Joint Venture With a Future

By Robert L. Hartford

LAST FEBRUARY in Chicago the Arch Chapter met for the first time jointly with the Undergraduate Council. It was, I think, a significant experience for all 29 men who sat around the table and joined the discussion.

The wisdom of experience coupled with intimate knowledge of the current scene brought insight into our deliberations and a sense of accomplishment to our decisions. The undergraduates represented 16 chapters from all corners of the Fraternity, all types of institutions, and all sizes of chapters. Yet, through all their comments ran the same common thread of concern for the solution to campus problems. They were ready with ideas for strengthening the Fraternity through development of new programs. They were quick to orient the Arch Chapter's thinking in many areas. In particular I think of discussions on scholarship and its emphasis or non-emphasis on the Ritual (they like it as it is); on formal meetings (they don't like them); and on drug use (no longer an "in-thing"—now more of a high school activity).

This year's Undergraduate Council, having performed well, now will be replaced by another 16 men, from different chapters. They will meet again next year at the President's call. In the meantime, however, we will be meeting at the Toronto Karnea and those members of the present Council may well be present to lend a new dimension to the Karnea deliberations. Their voices may be heard in after-hours sessions, in discussion groups, in committee meeting, and in caucuses.

The Chicago joint venture may well have been a milestone in the history of Delta Tau Delta. I believe it will add significantly to our handling of current problems and provide a pattern for such occurrences on a regular basis in the future.

One of the final actions of the Chicago group was to pass a resolution of commendation to Past President Tom Clark for having conceived the Undergraduate Council, and the Arch Chapter joined in that motion with hearty accord.

PRESIDENT HARTFORD

Bridge Across The Gap

Undergraduate Council and Arch Chapter exchanged ideas at a unique meeting in Chicago.

AN UNDERGRADUATE insisted that coeducational living on the campus is more popular among sensationalizing newspaper and magazine writers than among students.

Another compared today's use of marijuana with campus drinking during the Prohibition years. Across the table from him, men who remembered those years sat and listened.

For two days, the group of 29 Delts discussed topics ranging from political activism to the importance of ritual in today's fraternity world. From their discussions came undergraduate resolutions, proposals for the summer Karnea, and some new opinions of the Generation Gap.

The scene was Delta Tau Delta's first joint meeting between the Arch Chapter and the President's Undergraduate Council. Representing the latter were 16 undergraduates—four from chapters in each of the Fraternity's international Divisions.

"The dialogue between the two groups was one of the most stimulating I have ever experienced," observed Darrell A. Posey, a senior at Louisiana State University whose suggestion led to the joint meeting. "There was a tremendous mutual respect and sincere desire to understand and evaluate both the alumni and undergraduate points of view."

One resolution adopted by members of the Undergraduate Council called for any member found in the non-medical use or possession of narcotics on Fraternity property or at Fraternity-sponsored events to be subject to appropriate disciplinary action, including expulsion.

There were criticisms of outdated Fraternity attitudes, suggestions for changes, explanations of campus actions and reactions, and a second resolution, "that the individual chapters of our Fraternity shall strive to become an abiding force to promote much needed constructive change on our campuses, in our country, and throughout the world."

The President's Undergraduate Council was made a part of the Fraternity government by the 1968 Karnea. The joint meeting held in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, Feb. 7-8, now is expected to become an annual event.

The tone of the February session was well reflected in the words of Second Vice-President William H. Andrews, Jr., a 1920 graduate of the University of North Carolina, after talking with Wayne C. Wilkinson, a junior at the University of California. "I have an entirely new opinion of Berkeley," said Bill. "It's certainly more good than bad."

CRAIG LENTZSCH

"We need to change the picture that the typical undergraduate has of alumni, the Central Office, and the Arch Chapter. . . . Most companies would go broke if they didn't continually update their marketing techniques. . . . Our company is fraternity; our product is a list of services and benefits . . . like any company, our sales force needs to be continually modernized."

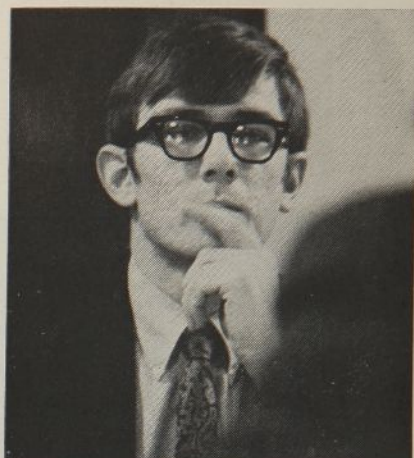

ERIC MONSON
Albion College

"At Albion we feel that the office of pledge trainer is extremely important. We feel one man usually is incapable of contributing enough time and energy to help mold a successful pledge class. Therefore, we elect two men for the job."

JAMES SELZER
Baker University

"The most dangerous threat to the Greek system on the college campus today comes from within. Fraternity has become synonymous with traditional thought. Existence of the fraternal system depends upon original thought, divergent opinions, and protest, in order to modify the framework of tradition."

CHARLES STINSON
Washington State University

"Expansion of Delta Tau Delta, especially in the large Western Division, can be extremely implemented by undergraduate participation from already established chapters. A weekend trip of Delts to a colony is helpful in the start of a strong new chapter."

THOMAS CALHOON
Ohio State University

"I think leadership and management training are possibly the two most important areas that the Central Office and Arch Chapter should be concerned with. If we build a leadership training program tailored to the Fraternity's needs, there is no reason why Delta Tau Delta cannot remain the leader among fraternities and, even more important, be recognized as a tremendous source of the type of leadership on which the future of the United States is dependent."

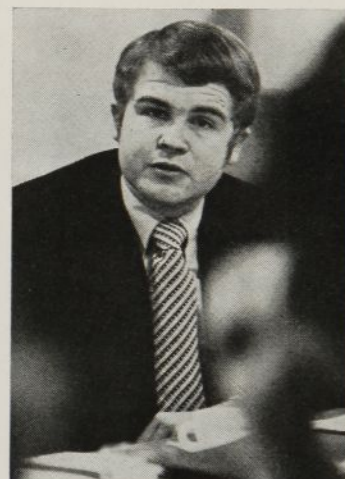

WAYNE WILKINSON
University of California, Berkeley

"We can't take a moralistic attitude toward drugs. We have to protect ourselves as a fraternity, but we must not attempt to legislate any person's individual morality."

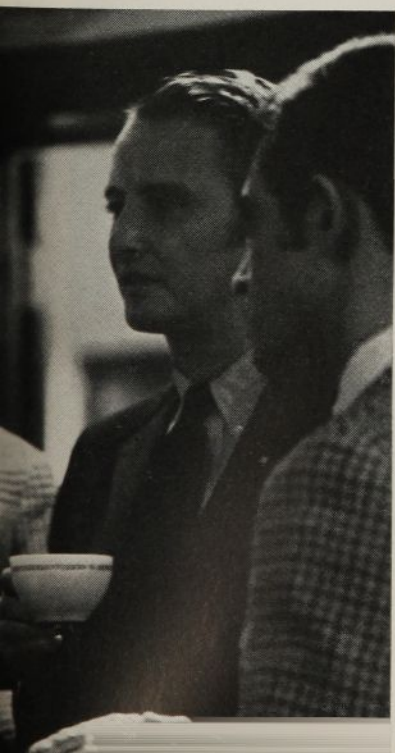

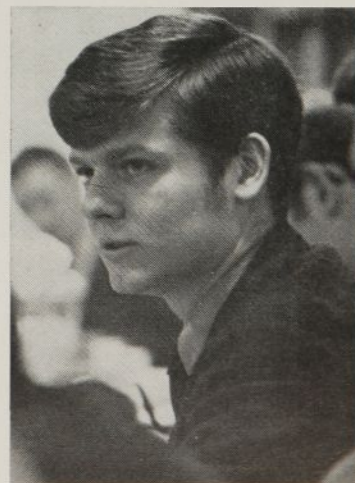

DARRELL POSEY
Louisiana State University

"The importance of pledge education in most chapters is ridiculously under-emphasized. The whole future of any chapter rests in the manner with which it handles its pledge program. I think the position of pledge educator should be made an elected office known as second vice-president for pledge education."

LARRY DINGLE
Allegheny College

"One of the biggest problems that fraternities are confronted with is the tendency to develop defensive-oriented programs. To be ultimately effective, however, positive programs must be adopted."

JOHN MOORE
West Virginia

"Resolutions adopted by the Undergraduate Council, especially concerning drug use, should be worded so as to avoid moral legislation."

JOHN JAGOE
University of Illinois

"Beta Upsilon has begun a program which assigns pledges to important chapter officers for a period of not more than a month, to act in the capacity of assistants. This system prepares the pledges to become vital members once they are initiated and not six months or a year later."

M.I.T.

"The best way to keep upperclass interest in the chapter is to traditionally promote the election of responsible upperclassmen to the important chapter offices."

WILLIAM BRUNTON
Westminster College

"The National Fraternity does not control the operation of each chapter. It attempts to make available practical and efficient guidelines within which the individual chapter can develop and progress into a position of leadership on its campus. It is not a baby sitter. It is a counselor."

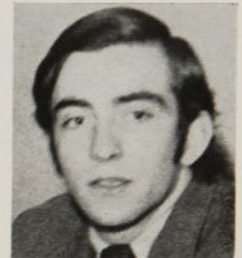

MICHAEL VOLKER
University of Maryland

"We are being forced, as Greeks, to increase our political activism or be crushed by an anti-fraternity movement on campus."

JOHN BILBY
University of Kentucky

"In order to survive, the Fraternity must change with our society. Although it will always be primarily a social organization, the Fraternity must also provide an atmosphere conducive to both academics and the social change of the Seventies."

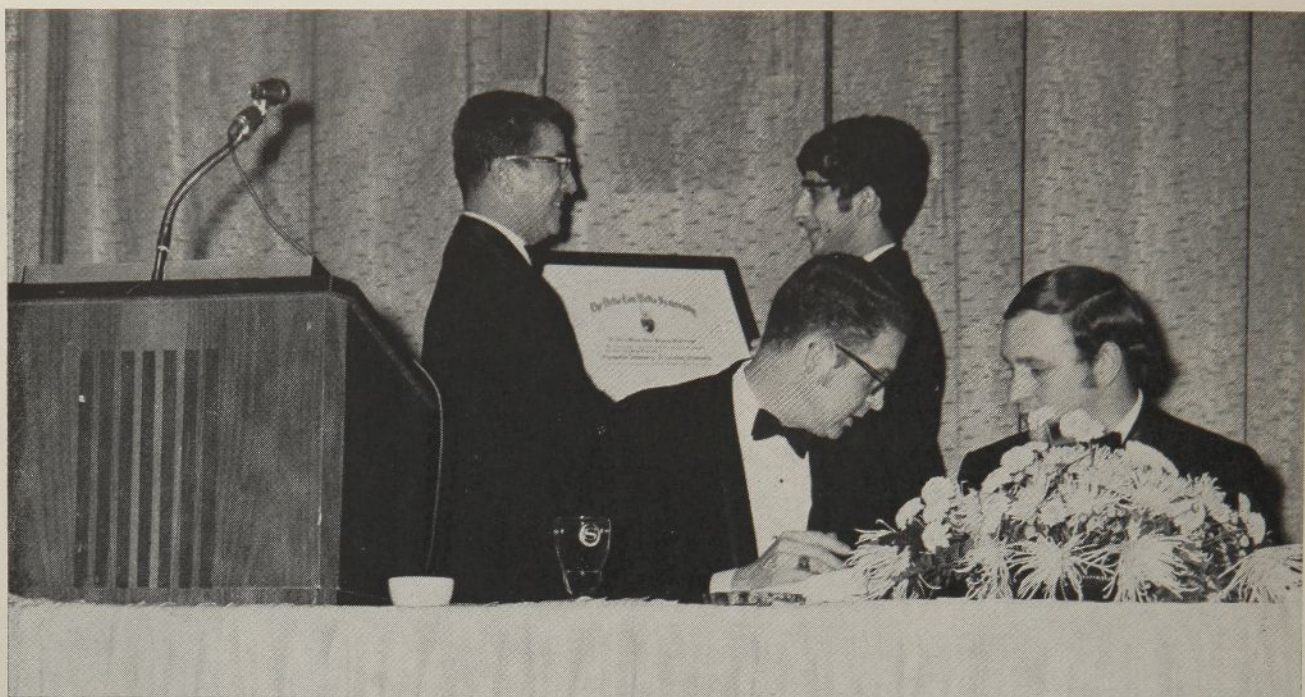

MIKE DESMOND
Wesleyan University

"No chapter can convince me that it can continue to survive on brotherhood, virtue, and tradition in the next few years. Involvement and awareness in issues of drugs, race relations . . . all campus issues . . . are absolute requirements for us and will be for other regions sooner than most of you would like to believe."

