western Division Regional Conference. Bob Bates, who needs little urging to visit his Delt son, Bill, represented the Tulsa alumni. From all reports the Conference was a big success, and we believe John Nichols' advocacy of regional meetings for the spacious Western Division sounds mighty sensible.

Since the last report we welcome to the Tulsa fold Paul Peterson (Gamma Pi), Dale Edmundson (Delta Alpha and Delta Chi), and Jack Stewart (Delta Alpha). We are certainly glad to have you, fellows, and will look for you at each meeting.

With summer knocking at the door, the prime activity is rush. Each alumnus will be looking about for promising Delt material from Tulsa, and we ask that the active chapters not hesitate to enlist our assistance in contacting and entertaining their rushees.

CLAUDE GORDON

Wichita

The Wichita chapter was reorganized about two years ago, following a period of inactivity during the war, by Dr. Bert Bass, John Weatherwax, Dorth Coombs, and Jack Spines. They soon found that the large increase in population in Wichita also brought many new Delts, most of whom were anxious to have an active alumni chapter.

In the past two years our chapter has grown to be the largest alumni group in Wichita, boasting well over 100 active members. We now have meetings every month at the Lassen Hotel for luncheon. This takes place the last Wednesday of each month. We have also reactivated our annual Christmas dance. Always a popular party in the past, this last Christmas dance proved to be the most successful yet. It was attended by more than 350 couples, both Delt actives and alumni and their guests.

On March 29, we had the second in what we think is a very good way to assist the surrounding active chapters in their rushing. We had a combination Founders Day banquet and rush party, and we invited not only the rushees but also their fathers; and believe me, that makes a real impression. At our party last week we had over 100 actives, alumni, and guests, all of whom enjoyed their steaks and the two speakers. Mr. Paul Skinner, Kansas State, gave a brief talk on "The Meaning of Fraternity Life" and Mr. Ernest Warden, assistant editor of the Wichita Beacon, gave his story of a famous crime which was recently presented on the radio program "The Big Story."

Our officers for the current year are Dr. Bert Bass, president; Larry Stubbs, Colorado, vice-president and rush chairman; and Joe Moddrell, Jr., Kansas, secretary-treasurer. We lost one of our most prominent alums recently when former U. S. Senator and Governor Henry J. Allen died.

JOE MODDRELL, JR.

Late Flash!

Dr. William O. Hulsey, Texas, '44, reports revitalization of the Fort Worth Alumni Chapter. He writes:

"Kindly accept warmest fraternal greetings from the newly organized Fort Worth Alumni Chapter of Delta Tau Delta—a reorganization which we hope will be of permanent establishment.

"At a dinner-meeting held last evening [April 20], at which 20 alumni were present, a tentative program was adopted, calling for, among other things, a monthly meeting. It was decided that a definite date would not be established, but that different evenings would be used and through rotation the possibility of some members' not being able to attend eliminated."

New officers are: William B. West, president; Frank H. Sherwood, vice-president; and Dr. Hulsey, secretary-treasurer.

Delt Chapters

Other outstanding social events included a bang-up Valentine "Hearty Party" and an Easter sunrise breakfast. A chapter "senior day" is being planned for May to honor the six men who are to be graduated in May and the two men who were graduated at mid-term last February.

ATTEND FIRST CONFERENCE

The recent Western Division Conference at Norman, Oklahoma, saw three men from Delta Chi in attendance. Pete Thornton, rush chairman; James Maddry, treasurer; and Don Holt, pledge trainer, came back after the three-day meeting with plenty of anticipation and good ideas concerning all phases of Delt activity.

Don Holt should be mentioned again in regard to a recent election of the Interfraternity Council. Don received the honor of becoming secretary-treasurer of the council—the only person holding an elected office. Don is also the new secretary of Blue Key—national honor leadership fraternity. Joe Milburn, past president for Delta Chi, was accepted as one of 26 to be initiated into Blue Key. Duane Pugh and Dick Burges were recently pledged and initiated by Scabbard and Blade, national military honor society.

ACTIVE IN JOURNALISM

Several of the men of Delta Chi have been helping publish the Oklahoma State Engineer magazine. James Maddry is acting treasurer of the magazine, Gene Brewer is on the layout staff, and Joe Milburn and Joe Reeves are working on the art staff. The Delts have a good stand with the college humor magazine also. Bill Hardwick, our new president, acts as circulation manager, and John Maddox and Bill Trower are assistant circulation managers.

Delta Omega—Kent

Dave Brand, Kent State University junior and charter member of Delta Omega Chapter, is feeling pretty good these days.

For Dave has finally realized a dream—to have a course in atomic energy. This course is now on the University's curriculum.

Dave spent hours in research and re-vamping the plan of study to make it comply with what he thought the course should be—a garden variety course in atomic problems.

Eighty-five students signed up for the course when it was offered in the fall quarter at the University.

Dave Brand was also instrumental in getting David Lilienthal to speak at a University assembly.

HALF-MILER OPENS SEASON

John Farrell is back on the cinder track for his second season with the Kent State University light-clads.

Farrell ran a 2:03 880 in the second meet of the season last year to break the field record. John ended this race, but it was found that he had fractured his right leg. This prevented him from going on in the 1949 season.

John has had a fine career on the cinder track when he ran for Cantoan Lehman High School in Ohio.

He is keeping his fingers crossed and is hoping for the best as this year's season gets under way.

Bob Speno, charter member of Delta Omega Chapter, is returning to the mound for his second year of baseball with the Kent State University nine.

Speno, a native of Tarrytown, New York, served three years with the Navy in the Pacific. Upon his discharge he was offered a contract with Pittsburgh. He attended spring training in 1947 but gave up pro ball to go to Kent State University.

Last year Bob pitched a one-hitter with Bowling Green State University and ended up the season with a 3 to 1 average.

Journal in 1935 and held the post until 1940, his last full-time newspaper work.

Mr. Allen's reputation as an after-dinner speaker was wide-spread. He had returned to Baker many times to speak to Deltas at Gamma Theta's annual alumni get-together, "Stag Night." For 35 years he was a member of the board of trustees of Baker University, president of the board for almost 20 years, giving faithful service to both his alma mater and his Fraternity.

While in Europe on Red Cross work during and following World War I, he was often the companion of the famous Kansas editor, the late William Allen White. White's well-known book, Martial Adventures of Henry and Me, is based on these experiences together.

Dr. Thomas A. Williams, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Wichita, Kansas, Senator Allen's church, said of him:

"I rank him with the editorial great of the country. Many times in recent days and years I have wished that his voice were sounding forth again. . . . In his reminiscences, there is no evidence of rancor, no staggering venom, no bitterness. He was philosophically-minded, composed, serene. I think of him as a fraternity brother in whom all of a great fraternity took pride."

CHARLES S. REEVE, Pennsylvania, '97, charter member of Omega Chapter, died January 6, 1950, in Clearwater, Florida.

Mr. Reeve had been associated with the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation since 1918 until his retirement in 1949, as chemist, manager of research and development, technical adviser, and consultant. He was a member of the American Institute of Chemists and the American Chemical Society.

Prominent in Delt activities in both Washington, D. C., and New York, Mr. Reeve at one time served on the Board of Governors of the Greater New York Alumni Chapter, along with Alvan E. Duerr, A. Bruce Bielaski, David K. Reeder, and others.

Brigadier General EPHRAIM G. PEYTON, Mississippi, '96, veteran of the Spanish American War and World War I, died January 1, 1950. He was former commanding officer of the Thirtieth Division of the National Guard and organized the Atlanta Civilian Defense during World War II.
