Herzlich Willkommen Zu Zinzinnati

By MICHAEL J. RYAN

WELCOME TO CINCINNATI and the Sixty-seventh Karnea of Delta Tau Delta! This year's Karnea, from August 25 through August 29, will be patterned after the "Over-the-Rhine" theme characteristic of old Cincinnati. Beginning with the early arrival registration on Tuesday afternoon through the Karnea Banquet on Saturday night, the whole atmosphere will abound with the distinctive "Deutschland" flavor of Cincinnati.

Tuesday evening there will be opportunity to sample some of the fine German cooking at any one of a number of fine restaurants in the area, or those who prefer more native dishes can make the short trip across the Ohio River to Kentucky for some of the famous Southern cooking. This free time might also be used in a tour of the Seven Hills that surround the downtown Cincinnati area and overlook the historic Ohio River.

Wednesday morning will bring the first business session, preceded by further registration for late arrivals. At this session the President will make his report to the Fraternity.

To get the real flavor of old Cincinnati, every Karnea-goer and his lady will want to attend the "Over-the-Rhine" reception Wednesday evening at the Netherland Hilton hotel. Bratwurst, bands, and bunting will carry out the theme of an "Upper Vine Street Bierstube."

The entertainment in Cincinnati is not all in the German tradition. The Cincinnati Summer Opera, which is held at the city's famous zoo, features outstanding performers from around the world, and Moonlight Gardens, at Coney Island, offers the top names in the field of popular entertainment.

Of further interest to the visitor are the Eden Park Conservatory, the Abbey Observatory, and the world famous art museum, attractions which are matched in few cities of the nation. Cincinnati's department stores and specialty shops are on a par with the leaders of the fashion world.

Thursday will feature the third and fourth business sessions of the Karnea, but even here the German flavor of the program will be retained: each Division's luncheon, to be held between the sessions, will feature an authentic German meal.

The Chaperon, one of the few remaining paddle wheel steamers still plying the Ohio River, will transport the Delts and their ladies to beautiful Coney Island on Thursday evening. At the end of the boat trip your palate will be tempted by the mouth-watering treats waiting for you at the smorgasbord in Moonlight Gardens. After the meal, your pleasure might be a ride on the Ferris wheel, the "Dodgem" cars, the merry-go-round, or one of the two spine-tingling roller-coasters to be found on the glittering Mall. For the hardy, there is swimming at Sunlight Pool. Or you might wish to just stroll, saving your energy for the dancing.

After sampling the attractions of the Mall, Delts and dates will return to Moonlight Gardens for dancing to the music of Charlie Kehrner and his orchestra. But wait—the evening doesn't end there. The Chaperon will provide a romantic setting for the Delts to serenade their Delt Sweethearts during the return trip to Cincinnati.

Friday the Awards Luncheon will bring together delegates, ladies, and other guests, including such distinguished alumni as Associate Justice Tom Clark, Branch Rickey, and noted speaker Robert Hardt, who will make the principal address. The members of the Distinguished Service Chapter in attendance will be recognized and introduced. At this time, also, the presentation of awards to the chapters for outstanding achievements will be made.

A moment of inspiration for each of the assembled Delts will be the model initiation, to take place Friday afternoon at the Netherland Hilton. Undergraduates from Gamma Xi Chapter at the University of Cincinnati, our host chapter for the Karnea, will comprise the initiation team.

Saturday morning the delegates will return to business, with the seventh and final business session. The ladies will have a luncheon-fashion show, where they will be "oh-ing" and "ah-ing" at the latest styles in women's wear, as shown by models from Shillito's, one of Cincinnati's many outstanding stores.

The culmination of the Karnea events comes Saturday evening, when Delts and their guests assemble for the traditional Karnea Banquet. The Honorable Jackson E. Betts, Kenyon, '26, representative from the Eighth Congressional District of Ohio, will be the featured speaker. Citations to membership in the Distinguished Service Chapter will be presented at the Banquet to members of Delta Tau Delta who have rendered unusual and distinguished service to the Fraternity. As custom ordains, the evening—and the Karnea—will be closed by the singing of "Delta Shelter," sending all forth with a reminder of their Fraternity's lasting worth and meaning.

So drop everything and hurry to the Sixty-seventh Karnea, and join with hundreds of your brother Delts—undergraduates and alumni—in the fellowship, stimulation, and memorable experiences that only a Karnea provides.

STRAIGHT 'A' INITIATES

The number of members of the Fraternity to claim the distinction of being initiated upon a scholastic record of straight "A" has been increased by eight after last spring's initiations.

Delta Chi Chapter at Oklahoma State initiated Vinson Charles Smith on April 4, 1964, with 15 hours of straight "A."

Billy B. Sellers, Jr., was initiated by Delta Eta Chapter at Alabama on March 13, 1964, on 16 hours of "A."

John S. Graham, III, and Michael Y. Saunders, both of Phi Chapter, were initiated on February 9, 1964, at W. & L., each with 16 hours of straight "A."

Gamma Tau Chapter at Kansas initiated Glee Sidney Smith, III, and Rick Alan Harrington, on February 16, 1964, each with 15 hours of straight "A."

Edward Reese Nelson, Jr., with 17 hours of straight "A," and Charles Edward Oswalt, III, with 15 hours of straight "A," were initiated by Epsilon Beta Chapter at Texas Christian on February 16, 1964.

Hardt and Betts Principal Karnea Speakers

KARNEA-GOERS attending the Awards Luncheon and the Karnea Banquet may look forward to stimulating intellectual fare as well as fine cuisine. The background and achievements of the principal speakers assure that the messages will be interesting and vital, and their wide speaking experience guarantees stimulating presentations.

Robert A. Hardt, Nebraska, '23, will be the speaker at the Awards Luncheon. Born in Hastings, Nebraska, Robert Hardt was teathed on a mortar and pestle in his father's pharmacy, and, in due course, became a graduate and registered pharmacist. At the age of 26 he joined E. R. Squibb & Sons as a salesman, and rose to become vice-president and a director of the company. In 1946 he joined Hoffmann-La Roche, Incorporated, and served as vice-president from 1948 to 1958, at which time he was elected president of Armour Pharmaceutical Company and vice-president of Armour and Company. He retired from these positions in 1963, and is now consultant in professional relations to G. D. Searle & Company, Chicago.

Mr. Hardt is a past president of the American Pharmaceutical Manufacturer's Association and of the Pan-American Congress of Pharmacy and Biochemistry. He received the American Druggist's "Man of the Year 1957" award, and this year has been selected to receive the Remington Medal, the highest award made for contributions to the profession of pharmacy.

Active both as an undergraduate and an alumnus, Mr. Hardt has spoken to a number of Delt groups. Among his special interests he lists "training of young executives," which interest he is looking forward to indulging in his remarks to the numerous potential captains of industry who will attend the Awards Luncheon.

Making the principal address at the Karnea Banquet will be the Honorable Jackson E. Betts, Kenyon, '26, Congressman for the Eighth District of Ohio. A native of Findlay, Ohio, Mr. Betts was educated there and at Kenyon College, from which he graduated cum laude. He received his law degree from Yale School of Law.

Mr. Betts first entered politics as prosecuting attorney for Hancock County, and served two terms in that office. Elected as Hancock County's representative to the Ohio General Assembly, he served five terms, including three terms as chairman of the Judiciary Committee and one term as Speaker.

In 1950, Mr. Betts was elected to represent Ohio's Eighth District in the 82nd Congress, and he has served continuously since, in that position. For eight years he was a member of the Banking and Currency Committee, and since 1959 he has been assigned to the Ways and Means Committee.

Congressman Betts is a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Rotary Club, the Elks, Knights of Pythias, and Odd Fellows Lodges, and the American, Ohio, and Findlay Bar Associations. Despite these numerous activities, he always finds time to support and enjoy the Fraternity, being an active participant in the affairs of the National Capital Alumni Chapter of Delta Tau Delta. In addition to addressing the latter group, he has spoken to the Fraternity's New York and Findlay alumni chapters, and has participated frequently in rushing functions in the Findlay area.

We can then summarize the purpose of Delta Tau Delta in these words: To make the years you spend in your chapter house so rich and valuable to you that their influence will be a continuing force for good throughout your life, and that through that influence you may become a great force in the life of others.

