rear view mirror view

WITH my presidential tenure scheduled to end at the forthcoming Karnea, I can't resist a glance back over the past two years. Part of the view reveals a great many trips to Delt functions in this country and Canada. The visions that remain are those of undergraduates and alumni together. They are extremely satisfying. It has been my fervent hope since accepting the gavel of office at the 1974 Karnea to see our alumni chapters grow in numbers and in service, particularly in conjunction with undergraduate activities. I am happy to report that we are moving rapidly in that direction. For evidence, turn to the "Alumni Chapters" section of this magazine. I can't remember an issue that has reflected more encouraging signs of alumni excitement. My personal observations lead me to believe that alumni and undergraduates once again feel comfortable together. The unfortunate gap of the '60's has diminished. This is encouraging for our Fraternity and our world. My response is, let's keep it up! I have experienced some exhilarating Founders Day meetings where young and old enjoyed each other and made plans together. If you haven't tried it in your area lately, give it a chance. Through the Central Office, we can make Arch Chapter members available for alumni activities. These men have been donating time to speak at individual alumni programs, and they will continue to do so in the future. Undergraduates are extending a genuine new welcome mat to us all. We can't let them down.

Come on alumni — let's rally!

Fraternally,

How Important Is Winning?

By KYLE ROTE, JR.

University of the South '72

 1976 never pray to win! A few athletes might, but I don't think many actually do. When a person prays to win, he is testing God, like Satan was doing to Jesus in the wilderness. He is saying, "Lord, I know you can make me win, so prove to me you can."

During competition my prayers generally have two facets: One, "If it be possible, let no one be hurt." Second, "Allow all of us to do the best we possibly can and everything else will take care of itself." I know that kind of prayer is unusual and that some coaches would dismiss me for athletic heresy, but I have played in some contests where we have literally destroyed the opponents but they were not good games. On the other hand, I have played very well and seen teams play well in many losing situations. Playing well is the measure and not the end result. I realize that philosophy is similar to the old cliché, "It is not who won or lost, but how you played the game that counts." However, that saying comes very close to my own views about winning.

There are those who see the desire to do your best — win or lose — as simply a way to protect yourself against defeat. I have been fortunate in my own life to have been a winner many times. That's why I can say that winning is using your talents to the utmost. It does seem logical for those who are losing all the time to say that this is a rationalization. You hear it at athletic banquets — especially if the team has a 0 — 10 season. The speaker says, "Well, you all tried your hardest, and for that we are proud." However, if the same team were state champions, but even in winning didn't play as well as they could have played, very few speakers would say, "You are not really winners, because you didn't do your best." If the highest scorer on the undefeated team is not

When Kyle Rote, Jr., University of the South '73, won the 1974 Superstars competition, his name practically became a household word around the country and his sport of soccer was getting more coverage in the U.S. than ever before. Since that time, many experiences have touched Kyle's life and "Beyond The Goal", a Sports Illustrated Book Club selection, gives an insight into his thoughts and deeds while in the public limelight. He covers all aspects of his life, from early reminiscences of growing up as the son of a famous football star and of the effects on him of his parents' divorce while he was still in high school.

The book covers his introduction to soccer and how it drew him away from football and a scholarship to Oklahoma State. Of special interest are some thoughts on his college years at Sewanee. His longtime best friend, Henry Davis, University of the South '72, is cited numerous times in the book and Kyle also mentions the wonderful time he had with his friends in Delta Tau Delta.

Kyle also fully discusses his courtship and marriage to Mary Lynn Lykins, tense contract negotiations with Dallas Tornado owner Lamar Hunt, and the disappointment of finishing third in the 1975 Superstars meet (He came back to win again in 1976). "Beyond The Goal" is not so much Kyle telling you his story as it is an opportunity to communicate his deep faith in God and to express his feelings about life and its real values.

Jay Langhammer

playing up to his potential, he can be much less of a winner than the last-string player on the worst team in the league, who is doing the best he possibly can. Winning has nothing to do with the final score.

One of the greatest coaches of all times, Vince Lombardi, would support this view. In fact, my idea of winning came from him, and he is still one of the major influences in my life. Before he became famous as coach of the Green Bay Packers and the Washington Redskins, he was an assistant coach of the New York Giants during my father's playing days. He wasn't so well known then, but he had the same strong character in New York as he did in Green Bay and Washington. He had a great influence on many people, not so much by his words as by the kind of life he led. I do remember one thing he said to me, however. "To be a winner," he told me, "is to do the most that you can do with the abilities that you have."

In their endeavor to stimulate players, coaches often hang signs on locker room bulletin boards that say, "Winning isn't everything. It is the only thing." Lombardi had often been the inspiration for that message and similar ones found all over the country. That familiar quotation is accurate only if it is clear what "winning" means. Vince Lombardi did not mean that he would do anything to be a victor. Being victorious was an objective, of course, but doing the most that one can was really his measurement of success in athletics.

I'm sure there were many skeptics when Coach Lombardi first affirmed that view. On the surface, it sounds like a halfway approach to athletics. Even I was skeptical. "What a great way out for a loser," I thought. The loser could always say, "I'm really a winner because I'm doing as well as I can." But, as everyone knows, Lombardi was no loser, certainly not the type of person to say something negative like that. Since he was not a loser, he never had a reason to alibi. You knew when he emphasized winning as playing up to one's abilities, he meant that for a Paul Hornung, as well as a fourth-string tackle. It didn't make any difference which one he was coaching; he was expecting the utmost out of both. That is the way he acted, the way he led people, and the way he ran a team. He wanted to get as much out of each person as he could for for what they are, rather than as a way to make money. ABC's Superstars was so much fun for me because it was a chance to be with all those who participated. That was more important to me than the money — or being the champion.

Certainly I have a desire to compete, and I enjoy the challenge. But, unlike some, the competition is fun for me precisely because I know it isn't the end of the world if I am not the victor. Thus, I derive satisfaction from the competition itself. I even enjoy swimming at the YMCA against twelve-year-olds who I know will beat me. That doesn't bother me the player's own good. Any athlete — blessed with great talent or not — can be a winner, if he plays up to his potential.

Unfortunately, the more popular view of winning as being victorious and beating an opponent — whatever it takes to do it — is all too prevalent in sports today. This win-at-all-costs philosophy is even evident in high schools. At one time a high school coach was hired because he built character. Now he is under such pressure to have a winning season that he may forget about the character development of young people in his charge. The "cutting" process within a high school program is part of this pressure. Many times a player is dropped from the squad because he is not good enough to play. Regardless of the problems it may cause, I don't think anybody should ever be cut from a high school team. At Sewanee I had the opportunity to coach soccer at a nearby high school for three years, and permitting everyone to play was much more valuable for them than winning every match. I know this is heretical, but it's not the final score that really counts. I guess you could say I have an amateur attitude toward professional sports. I enjoy sports at least. It gives me a chance to compete against my best self, to push myself, and improve my skills. When I lose, some kid will always say, "Hey, I beat Kyle Rote!" and I think it is terrific that he can bolster his confidence. Scoring more points than your opponent should never be the ultimate goal of sports.

The challenges I face in athletics are almost entirely personal. The internal measurement is probably 95 percent of my competitive drive. That's where the competition is — against my best self. Responding to these self-imposed challenges often results in being victorious over someone else, but that is incidental. My challenge is to do my best at whatever I am doing. In Superstars, for example, my feeling was that I did not really know how good anyone else would be, but I wanted to prepare myself to be the best I possibly could, whether I finished first or dead last. So, my challenge in Superstars was not to win Superstars; it was to do as well as I could.

This is my attitude about soccer, too. Of course, I am pleased if we do well during the season and get into the playoffs. But, I also want to play up to our potential, both individually and as a team — that's the challenge. Occasionally athletic teams of limited ability play up to their potential and beyond. Fans always rally behind Cinderella teams like this. Remember the New York Mets: they did not have outstanding players to compare with the Mayases, Mantles, and McCoveys, but they put it all together and played to their capacity. The same was true with the Golden State Warriors in 1975.

Some sports fans have a difficult time understanding a view of winning that doesn't necessitate victories, is gauged by personal challenges, and is tested by the criterion of playing to the best of one's abilities. Some have even suggested that I have a "nice guy" image and lack the killer instinct that a professional athlete should have. I certainly hope I am a good person, but if the killer instinct means personal domination and degradation of another human being, then I want none of that. I can make a point of athletic domination without seeking personal domination. If I were coaching a basketball team, and we were ahead 60-30 with an easy chance to score 100 points, I'd put in all my substitutes. The 30-point margin perhaps gives athletic domination, but the higher score would be a degradation of the other team. Besides, our subs would be more challenged than our starters.

Here's another illustration: Suppose I'm playing a game of one-on-one basketball with a fourteen-year-old boy down the street and I'm winning 14-2 in a game to 20. It is obvious that I can score when I fake to my left, drive to my right, and shoot with my right hand. With three quick lay-ups I could score six easy points and the game would be over. He is younger than I and hasn't learned the fine points of the game yet. But I can make the game challenging for both of us so he doesn't feel so bad. I can begin dribbling left-handed, shooting with my left hand, or trying some other shot — perhaps a hook. Of course, I am not trying to "throw" the game or give up, because that would equally deflate him; but I do make a serious attempt to improve my game in other areas in a challenging way. This is not easing off, and even if I get beaten because I'm working with that left-handed shot, then it was my decision to challenge myself by playing left-handed.

Athletes need to develop challenges for themselves. And if you take a look at those people who have done well in athletics, you'll see that they can work out on their own in a constructive and fun way. Without challenges there is no improvement, and it is those personal challenges that make Kyle Rote run. ▲

180-Mile Roll For Charity

How many times has your activities or community relations chairman stood up in chapter and asked for ideas for a service project, only to be met by moans and groans from participants in past year's projects?

These "inspiring" sighs may not be due as much to an apathy toward charities as to memories of past community service projects.

Now, picture your activities chairman standing up in chapter and announcing that this year the Delts will be pushing a beer keg 180 miles across your state for Greeks Against Dystrophy.

Instead of the usual moans and groans, Matt Able (activities chairman, Gamma Kappa) was met with a sudden roar of laughter, then dropped jaws — he wasn't kidding.

Matt warned us that it wouldn't be easy, that it might involve a little more time than past projects, and that total chapter involvement would be a necessity. But, as the appeal of the project sunk in, the Delts accepted the challenge with the true spirit of charity.

With the vote taken, a date was set, sponsor sheets were printed and handed out, and a route was selected. After the state police had been contacted, it was decided that the Delts would travel Highway 50 from Kansas City, Mo., to Jefferson City, and then Highway 63 North and homeward to Columbia, a total distance of 180 miles.

The next step was to contact news agencies. Newspapers, radio stations, television stations and magazine editors were informed across the state as to the time of our departure from Kansas City and the approximate arrivals in their local communities.

Businesses were written, asking for sponsorships, promising advertisement through news coverage. We further suggested that each business donate a T-shirt with the name of their company and "Delts against Dystrophy" printed on them, to be worn by participants as we passed through their towns.

Finally, dignitaries were notified in several counties for increased publicity of the charity drive.

Friday, April 19, twelve noon the Delts gathered at the Plaza shopping center in Kansas City to begin the long haul home. The preparatory work was done and it was time to start the show. And what a show!

Fate was with us, as the sun sparkled down through a clear sky and the action got under way. After posing for a few candid shots for the Kansas City Star and various other papers, the first team hopped into the back of our '68 Dodge pickup and we were on our way.

With three television stations and a police escort on the scene the first ten miles were true bliss. Thirty miles later, however, things were not quite as inviting. The crowd had dwindled to a few scabred cattle, and an occasional passer-by on the road.

Then, at 5:45 Friday evening, fifteen minutes ahead of schedule, the first team pulled into Pittsville, concluding a 39-mile run in five hours.

A total of five teams of six to eight members each pushed the egg an average of thirty-three miles in two-and-one-half days, reaching Columbia at about 6:00 Sunday evening.

Several of the Brothers were interviewed along the way by local radio stations, and pictures were a dime a dozen. There were times, however, when legs were giving out and blisters were wearing on blisters, that cheating didn't sound half bad to any of us.

Then, after racing along at an average of ten miles an hour for the entire weekend, victory was ours. Pulling into the Shelter lot, we were met by parents and alumni who had prepared a feast of home-made lasagne and wine. What a pay off!

It seems almost like a dream now to the members of Gamma Kappa, but our efforts were not forgotten. Several weeks later Representatives Bruckerhoff and Snyder presented Gamma Kappa with a resolution from the Missouri House of Representatives congratulating us on our endeavor.

Our members share great pride in having been able to raise over $1,500 for the Muscular Dystrophy Charity.

The donations went to the charity, the glory goes to Delta Tau, and the memories are ours forever.

Next year in chapter, when Matt stands up to ask for service project ideas, you can bet he will be met with enthusiasm not shared by many community relations chairmen of Delta Tau Delta.

Nature trail tour guiding is a major service of the Delts at The University of West Florida. UWF President James A. Robinson recently presented Scott McKay, 1976 chapter president, with a plaque recognizing the chapter for its service to the university. Looking on were Delt Little Sisters Susan Puleo, left, and Jane E. Bens.

Guidance on the Trail

ONE of the aspirations of Delta Tau Delta is to guide its members into a meaningful way of life. At The University of West Florida, the members of the Zeta Iota chapter add something to the ideal. In addition to ethical guidance of the members, the chapter guides tours on the university's nature trails.

Since inception of the service in 1969, the chapter has helped almost 12,000 persons in more than 300 organized tours, appreciate nature.

The university's major nature trail, the Edward Ball Wildlife Foundation Nature Walk, is a raised platform wandering more than a half-mile through hardwood swamp. The tour guides are provided with booklets and trained to recognize and describe much of the plant life along the facility.

Students ranging in age from elementary to college, garden club members, special interest groups, foreign visitors, handicapped persons, have all benefited from the trail and the guidance provided by the Delts.

With the assistance of the Pensacola Lions Club, the trail has been modified to provide blind persons with an experience with nature. The club provides the chapter with funds to assist in maintaining the portion for the blind.

Aiding the Delts on occasion are their "little sisters," some 13 young women who also help with other Delt service projects, a blood drive, parties, and fund raising events.

In late 1974, four Gamma Theta alumni, recognizing a need for a chapter scholarship fund, began consideration of a program designed to fill that need by honoring two of their classmates—James D. Fleming, '65, who lost his life in an automobile accident while a law student, and Lt. Gary L. Sahnk, '69, who was killed in action when his plane was shot down over Hanoi in 1972.

Subsequently, in January, 1975, the four Delts established a committee to create the "Fleming-Shank Memorial Scholarship Fund"; their immediate goal was to raise $10,000 to provide a trust fund to generate income for scholarships for Baker University Delts.

Sixteen months later on May 22, 1976, at a dinner held at the chapter house in Baldwin City, Kansas, that details of the Fleming-Shank Scholarship be set out in this magazine for consideration by the other 113 Delt chapters.

In accordance with that recommendation, this article will highlight the more important aspects of Gamma Theta's scholarship program and will outline and illustrate a procedure whereby any chapter can establish, with minimal effort, its own equivalent of Gamma Theta's Fleming-Shank Scholarship Fund.

At the outset, it should be noted that this type of activity is not one to be delegated to the undergraduate chapter. Neither, however, should the alumni "establishment"—the House Corporation and other active alumni groups—rush out and adopt a scholarship program; it may be best to just let interest the official dedication of the Fleming-Shank Scholarship Fund took place and the committee was able to announce that the Fund had received $4,000 in cash and over $6,000 in additional pledges.

The event was attended by 150 alumni and undergraduate members of Gamma Theta, Mr. & Mrs. Clark M. Fleming and Mr. & Mrs. Les Shank—the parents of the two Delts being honored, Dr. Gerald Walker, the President of Baker University, and Dr. William Hulsey of Fort Worth, Texas, representing the Arch Chapter.

Retired United States Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark, former national President of Delta Tau Delta, was featured speaker at the dedication.

Gamma Theta's success in establishing its scholarship program was clearly attributable to two factors: (1) the program was designed to honor two well-respected Delts, and (2) all effective solicitation of funds was done on a one-to-one basis by phone or personal visit.

Since this simple approach—which appears to be somewhat unique in the Delt world—potentially could find wide applicability among Delta Tau Delta's other chapters, Dr. Frederick Kershner, Vice-President and Ritualist of the Fraternity, suggested generate spontaneously and perhaps the Delt who was president of the chapter back in '60 or '55 will get his old friends together and start the ball rolling.

Anyway, the "inactive" alumni should be given an opportunity to get involved. If they don't, the House Corporation can step in when convenient.

So, on to the details of scholarship fund-raising in only four simple steps:

(1) Pick the Delts to be Honored

Over 140 Baker Delts have passed to the Chapter Eternal since Gamma Theta's founding, so why were the lives of Jim Fleming and Gary Shank singled out for commemoration? They were honored, quite simply, because their classmates and friends initiated the scholarship program and made the first contributions. A reasonable man certainly could, however, wonder why Gamma Theta didn't memorialize all deceased Baker Delts in general; the question then arises of whether it is absolutely necessary to name the scholarship after specific individuals. The answer is an unqualified "yes".

