Here I Am in Hong Kong—

Mary and I are on a retirement honeymoon around the world, returning about October 1. We left Tokyo a week ago, and go to Singapore tomorrow. Then to Kuala Lumpur—India—Afghanistan—Iran—Turkey—Greece—Italy—and HOME!

We have seen several Delts on our journey so far—and all have been reading about our new programs, especially the President's Council. The Honolulu Delts are organized in a new alumni chapter with over 50 men, and in Tokyo there are seven Delts who are going to start a club for visiting brothers.

Our President's Council had a great meeting in May. The attendance was 100 per cent and the work was intense—our Saturday meeting going for some ten hours. Among the important resolutions adopted was one condemning "hell week" and other forms of hazing, which the Council unanimously passed, urging that only constructive pledge education practices be employed. The Council also supported steady but selective expansion of the Fraternity at desirable institutions, recommended that a study be made of the possible use of a computer to process financial data for the chapters, and called for preparation of a directory of pertinent data on all chapters which would be distributed to every chapter president. At the subsequent meeting of the Arch Chapter, these and other recommendations of the Council were approved.

Our expansion program is catching on like wild fire. Since my last message to you, we have recognized as colonies groups at the University of Texas at Arlington and at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, giving us four colonies which are rapidly developing and will probably be qualified for chartering as Delt chapters during the coming school year. We get a steady stream of inquiries from local groups and college administrators, and many good opportunities are being investigated. Alumni chapters, too, are springing up all over; in addition to the reactivated Honolulu group, new charters have been issued for the Eugene (Oregon), Albuquerque, and Corpus Christi-South Texas Alumni Chapters, and reactivation has taken place at Casper (Wyoming), Jackson (Mississippi), and Memphis. In each Division an officer is working on expansion, and we hope soon to cover the United States like the dew.

Soon after my return we are going to have a meeting of the presidents of all the fraternities at the meeting of the National Interfraternity Conference in New York. We hope to work up a joint national program that will enlist the support of all the fraternities and sororities in America. An all-out effort to improve the Greek image is in the making and should be under way by the beginning of the New Year.

Unfortunately, I will not be available for fall rush, but I send my best wishes to each chapter for the best season ever. I know that the new crop will measure up to our expectations and will carry on in the great tradition of Delta Tau Delta. I look forward to meeting them on my visits with the chapters after my return.

See you in October!

TOM C. CLARK

EDITOR'S NOTE: After sending the above message for publication in THE RAINBOW, President Clark became ill with hepatitis. He was flown from Bangkok to Washington, D. C. and is now under treatment at Walter Reed Hospital. We know that all Delts join in wishing him a speedy recovery.

The Fraternity Park at the University of Tennessee. Delt Shelter is the hollow square design, second from right in picture.

Tennessee's New Shelter

By ROBERT E. LEE, JR., Tennessee, '51

DELTA DELTA CHAPTER at the University of Tennessee main campus in Knoxville will officially "warm" a new $305,000 Shelter this fall quarter, when the Delts expect for the first time to enjoy full use of their new home. The Shelter was fully occupied on January 2, 1967, with the opening of the winter quarter; however, it had not been completed until this summer.

This is the very first Shelter which Delta Delta has occupied as a building planned for a fraternity home. The chapter's four earlier homes have been converted residences.

Delta Shelter is one of 13 fully air-conditioned fraternity houses just completed at the University of Tennessee. In the unique Fraternity Park arrangement developed at Knoxville, each of the fraternities participating in this initial construction project was assigned a small lot within an 18-acre area. Each lot was the same size. Each fraternity was permitted to select its own architect and house design.

Certain other areas in the Fraternity Park are being used in common by all fraternities. This common property includes walks, recreational areas, streets, and ample parking areas. The University has retained ownership of the houses and of the land, but annual rent fees to the University pay for use and for the maintenance of all house exteriors. Total cost of the Fraternity Park was in excess of $3 million.

Selected to design and develop the Tennessee Shelter was Brother W. Glenn Bullock, Kentucky, '54, and Georgia Tech, '55. When Brother Bullock was presenting his model of the proposed building, he recalled the lack of privacy experienced in his own undergraduate days, and suggested that the house be built around a large open inner court where complete privacy could be enjoyed. The exciting features of this design were enthusiastically adopted by members of the undergraduate chapter as well as by members of the Knoxville Alumni Chapter.

The patio is concrete-paved over most of the area, but does contain a small formal garden planting. Several planters with evergreens are also placed around its perimeter. A portion of the concrete has a rough-textured surface, while most of it has been polished for dancing. Sliding glass doors open onto this patio from the front hallway and the adjacent living- and dining-room areas. When the area is opened, it provides approximately 3,000 square feet of entertainment area.

A unified modern scheme is carried throughout the Shelter in construction features and furnishings. The structure is concrete, steel, and brick, and is as nearly fireproof as possible.

The main floor houses the dining room and kitchen, the formal living room, a suite for the housemother, the girls' powder room, and five men's bedrooms and one men's bathroom.

The top floor contains 15 two-man bedrooms and two bathrooms. The main telephone alcove is on this level; however, the main floor has another telephone alcove, with extensions off the main lines on the top floor. The housemother's suite is served by an additional private line.

The dining room seats 48 regularly, but can be re-arranged quickly to seat up to 64 comfortably. It is serviced by an electric kitchen equipped with an all-stainless-steel 47-cubic foot refrigerator, 47-cubic-foot freezer, automatic ice-cube maker, two stainless-steel ranges and ovens, a deep-fat fryer, industrial-type mixer, large walk-in closet, and cook's closet and toilet.

The housemother's suite features a very large walk-in closet off an L-shaped room, where the sleeping quarters can be separated from the sitting area by a floor-to-ceiling accordion door.

Student beds are about two feet off the floor. Storage drawers are built-in, beneath plastic-laminated study desks which have overhead library shelves containing built-in study lamps. There are also built-in closets for each man.

Another design feature is the large basement which was blasted from solid rock. In this basement are located a convertible meeting room, a large lounge area, and the equipment room. The equipment room houses the electric furnace and air conditioning system, the electric hot-water heater, and the main amplification system for the house-wide inter-com. This inter-com is used in announcing visitors and in paging for phone calls.

The lounge area of the basement is equipped for billiards, bridge, table tennis, and television viewing. A new color television set will be installed before the opening of fall quarter. This area is to be panelled and is to receive a vinyl-asbestos floor covering prior to the opening of school in September.

Gamma Eta's "Odd Job"

By LARRY W. SELF, George Washington, '67

IN JANUARY OF 1965, Gamma Eta "adopted" a child and joined the constantly growing number of foster parents throughout the nation. Coordinated through the Foster Parents' Plan, the care, maintenance, education, training and well-being of our eleven-year old Korean boy is accomplished. The chapter's contribution of $180 a year, or $15 per month, has brought not only relief for our adopted child and his family, but continuing satisfaction and reward for the chapter. The Plan also operates in Italy, Greece, Vietnam, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Colombia, and Ecuador, sending each adopted child a continuing supply of brand new clothing, blankets, and linens, and providing medical care and education.

Lee Hyo Sung, affectionately nicknamed "Odd Job" by the brothers, was eight years old at the time of his adoption. His father had died of cerebral anemia in 1959, leaving a bereft widow and children in destitution. Our Hyo Sung has an older brother and two sisters.

After the father's death, Hyo Sung's mother couldn't earn enough to support the family, so she was forced to move to a widows' home where the family was provided with food and shelter. The home became overcrowded, and the family had to leave in 1964. The $10.00 a month earnings of the mother was not enough to buy food for the family, much less begin to meet the school costs for the children. Our aid to Hyo Sung assures him of his chance to get an education. It reaches the whole family with a basic measure of security and so, indirectly, makes it possible for his sisters to attend school also.

The Lee family was living in a small room in a slum. Rent for the unheated shelter was only $1.00 a month, but to Hyo Sung's family it was a huge sum. Through Plan's help the family's living condition has much improved, but much more needs to be done to provide a comfortable home. However, the standard of living and morale of the entire family has been raised because the learning from schooling and vocational training has been put to practice.

While in the fifth grade of primary school, Hyo Sung ranked first among his 67 classmates, his favorite subject being mathematics. He is now in the sixth grade and continues to rank high among his classmates. He hopes his studies will lead him to be a priest in the future. As to his personality, he is of upright conduct and makes good adjustments with others, a trait any good Delt upholds.

Through monthly correspondence

we have been kept abreast of Hyo Sung's many activities, and he of ours. We were fortunate enough to have a brother's father visit Hyo Sung while on a business trip. Hyo Sung was treated to a day he'll never forget as well as being presented with a bicycle, his most cherished possession. It is impossible to convey the personal gratification that the visiting father as well as Hyo Sung received.

The monthly letters received from "Odd Job" have developed a warm and intimate feeling for him at the Shelter. His picture hangs proudly on our wall and is one of the first things shown to any visitor. A letter from the Chief of Public Health and Social Affairs from Chungnam Province expressing his appreciation to us for our support for Hyo Sung and his family was recently received by the brothers. The feeling one gets from this association can't be expressed in writing.

A long-range plan for Gamma Eta is to somehow bring Hyo Sung to the United States for a visit. The tremendous psychological effect on Hyo Sung at his age would not warrant such a trip now; however, when he becomes older, every effort will be made to materialize our plan.

If any Delts wish to know more about the Plan or "Odd Job," please contact us at the Shelter or write to the Foster Parents' Plan, 352 Park Avenue, South, New York, New York 10010. The material aid that you would provide through the Plan is of utmost importance, but just as significant is the heart-warming realization that a friend cares and wants to help. All his life, Hyo Sung will remember us and treasure our friendship with a deep and grateful affection—perhaps some day he can help others as we have helped him. And this, after all, is the finest way of saying "Thank you."

AN ALL-AMERICAN first baseman and the Big Ten batting champ are the top performers on the 1967 All-Delt baseball team. As on the All-Delt football teams, the emphasis is on youth, with only three seniors named to the first and second teams. Comprising the rest of the two teams are seven juniors, seven sophomores, and one freshman. Five of our eight first-team selections hit over .300 for the season, while two others batted over .300 in conference play.

Eighty-three Delters from 37 chapters make up this year's squad with three men serving as team captains: Jimmy Duffey, Texas Christian; Tom Kincaid, Illinois Tech; and John Parisi of Stevens. For the third straight year, Stevens had seven men on their school's team, while Illinois Tech had six.

PITCHERS

College baseball's unluckiest pitcher this season probably was left-hander Bill Pacella of George Washington, who had a 4-5 record and a 1.27 earned run average for 70½ innings. Bill lost two games by a 2-0 score—to Pittsburgh and Richmond—and a 1-0 game to The Citadel in extra innings. He also lost a five-hitter to West Virginia in which he allowed only one earned run. Despite such bad luck, he still pitched a three-hitter to beat Syracuse, and, in his final college game, hurled a two-hit, 1-0 win over VMI.

Another lefty, Ohio State's Keith Stilwell, pitched in 17 games as a relief specialist and posted a 1.23 ERA for the season. He was third in Big Ten pitching with a conference 0.89 ERA and 2-0 record. Keith also pitched in the College World Series.

Tom Staack, Iowa right-hander, had a 3-3 record and a 2.25 ERA, while Ed Bickel of Pennsylvania had a 1.98 ERA in eight games. Rich Peterson of South Dakota pitched in more games than any other hurler on his team. The college debut of Brown's Marty Feller was noted in newspapers across the country since he is the son of Hall of Famer Bob Feller. Rick Nefus of Stevens led his team in strikeouts.

Other hurlers who saw action this year were Mike Akers, Wabash; Oklahoma's Rex Boudreau; Dennis Carlson of Washington; Dave Cramoy, Colorado; Bruce Ford and Don Sharbutt of Baker; Willamette's Gib Gilmore; Jim Kenning of Kenyon; Ron McRobbie, Tufts; Stu Mathewson, Illinois Tech; Robert Oliver of Texas; Oregon's Andy Rossen; Keith Walker of Ohio Wesleyan; and Ned Woolfolk, Florida.