Executive Council Becomes Arch Chapter

By F. DARRELL MOORE, Ohio, '16

BEN U. RANNELLS, Mu, '89, had been appointed assistant general secretary by President McClurg the latter part of April, 1888, and entered officially upon the duties of his office May 2. As an undergraduate he was ineligible for the office vacated by Bruck, but nobody questioned his authority or vote on the Council. Effectively all evidence points to the fact that Lowrie McClurg until the next Convention functioned as secretary as well as president. In accepting the appointment Rannells wrote, "At this time the position is no less one of great responsibility than of great embarrassment and I deeply regret that you are compelled to resort to this means in order to promote the interests of Delta Tau Delta."

The next reference to Henry Bruck is in a letter from E. J. Ware to Miner Hines on November 27, 1888: "Today I received a very kind letter from Bro. Bruck who says he intended to help me out for the Chapter Fund, $10 for this year's contribution instead of $5, and also to pay $10 on next year. That he will send you $15 to balance this & next year's account. This is more like the old Bruck & I gladly note the good sign."

1889 CONVENTION MEETS

The Convention met in Cleveland as scheduled on August 22. Delegates from several of the chapters are worth noting. Mu sent Ben Rannells and Edwin Holt Hughes, both of '89; Beta Eta's delegate was Kendric Babcock, also a later Editor and President; Henry J. Eberth, later Editor and Northern Division President, represented Chi; A. P. Trautwein was delegate for Rho and the New York Alumni.

REVISED CONSTITUTION PASSES THE CONVENTION

The most important work before the Convention was the proposed Constitution prepared by the committee headed by Wharton Plummer. With minor changes the new Constitution was unanimously adopted. Divisions were given the geographical designations as in 1887, but various changes were made; in the new draft, Virginia was in the Southern rather than the Eastern; and West Virginia was placed in the Northern rather than the Eastern. Instead of reserving the power of expulsion to the Arch Chapter, as formerly proposed, it was left with the chapters, with the right of appeal to the Arch Chapter. The duties of Arch Chapter members, who were given new titles, were somewhat different in the two versions. The term Arch Chapter replaced Council as the name of the governing body. Undergraduate chapter offices were given Greek rather than Latin names. Each initiate was assessed $1.50 for the Catalogue Fund. Members of alumni chapters were assessed $2.00, half of which was for a RAINBOW subscription, and the remainder for the Chapter Fund. A new judicial office was created. Continuing the terms of the Consolidation Agreement, the president of the Southern Division was to be named by Lambda or Pi Chapters unless they waived that power.

A new departure in supervision was the provision for a visiting alumni officer known as a phonarch, whose duty was to visit each chapter in his Division. Another new office, which later developed into the chapter adviser who "shall perform duties provided in the Ritual" was added, and for a decade his principal function was custodian of the Ritual, Constitution, and the like; the office was almost invariably held by an undergraduate.

Slight changes were made in requirements of chapter votes for granting new chapters. A unanimous vote in the Division was still required, but instead of a majority vote in each of the remaining three, the new provision was three-fourths of the remaining chapters. As in the past, failure to vote caused the chapter to be recorded as favorable. Charters could be withdrawn by a two-thirds vote of the Arch Chapter and a two-thirds vote of undergraduate chapters, and such withdrawal was final. New provisions referring to alumni chapters were also included.

The Publication Fund was to be charged for a new private journal to be published by the Secretary. The Chapter Fund was continued with an annual tax to be levied on each member of the Society of the Alumni; this was an attempt to place the Fraternity on a better financial basis, and soon proved a failure. It was a forerunner of the later Endowment Fund and still later of the Loyalty Fund. Other fraternities were trying to do the same thing.

The term "Brotherhood," obnoxious to many in the Fraternity, was dropped, and Delta Tau Delta remained a Fraternity.

The proposed Constitution provided that colors should be purple and gold. Trautwein made a motion, which was tabled, to continue with the purple and gray. The Committee's recommendation was rejected by a roll-call vote, so a committee of five consisting of Black (Beta Theta), Phillips (Lambda), McLane (Zeta), Rannells (Mu), and Babcock (Beta Eta) reported favoring purple, white and gold. Its report was unanimously adopted, with twenty chapters voting.

One important change was voted by the Convention in the membership requirements. The proposal was amended to include the clause, "He must be of the Aryan race." The age qualification was removed; formerly it had been 15 and then 16 years. With the forbidding of initiation of preparatory students, the age limitation became superfluous.

The five general officers of the Fraternity were to be elected from a list of fifteen names proposed by the Society of the Alumni, which was composed of the alumni chapters; the "Order" was thus made a thing of the past, and Trautwein's plan replaced it.

The provision that any proposal requiring an undergraduate chapter vote within a time limit stated that any chapter not voting would be considered as having cast an affirmative vote.

TESTIMONIAL TO CURTIS

The Convention Secretary was instructed to draw up and transmit to Edward D. Curtis a testimonial expressing the appreciation and thankfulness of the Fraternity for his zealous efforts in the preparation of the new Ritual.

BEN RANNELLS'S REPORT

In his report to the Convention as Assistant General Secretary, Rannells referred favorably to the rejected Columbus Constitution. He stated that it included elaborate plans for the elevation and extension of the Fraternity. Failure of the chapters afterward to ratify it, combined with the prevalent dissatisfaction with the old one, had induced a wide-spread despondency which was augmented and nourished by the "unpardonable conduct of certain officials."

EDITOR J. W. McLANE REPORTS

THE RAINBOW during the preceding year was a quarterly in fact as well as in name. Rival publications of Delta Upsilon, Beta Theta Pi, and Delta Kappa Epsilon were singled out for praise. McLane stated that our members had failed to support THE RAINBOW, and that the business management had been neglected until transferred to A. A. Bemis. A confidential journal provided for under the Columbus Constitution had been started, but had been discontinued with the failure of the document; the Editor had paid for its printing personally. He stated that THE RAINBOW did not have a half dozen thoroughly reliable supporters in the Fraternity's entire membership, even though college and fraternity life in their various relations and mutual interests furnished abundant material for the magazine. In his opinion, standards of most fraternity publications were by no means lofty, and they lived on only because "they are ashamed to die."

LAST ELECTION UNDER OLD CONSTITUTION

Lowrie McClurg was elected president; Ben Rannells, assistant general secretary; Miner T. Hines, treasurer; J. M. Phillips, editor. The nominating committee had presented McLane's name as editor, but after he objected, Phillips's name was substituted. A. P. Trautwein was continued as Catalogue Agent. Provision was also made for the anticipated adoption of the new Constitution, and the four general officers were elected to similar duties on the Arch Chapter. The fifth office, first known as Ritualist, was to be held by Alton A. Bemis, of Zeta.

COMMITTEES ON CHAPTERS & CHARTER

The Committee on Chapters and Charters of the 1888 Convention recommended the reestablishment of a chapter at Lehigh as the Beta Lambda. Cornell University and the University of Virginia were also singled out as favored fields. It was recommended that the charter of Sigma (Columbia) be placed in the hands of the New York Alumni Chapter, and that the charter of Phi (Hanover) be withdrawn unless chapter indebtedness was paid by January, 1889. The beginning of difficulties with Alpha was reflected in the Committee's caution to that chapter against any conduct in the future that would make the chapter liable to any accusations similar to those which had been made during the previous year, which could but harm the Fraternity, however false the charges. Various chapters were reprimanded for failure to submit reports required and for back dues, three chapters still owing for two years. Psi, from nearby Wooster, was censured for having no delegate to the Convention, and no extenuating circumstances; Lambda (Vanderbilt), Pi (Mississippi), Sigma (Columbia), Phi (Hanover), and Beta Epsilon (Emory) were censured for having no delegates.

HINES'S REPORT AS TREASURER

"The general demoralized condition following the defeat of the Constitution unanimously adopted at Columbus was not counteracted by prompt and renewed efforts on the part of the General Secretary and Treasurer as it should have been," Hines reported, "and the Fraternity is to be congratulated that the love and loyalty of its actives have enabled the Treasurer to meet all demands to date." He said that in the preceding three years the Fraternity had paid its running expenses, had loaned $500 to chapters, and had paid $500 of old debts.