The committee of four began their solicitation for the scholarship fund by randomly selecting 32 Delt who had lived at the "Shelter" with Jim or Gary; the committee had determined that pledges averaging $50 per man would be needed from this "test" group if the program probably wouldn't be worth pursuing. The committee phoned each Delt on the list, explained the general structure of the scholarship program, and asked for a pledge of $100. Amazingly, no Delt refused to contribute and pledges were received totaling $2,990, for an average of $3.44 as follows: 1-$200; 22-$100; 6-$50; 1-$40; $25; two Delts also said their employers would match their $100 contributions since the money was to be paid to Baker University.

Next, the four Delts typed a flyer explaining the program and listing the names of the first 32 Delts who had made pledges. The flyer was mailed to the other 50 or so Delts who had personally known Jim and Gary and the committee followed up with phone calls. To its astonishment, the committee received an additional $4,000 in pledges and contributions. The final step (which is still underway) in the first phase of the program was to print a new flyer (omitting the names of those having pledged) and begin contacting the approximately 400 Gamma Theta Delts who graduated prior to 1960 and had not personally known Jim or Gary. Pledges from this group were to date averaged less than $15, far below that of the first two groups and the committee is frequently tied down altogether.

In summary, the job of raising the first $7,000 from Delts who lived with Jim and Gary was so easy it was like stealing; everything over that figure has been much more difficult. Quite clearly, then, it is apparent that the naming of specific individuals can greatly facilitate the fund-raising effort. Gamma Theta's experience indicates, in fact, that had its fledgling scholarship program not specifically honored two Delts, the whole program may have failed because of insufficient support and a probably subsequent loss of enthusiasm on the part of the promoters.

(2) Select an Investment Vehicle

It is important to ensure a Federal income tax deduction for contributions made to the scholarship fund and this factor should play a major role in the selection of the fund's investment vehicle. Certainly, the easiest approach is simply to ask the university with which the chapter is affiliated to collect and invest the contributions which will constitute the corpus of the scholarship fund; the university would then make the proceeds available on an annual basis. Gamma Theta's experience with this approach was highly favorable — Baker University could not have been more cooperative.

Since contributions made directly to a social fraternity chapter are not deductible for Federal Income Tax purposes, even if they are intended for educational purposes, the alternative to dealing with the local university is to establish a tax-exempt educational foundation qualified as such under the Internal Revenue Code.

A good deal more legwork will be involved with this approach since a determination letter must be rothers, the Delts are back to enlighten and enliven UCLA academia!

The course of this achievement involved the aspirations and endeavors of Delt Brothers, alumni, and advisers. The two-year evolution of Delta Iota Chapter to attain charter status culminated with a January 25, 1976, open house for parents and alumni and a formal banquet and initiation ceremony at the stylish Fox and Hounds Restaurant.

Among the participants were banquet speaker Fred C. Tucker, Jr., International President of Delta Tau Delta, Western Division President G. C. "Tex" McElyea, and Western Division Vice-President Richard Englehart, who played an important role in the Chapter's come-back.

Yes, the Delts at UCLA, with innovative ideas and high scholastic objectives, are off to a robust start. And as we look ahead, we glance also behind to the beginning of our rebirth more than two years ago.

"We were looking for an alternative living situation," recalls Sean McNally, who was first president of the group. "Having spent a year in dormitory confines was incentive enough to leave."

Living in a fraternity was an appealing thought. Even more appealing was the idea to form a new fraternity in which friends could stay together, sharing interests and experiences.

Expressing this general sentiment, a group of students who wanted to stay together and maintain their bonds of friendship set out to find a more preferable locality during the spring quarter of 1974.

An aspiring law student at the time, Sean McNally spearheaded the inquiries regarding establishment of a new fraternity. The perseverance of Sean and the friends who formed the initial group led to location of an abandoned house on Fraternity Row. Although it was in poor condition from three years of boarders and minimal upkeep, the men were determined to make this their Shelter.

Bruce Barbie, assistant dean of students, Bill Hubner, and Brock Rosemurgy discussed the possibilities of moving into the abandoned house. When Sean contacted Western Division Vice-President Englehart, wheels began to roll. Thoughts and dreams were forming into concrete measures.

Several meetings between Mr. Englehart and the initial group of prospective new Delts proved eventful. Mr. Englehart was favorably impressed. He and the alumni contacted Philemon J. "Jack" Baddeley

Return to UCLA

Richard Kittrelle, Jr., and Harold F. M. "Spike" Mattan, Jr., of the Delta Iota House Corporation, and the rolling wheels gathered momentum.

Enthusiasm was generated from all sides. The undergraduate group of organizers was eager to move ahead. Mr. Englehart and the House Corporation wanted to give Delta Iota another chance. Alumni, led by C. Mark Wright, were willing to provide guidance while the chapter developed.

The first year of the comeback was eventful. The group was nominated to hold the annual IFC All-University party to gain recognition and exposure to the rest of the row, the sororities, and the UCLA campus. The group also proved to be aggressive opponents on the athletic field, placing second in volleyball and third in softball. Scholastically, the prospective Delts ranked 5th among 20 fraternities.

The first year also was spent settling in and learning about fraternity life and Delta Tau Delta. Colony status was granted in September of 1974.

That fall also brought extensive renovation of the house. In the spirit of brotherhood, everyone helped. New furniture was bought by the House Corporation for the living and dining rooms. The kitchen was thoroughly cleaned. The basement, the up two floors, and the attic eventually were brought to a habitable stage.

Eight of the initial 12 members returned to the shelter in the fall of 1975. They included President Bill Hubner, Vice-President Scott Stevens, Treasurer Ben Berk, House Manager Jerry Jacobson, Sean McNally, Dan Agnew, John Taylor, and Brock Rosemurgy.

Activities during rush week included volleyball games, films, and an outdoor barbecue. Although rush was low-key, 21 students were pledged.

During the academic year, the House went through several changes, as the Brotherhood increased to 31. Friendship with members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, our next door neighbor, became well known on the row; the developing Delt chapter was given much assistance by the men of SAE.

The Shelter also has been improved outside, with others putting in several days work painting and mowing.

Delta Iota Chapter is back to stay! Scholastic and social leadership will give UCLA Delts the reputation they need to attract good men and perpetuate its membership.

We'll see you at the River. ▲

Pledge Trips. Are They Worthwhile?

By BILL JOHNSTON

Syracuse University

The Rainbow

A question has been raised about the need to have pledge classes participate in pledge trips. Why should a house take chance and send its class to another college hundreds of miles away while risking an accident that could jeopardize that chapter's existence?

We here at GO have a very strong feeling about this type of educational experience. Not only does the trip teach our pledges about another house and the functions of national, but it also binds them together with a very unique experience that is long remembered, well past the undergraduate years.

Our trips go from Friday to Sunday, and can take our class anywhere in the Eastern Division. I was in last fall's trip that took ten of us to the Delt Chapter at Washington and Jefferson College in Washington, Pa. Just the drive was an experience itself, as we braved the rain, snow and ice during the 9 hour cruise. Leaving Syracuse at 8 p.m., we arrived at our destination at 5 a.m.

We were required to bring back twenty-five "unusual" items, so we had to get up bright and early on Saturday morning in order to have enough time to find them. To complete the list would take a total effort from every pledge.

Being out together for the first time teaches each pledge how his fellow pledge brothers think, feel, and act. He begins to understand some of the basic values of the Fraternity, and will many times realize goals that will serve as foundations for his future life in Delta Tau Delta.

Learning that the hand of brotherhood is extended at most Delt chapters in the country is indeed a good thing. We all knew we could rely on the Brothers at W & J to help overcome any problem we encountered.

Of course, W & J is just one chapter, and for me to say that all chapters would give us a reception like theirs is unfounded. We realize that there are solid houses, and, as much as we hate to admit it, there are weak, uninspired ones. It is our hope that, when one of our classes is given a warm welcome and rewarding stay, it will be inclined to give the same if not better treatment to pledges visiting Syracuse in the future.

The weak and/or uninspired houses are those that lack the true kind of brotherhood that we make every effort to instill in our pledges. A bad experience on a trip with a house like this can be frustrating and disillusioning.

However, since the pledge cannot rely on the hosting Brothers, he turns to his fellow pledges for help. Contributions to problem solving in the excursion mean much more when the hurdles are higher to jump. The unifying forces that bind the pledges as a group become stronger. The pledge also knows that he will attempt to correct this type of poor reception by the hosting house in working to give pledges visiting our chapter a warm welcome and enjoyable stay.

In most cases, the returning class is a tight group that understands its strengths and weaknesses. To keep them together, GO immediately allows the trip with a week of activities designed to bring them even closer to each other. They eat, sleep, and work together while coming closer to the end of pledging. Even if the educating program preceding the trip is weak, the trip itself helps turn things around and makes the class solid Delt material.

Before leaving W & J, we were treated to a Saturday night party we will never forget. What a fantastic way to end an unforgettable weekend.

All of the twenty-five items were returned to the Brothers at Syracuse. Our reception was warm and hearty as all Brothers assembled for the presentation.

We encourage pledge trips, and plan to use them in the future as an effective way to totally educate our pledges into the Fraternity. Understanding the risks involved, we still hold that the pledge trip is a valuable tool for better Brothers. ▲ hen Congress voted appropriations for U. S. participation in the world's first major International Ocean Exposition at Okinawa, Japan, last year, L. W. "Bill" Lane, Jr., Stanford '42, was named to represent this country as Commissioner General of the Exposition.

Shortly after the appointment, President Gerald Ford nominated Mr. Lane to the rank of Ambassador.

The international honor was one of many received by Bill Lane, who has combined a highly successful career in publishing with public service.

As chairman of the board of Lane Publishing Co. and publisher of Sunset magazine, Mr. Lane has been described by the nation's press as a phenomenon. At a time when most mass circulation periodicals are struggling to remain alive, Sunset continues to prosper and increase circulation.

Published at the Menlo Park, Calif., offices of Lane Publishing Co., the thick monthly magazine provides myriad methods of enjoying Western living. Most of its 1.3 million subscribers live in the Far West, although at least 100,000 copies circulate to other areas as far away as Maine.

Equally successful are Lane Publishing's books, with current sales topping 10 million per year.

Sunset writers don't spend much time behind desks. They are immersed in the subjects they write about, whether it is scuba diving or outdoor cooking. The publisher is no exception. Bill Lane rides horses, flies an airplane, back-packs into the mountains, skis, and enjoys life with his wife, two daughters, and a son at their ranch in Portola Valley, Calif.

Periodically, however, he takes time from his business and recreational interests to devote his ideas and energy to local, state, and national affairs. He has served on the U. S. Department of the Interior Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings and Monuments; the Board of the National Center for Voluntary Action; and chairman of the President's National Parks Centennial Commission.

He has been on many state commissions and committees, including those for economic development, foreign trade, tourism, and visitor services.

He is a former mayor and councilman of the town of Portola Valley and a member of the San Mateo County Regional Planning Committee.

Sunset often has endorsed and supported both editorially and through employee participation, conservation objectives related to parks, beaches, wild rivers, and other recreational areas for the public benefit. This has been done frequently with the risk and occasional loss of advertising revenue.

Becoming the first major medium of the communication industry to refuse DDT advertising, Sunset gained national acclaim as a magazine dedicated to the preservation of our environment through far-sighted planning.

It was logical that the publisher should become a member of the President's National Advisory Committee on Oceans and Atmosphere, and later be named Ambassador in charge of America's cooperation with the International Ocean Exposition.

Putting his full effort into the Exposition, Mr. Lane moved his entire family to Okinawa during the six-months project ending in January of this year.

The U. S. Pavilion featured seven large modules depicting the nation's interest in the seas. Motion pictures, scale models, an underwater demonstration tank, an ocean current simulator, and a future power source from the sea were on display.

Objective of the Japanese-sponsored Exposition was to promote the worldwide need to explore and study the seas for the benefit of all mankind. Thirty-seven nations participated.

"America's Pavilion was the result of cooperation among many agencies of government, private industry, and a host of institutions of education and research," Mr. Lane explained.

Back at his office in the beautiful Sunset headquarters, Chairman Lane continued to pursue his wide range of interests.

His career is reflected in the wording of a Business Statesman Award presented to him in April by the Harvard Business School Association of Northern California: "... recognizing business executives who have significantly contributed to the growth, profitability and managerial accomplishments of their companies, as well as provided leadership in cultural, educational, governmental, and community activities."

50th Anniversary at Toronto

ON Thursday, March 4, Delta Theta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta celebrated its 50th anniversary with a combined Founders Day and Anniversary banquet in Toronto, Ontario. In 1926, Psi Delta Psi, a local fraternity at the University of Toronto, became affiliated with Delta Tau Delta. Since then it has been recognized as a progressive and responsible group. Many Toronto Delts have gone on to distinguish themselves throughout the world. The anniversary celebration was a social success, with more than 70 attending, and a true display of Delt brotherhood.

Zeta Pi

One hundred years ago a State Normal School in Indiana, Pa., first opened its doors to 225 students. Becoming a State Teachers College in 1927 and a State College in 1960, Indiana University of Pennsylvania evolved to full university status in 1965. Today it encompasses eight schools and 39 departments, granting degrees at the bachelor, master, and doctoral levels. Enrollment is approximately 11,000. Known for many years as a teacher-training institution, the University now graduates more non-teachers than teachers.

By JAMES L. CLARKE
Chapter President

May 1, 1976 was an eventful day in the lives of 40 men from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania campus. On that day we became charter members of Zeta Pi, the 115th chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

Formal installation climaxed a year of affiliation with Delta Tau Delta as a Crescent Colony.

Zeta Pi was developed on a sound foundation. Its predecessor was Chi Alpha Sigma, founded Feb. 26, 1970, by a dedicated group of twenty-one young men. Chi Alpha Sigma was founded on the ideals of leadership, respect, and true brotherhood, and soon became recognized by the University's Interfraternity Council.

The local fraternity grew and prospered over the years. In the spring of 1975 the Brotherhood voted to petition Delta Tau Delta for Colony status. This decision was greatly influenced by the sincere interest shown in us by the many Delts who had visited us. Approval was granted, and on April 17, 1975 we became a Delt Colony.

The past year has been one of hard work in preparation for the installation. Credit must be given to national Field Counselors Doug Northrup and Mark Vernallis, in assisting our transition to the Delt system.

In early March of this year we formally petitioned the Arch Chapter for charter status. On March 19, we were informed by Wayne Sinclair, president of the Eastern Division, that we had been granted national recognition.

The initiation date was set and, thanks to the invaluable assistance of Wayne Sinclair, Mark Vernallis, and Gale Wilkerson (director of chapter services), all systems were go.

The Rite Of Iris was administered to the members of the then Crescent Colony by an impressive team from Delta Beta Chapter at Carnegie Mellon University. Initiation ceremonies for the group took place immediately afterward. The ritual was beautifully performed by Gamma Sigma Chapter of the University of Pittsburgh.

After the initiation, Delta Beta Chapter hosted a social hour at its house on the Carnegie Mellon campus. This provided an excellent opportunity for the newly initiated Delts to meet and talk with the many alumni and guests who would be attending the installation banquet.

Saturday evening, approximately 150 people attended the banquet at Stouffer's Restaurant in Pittsburgh. Perry R. Swanson, Gamma Sigma '55, vice-president of the Eastern Division, was toastmaster for the evening. His witty comments kept the banquet moving in outstanding fashion. Daniel Carfang, Zeta Pi '76 and past president of the colony, gave the invocation.

Mr. Swanson then introduced distinguished guests at the banquet, after which, Dr. Terrell O.

The Rainbow

artin, director of special programs and organizations at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, welcomed the new chapter to the campus.

Membership certificates were to have been presented by Roland H. Geiger, Allegheny '72, our help-ful, hard-working chapter adviser, and Al Sheriff, executive vice-president of Delta Tau Delta. Due to a printing delay, however, they were not available. Instead, the two men made brief remarks.

Wayne Sinclair then presented the charter to James Clarke, president of Zeta Pi, who gratefully accepted the charter and made a brief speech.

The keynote address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Frederick D. Kershner Jr., Butler '37. Dr. Kershner, vice-president of Delta Tau Delta, entertained the audience with his humor, but explained also that the Fraternity is a serious business and that leadership development is a very important part of that business.

After Dr. Kershner's address, the banquet ended with the singing of "Delta Shelter." The day was over, but the memory would last a lifetime. We were Delts, but as we all gazed at the charter and our new badges, we realized that the work had just begun.

CHARLES D. CONWAY, UNIVERSITY OF THE SOUTH '20, Winter Park, Fla., has given the university's art gallery a collection of photographs and art objects he acquired while stationed in Africa for General Motors Export Company in the 1920s and 30s.

The collection is currently on loan by the art department to the anthropology department, and is being displayed to the public in all cases in the J. Albert Woods Science Laboratories.

There are many hand-carved glass bowls and expressive figures from Dahomey, Nigeria and Senegal which Mr. Conway and his wife purchased over several years from itinerant peddlers.

There are carved tusks from the Ivory Coast with leaves, flowers, birds and snakes in high relief, along with other ivory pieces.

An exact replica of the throne of the king of the Ashanti is carved from a single piece of mahogany about 20 inches high and wide, presenting an elephant holding a gracefully curved stool. Beads, bracelets and inkwells complete the collection.

Art and anthropology departments agree that the photographs are probably the most valuable part of the collection. They were taken from 1930 to 1932 by a professional photographer, C. Agoursel, along the Congo River from Leopoldville (now Kinshasa) to Stanleyville (now Kisangani) and into the Burundi highlands, and depict a native way of life that has now largely vanished. Plans are for the art gallery to display enlargements of selected photographs at a later date.