TIM ENGLEHART
DePauw University

"With the varied term systems and expanding junior year abroad programs, each chapter has a unique situation concerning election of officers. If the Constitution could be amended giving chapters a free hand to develop more effective election procedures, I believe the result would be a revitalization of interest and ideas in chapter affairs."

Zeta Alpha Charter is presented by Northern Division President Edwin H. Hughes to Chapter President Anthony Shaker.

Marquette University

DELTA TAU DELTA moved into the "Zeta Series" with the initiation of Zeta Alpha Chapter at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., on Feb. 7.

The afternoon Ceremony of Initiation and the Rite of Iris were conducted by teams from Epsilon Tau Chapter, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

The installation banquet, attended by members of the Arch Chapter and the Undergraduate Council who were meeting in Chicago during the weekend, marked the first time a Marquette social fraternity has received a national charter.

Zeta Alpha also became the first Delt chapter to be installed at a Catholic University.

The chapter formerly was a member of Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternity. It left A.D.S. and became Alpha Sigma Delta, a local service fraternity, then began to expand its horizons.

A committee was organized to inquire into different national social fraternities, and Delta Tau Delta became interested enough to establish a crescent colony in Feb., 1969. An outstanding record of achievement during the year that followed brought full chapter status.

Toastmasters for the formal installation banquet at the Sheraton-Schroeder Hotel in downtown Milwaukee were Philip Berghausen, assistant director of student activities at Marquette, and Kirby Stanat, placement director at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Edwin H. Hughes, III, President of the Northern Division, presented the charter to Zeta Alpha President Anthony R. Shaker, a liberal arts senior. Principal speaker was National President Robert L. Hartford.

Marquette University is a private, coeducational university named for renowned French Jesuit explorer Pere Jacques Marquette. The school's history dates from 1848, when it was established as a liberal arts college.

In 1906, Milwaukee Medical College, which also had a curriculum in dentistry, affiliated with Marquette. Subsequent developments brought the addition of the Colleges of Nursing, Business Administration, Journalism, and Engineering, and the Schools of Law, Speech, and Graduate Study.

Zeta Beta Charter is presented to Chapter President Robert McLendon by Southern Division President William Fraering.

LaGrange College

ON MARCH 7, months of preparation were climaxed by the official installation of Zeta Beta Chapter at LaGrange College in LaGrange, Ga.

As a local fraternity, Sigma Nu Pi, the group had been the first to organize on the campus in 1953. Its record since that time resulted in its being the first chapter to receive a charter without becoming a colony. The Arch Chapter waived colony status in favor of installation this spring.

During a search of national fraternities in 1969, the LaGrange group became impressed with Delta Tau Delta's Epsilon Alpha Chapter at Auburn University. Joint functions between the two organizations developed, and when a vote on national affiliation was made, the result was 100 per cent in favor of the Delts.

It was appropriate that Epsilon Alpha teams should conduct both Initiation Ceremonies and Rites of Iris for the new chapter in March.

A reception at the LaGrange Elks Club was followed by the installation banquet. Southern Division President William J. Fraering presented the charter to Chapter President Robert McLendon, and Southern Division Vice-President awarded certificates to 29 new Brothers. National President Robert L. Hartford also spoke to new members and guests.

The weekend was capped by a formal dance attended by members of the new chapter and Delt guests from chapters in the tri-state area of Georgia, Alabama, and Florida.

Zeta Beta has the distinction of being the only fraternity at LaGrange College with its own house. The Shelter, located off campus, also served the local organization.

Among prominent Delts in attendance were Southern Division President William J. Fraering, who flew from New Orleans for the event; former Ambassador Loy W. Henderson; Retired Maj. Gen. Edwin P. Parker; and Dr. Elgin Groseclose.

The dedication plaque was presented by House Corporation Treasurer Lowell H. Moran to Chapter President Charles A. Boone. A buffet luncheon followed the ceremony.

Located at 2020 G Street, N. W., directly across from the Library, the Shelter is easily the outstanding fraternity house on the campus. Thirty men are housed in the nicely furnished, air-conditioned house.

Relief Volunteers

Epsilon Nu Chapter was one of six social fraternity groups at the University of Missouri at Rolla who volunteered their services in the Pruitt-Igoe emergency relief project in January at St. Louis.

Students spent several days helping evacuate people and furniture when more than 10,000 Pruitt-Igoe public housing residents were left without heat, electricity, and water because of flooding from broken water pipes.

The relief project involving students was coordinated in St. Louis by UMR professors through the St. Louis Association of General Contractors, the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the Pruitt-Igoe Neighborhood Advisory Council.

St. Louis Founder's Day

THE ST. LOUIS Alumni Chapter held its annual Founder's Day Banquet March 6 at Schbeidhorst West, Clayton, Mo. Sixty alumni, their ladies, and undergraduates from Columbia and Rolla, Missouri, chapters attended.

Robert Kroening, Western Division Past-President, spoke on the Fraternity today, comparing it with years gone by. Jay Randolph, prominent St. Louis sports announcer, spoke on the subject of athletics, offering his predictions for 1970 teams in the city.

For Distinguished Service

DR. DURWARD CORY, Wabash '29, was presented a Distinguished Service Chapter Citation at the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter State Day banquet on March 14. Text of the citation was:

"Devoting 40 years to combined careers in education and Deltism, he has enriched the lives of many men whose involvement and growth in these institutions he fostered and inspired. Many initiates of Beta Psi and other chapters were first his students, and always his grateful friends. As President of the Beta Psi Home Association, he gave tireless leadership to the development campaign which in 1969 was consummated in the dedication of a stately new Beta Psi Shelter. His contribution to the increase and continuity of Delt precepts has been all-embracing."

Conferences in the West

DELEGATES collected early at the registration desk in San Francisco for the West Coast Regional Conference of the Western Division, at the International Airport Holiday Inn on February 13-14.

Approximately 50 delegates, representing the 12 West Coast chapters of Delta Tau Delta, were on hand to hear various panel discussions and partake of Beta Omega (California) chapter's hospitality. Richards D. Barger, California Commissioner of Insurance, was speaker at Friday's luncheon, while National Vice-President DeWitt Williams was featured speaker at the Conference Banquet.

The Conference was conducted by Western Division President Bill Hulsey, assisted by Division Vice-Presidents Darrel Johnson and Harold Tattan, Executive Vice-President Al Sheriff, and Field Counselor Jay Langhammer.

The eastern part of the Western Division met in Manhattan, Kansas, on March 13-14, with Gamma Chi (Kansas State) as host.

One of the largest crowds in Division history for a Regional Conference was present for the opening gavel from Division President Bill Hulsey. Over 150 delegates and chapter advisers were present at the Ramada Inn, representing 21 chapters and two colonies.

Again, the delegates participated in a crowded schedule of panel discussions and individual officer and chapter conferences, conducted by Division Vice-Presidents I. L. Malm, John Venable, Grover C. McElyea, Jack Patrick, and by Gale Wilkerson of the Central Office and past Western Division President, Bob Kroening.

Jerry A. Lilly, adviser to fraternities at Kansas State University, gave the luncheon address, with Past National President Martin B. Dickinson serving as speaker for the Conference Banquet.

Again, the Western Division is proud to have broken records in attendance at Regional and Division Conferences, and hopefully, to have established high standards and examples for all other chapters.

The Delt Album

IN THE 1940's, a quartet of Purdue University undergraduates became so popular as a singing group that its name, "The Varsity Four," began to spread beyond the campus.

Graduation brought occasional changes in the group, but in 1949, when the photo on this page was taken, members were Robert E. King, baritone; Wayne F. "Doc" Ruggles, tenor; Edwin D. Easley, lead; and William L. Wainwright, bass.

"The Varsity Four" drew praise from Delts across the country during appearances at Karneas. Later the group received national honors at SPEBSQSA competition.

The quartet in 1949, clockwise from the top, King, Easley, Wainwright, and Ruggles.

Bob King joined the Square D Co. after graduating from Purdue, and has progressed from field engineer through several positions to Western Sales Manager in Los Angeles.

He has been active in a church choir and several different community choruses, but extensive business travel has minimized his quartet work. His wife and three children share an interest in music. Bob helped his 14-year-old son, Scott, organize a Barbershop Quartet in Junior High School, and the group has developed a genuine interest in the project.

Daughter Kathryn, 19, is a student at Hanover College in Indiana, and Debra, 16, hopes to enter Miami University of Ohio in the fall.

"Doc" Ruggles has continued to use his nickname and to serve as an occasional judge for SPEBSQSA contests.

However, as executive vice-president and co-owner of Value Analysis, Inc. in Glasgow, Ky., he does more speaking than singing. He is a frequent lecturer for professional association meetings, universities, and other groups.

After working with the Hotpoint Division of General Electric, "Doc" joined Value Analysis, Inc., in 1959. He left for a while, but rejoined the Schenectady-based Corporation in 1966. Today he coordinates all phases of its program development.

"Doc" and his wife, Ginnie, have four daughters.

The singing background and a life-long interest in music serve Ed Easley well in his current position with Kenyon and Eckhardt advertising agency in Chicago.

Ed, who is in the creative side of advertising, becomes involved most frequently with material prepared for radio and television broadcasting.

While working in Detroit from 1950-54, Ed sang with another quartet, the "Clef Dwellers," which won third place in 1951 international competition. The following year, the group spent a year in Germany, entertaining GI's and teaching them how to harmonize and form their own quartets.

Ed, his wife, Virginia, and sons Bob 12, and Tom, 10, live in Wilmette.

Bill Wainwright and his wife, Jean, both sing regularly in a church choir at Boulder, Colo., where he is an associate professor of mechanics at the University of Colorado.

All four of their children—Jill, 16, Jane, 14, Jack, 12, and Joe, 10, are musical, playing piano, flute, violin, guitar, and drums. Four members of the family took part in a recent production of a church opera.

After receiving his bachelor and master's degrees from Purdue, Bill went to the University of Michigan, where he earned his Ph.D. Before going to Colorado, he was on the faculties of the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, Calif., and the University of California.

The men today are pictured in the same order, clockwise from the top, King, Easley, Wainwright, Ruggles.

Special Report: The 1968-69 Awards

HUGH SHIELDS AWARDS, emblematic of excellence in over-all chapter performance, have been awarded to the Fraternity's top ten chapters for 1968-69.

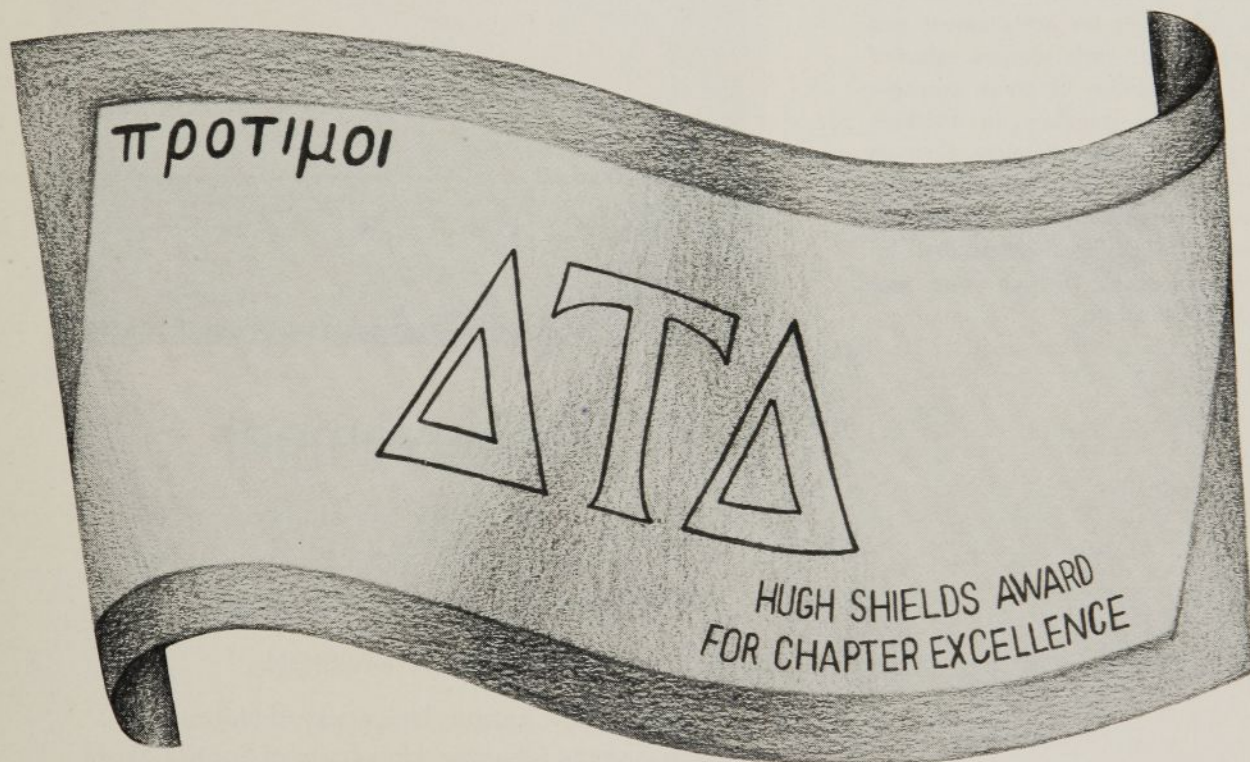

Presented by the Arch Chapter, the awards are determined on the basis of balanced development in the social, moral, and intellectual aspects of fraternity life. The 10 awards are equal and are presented here in Greek alphabetical order.