The Chapter Fund was dormant. No circular had been issued, and only fifteen dollars had been received. His financial report showed:

On hand, Catalogue Fund . . . .	$338.64
General Fund . . . . .	160.37
Chapter Fund . . . . .	23.25
	$522.26
Overdrafts, Rainbow . .	$123.89
Song Book . .	269.14
	<hr/>
Balance . . . . .	$129.23

The non-payment of dues by the undergraduate chapters restricts the activities of the officers, he reported. Over $1,200 was past due from the chapters. Four chapters had sent a total of $53.50 to the Fourth Division Secretary, and he had kept it. Charges of embezzlement were made without qualification. The Audit Committee of the Convention itemized the liabilities of the Fraternity as follows:

Arter—Convention expense	$ 9.89
McLane, salary	100.00
McLane, secret publication	36.50
Bruck, Secretary	20.50
Rannells, Asst. Secretary	10.50
Ware, Treasurer	10.25

The precarious financial situation was emphasized in a letter from President McClurg to Treasurer Hines on November 29: "You have a right to demand that the chapters look after their accounts. Various Councils and various treasurers have begged the chapters to introduce something like business methods in their dealings with the Fraternity and there has been absolutely no improvement. I propose that the Council pursue a different course and tell the chapters they MUST do thus and so. We, sacrificing our time, have a right to ask the Fraternity to reduce our work to a minimum and to insist on it.

"Let me suggest that you publish a list of those chapters which are in arrears in the secret journal, with the amounts they owe. You will find the result will be beneficial all around, and you will also find that some of the chapters are ignorant that they are at all in debt."

The increased dues provided by the new Constitution, raised to provide for the equalization of delegates' expenses, apparently caused some trouble as President McClurg wrote to Hines on March 31, 1889: "I do not know anything about the matter of some chapters refusing to pay the $4 tax. I trust we will be able to make a go of it, but I fear not. I have never thought much about the feasibility of paying delegates expenses. Phi Delta Theta is the only other fraternity which has tried the plan, and they have no success to speak of."

REPORT FROM COLORADO

From Beta Kappa (Colorado)
G. B. Blake wrote to Miner T. Hines,

November 26, 1888: "The boys decided last year to help themselves to a chapter house, tho they realized it would take years to accomplish their purpose. Late in the year we started the fund with a collection amounting to $1.00 or $1.25. Today we have $15.00 in bank and intend to increase the amount each year until the body of alumni grows large enough to help the good cause with liberal donations." As our farthest west chapter, Beta Kappa was definitely handicapped. "We of Beta Kappa are fraternity men by correspondence," Blake wrote to Henry Bruck on December 3, 1887, "as our geographical position isolates us from other chapters. It makes quite a difference to us whether our letters come promptly or not." In his letter to Hines, Blake continued: "We have worked up a Fraternity feeling while isolated, and it is a safe statement that the equalization fund can not fail to strengthen the right spirit."

BETA ALPHA CHIDED

A certificate of the vote on the 1888 Constitution showed: yes, 29; no, 1; not voting, 2. As an example of a sharp tongue, Rannells stated officially, "Only one chapter recorded its vote in the allotted time against it. Beta Alpha has that distinction. Delta mustered up enough activity at the beginning of the present term to take action on the document and on the 8th instant gave notification that she voted against adoption of the Constitution. Her vote was not counted. Furthermore, Gamma stands alone in her attitude of supreme silence—neither having acknowledged the receipt of the Constitution nor having indicated her will concerning it. Beta Alpha should have had a delegate to the Cleveland Convention. Delta and Gamma should explain the position they have taken before the Fraternity."

It should be remembered that Beta Alpha was re-established at Indiana University on June 4, 1887 and had operated as a chapter for but one year prior to the 1888 Convention. Peter H. Monical, Jr., a charter member, wrote to Miner Hines June 15, 1889: "I suppose the Arch Chapter thinks we have been rather negligent in business, but we have found it hard to meet all our expenses. The general dues are entirely too heavy for a new chapter. We have not been able to improve our hall as it should be. With such an expense as the new Constitution imposes, added to ordinary chapter work, a student with limited means finds fraternity life something of a burden. My experience is that boys with plenty of money as a rule do a fraternity but little good, except when on dress parade. What I have said has been frequently discussed in BA chapter." When it came time for Rannells to turn his files over to the Archives, he destroyed most of the letters as being of no importance, so what Beta Alpha replied to his remarks about the chapter is not a matter of record.

BETA LAMBDA AT LEHIGH

All the votes of the Council and the undergraduate chapters were affirmative on the proposal to re-establish the Fraternity at Lehigh University. In his report to the 1889 Karnea, Secretary Rannells stated: "This petition bearing the signatures of six prominent students of the Lehigh University, three of whom were formerly Alpha men, was formally presented to the 29th General Convention by Bro. J. B. McCullum, one of the signers. Having been endorsed by the Committee, the Convention, and the Arch Chapter, it received a unanimous vote of the chapters. The chapter was duly organized Jan. 20, 1889, with the aid of some Nu and Alpha men. Beta Lambda has shown herself as a promising and vigorous chapter." James Barlow Cullum was a brother of Percival Cullum, Alpha '82, one of the most faithful and persisting alumni of old Alpha. Another of the Alpha transfers was James A. McClurg, a cousin of President McClurg; another of that family, Alexander L. McClurg, was a charter member also.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

In a circular issued to members of the Council and the undergraduate chapters on May 16, 1888, a petition signed by five undergraduates of the University of Wisconsin was presented. The circular stated that the petition had the hearty approval of President McClurg, James W. McLane, Editor of THE RAINBOW, J. B. Ware, Treasurer, and many others. The chapters were asked to expedite their votes. The Council was unanimous in favor of the petition, and the 27 chapters that voted were also unanimous in favoring; four chapters did not vote. In a letter to President McClurg May 20, George O. Warren stated: "The reason we have started with a small number is in accordance with your own advice—to take in nobody as mere filling up material. The other fraternities here are ΒΘΠ, ΦΚΨ, ΧΨ, ΦΔΘ, ΣΧ, and ΔΥ. Sororities ΚΚΓ, ΔΓ, ΓΦΒ. ΒΘΠ is ahead in literary merit which I take to be the best aim of a fraternity. ΧΨ claims to run the social world, but is hard pressed by ΦΚΨ, which has some of the most gentlemanly fellows in U.W. ΣΧ is fair in its standing. ΦΔΘ is also fair but contains considerable sporting element. ΔΥ is down very low, owing both to non-secrecy principles and bad management. Average membership is between ten and fifteen. Our faculty does not oppress fraternities at all, but rather favors them."

"I have just received an encouraging letter from Mr. Rannels," Warren wrote McClurg on June 5, "which says that he thinks the votes will soon be in and that there will be no opposition. Now time is money, so come out just as quickly as you can."

"A chapter of ΦΒΚ will probably be instituted here. I think our college in time will be ahead of Michigan University." On June 11, "I send you the papers as requested. It would be well if you came up here Friday, but do not come later than Saturday for the freshmen will be all through with college Thursday or Friday and will leave for home late on Saturday." He enclosed pre-initiation forms, all in the handwriting of each signer. Rather interesting were two questions which several years later were ruled as unconstitutional by the Judicial Officer of the Fraternity. "Do you believe in the existence of a Supreme Intelligent Being, the Creator and Preserver of the Universe?" and "Is your attitude toward the Christian religion friendly or antagonistic?" Another question reflected concern with dual membership, which was a not uncommon problem for all fraternities at that time: "Do you understand and assent to it that in becoming a member of this Fraternity you voluntarily debar and deprive yourself of the privilege of ever joining any other Greek letter fraternity?"

Beta Gamma was duly organized in June 1888. Various catalogues do not give the exact date. Warren continued his correspondence with McClurg. On September 30, he wrote: "Campaign work is going slowly. Three of us are back. We have initiated one sophomore and have three more men on the string. We have a fraternity tennis court but that is all the chapter has in the way of property. We have no hall as yet."

"I do not wish to boast of this university but it is steadily growing and some of the chapters here are considered the very best chapters in their respective fraternities, and there is no reason why ΔΤΔ should not in time be a shining light here if she has backing."

"The boys were never so enthusiastic in fraternity matters as they are now, and we are doing very well," George Warren wrote to Lowrie McClurg on May 7, 1889. "We lately initiated A. A. Babcock of Appleton, Wisc., a good all-around man socially, athletically, and mentally. Beta Theta Pi had asked him to join them and they are somewhat disgusted because this is the second time this year we have beaten them."

"Our hopes are bright for next year," he wrote to McClurg on June 1, 1889. "I wish you or Trautwein could come up and talk to us for we would gladly receive advice and encouragement. We have rented a small hall in a new building. It will be furnished with electric lights, water and other conveniences. The ΔΥ's have a hall in the same building."