CATCHERS

Sam Houston State soph Dale Fincher had a fine .303 batting mark,

BILL PACELLA, George Washington

and among his hits were 8 doubles, 3 triples, and 3 homers. He knocked in 26 runs, the highest total of any man on the first or second All-Delt team. Dale caught all of the Bearkats' 22 regular season games and several playoff games and only made one error all year.

Tom Kincaid of Illinois Tech hit .255, led the team in runs scored and putouts, and was named as the school's "Athlete of the Year." He was re-elected captain for next year.

South Dakota's Ray Rylance, though hampered by a broken finger, still made the All-North Central Conference team for the second straight year. Also seeing service behind the plate were John Adams of Kansas; Kay Cohlma, Oklahoma; W. & L.'s Skip Jacobsen; Bob Knight, Illinois Tech; Duke's Bob Miller; Hank Perry of Baker; Ron Shearer of Wabash; Jack Tyrell, Stevens; and Dave Williams, Kansas State.

FIRST BASEMEN

The top player on the '67 All-Delt squad is Mark Marquess of Stanford. Mark was named to the National College Baseball Coaches All-American first team and The Sporting News All-American team. The switch-hitting soph led the Indians to the Pacific-8 title and a berth in the College World Series by collecting 43 hits in 32 games for a fabulous .413 average. His hits included 5 doubles, 4 triples, and 4 home runs. He led the team in total bases (70), runs scored (36), and didn't make an error in 182 chances. He was rated by the coaches as the country's top defensive college first-sacker.

Brown's left-handed hitting John Rallis, also a soph, batted .262 and led his team in runs batted in. Lee Pollock of Albion hit .250 and didn't make an error. Also playing first base were Jeff Camp of Wesleyan; Ed Shook, Kenyon; and Purdue's Carl Schneider.

SECOND BASEMEN

TCU's Jimmy Duffey hit .308 in conference play and was named to the All-Southwest Conference second team. He led the league in walks with 28 and had a .257 season mark for the conference co-champs. In a TCU victory over Baylor, he had a home run, two doubles, and four RBI's. He also had three hits in a win over Texas A. & M.

John Bryson of Sewanee had 22 hits for a .234 mark, scored 13 runs, and drove in 13. He also saw some action in the outfield. Jim Brown of Illinois Tech won his third letter.

Other second basemen were Gene Cagle of Oklahoma; Tony Forde of Western Reserve; Idaho's Dave Gipson; Tim McElroy, Kenyon; John Parisi of Stevens; and Mike Saunders, W. & L.

SHORTSTOPS

Due to the fact that there were few shortstops who deserved All-Delt honors, we took the liberty of putting Steve Garman of Idaho at short. Steve was primarily a second baseman this year but had played short as a freshman and was drafted by the Baltimore Orioles as a shortstop. He started every game for the Vandals and hit .258. He led the team in walks and was fourth in RBI's with 14. He was superb in the field with a fine .987 fielding average and took part in 16 double plays.

Harold Phillips of Brown, while not hitting for a high average, did a good job in the field and led the team in runs scored and most at bats. Allen Clements of Texas saw some duty at shortstop and also had a 1-1 mark on the mound. He was drafted and signed by the New York Mets. Stevens' Walt Doyle led his team in stolen bases.

Also playing shortstop were Bob Brash of Wabash; Ken Dunn of Pennsylvania; Oklahoma's Ron Frank; and D'Arcy LeClair, Wesleyan.

THIRD BASEMEN

George Washington's Ned Scherer, who hadn't played baseball in two years, went out for the team, and wound up with a .341 batting average, second best on his team. Against Georgetown, he had three hits and drove in the winning run in the ninth. In another contest, he had two hits, three walks, and three RBI's.

Rickey Copp, Ohio State's versatile senior infielder and three-time All-Delt choice, played in his third straight College World Series. He appeared in 43 games during the regular season. During his varsity career, Rickey saw action at three infield spots and in the outfield. Another senior, Bill Wise of Purdue, hit .271 as a part-time regular.

Other third sackers were four-year letterman Jay Burns of Illinois Tech; Steve Coplen of Wabash; Andy Marchese of Stevens; Wesleyan's Ned Preble; Gary Shank, Baker; and Lee Spencer of Whitman.

OUTFIELDERS

After being a reserve outfielder and pitcher last year, Andy Fisher of Michigan recovered from illness early in the season to earn first team All-Big Ten honors. He hit .459 to rank as the top batter in conference play. For the season, he had 27 hits in 35 games for a .286 average.

Western Reserve's Doug Heiser was named to the All-President's Athletic Conference team for the second straight season. He batted .328 in 17 games and hit his team's only home run. Franklin Thomas of Sam Houston State, who also saw action at third base, batted in the clean-up spot for the Bearkats and hit .320 with 2 homers and 25 RBI's.

Bill Brunton of Westminster had a fine year, hitting .350 and stealing 16 bases. Mike Maznicki of Brown only hit .231 but was a defensive standout from his center field post. Dick Briden was one of Lawrence's top hitters once again. Richie Deats was a starter for Pennsylvania as a soph.

Michigan's John Arvai only had five hits as a soph reserve outfielder, but four went for extra bases and accounted for five RBI's. Lyle Graff of South Dakota batted .294 in a reserve role.

Also playing the outfield were Norb Andrews of Kansas State, a three-year letterman; John Breitenstein and Paul Torre of Stevens; Lee Brundage and Jim Rollins, Wesleyan; Dave Eyrich, Ohio Wesleyan; Doug Fell of Texas; Ronnie Klatt of Sam Houston State; and Tufts' John Roccio.

THE NEW MAJORITY

WARD QUAAL

SUDDENLY EVERYONE is becoming aware of young people.

This isn't only because some of them grow their hair longer, sing protest songs, burn draft cards, experiment with LSD, or indulge in tribal dances. It's because of The Statistic.

It is one of the most intriguing statistics, if not the most intriguing, in the history of our free nation: by 1970 over 50 percent of the population of the United States will consist of people twenty-five years of age and under.

Horrors! That's only three years away. Some of you people here will be a part of that statistic.

No wonder Bobby Kennedy is wearing his hair bouffant, climbing mountains, and duffing on skis. The meek are indeed inheriting the earth—or at least that part of it representing the world's greatest bastion of freedom, America.

This imminent catastrophe has ruffled the smoke at the council campfires of the elders. Secretary of Defense McNamara has urged universal military conscription for service. Secretary of Labor Wirtz has proposed an absolutely unbelievable program of establishing local "opportunity boards" where all youths, male and female, would register at the age of 18, be examined, and consigned to certain vocational or educational futures—all on a voluntary basis that would appear to be about as optional as taxes.

No youth would be compelled to go to college or join the Peace Corps or accept any other specific recommendation of his opportunity board . . . but he would have to accept one of the several opportunities offered. This scheme echoes in a chilling way the concepts of other Youth Corps in other nations at other times.

But there's even more. How delightful to be young! The National Commission of Technology, Automation and Economic Progress, established by Congress in 1964, made its report early in 1966 to the President.

What did it recommend? Simply that the government would guarantee to everybody, regardless of whether or not he worked, could work, or resisted the whole idea, a minimum income. This would be an absolute guarantee—enforced, it is suggested by "essentially a new principle of jurisprudence."

Editor's Note: Ward Quaal is one of the Fraternity's best "newsmakers," but this time we are not reporting yet another accomplishment or honor. Here we are proud to reprint Mr. Quaal's message to the graduating class at Northern Michigan University. Mr. Quaal, president of Chicago's WGN and Continental Broadcasting Company, received the honorary doctor of laws degree from Northern Michigan. The line drawings are reproduced through the courtesy of The Michigan Alumnus.

Henry Hazlitt, the economist, commenting on this proposal, suggests a situation in which the minimum per family guarantee would be $3,130 per year. If you made $2,500, therefore, the government would send you an annual check for $630 to bring you up to the guarantee. Those making over $3,130 would be paying the chit, of course.

Now in such a dunderheaded economy, who would work $2,500 worth to get $630 when he could get $3,130 for not working at all? And have plenty of time to blow it at the races, go hunting and fishing, and sit at the window watching his nutty neighbors trudge off to work!

Well, my youthful friends, everything is coming up roses. There's just one baffling problem: if nobody's working, nobody's producing! And if nobody's producing there is nothing to tax—production or income or sales—and there's no guaranteed revenue to pay the guaranteed income to the guaranteed loafers and free loaders. No wonder the French economist Bastiat said, "The State is the great fiction by which everybody tries to live at the expense of everybody else."

I'm rather glad to see the young people coming into the ascendancy. Certainly your elders, or some of them, need to be rescued before they bottle themselves up in an economic vacuum where progress will be suspended for all time.

Nothing is more provocative of this notion than the War on Poverty. "The big money is in poverty," some wag recently observed.

The local poverty organization in Washington, D. C., the United Planning Organization, was launched with a staff of 676 people. One of seven of these—or 97 employees—were paid $10,000 a year or more. Forty of the 676 had police records of one sort or another.

- In Jamestown, Rhode Island, seven youngsters were paid $1.25 an hour by the Neighborhood Youth Corps to teach sailing. The youngsters or their parents owned the boats.

- In Boston, one-third of the 600 teen-agers employed by the Neighborhood Youth Corps a summer ago received Federal income tax W-2 forms showing more income than they actually received.

- In Johnstown, Rhode Island, investigators found that 73 out of the 83 parents whose sons and daughters were enrolled in and paid by the poverty program were taxpayers who owned 58 homes and 113 cars.

- An unemployed Detroit auto worker, Ozie Bulock, who once took home $104 on his most productive work weeks, reported that since losing his job he clears $106.23 a week, tax free, from two Federal anti-poverty programs.

- According to Robert G. Wingerter, president of Rockwell Standard Corporation, in a recent speech, among the first 16 group leaders hired under Philadelphia's anti-poverty program to work with youngsters in the Neighborhood Youth Corps, 13 were found on investigation to have arrest records which included larceny, assault and battery, and morals counts involving minors.

This gives you some idea of the mounting domestic problems you will inherit when you take over the majority. We seem to be breaking out in reform movements like kids with the measles.

Take this poverty program, for example. One gets the impression that no thought had been given to the problems of the poor until the last few decades of the Square Deal (Theodore Roosevelt), The New Freedom (Woodrow Wilson), the New Deal (FDR), the Fair Deal (Harry Truman), the New Frontier (John Kennedy), and the Great Society of contemporary times.

There were "poor laws" in England before the time of Queen Elizabeth. A statute in 1536 provided for the voluntary collection of funds to assist those unable to work. As a matter of fact, a dozen years later this voluntary process became compulsory by law throughout England. Indeed, in the latter part of the 18th century and the early part of the 19th, poverty payments in England comprised a sixth of the total public expenditure. What happened? Of course, a new law was passed—an oppressive one, really, for the simple reason that poverty had become so fashionable that fewer and fewer people wanted to work.

There's a short cut to fighting poverty, but it's a hard way to go. Those among our progenitors who came to this country when it was a wilderness knew this way. It took fortitude, strength, faith, determination, and a free spirit to conquer adversity then. Yes, and a good axe too—to cut the timber and hew it for homesteads.

The cure for poverty is work—or, to put it another way, production. This is the causal factor in a chain of events which has distinguished the United States among the nations of the world. We have produced. Our people have been industrious. Our people have been rewarded for working at all levels of endeavor. Occupying six percent of the land area of the world and with less than six percent of the population, we account for one-third of the world's gross national product.

It was Capitalism that induced the Industrial Revolution. It is pure political pap to contend that Capitalism has not erased poverty in vast areas of our nation in a manner unmatched by any other socio-government system known in the world today. And you can take that survey from the starving people of India and China through the Soviet states to the sophisticated realms of the French and the English.