Among criteria considered by the Arch Chapter in making selections are scholastic rank on campus, attitude toward scholarship reflected in chapter programs, rush practices, honors and awards to members, internal organization and property maintenance, intramural, government, and social standing on campus, Fraternity education, and alumni relations.

Banners indicating selection in the Top Ten have been presented to winning chapters for display until next year's selections.

Cincinnati and Oklahoma State are the first two chapters to gain permanent possession of banners, with five consecutive awards. Emory is the only other repeat winner from last year.

Alpha Chapter, Allegheny College
Gamma Chapter, Washington & Jefferson College
Beta Epsilon Chapter, Emory University
Beta Nu Chapter, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Gamma Xi Chapter, University of Cincinnati
Delta Gamma Chapter, University of South Dakota
Delta Chi Chapter, Oklahoma State University
Epsilon Eta Chapter, East Texas State College
Epsilon Kappa Chapter, Louisiana State University
Epsilon Sigma Chapter, Athens College

Awards . . .

Awards for scholarship are divided into categories for achievement and improvement, with winners selected on a comparison of point averages and campus standing. In 1968-69, competition was extremely close in every Division. For that reason, an unusual number of co-winners were named. Plaques for winners and co-winners in each Division were presented this spring.

THE FIRST annual award for the best Rainbow article of the year by an undergraduate author goes to Alex Makowski, a junior at M.I.T. The $100 prize was awarded for his article, "The Need for Awareness," which appeared in the summer, 1969, issue. The author was cited for the quality of his writing and for his analysis of the climate of universities in an article that offered possible solutions along with criticism. A chemistry major, Alex is active in chapter affairs at M.I.T. and is a former associate news editor of The Tech, undergraduate newspaper there.

THE RAINBOW

What Ever Happened to the Former Fieldmen?

IN THE EARLY 1920's, a young University of Colorado graduate named Ralph Wray agreed to accept an experimental position as field secretary for Delta Tau Delta. He was to travel the country, assisting chapters with solving problems of finance, scholarship, rush, and leadership, as liaison between undergraduates and the Central Office.

Since that time, 48 Deltas have served as fieldmen. Their mode of travel has changed and their job title has progressed from field secretary to field counselor. But their mission has remained essentially the same: chapter service wherever it is needed.

In doing their jobs, Delt fieldmen have themselves received opportunities to learn much about their country, human nature, and the art of what psychologists term "interpersonal relationships."

To discover how much the position has meant to fieldmen, and to gather up-to-date information about the men themselves, The Rainbow conducted a survey during the past few months. Results have been overwhelming.

Most noticeable is the success fieldmen have carved in their varied careers. Equally significant is the satisfaction they have found in their personal lives. Leadership qualities which they displayed in their undergraduate chapters, and which were decisive factors in their being chosen as fieldmen, have carried over into their careers.

Nearly every former fieldman credits his short-term Delt position with providing experience that has been of great value either directly or indirectly.

Here are some comments:

"... The job provided me with many valuable tools for working with people—a real plus for a young man moving into the business world."

"... It gave me an opportunity not only to meet and communicate with many people of distinction, but it gave me a chance to visit practically every area of the United States."

"... The field position was the foundation of my career and was the most beneficial experience I could have had prior to banking. The Fraternity took my feet and placed them firmly on the ladder."

"... I learned that a great deal can be accomplished with respectable management of human resources and even limited financial resources."

"... My experiences gave me a basis for an extremely full life which I have enjoyed very much."

"... I felt the field training was equal to an MBA."

"... The experience broadened my association and provided many lifelong friends."

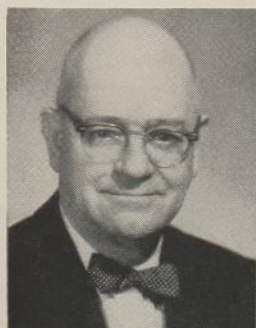

"... The job broadened my somewhat provincial outlook, taught me how to write and speak. All of these factors came to my aid many times in later years."

A majority of the men have remained active in Delt affairs as national and division officers, alumni chapter organizers, and undergraduate chapter advisers. The total of 48 includes four field counselors currently serving on the staff, and Executive Vice-President Al Sheriff, who was a fieldman after graduating from Washington & Jefferson in 1949.

Two former fieldmen are deceased. Fred C. Kellogg, Missouri '46, was killed in an airplane crash in 1951. Garth B. Slater, Miami '38, died at Corpus Christi, Tex., in 1967.

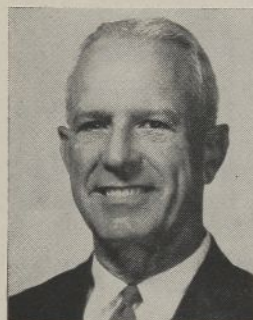

Capsuled career sketches on the following pages offer a composite look at the men who have served Delta Tau Delta "in the field."

Former Fieldmen . . .

LT. COL. RALPH M. WRAY, Colorado '20, Delta Tau Delta's first field representative, now retired and living in Washington, D. C.

has led an interesting and diversified life since moving from his Fraternity position into the field of music, and then to World War II service in the Marine Corps. He can look back on such highlights as being associated with the Glenn Miller Orchestra and being in charge of raising funds and building the Iwo Jima Memorial in the nation's capital. Today, he still serves as a part-time consultant for Felix DeWeldon, sculptor of the Iwo memorial, and for the Marine Corps Reserve Officers Association.

T. FITZHUGH WILSON, Tulane '26, finished law school before serving as fieldman in the late 1920's. He entered private law practice in New Orleans, and in 1932 joined the Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana. Meanwhile he served the Fraternity in offices ranging from a chapter adviser to Division vice-president and president, and a member of the Arch Chapter. In 1936, J. Edgar Hoover appointed him a special agent of the FBI. After serving 16 years, he was appointed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower as U. S. attorney for the Western District of Louisiana. He retired from that position in 1962 and returned to Monroe, La., where he has since engaged in private law practice. He has been listed in Who's Who in America for many years.

ROBERT C. DAVENPORT, Nebraska '28, was in industry briefly and in government service 12 years before establishing a building and land development firm at Alexandria, Va., in 1945. Since that time his firm has built 700 houses. The most successful of the residential projects has been Hollin Hills, where 500 houses will be completed this summer. Then he plans to spend full time on his farm near Delaplane, Va., where he has been raising Angus cattle for 20 years. Hollin Hills has received many national awards, and has been featured in trade and professional publications because of its superior architecture and land planning.

ROBERT G. SHANKLIN, Brown '29, the Fraternity's fourth fieldman, joined Mobil Oil Corp. in 1931. When he retired in 1966, he was manager of petroleum promotion for the corporation's entire North American Division. He was on leave from Mobil Oil during World War II while serving as a lieutenant commander in the Navy. Now living in Old Lyme, Conn., he is science editor of Choice magazine, a publication of the American Library Association.

HARRY G. GREEN, Washington '31, is one of several Delts who have become college presidents. Since 1944, he has headed Phillips Business College in Lynchburg, Va. He went to the college as business manager directly from his Fraternity position in 1937. A member of several state and national educational groups, he is active on the Interim Council of the National Commission on Accrediting and is a past president of the United Business Schools Association.

EUGENE B. HIBBS, Kansas '33, resigned from an eight-year position with Inland Container Corp. in 1946 to organize his own firm in Indianapolis. Today Dura-Containers, Inc., of which he is president, operates five corrugated box plants, a wood packaging plant, and two food packaging plants making metal closures and blow-molded plastic bottles. He also is chairman of the board of Digilin, Inc., a manufacturer of electronic digital readout measuring instruments. In 1951 he became a member of the Young Presidents Organization, consisting of men who have become presidents of companies doing at least one million dollars annually before they reach the age of 39. Among his outside activities is general chairmanship of the "500" Festival PGA Golf Tournament.

KENNETH C. PENFOLD, Colorado '37, also chose to organize his own business after several years' experience in business, industry, and education. He was with a pneumatic accessories manufacturer, a real estate salesman, and director of alumni relations for his alma mater before organizing a highly successful real estate and insurance firm, Ken Penfold Realty, Inc., in Boulder, Colo., 11 years ago. Meanwhile, he has been Western Division President and a chapter adviser for the Fraternity.

JOHN W. FISHER, Tennessee '38, following two years as field secretary, and an M.B.A. from Harvard Business School, joined the Ball Corporation in Muncie, Ind. He has moved through the manufacturing, sales, and general management ranks to the position of corporate vice-president. He also has been associated with Eugene Hibbs in development of Dura Container Corp. John has been an active pilot for 27 years. He also does some farming and golfing.

WITH THE KARNEA blueprint completed, a Toronto committee is busy constructing Delta Tau Delta's first Fraternity-wide event in Canada. The 70th Karnea is set. The dates are August 26 through 29. The site is the largest hotel in the British Commonwealth, located in the heart of the fastest growing city in North America. And the time to register is now!

As before, a varied program has been designed for undergraduates, alumni, wives, families, and guests. Emphasis in business sessions will be on individual participation. Entertainment is first class. The Canadian National Exhibition and many other exciting features of Toronto offer opportunities for free-time enjoyment. An optional evening at the Exhibition, featuring a Sammy Davis, Jr., show, is planned.

Speakers

Two men whose professions demand sensitive views of the bridge between college and career, will speak at the Karnea Banquet and the Leadership Luncheon.

The Banquet speaker, Dr. Andrew David "Andy" Holt, Emory '27, president of The University of Tennessee, has served in virtually every capacity of the educational field and was awarded the highest honor that America's teachers can bestow upon a member of their profession—president of the National Education Association. He was also chairman of the U. S. Delegation to the World Organization of the Teaching Profession at Berne, Switzerland.

Dr. Holt is currently serving as a member of the national Steering Committee of the Education Commission of the States, which was recently established by governors and legislators throughout the nation. He is past president of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Aside from his educational activities, Dr. Holt is a member of the Board of Directors of the South Central Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, and is a former member of the Board of Directors, Nashville Branch, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

Mr. Murphy

Leadership Luncheon speaker A. J. "Bud" Murphy, Jr., Penn State '38, has served the Fraternity as a fieldman, vice-president and president of the Eastern Division, national treasurer, and adviser to the Carnegie-Mellon chapter.

He was dean of men at Carnegie Mellon four years before leaving to work in personnel on the Atom Bomb project in 1944. The next year he joined Westinghouse Corp., working with college graduates who entered the company. He described the position as a corporate "dean of men."

Transferred to the Training and Development Department, he became manager of Management Training and Development.

Last year he was asked to help start a new department that is concerned with the first five years of the young professional man's career in Westinghouse. In this capacity, he has been identifying areas of concern between the young professional, his university life, and his industrial life. Intent of the program is to bridge this gap.

In addition to giving frequent talks to individual chapters, "Bud" has been a participant in several Karneas.

For the first 12 years after his graduation from Penn State, Andrews was associated with the coal industry. He was office manager of the Dial Book Coal Company and the GreenRidge Company, 1937-39, in his native Scranton, Pa. From 1939 until 1949, he was secretary and sales manager for both companies. FOOTBALL

Taking over the reins of the Baltimore Colts is Don McCafferty, Ohio State '46, a long-time assistant with the club. The quiet, personable McCafferty has been the offensive backfield coach since 1963 and has always been very popular with the players, many of whom had publicly expressed the hope that he get the job.

Don played a year with the New York Giants and later served as assistant coach at Kent State prior to joining the Colts in 1959. The 49-year-old mentor and wife June have four children and reside in Timonium, Maryland. Our congratulations to Brother McCafferty, the first Delt to ever serve as head coach of a pro football team.

Three other Delts will be back as assistant coaches in the NFL: Ernie Zwhalen, Oregon State '57, with the 49'ers; John Polanchek, Michigan State '50, in his fourth year with Oakland; and Ray Prochaska, Nebraska '41, with the Rams.

Delts selected in the NFL draft were Stanford guard Bob Reinhard, by the Green Bay Packers; Stanford tackle Dave Sharp, by the Houston Oilers; and Lawrence tackle Joe Patterson, by the Washington Redskins. Signed as a free agent by the Cincinnati Bengals was Tim Abena, Stanford '69, who had a tryout with the 49'ers last fall.

Heisman Trophy candidate Jim Plunkett of Stanford was named the 1969 winner of the VOIT Memorial Trophy as the outstanding player on the Pacific Coast. Jim and his Delt teammates will put their passing game on display before a national TV audience on September 12 against Arkansas.