Mr. Conway, a native of Osceola, Ark., went to Chattanooga after graduating from Sewanee. Having achieved football distinction as end, "Ping" Conway coached at McCallie School for two years. He earned a law degree at Chattanooga College of Law, went to Florida to make his fortune in the land boom of 1924-25. Having "lost my shirt," he returned to the practice of law, went to Wall Street in New York and from there joined General Motors Export Company.

He traveled for GM for 12 years. While in France he met and married Madeleine Vincent and they have four children. After his travels in Europe and Africa for GM he left the company and became a distributor in San Juan, Puerto Rico for Chevrolet, Buick and Cadillac. He lived in Puerto Rico until his retirement leaving his company, Caribe Motors, in the care of his sons.

This is Mr. Conway's description of the history of the photographs:

"The pictures of this album were taken by a Polish air force officer who had to flee his country or lose his life, at the time of a revolt in Poland. The only useful civilian trade he knew was photography. He lived in Brussels a few years, married an attractive Belgian girl. They came to what was then Leopoldville. During my visits there I got to know them and like them. It was he who selected the album and placed the pictures in it.

"I gave the album to a museum started by the General Motors Export Company. At the time they were most happy to have it. Later, for some reason, it was decided to discontinue the museum and I was asked if I wanted it returned to me, which I did with the thought of one day giving it to Sewanee."

Restoring a Town

ONE HUNDRED and forty years ago a group of men gathered at a small frontier settlement to sign the Texas Declaration of Independence from Mexico. Today, a leading Houston citizen is determined that the settlement will spring to life again.

George A. Butler, Pennsylvania '23, is channeling much of his considerable energy into reconstructing Washington-on-the-Brazos, birthplace of the Republic of Texas. He visualizes a replica of the early settlement — 13 buildings, all but two of them log cabins — and his record of achievement leaves little doubt that he will see the job accomplished.

A native of Iowa, Mr. Butler became a Texan shortly after earning his law degree from George Washington University in 1923. While in Washington, he met Anne Garrett of Houston. They were married in 1924 and moved to Houston in 1925, where he joined a law firm.

Since that time, George Butler has maintained a business and community service pace that is difficult to match. He made his mark holding companies together during the Depression days of the 1930's, then turned to forming banks and running the state Democratic organization.

He and a colleague formed their own law firm, Butler, Binion, Rice, Cook & Knapp, in 1941. Mr. Butler remains a senior partner, as well as senior chairman of the boards of three banks he founded: the Bank of Texas, Post Oak Bank, and Merchants Park Bank.

He headed the Houston Community Chest and United War Chest of Houston during World War II, and was chairman of the state Democratic committee in 1943 and 1944.

Harold Landram, Oklahoma '34, has been named district counsel by the Office of the General Counsel, Veterans Administration Central Office in Washington, D. C., with offices in Muskogee, Okla. The district counsel provides legal services for the VA in Oklahoma. Mr. Landram formerly served as assistant district counsel.

George Butler

Currently chairman of the Houston Corporation, a real estate and investments firm, he resigned only this spring from chairmanship of the state Board of Public Welfare.

Yet, at 75, he finds time to serve as chairman of the board of the Washington-on-the-Brazos State Park Association. The park site, 75 miles northwest of Houston and five miles from Mr. Butler's 700-acre cattle ranch, now has a museum, an auditorium, a replica of Independence Hall (where a group of landowners in 1836 declared Texas free of Mexico), and the rebuilt home of Anson Jones, president of the republic from 1844-46.

Mr. Butler hopes to see the rebuilt town completed by the end of 1977, and already he is trying to gather funds to study the feasibility of an outdoor theater for presentation of historical dramas.

He sees the restoration project as something that will be good for the people of Texas. And, as always, that is enough incentive for George Butler.

John T. Brown III, Texas Tech '64, who received the MBA Degree from the University of Delaware in June, graduating with honors, has been named assistant to the president of Helmerich & Payne, Inc., a diversified energy and financial company and international contract oil and gas driller, headquartered in Tulsa, Okla.

J. Hunter Munford, Kansas '36, is a realtor in Carlsbad, Calif., "living on the beach and enjoying the life here." Mr. Munford plans to visit his chapter this fall for the first time in 20 years.

Lt. John D. Richmond, West Virginia '70, entered active duty service in the Medical Corps of the U. S. Navy after finishing internship at Presbyterian Medical Center, Denver, in June of 1975. He trained at the Naval Aerospace Medical Institute in Pensacola, Fla., to become a flight surgeon. Part of the training was taking primary flight instruction in the T2C jet trainer. Dr. Richmond currently is assigned as a flight surgeon at Cecil Field, Jacksonville, Fla. His duties include deployment on the USS Nimitz (CVN68), the world's newest and largest ship.

Day

Douglas Winfield Day, Oregon '62, has been advanced to Fellow of The Construction Specifications Institute. Mr. Day is chief, Division of Specifications and associate director of Stone, Maccini and Patterson, architects-engineers of San Francisco. Investiture took place during ceremonies on June 23 at CSI's national convention in Philadelphia. Mr. Day has made nationwide contributions toward the advancement of science of construction as a member of the National Delphi Panel, in the development of specifications for the Veteran's Administration Hospital System and through service as a member and later chairman of the CSI Information Systems Committee.

Dr. G. D. Adamson, Kentucky '53, currently is assigned as Commander, USAF Hospital, F. E. Warren AFB, Wyo. However, he is being reassigned to Headquarters, ADCOM/NORAD Command Surgeons office as chief, professional services, in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Bill Parisi, Iowa '66, recently was appointed associate executive director of Methodist Hospitals of Dallas, Tex.

Donald F. Calhoon, Ohio State '74, is assistant executive director of the Central Ohio Chapter, March of Dimes. He received an award recently from the National Foundation — March of Dimes for "outstanding effort to improve the quality of life" in recognition of the best overall public relations campaign for 1975.

Poole

H. M. Poole, Jr., former vice-chairman of Johnson and Johnson International, was elected chairman of the Board of Directors of The Arthritis Foundation at its annual June meeting in Chicago.

As chairman of the Foundation, Mr. Poole will be chief spokesman for the only national voluntary agency dedicated exclusively to eradicating the nation's number one crippling disease — arthritis. He will also preside as chief policy making officer and chairman of the executive committee.

Mr. Poole was elected by the organization's full membership. He has been on the boards of both the New Jersey and San Diego Chapters of The Arthritis Foundation and vice-chairman of the national board of directors.

Mr. Poole, a native of Texas, attended the University of Washington. He joined Johnson and Johnson in 1941 as a salesman. In rapid succession, he rose to regional manager; vice president; member of the management board and the executive committee; and vice chairman of Johnson and Johnson International, the position he held at the time of his retirement in 1971.

Mr. Poole first became a volunteer for The Arthritis Foundation in New Jersey in 1956. Upon retirement he and his wife, Dorothy, relocated to La Jolla, Calif. where he became active with the agency's chapter in San Diego. He also is a trustee of Scripps Memorial Hospital there, and is a partner in a ranching operation.

Col. Kenneth D. Waits, Oklahoma State '53, is with the USAF at Ramstein AB, Germany.

Hazelton

The Rev. Dr. Philip M. Hazelton, Ohio State '63, recently was chosen as the "Outstanding Young Religious Leader" for the state of Indiana by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Indiana. Dr. Hazelton, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Bluffton, received the honor for his work in the Mental Health Association, Community Action Agency, counseling and youth work. After Ohio State, he did graduate work at Pittsburgh and Princeton. Before moving to Bluffton, he served as assistant pastor in Baltimore, Md.

Capt. Richard "Mike" Perry, Miami '68, recently returned from three years of duty in Asia and was awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal for his achievements there. He currently is assigned to recruiting duty in Dallas, Texas.

Ted R. Ellis, East Texas State '72, who received his CPA certificate in 1974, is with a Dallas accounting firm. His home is in Garland, Texas.

Bernard "Skip" Fisher, Indiana '75, is an agent for Farm Bureau Insurance in Indianapolis.

Dr. Charles G. Drew, Jr., Maine '64, and Dr. Alfred Osher have opened an office for the practice of orthodontics in Conway, N. H. Dr. Drew has served with the U. S. Navy Dental Corps and engaged in private practice of general dentistry in Northeast Harbor, Maine.

Capt. Thomas S. Sharp, Ohio State '66, completed his MBA Degree this spring and has been selected as an exchange officer to the British Royal Pay and Computer Center outside Winchester, England, at the British Post Worthy Deron.

Richard D. McCullough, South Florida '70, recently was promoted to assistant professor of voice at Onondaga Community College, Syracuse, N. Y. He is in his fourth year with Tri-Cities Opera Co., Binghamton, N. Y., where he recently completed Schauernard in "La Boheme", and he currently is performing the father's role in the DiGiacomo "Beauty and the Beast" in Syracuse.

BATON ROUGE

I hope all alumni who attended the Founders Day Banquet and the Rainbow Formal this spring at Epsilon Kappa Chapter (LSU) enjoyed themselves. The formal was held for the first time in New Orleans and was a big success, thanks to the efforts of many, particularly Chairman Bill Braun.

This year's turnout at Founders Day was encouraging. All alumni and guests were greeted formally by the banquet's MC-chairman Ted Bader. Epsilon Kappa displayed its usual southern hospitality by sponsoring a cocktail party prior to the banquet and permitting us to use the Shelter for an alumni meeting afterwards.

As a result of that meeting, the Alumni Chapter has begun monthly luncheons in downtown Baton Rouge. All area alumni are invited to join us for the luncheon buffet held on the third Thursday of each month at the Chateau Capitol (the old Capitol House) in downtown Baton Rouge at 12:30 p.m. Please make a special effort to stop by.

Fellow alumni, Ernest Gieger and John DeGrauw have suggested a program that the Alumni Chapter plans to undertake in early spring of 1977. The Alumni Chapter will buy a block of LSU season football tickets starting in fall 1977. This will enable Delt alumni to sit together at the games. Tickets will be available to all dues-paying Baton Rouge Alumni Chapter members, on a first-come, first-served basis.

If interested, please contact me, John Trotter, using the EK Chapter address: P. O. Drawer DT, LSU, Baton Rouge, La. 70893. Contact me in December, because we will purchase the tickets in early 1977, as soon as season tickets go on sale.

For the 1976 football season, we are hoping to secure some tickets in a group for the Homecoming game. If you need 1976 Homecoming tickets, send me a check for $8.00 per ticket, payable to the LSU Athletic Office, and I will try to get some of the remaining tickets for you.

If anyone has any ideas, suggestions, or new addresses, please send them to me. We are attempt-

alumni chapters

ing to update our mailing lists.

As a final note, do not forget that annual chapter dues of $10 now are due. Please send to Tommy Allen, 2296 Hollydale Ave., Baton Rouge, La. 70708. These dues are for 1976; all members who paid dues at the Founders Day Banquet are paid in full for this year.

I hope everyone has an enjoyable summer and I look forward to seeing everyone at our chapter meeting this fall.

John Trotter
President

CLEVELAND

ON May 7, 1976, Zeta Chapter of Case-Western Reserve celebrated its outstanding year of the "turn-around" from the brink of disaster to a strong, viable chapter, by hosting Cleveland area and Zeta alumni at the annual Founders Day banquet.

Featured guests were International President Fred C. Tucker, Jr., and Executive Vice-President Alfred P. Sheriff, III.

President Tucker presented the principal address of the evening. Executive VP Sheriff was presented a scroll in recognition of his long Delt service in the Cleveland area prior to joining the Central Office executive staff.

Weekly Friday alumni luncheons maintain their basic group at The Governor's Pub, located in the lower concourse of the Union Commerce Building, Euclid at East Ninth St. This core group of alumni would like to have the pleasure of the company of many more of the 1,000 known alumni in the Cleveland area.

You all come. Bring your suggestion for more alumni functions, including meeting and working with undergraduate chapters in the area.

VILLANOVA

ON Saturday, January 31, 1976 Zeta Theta Alumni Association sponsored its first Career Day. This program was open to juniors and seniors of the undergraduate chapter.

Ten Delt graduates in various types of careers shared some of their experiences and knowledge of opportunities with the undergraduates. Some of the alumni had the authority to act as official representatives of their respective firms.

To say the least our first career day was a success. Excellent support was received from the seniors and juniors along with fine presentation from the alumni.

Hopefully, each year the program can be expanded as both alumni and undergraduates benefited.

The following companies were represented: Chemical Bank of New York, Girard Bank of Philadelphia, Philadelphia National Bank, First Pennsylvania Bank, Peat, Marwick & Mitchell Accounting Firm, General Electric Corporation, Kemper Insurance Company, Equitable Insurance Company, Robert Segal, Inc. of Philadelphia, and the law firm of Wolf, Block, Schoor & Solis-Cohen, Philadelphia.

COLORADO

ON FRIDAY, April 2, 1976, The Colorado Alumni Association of Delta Tau Delta held its Founders Day Banquet in Denver. By all measures the affair was an outstanding success.

It was attended by 109 Delts. This group included 37 actives and pledges from Beta Kappa Chapter at the University of Colorado, who were guests of the Association. They traveled from Boulder to Denver in a chartered bus and their presence contributed greatly to the event.

Ken Penfold was master of ceremonies and the honored guest and speaker was Fred C. Tucker, International President.

The Colorado Association is comprised of all Delts living in Colorado, regardless of their chapter, and all Beta Kappa alums. The Banquet was held at the Cherry Creek Inn and the evening witnessed the establishment of many new friendships as well as the renewing of old ones. Mr. Tucker, in his remarks, indicated that the event exemplified the great spirit and traditions of Deltism.

Prior to the banquet, a business meeting was held and the following

Delts were elected to the Association Board: Ken Penfold, Spike Frisbie, Dave Milek, Rick Darst, Frank Southworth, Chuck Warren, John Dickinson, Len Tripp, Scott Smith, Bill Stephenson, Ed Feist, Bruce Dickinson, Tim Campbell, Dean Graves and Ted Malone.

The Board elected the following as officers: President Spike Frisbie, Vice-President Dave Milek, and Secretary-Treasurer Chuck Warren. President elect Frisbie then established a number of working committees for the coming year.

On May 3, an Alumni Counselor Program was initiated by the Association. 14 alums gathered at the Beta Kappa house in Boulder for dinner and then conducted a career counseling program with interested undergraduates.

On June 25 the Association held its annual golf tournament and social outing at the Boulder Country Club. Following the tournament, cocktails and dinner were served at the Blue Parrot in Louisville. Athletic and social chairmen are Dean Graves and Ted Malone.

CHOCTAW

THE Alumni of Northwestern Pennsylvania met at the Alpha Chapter Shelter of Allegheny College on June 1 for the purpose of reactivating the Choctaw Alumni Association.

After a fine dinner provided by the actives, a business meeting was held and the following officers were elected:

President Robert B. Dornhaffer, Allegheny '51; Vice-President James D. English, Pittsburgh '55; Secretary-Treasurer Frank P. Turner, Jr., Allegheny '49; and Delegates to the Karnea Marion Llewellyn, Pittsburgh '34, Keith Steiner, Allegheny '73, and Alternate Gordon Leberman, Allegheny '21.

A motion was approved that the membership include all Delts residing in Northwestern Pennsylvania and all graduating seniors. It was agreed that meetings will be held three times a year. The next meeting has been set for October 16, 1976, at the Allegheny Chapter house.

Please refer all correspondence for this association to the undersigned. Completed forms and fees for our association will be mailed to you in the near future.

OKLAHOMA CITY

On May 3, Oklahoma City alumni held their annual Founders Day banquet at a local motor hotel, at which time we were deeply honored to have as our guest speaker William J. Fraering, second vice-president of the fraternity.

Brother Fraering brought us up to date on various developments in the fraternity. We briefly discussed the forthcoming North Star Karnea and Oklahoma City alumni plans to host the Western Division Conference in the spring of 1977.

We are extremely grateful to have had Mr. Fraering visit us and we trust we can entice greater local alumni support in the future.

Jack T. Snoddy
President

NORTHWEST FLORIDA

The Northwest Florida Alumni Association is in its second year and is moving steadily ahead. After an organizational and structure building year the chapter is involved in an extensive alumni drive with a determined goal of doubling its membership.

At present, four quarterly meetings are held, usually in different localities dispersed throughout the Northwest Florida area to encourage attendance and to provide a varied atmosphere to each meeting.

Whenever possible the meetings are tied into an undergraduate function of the chapter located at the University of West Florida in Pensacola. For the upcoming year, in addition to the membership drive, members are looking forward to planning and sponsoring the annual Founders Day Banquet, a camping weekend and other varied and most interesting events.

All DTD alumni living or doing business in the Northwest Florida area are eligible for membership, as well as all Zeta Iota Alumni dispersed throughout the nation.

Any and all alumni in the Northwest Florida area are invited to participate in the alumni association, just let us know about you.

TRACK

Toronto University's outstanding long jumper, JIM BUCHANAN, earned a berth on the Canadian Olympic team and set an all-time Delt record in the event. At the Long Beach Invitational, Jim finished second with his all-time best mark, 26-3. He was one of the top jumpers in the Canadian college circuit.