What has our system done for us—all of us? Let's look at it from the standpoint both of the employer and the wage earner. In 1950 profits were 10.3 percent of the national income. By 1965 they had dropped to eight percent. In 1950 wages were 64.1 percent, and in 1965 they rose to 70.3 percent. Furthermore, while the wage earners' share has grown about ten percent, his purchasing power has grown about 33 percent, despite inflation. And this is the situation despite the Viet Nam war, extraordinary and sometimes questionable foreign aid expenditures, and endless social reform programs here at home.

Capitalism has worked in this nation. The question we face now is whether or not, in our zeal, we are going to overwork it and see it disintegrate. Witness the destruction of the system that guarantees the greatest social and material benefits of any ever known at any time in the history of the world.

Can it happen here?

It happens, usually, when the people relinquish control . . . and we may be in the process of doing just that on the false assumption that we are owed something more than an opportunity.

A major newspaper organization in America (Copley Press of California) recently reported the results of an interesting survey. There are now 2,400 Federal departments, bureaus and agencies concerned with regulating our national economy. Forty-two separate agencies are involved in education programs. One dollar out of every five and one job out of every eight flow from the Federal government, not counting local and State governments. In 30 of our 50 States there are more civilian employees of the Federal payroll than are employed by the State.

Actually, our unemployment rate in this country now is about four percent—and yet we are constantly engaging more and more of our resources, money, and manpower in the creation and operation of government-sponsored programs designed to make work. But try to find someone to wash the car, mow the lawn, clean the windows, or, in many cases, fill attractive junior executive jobs. If you have a work record, you know, the welfare payments are in jeopardy. To some, then, work can be a threat to security.

There's plenty of work. Our problem is that we are driving the workers from the fields to the fireplaces.

Our social reformers—and these are not the first in the generations of man—presume that the economy will continue sound whatever the cost of their pet projects. They assume that the delicate balance of production and consumption will be maintained in the absence of incentives. This, as The Freeman says, is a patent flight from reality. Our system works because the energy of man is fed into it. When that feeding halts, the machinery stops.

The carburetor of our system is profits. Consumer behavior determines the success of business—and that's why we constantly see shifts of ownership from the less efficient to the more efficient. The consumer controls the profit system. The consumer cannot control a non-profit system, for non-profit institutions—such as government—are sovereign unto themselves in a system where there is no freedom of choice.

One is reminded of the fable of Alexander the Great when he became, virtually, ruler of the world. He came upon a philosopher who was lying upon his back in a meadow and meditating. Having become powerful, Alexander had also become a patron of the arts and the intellectuals. He stood before the philosopher and said: "Name your wish. It will be granted. I am a patron of culture and will gladly underwrite any project which you may select."

The philosopher thought a moment and responded: "You may do one thing for me, Your Highness. Please step aside—you are standing between me and the sun."

Do not let power, which may come to you in the masquerade of beneficence, stand between you and the sun.

In the disposition of your lives henceforth you will have the choice to make that has been the historic lot of man: whether you would live as an individualist or a collectivist. We have an individualistic society, based upon freedoms which are safeguarded against usurpation. But do not be deluded that collectivism is the privately patented condition of non-democratic lands alone. We are in constant struggle against collectivist programs here at home—tempting programs contrived to lure us from the way of free action.

The Reverend Dr. Sollitt, Pastor of the First Baptist Church in Midland, Michigan, put it this way: "Ours is a philosophy of freedom that says a man ought to be free to do as he pleases up to the point where what he pleases interferes with his neighbor's equal right."

"However, for some thirty-five years now another entirely different philosophy of freedom has been evolving—the philosophy that freedom is no longer for something like 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness,' but freedom from almost everything, like 'want, worry, and war' and work, too, if possible."

And, as Dr. Sollitt also has said, we should be doing more talking about justice than equality. We are equal before the law, but the nature of our equality depends upon what we do with our opportunities, given equal chances. Justice is indeed utterly disregarded when the relationship between effort and reward is obliterated, or reversed, "as when under the banner of 'equality' the man who works is robbed to pay the bills of another who won't."

James Russell Lowell put it this way: "Being forced to work, and forced to do your best, will breed in you tolerance, self-control, diligence, strength of will, content, and a hundred other virtues which the idle will never know."

Our welfare bill today is $52 annually for every man, woman, and child in the United States. By 1970, when there will be more of you than there will be of the rest of us, that will be $103 if the recommendations of Economist Leon Keyserling are followed.

That means that some of you here will be working and paying the bill while some others of you will be going fishing. Unless somebody-sometime-somehow stops all this nonsense!

Friends, there is no conceivable way that you can be unemployed for very long after you leave this institution if you want to be employed—and I except those who might be drafted for other duty.

Never has there been greater opportunity. But you face one barrier to enterprise—one terrible temptation. It was clearly described in an example given by Thomas J. Shelly, who was for thirty-five years a teacher of economics and history. He told a Yonkers High School class: "John, you made a grade of 95; and yours, Dick, was 55. I shall now take 20 points from you, John, and give them to Dick. Thus, each of you has 75, adequate for passing."

"Here I have applied the socialist-communist principle set forth by Karl Marx: 'From each according to his ability, to each according to his need.'"

"Now, let us examine this in practice. You, John, won't work because you have had your incentive removed. And you, Dick, won't work because you are getting something for nothing."

"We can't exist unless we work or produce. Thus, in order to get the work done, we'll need someone with a whip or a gun. Socialism must lead to authoritarian controls."

This example illustrates an economic and social plan of life so far removed from the original blueprint for America that it is almost unbelievable that we should have embraced any of its concepts.

The Jeffersons and Franklins and Masons did not say, "We will have a free enterprise system." They said, "We will provide for the freedom of men." It was the men themselves, thus liberated, who created enterprise in this nation through exercise of their own freedom.

And Government didn't have much to do with this, except to stand by and be properly representative of the people—and to pass and administer appropriate laws, and to levy taxes to support itself, and to provide for the defense.

Government had so little to do with the wellsprings of the free enterprise plan in this country that, for example, it was unheeding, except for the routine patent procedures, when Charles Goodyear learned how to vulcanize rubber, when Oliver Evans was talking about a road vehicle that would run under its own power, and when John B. Duntlop, the Scottish veterinary surgeon, developed an idea for an air-filled rubber tire.

And Government knew not a thing at the time about the first oil well ever brought in—at Titusville, Pennsylvania in 1859 by Colonel E. L. Drake.

The free enterprise program rolled along, gathering momentum, and every now and then Government yawned and expressed mild surprise, as in 1844 when Henry Ellsworth, Commissioner of Patents, said in his annual report:

"... the advancement of the arts from year to year taxes our credulity and seems to presage the arrival of that period when human improvement must end."

Progress has been the product of labor at all levels of endeavor. If labor stops, enterprise stops; if the desire to work is smothered by the removal of initiative, the lights of a free America are beginning to flicker and fail.

We may have been many things as this country was growing up which were looked upon with skepticism by others—brash, boastful, and perhaps a little rough around the edges when it came to the social amenities. But we were one thing for sure—industrious; and all the world admired us for it. It has been one of our greatest truths as a people.

As Abraham Lincoln said to the Workingman's Association of New York—how long has it been since one of our Presidents said something like this to a labor union: "Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built. I take it that it is best for all to leave each man free to acquire property as fast as he can. Some will get wealthy. I don't believe in a law to prevent a man from getting rich; it would do more harm than good."

If in your present temper as a graduating senior you find reference to our predecessors as something less than "cool," remember that what you will be doing throughout your lifetimes—hopefully—will become the pattern of reference for future generations.

Please try to be diligent—to be honest—to be industrious—to be decently proud—to be charitable to the needful—to be faithful—to believe in something. Please remember your greatest heritage of freedom and clasp it closely, guard it jealously, for yourselves and for all who follow you.

And work. Do your part. Do more than your part if health and aspiration bless you. Remember: the difference between the world's greatest miler and the second best is measured in feet and fractions.

You don't need to appear before an "opportunity board" to find out where you are going. Let your heart and your mind tell you; there's nothing to stop you, and never will be unless you build the barriers yourself.

Just before Adlai Stevenson died he was in New York prior to embarking for Geneva. On his bedside table was found a printed page which he had marked. It was entitled Desiderata and was found in Old St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, dated 1692.

I can think of nothing more appropriate for you of this generation, three centuries later, than this passage from Desiderata:

"Go placidly amid the noise and the haste and learn what peace there may be in silence . . . Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story . . . If you compare yourself with others you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself.

"Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. Keep interested in your career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism.

"Be yourself. Especially do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is as perennial as the grass. Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should.

"Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive him to be. And whatever your labors and aspirations in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul. With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world."

Traveling (?) Salesmen

By BEVERLEY TWITCHELL

TWO MICHIGAN STATE University Delts, a puppy, and a 1941 trailer took off for "California or Bust" this summer.

And busted.

Pierce Myers, president of Iota Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, and Pete Ellsworth, vice chairman of the ASMSU Student Board, Michigan State's all-University student governing group, spent a rushed two weeks following June final exams building a rubber stamp shop in the trailer for a long-awaited trip to California.

The plan was to slowly work their way to California, selling rubber stamps in small towns along the way and making them at night. Thus they planned to combine business with a pleasure trip to fill the summer.

Why the dog? "She's a travelling companion," Pierce said. "I'm going to get sick of Pete."

The 1941 trailer, a stamp press, type, type-trays, ink, stamp mounts, and all the necessary equipment was purchased and the monstrous green trailer was redecorated.

The exterior of the trailer was painted fraternity colors with signs reading: "Michigan State University, Delta Tau Delta, Pete and Pierce," "California or Bust," and the Delt crest.

One half of the trailer was completely remodeled. The sofa, shelves and a chest of drawers were torn out, an orange carpet was laid, the ceiling papered, a wrap-around workbench built, and the type cabinet, press, a stereo, fluorescent lights and fraternity paddles and composite added.

"It's probably the plushiest workshop anyone ever had," Pete said.

"Everyone, from the fraternity

Miss Beverley Twitchell, the author of this story, is a student at Michigan State University and a first-rate staff member of the Michigan State Daily. When we requested permission to reprint, Miss Twitchell graciously undertook to rewrite and update the account, which appears here.

brothers to the owner of the world's largest stamp shop, says we'll flop," he added, "and I think they're all crazy."

The 3,300-pound trailer was to have been pulled across the country and through the Rockies by Pierce's 3,000-pound Falcon sports coupe. Finally, after the weeks of preparation and a several-times-postponed starting date, the two left East Lansing to head West.

And then the setbacks began.

"This is unbelievable," Pierce said. "The whole thing is."

First of all, their puppy died, the second day on the road. Stricken with distemper, she had to be put to sleep. They hadn't gone 200 miles before a trailer spring gave out and the trailer had to be left at Joliet, Ill. They went on to Pierce's home at Moline, Ill., to search for a spring, but 1941 trailer springs are hard to locate. When they returned for the trailer the next day, it had a flat tire. With that fixed, a two-by-four served as a makeshift spring as the two pulled the trailer

First Hugh Shields Memorial Fund Awards

Five Delts Receive Resident Scholarship Adviser Appointments

THIS FALL FIVE DELT CHAPTERS will be the initial beneficiaries of the resident scholarship adviser program. Authorized this year by the Fraternity's Board of Directors, this program will be jointly financed by the Hugh Shields Memorial Fund and the five local house corporations. In each case the Fraternity will provide a cash grant of $500 to be applied toward the scholarship adviser's tuition, and the house corporation of the chapter which he serves will provide room and board, making the value of these awards from $1,200 to $1,400. These awards represent another great step forward in local chapter and national Fraternity co-operation in the promotion of scholastic excellence.

These resident scholarship advisers will provide scholastic guidance and counsel to undergraduate members and pledges on an individual basis. They will also work with chapter officers and the scholarship committee in developing improved chapter programs in the area of scholarship. Experience has shown that improvement both in individual performance and in chapter average may be anticipated where chapters have sought such help and where qualified resident scholarship advisers have been made available.