One of the Ohio Conference's outstanding sophs last fall was quarterback Steve Chase who passed for 1186 yards and 10 TD's. He also ran for five scores and will have two more years of eligibility. Delts named as co-captains for next fall are linebacker Steve Whitman of Whitman and defensive tackle Henry James of Maine.

Athletic Director at Parsons College is Wayne Williamson, Florida '60, who has held the position since June of 1968. Wayne also serves as head football coach.

BASKETBALL

Kansas State soph Bob Zender, who scored 349 points for a 12.4 average, helped lead the Wildcats to the Big Eight championship. He was named as the conference's "Soph of the Year" and was given All-Big Eight second team honors. Stanford junior guard Dennis O'Neill had a fine season, averaging 16.6 per game, and gaining All-Pacific 8 honorable mention. He had the team's top single game mark of 35 points. Chuck Moore averaged 9.4 a game and team captain Bill Palmer led Stanford in rebounding for the second year.

The top Delt scorer for the season was Wisconsin at Milwaukee co-captain Dexter Riesch. Dexter scored 436 points, a 16.8 average, and is now fifth among all-time scoring at UMW. He averaged over 16 points a game for three straight seasons. Basketball captains at their schools were Karl

O'Neill

Hickerson of Lawrence, Tim Munger of Baker, and Ralph Rhodes of Southwest Texas State. Straton Warden of Lawrence was named to the all-conference second team and ranked second in conference scoring. Lawrence's Jim Dyer was sixth in conference scoring.

Northwestern center Jim Sarno had another injury-riddled season but was drafted by the Milwaukee Bucks. Idaho center Gary Koethe was the squad's tallest man at 6'8" and saw much action. Rusty Stockton had another good season for East Texas State.

1970 All-Pacific 8 candidates: left to right, Stanford flanker Randy Vataha, Stanford defensive end Jack Schultz, Oregon safety Bill Brauner, and California defensive end Steve Reece. Vataha, who caught 35 passes for 691 yards and 5 TD's, and Schultz, fourth in team tackles, both gained all-conference honorable mention last fall. Brauner, Gamma Rho's president, was injured last fall but should make a good comeback. Beta Omega Vice-President Reece started every game last fall and was third in tackles with 81.

BASEBALL

Russ Nagelson, Ohio State '66, opened the season with the Cleveland Indians and picked a dramatic moment for his first major league home run. His ninth-inning solo blast off Yankee ace Mel Stottlemyre gave the tribe a 2-1 win over New York in early April. Last year's Pacific Coast League all-star third baseman, John Werhas, USC '60, is back for his second season with Hawaii. Outfielder Jack Hodges, Stanford '69, is playing in the Kansas City Royals' farm system while first baseman Mark Marquess, Stanford '69, is in the White Sox system.

One of baseball's leading goodwill ambassadors is Dr. Bill Arce, Stanford '49, athletic director and baseball coach of the Claremont-Mudd Colleges. Bill has spent four summers in Holland working with the Dutch to improve their baseball program. In 1962, Bill and his family first went to Holland on sabbatical leave where he directed the country's baseball program, conducted youth clinics, initiated a summer baseball camp, and conducted a coaches' course.

U. S. participation in the Dutch baseball program was expanded as Arce took teams of American college players to Holland in 1964, 1966, and 1969. The players paid their own way, for the most part, and furnished their own equipment. They stayed with Dutch families and were given several weeks off at the end of the tour in which to travel around Europe. The American squads played most of the country's amateur clubs and conducted clinics for young players. During last summer's tour, Bill traveled to Czechoslovakia to conduct three days of clinics in Prague. He also met with baseball people from many European countries to discuss putting baseball into the Olympic Games.

In the past eight years, Bill has been instrumental in sending six American coaches, including Bill Alhouse, Santa Barbara '49, to Holland. The projects have proved to be an expensive personal hobby for Arce but have done much to better Dutch-American relations by bringing together outstanding young Americans with the people of Holland who share an interest in baseball.

Serving as 1970 captains at their schools are Rich Giachetti of Tufts and Ed Straskulic of Stevens. Others who have been outstanding this spring are Steve Morin of Maine; Indiana second baseman Tom Boone; third baseman Pat Golden of South-eastern Louisiana, a former all-conference pick; catcher Dennis Phillips and infielder Ken Milano, two of Whitman's top hitters; Stanford pitcher Bruce Schoen; Albion catcher Art Kale; and Sam Houston State short-stop Rick Hare.

Baseball coaches at their alma maters in the tough Big Ten are George McKinnon, Northwestern '41, left, and Joe Sexson, Purdue '56. Both also have other coaching duties, McKinnon as assistant football coach in charge of scouting, and Sexson as assistant basketball coach.

Starting the baseball season in Maine can be a problem. Delt Steve Morin, a three-year starter in center field for the University of Maine, knocks the snow off his snowshoes as unidentified catcher waits for the pitch.

TRACK

One of the Tri-captains of Kansas State's powerful track team is Ken Swenson, who last spring anchored the two-mile and sprint medley four-somes to new world records. K-State's two-mile relay team was undefeated last year, winning six meets including the NCAA Indoor Meet, and was given Indoor All-American honors. Ken also holds the school mark in the 880-yard run with a time of 1:47.7.

Last spring's Pacific-8 champ in the 120-yard high hurdles, Rick Tipton of Stanford, was hampered by injuries earlier in the season, but the junior hurdler could set many new marks before graduation. Another outstanding Indian runner, Pete Fairchild, is one of the conference's best in the 880 and should place in the Pac-8 meet. Case Western Reserve's Al Dolezal served as track captain and cross-country captain this year and was named as most valuable member of both squads. Maine's James Good was captain of the indoor track team this spring. Mac Clouse and Doug Holmes were stand-outs for the Willamette track squad. TCU junior hurdler Larry McBryde got off to the best start of his career, being undefeated through the first four meets. Ohio University's record-holder in the high jump is Jim Kensing.

MISCELLANEOUS

Colorado's Lars Forsberg is the youngest man ever to be named to America's squad for the summer-long Gold Cup sailing races on the West Coast.

The nation's top rugby team, Stanford, was paced by several Delt stars. The Indians won their third straight Monterrey National Rugby Tournament as Leon Hartvickson, Stanford '68, led all scorers with 28 points in four games. Outstanding during the year were Jack Schultz, Don Bunce, and Jack Lasater.

An outstanding swimmer for four years, Bill Koller of Kenyon, gained All-American honors in several events and took NCAA College Division crowns in the 100-yard and 200-yard breaststroke. This winter, Bill was a co-captain of the Kenyon squad.

Lincoln Saito was Lawrence College's wrestling captain this season. He was the undefeated conference champ in his weight division and was named the most valuable wrestler in the conference tournament.

Golf captains this spring were Kim Jeffrey of Hillsdale, Bob Davis of Case Western Reserve, and Steve Manolis of South Dakota. Freshman Gary Sater of Washington was the team's top player while senior Lee Edmundson had another good spring for Michigan State. Tennis captains were David Fleury of Maine and Jamey Burns of Stevens. Returning lettermen in crew were John Nixon and Brooks Horace of Southern California and Tom Burkhart and Jim Edwards of Washington.

THE DELT CHAPTERS

ALLEGHENY

Alpha

The first week of April saw the pledges of Alpha Chapter embarking upon their pre-initiation week. This program has stressed the idea of constructive activities, with the pledges spending time working at the local Oddfellows Home and attempting to help stop the erosion of a local hill by terracing it. Also included was an evening's discussion with members of the faculty and administration on the role of the fraternity on the Allegheny campus. The new Delt Development Week has proven to be very successful.

Led by President George Foss, Vice-President Dave Sponseller, Pledgemaster John Rosetti, and Rush Chairman Bruce Ackerson, the new slate of Delt officers has recently taken office. Alpha Chapter hopes to keep the same high motivation and success attained in the last year under the new administration.

The spring outlook at Alpha Chapter looks very promising. Led by seniors Larry Chamberlain and Goober Stumpf, the softball and tennis teams are hoping to repeat as IFC champions. A new spring pledge class of five men has been taken, bringing our freshman class to a total of 20 men. Alpha Chapter would like to thank all of our friends and alumni who have contributed to Alpha's Building Fund, the new Delt Shelter has been completely paid for.

Epsilon Epsilon

As the 1969-70 school year draws to a close, Epsilon Epsilon Chapter winds up a highly successful year, finishing strong both in scholarship and intramurals, as well as seeing the innovation of many new activities and Chapter improvements.

This year, in conjunction with our girls' auxiliary, the Pleadies, we held our first "Delt Eye in the Sky" day, which matched the different girls' auxiliaries from all the fraternities against each other for top honors as well as the trophy to the winner. The whole affair was a success and will be held each year during the fall. Our annual Christmas formal was held at the Shelter this year at which a good time was had by all attending. February saw the Chapter initiating 11 new men into the fraternity all eager to assume the new responsibilities of key Chapter positions within the house.

This year we were paired with Delta Delta Sorority during Greek Week, in which we finished fourth, including a second place for our chariot float. Serving on the Greek Week committee as Chairman of the Watermelon Bust was Steve Paquette, as well as Rich Hienecke, who acted as head of Greek Week activities for the house. In Intramurals, we finished within the top ten houses on the campus, including a first place in golf.

Elections saw the following men take office in the chapter: President Bill Biles, Vice-President Bert Braden, Treasurer Bill Skanadore, Recording Secretary Gordon Dickey, Corresponding Secretary Steve Paquette.

ATHENS COLLEGE

Epsilon Sigma

Epsilon Sigma has enjoyed a fine year, finishing Number One in scholarship and winning back the scholarship trophy. Furthermore, it is our expectation to emerge better in the Spring Semester than ever before. Deltas are pushing forth on campus with the forthcoming elections for the Senate. A number of Brothers are running for the open seats. It is our philosophy that campus leadership is as important as activities and social events and is the duty of our Chapter to put forth responsible Brothers into the right campus positions.

We are proud of the fact that Dr. Bert Hayes was appointed acting dean of student personnel. At the present time, he is also the head of the graduate studies at Athens College, and will continue teaching some of his classes.

Dr. Hayes

He has been a great influence on the campus, pushing forth with the high principles of our Fraternity and the Greek system.

On campus, Brother Clyde Guinn was elected President of IFC and is promoting a very vigorous program to update our present Greek system.

Recently the Chapter held a car wash in Huntsville, Alabama to raise money for our Chapter. All Delt Alumni in the area were invited for a free car wash, courtesy of the Chapter.

At this time our Chapter wishes to thank all the members of the Arch Chapter for bestowing the highest honor which a Chapter may obtain, The Hugh Shields Award. It is our promise to aspire to greater heights than ever before.

Delta Eta

Delta Eta takes pride in announcing the initiation of our fall pledge class. Eighty per cent of our 25-man pledge class made grades which is the highest percentage in the last three years. We believe that much of the success can be attributed to our revised pledge program which was put into action in September.

Recently Delta Eta elected officers for the remainder of this year and for the first semester of next year. These new officers are looking forward to a progressive administration as they have already made plans for a strong spring rush weekend.

As of now we are running second in the competition for the intramural all sports trophy but our softball team could push us into first place because they now are holding down the number one slot.

DAN CALDWELL

AUBURN

Epsilon Alpha

The visit of Field Counselor Paul Stevens was the first of the highlights for Epsilon Alpha Chapter in winter quarter. We are attempting to make changes in our Chapter to meet the changing needs of the college male who is no longer looking for what fraternities have traditionally offered. By starting now we hope to avoid the problems that fraternities all across the nation are beginning to experience. Paul, in spite of his Boston accent, was a great help.

A second high point of the quarter was the installation of Zeta Beta Chapter in La Grange, Ga. This was our first experience in installing a new chapter and it was a most satisfying one. The Auburn Delts also found time for a carefully controlled amount of studying and even had time left over in which we conducted an anti-pollution drive here on the campus.

As expected, the social area of events took care of itself. With our Winter Formal, a number of parties, and Auburn's tremendous (non-existent?) nightlife we managed to fulfill our quota of fun for another three months.

Presently, the Brotherhood is eagerly awaiting the end of another cold, wet winter and the approach of spring which has earned Auburn the name of "loveliest village of the plains?"

WALLY WEAVER

BETHANY

Theta

This past year was a productive one so far as rebuilding Theta Chapter goes. Last year we graduated 20 seniors and were left with only 16 actives. This meant we were financially hurting and needed a pledge class of good quality and quantity.

Theta Chapter put all efforts into a second semester rush. This meant that the entire first semester was open rush.

Because of a lack of money, we combined the social and rush budgets in order to throw a party every week for the entire freshman class. We really got to know the men this year before they pledged, which doesn't happen during a first semester rush set-up.

Our first semester efforts paid off, however, and we now have 25 pledges.

We still have a long way to go before becoming number one in intramurals, but have satisfying participation and spirit.