In May 1890, Kendric Babcock visited Beta Gamma and presented a formal report. "A whole volume might be written of the evils of the fraternity system at Madison, and how they affect our chapter there. The whole fraternity idea seems to be based on social elements, ΦΚΨ, and ΧΨ setting the pace and the rest keeping up as best they can. Our chapter has seven men, five freshmen, one sophomore, and one junior. This is not a strong chapter, but if they succeed next year in duplicating the freshman delegation they will be on excellent footing. Beta Gamma and Beta Iota seem to be singularly unfortunate in having so many men leave college before graduation. Beta Gamma is so unfortunate as to have no experienced alumni to advise her, and so she must learn by painful hard knocks what others learn by advice and tradition."

BETA IOTA ESTABLISHED AT VIRGINIA

To Edward C. Tucker of Beta Theta (Sewanee) goes the honor of founding Beta Iota. Years earlier an attempt was made by Theta Chapter (Bethany) to establish a chapter and a charter apparently was granted by the Allegheny Alpha, but nothing developed. That led to an unfounded belief by Baird and others that the 1889 chapter was not the first chapter. Tucker entered Virginia in 1888. He searched, according to reports, for men of energy and character, grit and ability, on whom he could rely in organizing a chapter. It was not until January 21, 1889 that he succeeded. Having selected four men, he forwarded the petition with the five signatures. Twenty six chapters voted in favor of it, and none against, seven not voting. Under the direction of Alfred P. Trautwein the chapter was formally installed as Beta Iota on March 1, 1889.

Chapters in the Southern Division were particularly happy at the addition of Beta Iota. Virginia had at that time probably the greatest prestige of any Southern university. At the 1889 Southern Division Conference a few weeks later, the delegate reported that three initiates had been added to her roll, "so that now eight loyal Deltas every Friday night gather round the mystic shrine." At the 1890 Conference the chapter reported that it had begun the year with three members, but had increased the number to thirteen. Thirteen other fraternities were at Charlottesville.

TULANE ENTERED

Thomas W. Vaughan of Tulane University wrote to Lowrie McClurg on April 16, 1889: "Some young men at Tulane asked Mr. Churchill and myself to go into a chapter of Phi Delta Theta that they were trying to organize. At first we thought of joining them, but some men had been asked that we did not wish to belong to a chapter with, consequently we drew out. Churchill and I both knew Dr. McEnery, so we concluded to ask him about the fraternity to which he belonged, and should it prove to be a first class one, we would attempt the organization of a chapter here. Of course, we found Delta Tau Delta second to none in the country. Dr. McEnery seemed anxious to help us start a chapter so we immediately set to work to get good men to join with us. The men we wanted were not easy to get. Some of them had refused nearly every fraternity in the school and were not inclined to join any, but we succeeded in obtaining those whose names are subscribed to our petition.

"Mr. Churchill and I were both asked into the Sigma Chi Fraternity when we were freshmen, but thought we could see no possible benefit that could arise from our joining it, therefore declined. Since then we have both changed our views in regard to fraternities. We can see some of the benefits from external observation. In the first place the chapters are composed of only the best boys and the social ties are pleasant if nothing more. Secondly they serve to keep up friendly relations between college mates in life long after the hours spent late at night over some text book are past and forgotten. Then too it is some consolation to know when you are away among strangers that if you meet a fellow fraternity man you have met a friend. There are, no doubt, many other advantages to be derived that we do not see. This is the whole history of the movement that resulted in our petitioning the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity. . . ."

"We have effected a complete organization. Mr. Churchill was chosen presiding officer. We have agreed to assess each other so much per week, so that a sudden call would not find the treasury empty. One black ball debars said person from membership." He described their club rooms. He also stated that Charles C. Maas would represent them at the Convention, and that Churchill might also go. Dr. Henry McEnery, who was sponsoring the group, had been initiated at Phi (Hanover), and had affiliated with Beta Beta (DePauw) with the class of '86. He took his medical degree from Tulane in 1888 and established himself in New Orleans. Vaughan stated in a letter to Rannells that "Of the boys who have sworn to join Delta Tau Delta in case we can get a charter, two are freshmen, one junior, two seniors, one university student, and one special." Tulane University had been recommended by the Southern Division Conference, according to a letter from Phillips to McClurg on April 22. The Arch Chapter voted 6 to 2 in favor of the petition, the necessary minimum, with one not voting. Upon reference to the chapters for their votes, 21 voted yes, and three no. Thirteen not voting were, under the Constitution, counted as voting affirmatively. The chapter was duly installed under the guidance of J. M. Phillips as Beta Xi on June 8, 1889.

The idea of entering Tulane was not new. Leonard Merrick as president of the Rainbow Division had written from Vanderbilt on December 12, 1886 to Henry Bruck: "If ever we are to enter Tulane, now is the time. Lewis Lee Aroni, a member of Lambda, lives in New Orleans." Aroni went to New Orleans several weeks later, and Merrick reported that Aroni had a swell time, and did not give the subject enough attention. He said that Kappa Alpha and Sigma Chi had all available material, and that DKE was entering with very poor material.

BETA OMICRON AT CORNELL

Delta Tau Delta had cast covetous eyes at Cornell University for many years. As early as August 20, 1880, when the two men were members of the Extension Committee, the forerunner of the Executive Council, Henry Bruck had written to Lowrie McClurg: "Did you notice in the last number of the Crescent the statement of Eta's communication that M. L. Culver '84 enters Cornell University to take a course. McCurdy the year following enters there too and between them they ought to be able to do something. Culver at least ought to prepare the ground. I know the fraternities there are a pretty rabid set as far as admitting other fraternities are concerned." A few years later F. M. Andrews, of the Omega chapter, (Iowa State) entered, and Bruck made every effort to interest him in forming a chapter. Several other members from other chapters also entered Cornell, but for various reasons chose to defect and join established fraternities. All were, of course, expelled from Delta Tau Delta. A letter from Bruck to Oliver Matson (Beta Beta) on November 30, 1886 gives a clue to the failure. "The time has now gone past when we can afford to start a chapter without financial backing.

Our own importance as a fraternity is now too well established to allow our running risks of failure by reason of parsimony or false economical notions." He tried to raise a fund to promote a chapter at Cornell.

In President McClurg's report to the 1889 Karnea he stated: "Just previous to Commencement Week a petition reached the Secretary from Cornell University with eight signatures. I have been in correspondence with Charles C. Dickinson, the prime mover in the matter, and at last we have a chance to enter this important point with a probability of success." Delegates were urged to procure their chapters' votes promptly; several secured the votes by corresponding with individual members. The Arch Chapter vote was eight yes; the one not voting was the member so severely castigated by McClurg for repeated neglect of his duties. Of the 38 chapters, 37 voted yes, and one did not vote.

Charles W. Evans, Mu '88, was entrusted with the installation of Beta Omicron. He reported: Another member has been added to our fast increasing household and it is with a sense of keenest pleasure that Beta Omicron is commended to your care and fellowship. On the night of December 17, 1889 the new chapter came into existence. There were ten initiates, and Chamberlain, Iota '88 and Mansfield, Psi '90 will also be active members. The Fraternity is to be congratulated upon the personnel of the new chapter. The members are hard-working, enthusiastic fellows." Included among the charter members were two names later prominent in the Arch Chapter. Charles C. Dickinson became president of the Eastern Division, and later was elected President by the Arch Chapter to fill a vacancy. L. K. Malvern holds the unique distinction of having been president of the Eastern Division and later president of the Western Division.

The chapter moved forward aggressively. On October 20, 1890, it reported that it intended to move that week into a brownstone and brick house with accommodations for sixteen men, and ranked the house among the five best fraternity houses at Cornell. They had $1,000 worth of new furniture and were buying a Chickering piano.

A GHOST FROM WWW

An unexpected problem connected with the Rainbow Fraternity consolidation suddenly presented itself. In a letter to Lowrie McClurg March 20, 1890, C. J. Trimmier of Spartanburg, South Carolina, a member of the Rainbow chapter at Wofford College and a businessman in Spartanburg, announced that he had revived the Rainbow Fraternity chapter. His letter recounted that as the Rainbow became inactive at Wofford, its secret affairs fell into his possession as a resident of Spartanburg. The Charter had never been withdrawn or surrendered, on account of his efforts to get good members. Several years earlier the Mississippi Chapter of the Rainbow fraternity at Oxford had appealed to him again to accomplish the work of reorganizing. Until recently, he had considered it unpropitious. Finally, he continued, he had succeeded in pledging a number of young men, most of whom had been invited by the other fraternities at Wofford. He wrote to Oxford, but becoming impatient in the slowness of response, he took the old Rainbow Ritual and initiated them; he again notified Oxford. James E. Pope then notified him of the consolidation of the two fraternities, and advised Trimmier to send a petition to President McClurg.