Built entirely on voluntary contributions from alumni and undergraduate Delts and friends, as this Fund grows it is expected that in the future the Hugh Shields Memorial Fund will be able to provide an increasing number of resident scholarship grants to qualified Delts, and in many other ways to further scholarship improvement programs of undergraduate chapters. Among the many possible uses of income of the Fund, one of the most exciting is in assisting to provide facilities for the chapters to take advantage of the electronic systems becoming available on many campuses—closed-circuit TV lectures, "dial-a-lecture," etc.

The resident advisers are all graduate Delts continuing their studies. They have been chosen from those who applied, on the basis of their own academic proficiency and their qualification to work with others in counseling. Let's meet these men, the first "Class" of Delta Tau Delta's new resident scholarship advisers:

Senior member of the class is F. Warde Brand, Jr., who earned his B.S. degree from U.C.L.A. in 1949, with a major in insurance and minors in banking and finance. As an undergraduate he participated in varsity crew, and was elected to Beta Gamma Sigma, commerce honor society. Despite having been out of school for so long, Warde ranked above the 98th percentile in the U.C.L.A. Law School entrance examination. While studying for his LL.B., he will work with the men of Delta Iota Chapter.

After being graduated from Westminster College with a B.A. degree in 1965, Gary G. Forrest earned the M.Ed. degree from Missouri in 1967. His major field as an undergraduate was psychology, and he has specialized in counseling and guidance in graduate work. At Westminster Gary was a varsity athlete, and served Delta Omicron as intramural chairman and on the social committee. He is now working toward his Ph.D. at the University of North Dakota, where he will counsel the brothers of Delta Xi Chapter.

English writing was the major of Lamar V. LeMonte at Pittsburgh, with a minor in political science. He received his B.A. degree from Pitt in April. In addition to being Gamma Sigma's scholarship chairman, Lamar was news director of the campus radio station, WPGH, and a member of the varsity swimming team in 1963-64-65. The 1965-66 school year was spent abroad, at the University of Basel, Switzerland. (Lamar's account of his travels appeared in the Winter, 1967, issue of THE RAINBOW.) Now enrolled at Northwestern University's Medill

LAMAR V. LEMONTE

School of Journalism, Lamar is working for the M.S. degree in that field. He will assist Beta Pi Chapter to strengthen its scholarship.

Joseph T. Pandey, Jr., is a 1967 graduate of Illinois Tech, where he earned the B.S.M.E. degree, majoring in mechanical engineering and minor-ing in gas technology. He has been housemanager, sports chairman, and president of Gamma Beta Chapter, ran varsity cross-country, was Senior Class secretary, Publications Board secretary, and sports editor of Tech News. Joe has been admitted to the Ohio University graduate school, where he will study for the master of business administration degree. Beta Chapter members and pledges will have the benefit of his counsel and assistance.

Washington and Lee conferred the A.B. degree on Roy A. Tyler in 1966. His major was history, with journalism as his minor. Roy was Phi Chapter's pledge trainer, alumni secretary, and assistant rush chairman, and edited the rush book. He was editor of the school magazine and assistant editor of the campus newspaper, as well as president of the Glee Club. Roy is beginning his second year at the Indiana University School of Law, and will work with the membership of Beta Alpha Chapter.

Tennessee Shelter

Remaining basement area is a convertible meeting or party room. It features a large stage with dimmer-controlled spotlights.

Helping to make the Tennessee Shelter a desirable place to live is its location directly across the main campus boulevard from the new $1,800,000 Student Aquatics Center. This Center has an Olympic-size outdoor pool which was opened at the end of this past spring quarter. Another all-weather pool inside the Center will open at the beginning of fall quarter. Both pools are over 150 feet by 50 feet; each accommodates 800 students.

Other facilities at this Aquatics Center include a separate indoor diving tank, table tennis, year-round sun-bathing area, and a weight room—all inside. Outside the building are located softball, tennis, badminton, basketball, and track areas for inter- and intra-mural competition. The new Men's Physical Education Building is also planned for this general area.

Newest student dormitories are also rising close to the Delta Shelter, which places Delta Tau Delta in a central position for the expanding campus. All living and recreational activities are being concentrated in this general area.

Planning for this new Shelter was begun under the direction of the Knoxville Alumni Chapter, whose president was at the time, A. J. Fisher, Jr., Tennessee, '34. At a meeting held in the home of H. M. Dent, Jr., Tennessee, '43, the late Hugh Shields attended a presentation made by the then-Executive Dean of Student Affairs, Dean Charles Lewis.

After hearing Dean Lewis' presentation of the details, Hugh Shields told the more than 30 Delt alumni present that it seemed to him mandatory for Delta Tau Delta to be represented substantially in this building program sponsored by the University. It was at this time that Shields suggested the 40-bed capacity for the house—a size immediately adopted by the membership in attendance.

Committees to carry the project to completion were appointed on the spot. The co-chairmen were M. E.

"Squiz" Green, Tennessee, '28, and Dr. George G. Henson, Brown, '28. Secretary for the campaign was H. M. Dent, president of Delta Delta Chapter, Inc. (house corporation).

Handling negotiations with the University for financing, planning, and construction of the house was the board of directors of the house corporation. The initial board included H. M. Dent; Vice-President Thomas O. Barnett, Tennessee, '23 (a charter member of Delta Delta); Secretary Robert E. Lee, Jr., Tennessee, '51; Treasurer Beauchamp E. Brogan, Tennessee, '57, and Kentucky, '57; and Assistant Treasurer Fred G. Kitts, Tennessee, '52. Lee was also appointed contract spokesman for the house corporation in handling details with the University, the architect, and the contractor.

This new Shelter for Delta Delta Chapter culminates several years of planning and fund-raising. It forms the realization of many dreams and reflects admirably to the glory of Deltism. All Delts are encouraged to visit the brothers of Delta Delta Chapter in their new Shelter.

Transatlantic Solo

By JAY LANGHAMMER, T.C.U., '66

"DELTA TAU DELTA'S ANSWER to Charles Lindbergh" is a term which very easily describes 23-year-old Paul Rachal, Texas Christian, '67. In commemoration of the 40th anniversary of Lindbergh's historic New York-to-Paris flight of May 20, 1927, Rachal left New York's Kennedy International Airport on May 23, 1967, and followed the same Great Circle route flown by Lindbergh. The airplane, a Mooney Mark 22 Mustang, was the first single-engine private airplane with a pressurized cabin. The turbocharged engine allowed Paul to fly at 21,000 feet most of the way.

After 15 hours 59 minutes, and 3,610 miles, Paul landed at Paris' Le Bourget Airport, cutting in half the time it took Lindbergh to make the same trip. Paul's cargo, in addition to 320 gallons of fuel, included five horned frogs, representing the TCU school mascot, which were to be delivered to a Paris zoo. The flight, sponsored by the U. S. Department of Commerce and Mooney Aircraft, was also in connection with the opening of the Paris Air Show, where the aircraft was put on display. In addition to the national publicity he received, Paul also appeared on the "To Tell the Truth" TV show.

Actually, the flight was not unusual for Paul, a Midland, Texas native, who practically grew up in a cockpit. His father, an attorney and private pilot, took over a Midland air base after World War II and Paul and his two brothers always went along when their father took a plane up. Several years later, Paul's father took over Mooney Aircraft, a struggling firm in Kerrville, Texas, which was having financial difficulties manufacturing a small single-engine plane. Paul and his older brother spent much of their time installing new engines in the planes.

Paul first started taking flying lessons at 16 and made his first solo flight in 1960. In the fall of 1961, he entered the University of Texas, but dropped out after two semesters. During the next two years, he worked at different jobs, from San Francisco to Europe.

He returned to Texas and, with a friend, formed his own company, Air-Trans International. As a partner in the company, he flew six trans-Atlantic flights to such places as Johannesburg, South Africa; Cambridge, England; Zurich, Switzerland; Salisbury, Rhodesia, and Luanda, Angola. Then, after a bout with malaria and the death of his partner in a crash, he decided to return to college.

Paul entered TCU in the fall of 1964 and was pledged by Epsilon Beta Chapter that same semester. Since then, he has served the TCU Delts as social chairman and scholarship chairman. He was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for the 1966-67 school year, was constantly on the Dean's List for the School of Business, and was also a member of Beta Alpha Psi accounting fraternity. Following his flight, he returned to Fort Worth for TCU's commencement exercises, where he received his degree. This fall, he will enter Harvard Business School to work toward a master's degree.

For his flight, Paul was honored by the Texas Senate. The Senate resolution read: "Resolved that the Senate of the State of Texas by this resolution commends Paul Rachal of Midland, Texas, and the manufacturers of the Mooney Aircraft, for their outstanding contribution to modern aircraft transportation."

UNDERGRADUATE PERSONALITIES

Beta Tau's Les Hellbusch

By ROBERT B. ENSZ
Nebraska, '68

IN EVERY Delt chapter certain individuals stand out as symbols of what every Delt hopes to achieve. At Beta Tau Chapter at the University of Nebraska, Leslie C. Hellbusch, '68, is such a man.

Since pledging Delta Tau Delta in the fall of 1964, Les has put forth continued efforts toward his goals of becoming an outstanding athlete and an excellent doctor. He is well on his way to accomplishing both. He carries a 3.8 average (on a 4.0 system) in premedical studies, and is a member of Phi Eta Sigma scholastic honorary and Theta Nu premedical honorary.

As an athlete, Les has lettered in both cross-country and track. As a sophomore he set a new school sophomore record in the half-mile, and this year he had a time of 1:51.3, third best in the Big Eight Conference. Few that know him will bet against his winning the conference title next year. Les is an active participant in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Les has worked hard for Delta Tau Delta and the fraternity system. As a freshman he was pledge class representative to Junior IFC and served as a committee chairman. Following initiation he has held several positions in the chapter, culminating in the office of president to which he was elected this spring. He also serves as IFC representative.

Campus recognition has come in response to Les' work for the school and the fraternities. In May he was "tackled" for membership into the Innocents Society, senior men's honorary, probably the highest honor a Nebraska man can receive from fellow students.

Through his efforts, Les Hellbusch has presented a fine image of his Fraternity to the campus and community. It is men like him who have helped bring Delta Tau Delta to the top among fraternities.

regular season dual meets he defeated all opponents, so the MAC diving crown was the fulfillment of an outstanding season.

To add to all this glory, there is even a human interest side to this story. Several years ago Randy broke his back, and periodically now his back "goes out." In fact, several of his opponents in the past few years have been startled to see Johnson do a near-perfect one and a half, hit the water, and then not come up. Several of his teammates, however, feel that this is merely an act to gain the judges' sympathy.

A junior, Johnson is looking forward to another record-breaking season next year. He is a chemical engineering major from Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. At the Shelter, he is one of the more socially active members, and for the past two years he has been the chapter's chugging champ. The night before an "away" meet on a party weekend he can be heard lamenting his plight.

Randy is a member of the Varsity L. Club, and serves on the chapter's scholarship committee.

RANDY JOHNSON, a Nu Chapter (Lafayette) Delt, became the Middle Atlantic Conference diving champion at the annual MAC swimming championships held at Johns Hopkins University on March 2-4. Twenty-five colleges and universities were represented in the competition, with Johnson copping the trophy in the university division. His point total for the five required and six optional dives broke the championship meet record. Earlier in the season against arch rival Lehigh, he broke Lafayette's longest standing swimming record. In

RECOMMENDATION TIME

It's that time once again. Delta Tau Delta's success depends upon its new members. It must continue to initiate men who measure up in character and ability to the high standards of the Fraternity.

We again ask for your co-operation in contributing to the future strength of Delta Tau Delta.

Fill in the recommendation blank below and send it at once to the Central Office, Delta Tau Delta Fraternity, 3665 Washington Blvd., Indianapolis, Indiana 46205.

Dabney Lancaster, Educator

By ROY C. PETTY, Cincinnati, '18

HOW DOES A MAN go about having a college named in his honor?

John Harvard and Leland Stanford did it the obvious way, but Dabney S. Lancaster achieved it with no thought or expectation of such recognition. For him it came after a life devoted to education and unselfish dedication to the cause of opening the doors of college to many who otherwise could never have crossed the threshold.