House improvement has been the main objective this year. A new stereo was added to the recreation room, and library shelves to the closet. The future holds the possibility of a pine paneling job in the rec room and the completion of our Budweiser piano beer tap.

CHRISTOPHER W. AVERY

BOWLING GREEN

Delta Tau

The 1969-70 academic year has been a very good one for Delta Tau Chapter. Fall quarter was rush, and our Chapter led all 18 other Chapters in pledging. We took 21 good men who have become valuable Brothers of Delta Tau Delta. We attribute our success in rush to our summer rush program, our rush booklet, and our reputation on campus. We also did well in intramural football, finishing fourth out of 18 other participants.

Winter quarter was "book time." The all-Greek average at Bowling Green was 2.68 compared to the all men's average of 2.23. Delta Tau Chapter contributed much to this good average by finishing in the top five among fraternities.

The end of winter quarter was the time for our emphasis on public relations. We sponsored a successful Easter Egg Hunt for the children of Bowling Green. A queen was selected from grade school children and a serenade by the Brothers was sung to her and her mother. Also, for charity we had an "Orphan Party." Orphans were invited for dinner and we all had a good time. We played the "parent" role with Delta Gamma Sorority while the kids enjoyed the food and games.

Delta Tau Chapter considers the past year successful and it is looking forward to the next with even more optimism. Nevertheless, this is cautious optimism. Our Chapter is aware of the pressures modern fraternities are facing on the campus today.

Delta Tau believes that in order to correct these pressures we must be flexible, we must be willing to change and create new opportunities for fraternity living. We would welcome new ideas from other chapters concerning these problems and how they are coping with them.

DAVID BROADHURST

CARNEGIE-MELLON

Delta Beta

This has been a year of transition for Carnegie-Mellon. The academic schedule has been changed. Spring semester ends a few weeks earlier than before, but everything else is churning along as it always has. At Delta Beta, a scholars program is being instituted in which faculty members from all departments will be invited over to the house for various social functions throughout the year. In this manner the Brothers will be able to meet and interact with their own as well as other instructors. It is beneficial to know your instructors socially as well as in the classroom. This has often been overlooked as part of a college education.

The semester grows to an end and life becomes hectic. Between preparations for Spring Carnival and catching up on school work, there is little time for anything else. Thus another school year ends, but thoughts will again focus on the programs of the fall semester.

BOB FAUST

CASE WESTERN RESERVE

Zeta

Although faced with the same approaching fate Beta Gamma Chapter of the University of Wisconsin experienced, Zeta Chapter has managed to hold on another year. Delt Brothers here have lettered in all the major sports and a few of the minor ones: Peter Scott, Craig Pawlewski (football); John Bogo (basketball); Craig Eberle (captain, soccer); Bob Davis (captain, golf); Al Dolezal (captain, track and cross country); Howard Hardy (baseball).

Spirit is a word still existing in this chapter. John Deenihan, architecture student, used his skill to win first place in the campus Homecoming Display contest. Zeta alumnus Tony Forde, '69, Larry Hepner, and Lew Winston, '69, who are seen weekly around the Shelter, are good examples of lasting Delt spirit. President Larry Stallings, and Publicity Chairman Frank Strasek organized another successful Can Food Drive for needy people around CWRU as well as on Cleveland's West Side. Brothers Doug Viets and Bill Hogan were donors for the Red Cross' emergency Blood Drive.

Tom Ports and Craig Eberle are headed for Med School; Mike Doster and Mike Cyphert will attend Law School in the fall. Ken Goetz will hopefully receive his Masters in English in June, the same year of his graduation from undergraduate studies.

The main problem facing this chapter is learning how to cope with an ever-growing attitude of individualism, stemming from a "look out for Number One" viewpoint, which is being both fostered and fed by campus conditions. Aside from that, Zeta Chapter's small numbers are working together.

FRANK M. STRASEK

CINCINNATI

Gamma Xi

We at Gamma Xi would like to express our deepest sorrow for the death in an automobile accident of our fine brother, Gregory Dixon. Nothing can replace the spirit and love that he showed the Brothers of our Chapter. Let us all remind ourselves of the lesson of such an unfortunate incident.

This Spring Gamma Xi will continue to show strong support for fraternal, campus, and community activities. Spring programs include an expansion of community service projects and participation in the annual Mother's Day Sing Contest and Sigma Sigma Carnival. Recently, the members of Gamma Xi were fortunate to receive the all-campus Brotherhood and Greek Week trophies bringing every major campus award, including the Mother's Day Sing, Scholarship, and Intramural trophies, to our Chapter. Spring festivities will end with the annual Spring formal.

GEOFF BRADEN

COLORADO

Beta Kappa

Beta Kappa's first year of rebuilding has been one of success.

In our first year, the rebuilt Colorado Deltas have reasserted themselves as leaders of the Greek system on campus. The Interfraternity Council president and vice-president are both Deltas and a few men are getting involved in student government.

One of our social highpoints was a Christmas party for the children whose parents are on welfare. At present we are hoping to start a baseball league for children too small to play in little league. Last semester, Beta Kappa was second among all Greek houses in the Blood Bank.

Scholarship has been one of our problems. Our first semester grades were below the desired level but a new study program has been started. Rush is an area in which we have slowed down too much. As always, we welcome any recommendations from alumni.

In general, the attitude at Beta Kappa is one of great pride and desire to work. As long as this prevails our future will be long lived and successful.

JOHN TODD

FLORIDA

Delta Zeta

Rush and campus politics highlight this year's activities for Delta Zeta. This fall produced one of our most successful rushes. We pledged 35 men of which 27 made their grades. The most dedicated efforts toward rush this winter produced the largest new pledge class on campus, 21 men. Initiations this year added 43 new Brothers to our rolls.

Delta Zeta this year moved into a controlling position of a variety of campus activities. Walter Morgan moved from administrative assistant, to vice-president, to president of the Student Body. George Seide, majority whip in the Student Senate, founded the Florida Student Society uniting the various university and junior college student leaders of Florida. He was elected president at the first meeting. With four members presently in the Student Senate, Delta Zeta has more running in the present election than any other fraternity for the open Senate seats.

Deltas also compose three-fifths of the Steering Committee of Focus Party and serve as campaign manager, lower and upper slate coordinator, and party secretary.

Our Delta Zeta girls scored again this year. Sister Carol Holcomb was crowned Miss Seminole and pinmate Pat Klonne was selected as a member of her court.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Gamma Eta

Winter and spring have been seasons of renewal and growth for Gamma Eta. The Chapter has expanded both in numbers and in the scope of its activity.

Traditionally the athletic power on the GW campus, Gamma Eta is again in contention for the intramural athletics trophy, which has been retained by the House for the past 12 years. Under the direction of Athletic Chairman Scott Lieberman, Delt teams have made strong showings in most aspects of the intramural program.

In a new area of action, Gamma Eta has taken steps toward involvement in the District of Columbia community in which it is located. The pledge project of the fall semester pledge class consisted of taking a group of black D. C. youths to an ABA Washington Caps basketball game, a project in which the entire House participated and which was noted in the Washington press. Arranged by pledges Bob Jackson and Dave Kahn, with the aid of the Metropolitan Police Department, the affair signifies a new trend toward acting within the context of the urban area of which The George Washington University and Gamma Eta, are a part.

Currently reevaluating the entire concept of pledging, Gamma Eta is moving toward accepting a pledge as an individual, removing the traditional subervient nature of pledging. President Doug Meyer and Vice-President Steve Burkett have formed a task force to examine the function and nature of pledge education in the 1970's.

GEORGIA

Beta Delta

After winter quarter's Rainbow Formal in Gatlinburg, Tenn., and Spring Holidays, the Brothers of Beta Delta have returned to Athens looking forward to an eventful spring quarter.

Last quarter Beta Delta elected new officers. They are Bill Decker, president; George Taylor, vice-president; Ken Barbash, treasurer; Frank Savini, correspondent secretary; Mark Holmes, recording secretary; Dick Howard, Chapter guide; Bud Freeman, assistant treasurer; and Jim Sciubba, sergeant-at-arms.

Plans for our new house are coming along under the leadership of our House Corporation's new leader, John Farr. We would like to thank the past-president, Bob Wall, for all the time and effort he has devoted to the cause.

If there is any information that alumni would like to know please feel free to contact David Chatham, alumni relations chairman, 390 North Milledge Avenue, Athens, Georgia 30601.

VAN BOTSARIS

GEORGIA TECH

Gamma Psi

With the annual installation of officers at Gamma Psi came a change in chapter policies and attitudes. As a result of the changing role of fraternities on campus today we at Georgia Tech have had to update many of our programs and add several more to meet the demands of this changing system.

This year we have instituted an intensive alumni relations program. This program is aimed at establishing a working and meaningful relationship between the alumni and the chapter, since we feel that the alumni have much to offer. This program consists of a quarterly news letter and personal contact with the alumni in the Atlanta area.

Pledge training is undergoing a drastic overhaul. The emphasis of this new program is being placed on motivating the pledges to seek the responsibilities that will make them better men and brothers. This constructive system will help every pledge adapt to Tech, to the Fraternity, and to the world after graduation. More emphasis in pledge training is being placed on brotherhood in the true sense, and there are more joint active-pledge functions each year. A sense of mutual respect is developing stronger ties all the time.

Whereas, to the present date, the only interfraternity formal rush held each year came in the fall, we at Gamma Psi are trying something new. An informal spring rush program has been started which gives the rushee a look at our chapter in action. We have found that this informal program lets the rushee feel more at ease, and gives him a better insight into what life at our shelter is really like.

The enactment of these new programs, plus the extensive work and planning going into the celebration of our 50th anniversary next year has brought an increased spirit of brotherhood to our members. This spirit, together with the athletic and leadership potential in our chapter, will enable us to keep atop the fraternity world at Georgia Tech.

HILLSDALE

Kappa

Kappa Chapter, under new leadership headed by President Lewis Everly and Vice-President Jim Putnam, is entering into an active spring. Lewis Everly has spurred achievement in all areas of campus life and his efforts have greatly enhanced the Delt House. Brothers are increasingly taking greater participation in house activities. Chapter committees have been reorganized and the by-laws revised. Delts won the intramural football title at Hillsdale.

Excellent fall and winter pledge classes have added to the strength and versatility of the house. Our spring pledge class is one of the largest in several years.

The Brothers, recuperating from an excellent "Bowery Brawl," are awaiting the formal to be held in Monroe, Mich.

It is the hope of everyone at Kappa Chapter that current "last ditch" efforts to begin construction of a new shelter will be fruitful this spring. The next few months will tell much for the future of our chapter. Cooperation among the College, the National Fraternity, the "New" House Corporation and the undergraduate chapter is necessary if 103 years of tradition is to continue to grow at Kappa.

Delta Mu

Intramurals are looking better for the Delts every day. So far we have first place trophies for bowling, tennis, and table tennis, with a fourth place overall standing. Having teamed up with the Gamma Phis for College Bowl, we have one team in the championship bracket while our other team placed fourth.

Spring has started off actively with our annual rush tour to three southern Idaho cities to present a rush program of slides and a recruiting film about the University. Attendance was good and included a number of our alumni, whose help we greatly appreciated.

Coming up are our Alumni Day activities in May and the 39th annual Russian Ball.

We recently initiated 10 of our pledges, including Mike Bayless with a 4.0. Carm Walgamott won this year's Outstanding Pledge Award and our new I.K.'s are Mike Bayless and Mike Gates.

ILLINOIS TECH

Gamma Beta

The men of Gamma Beta have been working hard this year towards incorporating and maintaining a high level of Delt achievement on campus.

Last semester, Brother Conrad Marosek was elected president of the Illinois Tech Student Association. He is backed by Brothers Larry Strain and Nick Despotas who were subsequently elected vice-president and architecture representative respectively and who also sit on the ITSA Board of Control. The chapter's growing interest in campus affairs reflects a general trend towards more active Greek involvement in the workings of the Institute. Many Delts have been elected to class offices or have become active in ITSA committees, the school paper, varsity athletics, and honorary or professional societies.

The Pledge Class of '73 distinguished itself early in the fall semester by winning the Pledge IFC Football tournament. Also highlighting the pledge semester was the Pledge Formal which is traditionally held in the Shelter, and Pledge "Walkout" which literally "carried" the Brotherhood off to DePauw University. Our thanks go out to chapter Beta Beta for their hospitality.

We've also gone one step further towards our goal of earning the Interfraternity All-Activity trophy by winning the IFC Basketball tournament.

Recalling past social events, we at Gamma Beta fondly remember the all-quad Hallowe'en party for underprivileged children, and our own house Christmas party for orphans.

We at IIT are particularly proud to announce the initiation of 10 new brothers last March 1, and the upcoming initiation of Bernard "Sonny" Weissman, athletic director here at Tech for the past 30 years, and faculty advisor for the men of Gamma Beta Chapter.