Mr. Trimmier reasoned that the initiates were Rainbows, as the request to him to reestablish was never revoked, and he had never been advised of the consolidation. If they are not Rainbows, they are usurpers and illegitimate members. That they can't be, he reasoned, for all were innocent. If they are not usurpers, they are Rainbows, and as such have a right to come in on the terms of consolidation.

President McClurg announced his ruling on May 7, 1890. "The boys were initiated Nov. 23, 1889. Afterward Mr. Trimmier received a letter from our chapter at Mississippi telling of the absorption of the Rainbow and the consequent inability of that chapter to grant a charter. This was the first announcement to him that Rainbow no longer had a separate existence. This will not be suprising when it is considered that his own chapter had not had an active existence for five years before that occurrence took place and there are many of our own members who remain in ignorance of that fact to this day. The petition was then prepared which was received by the Arch Chapter in January.

"H. E. Bemis (president of the Southern Division) was sent to Spartanburg . . . to examine into their standing. . . . He has expressed himself as being delighted with them. It was thought best by the Arch Chapter to refuse the petition and the situation promised badly for Delta Tau Delta. We had absorbed the Rainbow Fraternity, yet here were a number of men initiated into that fraternity in good faith who were outside the pale of Delta Tau Delta. They claimed they should be put in the same category as the other members of Rainbow. They used no threats whatever. I was confronted with the fact that in a few years Delta Tau Delta would in all probability find a second Rainbow Fraternity growing up beside her, taking from her the alumni of the original and dimming the glory of her achievement.

"There seemed but only one safe way for me to decide and that was to declare that these men stood in the same relation to us as did other members of Rainbow. This I did, and they were initiated by Bro. Trimmier on May 4.

"I am fully aware that there are weighty objections to this decision and that it creates a bad precedent, but there is little probability that there is another Ritual of Rainbow extant, and less that it will be used as this one was innocently."

On March 13, Trimmier had written to Secretary Rannells: "H. E. Bemis writes that you are preparing our case to go for a vote of the 39 chapters. I am sorry that you do not see it like he and McC.

"If the terms of consolidation are just, and inasmuch as we have satisfied Bemis and all the  $\Delta T \Delta$  that we are a genuine chapter of Rainbows—if we can agree what common sense is—it is a question that should not go to the 39 chapters, but one which should pass by your Arch Chapter. But even placing it before the chapters, I can convert you or any other member if you see Wofford, her surroundings, her halls, her athletics, her literary societies, her library, her fine-looking, intelligent set of boys, and especially the Rainbows and the Rainbow Hall, all in a beautiful city of over 10,000. Now I am a Rainbow and a  $\Delta T \Delta$ , I have ten or a dozen half-brother Rainbows, as good grit as ever existed, and I have a Ritual of  $\Delta T \Delta$ , and a Constitution (Bemis sent one from Nashville) and I want you and McClurg to grant me the right to initiate my Rainbows into  $\Delta T \Delta$ , which will make them more patient to await your action, and even if the chapters vote against them, they will simply not operate. It is in your power, and if I am in error as a  $\Delta T \Delta$  I have a right to know why."

Horace E. Bemis, president of the Southern Division, also issued a statement supporting T. J. Trimmier. "They certainly are Rainbows," he asserted, and "under the Articles of Consolidation we are bound to give them a charter. The men composing the Rainbow are too as good, enthusiastic men as any fraternity could well wish for. As to the college, Wofford College has as good a reputation in the South as any other except Virginia. As to her present condition, it is fully equal to Emory, but hardly up to the reputation  $\Delta T \Delta$  would require. The class of students is better than at Vanderbilt," (his own chapter).

Rannells wrote to Miner T. Hines, who was on the faculty at the Kenyon Military Academy on May 21: "Have just received a letter from Gallaher concerning McClurg's action in regard to the Wofford petitioners. He, Gallaher, regards McC's coup d'etat as entirely unconstitutional and therefore without authority. It is so regarded by the Delts here in Cleveland, hence I've concluded I shall not recognize those pseudo-initiates as true Delta Taus. I feel that if we do our duty to the Fraternity we must not permit her high prerogatives and privileges to be arbitrarily given away and thus made public through the caprice or will of any one member. I think McClurg's action is unprecedented in the history of the Fraternity and while granting that he was actuated by worthy motives, I do think he has laid himself liable if not culpable by his recent authorized proceedings." Several letters voicing similar sentiment passed to Hines, and apparently Hines was in agreement, although his letters have not been preserved.

On July 12 another letter to Hines: "His (McClurg's) letter is also an answer to my notice upon him that I would not authorize the delivery of badges to those boys at Wofford. It reads like fiction, don't it. Please return it for I may take a notion to have it framed." On August 27: "Those fellows are getting us in an awful situation and I propose to put a motion before the Arch Chapter disapproving McClurg's course in authorizing their initiation. This if carried will simplify their case, so that by a subsequent motion limiting their powers we can extricate ourselves finely."

On September 17, Henry Eberth presented a motion to the Arch Chapter to reconsider the action denying the charter to the petitioners from Wofford College, a petition which had been denied by a 2 to 7 vote. Rannells's position was unchanged as was evidenced by his letter to Hines. "I can not however submit the motion to you without expressing the hope and belief that the best interests of the Fraternity will seem to demand of you a vigorous negative to this motion of Bro. Eberth. Nothing has been discovered about Wofford since the defeat of the first motion of sufficient importance to justify a reconsideration of her petition. In fact the more I study the case the more conspicuous becomes her insignificance & presumption on good nature, in asking for a charter. As members of the Arch Chapter we dare not weaken our influence by voting in favor of something which the chapters are bound to repudiate." The motion to reconsider was lost by a 4-5 vote.

In the Rannells-McClurg correspondence there remains a number of letters from each man on the question of issuing badges to the Wofford men whose initiation had been authorized by President McClurg. Rannells refused to issue the necessary orders, and "passed the buck" to McClurg. It appears that a salesman from D. L. Auld had sold the initiates badges from his stock, a violation of procedure. There is no reference in the Secretary's Journal to this controversy. The tone of Rannells's letters to McClurg is not nearly so abrupt and disrespectful as his attitude expressed in the numerous letters preserved in the Hines file. McClurg in disgust resigned the presidency shortly after this episode. In a letter, undated, to Kendrick Babcock, McClurg wrote: "That I have decided to sever all active connection with the Fraternity is true, but you give the wrong cause. It would be more narrow in myself to allow Rannells's narrowness to have this result than I would care to admit myself capable of. If our friend had been the only stumbling block in my way, I should have gone to Cleveland and left no stone unturned to get him off the Arch Chapter, and I might have been successful. Mr. Rannells only served to open my eyes to the uselessness of all the work I had been at and showed how completely a man with no ideas could block the wheels of our machinery, and for the first time in twelve years I was absolutely discouraged. I can not see how as at present organized the Fraternity can accomplish anything definite. I recognized my inability to bring about change, with such a man as we have as secretary, and with such articles as McLane's (the RJC letter) being written. I decided to waste no more time on matters of the Fraternity. . . .

"If Gordon works up a chapter at Northwestern I may find time to be of some assistance, but from now on I am on the retired list and will no longer take the initiative in any more. I simply add my name to that pretty long list of men which  $\Delta\Delta$  has of men who were once but are no longer."

To Rannells, McClurg was just another member of the Arch Chapter, with no more authority than any other member, and he so emphasized his point in his letters to Hines. There is no evidence that anybody presented the Wofford question formally to the Judicial Officer, Wharton Plummer, for a ruling. That appointment had been made by McClurg, and had been opposed by Rannells and a minority of the Arch Chapter.

In his Journal in January 1891 Rannells reported the defeat of the petition for a charter. "There was formerly a Rainbow chapter there, born in 1872 or 1873; died in '77-'78 only 12 or 13 years ago. One of the members of the extinct chapter, a resident of the town, was asked to reorganize the chapter. He had 'frozen on' to the Ritual and other secret affairs of the chapter 'as the members grew less and less on account of too much fastidiousness.' The request to reorganize, having grown moldy, moth-eaten, and moss-covered through lapse of time was acted on in 1889 only nine years after it had been made. But during that lapse, a transmutation had taken place; and Rainbow bloomed on the stock of Deltaism. News of the great change (1885) although heralded throughout the entire Greek world and college world did not reach Wofford until 1889, only a few months after the intitation of the petitioners into —? The Arch Chapter was appealed to for a charter and due weight was given to claims of innocence and ignorance, for it was upon these grounds chiefly, their right to adoption was based."

When Robert Churchill began his researches into the Rainbow Fraternity a few months later he found that the Consolidation was not nearly as well known as Rannells suggested.