One of the nation's leading sprinters, BRIAN STORM of Bowling Green, had another superb season and competed in the Olympic Trials and the NCAA championships. He bettered the Olympic qualifying time in the 100-meter dash four times but was hampered by a pulled thigh at both big meets. He tied school records in the 100-yard dash and 100-meters. Brian won the Mid-American Conference 100-yard dash crown, finished third at the Central Collegiate meet, placed fourth at the Dogwood Relays, and fifth at the Kansas Relays. He was undefeated at dual meets. His teammate, junior WAYNE MARINCLIN, had the team's best throws in the shot and discus.

Western Illinois' outstanding discus thrower BILL EDWARDS finished second at the NCAA Division II championships, earning All-American honors for the third straight year. He also qualified for the Division I finals but failed to place. Bill won the discus event at the Alabama Relays and Illinois Intercollegiate, placed third at the Drake Relays, and fourth at the Kansas Relays. He's never been defeated in a dual meet. The 6-5, 260-pounder missed the Olympic qualifying distance this year but plans to continue competing and feels he'll reach his peak by the 1980 games.

Lawrence University soph RON WOPAT gained All-American honors in two events at the NCAA Division III championships, placing fourth in the discus and fifth in the shot put. Earlier, he won his second straight Midwest Conference crowns in those events and bettered his own school and MWC records. Ron also won the school's Arthur Denny Award once again as the team's top track performer. Teammate ROB STEVENS competed in the high jump, long jump, triple jump, and sprints and was selected as the team's outstanding freshman competitor.

Soph BRUCE HENDERSON set an Indiana Collegiate Conference record in the high jump and competed in the NCAA Division III championships for the second year. At the Wabash Relays, he helped the squad to first place finishes in the high jump relay and shuttle hurdle relay. Bruce was voted the team's most improved performer.

Senior pole vaulter BOB FLINT and soph discus thrower MARK HILL were team leaders in their events for the Stanford squad. Bob did well at the West Coast Relays, setting a career best mark and the third-best leap in Stanford history. Mark won the school's "Dink" Templeton Award as the team's outstanding weight man.

Junior weight man KJEL KILSGAARD of Idaho placed third in both the shot and discus at the Big Sky Conference championships, setting personal bests in both events. Junior DOUG BECKMAN was one of the squad's leading milers.

Soph JOE SHULTS was the University of the South's high point man for the season. He won the 220-yard dash at the CACC championships. Senior DOUG HINKINS and freshman BRUCE

ALEXANDER were Oregon State's two best javelin throwers. Westminster soph RODGER LARAMORE set new school records in the 120-yard high hurdles and the 440-yard hurdles. He gained All-American honors and placed second in the 120-yard high hurdles at the NCAA Division III championships.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute's ED GRODEN had a remarkable senior year, setting new school records in the indoor two mile run and outdoor three mile, six mile, and 3,000 steeplechase events. R.P.I. won the Independent College Athletic Conference crown and the New York State Championship.

Soph PAUL BAGINSKI of Cornell had his best discus throw of the season to place fifth at the Heptagonal championships at Providence. He also placed third at the Nittany Lion Relays and took first place in a dual meet with Pennsylvania.

Kentucky senior JOHN PERRY had another good season as a marathon runner and placed third at the Kansas Relays. Junior KENT ANDERSON was Iowa's top pole vaulter during the indoor and outdoor seasons. Allegheny soph MITCH MAGEE gained All-PAC honors after running the first leg on the Gators' third-place mile relay team at the PAC meet.

Lafayette junior JIM HARMON placed fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles at the East Coast Conference championships. Willamette's LARRY STAAB placed fifth in the triple jump at the Northwest Conference meet and was the fifth-leading point getter on the team. DON McCracken did well in the 120-yard high hurdles and 440-yard intermediate hurdles.

Others who did creditable jobs were freshmen GARY KINMAN and PETE CRANDALL of Ohio State, junior weight man MIKE SANSONE of Lafayette, shot putter DON TRUBIC of Allegheny, and javelin thrower BUD JARRELL of Lehigh.

BASEBALL

Dr. BILL ARCE, Stanford '49, was elected to the NAIA Baseball Hall of Fame this spring. He's still serving as Athletic Director and baseball coach at Claremont-Mudd College in California and has been a leader on the international baseball scene.

Delt Olympians

Two Delts earned places in the 1976 Olympic Games, but one doesn't represent the United States. Jim Buchanan, Toronto University long jumper, is competing for Canada at the summer games in Montreal, Quebec. Peter Commette, a 1976 graduate of Tufts University, represents the United States in the Finn Class of the Yachting Olympics held at Kingston, Ontario. Auburn swimmer Gary Schatz went to the finals of the 100-meter free style but didn't make the top three. Bowling Green sprinter Brian Storm and pole vaulter Casey Carrigan, Stanford '73, also failed to place.

ningest season in Texas Tech history as the Red Raiders had a 32-21 record. GARY LONG had a great senior year as a first baseman and designated hitter. He was fourth in batting and won the team's Arch Lamb Spirit Award symbolizing spirit, hard work, and dedication. Left-handed reliever TOM BLACK tied for the lead in games pitched, had the lowest E.R.A., and set a Tech record with 8 saves.

Iowa State senior CRAIG HERR was one of the Big Eight's top catchers and ranked third in team batting. He was a three-year regular and didn't make an error in 1976 while handling 167 total chances. Junior JEFF KLINE started in the Ohio State outfield for the third straight year and was fifth in hitting.

A pair of Delt regulars earned All-PAC first team honors and led Allegheny College to another President's Athletic Conference title. PETE RICH started for the fourth year, gained All-PAC selection for the second time, and finished with a career batting mark of .313. This past season, he led the team in stolen bases, was second in hits, and third in batting. Soph catcher MIKE MAROPIS also earned All-PAC honors and was fourth in hitting and RBI's.

STEVE DUNKELBERGER finished fourth in hitting for Lehigh and won the Bruce Thompson Memorial Trophy as the team's most valuable senior. Junior STAN STERNER came back from a 1975 arm injury to become an effective hurler again for the Engineers. He was second in E.R.A. and third in games pitched, innings, strikeouts, and wins.

Lawrence University, coached by RICH AGNESS, Lawrence '67, was paced by several Delts and went to the conference playoffs. Soph first sacker GEOFF GRIEVE was named to the All-Midwest Conference first team and had his second straight .300 year. He was second in hits and fifth in batting. A fine fielder, he set new school records for most putouts in a game (15), season (169), and career (329). Junior co-captain JIM WILKINSON was re-elected for next season, led the team in almost every pitching category, and was errorless in 55 chances on the mound and in the outfield. Frosh outfielder JEFF HEIMERMAN, though not a regular, led Lawrence with 15 stolen bases in 17 games, the second-best total in school history.

Duke University suffered through one of its worst seasons but did get some help from two Delt starters. Catcher HUGH BAYLESS was named the team MVP while soph pitcher KIRK LOUDERBACK led in games pitched, innings, and strikeouts.

DePauw junior MITCH MORAN was one of the squad's top batters and ranked eleventh in conference hitting. He was named to the All-Indiana Collegiate Conference second team and had the second-best fielding average among league outfielders.

Two Illinois Tech Delts were team leaders. Soph KEVIN KLEIN was the top man in nearly every pitching category while frosh catcher CURT WILCHER led in home runs. Left-handed reliever RICK HARTUNG had the second-lowest E.R.A. for Lafayette.

Although not hitting for a good average, soph outfielder STEVE CAMPER was a valuable player for the perennially strong Delaware squad and saw a lot of action over the last part of the season. The Blue Hens posted a 31-19 season record.

Senior MIKE BRONDER concluded his Stevens Tech career by leading the team in hitting and stealing 8 bases in 12 games. He was a four-year starter and is now the school career leader in hits. Among the big individual performances was the pitching of junior CHRIS CASSIDY against Division III tournament-bound Upsala. In his first varsity start, Chris limited the Vikings to four hits and one unearned run for a 2-1 win in the team's best effort of the spring.

Senior outfielder ED WANAMAKER saw a lot of action for Wabash and had the second-best fielding average on the team. Others making contributions were seniors KENT BAIN and DAN LIBBY of Kenyon, and Baker DH TONY HARRIS.

JOE SEXSON, Purdue '56, completed his 17th season as his alma mater's head coach by winning 19 games, the most wins in Purdue history.

Left-hander RICK KREUGER, Michigan State '70, got off to a great start with the Rhode Island Red Sox of the International League but injured an ankle in late May which put him out of action for a number of weeks. Prior to the injury, he had a 5-1 record in relief and was one of the league leaders in earned run average. Infielder PETE MAROPIS, Allegheny '76, was playing his second year with Appleton of the Midwest League.

TENNIS

The year's top Delt player was junior FRANCIS GONZALES of Ohio State, who won All-American honors for the second straight year. He had a record of 25-3 for the year and was Big Ten number one singles champ once again. At the NCAA championships, he won his first three singles matches before being defeated.

Another conference champ was junior STEWART KELLER of Texas who won the Southwest Conference number three singles crown and was runner-up in number one doubles. For the year, he had an 18-6 singles mark (7-1 in SWC play) and was 16-10 in doubles. It was ironic that the Fraternity's leading players, Gonzales and Keller, played each other in both singles and doubles at the NCAA meet. Francis beat Stewart in second round singles while Stewart and his partner bested the Gonzales duo in first round doubles.

The Baker squad, coached by JIM IRICK, Baker '47, finished fourth in the Heart of America Conference and freshman GARY IRICK placed second in number two doubles at the HAC meet. He had a 13-1 regular season singles record and was 10-3 in number two doubles. Another frosh, CRAIG LEITNAKER, had a 7-7 mark in number four singles.

Purdue soph LUKE GROSSMAN played number two singles throughout the year and posted a 12-12 record. He was 9-16 in number two doubles and played in the Big Ten tourney. Iowa State senior CRAIG HUKILL had his best year, going 11-7 with the number two doubles team and 8-11 in number four singles.

Seniors ROD LEONARD and GARY EMSIEK were instrumental in helping Idaho to its 10th Big Sky title in 11 years. Rod was part of the conference's top number one doubles team and Gary also did well, despite ankle problems. Illinois Tech freshman PAUL STONE took first place in number six singles at the CCAC tournament and played in the NAIA district meet.

Lawrence University had one of its most successful seasons with a 9-1 dual meet record and second place MWC finish. Senior JACK ANDERSON had a 7-3 singles mark and junior JOHN VAN DUZER was 7-4 in singles and 6-0 in doubles. John and his partner won the number three doubles crown at the MWC championships.

Junior twins MIKE and HARRY HABEL both had winning singles records for Pittsburgh. Mike, a team co-captain, was 7-5 while Harry posted an 8-3 record. Freshman TOM GAULT went undefeated for the Panthers, going 3-0 in singles and 2-0 in doubles.

Two Delts were valuable members of the Albion squad. Freshman MIKE FARAH was 8-3 in number one singles and 9-3 in number two doubles. He placed third in the MIAA tourney in both singles and doubles and was voted MVP by his teammates. SANDY McELFRESH was elected captain of next year's team.

Three Delts played for Villanova. Junior BRIAN LANE played number one singles and doubles, posting 7-14 and 3-9 marks respectively. A pulled stomach muscle during play at the Rider Invitational hampered him during much of the season. Junior co-captain KEVIN COUGHLIN had a 7-13 mark in number four singles and was 4-6 in doubles. MOE BLATT had a 4-2 doubles record.

Two Delts played major roles in the fine 10-4 dual meet record posted by the University of the South. Senior KEITH LANGENBECK had a 10-4 singles mark while soph SPERRY LEE went 8-6 in singles.

Bethany freshman TIM TIMMONS had just a 3-7 record in number five singles but was 7-3 in number two doubles and went to the PAC semi-finals before losing.

Michigan State soph TIGHE KEATING was undefeated in the three meets he participated in. Texas senior BILL FISHER was 2-1 in singles and 3-1 in doubles.

LACROSSE

Washington and Lee's powerful squad had another fine season, posting a 9-4 record before losing to eventual NCAA champ Cornell in the first round of the national playoffs. Junior defenseman TOMMY KEIGLER won All-American first team selection. He led the team for the third straight year in ground balls with 180 and added 5 goals, a very unusual total since defensemen seldom score. W&L coach Jack Emmer says "Tommy Keigler is the best stick-handling defenseman I've ever seen. We use him for everything — on face offs, at mid-field when we're a man down, anywhere we need a good stick-handler on the field". Junior JOHN STROCK also excelled on defense for the Generals. Freshman attacker JEFF FRITZ was fifth in scoring with 15 goals and 10 assists and junior midfielder CHRIS LARSON was seventh with 6 goals and 11 assists. Other Delts who made good contributions were senior JIM ENGLEHART and soph MARK DERBYSHIRE.

M.I.T. junior co-captain JEFF SINGER was selected as goalie on the All-New England team despite playing for a squad with a losing record. He posted 284 saves, the highest total in New England, in 15 games and is now the school career record holder with 824 in three seasons.

Ten Delts saw action for Stevens Tech. Senior attacker DAVE OSAGE was a co-captain for the second year and had his best season, gathering 15 goals and 6 assists to lead the Ducks in scoring. Senior defender TOM ERRINGTON provided steady and inspiring play all season. Junior attacker MIKE APOSHIAN collected 10 goals. Soph DOUG BUSCHMAN shifted from defense to attack and had 7 goals and 8 assists. Juniors JIM SHAW and CHRIS SOLLITTO, and sophs MIKE ANTIERI and JOE FRANCOMANO all saw a lot of action at midfield.

FOOTBALL

Yale's successful head coach CARMEN COZZA, Miami '52, has been named as Athletic Director of the Ivy League school. Carmen will serve as football coach for the 1976 season then will devote full time to the athletic directorship. His 69 victories make him the winningest football coach in Yale history.

Maryland senior KIM HOOVER continued to pile up additional awards and honors during the spring. In addition to Academic All-American selection, he won two of the top four athletic awards bestowed by the University: the Geary Eppley Award for the male senior letterman with the highest overall scholastic average and the Atlantic Coast Conference Plaque for the graduating senior who displays excellence in scholarship and athletics. He also won the ACC Jim Weaver Scholarship and was the winner of the league's first Jim Tatum Award. Kim signed with the Baltimore Colts as a free agent. Another Maryland senior, tackle JIM RICHEY, won the team's Unsung Hero award.

The first Delt chosen in the NFL player draft was University of Idaho defensive tackle CRAIG CRNICK, a two-year starter after transferring from junior college. He was picked by the Oakland Raiders in the thirteenth round. Stanford center TODD ANDERSON was selected by New England in the seventeenth round. Stanford kicker MIKE LANGFORD signed with the San Francisco 49'ers as a free agent. Oregon State linebacker ERNIE RICHARDSON inked a free agent pact with the Seattle Seahawks expansion team.

University of Chicago Athletic Director and head football coach WALTER HASS, Minnesota '33, retired from those posts at the end of June. He had a winning record over 13 years as football coach at Carleton College then became Athletic Director at Chicago in 1956. The club football program he started and organized advanced to intercollegiate status in 1969 and he served as head coach thru last fall.

JIM IRICK, Baker '47, resigned after 13 seasons as head coach at his alma mater. He will continue in his other roles as Baker's Athletic Director and tennis coach.

GOLF

Junior ED DAVIS helped lead Auburn to its first Southeastern Conference crown and went to the NCAA championships. He posted a 75.3 competitive average for the year to rank third on the Tiger squad and was named to the All-SEC second team.

Stanford soph BRUCE McDONALD also played in the NCAA championships and posted a 75.3 18-hole average this season. The Cardinals finished second at the Pac-8 Southern Division meet and Bruce had a 54-hole total of 232 at the meet.

Soph CARMELLO BENASSI averaged 78.8 for the Western Kentucky squad. He was the team's top shooter at the Collegiate Masters Tournament in Knoxville and was Western's number three man at the Ohio Valley Conference meet with a three-round total of 232.

Baker's squad, coached by KARL SPEAR, Baker '33, won the Heart of America Conference crown again, outdistancing its nearest competitor by 31 strokes. Juniors KURT FAHEY and PETE ELSHAM were standouts all season with Pete shooting the lowest score (74) of all players in the final round of the HAC tourney. Coach Spear, formerly Athletic Director and head football coach for a number of years, is retiring from the Baker faculty after 30 years of service but will stay on as mentor of the golf team.

Bruce McDonald

Rob Stevens

Junior BILL BURKHARDT was Pittsburgh's number one golfer and medalist throughout the season. ROGER GILCREASE was one of the leading players for Texas A&I. Junior RICK BATCHELDER was the number five man at Wabash, averaging 83 for the season as the Little Generals posted a 4-2 dual meet mark.

BASKETBALL

BOB LEONARD, Indiana '54, returns to the National Basketball Association as a head coach by virtue of the NBA-ABA merger that absorbed his Indiana Pacer club into the older league. He previously had coached the NBA Baltimore Bullets during the 1963-64 season. Bob was the winningest coach in ABA history, posting a 387-270 regular season record and 69-46 playoff mark. He led the Pacers into the playoffs eight straight years and won three ABA championships.

Kansas State All-Big Eight second team center CARL GERLACH was chosen by the Atlanta Hawks in the seventh round of the NBA draft. He'll be tested at both center and forward.

Late honors: DePauw junior forward RICK HUSER was named to the College Division Academic All-American third team for the second straight season. He has a 3.56 grade average in political science and pre-law and will pass up his final year of eligibility to attend DePauw's Urban Semester program in Philadelphia. Illinois Tech soph forward KEVIN KLEIN was named to the Illinois state All-Academic team. Stevens Tech senior captain MIKE BRONDER was named to the Independent Athletic Conference second team.