The Delts at I.U. were fired-up as they started their 100th year on the university campus. Our new flaming red-headed housemother, Mrs. Hal Culp, not only added her charms to the Shelter's atmosphere, but also fit nicely into the football weekend theme of GO BIG RED!

Basketball was the big sport at the Shelter with Brother Tom Boone being a member of the varsity team (also a varsity baseball player), and our intramural team getting into the final round of the all-campus tournament. Politics, always a major interest, found Brother Jan Buker as a newly elected senator of our district.

Sunny Florida welcomed the Beta Alpha members over Spring Break, as the less fortunate Brothers claimed that the Indiana sun was just as bright, even though their bodies were twice as white.

The Little 500, the world's greatest college weekend, found the Delts as one of the favored teams to take the top spot in the annual bicycle race. Two veterans, Brothers John Elliott and Steve Smith, along with two new Brothers, Frank Franks and Tom Baas, provided the excitement for us and our coed sponsor Kappa Delta.

We would like to extend an invitation to all Delts to visit our Shelter at Indiana University during our 100th anniversary.

This winter the Delts at Iowa State combined dramatic talents with Alpha Gamma Delta to produce a short one-act play for Iowa State's annual dramatics competition, Varieties. "After Dinner Ours, or The Turn of the Screw" was a spoof on the age-old meeting of Indian and Pilgrim; this time, however, the crafty Indians outwitted the naive Pilgrims. Gamma Pi is now working on its spring quarter project—an 80-foot float for the Veishea parade. (Veishea is a student organized university open-house featuring the parade, a concert, and a play.) In coordination with Chi Omega, the Brothers chose as a theme for the float "Aquarius—Let the Sun Shine In," by The Fifth Dimension.

Veishea holds a special interest for Gamma Pi this year, for it will mark the dedication of an addition to the Shelter. The addition will expand house capacity to 65 men. Edwin L. Heminger and William O. Hulsey will highlight the dedication ceremonies.

Several members of Gamma Tau Chapter have been busy recently with the all school elections which took place March 18 and 19. Those running for various offices were: Mike O'Neal, Pete Martin, Pat Williams, Jim Leek, Randy Andrews, Jeff Stinson, and Craig Ewing. Craig Ewing and Jim Leek were both elected to Student Senate.

In athletics, the K.U. Delts took fourth place in the Baker University Invitational Basketball Tournament. The chapter's leading athlete in varsity sports this spring is Bill Stiegmeier, who is starting pitcher for the K.U. baseball team.

Several improvements have been made in the house this spring, including new carpeting of red, black, and yellow plaid, and remodeling of the recreation room.

Four new pledges have joined the ranks of Gamma Tau this semester. They are: John Birchard, Charlie Katherman, Dick Jarrett, and Jim Disser.

A busy social register is planned for this spring, including the D-pledge party with the D.U.'s and the Delta Chi's; the Formal, a pajama party in May, and several other informal events.

The Kent State Asian Affairs conference was held from April 6-10. Kent hosted noted experts on various topics of current interest in relation to Asia. KSU also presented Think Week from April 20-27. This Spring's topic was "Environment Is a Dirty Word" in which such noted speakers as Ralph Nader and former Interior Secretary Stewart Udall were present.

Campus Day is May 9, carrying the theme, "Sights and Sounds of the Cinema." Delta Omega is participating in the float building and also in songfest this year.

Brothers active on campus this quarter are Bill Sirey, chairman of a committee for Campus Day; Ray Walsh, coordinator of the McElrath Project designed to build and staff an activities building in Ravenna, which is termed the worst poverty district in the U. S.; and Doug Mancino, named president of Order of Omega honorary and associate justice of the I.F.C. judiciary board. Ed Hogan also named to Order of Omega.

Just as the seasons change, so also does the University of Kentucky. These changes are evidenced in the campaigning of the present Student Government elections. The "Free Soil Party," and the A-C-T-I-O-N Party are typical names of organizations who bellow a common cry—"Student Representation in U. of K. Administration."

Moreover, as students try to change the faculty-oriented policy making, the student himself is changing. The "freak" element in dress, i.e., "bells, boots, and beards," are contending with the traditional "Joe College" attire. U.K. Delts are very much abreast with these changes, while still maintaining their relatively conservative image.

Even the physical structure of U.K. is different. Now, the new 17-story Office Tower, along with the 23-story Housing Duet silhouette the horizon. Quite appropriately too, the Shelter has been recently redecorated, and the 13 spring initiates have become vitally integrated into this U.K. atmosphere and all Delt doings.

LAFAYETTE

Fall '69 was an impressive season in soccer and for Nu Chapter. The Lafayette soccer team saw outstanding performances by its senior captain, Geoffrey P. Caldwell, and an up-and-coming sophomore, Carl E. Goelz. Caldwell won All-MAC distinction, while Goelz led the team in assists and was second in scoring. In football, Stuart B. Steelman, a sophomore defensive tackle, was recognized All-East Player of the Week for his performance in the Hofstra game. Steelman also won local distinction by receiving the Most Outstanding Defensive Player Award for both the Colgate University and University of Vermont games.

A revamping of chapter policies and traditions resulted in an energetic rush program which culminated in the pledging of 24 men, the greatest number in the past three years. As the existence of fraternities at Lafayette is being questioned now that coeducation is about to be introduced and new outlets have developed, we feel that the pledge class has the sense of responsibility and the will to confront these new problems that will strengthen our position on campus.

Delta Nu

The diversity of the Delta Nus has kept the chapter busy through the winter term. Winter rush added a pledge class of 19, the largest on the Lawrence Quad. Delta Nu continued to hold second honors in grade points among the fraternities.

Bob Haeger now commands the president's chair. Other new officers are J. J. Dyer, Bill Timberman, Barry Rogers, Jack Thurnblad, and John Gilpin; and Bill Baird '69 is our new Chapter Adviser.

On campus, the Delts are active in all functions, including leading the university Muscular Dystrophy campaign. Steve Bartell has recently been elected to $\Psi\Sigma$, a National Honors Biological Society. Rick Farmer is now chief editor of the school newspaper. Tom Nathan has been re-elected to the school council, and Brooks Simpson now heads the Lawrence Interfraternity Council.

In winter sports, Delta Nu highlighted the Varsity Basketball team with 4 of the 5 starters, led by Captain Karl Hickerson. Linc Saito wrestled to his 3rd undefeated Conference Championship. The spring teams are again expected to have heavy Delt participation, particularly in tennis and baseball.

With the expectation of the spring thaw, the brothers are awaiting the coming Greek Weekend and raucous Deltlands. As always, Delta Nu will continue their efforts in athletics, academics, and campus activities.

LEHIGH

Beta Lambda

The Spring semester has arrived at the Shelter of Beta Lambda, and along with it arrives newly elected officers who hopefully will add the vitality and initiative to help the Lehigh Delts soar to great heights. Among the newly elected officers are President Douglas Gill, Vice-President Joseph Garufi, Treasurer Charles Kreidler, Corresponding Secretary Bruce Brown and Recording Secretary Richard deMoll.

The Delts have shown that they are not only capable of performing well academically, but that they are also athletic-minded. In spring sports, James Baxter, co-captain of the baseball team, is leading the Lehigh nine to a successful season. In lacrosse, Doug Gill is off to another fine season, while sophomores Rich deMoll and Bill Howard have been adding their support to the squad. Meanwhile, the members of the varsity football team, Tom Buchinski, Tom Shaughnessy, Bruce Brown, Pete Gabrielson, Rich deMoll, and Bill Howard, have been diligently getting ready for the opening of spring football drills. All six are being heavily counted upon to lead Lehigh to one of its finest seasons next Fall.

After a strong rushing program, the Delts have taken a pledge class that can be declared one of the finest on campus. These 14 men are a highly diversified group in interests.

Currently, plans are underway for our Spring Parents' Weekend, a Faculty Cocktail Party, and our second annual Alumni Awards Dinner.

Epsilon Kappa

Epsilon Kappa Chapter is now proudly displaying its "Hugh Shields Award for Chapter Excellence" which we received this year after only four years of existence. The Southern Division has three "Hugh Shields" Chapters this year, and we are proud to be one of them.

Among fraternities at LSU, we have very strong athletic competition in the form of a sweepstakes where each fraternity receives points for being the best in football, basketball, track, etc. The fraternity accumulating the most points during the year wins "Sweepstakes." Last year EK placed second, but with wins in football, basketball, volleyball, and tennis so far this year, we are on our way to the top position in 1970.

February 20, 1970, found EK Delts at their annual Founder's Day Banquet. Guest speaker was Dean James Reddoch, dean of student affairs at LSU, and honored guests were Dean James Brasher, assistant dean of men, and many of the Delt Alumni of the area. "Mr. Delt," "Outstanding Active Athlete," "Outstanding Pledge Athlete," "Sam Semple Award" for the outstanding alumnus contribution, "Leroy Vicknair Memorial Outstanding Pledge Award," and the "Big Brother-Little Brother Scholarship Award" for the big brother-little brother team with the best scholastic averages were given.

Delta Sigma

At present, Delta Sigma Chapter is involved in the social revolution which is affecting all universities today. It can be most obviously seen in this chapter's desire to amend the traditional black-ball system in the Fraternity. This system is under heavy criticism on the university as well as interfraternity level. Delta Sigma agrees with this criticism. We hope that there can be a national change of this system in the coming Karnea.

Another source of criticism has been the hazing of pledges. We at Delta Sigma are pleased that Delta Tau Delta has eliminated this policy, especially in view of the death of a Sigma Alpha Mu pledge in the course of a hazing "exercise session" this spring.

Another matter that concerns Delta Sigma is the drug problem. Fortunately Delta Sigma does not have this problem in our Shelter and we take a strong stand against drugs. We hope that careful selection of rushees will prevent the problem coming into our house.

Another situation that demands attention not only from Delta Sigma, but the system as a whole, is the cry of discrimination coming from the Negro students on this campus. Hopefully, with equal cooperation, this criticism can be eliminated quickly and easily. We hope that changing the black-ball system will take much of the fire from the criticism and stabilize the fraternity system which lies on unstable ground in many universities today.

Beta Nu

Hosting a Regional Conference and receiving the Hugh Shields Award started the year on a good note for Beta Nu Chapter, and now the Brothers are hoping to continue the trend throughout the year. Our chances are good, with several Brothers assuming active roles in campus interfraternity government, and many others taking part in sports and other campus activities.

Losing only three members by graduation this June, the Chapter should have a strong foundation for the coming year, and with the renovations to the Chapter house which we hope to complete over the summer, we will still be able to accept a good number of pledges next fall.

MISSOURI

Gamma Kappa

We at Gamma Kappa have recently initiated the first pledge class of our new auxiliary, the "Little Sisters of The Four Stars." The 21 girls from Mizzou, Stephens, and Christian Colleges, underwent an eight week period of pledge training and were initiated after passing pledge tests over such things as the Delt Creed, and the history and traditions of the Fraternity. The Little Sisters have been a lot of fun, and a great help in our spring rush program.

Again this year our chapter collected for the Heart Fund, our chapter philanthropy, and the pledges were second in collections for the campus chest.

We are presently attempting to start an alumni chapter in Columbia, and would welcome any inquiries from alumni in this area. We will also be contacting alumni about an Alumni Day, which is tentatively being planned for the weekend of the Black and Gold game.

MISSOURI AT ROLLA

Epsilon Nu

This year as the University of Missouri at Rolla has changed to an open rush system, Epsilon Nu has had to change its rush program. This has been undertaken very seriously and we are now using the rush program suggested by Central Office. Our rush chairman has established assistant chairmen in various areas in Missouri, adding great coordination to our program. More contacts are made and more men are seen. This program seems to be working very effectively and we are looking forward to a good year of rush.

We suggest that all Delt chapters obtain the rush material from Central Office to improve their rushing program. The IFC at UMR has taken notice of this rush booklet and has suggested it for use to all fraternities here on our campus.

The spring semester began with Larry Loomis receiving the president's gavel from Russell Stigge. Other newly elected officers include Robert Bergeson, 1st vice-president; Gary Ensz, 2nd vice-president; Mike Grosse, recording secretary; and William Kramer, treasurer.

Once again Beta Tau held its annual Founders Day Initiation Banquet in Omaha, sponsored by Omaha alumni. Larry Buell received the Bob Manly award for outstanding pledge and William Schwartzkopf received the Webster Scholarship.

On the intramural scene, the football team won the all-university and all-fraternity championship. Led by ageless Tom Rutz, the Deltas crushed all opposition to remain undefeated for the second year in a row. Beta Tau also proved to be a powerhouse in basketball, defeating all comers to win both the all-university and all-fraternity championship.

Beta Tau kept its scholastic excellence with an overall 2.65. Gary Ensz and Bill Schwartzkopf were over 4.0, followed by 25 actives over 3.0.

A new addition and complete remodeling will give Beta Tau one of the nicest physical structures on fraternity row. Both are due to be completed by fall.