When I first knew Dabney Lancaster he was Dean of Men at the University of Alabama. There, he encouraged a young Delta chapter, eager, but at that time with the unique distinction of being without a single member from the Yellowhammer State. This was some 20 years after he had graduated from the University of Virginia where, as a member of Beta Iota Chapter, he helped complete one of the most beautiful and desirable houses on Fraternity Row. Unfortunately, this chapter is now inactive.

After getting his A.B. at Virginia came his Master's at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, then research at the University of Missouri. His first major assignment was a professorship at V.P.I., which led to this appointment as Acting Secretary of the Virginia

State Board of Education. In 1929 he took his family to Tuscaloosa, Alabama, where, as Dean of Men, he contributed much to the University as well as to Delta Tau Delta. During this period he served as President of the Southern Division and proved quite an asset to the Arch Chapter.

While 5,000 male students present quite a challenge, there were three attractive daughters yet to be educated (his oldest had just been graduated from Alabama). Salaries being what they were, Sweet Briar College with just 500 students proved too tempting when he was offered the job as Executive Secretary of their Board, and he continued there until 1941.

Back in his native Virginia the Governor summoned him to take over as Superintendent of Public Instruction for the entire state. This assignment culminated in the presidency of Longwood College at Farmville, Virginia, in 1946. He promptly cut the enrollment almost in half, hired more faculty, and strengthened entrance and graduation requirements. Soon Longwood College gained proper recognition and Dabney Lancaster could well be proud of the results.

A man of such stature must inevitably return his talents and become the servant of the entire Commonwealth of Virginia. In 1956 he became chairman of the State Council of Higher Education. Thus he rounded out his career until his "retirement" in 1964.

Now, Dabney and his charming wife lead an idyllic life in Millboro Springs, Virginia (Bath County), on land his father bought in 1883, and where he himself has gradually built a commodious country home on a high cliff. Cow Pasture River surges below and the Allegheny Mountains dominate the horizon many miles away. To reach his daughter's amazing "A-Frame" cottage nearby requires an exciting walk over a swinging bridge 200 feet long and some 50 feet above the creek below.

Dabney's talents are still in demand and well utilized as chairman of Bath County School Board. For this, as well as for his many other accomplishments, the college at Clifton Forge, Virginia, is more than proud

Babcock's Third Term, 1897-1899

By F. DARRELL MOORE, Ohio, '16

KENDRIC BABCOCK succeeded in establishing his authority as President of Delta Tau Delta in fact as well as in name. He did not hesitate in asserting his leadership when the occasion arose. When Edwin Holt Hughes, as editor of THE RAINBOW, unwittingly used some of the esoteric terms in the magazine, Babcock called him to task rather abruptly; Hughes responded in good temper, however: "I am ready to take whatever blame attaches to myself in regard to the matters you mention."

Others had similar experiences. Alvan Duerr wrote Stuart Fuller, President of the Western Division, "You had much the same experience with Babcock that I had . . . my relations with him personally have always been pleasant . . . [but] . . . when it comes to business I have never got along with him very well. . . . I have concluded that in our controversies I have either always been in the wrong or else that Babcock never backs water whether right or wrong."

Robert Churchill came in for criticism at least twice. When he nominated a Beta Xi man to fill THE RAINBOW editorship, Babcock snubbed the suggestion on the basis that Beta Xi already had two of the nine members on the Arch Chapter. Later, when Churchill, as Ritualist, was experimenting with an expanded form of the Ritual, Babcock criticized him bitterly. Churchill effectively defended himself, but no apology came from Babcock.

In spite of these occasional outbursts, Babcock was the leader of the Arch Chapter. The other members were unanimously for his re-election, saddened by his departure in 1899, and would have welcomed him back in later years. He always had the support and admiration of Lowrie McClurg.

BRUCK RETURNS TO ARCH CHAPTER

When Lowrie McClurg heard that Alvan Duerr had resigned as Secretary in December of 1895, he wrote President Babcock, "I am going to try my hand again as an adviser and . . . suggest . . . one who has proven himself as the best Secretary Delta Tau Delta ever had . . . Henry T. Bruck . . . has a knack for fraternity work ahead of any other man I have ever known. . . ." The nomination came too late, as Hayden had already accepted the position.

At the Karnea, it was another story. As McClurg wrote Bruck in September, 1897, "There was no wire-pulling for you. . . . There were a number of men with lightning rods out. . . . Malvern of Cornell would have been willing to rattle around in the Secretary's chair. But the members of the Arch Chapter pulled together very well. Babcock, Hughes, Hodgdon were united for you. . . . Everything went through smoothly and there was no hard feeling whatever."

Soon after, McClurg continued: "I do not believe you will have any misunderstandings with the members of the AC. They have their own ideas, but none of them are blockheads or obstructionists. . . . Besides they are not new to the harness."

"Babcock is a good deal of a stickler for the authority of his office and the etiquette pertaining, but no more than I was myself."

A month later: "Don't you find it a different Fraternity from the one we worked on 20 years ago? It seems to me Delta Tau Delta occupies a position I never hoped to see. . . ."

"It pays to look back sometimes when things look dark. . . ."

Kendric Babcock spoke of Bruck in a letter to Churchill, October 27, 1897. "The old war-horse is getting back into harness in great shape. . . . I am inclined to think we have a more efficient, tho not a more faithful Secretary than before."

As an example of Bruck's directness and ability to express his ideas forcefully, here are excerpts from a letter to an alumnus: "While I acknowledge that as Secretary I am a servant of the Fraternity, I am far from being a servant of the individual members. My duties are confined to certain well defined limits within which I promise to act as promptly as the time at my disposal permits. Outside of these limits . . . all I do is done purely as a matter of courtesy. . . ."

"If you had answered promptly the communication sent to you there would have been no necessity for this call on my time and patience. Until such time as you have withdrawn the offensive expressions in your favor of the 5th instant I shall decline to pay any attention to your requests."

THE CALIFORNIA PETITIONERS

As Kendric Babcock was a faculty member at the University of California, his knowledge of the petitioners was first hand. "The men as a whole are good students," he reported, "active and even distinguished in college affairs. They are bright, earnest, gentlemanly, well dressed, well balanced fellows. . . . Thayer is president of associated students, Rector was editor-in-chief of last year's Blue and Gold, Dolman is president of the Sophomore Class, Hue is captain of the football team. . . ."

"They have sensible ideas as to the objects and purposes of a fraternity. . . ."

"The fight for a place at the front at California is going to be hard and long. The men who carry it on must have grit, courage, perseverance, and patience, and they must enlist for the whole campaign, not as militia or mere cadets, but as regulars and under orders."

BETA IOTA RE-ESTABLISHED

In March of 1897 J. D. M. Armistead, a charter member of the recently established chapter at Washington and Lee University, reported to President Babcock, "With regard to the University of Virginia matter, Blain and Fenner, who are there . . . came to the conclusion that it would not be wise to attempt the revival of the chapter before next term . . . fraternity life does not amount to much there, social clubs having usurped the true fraternity's place to a large extent."

The petition did not emerge until March 29, 1898. Henry Bruck made the investigation. He did not find it necessary to go into consideration of the University, as its position was well known. Of the petitioners, four were in the academic course and five in medical studies. H. M. Blain was the prime mover.

"They appear to be a quiet, self-respecting, clean body of men, all alive to what is going on about them, and interested in all college affairs. . . . Eight of the men return next fall. In my opinion the petitioners are worthy of a charter, and it would be wise to grant the petition at an early date. . . ."

Beta Iota was installed April 30, 1898, with Thomas J. Farrar representing the Arch Chapter.

BETA DELTA CHARTER WITHDRAWN

A voluminous correspondence continued all during the 1890's between the Treasurer, other members of the Arch Chapter, and Beta Delta Chapter, concerning the balances due the Fraternity and the local debts of the chapter. The total debt grew each year as current amounts were only partially paid, if at all.

Most of the correspondence was with an Atlanta alumnus, A. L. Tidwell, who became President of the Southern Division. After devoting much time and concern to the chapter, and even undertaking to pay off its indebtedness to the Fraternity, Tidwell at last became discouraged. On February 14, 1899, he presented a motion to the Arch Chapter: "That if by April 18, 1899, Beta Delta Chapter has not made satisfactory settlement of the local indebtedness, and also if it shall not have revived the interest so necessary to the maintenance of a chapter, the charter shall be declared withdrawn."

Babcock commented to Duerr, "Tidwell is an expert in keeping a chapter going . . . the condition must be really bad. So far as I know, it is the first case of a Division President proposing the withdrawal of one of his chapters, and that chapter his own. . . . It looks as tho the chapter, in spite of all our coddling, has simply petered out."

Henry Bruck was sent to investigate. During 1897-98 the chapter had leased a house for three years. Things went smoothly the first year, although the chapter failed to pay annual dues, and its local debt was small. Over the summer, however, the rent piled up, and leaders in the movement to get the house did not return to college. Failure to pay the accumulated rent resulted in seizure of the furniture. Though Atlanta alumni paid this debt, and the furniture was released, the effect on the chapter was a state of apathy. There was no meeting place, therefore no meetings. Membership was down to two graduate students and three undergraduates; there were also three Delts from other chapters, who had not been affiliated.

"Beyond their present comatose condition and their inexplicable lack of business methods," reported Bruck, "I can see no reason for the withdrawal of the charter." After his talk with the members, they requested an extension of time. He called for a prompt settlement of the annual dues, paying off of the balance of the local debt (which was not heavy), reorganization of the chapter on a good working basis before November 15, with suitable rooms, and a workable budget for the next college year. Tidwell and the other Atlanta alumni were to keep the chapter in a straight path.

Beta Delta failed to pay the delinquent annual dues before August first, as required by the Arch Chapter, and Bruck informed Duerr on August 3 that the charter had been forfeited.

DELTA'S TROUBLES CONTINUE

E. J. Ware reported in December of 1897, "The errors for which Delta suffers were made by men long gone . . . ere many years we will see Delta a power again. . . . Delta is deserted by her old initiates . . . thus far there are two promises of help and one 'cussin' out of 150 initiates and affiliates."

In February of 1898, W. R. Carpenter told Hodgdon that discouragement and apathy were increasing in the chapter. At the beginning of the next college year he wrote further: "The only actives will be Greenleaf and Beattie. . . ." He suggested the appointment as adviser of Dr. Warren W. Florer, professor of German and an alumnus of DePauw and Cornell.

On November 2, A. W. Wier wrote Hodgdon that thanks to Florer, along with George Taylor from Stanford and Andrew Clark from Colorado, "we now have an excellent chapter at Ann Arbor" and the Detroit alumni were enthusiastic. Sherman Arter reported that the consensus of a meeting he had with Florer, Wier, Taylor, and Clark was that Delta should affiliate the ten or 15 Delts from other chapters who were attending Michigan, but the chapter was opposed.

Ware wrote Bruck November 13 that Delta, having been tried by fire, "comes forth . . . like a phoenix . . . Delta is on her feet again." The alumni would raise funds to wipe out the old debt.

Dr. Florer became dangerously ill, and was not able to work with the chapter; however, George Taylor, who reported this, stated that there had been several meetings of the Delts in Ann Arbor, and an amalgamation of all Delts on campus had been effected. An initiation had been held in Detroit under alumni supervision. "The antagonistic feeling that heretofore existed between Delta Chapter and the chapters of surrounding small colleges, will soon be wiped out. . . . The chapter now numbers about 15 . . . of whom 10 or 12 are active." He then discussed rushing prospects.

Two months later Taylor wrote Hughes that the chapter had voted that night, February 15, 1899, to surrender the charter. He gave as the cause lack of interest and the more than one thousand dollars of old debt against the chapter. Alvan Duerr opined to Hughes and Hodgdon, "I think the only thing to do is to let it die entirely, then get a charter from some live men. . . . Our vacillation has been largely responsible for the present state of affairs."