MISCELLANEOUS

On the NCAA national scene: University of Missouri Athletic Director MEL SHEEHAN, Missouri '49, has been named as one of eight NCAA District members on the new Committee on Women's Athletics. Washington and Lee Athletic Director BILL MCHENRY, W&L '54, was a member of the NCAA Classification Committee which worked out the plan to structure the NCAA's 467 football-playing institutions into four divisions.

Lawrence University's ROB STEVENS was named as the school's Outstanding Freshman Athlete. He was the fourth-leading rusher on the football squad with 264 yards on 36 carries and competed in a number of events for the track squad.

Soph KEITH CERK was one of the leading shooters on Western Kentucky's rifle squad. He led the squad in their win over Vanderbilt and was the second-leading shooter in the match against East Tennessee, one of the country's best squads.

A number of Delts played well for the Stanford rugby squad including team captain JOHN CARROLL, TODD ANDERSON, RAMSEY BLACKBURN, JACK GREEN, and BOB SCHURR.

ARIZONA Epsilon Epsilon

SPRING in this bicentennial year for the men of Epsilon Epsilon was a very productive time. Before spring semester began at the U of A the fall Pledge Class had a constructive Initiation week resulting in twenty-three new chapter members. The outstanding member of the fall Pledge Class was Keith Sams; Scott Herman was president.

Soon after beginning the spring semester intramural season, the Deltas performed admirably in major sports. Our soccer team, led by Peter Cook, went undefeated and won the fraternity championship. The softball team made the intramural playoffs as usual.

The Deltas were also interested in charitable events such as the Spring Fling Carnival, for which proceeds go to various organizations. Teaming up with the Tri-Delta Sorority we put on a haunted house, which was quite elaborate, as well as frightening to the many younger visitors. Our efforts resulted in three first place trophies and a plaque. Two of our first place trophies were for having the most entertaining and the most popular booth. Our third first place trophy was for raising the most money during Spring Fling.

And in addition to these fine trophies we were extremely proud to receive the prestigious Grand Marshall Award. Brother John Sale did a great job!

Three Brothers, after many years of hard partying, finally settled down to alumni status with their wives. Congratulations David Babcock, Alan Forkey and Marc Goss. We wish you total happiness in the coming years.

The Epsilon Epsilon Deltas are looking forward to a successful fall rush and visit at the Karnea with our new president, Thomas Flynn. We hope this coming year will be as successful as it has in the past.

AUBURN Epsilon Alpha

SPRING quarter at EA was highlighted by our first annual "Mardi Gras" parade and dance. Together with Kappa Delta Sorority, we pulled off one of the biggest campus wide parties to hit the A.U. campus in quite a while.

Fraternities, sororities and independents entered a total of ten floats for the 2.7 mile parade. Also included in the parade were marching bands, drill teams, civic groups, local government officials and the Maid of Cotton. Following the parade was the costume ball with "Sailcat", of "Motorcycle Mama" fame, performing before an estimated crowd of 1,500! All profits went to the all-campus fund drive.

Brothers Mike Russell and Jimmy Latham are to be commended for their hard work in helping the project become the success that it was.

The weekend following "Mardi Gras" was the date set for our house party. This years affair was held at the Ramada Inn at Ft. Walton Beach, Fla. complete with swim-in bar.

The following weekend was "A" day, Auburn's intersquad football game. Following the contest was a band party with numerous rushees and high school seniors on hand to join in the fun.

Congratulations are in order for Brothers Jeff Ockerman and Frank Prince for being tapped into Omicron Delta Kappa. Jeff also became one of the first two males ever to be tapped into Mortar Board. Congratulations are also in order for Brother Ed Davis who shot his team's second highest score in helping the Tigers win the SEC golf championship. Ed was named to the All-SEC second team.

Four men were initiated at the start of the quarter and we picked up five new pledges thus far, thanks to the efforts of rush chairman Keith Parker.

NEEDLEPOINT KIT

The Delta Tau Delta crest beautifully detailed in needlepoint. The kit includes outline of shield on #12 mono canvas, chart, Persian yarn, needle, and instructions. Finished size 11½" x 15". Off-white background. Only $17.75 includes postage and handling. Ohio residents add 77¢ sales tax.

BALL STATE Epsilon Mu

THIS YEAR has been one of growth and development for Deltas of EM.

Campus involvement, always one of EM's strengths, is going better than ever. Dan Wilhoite was appointed to the position of parent coordinator for the orientation program; eight other Deltas will be helping with this program.

Brothers Randy Worland, Jack McDonald, Barry Rigby, and Jim Reed became Members of Blue Key. Also on campus, Jay Harker was elected V. P. of Finance for IFC.

Spring activities went well. Along with the women of Kappa Alpha Theta we proudly accepted the fourth place trophy in the annual Spring Sing. The Delt bike team also placed fourth in the Bike-a-Thon. Our year ended very well with a visit from Bud Tucker who had many great thoughts for all of us.

Looking now to the next school year, we have much up our sleeve. The committee planning our 7th annual Watermelon Bust has been working hard to pull together that first big event of the year. We are also planning a "State Day" for all Indiana chapters this fall or winter.

Jack McDonald

BETHANY Theta

BROTHERS at Theta Chapter hosted delegates of the "First Pilgrimage to the Original Delt House". Fifty members of the Arch Chapter and Undergraduate Council visited Bethany on Nov. 21 to pay homage to the founding site of the fraternity.

We also had visitors from several chapters drop in to check out other aspects of the Fraternity's birthplace. Many became quite literally intoxicated with life in these West Virginia hills.

By the way, we also led all fraternities on campus with a 3.13 average last semester. It didn't even take an appreciable chunk out of our partying life. Who says you can't have the best of both worlds?

T. J. McClain

BOWLING GREEN Delta Tau

OTHER fraternities are turning their heads as the Deltas move toward the No. 1 position at Bowling Green. This is becoming possible with the participation of everyone in the chapter.

The past year brought many changes for the better. A positive attitude on the part of everyone served as a foundation on which to improve. The chapter house as well as many individuals were recognized for their achievements.

This year saw more Brothers involved in IFC. Our chapter was also proud to have our current president, John Mitchell, tapped into Antains, a Greek honor society, and speedster Brian Storm, with his 9.1 speed in the 100, qualified for the National's for the second year in a row.

In other events, we took second place in the bicycle race and intramural softball. Not satisfied with this we then ran to a first place in a marathon for charity, with 59 laps around the track in one hour. Our annual spring camp-out was held at the farm of one of our Brothers, and as usual, was a huge success with almost all Brothers present.

In all, we feel last year was one fantastic year and all the Brothers left with high spirits and anticipation of another fine year.

Dave Cochran

CINCINNATI Gamma Xi

SPRING quarter for the Gamma Xi Delts has been most exciting. The excitement started with the initiation of 6 new Brothers and the pledging of 9 new men.

Greek Week kept the excitement alive. The Delts participated in the annual raft races and Mother's Day Sing. Under the direction of Brother Rich Loheide, the Delts sang "Shenandoah" and "Old Tom Wilson" and brought second place to the Shelter. Before our performance began, the Delts surprised our housemother, Mom Sawyer, by singing our Delt Sweetheart song to her.

The MD Softball Marathon was held May 21-23. These 48 hours of "playing for those who can't" helped the Delts to get satisfaction for their work in helping those who are not as fortunate as we are.

A year long goal was achieved when the Delts won the Intramural Trophy on June 5th.

May 28 found the Pijk Palace the setting for the second annual Airport Party. At this party, the social chairman, Brother Rick Robertshaw, created an atmosphere of New Orleans. The grand prize to be awarded was a weekend trip to New Orleans. The excitement was at its peak when Mom Sawyer drew the winning name. Brother Bob Carlson won and took Brother Jeff Caton with him.

The excitement continued through finals and climaxed with the Spring Formal on June 11. The garden formal was held at Brothers Mark and Brian Holland's house. Awards presented were Outstanding Active: Mike Thomas and Bob Carlson; Outstanding Pledge: Steve Bugosh; and Delt Hall of Fame: Gary Kozloff. Graduation was June 13 with 18 Brothers graduating. On July 11, 9 new Brothers were initiated.

The Gamma Xi Brothers sadly learned in early March of Mom Sawyer's plans to retire after 20 years as being housemother. Words are not able to express our thanks to her for all she has added to our chapter. Her feelings of always being on top and a winner have had an immeasurable effect. Mom is leaving as she feels best— on top and as a first place winner. Mom's retirement will be after she attends the Karnea. All of Mom's guys give her their love, their thanks, and their best wishes for her happiness in her well deserved retirement.

CARNEGIE-MELLON Delta Beta

DELTS coming to visit the Shelter in the future should have no trouble finding it, thanks to the efforts of our spring pledge class. Our back wall now bears ΔΔ in 3½' x 4' white letters. Also our fall pledge class is responsible for the new house intercom between floors.

This has been a year of building. In addition to the two projects mentioned, we have renovated the kitchen by installing a new dishwasher, stove, and refrigerator. Our sincere thanks to all alumni who contributed.

Our 15 pledges and new initiates were a great assist in making Spring Carnival '76 a success. We hope all who came had a good time and invite them back to Homecoming on October 1-3. When you come back you'll find still another treat—the gas lamps will be working. Until then, we will maintain Delta Beta as the No. 1 house on campus.

Jerry DiGennaro

CASE-WESTERN RESERVE Zeta

ASTRONG spring rush brought the membership of Zeta Chapter to 30, when 11 men were initiated on April 30 at Amasa Stone Chapel. Congratulations are due for Pledge Class President Dave Luptak and Pledge Educators Richard Kwasny, Tom McConnell, and Birch Unfug.

Zeta Chapter's Annual Founder's Day was held at the Shelter on May 7, where approximately 70 Delts, including National President Bud Tucker and Executive Vice-President Al Sheriff, gathered for the festivities. Awards were presented to Brother Clemens R. Frank by Zeta Chapter for alumni service and to Brother Al Sheriff by the Cleveland Alumni Association for outstanding dedication and service to the Fraternity.

As is our custom, Zeta Chapter participated enthusiastically in annual Greek Week games held on campus. This year, as a result of our efforts, we won the Spirit Award for the most spirited house on campus (non-alcoholic, of course).

Congratulations are in order for Steve Osmanski, former Undergraduate Council member and ex-chapter president, who was elected to Phi Beta Kappa this year.

Our House Corp. has given us the financial go-ahead for much-needed improvements in and around the Shelter, which should be completed by the time school opens in August.

James Klever

COLORADO Beta Kappa

SPRING semester of '76 will go down in the records as a turning point for Beta Kappa Chapter. With only 17 actives, five of whom were not planning to return in the fall, rush was obviously the top priority.

Under the leadership of President Rick Shoup and Rush Chairman Matt Hampton, and with the guidance of Field Counselor Mark Vernallis, the chapter came through with twenty pledges. Besides literally saving the chapter, the boost of morale provided by rush was instrumental in the success of other chapter programs.

As a result of the diligent efforts of Alumni Chairman Scott Brown and Resident Adviser Paul Hamilton, a previously non-existent alumni program was initiated with two chapter newsletters and Beta Kappa's first annual Founders Day Banquet.

Feedback from alumni has been excellent, and it appears the foundation for outstanding alumni relations has been laid.

Our social program, never a problem at Beta Kappa, was even better this semester. The highlights of Social Chairmen Gordy Hering and Gary Hardens' program were a ski weekend at Vail and an end of the year Luau. Beta Kappa showed well in all intramural sports, again winning our league in hockey and going to the playoffs in football. We also finished second in interfraternity skiing competition.

The chapter is especially proud of the numerous improvements being undertaken at the Shelter. By fall the Shelter will boast new exterior paint, a new living room, card room, and dining room. The pledge class, under pledge President Keith Wheeler, completely refurbished the chapter room. Spirit is high at Beta Kappa with everyone looking forward to next year being even better than this one.

CORNELL Beta Omicron

THE end.

The procession winds slowly through the Arts Quad. Frequent handshakes crack the solid wall of black gowns. Reunions attempt to echo accomplishments of the years. The excited anticipation of a senior week of endless celebration and final flings blighted by the week's crushing boredom, melts slowly from consciousness. Regret and loneliness pierce the long plodding line.

Suddenly a maroon tassled hotelier quickly pumps a yard long wooden fork high over his head exuberantly exhibiting his long awaited freedom from kitchen life. A student of the Arts & Sciences, grasping the essence of his education tosses a frisbie to a marauding canine. Bleary eyed engineers wipe a sleep of eight semesters from their long faces.

The loud clarion of the bell tower ignites a roar which quickly envelopes the Arts Quad. New acquaintances learn of grand get-rich quick schemes and of engineering, education and nutrition jobs which have been conquered only after exhaustive interviews. Future lawyers and doctors spew free advice while city folk rib the future farmers. Backs are pounded. A brisk wind grips brightly hued tassles and whips them against beaming smiles. The crowd strides through the Arts Quad and on toward the stadium.

The beginning.

FLORIDA Delta Zeta

THE University of Florida's Delta Zeta Chapter was pleased to house Delts from all over the Southeast this past spring as they passed through enroute to spring breaks in Florida. This tradition is welcomed by Florida Delts and we hope you will continue to visit us when in Florida.

Delta Zeta has enjoyed this spring quarter while working hard in campus activities. Former DZ treasurer Russ Divine was elected student government treasurer for next year. Russ has also been IFC treasurer and is a member of Florida Blue Key and ODK. Delta Zeta presently has seven Brothers in Florida Blue Key.

Pledge Rick Healy, from New Zealand, had a fantastic year at No. 5 singles for the Gator tennis team. Rick picked up where last year's Delt tennis star Jim Oescher left off. Oescher is now an assistant pro at Forest Hills.

This spring at Florida was also highlighted by our 51st Founders Day weekend. The weekend featured a New Year's Eve party, an alumni/brother golf tournament, and awards banquet and a band party.

Delta Zeta's newly elected officers include President Bob Thatcher, Orlando, and Vice-President John Markham, Clearwater.

History in 3-D

Visitors to the Delt house at Georgia Tech can receive a condensed impression of Fraternity and University history in the combination study and card-playing area of the back living room. Cavett Taff created the unusual three-dimensional montage (shown about 2/3 completed in the photo) from various art elements. Some were created for the mural and others were found. They include a plywood cut-out of the school seal, a 3-D version of the eye from the Delt coat of arms, a portion of the Delt badge, a pledge paddle, photographs, old prints, a needlepoint by the little sisters, electronic and mechanical parts of machinery, pages from an old yearbook, flattened beer cans, a section of a sports T-shirt ironed onto a banner, a wooden soft drink case used as a shadow-box frame, and many others. While predominant colors are purple, white and gold, the "found" objects add their own colors. The three-dimensionality is accented through overlapping elements, allowing the wall to show through in places, and using deep frames that cast shadows. The entire mural is attached to the wall by four bolts to be taken down if necessary. It even has a window shade that pulls down to become a screen for slide shows.

GEORGIA Beta Delta

THE BROTHERS of Beta Delta had an especially busy Spring Quarter this year. In addition to regular spring quarter activities, the Brothers participated in the planning of a special Rainbow Formal and planned Beta Delta's participation in the Delts Tackle Dystrophy campaign.

This year's formal included a dedication to Beta Delta's outstanding alumnus, Dean William Tate, who presently is serving as president of the House Corporation. Dean Tate was honored for his long-lasting dedication and loyalty to the Fraternity. After the presentations, the Brothers continued the tradition of having especially memorable times at the formal.

As part of Beta Delta's participation in Delts Tackle Dystrophy, the Brothers held a 24-hour relay race with each participant running a one-mile lap. Donations and pledges were collected for each mile to be run. Approximately $1,000 have been collected as a result of the Chapter's efforts.

Other accomplishments during the quarter included winning first place in the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash, and rebuilding the basement of the Shelter to include a bar for future social events.

We concluded the quarter by initiating four into the fraternity, and are looking forward to an equally productive and enjoyable quarter next Fall.

Jeff Alligood

GEORGIA SOUTHERN Epsilon Omega

SPRING quarter was a fine quarter for our chapter at Georgia Southern. We had a very successful rush; we picked up ten good pledges. This was more pledges than most of the other fraternities at Southern.

We had a very good softball season as we had hoped to have. We finished second among eleven fraternities. Our team finished one game behind the first place team.

Our beach trip to Daytona Beach turned out very well. Several alumni made the weekend trip. Almost all our Brothers made the trip.

The year went well for our chapter. We accomplished many of our objectives during the year. We are really looking forward to fall quarter. All of us are confident that next year will be an even better year.

Ted Walker

IDAHO Delta Mu

AFTER returning from a great Christmas break, the Delts of Delta Mu were eager to get back into things.

First on the list was to bring the Shelter up to full capacity, which was no problem since it only took the pledging of one fine freshman.

In March, we, along with the Delts from Washington State University, hosted the Western Regional Conference. It was very successful and beneficial to all who attended. It was especially exciting to us since we once again received the Hugh Shields Award for Chapter Excellence and were very proud to be able to retire it.

The Delts ran away from all other competitors in all-campus intramurals again and came out ahead of the next closest by over 300 points!

Recently Don Coberly was elected IFC rush chairman and should do an outstanding job. IFC is lucky to have a man like him.