END OF WWW AFFAIR AT WOFFORD

In his report to the 31st Karnea in 1891, President Orrin Serfass commented on the Wofford problem. "The Wofford question, so long as it bore the character of a dispute as to the title of certain men initiated into Delta Tau Delta under the terms of the consolidation was a delicate matter; it did not involve the standing of the college as to the desirability of entering there, but was purely a matter of fraternity law. Whether decided wisely or not, the question is no longer of that character, for the men who were to constitute the chapter have since accepted a charter from another fraternity."

The last word was written by Alvan Duerr to Kendrick Babcock. Duerr wrote on November 23, 1895: "One man initiated several years ago at Wofford, L. B. Smith, did not join Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Is there any doubt about his being a Delta, seems to me not. He writes to me for information. He is going to Vanderbilt Theological Seminary next year." Robert Churchill, who was working on the 1897 Catalogue wrote to Babcock on August 30, 1896: "One of the Wofford fellows who did not desert will enter Vanderbilt this year. This fact (not deserting) makes the case of all (i.e. catalogue listing) more difficult to handle." He met his difficulty by listing Leroy B. Smith as a member of the Wofford class of 1879; this was

New Faces on the Field Staff

THE FRATERNITY is pleased to announce the appointment of three outstanding young Delts to positions as field secretaries. Following an intensive training period in the Central Office this summer, they will be assigned to work with the undergraduate and alumni chapters throughout the Fraternity in the fall.

Terry B. C. Opp was graduated from West Virginia University with a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry and physics. He is a native of Fairmont, West Virginia. Terry's extracurricular interests embraced such diverse activities as the American Chemical Society, intramurals, R.O.T.C., and work on homecoming. He served Gamma Delta Chapter as alumni relations chairman and editor of the newsletter for two years, and as rules chairman for a year.

John E. Patrick majored in speech and philosophy at the University of Idaho, and plans to enter law school following his tour of duty with the Fraternity. Jack hails from Caldwell, Idaho. He has been treasurer of Delta Mu Chapter, and also held the post of activities chairman. On campus, Jack was vice-president of Intercollegiate Knights, a service and leadership honorary, and president of the Young Republicans.

Samuel C. Yocum received his bachelor's degree from the University of Arizona, then began his graduate studies at Western Reserve University in his home town of Cleveland, Ohio. He returned to Arizona and completed his work for the Master of Business Administration degree this summer. Sam's chapter service included work as pledge trainer and as intramural manager, and he was named the chapter's outstanding intramural athlete in 1961. The Arizona IFC has benefitted from his efforts on the rush, public relations, and help week committees. As a graduate student, Sam served the Fraternity and Epsilon Epsilon Chapter as resident adviser.

With this expanded staff it will be possible to give better service to the undergraduate chapters. Many chapters will be visited twice during the school year, whereas in the past this has been possible for only a few chapters. The qualifications and the character of these new members of the Fraternity's field force insure a real benefit to every chapter receiving their counsel and assistance.

The news of another addition to the Fraternity's field staff came too late for inclusion in the foregoing article. Bruce D. Jones, Westminster, '62, will be properly introduced in the Fall number of THE RAINBOW.

Founders Day At Houston

SILAS B. RAGSDALE, SR., Texas, '18

MORE THAN 270 were present Friday evening, April 24, when Delts of the Southwest gathered at the Petroleum Club, Houston, for the formal observance of Founders' Day. Arranged by Hirst Suffield, vice-president of the Western Division; John Evans, president of the Houston Alumni Chapter; and General Robert M. Ives, the affair attracted such notables as National President John Nichols, Ken Penfold, Western Division president, and representatives of four of the five active chapters located in Texas. Wives of alumni were special guests.

President Nichols, in his address, traced the ups and downs of college fraternities, which he said are entering into Phase Four. This period would reveal whether the system would continue to prosper in face of various attacks being made on it. Delta Tau Delta's moves to meet any

The Fraternity Man—An Individual, Not a Stereotype

By DR. ROBERT C. GOODWIN, Texas, '18
President of Texas Tech

I TAKE IT THAT I am addressing a group of college students. Notice I said college students and not fraternity men, though I will speak to them later. But first we must get our basic concepts straight. The fraternity exists because it is an integral part of the college. The college does not exist to permit the establishment of fraternities. So you are college students. Let us take a look at college students—what do we find?

Though disappearing from the scene, we have good old Joe. Look at the cartoons in your college paper and you will find him there. At one time he was dressed in a coonskin coat. Today you may find him in a Thunderbird or Jaguar, though he is not the only one you will find there. Old Joe has been, and still is, irresponsible and egotistical. He pursues blonds and bottles but not learning.

Then there is the student who plays the game just right. He makes good grades not because they are an indication of his desire to learn, but because on his transcript they help to get a job. He also recognizes that he must participate in activities, but only those which support his own particular goals. He learns to be the right man in the right place, but he never wants to get mixed up in difficult or unpopular affairs by deciding what being right really means.

Of course we have the egg-head, or shall we say the genius, who is most content to bury himself in the laboratory or library. He has but one goal—to acquire information and to train himself to discover still more information, though how it will be used, or by whom, is beyond his responsibility.

On each campus we also find the Beatnik—either real or imitation—a self-centered introvert who can only listen to himself and who would change the world to meet his whims at the particular moment.

But surely we cannot stop there. Should we not recognize that the great majority of college students today are brighter and more intelligent than their predecessors, but more content with mediocrity? They, too, are rather self-centered. They recognize that all is not well with the world, but they are not particularly interested in doing anything about it. They are not especially interested in either fame or fortune. They want to be comfortable, with plenty of fringe benefits, social security or retirement, so that they can enjoy their personal pleasures.

Now, before you start throwing over-ripe tomatoes my way, let me say that this classification of students is not mine; rather it was taken from a booklet entitled "Profile of a College Student by College Students." Seven students from seven different colleges were the authors. I think we can say they purposely over-dramatized their description to emphasize that such views are, or have been, held rather consistently by at least some people. We all know of some students who do fit into these categories, and it is this small but news-making minority which flavor the public concept of college students. To this group we might also add that some chapters of some fraternities have not, to say the least, dimmed this view of college life by their antics. Fortunately we see less and less of this as fraternities mature.

Now let us take a look at fraternities. You occupy a peculiar position. You claim to be a select group, yet you disclaim exclusiveness or snobishness. In general you are a minority group, but not infrequently you seek special consideration. You are a college organization, but governed in part by a non-college corporation. How can this situation be justified?

I am glad that you do have a national organization. It can and does provide uniformity of purpose and regulation. It should and does allow a certain amount of autonomy to the individual chapter and permits the flexibility needed to meet requirements of the various colleges.

Now, how select a group are you? In your pledges you seek young men of proven talents and abilities or those with promise. You desire them to be socially acceptable; to have a reasonable amount of intelligence; to have demonstrable leadership; to have congenial motivation and adequate financial strength. But this is what we look for in all our students, though I will admit that these qualities vary considerably.

But does not your real selectivity

—your actual eliteness—consist in the opportunity you present to your members? An opportunity for more intimate friendship—a relatively small group within the mass of students; an opportunity for mutual encouragement—for the cultivation of social graces—for leadership—and dare I mention it, for intellectual improvement. Back in the earlier days of fraternities these were the objectives. The fraternity house was a home away from home—and I do mean away. Though in theory these objectives still exist, their usefulness is considerably less. Competition with Student Unions and with large residence halls has minimized the need for a fraternity house as a social center. No longer does the house serve as a home. Due to automobiles and good roads a weekend desertion takes place. What is the population of your house over the weekend? Are not your members more like traveling salesmen living in a hotel with bags packed ready for a weekend trip to home, to a game, to a resort?

Now I am not saying that all these things are necessarily bad but they do indicate a change. If these objectives are no longer existent they need replacement, and that is the problem facing fraternities today. As fraternities you still have definite advantages. You are organized so that you can accomplish what you decide to do. In general you are financially more able to do things—so the question is—"What do you do?"

Holding the position I do, you would expect me to say that you could devote more time to academic achievement. My first suggestion would be that you throw out or burn up your accumulation of former examinations, review questions and all themes that have been written again and again. In other words I suggest that you acquire knowledge and not grades, unless the grades are truly representative of your knowledge. Next, I suggest you seek understanding—understanding of your fellow student—even of the faculty and of the Dean of Student Life—and of the community, the state, this country of ours, and the world. With knowledge and understanding you should attain wisdom—sufficient wisdom for you to determine your courses of action. You should develop positive, constructive programs which would be a challenge to your membership. I am not suggesting that you become a service organization, and what each of you can do will depend upon your own particular situation. What I am asking is that to the extent that you consider yourselves a select group, you should find some way of demonstrating that selectivity by assuming the responsibility that must go hand in hand with special groups such as yours.