Dr. Florer gave the reasons, as he saw them, for the chapter's collapse: the reputation of the chapter, the lack of harmony between the initiates and the transfer Delts, and the lack of a leader to unite the chapter. His illness had prevented his seeing the members for over three months. He reported, however, that the meeting where the vote to surrender the charter took place had not had a quorum present, and that only six votes were for withdrawal. In the words of Henry Bruck, however, whether the charter was constitutionally surrendered or not, the chapter was dead.

After outlining the story of the surrender of Delta's charter, Bruck told Carpenter that Delta could not expect any financial assistance from the Fraternity. "Delta has had more money and more consideration in money matters than any other chapter, and probably than all the rest of the Fraternity combined . . . it would have been infinitely better for the chapter and for the Fraternity if Delta had been made to stand on her own feet from the start."

AGITATION FOR RETRACTION

On August 26, 1898, Duerr wrote, "I think that most of the members of the Arch Chapter are agreed that a little more pruning is necessary, before we lay down our scepters next August. . . . Beta should have gone long ago, and Epsilon is almost the next case in order . . . we might as well pick the careless chapters in preference to those that are making magnificent efforts to keep their affairs in good condition . . . we are fighting for progress and not for an opportunity to make up for the laziness and indifference of others within our ranks."

Hughes voiced to Duerr his approval of the retracting movement: "I would proceed at once against Beta. Later we may try some others. . . . I would make the ground only the standing of the school."

On September 10, Hodgdon wrote Hughes, "Alvan and I talked it over. . . . I moved against Epsilon, he against Beta. Sorry to be active in the matter but I thought something ought to be done."

Bruck reacted to these motions in a letter dated October 5, 1898: "I would most certainly refuse to vote for the withdrawal of Beta. I shall oppose the Epsilon motion and hope I can . . . prevent the motion being carried. . . . It is about time to stop withdrawing charters on account of the position of the colleges."

As might be expected, Lowrie McClurg agreed, writing Babcock, "As to Beta and Epsilon it is a matter of the greatest injustice that their charters should have been attacked at all. 'Bear and forbear' apply even more to a fraternity than to ordinary individuals . . . these chapters have not sinned against Delta Tau Delta."

Babcock's position was somewhat similar. "I do not believe that there is any real demand for further subtraction; but on the other hand I do not think that the Beta will ever be a source of strength to us. . . . I will take no active part against any single chapter, except for some new and flagrant offense. . . . I am sick of the sight and smell of the blood on my hands. . . ."

McClurg wrote other members of the Arch Chapter, presenting his views. "I have favored the withdrawal of every charter that has been taken, but now I think we have gone far enough . . . the Fraternity is strong enough to carry every college on our list. . . . The colleges from which we have withdrawn have had no future that was apparent. . . . I believe in exclusiveness but not to the extent of causing weakness."

DEFENSE OF EPSILON

"As to Albion, next to the State University it is as good as any college in the state," wrote Lowrie McClurg. "It has grown largely, in the past ten years. A few years ago our chapter fell off a little in quality, but that has been remedied now."

Sherman Arter defended Epsilon in a letter to Western Division President Stuart Fuller. "I visited Albion last term. . . . They have some of the best men in Delta Tau Delta in their chapter and have a good body of alumni. I will vote to retain Epsilon, as I can name several schools that in my opinion are no better and they are not all in my Division either."

Babcock commented that Epsilon during the last five years had been several times on the verge of dissolution, "once from the worst sort of internal rows . . . and several times from careless management and indifference."

Surprisingly, the most effective arguments for the retention of Epsilon came from Delta alumni. A. W. Wier wrote Hodgdon, "In the past Delta has drawn some of her very best men from Albion, some of whom are now only held in line by their original chapter, and who will be lost entirely to the Fraternity should the motion carry. These men, Delta less than the Fraternity perhaps, can ill afford to lose. . . ." Hodgdon passed the letter to Hughes with comment, "It is really amusing to think of Delta—our old aristocratic Delta—petitioning that Beta and Epsilon be retained in the Fraternity.”

Ezra Ware wrote Henry Bruck, “Do not act hastily. Epsilon is all right. Her men are above the average in our small college chapters and the college stands next to the U of M in the state . . . if you pull Epsilon now, you cripple Delta.” Charles Warren alleged that Epsilon was the only chapter in the state whose alumni were enthusiastic supporters, and withdrawal of the charter would cost the Fraternity strong support in Michigan.

Henry Eberth conducted the investigation of Albion College and Epsilon Chapter. His report stated that the men were good, and fully up to the Fraternity’s standard. “We have the picked men of the College,” Hodgdon was skeptical of Eberth’s report, but Hughes thought it to be true, though perhaps more hopeful than warranted. “The new president is a man of ability and may do good service to the school. . . . Whatever may be the outcome of this motion let us use it to bring Epsilon to time in her relations with the Fraternity.”

When the final vote was taken only four of the five general officers voted for withdrawal, all the Division Presidents opposed, and the motion lost five to four.

ATTEMPT AGAINST BETA

On October 12, 1898, Frederick Hodgdon wrote Babcock, “I spent two hours this morning with Ed Hughes and we talked over the Beta and Epsilon motions and Bruck’s opposition . . . as it is apparently to be a fight, it might be well to concentrate our energies on Beta. Duerr, Hughes, yourself, and myself are agreed that Beta should go. . . . It seems to me that if the Division Presidents understand that four of the five members are in active favor of withdrawing Beta’s charter, as opposed to one member who is a recent addition to the AC, they will join our ranks.”

Lowrie McClurg joined the battle, writing Bruck on October 14, “I have already written Arter . . . it should be possible to obtain more than two votes. . . .”

Stuart Fuller acknowledged receiving a copy of McClurg’s letter of October 19 to Babcock. “From what I learn regarding Ohio University . . . I am rather inclined to vote against withdrawing the chapter . . . the prospects of the state institutions are in general good . . . the day of the small college is past.”

Northern Division President Arter wrote Fuller that “the main support for colleges is given Ohio State University at Columbus so that OU does not prosper as it might. In fact there is not much outlook for the future there. . . . I have not decided how I’d vote . . . the letter McClurg sent out contains much good sense. What hurt can they do? How will it help to drop them?”

Babcock stated to Hodgdon that he was not inclined to argue that the Division Presidents support an action because the general officers thought it advisable. “Already there is an idea that the ‘Big Five’ were running things to suit themselves, and that the Division Presidents were just used as tools.”

To Fuller, Babcock gave his views on Beta: “The chapter has been once before on trial for its existence, and won the fight, putting up a good case. But while it is, and has been, prompt in the performance of its regular duties, it has not seemed to draw men of great strength or force. This is not wholly the fault of the chapter . . . the institution has been left behind in the growth of new institutions and it will never recover.” Students were largely drawn from the vicinity of Athens, “a distinctly rural part of Ohio which is curiously spattered with small colleges.”

A voice from the past, former President Lucius Hoyt, joined the discussion. “To my mind the Fraternity has no right to withdraw a charter where the standing of the institution is as high as it was when the Fraternity granted the charter, and where a chapter is maintained which performs its Fraternity obligations. It is unfair and shoddy, because we think we are prospering, to cut off a chapter we were glad to establish in our less prosperous days.”

ARTER’S REPORT ON BETA

“Well I hardly thought Arter would swing around for Beta,” Hodgdon wrote Hughes, “It is very unfortunate that Arter was the Phonarch Especial.”

Following his investigation, Sherman Arter reported: “These men are the best looking lot of men I have ever seen at OU. They . . . don’t have that rustic appearance that characterized so many Beta men in the past . . . they will compare with the personnel of any chapter in my Division. . . . They have the greatest interest in the chapter and the Fraternity, and the only thing that obscures their future is the continued uncertainty as to whether they will be permitted to carry on. . . .”

Despite the favorable report by the investigator, the vote was six to three in favor of withdrawing Beta’s charter; Bruck had convinced Southern Division President Tidwell to vote against the motion, and of course Arter joined them. Since a seven-ninths majority was required to withdraw a charter, the motion lost.

Babcock directed Bruck to make the official announcements as to the results of the motions on Beta and Epsilon. “We have eliminated all the chapters . . . upon which there was anything like a general sentiment for withdrawal. If any more attacks are to be made along the line of the standing of the college, rather than the defects of the chapter itself . . . these should be made only after explicit instruction of a Karnea.”

GAMMA ALPHA CHARTERED

A petition bearing 11 signatures was presented by members of the Black Dragon Society of the University of Chicago, and was warmly endorsed by the Chicago Alumni Association. In his report to the Arch Chapter, L. K. Malvern stated that President Harper of Chicago was especially friendly to fraternities. Financially the petitioners had made sure that they would go through their first year free of debt. All members were able to bear their share of the expense. With the high standard of scholarship of the members, the nucleus of a very strong chapter was indicated. Malvern was very favorably impressed with the men—their appearance, their records in scholarship and athletics, and their spirit.

Gamma Alpha Chapter was formally installed on May 13, 1898. The possibility of a chapter at Chicago had been discussed since 1892, and seven fraternities were already there when our chapter entered.

PROBLEMS AT BETA PI

After a visit to Beta Pi in November, 1898, Lowrie McClurg expressed himself as thoroughly indignant and disgusted. He had witnessed a rough house in the chapter hall, and he said the chapter's rushing was a failure. Babcock sent the letter to other Arch Chapter members, and an investigation was ordered. McClurg advised Bruck the chapter seemed to have gone to sleep and "to be willing to die rather than run the risk of . . . making an initiation. . . . The chapter will have only five or six men next year . . . the best material has entirely gone."

L. K. Malvern was sent to investigate, and he reported to Babcock December 7. "I talked with the various members to learn . . . the true state of the chapter. . . . Personally I agree with McClurg, and so told the boys . . . so far as the dignity of the chapter is concerned.

"The books of the chapter are in very good shape for this year. . . . There is no debt. . . .

"The chapter had always good active upperclassmen to do the rushing. . . . Now that these have gone, those left . . . being bashful or lazy or otherwise incapacitated cannot make good rushers. . . ."

McClurg discussed Beta Pi's personnel in writing Babcock February 7, 1899. "To take a crowd of religious muckers and make gentlemen of them is I fear more than Delta Tau Delta can do. You can frighten a sport into initiating good men . . . and he is so companionable that he can induce them to join . . . the other kind do not know good men. Beta Pi is at present made up of second rate students and third rate preachers."

Henry Bruck discussed the chapter's condition with Fuller: "The chapter is not in very good shape. . . . Their standard of membership is a peculiar one; . . . they have such a good opinion of themselves . . . that they have practically given up the rushing of men and expect the men to come to them for admission."

ARCH CHAPTER POLITICKING

"As to . . . next year's AC . . . I do not care to subscribe to any ticket which contains the name of Bruck," Frederick Hodgdon wrote Babcock in October of 1898. "Bruck is a good fellow undoubtedly but I think he is too much out of touch with the Fraternity of today."

Duerr's opposition to Bruck was stated in a letter to Hughes in February, 1899. "The Bruck matter was mentioned to me first in July, 1897, and I opposed it from the first. It was Babcock's idea. . . . I hope he is satisfied with the experiment."

Lowrie McClurg defended Bruck to Babcock. "I find Bruck is not popular with Duerr and Hodgdon and that they have entered into a combination against him, taking Hughes with them. These three say they will not serve if Bruck is elected. . . . Aside from any faults Bruck may have, this attitude shows a great lack of Fraternity loyalty, and is a kind of sandbagging which makes me feel particularly indignant. . . . Duerr is not a particularly valuable officer and . . . he is not a pleasant fellow to have dealings with. Hodgdon is much more valuable . . . and there is no one better than Hughes."

To Hughes, McClurg wrote that he understood that there was some opposition to the re-election of Bruck, which he termed ill-advised. "It would be a setback to the Fraternity if he were side-tracked."

Bruck wrote McClurg, "Babcock tells me that my course regarding Beta and Epsilon may give rise to considerable opposition to my re-election. . . . I am interested in the work, but do not think . . . I will make any concession . . . for the sake of re-election." McClurg replied that he believed the opposition did not amount to much "and I think Babcock and Hughes by a few well placed letters can stop it."