October 17, during the weekend of the University of Idaho versus Weber State football game, Delta Mu is hosting an Alumni Reunion to be held at the Chapter House. Functions include a happy hour and a banquet. A great time should be experienced by all!

Tom Evans

INDIANA Beta Alpha

IT WAS an enjoyable and successful semester at Beta Alpha, with much excitement and achievement.

Highlighting the semester was our best finish ever in IU's Little 500 bicycle race. The Delts finished third out of the 33 teams in the race, scant seconds behind the leaders. The Delts were strong, holding intermittent leads, even though one of our top riders was sitting in the stands with a broken collarbone, suffered in an accident only 2 weeks prior to the race. Senior Brother Don Jones was named a Little 500 All-Star rider, the second Delt named all-star in two years.

In intramurals, all the Delt basketball teams made the playoffs. In track, Brother Dave Prugh equalled his record set last year in the shot put and took first place.

The Delts staged a party for orphans at Christmas, complete with Santa Claus and games. The party delighted the youngsters, and was put on in cooperation with the women of Alpha Chi sorority.

The Brothers took a Sunday off in early April to see the Cincinnati Reds. Alumni were also invited to the event, and several took advantage of the opportunity.

Because of the many trophies collected over the years, the Delts are in the process of obtaining a trophy case to display the many awards. It is being financed initially by the graduating seniors, but alumni wishing to contribute to this project may do so, as it will help the case and be greatly appreciated. Donations should be sent to the alumni chairman, in care of the house.

The Delts wrapped up the year with the annual awards banquet, and this year we were honored to have International President Fred C. Tucker, Jr., as our guest speaker.

Brian Trauring

INDIANA-PA. Zeta Pi

THIS PAST spring will be one the Brothers of Zeta Pi will never forget. On May 1, 1976, we became the 115th Chapter of Delta Tau Delta. The formal installation and banquet which followed, were exciting events we will always remember and cherish.

Although we spent much time in preparation for the installation, there were other important events which took place. An excellent rush resulted in 11 newly initiated Brothers. The chapter raised approximately $750 in an annual Muscular Dystrophy competition on the campus. We captured first place honors and aided the Delt for Dystrophy cause.

Six members of the then Crescent Colony traveled to Philadelphia to participate in the Regional Conference held there. They thoroughly enjoyed the Conference and the city.

The Brothers of Zeta Pi would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who made our installation possible. Also, we thank all those individuals and chapters who sent us letters of congratulations. It is a wonderful feeling knowing we now have a full role in such a tremendous organization as Delta Tau Delta. We are very glad to be aboard.

William Hall

IOWA Omicron

"IT was one Delt of a time!", exclaimed Brother John Chiles of the recent winter formal and schaherazade party, the two social highlights of the semester. The formal, held at the exclusive party and convention center of PZAZZ! in Burlington, Iowa, served as a great Delt get-together with alums as well as a fantastic time. The schaherazade party involved the auctioning off of girls to the Delts who secretly invited them. All Delts were satisfied with their merchandise.

Brother David Bucher won honor for himself and the chapter with his perfect 4.0

grade point average, making him a member of Phi Eta Sigma. He also started Omicron Chapter's first newsletter which will be sent out to all alumni this summer.

Brother Robert Hart crossed the sex-line this year being the first male president of a chapter of the Mortar Board Honor Society, previously an exclusively female society. Not only is Brother Bob the first male chapter president, but he is also one of the first male members of the society. Brother Bob is also President of Omicron chapter.

Within the chapter resides a poet, as Brother Jeff Welsh recently had a book published at the University, Solo In Winter, a collection of several of his poems. The book, which almost exclusively deals with nature, is a limited edition published this last spring.

As an outstanding Junior member of Omicron chapter, Brian Piper was awarded the Raymond Peter Ink Award for leadership and ability at a banquet at the Carousel restaurant. Piper also received $100.

Individual achievements were no monopolies on the semester, as the Delt went into the construction of a limestone and brick bar with full facilities. Within a week the bar was complete in time for the IFC rush weekend in which Omicron Delts hosted the annual Roundhouse Party. The party of a number of fraternities and sororities with rushees, went over so well that many spring rushees will be at Omicron Chapter this fall with guarantees.

Jeffrey P. Welsh

IOWA STATE Gamma Pi

GAMMA PI Chapter of Delta Tau Delta had a very successful year. Gamma Pi and Gamma Phi Beta Sorority combined efforts to produce a fine fall Homecoming display.

During the winter months Gamma Pi and Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority created a second-place Varieties skit.

Gamma Pi also was active with Greek Week, having several members on the Greek Week Central Committee. We were again involved with a successful Veisha celebration in the spring of the year. Besides our work on the float, sponsored by the freshmen, members of Gamma Pi were active in the superstars competition and water-aerobic polo.

Perhaps one of the highlights of the year was the opportunity to have the children from the Wilson school for the retarded at the Shelter for a Christmas party and, in the spring, for a reunion Veisha get-together.

Gamma Pi was happy to have a large pledge class again this year. We now have junior actives from Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and South Dakota. With the election of new officers including President Greg Brown and Vice-President Bill Lewis, Gamma Pi looks forward to another rewarding year.

Jay L. Braband

JACKSONVILLE STATE Zeta Nu

THE BROTHERS of Zeta Nu again have shown the students of Jacksonville State U. that Delts are No. 1. The Brothers of Z. N. won the spring 1976 Miller 'Pick-up' Contest, with the largest total points ever turned in by a J. S. U. fraternity. The Brothers of Z. N. also hold the record of most bottles ever turned in by a J. S. U. fraternity. Z. N. has chosen as its grand prize a check for $500.

The spring of '76 has been very busy for our Brothers; among other things we hosted a mixer with our Delt Brothers from Georgia Tech, and competed in J. S. U.'s Greek Week.

Alan Cash

KANSAS Gamma Tau

GAMMA TAU ends the spring semester with the unfortunate loss of sixteen outstanding seniors. Plans for again filling the house to capacity have long since begun with the initiation of twelve pledges and an elaborate schedule for summer rush through alumni support.

For the second year in a row the K.U. Delts were active as volunteers in a housing rehabilitation program. This included painting and small repairs on low income housing. Community service appeared in many forms as was exemplified by a brother's participation in a 24-hour dance marathon which helped us raise several hundred dollars for an epilepsy fund.

Outside of class Delts were able to become involved in swimming, tennis, golf, football, and basketball intramurals. In basketball the A team reaching the semifinals and even more successful was a golf team which was able to capture the championship.

Delts also were busy engaging many of the sororities through the revived tradition of exchange dinners, social functions, and serenades. The disco theme ushered in the spring formal and pajama party, yet no party was quite as unique as our sewer rat party.

There is no doubt that the Delts will stay on top of things around campus through the retention of chairmanships in the Student Senate, Student Union Activities, and IFC, yet involvement doesn't stop here, as a number of other Delts remain a vital part of organizations across campus.

William McKee

KANSAS STATE Gamma Chi

THE SPRING semester of Gamma Chi was loaded with activities and good times. The highlight of the semester was the initiation of the fall pledges on February 22. A formal dinner followed the ceremony in honor of the new initiates and their parents.

Athletically, the Delts finished well. The high spots being a first place finish in the Delt invitational at Baker University in Baldwin Ks. and a strong second place showing in intramural track.

On March 26 and 27, a six-man delegation went to Columbia, Mo., for a regional conference. The sharing of ideas and meeting other Brothers renewed the spirit of brotherhood and the meaning of the Fraternity to our members.

Various parties helped break up the pressure of studies. They included, a pajama party, a bar-b-que, and spring formal along with Friday afternoon functions with different sororities.

Annual honors concluded the year. Glen Blakely, a freshman, was named Outstanding Pledge. Erik (Flex) Anderson and Keith Wright were named the best pledge son-father relationship. Keith Wright, who has served the chapter faithfully for three years, was named Honor Delt for the year.

Rob Riordan

LAMAR Zeta Gamma

THE SPRING semester passed slowly at Zeta Gamma. Everyone seemed to just relax and enjoy himself. The highlight of the semester was the spring formal where Jackie Kethley and Rhonda Kondo were named co-sweethearts.

The softball team looked good again this year as we took second place in intramurals. The softball team also was the basis of our muscular dystrophy project as we sponsored a softball marathon. With the help of local businesses we raised over $600 for our part in "Delts Tackle Dystrophy". All enjoyed themselves and we are looking forward to doing it again next year.

Also, Bill Kondo was named Texas' State Coordinator for MIFCA at the MIFCA conference in St. Louis. Overall, we had a good spring and are looking forward to a successful fall.

William T. Kondo

Merit Award From Lehigh

An "Undergraduate Merit Award" is conferred by the Alumni Association of Lehigh University on Joseph D. Sterrett, right, a member of Beta Lambda Chapter. He receives congratulations from the national president of the Association, Stanley M. Richman, who presented the award during the annual Lehigh Alumni Reunion in June.

LSU Epsilon Kappa

EPSILON KAPPA started off its busiest spring semester ever with the initiation of 22 new members, only the beginning of the many events to come.

The Tenth Anniversary of the chapter was celebrated with our Founders' Day banquet on February 18. Tom Sharp, EK's founding father, presented President Mark Chesebro with some historic memorabilia and showed some home movies of life in the early days of the chapter.

Valentine Day weekend saw the Delts gather with the ZTAs to entertain a large group of children from a local orphanage. Everyone really enjoyed the picnic.

A contingent of twelve represented EK at the Regional Workshop held at Auburn in February. We were pleased to have two of our Brothers leading the pledge education workshop. Most pleasing, however, was receiving the Hugh Shields Award for the fifth time, retiring it.

Our first annual Walt Disney World Party was held in March. Everyone, dressed in Disney costumes, made their way out to the airport to see the winning couple off on their free trip to the Magic Kingdom.

We teamed with Delta Gamma Sorority in Songfest, LSU's amateur singing contest. Everyone also had a great time participating in Jam-Jam, the Cajun festival at LSU, with the ZTAs. The Crawfish Boil satisfied the appetites of some 400 as we all feasted on 1200 pounds of crawfish and 10 eggs.

The highlight of our social season was the Rainbow Formal, held this year in New Orleans. After a champagne party and the presentation of our little sisters and sweetheart, we moved downstairs to the Grand Ballroom of Braniff Place for the dance.

All of us here at EK are looking forward to an even more successful year to come.

David Nelson

MAINE Gamma Nu

WE at Gamma Nu think that our many diverse interests are one of the major advantages of our house. The combination of varied backgrounds, majors, and interests makes for a well balanced house. While realizing the importance of our studies we also recognize the part played by other activities in our education.

In previous years Gamma Nu Chapter has maintained a high scholastic record. We're always above the all men's average and often among the top three fraternities scholastically.

Athletically we have had a good year. All of the Brothers participated in intramural sports and we came in first in the wrestling and indoor track meets. Our cross country team got an overall second place with a Delt being the individual winner. Our hopes of defending our first place hockey trophy were ended by an unfortunate lack of ice this year.

Our pledge program was successful this year with 20 men initiated this past spring. They are a well-rounded group and all have much to offer the Fraternity.

This year came to a rapid close with our traditional D' Jamaica and annual camping trip to Bar Harbor occurring in the last few weeks. The last event of the year was a buffet for the graduates and their parents. We wish our graduates as well as all graduating Delts the best of luck in the future.

David C. England

MIAMI Gamma Upsilon

THE 1975-76 academic year has been prosperous and rewarding for Gamma Upsilon Chapter of Delta Tau Delta. The Delts finished the year with the triumphant possession of the IFC All Sports Trophy, the second time in the seven years of its history.

The Delts won campus championships in basketball, tennis, foul shooting and finished strong in many other events. This year Gamma Upsilon honored Rick Rollins, Steve Rolls, and Bob Kelly for their outstanding contributions to athletics.

The annual All-Delt Basketball Tournament brought 11 teams to Miami University's campus. In the final game, Gamma Upsilon beat Delta Epsilon of Kentucky to win the tournament for the sixth time in seven years. The tournament closed with an enormous party that hosted 2,000 people.

Aside from the fun and games the Delts enjoy, we are proud to be ranked third, academically, on campus. Members of Gamma Upsilon are also active in campus organizations. Steve Micheletti is vice-president of IFC as well as chairman for Greek Week.

Other Brothers are serving on IFC and Greek Week committees. Next year, for the first time, we will sponsor the Greek Week Fraternity Bike Race.

After a successful Formal rush in January, we pledged 28 who have since activated. Spring rush left us with 11 pledges ready and willing to contribute the necessary effort to make the 123 Delts remain No. 1 on Miami University's campus.

MIDDLE TENNESSEE STATE Zeta Kappa

ZETA KAPPA looks forward to an invigorating fall semester after experiencing a successful and rewarding spring. The spring semester at MTSU saw the Delts finish as co-champs of their division in intramural basketball, establish a weekly chapter newsletter, enact its annual Founders Day as ZK expands its alumni relations program, finish numerous house improvements, and have the best Rainbow Formal in ZK's history, at which our new chapter adviser and co-advisers were introduced.

Zeta Kappa looks to its 1976-77 year with two major goals in mind. Our first goal is having a successful rush as the cruel cold world is grabbing many of the Brothers by way of graduation.

Our second goal contrasts the first in that it deals with our older Brothers instead of the new. Now that the alumni of the relatively young ZK Chapter are settling down into post-collegiate life, ZK is establishing a strong alumni relations program with our graduated Brothers of the past five years.

Any ZK alumnus reading this, please drop a postcard to the chapter, with your current address, so that we can start sending you copies of our weekly chapter newsletter.

All Delts passing through Tennessee and wanting to experience the best in southern hospitality, stop by the Delt Shelter in Murfreesboro!

Three members of Zeta Zeta Chapter, Morehead State University, received distinctions during the academic year. Thomas Dent McCartney, left, was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" and received the Wall Street Journal Achievement Award as Morehead's outstanding senior economics student. John C. Dickinson, center, received the All-Intramural Award as the Greek displaying outstanding athletic performance in all intramural sports. Rocky A. Burke, right, served as 1975-76 IFC vice-president.

MISSOURI Gamma Kappa

A VERY successful "keg roll" from Kansas City to Columbia, Mo., a distance of 180 miles, highlighted a busy winter term for the Gamma Kappa Deltas. Probably one of Gamma Kappa's most successful service projects in recent years, this event brought state-wide publicity for the Deltas and $1,500 toward the Muscular Dystrophy research cause.

After taking some rather short-lived, but much needed vacations to the warmer climates of California and Florida during spring break, the Gamma Kappa's returned to host 50 delegates and five leaders for a regional conference of the Western Division. Leaders in attendance included Al Sheriff, executive vice-president, and the Rev. G. C. "Tex" McElyea, Western Division president, as well as Edwin Hughes, III, former national treasurer, who was the banquet speaker.

C. K. Bartlett, GK '50, and Mr. Don Walsworth GK '56 were inducted into the newly established Gamma Kappa Distinguished Service Chapter at the Alumni/Parents Weekend banquet held April 24. Seventy-year plaques were presented to John Beaumont, GK '10, and William R. Hornbuckle, GK '08.

The Brothers will be gathering in various parts of the state for rush parties throughout the summer. However, the Shelter has fifteen summer occupants, so if you're in the vicinity this summer, stop by and see us.

MISSOURI - ROLLA Epsilon Nu

EPSILON NU chapter is happy to announce we are alive and well in the Ozarks. There has been some confusion in the past as to our exact location but the University of Missouri - Rolla campus has finally been pinpointed.

Perhaps this is due to the $750.00 collected in our 4th annual Shamrock Against Dystrophy drive, or the Outstanding Volunteer Award received from the State of Missouri. In any case now that we're on the map we invite you to drop in to see us and the Shelter.

Renovation of the Rec room, dorms, shower room and kitchen have begun and hopefully will be complete for the 10th anniversary coming up in December. These improvements in part are being paid for with contributions from alumni.

The Centennial Club has been joined by the Decade Club which several alumni initiated when they returned for Greek week.

We are looking forward to another good year at Epsilon Nu and with coed enrollment expected to reach 12 percent, the prospects of that are increasing.

NORTHWESTERN Beta Pi

SPRING Quarter on the balmy banks of Lake Michigan is always the favorite

Bill Zukowski, outgoing president of Beta Pi Chapter, Northwestern, talks with President Gerald Ford at a meeting in Illinois. "Zuke" was elected an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention, capturing the highest vote ever in Illinois by a candidate of his age.

time of year for Northwestern's Delt chapter. This year was no different, and even the chronic lack of nice weather couldn't deter the Beta Pi's from an exciting and eventful quarter.

Highlighting the quarter was the spring semi-formal held in a nearby suburb. A party prior to the dance was held at the plush Lake Bluff estate of Brother Richard Ryan. Everyone had an excellent time.

The first charity benefit held at the House in years raised money for the Kidney Foundation during "May Day". Organized by freshman Jim Woodruff, Brothers canvassed North Evanston for donations and followed up with a "drink for those who can't" at the Shelter. Brother Chris Wheeler's band "Redeye", was the featured entertainment.

Other important events included the awards night dinner, featuring songs from Mike Brady, a post dinner skinny dip in Lake Michigan, and the naming of Brother Bill Zukowski as "Man of the Year." Bill was elected as an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention and served as House president.

Bob Hildebrand, a guard on the basketball team, made the All Big Ten Academic Team. Bob Svete set the school field goal percentage record in a victory over Ohio State. In addition, the House captured the "Greek Week" sweepstakes trophy.