We are happy to announce that Roger Sack, BT '56, is our new chapter adviser. We cannot thank Roger enough for all the fine work he has done.

Delta Xi

Writing in glowing words only produces mirages of reality, therefore I'll attempt to inform you about what has, is, and will be happening here at Delta Xi.

This last semester has been eventful. Through the efforts of our president and prominent alumni we were chosen by the University to build a new Shelter with State money. To be completed by late '71, it has provided fuel for enthusiasm. Last semester's rush wasn't very successful, yet to compensate, our pledge class proved to be strong in leadership, imagination, and accomplishment by holding Veteran's Day Ceremony open to the University and public. Scholastically our Active Chapter was third on campus. Two of our men were initiated into Phi Beta Kappa; several members were in varsity hockey and swimming. Our newest initiates are involved in campus politics. We visited the new Colony at Mankato State. We sponsored a Gra-Y youth organization project in conjunction with our local YMCA.

At present rush again isn't very successful. We are being hit hard this year financially. Several men have quit school and a large number of financial suspensions prevail. We are seeking new ways of economizing. Tom Dahle, our new Chapter adviser, is working with us in order to improve and to overcome our difficulties.

The future is stable but not rosy for Delta Xi. We have been trying hard for rush but are not successful. This has to be corrected. To be very important, we must keep pace with the "Changing University." The Greek World, and we as a part, cannot lag behind without suffering for it. "To change is to improve—to improve is to change." We have hope, courage, and Delta Tau Delta to back us.

CLINTON M. KOBLE

NORTHERN MICHIGAN

Epsilon Chi

Every winter at Northern Michigan University it is traditional to have a Winter Funfest Week. This year there was a big change.

Somehow, the president of the Student Body and Student Government made it impossible for fraternities or sororities to win the over-all trophy by arranging the rules in a certain manner. For instance: fraternities could not occupy first and second place. If a fraternity comes in first a dorm must come in second place, no matter what place the dorms were in.

The fraternities caught wind of this the night before the week started. After a long meeting with Student Government, there was no common agreement made. IFC and Pan-Hellenic agreed to pull out of the week. This left the School with practically nothing and the week turned out to be just short of a flop.

The following week the Greeks got together and formed a Brotherhood and Sisterhood Week. This week was put together to show the strength of the Greeks on campus.

Our own Mike Vogel arranged the sports events, including broomball, egg-eating, Volk-wagon race and a swim meet. Each organization put on a skit dealing with campus life and also sponsored queen candidates.

Miss Izzo

our Delta Sweetheart, Patti Izzo, also won the queen contest.

The Brotherhood shown by the Greeks this week has strengthened the Greeks on Northern Michigan's Campus.

TONY MARASCO

NORTHWESTERN

Beta Pi

Beta Pi Chapter is proud of its progressive attitude in regard to current issues and opinions. Many Brothers feel that it will be a turn for the better if fraternities become involved with pertinent issues.

Last November, some Brothers proposed that the chapter rent a bus to go to the Washington Moratorium Day March. Although the proposal was narrowly defeated, it did set a precedence showing that political issues could become part of a fraternity's social activities. This spring, a Greek supported ticket is running for Student Government executive offices with Bill Streff, president of Beta Pi Chapter, running for executive treasurer. The Chapter voted to allot money to the ticket's campaign. Once again our Chapter became involved with issues important to its members and the community.

The Interfraternity Council at Northwestern has been working on restructuring rush for this September. The emphasis will be on eliminating the "pressure" rush. Dean Topping, Dave Stepelton, and John Grinney have been working hard at the IFC meetings in hopes of coming up with a new system which will convince more men of the assets of Greek life.

Hats off to our Brother, Senior center Jim Sarno, who finished his playing career at NU with a fine 20-point performance against Iowa. Jim was drafted by the Milwaukee Bucks of the NBA in the 8th round. Watch out Big Lew!

Bereft of one unifying location for nearly two years, the men of Beta Chapter moved into their new Shelter on March 14, 1970, with an increase in individual self-awareness and a renewed feeling of involvement.

For the winter quarter, two dozen Brothers attained the academic level of 3.0 or better. We therefore maintained our high scholastic standing and demonstrated the esteem in which we hold scholarly achievement.

New Chapter officers include: Bob Stewart, president; George Koury and Larry Peacock, vice-presidents; Greg Minnick, treasurer; Tom Springer and Roger McElroy, asst. treas.; Randy Kahn, corr. sec.; Mike Mills, rec. sec.

Three Beta Deltas are represented on campus in regard to the Mothers' Weekend Committee. They include: Brothers Tom O'Malley, general chairman; Greg Minnick, finances, and Mike Diehl, publicity and art design. Brother Carl Petre is a director at the University radio station.

The Beta Men are proud and honored to announce that Brother Jim Kensington has been named to the Academic All-American second team for Football. Brothers Roger McElroy and Pat Elsass are enjoying fine baseball seasons.

Lance Monje, Ken Scott, and Jeff Thornburgh were initiated on January 31. This was the smallest class ever to be initiated into Beta Phi. Spring quarter's class, however, will number 21.

Under the direction of William Lane the Chapter was in second place in intramurals and was anticipating winning the crown.

Last quarter's election brought the presidency to Thomas Calhoon. Steve King was elected vice-president and Wendell Heximer is our new treasurer.

Delta Alpha

Delta Alpha Chapter has successfully moved into an 82-man house. We were financially fearful of this first year, with only 67 men living in the new Delta Shelter, but our budget has been running at a profit for the last three months. Initiation of a 30-man pledge class and a nine-man second semester pledge class, will insure us of completely filling the house next year.

Intramurals so far have given Delta Alpha a first in basketball and a second in football. Our standing over-all is second place, and with track and softball coming up, we still have a good chance for the intramural trophy. Our scholastic rating first semester was third of 23 fraternities.

Delta Chi

The Brothers at Delta Chi were elated with the reception of the Hugh Shields Award again this year. This makes our chapter the only chapter to win the award five years in a row. To celebrate we are calling our second rush party of the year the Hugh Shields Rush Party. We are looking forward to having nearly 30 of the top rushees in the state at our house.

Rush here at OSU has changed drastically this year. With the abolishment of rush week our campus is faced with a totally new (for us at least) type of rush. We would appreciate any correspondence with any chapter which is rushing year-round, as this is our first year with this type of rush and we are experiencing new and different problems.

Deltas again have been kept busy this year with our first place Homecoming float entry (this makes number four in a row for us), our pledge class' outstanding grades on campus, and again the domination of executive offices in Student Union Activities Board. Brother Brady Hunt was elected president, Dan Loving, public information officer, and Brothers John Miller and newly-initiated Bill Mace Executive Board co-ordinators.

Brother Tom Williams is beginning an invigorated alumni relations program here at Delta Chi. Finding all the Brothers' addresses seems to be a problem, however. Any alumnus who isn't receiving our new newsletter should write the house giving us his address or, better yet, come by the house if in the Stillwater area.

PITTSBURGH

Gamma Sigma

Highlights of the winter term began with the brothers of Gamma Sigma and their dates making the annual winter weekend trip to Mont Chateau Lodge in Morgantown, W. Va. Activities included canoeing on beautiful Cheat Lake and parties on Friday and Saturday evenings.

The University of Pittsburgh's Greek Week began March 16 under the chairmanship of Brother Dan Frisina. Gamma Sigma finished second in the games competition, first in the chariot decoration, fourth in Greek sing, second in the blood drive, and tied for first in the charity drive. This year, the brothers of Gamma Sigma sold tubes of shampoo to raise funds for Children's Hospital. Overall, we finished second out of sixteen fraternities in the Greek Week Competition. Chi Omega who worked with us for Greek Week finished first for sororities.

For the second straight year, the Deltas captured the "A" League All-Sports trophy. Gamma Sigma accumulated 350 points more than its closest competitor. Due to a realignment of the fraternity sports system, we will retire the trophy. So far this year, the Deltas have taken first place in softball, football, basketball, volleyball, and swimming, and third place in wrestling. As usual, the Deltas took a first place in every swimming event. Bill Brown bettered his own record in the 75-yard individual medley.

Newly elected officers are Robert Loughrey, president; Dennis McGlone, vice-president; Raymond Dozzi, treasurer; Michael Zappa, recording secretary; and Douglas Kennedy, corresponding secretary.

Gamma Lambda

The return to class for the start of second semester marked the beginning of work for new officers here at Gamma Lambda. Assuming the duties of president is Bill Handel, who will be assisted by Ed Schreck, the new vice-president. Rounding out the top three officers is the new treasurer, Scott Diehl.

With new leaders at the helm, we went through two weeks of intensive rush. When it was all over, our efforts had been rewarded by the largest pledge class in Gamma Lambda's history. Our 40 new pledges will move into a house which has just opened a $350,000 addition, to be dedicated during Gala Week this spring. The addition doubled the size of the shelter and the Brothers would like to extend a sincere thank you to all of the alumni who made it possible.

In athletics, Gamma Lambda has been very busy recently. Sophomore Ansis Veiland traveled to Chicago for the North American Latvian Swimming Championships and returned with four gold medals. On the Big Ten scene, Tom Hincz, Jim Nagy, and Jack Nagy represented Purdue at the Conference championships.

Victories over Butler, Indiana, and DePauw clinched the Indiana State Day Basketball Tourney for Gamma Lambda on March 14. One week later an intramural swimming championship was added. Dan Hirleman and Jim Fuoti were the leaders in this competition with the latter turning in a truly memorable 100 Freestyle.

On the social calendar, the big event of the spring appears to be a three-house party, with the Phi Delt's and SAE's joining us in the merriment. Adding this to the dedication in May, the spring appears to be better than ever at Gamma Lambda.

Beta Theta

Beta Theta Chapter at Sewanee recently won two scholastic awards. The chapter had the highest pledge average and overall average. Three Deltas had perfect 4.0 averages.

Twelve pledges were initiated Feb. 24, following Help Week. During the Week, pledges and members worked on the house. At the end of the Week, the house had been cleaned, painted, and repaired.

Community service is a strong part of the life of Beta Theta. Earlier in the year the chapter sponsored a benefit volleyball game between pledges and coeds. Proceeds were given to the local Boys Club. A beautification project is slated for the end of April.

In other areas of campus life, Deltas continue to lead. The new editor of the school paper and several members of the staff are Deltas. In the student government, Deltas hold positions of leadership. Several Deltas are members of Phi Beta Kappa.

The new officers are Frank Cook, president; Jim Thompson, vice-president; Walter Henly, recording secretary; Haynes Roberts, corresponding secretary; Art Whitehead, treasurer.

Delta Gamma

Three has been the magic number for Delta Gamma this year as first place honors were taken in both scholarship and Strollers for the third year in a row. The variety show had flamboyant Pat O'Brien at the helm and the win was garnered with the aid of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

House improvements are on the agenda for this summer as over $15,000 worth of changes are slated. Refurnishing the living room, blacktopping a parking lot, and installing a new furnace are among the projects planned. Other improvements are also being formulated by Chapter President Ted "Tzar" Thoms, who recently was elected state coordinator for the Midwest IFC Association.

Intramural contests have been going quite well for the Chapter, as first place fraternity honors were won in football, basketball, and wrestling. The Dakota Delt, Delta Gamma's chapter newspaper, has been sent to all alumni. A diverse social calendar has been maintained and new concepts in almost all areas of house activity have been formulated. Service projects have included the annual underprivileged children's Christmas party, participation in the University Counselor's Crisis Center, and a Cystic Fibrosis drive in cooperation with Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority.

Success has been the keynote for Delta Gamma this year, and with practices underway for the Mothers Day Sing, there are hopes and plans of continuing this trend in the future.

SOUTHEASTERN LOUISIANA

The Southeastern Delts celebrated the first anniversary of our installation as a chapter of Delta Tau Delta by conducting our first annual Rainbow Dance and Buffet Supper. At the Dance the Sweetheart for 1970, Miss Chris Comeaux, was crowned.

Four Delts from Southeastern attended the Tuscaloosa Conference held in mid-March along with Chapter Adviser Tom Sharp. Thanks to a great many sub rosa meetings the SLC Delts accrued numerous benefits as well as new goals for the Summer and Fall semesters.

Delts Pat Golden, Donnie Worswick and Charles Edwards all contributed services to the Southeastern baseball team this year. Pat, an all-conference selection his sophomore year, is starting at third base for SLC this year. Donnie, a Florida import, backed up the team with relief pitching, and Charlie served as the Lion's manager.

The Southeastern Delts are planning a trip en masse to Canada for the Karnea this summer. At this writing all officers and most of the active chapter have made some arrangements for transportation to the Karnea. Presently, the most practical method seems to be rail.

Greek Week is just coming to a close at SLC, and this year our Greek Week activity got the greatest participation of any. The DTD Trivia Bowl was held in the Union Ballroom the third night of Greek Week. The Bowl was patterned exactly like the G.E. College Bowl with the exception of the questions. All questions were pure trivia. Replies for questions such as "What was the name of Roy Rogers' horse?" got the greatest audience response. All in all the Trivia Bowl was a great success and we plan to continue it every year as long as the trivia holds out.