Again writing Hughes in May, 1899, McClurg disavowed any desire to meddle in Fraternity politics. "I had gathered the idea that you, Hodgdon, and Duerr did not wish to continue in any capacity. You will make an ideal President and I most sincerely hope you will take the office. Hodgdon and Duerr are good fellows but . . . there is too much business and too little fraternal regard in their make-up. . . . I wish that you and Bruck could come together and talk matters over.

"I hope that for the good of Delta Tau Delta you four men can come to an agreement, for Bruck makes, I think, an ideal Secretary. . . . I have known him intimately 20 years and have always found him the same genial fellow. . . .

"I have no quarrel with Hodgdon or Duerr on general principles . . . but in my opinion Bruck is of more value to Delta Tau Delta than either. . . . Have a talk with Bruck before you issue any ultimatum, and you will find the same platform large enough for you both to stand on."

HUGHES FOR PRESIDENT

The announcement of Kendrick Babcock's intention to resign the presidency because of his inability to attend the approaching Karnea caused unanimous endorsement of Edwin Holt Hughes to fill the vacancy, with the clear intent to elect him to the office again at the Karnea. Alvan Duerr definitely removed himself again from consideration, and Sherman Arter, who had been rumored seeking the office, warmly endorsed Hughes for the position.

Henry Bruck requested the privilege of placing Hughes's name before the Arch Chapter for the vacant post, and Babcock agreed. This move on Bruck's part probably did much to placate Hughes.

DUERR'S SUCCESS AS TREASURER

In January of 1899, Alvan Duerr wrote Edwin Hughes. In addition to urging Hughes to be a candidate for President, he expressed his own interest in continuing as Treasurer.

"I am the father of the movement to infuse a healthier attitude into our chapters on the financial question . . . it was at my suggestion to make reductions in the matter of the very old debts. I . . . actually collected most of the back dues collected in the last two years of Hines's term. . . . Hodgdon carried on the work ably, better than it was ever done; then I became the Treasurer. At the end of my term the finances will be in the kind of condition that we never dreamed of five years ago. . . . I did the dirty work; why then, just as the work becomes easy, should I give it over to some one else, when it is decidedly to my taste? If I stay on the Arch Chapter it must be as Treasurer. . . . If my policy is too hard, I shall step out entirely."

CONFUSION IN WESTERN DIVISION

In 1898 the Western Division Constitution was amended to provide that the Division President be elected by the chapter entertaining the next Conference. At the 1899 Conference, held June 6, Beta Gamma was chosen to host the next Conference, thus was to elect the President, but the chapter would not meet again until college reopened in the fall. Since the Fraternity Constitution stated that a Division President assumes office fifteen days after the adjournment of the Conference at which he was elected, there was a question of who, if anyone, was Western Division President.

Alvan Duerr wrote President Hughes all this, and said he had asked Lowrie McClurg, the Fraternity's Judicial Officer, for a ruling on the constitutionality of the Western Division election provision.

McClurg ruled that it was the intention of the Fraternity Constitution that the Division President be chosen in open Conference. "At any rate, no Division has the power to delegate its elective powers to an individual chapter."

L. K. Malvern was appointed to fill the position of President of the Western Division.

BABCOCK'S FINAL REPORT TO THE KARNEA

Although his resignation as President had been effective July 1, Kendrick Babcock presented a comprehensive report for his third term to the 1899 Karnea. He found it particularly gratifying that year by year an increasing number of older alumni were renewing their activity in service to the Fraternity.

Babcock praised Alvan Duerr and Ed Hughes for their Arch Chapter service. The collection of more than $2,500 current dues was an unparalleled achievement. An earlier year, he stated, more than $1,500 was unpaid. Under the pressure exerted by Hodgdon and Duerr, nearly every chapter had developed "at least a rudimentary business conscience."

"THE RAINBOW," he stated, "always needs superior qualities, and these Brother Hughes has demonstrated even better than before. . . . His earnestness, enthusiasm, kindliness, and wisdom have been as subtly potent as they have been acceptable." Babcock also praised the Chapter Manual, mostly the work of Alvan Duerr, which had been issued during the term, describing it as an excellent piece of work which would supply needed information for all officers of the Fraternity "from the highest to the lowest."

Three new chapters were reported: Beta Omega at California, established February 5, 1898; Beta Iota, re-eslished at Virginia on April 30, 1898; and Gamma Alpha at Chicago, established May 13, 1898. Petitions from Penn State and Maine had been withdrawn.

HUGHES'S REPORT AS INTERIM
PRESIDENT

Edwin Holt Hughes made three important recommendations on Fraternity policy. The first was that the Arch Chapter, or its finance committee, have some supervision over the local finances of a chapter; he referred to the troubles of Delta and Beta Delta, caused by mismanagement of local finances.

His second recommendation was for the adoption of a definite policy with regard to retraction. The 1897 Karnea had indicated that the Arch Chapter should review the list of chapters and act to withdraw charters where it would benefit the Fraternity. Motions in furtherance of this policy, against Beta and Epsilon, failed to carry. "The whole question of retraction is a delicate one," said Hughes, "and gives room on both sides for the utmost charity and the highest conscience. . . . The standing of the college, the quality of the actives, and the loyalty of the alumni all enter into the elements of decision. . . ."

Hughes's third recommendation was that there be some control given the Arch Chapter over the initiation of professional students. The trend in that direction had been marked, over recent years, and the effect was injurious.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

"It is now 12 years since I have had the honor of presenting a report to the Fraternity and . . . I must tender my congratulations upon the immense strides and the commanding position assumed by our beloved organization in the Greek world. Pursuing . . . the middle course between the conservatism of the Eastern fraternities and the lavishness in the distribution of charters of certain Western and Southern fraternities, we have a well balanced chapter list which has proven a source of strength in all our undertakings. . . ." However, special mention would have to be made of four chapters:

ALPHA DISCUSSED

In analyzing the trouble at Alpha, Bruck pointed out that few men had graduated, compared with the number initiated. In consequence the chapter had developed a general anemic condition, with a lack of knowledge and interest in Fraternity affairs and a poor local reputation. After a rousing banquet, the alumni initiated the leader of the neutrals, a man of influence in the college. In Bruck's words, this marked a new era, but the reorganization of the chapter was still to be made.

DELTA'S CONDITION

"Affairs at Delta culminated in the total demoralization of the chapter," Bruck reported. The charter has been surrendered. The trouble was largely the heavy debt against the chapter; if this were paid, there would be no difficulty in establishing a good chapter at Michigan.

LAMBDA'S WEAKNESS

Evil effects attending admission of professional students into the Fraternity were evidenced at Lambda, Bruck reported. The different departments were scattered over the city and the hours conflicted, making close association impossible. The local alumni were fairly numerous, but inactive. A commissioner should be sent to Lambda with plenary powers, Bruck stated, to remain as long as necessary.

BETA DELTA

Bruck's report on the University of Georgia situation closely followed his report as commissioner. Though some of the alumni had offered to pay the debt to the Fraternity, Bruck stated that suspension of the Arch Chapter motion withdrawing Beta Delta's charter would not be wise. "If Delta Tau Delta re-enters the University of Georgia, it should be with an entirely new set of men."

POSSIBLE RETURN TO COLUMBIA

Since the last Karnea, Columbia University had received some consideration from the Arch Chapter as a field for expansion. Rho Chapter had opposed, feeling that the cost of establishing a competitive chapter on that campus would be too great, while a poor chapter would be harmful. Columbia was still under consideration, but all interests would be reconciled before any definite step was taken.

HENRY T. BRUCK

ALUMNI CHAPTERS

A conscientious weeding of the list of alumni chapters would have left but one—Chicago. New York City had been dead for three years. New chapters had been organized in San Francisco and Philadelphia.

BRUCK ON RETRACTION

Bruck recommended that a charter be withdrawn only where the circumstances surrounding the chapter are such as to make the existence of the chapter prejudicial to the general welfare of the Fraternity. "The policy of withdrawal on account of the standing of the institution was determined upon when . . . our entrance into institutions of higher rank depended upon our cutting off chapters at the lower end of the list." This factor having been eliminated, the standing of the college, except in extreme cases, should no longer be a consideration toward withdrawing a charter.

A FINANCIAL "FIRST"

"Probably for the first time in the history of the Fraternity," Alvan Duerr's report as Treasurer stated, "The Treasurer is able to report every chapter is out of debt to the General Fraternity. Former Treasurer Hodgdon reported only a small balance due of $107, so the task was comparatively easy. . . . I would be personally at fault if a single chapter turned over to its successor a single penny of debt. . . . The many ills arising from delinquency, the gradual decay of chapter enthusiasm and of fraternity zeal have convinced me that my only course was to insist upon the Fraternity's and the chapters' rights . . . and this I have done."

EDITOR HUGHES'S REPORT

Only four per cent of the Fraternity's alumni received THE RAINBOW, according to the editor's report to the Karnea. He presented a breakdown by chapters, and chided several chapters for the poor showing of their alumni.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The report of the Committee on Distribution was accepted, and its slate of officers elected, unanimously.

President—Edwin Holt Hughes, Mu, '89.

Secretary—Henry Bruck, Rho, '78.

The Committee proposed the abolition of the offices of Catalogue Agent and Historian, turning their duties over to the Secretary.

Constitution CHANGES

Amendments to the Constitution abolished the offices of Phonarch General for the four Divisions. Division Presidents, henceforth, were to be elected biennially. Membership in professional schools in the universities could be limited by a two-thirds vote of the Arch Chapter, in the case of individual chapters.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE Ritual

Edwin Holt Hughes had been appointed by President Babcock to head a committee for the revision of the Ritual as ordered by the 1897 Karnea. In his report to the 35th Karnea, he stated that the body of the old Ritual had been retained, the foundation having been so splendidly laid by Ed Curtis. More than 330 changes had

THIS IS AN EXPERIMENT

Alumni News has heretofore been listed in the alphabetical order of the last name of the alumnus. Several readers have suggested that the listing be by chapters, so that they might readily find items on their chapter brothers without a long search. In this issue, therefore, listings are in alphabetical order of the schools; where a man was in more than one chapter, he is listed under the school where he was initiated. This arrangement has not been adopted as a permanent one, as yet—the decision will depend on reader reaction.

Al Porter's Project

By JAMES H. GARRISON, Cincinnati, '19

WHEN THE CINCINNATI UNIT of the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children Burns Institute was dedicated May 21, no small amount of the credit was due to Alfred F. Porter, Miami, '26. A past potentate of Cincinnati's Syrian Temple, Al was chairman of the local committee which succeeded in bringing the unit—one of three being established throughout the nation at a cost of $10,000,000—to Cincinnati. As chairman in charge of ceremonies, he directed the groundbreaking, the cornerstone-laying, and most recently, the dedication-grand opening celebration. He continues to serve the cause as vice-chairman of the board of governors of the Cincinnati unit.

These Burns Institutes, which are open to all children under 15 whose parents are unable to pay for treatment, have a threefold purpose. In addition to providing the most advanced treatment and intensive care to save lives and restore bodies, the institutes conduct research to develop more effective methods of burn therapy, and they give instruction in the specialized techniques of care and treatment of burned children, to medical personnel.

Delts who attended the 1964 Karnea in Cincinnati will remember Al Porter as the genial MC at the Karnea to carry the distinguished name of this modest man.

Banquet. He is also a past president of Gamma Upsilon Chapter's house corporation, and a past president of the Cincinnati Alumni Chapter. To his continued devotion to Delta Tau Delta may now be added evidence of his active concern for the welfare of unfortunate children and his effective advocacy of worthwhile efforts to help them.

For the past three years Clifton Forge-Covington Community College has been a branch of Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, serving an area within a radius of 50 miles or so. However, in June, 1967, all programs came under the jurisdiction of the Virginia Department of Community Colleges and the institution was designated the Dabney S. Lancaster Community College.