OHIO UNIVERSITY Beta

FOR BETA Chapter, the 1975-76 year was one of encouragement in the face of adversity. Plagued by serious financial difficulties resulting from low membership, the chapter was forced to make major cuts in the food and social budgets.

The budget cuts provoked discord and long chapter meetings but the challenge for survival was overcome by a rush program which brought 35 new Brothers into the chapter. Rush chairmen Bob Haines and Louie Drago deserve kudos for their work, along with the entire chapter.

A new administration took office during the winter with the responsibility of guiding the Brothers through some rough times. President Jim Mikkila, Vice-President Kevin O'Rourke, Treasurer Jon Boyd, Recording Secretary Tom Theis and Corresponding Secretary John Cunningham are the nucleus of Beta Chapter's leadership for the coming year.

Dale Smith, Allegheny '75, will replace Keith Steiner as resident adviser. Steiner, now director of program development for the Fraternity, was a steady and important influence during his stay in the Shelter.

Socially, the Brothers finished the year in typically outrageous fashion with the formal, the Delt Regatta (a wasted raft race) and J-Prom all occurring in the last month of school. Athletically, the Brothers were competitive in all sports, with second place finishes in all-campus bowling and tug-of-war highlighting the spring season. Beta Chapter also sent a softball team to the first annual Delt Invitational Softball Tournament at Ohio State.

The challenge for survival is not yet over. Encouraging improvements have shown that the chapter, working as unified Brothers under strong leadership, can meet such a challenge. The future of Beta Chapter depends on it.

OHIO WESLEYAN Mu

THE SUCCESSFUL spring of Mu Chapter, which featured championships in spring intramural sports as well as a very enjoyable Monnett Weekend for Alumni and parents, was culminated by the initiation of eighteen new members: David Allen, Huntington, New York; William Appell, Sandusky, Ohio; John Barger, San Marino, California; Michael Campalo, Newark, Ohio; Steven Goodrich, Chagrin Falls, Ohio; John Hancock, Southgate, Mich.; Robert Ingraham, Darien, Conn.; Andrew Madeira, Philadelphia, Pa.; Gerald Maust, Berlin, Pa.; Hugh McMullen, Philadelphia, Pa.; Chris McNicol, Wells-ville, Ohio; James Olkeriil, Tamuning, Guam; Keith Powell, Lansdowne, Pa.; Roger Sheppard, Newark, Ohio; Frank Skokan, Bronx, New York; Ben Stormes, Gross Pointe Farm, Mich.; John Sweeney, Scarsdale, New York; and Arthur West, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ohio Wesleyan is dedicating the new Branch Rickey Athletic complex in honor of Branch Rickey, MU '04. In conjunction with the University's dedication of the new facility, Mu Chapter and its alumni will dedicate a plaque at the new building from the Fraternity, followed by a function at the Shelter for alumni and members of the Chapter. Mu Alumni and friends should plan to attend. Watch for the announcement of the date and place.

New officers for the coming year are: James Barger, San Marino, Calif., president; Tom Mellon, Philadelphia, Pa., vice-president; James Fowler, Wilmington, Del., treasurer; Gerald Maust, Berlin, Pa., and James Olkeriil, Tamuning, Guam, assistant treasurers; Donald Vanslyke, Charlottesville, Va., rush chairman; and Michael Campalo, Newark, Ohio, assistant rush chairman.

OKLAHOMA Delta Alpha

HIGHLIGHTED by the visit of Al Sheriff, executive vice-president of the Fraternity, Delta Alpha enjoyed a successful and high-spirited spring semester. During the semester, Delta Alpha was honored with its fifth Hugh Shields Award, receiving the cherished flag at the Regional Conference in Waco, Texas.

In the classroom and on the athletic field the Delts excelled once again. Scholastically, we placed second among the twenty-two fraternities at O.U., while in intramurals, we captured the campus-wide Sweepstakes Trophy. This being the third year the Delts have won Sweepstakes, the trophy was retired and kept in the Delta Alpha Shelter.

Delts were also involved in campus activities in which a trio of Brothers deserve special attention. John Bode was elected this spring as UOSA president, the highest position in the student government at O.U., while Stan Baker was chosen IFC president for the upcoming year.

In another field, Kevin Portz demonstrated that the men of Delta Alpha possess a variety of talents, by serving as editor for the 1976 edition of the Sooner Yearbook.

Amid this frenzied five months there was still time for a little socializing. The Delts held four parties, including the Delt Dive, traditionally one of the largest of the spring rush parties at O.U., thus bringing the spring semester to an end in fine fashion.

Tommy McGehee

OKLAHOMA STATE Delta Chi

THE SPRING semester has brought twenty-three new initiates to the ranks of Delta Chi at Oklahoma State University.

One of our annual activities at Oklahoma State is Moms' Weekend, which was a great success for the Delt house. Delt Moms stayed the weekend to enjoy being with their sons and the entertainment of the annual Spring Sing Show.

Among our community work projects we cleaned up fire traps discovered by the fire department and painted the control tower at the Stillwater Municipal Airport.

Nearing the end of the semester we initiated our summer rush program. With the leadership of Michael Barker as our state-wide rush chairman we can foresee a successful rush this summer.

Bob McCown

OREGON STATE Delta Lambda

HIGHLIGHTING spring term for the Delts at Oregon State was the fourth annual Delta Tau Delta Keg Roll. Joining forces with Epsilon Theta Chapter of Willamette and Gamma Rho Chapter of Oregon, and sponsored by Blitz-Weinhard Brewing Co., the Delts raised close to $4,000 for the Kidney Assoc. of Oregon.

The Roll was a three-day project, the keg leaving O.S.U. on Friday morning and arriving at the Blitz Hospitality Room in Portland Sunday afternoon. It was termed the most successful Roll yet.

Spring intramurals also provided a place of achievement for Delta Lambda. Both our soccer and bowling teams made their way into the playoffs, losing hard fought battles in the end but providing the Delts with enough points to secure second place in intramurals for the year.

Also in Delta Lambda's sport spotlight was Ernest Richardson, a senior linebacker for the O.S.U. Beavers, signing with the newly franchised Seattle Seahawks, and Bruce Alexander and Lyle Hinkins both javelin throwers for Beaver track.

Scholastically, we were proud to see two of our Brothers, David Hart and Gregory Harlow accepted into Blue Key honorary.

This summer, our Shelter is undergoing extensive renovations, preparing for what we hope to be a rewarding rush and an active and fulfilling fall term.

Scott Gilchrist

PITTSBURGH Gamma Sigma

THE Panther Delts were bestowed a special honor this spring, to serve as the initiation team for the Zeta Pi Installation at Indiana University of Pennsylvania. Afterwards, we received many compliments for doing a fine job.

Two chapter members were honored at the University of Pittsburgh's annual sports banquet. Mike Habbel and Bill Burkhardt won Most Valuable Player awards for their outstanding play in tennis and golf, respectively. Harry Habbel and new initiate Tom Gault also posted winning records for the varsity tennis team.

Summer rush is underway, with scheduling of the school's freshman orientation. John P. "Huck" Finn is rush chairman.

Charles Balawajder

PURDUE Gamma Lambda

GAMMA LAMBDA'S newly initiated pledge class of 20 men distinguished themselves last March when they raised $1,470 for the Muscular Dystrophy Foundaon in a 12-hour skate-a-thon. Purdue's chapter was the leading contributor in the central states area.

Chairman Devon Harris is also the leading candidate among the rest of the Delt participants for a weekend in New York City. The all-expenses paid trip scheduled for September will feature Jerry Lewis, who is the national chairman of the foundation, in a nationally televised telethon.

On Mother's Weekend, all visiting alumni and parents were treated to a special performance in the Elliott Hall of Music. In the traditional University Singing Contest, the Delts combined with Gamma Phi Beta Sorority for an inspiring evening of music and finished among the finalists in the top six on campus. Tommy "Golden Throat" Devine directed the 50-member entourage.

For the seventh consecutive year, the Delt swimming team won the intramural title, defeating Phi Gamma Delta in a hotly contested finish. Bill Oswald, John Haselden and Dave Berghorn each garnered blue ribbons.

Newly initiated Brian Griffin was honored as "Rookie of the Year" on the Purdue Hockey Club. Playing center and defense, the speedy freshman finished second in scoring on the year.

Luke Grossman led the Purdue tennis team to its finest record in 12 years as he compiled an 11-9 record playing in the No. 1 position. Luke, in his sophomore season, had a 5-4 record against Big Ten opponents during the season.

SOUTH FLORIDA Epsilon Pi

AS OF the beginning of February the Brothers of Epsilon Pi dedicated their new found Shelter. The Shelter is not far from campus and needs much work, but things are progressing smoothly, thanks to the brothers, pledges, alums, and little sisters, also the Saturday afternoon work projects.

Even though the Delts have been working hard on the house, there has been time for fun. We went all the way this time and won "The Most Spirited Fraternity" award at the Phi Delt Derby. This award is given yearly at the Derby. The Phi Delt Derby is a week-long spree of parties and games for the sororities in which the fraternities help the sororities get points.

During the Student Government elections our little sisters manned the polling booths. The elections and the run-off elections constituted ten hours a day for four days. Our big service project last quarter was co-sponsoring, with Alpha Epsilon Phi Sorority, a 50-hour dance marathon for Multiple Sclerosis. The couples in the marathon pledged a minimum of 10 cents per hour, with the couple dancing the 50 hours and pledged the most money going to the finals in Philadelphia.

Rainbow this year was a huge success. It was held at the Tampa Sheraton Motor Inn. It was the best Rainbow that we've ever had. Our congratulations to Ken Wing and Mike inquisit for putting together a tremendous success.

Bob Rogan

SOUTHWEST TEXAS STATE Zeta Delta

SINCE the 1976 school year has come to a halt, we look back at a few of our accomplishments. Since we started the Delt All-Campus Party, it has grown tremendously. Over 1,500 students attended each of the two held this past school year. Attendants enjoyed live music and quenched their thirsts by downing almost 50 kegs of beer.

A new program that we have started is the "Zeta Delta Times". This is our monthly newsletter that we send to all of our alumni to inform them of current chapter and alumni news.

Zeta Delta has come a long way in the past year, but without a doubt our greatest accomplishment has been that we finally found a Shelter. Our new home is the finest fraternity house on campus and we really are proud of it.

With summer upon us, Zeta Delta continues to plan for the future. Our annual summer reunion is being held July 23-25. On September 2, we will have our next All-College Party and November 6 is Homecoming. Final dates for rush are not set yet, but we have planned on all-out rush effort for fall.

Ivan Olson

SYRACUSE Gamma Omicron

THIS year's university alumni event, held a couple of weeks after the closing of the spring semester, brought several Gamma Omicron Delts back for a visit to the Shelter as well.

We welcomed Bill Manton '36 from Minneapolis. He had plenty of tales to tell about GO Chapters last year at SU before we closed. We made plans to meet with Bill at this year's Northstar Karnea.

Several Delts from the class of '51 stopped by: Bill Alderisio and his wife Joan from class of '52 joined Jim Mahoney and his wife Ginny, Bob Petrocelli and his wife Rita, John Abele and his wife Ruth, Joe Jafoboi, and Bob Talbot.

Response is definitely up to the recent Gammacrons, and we hope the letters keep coming. We have a large issue planned for summer, featuring this year's Homecoming. Please watch for it, and try to make arrangements for this year's full week-end of events.

If you haven't been receiving the Gammacron, please let us know right away.

On behalf of the undergraduates, I wish all Delts a happy and prosperous summer.

Steve Paquette

TEXAS A & I Epsilon Lambda

THE SPRING semester at Epsilon Lambda proved to be prosperous for Delts. Once again we pledged more men than any other fraternity on campus. In sports we did well in all events and captured first place in tennis.

Mike Dougherty was elected to serve a second term as president of our chapter and was also elected as president of IFC. The Delts captured three of the five offices in IFC for the coming year and have a firm grasp on campus activities.

Our annual Founders Day was a great success with a large number of alumni attending. The outstanding alumnus this year was Bill Vessey and the most active city of alumni involved in chapter affairs was Houston.

Danny Kuhn

TEXAS AT ARLINGTON Epsilon Rho

LAST DECEMBER, a young man's hopes and ideals for Delta Tau Delta and Epsilon Rho were at their peak. After completing a semester stint as a member of a highly-successful PEC, obtaining his first little brother, and being named Western Division editor for The Rainbow Review, the possibilities were boundless. But it was not long before those idealistic dreams turned into realistic dilemmas. And as the problems mounted, the dreams slowly dissipated. What had once been eager enthusiasm was now growing disillusionment.

The young man watched the chapter through objective eyes. He saw Epsilon Rho going through a power struggle unlike any he had witnessed before. The chapter was in a state of metabasis, seeking men to replace those whom it had relied on for so long, but were now gone.

New leaders were called upon to fill shoes thought unfillable. And soon the chapter, behind these newly-appointed leaders and the dedicated guidance of chapter adviser Col. E. O. Stroube, rose to the challenge. It was not long before the accolades began falling again, climaxed by the ultimate award to a chapter of Delta Tau Delta — "the Flag", symbolizing the Hugh Shields Top Ten Award.

Epsilon Rho had once again risen among the elite with a new set of faces. Joe Blake-man, newly-elected chapter president, also took on duties as IFC president, as well as Undergraduate Council representative for the Western Division. Mark Reece's illustrations appeared in the winter issue of The Rainbow. Jerry Tuma took over the reins of the annual softball tournament held during Greek Week at UTA and conducted a tourney which visitors called the most organized, best-run among state-wide schools. Jim Mills was initiated into Beta Gamma Sigma and Beta Alpha Psi, honorary business administration and accounting fraternities respectively, as well as Alpha Chi, the UTA honor society.

Vance Reidel and newly-elected duchess, Trish Porter, competed in the Muscular Dystrophy dance marathon, April 23-24, and finished third in the contest. Graduating senior Joe Wolff was inducted into the prestigious Order of Omega. Randy Garrett and duchess Kathy Roche were named class favorites by the UTA student body. And graduating senior Mike Greene, a Brother whose titles and honors could encompass this entire article, and who has served and led Epsilon Rho for the past four years, was named Brother of the Semester by the chapter. Those were just a few of the honors bestowed on the chapter and its members.

The young man watched all of this, and his pessimism could not help but be overshadowed by the energy and brotherhood surrounding Epsilon Rho. He had thought the chapter was declining, but it was proven once again that she is self-perpetuating — the chapter itself assures its own continuance.

So once again, the young man was filled with hopeful goals and ideals. He had watched as Epsilon Rho went through a sweeping transition in which her own preservation was on the line. And what he saw was the men of Epsilon Rho assert themselves and re-establish Delta Tau Delta as the top fraternity at UTA. Daydreaming, the young man looked back upon the semester's events and realized he had grown a little bit older, wiser, and prouder.

TEXAS TECH Epsilon Delta

EPSILON Delta Chapter had a productive semester. We took 21 pledges, two of whom are athletes. Mike Mock is the varsity linebacker for Texas Tech and David Powell is a black belt karate instructor.

We had our annual blood drive and it was very successful. Our spring formal, "The Playboy", was a big time as usual. We had a good number of alumni come in for it and everybody had a fine time.

We graduated 15 seniors. We were sorry to see them go, but the new pledges will take up the slack. Also, we are looking forward to a good fall and a productive rush.

New officers for next year are: David Jones, president; Eric Paulsen, vice-president; Steve Baker, executive vice-president; Coleman Conkling, corresponding secretary; David Parker, recording secretary; Mike Teinert, pledge trainer; Paul Harris, treasurer; and Alan Givens, rush chairman.

Coleman Conkling

TUFTS Beta Mu

WITH THE ending of the spring semester Beta Mu says goodbye to many members. Leaving our ranks are Mike Travers, Mike Tarczali, Rob Meyer, Nick DeKanter, Bill Heenehan, Deems Buell, Dick Pratt, Mark George, Tom Marturano, and Tom Dimond. They will surely be missed.

Beta Mu will also miss Brother Joel W. Reynolds. Joel, a past national president of Delta Tau Delta, has decided to retire as chapter adviser after over 40 years of dedicated service. A goodbye party was given in honor of Joel and the Shelter at Tufts was renamed the Joe Warren Reynolds Shelter.

This past spring saw the finishing touches put on the Delts finest year of intramurals. The Delts won the all-college trophy for excellence in intramurals by placing first in softball, squash, football, swimming, and bowling.

Many Delts played prominent roles on Tufts' varsity sports. Craig Dougherty led the 12-2 swim team and set records in the 50-yard freestyle, 100-yard freestyle, and the 100-yard butterfly. Many Delts helped Tufts obtain the national sailing championship. Hale Walcoff, Tom Dimond, and Deems Buell played active roles.

Those Delts who took part in the Eastern conference at Cornell had a great time, and Tufts plans on having a large representation at the Karnea. Hope to see you there.

Michael A. Smith

TULANE Beta Xi

SPRING semester of 1976 was a good one for Beta Xi, marked by continued progress in nearly every area. The semester was highlighted by the best Rainbow Formal in years, held in New Orleans' famous French Quarter. In the area of rush, things started slowly but ended on a high note with the acquisition of four pledges who will join this fall's pledge class.

The Chapter is looking forward to an excellent fall rush. The rush budget has been increased considerably, and the loss of only two seniors to graduation will enable the chapter to return for rush in a strong position.