The year 1970 also marks the first presentation of the Lee Davis Simpson Award given to the active member who best fulfills the ideals of the late Lee Simpson, one of our chapter's founding fathers.

Delta Pi's spring rush program was a success, resulting with a truly unified and cohesive pledge class. Dave Nisson (pledge class president, v.p., and treasurer) is doing a fine job while working with C. F. Strongarm, our president. Kris Haas was picked by the Brothers from a throng of participants to be Delta Pi queen.

Two outstanding social events this spring were the Stubbs Bros. party and the Las Vegas trip on back-to-back weekends. Competition in IFC sports here is pretty sticky, but we're still shooting for number one. We also made it to the finals in Songfest with the Delta Gamma's. As for the future, we're looking forward to summer and fall rush.

In an effort to assist the rejuvenation of our less-than-a-year-old chapter, a method of rushing was used this spring that hadn't been used since the early days of the chapter . . . dorm storming. We have already pledged four men since this began. We are keeping in close touch with the other dorm men contacted in the hope of winning them over to the group. Many, we found, were not anti-fraternity; they just did not understand fraternity life because they had never been approached before. These are the men we are most interested in.

A chapter retreat was held this spring for returning members and all pledges. This was an all-day affair held at a farm owned by our esteemed treasurer. It was a rewarding day of thought for those in attendance.

Rho

Rho Chapter has contributed significantly toward the operation of many functions on the Stevens campus. The annual Stevens night was coordinated and run by the Brotherhood. The Delts can be found on various committees and key organizations in the school such as the honor board, honor society, student-faculty committees and other such organizations.

IFC finds a Delt as president for the third consecutive year. Rho Chapter has received the all-sports trophy and the activities trophy also. Enroute to the all-sports trophy, the Delts have captured the volleyball, football, and basketball championships with an unbeaten mark.

There are 18 Delts on the baseball, lacrosse, and tennis squads including the captain of the baseball team and co-captain of the tennis team.

The graduating class of Rho has 11 members and there is an incoming freshman class of 20.

In order to bring ourselves closer to the alumni we held our spring alumni banquet in early April, which proved to be an immense success. It was a weekend affair with a cocktail party Friday night at the chapter house, the Gamma Omicron Association meeting Saturday, and the banquet at a nearby motor inn Saturday night capping the weekend. A large representation of alumni and actives listened to an excellent speaker program highlighted by Don Kress, president of the Eastern Division, Bill Taylor, vice-president of the Eastern Division, and Rev. McCombe, dean of the chapel. The topic discussed was changing student ideas toward university and fraternity life.

The past few months Gamma Omicron has been making an intensified effort to involve ourselves more in the campus and local community. Through our scholarship program we have initiated a speakers program, where each week a prominent professor or dean is invited for dinner and a rap about campus affairs afterwards.

We also feel it is necessary to involve ourselves more in the local community. A Christmas party for underprivileged children was held at the house in conjunction with our fine little sister class. Brothers and pledges collected a considerable amount of funds for the March of Dimes at a local shopping center. We are also planning to take an active part in Environment Week.

Through our efforts to become more active in the campus and community we are becoming more aware of problems around us, and are proving that the Greek system will not die as long as it is a viable force in campus and community affairs.

Delta Delta

Delta Delta has concluded another successful winter quarter at Tennessee. With varsity wrestler Larry Leahy as pledge trainer, 11 out of a class of 16 pledges were initiated. We also started a Little Sister program and initiated our first five Little Sisters with the aid of Diantha Roberson, sweetheart, and Jim Smith, activities chairman.

In winter sports, the Delt Dashers captured the Gamma League basketball championship through the efforts of Jody Davis (coach), Don Greinke, Jim Hawkins, and a solid team effort. Currently the Deltas hold a fifth position in overall fraternity intramurals and with a successful outlook for this spring we should be on top before the end of this school year.

The highlight of our spring social calendar will be the Rainbow Ball to be held May 23 in Gatlinburg, Tennessee.

Delta Delta's annual elections were held during the winter quarter and the following were elected: Steve Lay, president; Al Redwine, vice-president; Jim Hawkins, recording secretary; Bill Sanders, corresponding secretary; Farrel Levy, treasurer; and Allen Abernathy, guide.

TEXAS

Gamma Iota

The Deltas at the University of Texas are proud of several accomplishments this year. We are especially proud of seven of our brothers who played on the nation's undisputed, number one football team. We are also proud to host the first Texas Delt Day. The weekend gathering is the first of its kind to be held in Texas and will serve as a common ground for Deltas throughout the state to come and exchange ideas on the working of the Fraternity.

Texas Tech's championship Epsilon Delta Chapter basketball team poses with trophies won in four tournaments, including a statewide all-college event.

Our single most important accomplishment is the completion of our new House. The $600,000 structure is a monument to stubbornness, as we have fought and saved for the past 17 years to see it built. Next to the Coliseum in Rome, the new Shelter is considered by us to be the largest Greek structure in the world, and this is no ordinary Texas boast. Besides housing 40 Deltas in 20 paneled bedrooms, the Shelter contains a large high-ceiling living and dining room, a chapter room, and a game room.

The new House is a dream come true for those of us privileged to be here in its first year and we owe a great debt of thanks to those Deltas before us who worked so hard to see the House built. We sincerely thank them for working for something that did not directly benefit them, but something that they hoped would benefit future Deltas.

TEXAS AT ARLINGTON

Epsilon Rho

A definite goal for a chapter can make a great difference in its attitude and accomplishments. The fall semester was a low point in the history of our chapter; not that everything went bad, but we had a case of the proverbial

"blahs." We didn't have that little bit of extra effort or spirit to be first.

At the start of our spring semester, we were visited by Al Sheriff and Dr. William Hulsey regarding the possibility of purchasing competitive housing or a super-lodge. A probable date for the purchase of property was set 18 months in the future. Their visit and promise brought a self-examination of our chapter. Delt Spirit is now very high; every Delt here feels that his work and accomplishments for the Fraternity will directly or indirectly help us get a lodge of our own. Trophies and awards seem to be won weekly. Our basketball team won the University Championship and City Championship. The top berths are within our grasp in all of the remaining spring sports, and we are currently in the lead for the intramural sports trophy this year.

We received the scholarship trophy from I.F.C. for the highest grade average. Several of our Brothers have been inducted into various honor fraternities and two more into the Order of Omega. We won the Fiji Rodeo, and our own Campus Canto was one of the best ever.

A revival has taken place in our parties due to new games, contests, prizes, songs, and underground movies starring ourselves. A special committee has been working diligently to enlist the aid of alumni and find property suitable for us. With a goal in sight, we are striving harder for excellence, and it seems much easier.

Epsilon Delta

Epsilon Delta initiated the 1969-70 scholastic year with a 3rd place finish in football competition and by the end of the basketball season had captured the championship of the ATO-sponsored Tech tourney for a second year running, first place in the Delt sponsored TCU tourney, the Tech Fraternity Division Title, and the All-College Crown. In the process, Ike Harper and Bill Haldy were named All-Tourney in Ft. Worth and ED had compiled a 20-0 season record, with its second Fraternity Division title neatly tucked away. The chapter is presently undefeated in baseball and volleyball, after having won the Co-Ed Volleyball championship earlier this year.

George Robertson was named one of six IFC Court justices with Windsor, Weimer, and Gilbreath serving as student Senators. Tech Student Body president Jay Thompson will complete his tenure of office this semester.

Highlight of the year was the visit of Western Division President Dr. William Hulsey and Executive Vice-President Al Sheriff, who counseled on plans for a new Delt Lodge at Tech.

Elizabeth Cavin was named Delt Playmate of the year at the annual Delt Playboy formal. Tech Griders Mike Nicolle and Harold Hurst will represent the Fraternity on the football field next year. Planned events for the year include the annual Greek competition song presentation, which the chapter won last year, a state school aid day in April, the annual Pig Roast and Delt-Tri-Delt Brotherhood-Sisterhood party. In addition, the chapter has contributed to the newly established Retardation Center in Lubbock and is making plans to participate in the Greek sponsored March of Dimes Drive which ED won last year.

Gamma

Gamma Chapter is looking forward to a successful second semester scholastically. Things went well for the Brothers first semester and everyone is looking forward to a repeat. The Chapter's average was well above all men's and third on campus.

The Chapter held elections in February and the results are: Jeff Lake, president; Jim Beckwith, vice-president; Ed Watson, treasurer; John Shoemaker, assistant treasurer; Roger Johnson, recording secretary; Emory Rittenhouse, corresponding secretary; and Steve Bishoff, guide.

Athletically, the Chapter has participated in all the intramural sports but hasn't been able to capture any championships. The basketball team looked real good this year but ran into some early problems. Gamma is looking forward to the softball season with high hopes.

The second semester rush program turned out to be a large success under the leadership of Ed Weingartner. The Brothers were happy to welcome 14 new men into the Delt Development Program. These new men have shown their eagerness to become Deltas by decorating for two parties, challenging the active chapter to contests, and sponsoring a car wash to raise money for the little league baseball team that the Chapter sponsors annually.

Many of the Brothers have become involved with the service fraternity Alpha Phi Omega. Recently Larry Corridon, Steve Bishoff, and Dave Baker were elected to the head offices of the group. This group is responsible for the many community projects and activities that the Fraternity is active in.

The year has been one of improvement for Epsilon Gamma, after first settling in our new home. We began with a Founder's Day Weekend in November, and just before Christmas, we held our annual Christmas Smorgy and dance. In February, our delegates attended the Western Regional Conference in San Francisco, bringing back many ideas we hope to put into action.

In March, our membership increased by 18 new initiates. That month also was filled with social functions. At our annual Spring Thaw formal, we crowned our new queen, Molly Ennis, Pi Beta Phi.

With the help of Brothers Ken Elder, Robert Laatz, Denny LeGro, and their parents, we have initiated a Parents' Club. Because we are in a new house, the parents of Epsilon Gamma Deltas helped us by donating $650 to buy new furnishings. To return the favor, we held a special Parents' Weekend, climaxed with a dinner and entertainment in their honor.

Gamma Delta

The winter and spring months have been marked by outstanding group and personal performances. Gamma Delta boasts a fine new pledge class of 24. This select group of men has been chosen from areas of government, scholastic, athletic and national recording achievement.

Brother Bob Kennen was elected president of IFC. Brothers Larry Mentzer and John Coffman, and Chapter Advisor Rev. Jerry Rector have been working for many months at the Robert F. Kennedy Federal Youth Center and the Osage Settlement House. Their work represents a significant part of both Federal and local rehabilitation programs. In the field of athletics the Deltas have five contenders for starting positions on the 1970 varsity football team.

Gamma Delta Brothers will have a three-day spring formal weekend before ending the year with final exam week early in May.

Epsilon Theta

Epsilon Theta has undergone a number of changes in physical appearance in the past year. The House Corporation financed the remodeling of the Shelter. We now have new wall-to-wall carpeting in the chapter room and living room. We also have a pool table and a new color T.V.

Along with the change in physical appearance of the house we also have changed our pledge program. The new program stresses the integration of the pledge class into the house. The pledges are given a much more active part in the house and are presented with problems they may later face as members. This we hope will better prepare them for the times when as members they will have to make decisions that will affect the house.

We are proud to say that our House G.P.A. was second of all the men's residences on campus. We have a G.P.A. of 2.71 which is well above the all-campus average. The Deltas are very active in sports at Willamette. We have seven men on the track team, two on the golf team and a man on the tennis team. Last week our house won the intramural track meet and earlier in the semester we finished third in basketball.

A senior visitation weekend just concluded at Willamette in which we tried to give the seniors a good look at the Deltas. Friday night we had a dance in our house and on Saturday we had serenades. All in all it was a good weekend and we hope that we got a head start on rush for next year. That is a brief look at what has been going on at Epsilon Theta.

In Memoriam

I suppose that the life of Seward Baker is duplicated somewhere in the fraternity, but I have yet to meet his equal.

He served Delta Tau Delta from the day he entered Butler until the day he died—and he did it quietly and well, and with singular success.

During his ten years as President of the BZ Foundation, Seward Baker supervised two moves, one building program and countless real estate transactions. I doubt seriously that a day passed, that he did not devote some time to DTD. With all of this burden, however, he advanced to a Vice-Presidency of his Company—a large laundry and dry cleaning firm.

His cheerful, optimistic outlook, his determination and zeal and his love for DTD brought Beta Zeta Chapter from near oblivion to a fine house and a prestige position on the Butler Campus.

Seward stepped down as President in 1960, but stayed as a member of the Board. He assumed the role of Scholarship Chairman and administered a scholarship donated by another good brother. He also took care of the interior of the house and served as a welcome and needed advisor to all.

We miss him greatly.