From the beginning in 1964 with 98 students, six instructors, and an administrator, the college will open in September, 1967, with 315 students, a faculty of 21, three administrators, and a dynamic 34 year old president, Donald E. Puyear, Ph.D. This growth is ample proof of the need for and appreciation of higher education. The tuition is $45.00 per quarter but the investment Virginia has in each student is $1,200 per year. It's a gamble well taken that many students will remain in this area after graduation, but no matter where they go, they will be good acceptable citizens.

The entire student body lives locally or within commuting distance. There is no dormitory. The courses offered meet transfer standards to most programs in four year colleges throughout Virginia and elsewhere. However, for those who wish to prepare for immediate employment upon graduation, the college offers technical and vocational programs.

Here, then, is a two year college at the "grass roots," offering opportunities never before realized, with standards and diversity of courses to give each student the best potential for the extension of his skills.

It is wholly appropriate that this institution bear the name of a distinguished educator who has devoted so much of his life to the cause of education for all. Delta Tau Delta congratulates and salutes Dabney S. Lancaster, Virginia, '11!

the 130 miles to Moline, driving 30 m.p.h. on Interstate Highway 80.

Just 40 miles from Moline, the interior lights of the car and the trailer lights started flashing sporadically.

"You might say we looked like an airplane coming in for a crash landing," Pierce said.

"Then we woke up the entire city trying to park the trailer in my driveway at 3 a.m.," he added.

And the next morning the tire was flat again. California was beginning to seem a very, very long distance away.

After a 220-mile trip to find parts for the spring (which eventually didn't fit), the two spent eight hours crawling under the trailer, fixing the spring.

"Actually, it was the best thing in the world to be under the trailer," Pierce said. "It was raining."

"And you haven't lived until you've eaten coffee and sandwiches lying on your stomach beneath a 1941 Vagabond trailer," he added.

After all that, the spring didn't hold and the trailer was still leaning the next morning.

Meanwhile, both were spending spare time trying to sell rubber stamps to earn enough money to pay their bills. They sold $50-worth in the first hour, Pete said, and took so many orders they were up all night making the stamps.

After a total of ten days selling and making stamps and fixing the trailer, they decided they could choose to do one of three things: go out west anyway and probably get stuck in the middle of Nebraska; take the trailer and limp to some nice resort area and sell stamps for the summer; or come back to East Lansing and set up a permanent business.

"We decided to come back to East Lansing," Pete said.

The back of the trailer now reads: "California and/or Bust. Would you believe Illinois?"

With plans thus completely changed, the two decided to try to line up some good accounts which would be profitable during the school year as well as the summer, and to eventually hire someone to sell and make the stamps. Within two weeks, they acquired the accounts of Michigan State University, Motor Wheel Corporation and Sears-Roebuck Company, and they established dealers to handle the stamps, including an office-supply firm, a newspaper and a bookstore.

"And there isn't a day that goes by that someone doesn't ask us to sell either real estate, furniture, shoes, insurance, office desks, formica products . . .," Pete said.

"We could be making a lot more money by selling for someone else," Pierce added, "but it would take the uniqueness out of being our own boss and running our own business and making our own decisions."

PIERCE installs fluorescent lamp while PETE works with type.

"We like it this way," Pete put in, even if they do work on the average of 16 hours a day.

Pete, who operated a rubber stamp shop in high school, serves as production and sales manager, while Pierce is the accountant and maintenance man. (Pierce would like something done to that title, but Pete thinks it sounds fine.)

With $1,467.67 invested into the trailer and business, the two plan on spending a busy summer, figuring that they have to make $70 a day to break even by September. They have selling gimmicks with which they plan to approach businessmen—like finding a bookstore which would like to offer a free personalized rubber stamp (with the student's name) to every customer who purchases over a certain amount in books and supplies.

"We fully expect that it's only a matter of time before the world's largest rubber stamp shop is located behind the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house on Harrison Road in East Lansing, Michigan—in a trailer," Pete said. "On second thought, we might have to buy another trailer or two, or three. . . ."

Anyone interested in ordering a rubber stamp, either with name, address, business, signature or dater, can contact Pete or Pierce through the Delt house at 330 North Harrison, East Lansing, Michigan.

Founders Day in The National Capitol

One hundred and fifty-six loyal Delts attended the annual Founders Day dinner at the National Press Club in Washington, D. C., April 21, 1967. After an hour of socializing in the East Lounge, President S. Grady Brafford, Maryland, '52, welcomed the assembled Delts in the main ballroom of the famous club. Reverend Frederick T. VanderPoel, Cornell, '50, Rector, St. Martins in the Field, Seaverna Park, Maryland, pronounced the invocation.

After a delicious roast beef dinner, Brother Ray R. Dickey, George Washington, '38, took over as master of ceremonies. He did the usual fine job of keeping the program on schedule. The principal speaker was William S. Zerman, Executive Secretary, Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. He is an excellent speaker and gave the kind of talk fraternity men like to hear. He discussed the many problems facing fraternities today, especially the unfavorable treatment by the press. In spite of the criticism, fraternities are expanding and doing an excellent job in countering radical movements on many college campuses. We were, indeed, fortunate to have a speaker who is so thoroughly conversant with fraternity problems.

Justice Tom C. Clark, President of our Fraternity, presented a Distinguished Service Chapter citation to Lew Deschler, Miami, '26, long-time Parliamentarian of the U. S. House of Representatives. In making the presentation, Justice Clark recited many of the accomplishments of Brother Deschler, of which he had personal knowledge. Brother Deschler was the subject of a feature story which appeared on page 205 of the Summer '63 issue of THE RAINBOW entitled "Greatest Parliamentarian in the World—Lew Deschler."

The Honorable Loy W. Henderson, Northwestern, '17, presented the National Capital Alumni Chapter Award to Milt R. Hays, Maryland, '67, voted the outstanding undergraduate by Maryland's Delta Sigma Chapter.

Major General Edwin P. Parker, George Washington, '13, retired Provost Marshal General of the Army, presented gold embossed certificates to Raymond G. Clark, Cornell, '19, WILLIAM ZERMAN, Phi Gamma Delta executive, speaks to Washington Delts.

Earl W. Shinn, Kansas, '19, and Walter F. Sutter, Wesleyan, '18, in recognition of their fifty years of membership in the Fraternity. Gold certificates have also been prepared and sent to Rev. Paul D. Bowden, Sewanee, '16, Benjamin M. McKelway, George Washington, '19, Fred E. Shoemaker, George Washington, '17, and W. Waverly Taylor, Jr., George Washington, '19.

President Brafford, on behalf of the National Capital Alumni Chapter, presented American flags to the presidents of the active chapters at George Washington and Maryland Universities, to be flown alongside of their Delt banners. By so doing they can demonstrate their patriotism, as opposed to the draft card and flag burning groups which have become so conspicuous on many of our college campuses.

The Gamma Eta and Delta Sigma active chapters contributed to the success of the dinner by singing familiar Delt songs. All joined in the singing of "Delta Shelter," which brought to a close another of those never-to-be-forgotten Founders Day dinners in the nation's capital. All are looking forward to next year's Karnea to be held in New York City the latter part of August. This will be the nearest a Karnea has been held to Washington, D. C., and a record turnout of alumni can be expected.

Pacific Report

On February 6, 1967, President Tom C. Clark met with a group of Delts at a luncheon hosted by Jim Tabor, Sewanee, '37, at the Pacific Club in Honolulu, Hawaii. We who were able to attend this luncheon for President Clark had the opportunity of hearing him report on recent programs launched by the Fraternity and the inauguration of several new undergraduate chapters.

While in Hawaii, President Clark expressed his interest in attempting to establish an undergraduate chapter at the University of Hawaii, which has no national fraternities or sororities despite its present enrollment of about 17,000 students. Inspired by his leadership and initiative, several of the Delts who met with President Clark are presently contacting Delts throughout the state for support in re-activating the local alumni chapter so that it can assist the Fraternity in exploring the possibilities of establishing an undergraduate chapter at the University of Hawaii in the not too distant future.

Pittsburgh Alumni Program

In connection with the spring initiation at Gamma Sigma Chapter, Pittsburgh alumni participated in a dinner to welcome the new initiates into the Fraternity. The principal speaker was Lt. Cmdr. George A. Aitcheson, Pittsburgh, '52, who is in charge of the U. S. Navy's test pilot training program at Patuxent, Maryland. A graduate of the Navy War College, LCDR Aitcheson has served on the aircraft carriers Oriskany, Constellation, and Ticonderoga, and will leave for an assignment in the Far East in July.

Close on the heels of that event, Pittsburgh's Delts gathered 100 strong for the traditional baseball party, with a dinner at the University Club. This year was the 21st annual baseball party, and was held as a memorial to the late Branch Rickey. Dean N. R. H. Moor, Kenyon, '14, led in a memorial tribute, and music was furnished by John Sandor, West Virginia, '68, soloist.

John Galbreath, Ohio, '20, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Joe Brown, general manager of the club, gave interesting talks on baseball, and of course Galbreath also talked about how his horse won the Kentucky Derby.

Obituaries

EDWARD V. HENCKEL, JR., Western Reserve, '28, died June 19 in Cleveland. He was 61. A Cleveland native, he was educated in the public schools and Western Reserve University's Adelbert College.

EDWARD V. HENCKEL, JR., when he was Zeta's adviser.

An insurance underwriter, Mr. Henckel had taught classes in fire insurance, sponsored by the Fire Insurance Board of Cleveland, of which he was a member. As treasurer of the house corporation of Zeta Chapter, he was constantly emphasizing fire safety, to alumni and undergraduates. Mr. Henckel was Zeta's chapter adviser from 1936 to 1939, and was active in the Cleveland Alumni Chapter. In 1964 he was presented with the Alumni Service Award for long and faithful service to the Fraternity.

WARNER D. ORVIS speaking at Cornell Delts' Shelter dedication.

WARNER D. ORVIS, Cornell, '06, died June 28 in Mount Kisco, New York, at the age of 80. He was a native of New York City.

Mr. Orvis was senior partner in Orvis Brothers & Co., a New York brokerage firm founded by his grandfather. He was a member of the New York Stock Exchange and the New York, New Orleans, and Liverpool Cotton Exchanges. From 1913 to 1963, when he retired, he had been a trustee of first, the Citizens Savings Bank and, after the 1942 merger, the Manhattan Savings Bank.

In World War I he served as a first lieutenant in the Army, and in World War II as a commander in the Naval Reserve with the Industry Cooperation Division of the Navy Department.

Mr. Orvis had served as president of Beta Omicron Chapter's house corporation, as an officer in the New York Alumni Chapter, and as vice-president of the Eastern Division. He was a familiar figure at Karneas, which he rarely missed. In 1950 he was cited to the Distinguished Service Chapter of the Fraternity.

DAVID K. REEDER, Pennsylvania, '12, died April 26 at the age of 77. Born in Philadelphia, he was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, where he rowed on freshman crew and played varsity basketball.

Upon graduation Mr. Reeder went into sales work serving, in turn, various industries. In 1932 he went with the Vacuum Oil Company which later merged with Standard Oil Company of New York to form what is today the Mobil Oil Corporation. He retired from Mobil in 1954.

Mr. Reeder gave service to his Fraternity as chapter adviser to Omega Chapter, as an officer in both the Philadelphia and New York Alumni Chapters, and as vice-president of the Eastern Division. He was cited to the Distinguished Service Chapter in 1941. Brother Delts marveled to hear him "call the roll" at major Fraternity gatherings—he could call every chapter from memory, giving the Greek letter and identifying the school.

As agent for the Wharton Class of 1912 for many years, he won several awards. He likewise served the interfraternity cause, as treasurer, secretary, and vice-president of the National Interfraternity Conference.

ODELL SHEPARD, Northwestern, '07, died July 17 in New London, Connecticut, at the age of 82. He was a Pulitzer Prize-winning biographer.

DAVID K. REEDER

Born in Sterling, Illinois, he attended Northwestern University before being graduated from the University of Chicago, where he also earned a Master's degree. During this time he worked for St. Louis and Chicago newspapers. He taught briefly at the University of Southern California, then, following receipt of his Ph.D. from Harvard in 1916, he taught English at Trinity College until 1946.