Congratulations go to seniors Jim Stevenson, who was commissioned an Ensign in the Navy upon graduation, and Mike Kiernan, who graduated Cum Laude and continues on to Tulane Medical School.

The annual Alumni Rush Banquet is scheduled for September 2. We hope as many alumni will attend as possible.

Aaron A. Goerlich

VILLANOVA Zeta Theta

THE DELTS at Villanova again retain their fine reputation for being the No. 1 fraternity in all major categories.

Scholastically, our overall cumulative average was above 3.0, the highest of all the frats. Athletically, we won the interfraternity championships in basketball, with the fine coaching effort of Bob Byrnes, and in softball, with the help of key ballplayers such as Joe Belmont, Jim Shannon, and Bob Heyert.

DTD also won the school championship in softball, and look to repeat this performance again next spring.

The football team will be as tough as ever come September, and we expect to do quite well. The Delts also did well in the Greek Week competition held last spring.

Our Social calendar, including the Valentine's Day party, an ice skating party, various dated and undated parties, and the annual dinner dance, was unequaled by any group at V.U. Next semester, we will be looking forward to the Homecoming party, Parent's weekend, and a "Booze Cruise" down the Delaware River.

Zeta Theta Chapter had two fine pledge classes last year.

Marv Albert

VIRGINIA Beta Iota

THE BROTHERS of Beta Iota participated in two particularly successful social events during the spring semester. The first was a dinner with the Delt chapters from George Washington University and the University of Maryland, held at the University Club in Washington, D. C. A few weeks later over 150 Brothers, alumni and guests attended the Rainbow formal to celebrate the initiation of the fall pledge class.

Despite an erratic intramural season, the chapter continued to advance in the University athletic standings. Dale Homire turned in a particularly outstanding performance, qualifying in Sigma Delta Psi for the State of Virginia.

Two Brothers deserve special recognition for significant achievements during the semester. Leonard Marsico was elected executive editor of the University newspaper, the second Delt to hold this position in the last three years. Fourth year man and former chapter president Henry Evans graduated Phi Beta Kappa in early May.

In the fall the Brothers of Beta Iota plan to join in Delta Tau Delta's national campaign against Muscular Dystrophy by conducting a large fund raising project in the Charlottesville community.

William J. Egan

WABASH Beta Psi

THIS past semester has again been a most constructive one for Beta Psi here at Wabash. We have extended our fraternal atmosphere past the gates of the college, into the Crawfordsville community. Along with participation in the Delts Tackle Dystrophy drive, we have taken a leading role in the Montgomery County Special Olympics, held in April. There are now plans generating to extend other programs to the community this fall.

In addition, the Delts here are anxious to revitalize our friendship with our alumni. Several activities are already being considered for the next academic year. We hope that all of our brothers, both active and alumni, will attend.

Keeping with long standing tradition, the men here have displayed their athletic abilities formidably. All of our IM teams have had strong seasons. In varsity sports, two freshmen, Ralph P. Dixon and Kevin Schied, won Division III All-American honors in swimming.

With excellent rush coupled with decisive leadership, we are certainly proud of our achievements this past year, and are looking forward to even better prospects ahead.

Harvey L. Vandenburg

WASHINGTON Gamma Mu

THIS SPRING was a busy one for the Brothers of Gamma Mu. We were involved in numerous activities, including intramural sports, where we fielded four teams. All of these teams had winning records for the season, with three of them advancing to the playoffs.

We also re-established our Founders Day, which we have not had for the past few years. A picnic was held at a large park near the Shelter and, although there was limited alumni support, fun was had by all present.

Our rush program is in high gear for the summer. We pledged four men during Spring Quarter who we feel are excellent additions to our Chapter. We will be working hard all summer due to our three-month-long informal rush program and the great competition among all the fraternities on campus for new pledges.

Also this summer we are conducting a money-raising project for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. In August, we will be rolling a keg for 50 consecutive hours and we hope to be able to contribute a large amount to MDA for our efforts.

A good number of our actives will be attending the Karnea this summer and they hope to get to know many Brothers from across the country.

Gregg Whittier

W & J Gamma

THE spring semester here at Gamma brought with it numerous activities for the chapter. A new administration, headed by President Rick Sivi, helped steer the chapter to another successful semester.

Perhaps the most significant thing that occurred this spring was the pledging of thirteen young men. Besides learning the principles and values of Deltism, the pledge class helped raise money for charity, as well as reenacting the historic ride of Button and Brown, as members of the class made a trip to the Bethany chapter and to the Old House.

The pledges also participated in the different interfraternity competitions of Carnival Weekend. Their House decorations won first place in that event. Pledge Don Hazen easily defeated his ten opponents to capture the "beer chug-a-lug" title. Initiation of the class will take place in September.

Another highlight of the past semester was a visit by Brothers Fred Tucker and Al Sheriff. We are always happy to entertain such distinguished members of our Fraternity.

The spring pool tournament saw fierce competition with Brother Mike Meyer emerging as the new House champion.

As in past years, Gamma supported a local Little League team. A chapter-sponsored picnic for the team members, parents, and coaches was enjoyed by everyone. Also, many Brothers competed for various Delt teams in the spring intramural sports program here at W&J. As one can see, the past several months have been extremely busy for the members of Gamma chapter.

EPSILON GAMMA'S committees are headed this year by John Harris and are using the summer to get excited for the coming year.

This year a new committee was born, and was christened Stereo Committee. Its goal is to supply the chapter with a good stereo for functions and easy listening after classes. Next year we would like to produce a tape deck as well.

During the summer we are preparing for another great rush.

Delta Omicron

DELTA Omicron Chapter has experienced tremendous change in the last year. Delta Omicron has improved enough to be recognized as one of the top 20 chapters. The chapter has improved in both the tangible and intangible areas of fraternity life, yet there is never perfection and the ideal is never reached.

Let us take a look at the positive tangibles of Delta Omicron. The physical Shelter has been improved. First semester, the scholastic standing was raised from seventh to third on campus, the Brothers realizing the importance of scholarship.

Athletically, intramural standings were raised from seventh to third and intercollegiate sports have Delt involvement. The internal organization of the chapter and the budget have been improved. The chapter is attempting to be involved in the general college community. It invited administrators, professors, and alumni to functions and has members active in student organizations. The chapter collected money for the Heart Fund and Muscular Dystrophy.

Delta Omicron's intangibles are healthy. To closer reach perfection, though, each member should evaluate himself so that he can improve the chapter and himself as a person.

Are all of the tangible efforts just for the physical result of an award or being a member of a "top" chapter? No, all aspects of fraternity can be related to self-improvement and how to deal with people. Fraternity life can give many benefits and rewards.

The most important aspect of the fraternity experience is to learn how to deal with others and accept differing views and ways of fulfilling a positive fraternity experience. A strong chapter needs the active involvement and human experience of every single active, pledge, and alumnus.

SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

obtained from the IRS stating, among other matters, that (a) the educational foundation is exempt from Federal income tax and need not file federal income tax returns, and (b) contributions to the educational foundation will be deductible by the donors.

This approach apparently has been used by the Iowa State Delts and at least two other Delt chapters.

(3) Structure of the Program

The options are legion and the final shape of the scholarship program can be limited only by the imagination of the people involved. Some of the factors to be considered include:

- (a) Who shall be eligible to receive the scholarship awards? The Fleming-Shank Scholarships are restricted to Gamma Theta initiates who have attained the status of "juniors" or "seniors";
- (b) What criteria shall be used to determine the recipients of the scholarships? Because of a reluctance to impose inflexible standards, the Fleming-Shank Scholarship Fund Agreement provides that the criteria for selection of the recipients shall be determined on an annual basis at the full and complete discretion of a scholarship committee;
- (c) How should this "scholarship committee" be selected? The Fleming-Shank program provides for a 5-man committee, composed of three Gamma Theta alumni elected by the House Corporation, with each serving 3-year terms in succession, and two representatives of the University serving in a permanent capacity;
- (d) How would the scholarship committee function? The Fleming-Shank committee meets only twice a year — in January, to determine the criteria for selection for that year (whereupon the House Corporation screens candidates and accepts applications) and again in June to choose the recipients;

(e) How should the contributions to the scholarship fund be invested? Since contributions to the Fleming-Shank Scholarship Fund are made directly to Baker, the University has the responsibility to invest the corpus of the fund without fee and to provide an annual accounting of the proceeds available for distribution. If an educational foundation is established, the trustee should have the responsibility of investing the corpus in safe, reasonable investments which have a small degree of risk;

(f) What if the Chapter folds at some future date? The Fleming-Shank Fund Agreement provides that if Gamma Theta Chapter ceases to exist, the scholarships may be awarded to any junior or senior Baker student. If Baker University subsequently folds, or Gamma Theta ceases to exist because Baker terminates operations, the entire corpus and unawarded income therefrom will be paid over by Baker to the Hugh Shields Memorial Scholarship Fund of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity to be used without restriction.

(4) Solicitation of Funds

The most important aspect of the entire program of course, is the solicitation of the "easy $7,000" and the "tough $3,000". At the outset, keep two things in mind: first, your contacts must be by phone or in person — a letter simply will not do the job by itself and if you think you can get by with just a letter, don't even consider starting a scholarship program. second, the big contributors ($50-$100) will be the Delts who lived with and knew well the individuals you have chosen to honor — our experience indicates that at least 95% of this group will contribute and over two-thirds will pledge $100. Be sure to allow plenty of lead time — give yourselves at least six months to set up the program. This doesn't mean you can procrastinate, but the effort may require a little more time than you might expect from reading this simple procedure:

- (a) Secure a comprehensive list of names and addresses, indexed by pledge class. The names can be obtained from your own chapter records, the University alumni office, or Delta Tau Delta's Central Office in Indianapolis. The addresses will require a good deal of updating

To assist other Delt chapters in organizing a scholarship fund drive, Gamma Theta is in the process of packaging the Fleming-Shank Scholarship program. The package will contain copies of all documents and procedures used by Gamma Theta (plus an explanation of each) and will include the scholarship fund trust agreement, a question and answer form for solicitors, a checklist for solicitors, two flyers (one typed and one printed), two collection letters, suggested organization and solicitation procedures (as set out in this article) and an outline of possible continued funding methods. Also to be included will be a detailed explanation of the procedures required to establish an educational foundation (if that route is found to be more desirable), along with copies of the forms which must be filed with the IRS to secure tax-exempt status. For information on obtaining the packet, contact the Central Office of Delta Tau Delta.

THE AUTHOR

Bill Lawter, a previous contributor to The Rainbow, graduated in 1967 with a B.S. from Baker University, where he served Gamma Theta Chapter as corresponding secretary and president. He received a J.D. from Washburn University School of Law in Topeka, Kansas, in 1970 and an LL.M. (in taxation) from the New York University School of Law, New York City, in 1971. He is a tax attorney with Continental Oil Co. (Conoco) at its corporate headquarters in Stamford, Conn.

- b) Call or visit the people you know first — preferably your pledge class — to build your pattern of success and give you contributors to which you can refer. We found that a pledge was three times as likely to be made if the person being called personally knew the solicitor;
- c) Start with the pledge classes of the Delts you want to honor and then go to the other classes who lived with them. Save the Delts who didn't know the honorees for last;
- d) At the outset, ask only for a pledge — we think this procedure greatly increased participation in the Fleming-Shank program. Several Delts told the committee they couldn't afford to pay currently, but if they could defer for a year or so they'd be glad to pledge. You can send out reminders later;
- e) You'll rarely receive more than what you ask for, so be bold and request $100 from each Delt. You've nothing to lose and even if he won't pledge $100, there's a good chance he'll agree to some amount;
- f) If the Delt makes a pledge, ask him if his employer will match his individual contribution. We picked up some additional funds this way, but if we had used an educational foundation, none of the employers would have matched;
- g) It takes a little time (20-25 minutes) to call an "old frat brother", renew acquaintances, explain the program and get a pledge, so after you've gotten pledges of $1,000 or so, type up a flyer (we have two available to be copied) and mail it out before you call or drop by; with this procedure, the "old frat brother" (1) knows the program, (2) knows who will call him and (3) has probably made up his mind how much he wants to pledge; then all you have to do is renew acquaintances and get the pledge (total ET-about 10 minutes).

- (h) Concentrate your efforts in the area where you have the greatest alumni strength. We found, for example, that the 70% of our alumni who live in Kansas and Missouri have retained more extensive contacts with their brother Delts and are significantly more inclined to support a program such as the Fleming-Shank Scholarship. Our alumni who live in, say, New England, are less inclined to help because Baker "is too far away and too long ago." In other words, "out of sight — out of mind." One exception: we found that of 14 Delts who moved away from the Kansas-Missouri area, but who lived with Jim or Gary, 10 pledged $100 and 3 pledged $50; but with this exception, put the guys who live out of your major alumni area at the bottom of your list — you'll spend your time better elsewhere.

Gamma Theta's establishment of the Fleming-Shank Scholarship Fund and the subsequent money-raising effort was followed by several unforeseen consequences:

- 90% of the Delts who helped raise money and 3 of the 4 organizers had never been active in Delt alumni activities until the creation of the scholarship program. A good percentage of this group have indicated they plan to continue as "active" alumni and some have already become involved in other areas such as the House Corporation;
- Several Delts in the Kansas-Missouri area have reported that the scholarship program has, to a certain extent, resulted in renewed spirit among both the active and inactive Gamma Theta alumni. Although this sounds a little corny on the surface, the benefits of increased alumni support and interest in alumni affairs are already noticeable;
- Almost 40% of the scholarship fund contributors indicated they had not previously contributed money to Gamma Theta or the national Delta Tau Delta and over 25% said they had never contributed to Baker University. Obviously, the ice has been broken and those Delts may be more receptive to contribution requests in the future;
- When the canvass is complete, Gamma Theta will have an updated list of addresses and will publish its first alumni directory since 1970. The names and current addresses will also be given both to the University and the Delt Central Office.

In summary, then, we think that a reasonably well-coordinated effort to establish a scholarship fund honoring individual Delts coupled with a direct personal appeal for contributions, should result in $5,000-$7,000 in donations with surprisingly little effort; any amount collected above that figure will be limited only by the time and effort put forth by the promoters and the generosity of the alumni.

The Fraternity's Founding

Alpha Tau Delta was founded at Bethany College, Bethany, Virginia (now West Virginia), February, 1858. Incorporated under the laws of the state of New York, December 1, 1911. The Fraternity is a charter member of the National Interfraternity Conference. Founders were:

Richard H. Alfred (1832-1914)
Eugene Tarr (1840-1914)
John C. Johnson (1840-1927)
Alexander C. Earle (1841-1916)

William R. Cunningham (1834-1919)
John L. N. Hunt (1838-1918)
Jacob S. Lowe (1839-1919)
Henry K. Bell (1839-1867)

Keith Steiner Succeeds Frank Price As Director of Program Development

By ALFRED P. SHERIFF, III
Executive Vice-President

THE LOSS of a competent, dedicated colleague and friend from the Central Office management team is bound to be a saddening experience, but in the case of Frank Price, it has two compensations.

First, we know that Frank and his wife Carolyn, who moved back to Alabama in May, are embarking on a new adventure they have wanted to explore for a long time. They are organizing a children's day camp in Northern Alabama, near Frank's home town of Decatur.

The second compensation is in finding another top quality Delt as a worthy successor to Frank in the position of director of program development for the Fraternity. With Keith Steiner's acceptance of that position, a comfortable transition is assured.

Frank and Keith share a deep loyalty to Delta Tau Delta. Before joining the Central Office in 1966, Frank had served the Fraternity as an undergraduate and as an alumnus. He was president of Epsilon Alpha Chapter at Auburn University, graduating in 1959. While working toward a masters degree at his alma mater the following year, he assisted in rushing for chapters at Tulane, Emory, and Georgia.

Later, while working toward a doctorate at Purdue University, Frank helped reactivate the Lafayette Alumni Chapter, then became its first president. Working as chief of the Evaluation and Analysis Branch of the Army Enlisted Evaluation Center, Fort Benjamin Harrison, he found time to become president and treasurer of the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter, as well as co-adviser to Beta Zeta Chapter at Butler University.

We persuaded Frank to become the Fraternity's first director of program development, and I know that all who have come into contact with him during the past 10 years agree that we have been extremely fortunate. Anyone who has seen him in action at a Karnea, for instance, will know what I mean. When Frank organized a project, it was done exactly right; and he remained cool even under such extreme pressure as day-to-day responsibilities of running a Karnea.

Keith not only has these qualities but brings still another dimension to the job. An undergraduate leader at Alpha Chapter of Allegheny College, he became a field counselor after graduating in 1973, serving two years on the staff. He then became resident adviser for Beta Chapter while working toward a master's degree at Ohio University.

We sought out Keith to succeed Frank Price because of his proven ability to work with both alumni and undergraduates. He has a rare sense of analyzing problems and developing programs aimed at correcting them. He can be innovative without casting aside proven values.

Gale Wilkerson, the Fraternity's outstanding director of chapter services, has been working with me in putting Keith through a crash course on Delt administration since he joined us on June 21.

With Gale's proven performance and Keith's obvious potential, I visualize continued advancement in our current effort to bring alumni and undergraduates together in exciting new Delt programs.

Meanwhile, all of us extend our best wishes to Frank and Carolyn Price and their sons Chipper and Edward, as they launch their own new project. They are certain to succeed.

Frank Price, Jr.

Keith Steiner