I offer you one criterion. As I said in beginning, the fraternity is a part of, and subservient to, the college. Whatever your goals, they should contribute to the purposes and values of your college. It is quite possible you may conceive of some project too large for you to handle. If so, try co-operation with other fraternities—they are all facing the same difficulties. I do not think you have to demonstrate that fraternities have a rightful place on a college campus. They do. But you should be a group of men proud of the role you play and proud of your achievements in the betterment and progress of your college as well as your fraternity.

Yours is the opportunity to revise the classification and the objectives of college students with which I started this discussion. And, of course, Delta Tau Delta should lead the procession and show the way.

challenge, he said, would be to strengthen its over-all program of chapter scholarship and finances and to continue judicious expansion efforts. Establishment of strong, competitive new chapters, he pointed out, frequently hinges on proper housing, and the national office must be in position to assist in this important work. If contributions to the Delta Tau Delta Educational Fund are held tax deductible—and a favorable decision now is being sought—then these essential housing loans would be possible.

Honors conferred during the session ranged from the chapter awards made by Gamma Iota's president, John Hudspeth, to a Distinguished Service Chapter Citation presented to J. Claxton Parks, of Houston, who previously had been introduced as a 50-year Delt. Alumni Service Awards

America's Newest Transportation

By T. M. THOMPSON, Zeta, '39

Editor's Note: Mr. Thompson is chairman and chief executive officer of General American Transportation Corporation, leading manufacturer and leaser of freight cars, specialized rolling stock, and related equipment. He was named by Newsweek as one of the nation's ten leading young executives, and was featured in an article in the Spring, 1962 issue of THE RAINBOW.

A NEW, BRIGHTER ERA of transportation—in contrast to much that America has heard since World War II—has started and is well under way. It could, in fact, be called the new era of the railroads.

Except for the enthusiasm of the "railroad buff," the most frequently repeated story among laymen during the past 20 years was some poorly-documented account of "the decline of the railroads." This story, of course, can be explained in part by the rapid growth in the early post-war years of motor and air transportation. These carriers, because they were new, received the attention, while railroads continued to do the work.

Today, however, it is necessary to revise once-popular ideas to embrace the new growth and stature of railroads in America's transportation system. For their use of practically all phases of technological progress, and for their continuing improvement in service to all of industry and commerce, the railroads deserve to be considered America's newest transportation.

To look at what the railroads are doing today, however, will have more significance if we take a quick review of the events of importance in railroads in this country during the past century.

At this point, it is interesting to note that our vast railroad system is one of the few industries in America that can trace its beginnings and continuing history over the past hundred years.

At the same time, one can see quickly that the principal similarity between railroads of today and those of 1864 is that railroads are running on rails, just as they did 100 years ago.

The kind of rails being used today, the way the right of way is maintained and the kind of rolling stock—both passenger and freight—has gone through continuous evolution to such a point that today's railroads are really in essence a brand new form of transportation.

This evolution, however, has been a difficult and tortuous one.

The coming of automobile and truck transportation approximately 50 years ago found practically everyone—the common carrier, the shipper, and the passenger—completely unprepared for the extent of evolution in transportation that would take place. In looking back at the extent to which other forms of transportation have been subsidized by federal, state, and local government, it is surprising that the railroads have managed to exist during the past 50 years.

If such sudden free-wheeling and overwhelming competition were not enough for any industry, other burdens on railroads had been imposed over the years in the form of government controls that made it impossible for the railroads to compete actively for freight and passenger traffic. During the past century, federal regulation had been imposed when, in linking the shores of continental United States, the railroads became large and powerful.

Since this beginning, however, there have been times when it seemed that bureaucratic control and regulation would not stop short of complete strangulation.

Perhaps the best explanation of how and why the railroads survived this brutal competition can be found in the basic soundness of railroad transportation as the most efficient way we have for the mass movement of people and freight.

It must be observed also that even under the conditions of strangulating regulations the railroads did come through and perform the basic job necessary for the United States to win two world wars during the first half of this century.

This fact points to, perhaps, one of the important reasons why the railroads today have "turned the corner."

Although they are subject to rather harsh criticism occasionally, the past generations of railroad leadership did a representative job of leading the country's transportation progress for their day. Although railroad executives of today's generation can look with validity at policies of their forebearers and point out how these policies could not be operative today, the example of service in two world wars is entitled to a full measure of respect.

Of more immediate concern, however, is the way that intelligent leadership of today's railroads is expressing itself in aggressively seeking new business, in recapturing business that was previously lost and in reducing operating costs to meet competition.

There is hardly any aspect of the railroad business that does not embrace sophisticated technology and instrumentation that was practically unknown at the end of World War II.

Although it would take almost an encyclopedia-sized publication to list the achievements in today's railroading, a few examples will illustrate this point.

Electronic computers are now solving the railroad's complex engineering maintenance and traffic problems. Infra-red light devices are scanning the trucks of freight cars for any trouble that may be developing. Roller-bearing freight cars are improving speed and reducing operating and maintenance costs.

In communications alone, the up-grading of railroad efficiency has been amazing. Instead of the telegraph of yesterday, every railroad system keeps in touch with its entire operation by radio telephone. Interlocking signal and safety systems permit higher speeds and greater protection for the public.

In our own experience at General American, it has been gratifying to work with railroads and help on such problems as recapturing freight traffic lost to other forms of transportation in recent years.

The piggyback freight car of ten years ago was a novelty. In comparison to the frequency with which you see piggyback trains now, you can realize the speed of progress which the railroads have been successful in bringing this freight back to the rails.

The result has been lowest cost transportation with additional benefits including the removal of many 40-foot semitrailers from the highways, with a resulting improvement of highway safety. Perhaps even more dramatic is the way in which the railroads, by the use of bi-level and tri-level cars, have recaptured the traffic of delivering new automobiles throughout the United States. As you may remember, it was only a few years ago that practically all new cars were delivered by semi-trailers pulled over the highways. The railroads started working on restoring this traffic to the rails in the fifties; and have multiplied their shipments of new motor vehicles from factories to dealers by five times in the past five years.

In other areas of freight traffic as well, the railroads have given a thorough demonstration of their alertness in building traffic and in providing better facilities for shippers.

Today, for example, a large volume of the wheat flour used in commercial bakeries is handled in special hopper cars direct from the mill to the bakery. The advantages of cost reduction in handling a commodity of this kind in bulk are reasonably obvious.

In addition, however, loading a special hopper car at the mill and shipping it sealed—with unloading into sealed hopper bins at the bakery—provides the additional advantage of sanitation. With less handling and exposure to the atmosphere the danger of contamination has been substantially reduced.

A result has been, even in the face of the baker's rising costs, a better and more economical loaf of bread for the consumer.

It would be possible to trace hundreds of good examples in which railroads have teamed up with their customers and their suppliers to develop better solutions for both the old and new problems of shippers.

The shipment of liquified petroleum gas is one problem that has been approached and solved with distinct benefits both to the producer and user of LP gas. As you can imagine, this product is light in weight and thus it is feasible to ship a fairly large quantity within the practical weight limitations. Starting with this fact, it was possible to design a large tank car—larger than any other manufactured before—specifically for the purpose of transporting LP gas. This car of 32,800 gallons capacity was first introduced in June of 1961. Today, hundreds of them are used giving LP gas customers faster service and lower cost for transportation.

In other cases, it is necessary to ship a commodity quickly in order to preserve its quality or handling characteristics. Some food products must be placed in tank cars and removed at their destination within narrow limits of temperature. This means that tank cars must be designed and built with enough insulation to assure both the shipper and the customer that the product will arrive in condition that will permit it to be unloaded efficiently.

For example, liquid sugar has been shipped in sub-zero weather over distances that keep the car in transit for three or four days, and still the sugar was of the temperature and consistency to permit efficient unloading at its destination.

In our American business system, all of us are accustomed to seeing industries meet their problems and win victories. The story of such success, however, is not so common, when the problem is relief from strangulation by restrictive regulation. In this area it is amazing how the progressive management of today's railroads has created an atmosphere of understanding. It has produced a new outlook in regulation by the federal government. There is frequent news, in fact, that the present administration is seeking to help the railroads improve their service and their sound financial structure, and to be permitted to compete on freight rates with other carriers.

All of us who are interested in the health and growth of the American economy can be thankful indeed for the sequence of events in the history of American railroads that has brought us this new outlook being shown throughout the land by leaders of our railroads.

While it would be possible for railroad leadership to speak long and loudly about the network of rail transportation as being the most experienced in the country, it is important that they are leaders in transportation today—that they have made and are continuing to make the railroads America's newest form of transportation.

who "has made the greatest contribution to the effectiveness of a flying organization" during the year. Captain Adamson is stationed at Avalon Air Field, Australia, with the 57th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron, MATS.

The Industrial Valley Bank and Trust Company has named JOHN C. T. ALEXANDER, Pennsylvania, '56, vice-president and secretary. "C. T." is president of the Omega Alumni Society, the organized body of alumni of Omega Chapter.

ROBERT C. BASCOM

Airman Third Class ROBERT C. BASCOM, Oklahoma, '63, set a new academic record for the radio operator course at Keesler Technical Training Center at Biloxi, Mississippi, attaining a 99 per cent average in all phases of academic work. Airman Bascom is a reservist assigned to a CONAC unit at Tinker AFB, Oklahoma.

The new executive secretary of the Colorado Republican Party is RICHARD J. BAUER, Colorado, '52. Mr. Bauer was formerly with the Denver Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

The Greensboro (North Carolina) Bar Association has elected CHARLES T. BOYD, North Carolina, '21, president for the 1964-65 year. Mr. Boyd, a former President of the Fraternity, is a partner in the law firm of York, Boyd, & Flynn.

ROBERT R. CARPENTER, Pitt, '54, has been appointed Assistant Professor of Medicine at Baylor University Medical School. He will teach and do research on grants from the John and Mary Markle Foundation and the National Science Foundation.

The Emory University Alumni Association has chosen as president-elect R. CARL CHANDLER, Emory, '41. Mr. Chandler is chairman of the board of the Standard Packaging Corporation, New York, and of J. D. Jewell, Incorporated, Gainesville, Georgia.

THOMAS J. DALTON, Iowa, '58, has joined the San Francisco office of Francis I. duPont & Company as a registered representative.

THOMAS J. DALTON, left, confers with AUSTIN J. LYONS, floor partner of duPont's San Francisco office.

Stockholders of the Rockwell Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, recently elected A. CLARK DAUGHERTY, Penn State, '44 to the board of directors. Mr. Daugherty has been administrative vice-president of the company for the last year.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society honored WILLIAM D. DAVIDSON, Northwestern, '32, with an award in recognition of his having sold over a million dollars of life insurance a year for 20 years.

JOSEPH C. DAVIS, Carnegie Tech, '37, has been elected a vice-president of Ashland Oil & Refining Company, Ashland, Kentucky. Mr. Davis will be in charge of refinery sales.

Named to a six-year term as a trustee of Lafayette College, Easton, Pennsylvania, is MONROE F. DREHER, Lafayette, '22. He is board chairman of Monroe F. Dreher, Incorporated, a New York advertising agency, and president of World Wide Publications, Limited.

ALFRED T. DUFF, JR., Pitt, '36, has been appointed general manager of sheet and tin mill operations for United States Steel, in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Friends of Dr. FRANK H. FERRIS, Amherst, '14, have pledged more than $200,000 toward endowing a professorship in philosophy at the College of Wooster in his honor. Dr. Ferris, a retired Presbyterian minister, was a visiting professor at Wooster from 1950 to 1954. He and Mrs. Ferris now live in Mayville, New York.

Beginning an insurance career in July, 1962, STEPHEN F. FOREMAN, Florida, '62, was honored as Northern Florida's "outstanding new man in insurance" as a result of having sold more than a million dollars worth of life insurance last year.

Captain NORMAN J. FUGITT, Oregon, '52, has been decorated with the USAF Commendation Medal. The award was for meritorious service with the 500th Air Refueling Wing, at Selfridge AFB, Michigan.

The new managing director of Union Carbide Europa S. A., in Geneva, Switzerland, is RICHARD M. JOS-

LIN, Wesleyan, '35. Mr. Joslin was formerly vice-president of Union Carbide's Plastics Division.

CARTER C. KISSELL, Ohio State, '24, president of National Castings Company, has been elected a director of National Screw and Manufacturing Company of Cleveland, Ohio.

A needle has been invented by Dr. WILBUR R. KOEHN, Kansas, '47, for the implanting in the body of a flexible plastic tube through which blood, drugs, or nourishing solutions can be introduced. Formerly, it was necessary to leave the metal needle in the patient, at some discomfort to him.

Eli Lilly and Company of Indianapolis has named KENNETH G. KOHL-

Dr. KOHLSTAEDT

STAEDT, M.D., vice-president of medical research. Dr. Kohlstaedt is Kentucky, '29.

First Lieutenant BOBBY E. LAWLER, Georgia Tech, '60, won the Junior Officer Noteworthy Accomplishment Award of the Air Force Systems Command. He was cited for his outstanding technical competence, versatility, and accomplishment of diverse duties. Lieutenant Lawler is assigned to the Air Force Weapons Laboratory at Kirtland AFB, New Mexico.

The Cleveland Council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies has elected as president EDWARD M. MARKER, Western Reserve, '28. Mr. Marker is vice-president of the Griswold-Eshleman Company.

Lt. LAWLER

Indianapolis attorney JAMES L. MILLER, Indiana, '30, has been elected president of the Indiana chapter of the Federal Bar Association. Mr. Miller is a former United States assistant district attorney.

The University Club of Sacramento, California has elected as president NORMAN S. MORRISON, Oregon, '50. He is an officer with the Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Sacramento.

GEORGE B. MOTHERAL, II, Lehigh, '40, has opened his own advertising and public relations agency, George B. Motheral, Limited, in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

As president of the Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America, GEORGE H. PANUSKA, Miami, '36, speaks for more than 80 private brand gasoline marketers. Mr. Panuska is president of Tresler Oil Company of Cincinnati, Ohio.

JOHN W. POOL, JR., Carnegie Tech, '35, formerly vice-president for sales of the Plastics Division of Koppers Company, has been named vice-president for marketing of the Taylor Corporation, Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

The Air Medal and an oak leaf cluster have been awarded to First Lieutenant KEMP P. ROEDEMA, Stevens, '60, for meritorious achievement as co-pilot of a C-123 troop carrier in Viet Nam. Lieutenant Roedema is now assigned to Olmsted AFB, Pennsylvania, as a flight examiner.

Lt. ROEDEMA

DONALD V. ROLLER, Miami, '51, has been appointed general agent at the San Jose, California agency of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Appointment of THOMAS SANCTON, Tulane, '35, as vice-president for public relations of the Walker Saussy Advertising Agency, New Orleans, Louisiana, has been announced. Mr. Sancton is the author of novels, short stories, and essays, and has been a reporter and feature writer for newspapers, magazines, and the Associated Press.

After 35 years in the post of general superintendent of the Cook County (Illinois) Forest Preserve District, CHARLES G. SAUERS, Purdue, '15, has retired. Mr. Sauers, 71, was one of the founding fathers of the 50,000-acre forest preserve, the largest metropolitan park complex in the nation.

Captain DAVID W. SCOTT, Michigan State, '59, was awarded the Air Medal for meritorious achievement as a pilot in Viet Nam. Captain Scott is a member of a USAF advisory unit assisting the Viet Nam armed forces.

Another member of the Million Dollar Round Table is JOHN L. SKALLA, Nebraska, '56, who is with the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, in Des Moines, Iowa. The Round Table, comprised of those who sell at least one million dollars of life insurance a year, constitutes only one per cent of the world's life underwriters. Mr. Skella first attained the honor in 1960.

The Pittsburgh (Pennsylvania) Convention and Visitors' Bureau has elected CHARLES R. WILSON, Pitt, '26, president. Pittsburgh, a major convention center, drew 272 conventions in 1963. Mr. Wilson helped organize the Bureau in 1935. He is president of the Commonwealth Real Estate Company and senior vice-president of the Commonwealth Bank and Trust Company, both of Pittsburgh.

FRED C. ZWAHLEN, JR., Oregon State, '49, has been appointed to the national membership committee of Sigma Delta Chi, a professional fraternity in journalism. Mr. Zwahlen teaches journalism at Oregon State University and serves in the Department of Information and News Bureau. He is chapter adviser to the Oregon State Delts.

H. WATSON STOVER, Butler, '21, President of the Eastern Division, during a spring visit to Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, enjoyed a gathering with six Harrisburg area Delts.
