Of Delta Tau Delta

I know no safe depository of the ultimate powers of society but the people themselves; and if we think them not enlightened enough to exercise their control with a wholesome discretion, the remedy is not to take it from them, but to inform their discretion by education."

Thomas Jefferson

america's birthday

It is appropriate that Delta Tau Delta join myriads of others in recognition of our Nation's 200th Anniversary — and thus this Bicentennial issue of the Rainbow.

Thomas Jefferson, quoted on our cover, was perhaps the greatest American in our Nation's history, because of his many varied and astounding talents. Without today's ease of communication, breadth of education, and other of our many advantages which we too often take for granted, it is challenging to wonder how many Americans of this age and time could become national and world leaders, master architects, great writers, educators, leaders of men, founders of universities, and men of letters! Thomas Jefferson was all of these and all of these in an early American lifetime.

We commend to your reading other articles of historical significance in this issue, urge your rededication to the systems which have made America great, call on your nostalgia once more with reference to our Bethany Project, and challenge you to continue to do your part to make Delta Tau Delta the best in the Fraternity World!

Best Bicentennial wishes to all of you!

Fraternally,

Fred Tucker

So What's New?

thorough understanding of the historic process allows us to cope with problems in a sequence that is understandable and workable. At present, history as a school subject is being challenged.

Several years ago I began to compile a book of readings about Ohio's past. I used documentary material; that is, I went to the public records of the state government and began to go through its published records. It was interesting what I found; nothing more has changed my approach to the understanding of history nor my philosophy concerning society and government than that study. And this all came at the time that my subject area, history, as well as the very core of my life at the University, was being challenged.

The first principle I discovered was: Things Do Repeat Themselves. It has meaning to me, because in my younger days I was involved in local governmental affairs. Each campaign the young Turks trotted themselves out to solve all the problems of the city. Problems became key word, much overused. All things were problems; all problems had to be solved; all problems had to go through a problem solving process in order to solve the problems.

However, there have always been problems in society at whatever level you want to look. And, those problems are basically the same in a particular time frame — that is, in historic space. Problems are not solved; problems have never been solved. Only one thing solves problems — that is death and that solves the problem of life and all of our frustrations only for the one who died. For others, the living, the problems continue.

Is there a lesson: yes. Each generation attempts to solve its problems. Each problem then is set into its time sequence. For example, one of the themes that runs throughout history is a concern for education. Some of the very early concerns were the need for free public education. The problem was to establish a rationale for education; that is, why have free education? The reasoning that was used was for a country as large as the United States, it was necessary to establish this common ground.

English was to be taught; with all the different peoples living in the country, it was necessary for all to be able to speak, read and write English. This was a commonality for communications. Patriotism, this, a concern, a responsibility for the government was necessary. It was necessary to promote national interests among a very diverse people. Consequently, literature, government and history were taught.

Little concern was placed upon the vocational aspect of education. It all came with experience outside the classroom. Farm children learned how to farm from fathers and brothers, city children learned trades from fathers or through apprentice programs.

One of the major considerations, of course, was, who was to pay for education of the people? Everyone agreed that education was necessary. The search for the payment of such education was a real issue. That issue has not changed today. The financing of public education remains a concern at the state and local level. It was that those who could afford to continue the educational process did now, the mission of education has expanded. Education now deals not only with humanism, but also with vocational training and the exploration of the natural sciences. More and more the states have become involved through subsidy from the state government to the local school districts as well as state universities and the more recent technical colleges.

Dr. Thomas H. Smith is currently serving as the director of the Ohio Historical Society in Columbus, Ohio.

He previously served as an associate professor of history at Ohio University in Athens, where he was a staff member of the Ohio University Department of History since 1967.

His educational background includes a Bachelor's Degree from Kent State University in 1958, a Masters at Ohio State University in 1962 and his Ph.D. from Kent State University in 1966. He has authored books and numerous other articles in professional publications on Ohio History.

Two volumes on Ohio history, "1750 to the Civil War" and "Reconstruction to the Present", both edited by Dr. Smith and published in late 1975 under the title "An Ohio Reader", are considered the most important contribution to Ohio history since the early 1940's.

In addition to his academic background, Dr. Smith was a Captain in the United States Marine Corps and Marine Corps Reserve, serving in administrative capacities.

He is a member of the Ohio American Revolution Bicentennial Advisory Commission, a past Chairman of the Athens County Historical Society and served a two year term on the Athens City Council.

The 20th Century wasn't ingenious enough to discover crime.

Some problems never change.

But for all of it, the problem is, who is going to pay for it? As bond issues and renewal issues across the state go down to defeat at each election, it is obvious that that problem has not been solved. However, each generation must reach its own compromise with the situation.

The question is part of a larger philosophical question: the purpose of education and the role that both the individual, the private sector of the economy, and the public, that is the state, will have in paying for it. Education has become the most viable vehicle for social mobility the world has ever seen. No longer does acquiring wealth, position or status depend upon marriage, birth or inheritance. The key is education. It is all part of an historical process that can be understood and should be by an intelligent citizenry and electorate. At base it is the study and the understanding of history.

Several months ago, Scholastic Magazine polled high school students to determine their opinions of the meaning of history. Some of the answers that were received from high school student in the poll conducted by Scholastic Magazine were amusing. One young man from Iowa said: "To me, history is boring . . . A lot of the troubles they had back then are different from what we have today. We've got drug problems and crime in big cities. Things are just a lot different now."

Poor boy! A gross ignorance of history; or, to be polite, he is unhistorical.

Does this student think that only people of the 20th century were ingenious enough to discover drugs and crime and urban problems?

Let us look at 19th Century crime. The first thing that was constructed in any village was a jail. Housing of criminals became a municipal or county responsibility. With growth, and where there was a large concentration of prison population, criminologists began to wonder if imprisonment was the right treatment for a wrongdoer. There was a concern over the classification of prisoners: do first offenders stay with the hardened criminals; do the young stay with the oldsters? And, one of the major arguments was that jails were no more than schools for crime.

Have we heard that before? Of course, the debate for or against capital punishment has gone on for exactly 200 years in the United States.

Social concerns, too, have burdened government and pressure groups alike. How does society take care of its elderly or its paupers? Poor Laws were enacted not only by the states, but also by territorial governments before. The questions were the same: who has responsibility, who is to pay, and how do you make opportunities for those unfortunates?

Another example: Prostitution. Newspapers and TV stations have been giving the public a look at the problem of prostitution in our major cities. It is a big business and has related to it all the other problems of crime and theft.

Believe me, this generation did not invent prostitution. In fact, the problem was so bad in the 1870s in Ohio due to the growth of urban centers and the influx of population and the lack of jobs for women, that a special commission was established to study prostitution. (In that day, society was more discreet; it was called the "Social Evil"). This was by no means an Ohio problem; it was nationwide and related to urban growth. The group to study the problem traveled to St. Louis to investigate their solution to the vice. St. Louis recognized it, said it existed, concluded they could do little about it and opted to control it. Consequently, they adopted a license system and an inspection system. The inspection system was not for quality control but to control venereal disease.

What is the major epidemic among teenagers today? Venereal Disease. Columbus has a VD hotline that teenagers who suspect they have the disease can call and get information on how to cure it. Ohio at the state level, did not adopt that system, but rather said it was a local problem and let the municipalities handle it as they saw fit.

the Rainbow

Again, each generation coped with its own problem. However, the problem is historic and will continue to be.

Another topic is student involvement. Each student generation, at the high school and the college level, thinks it discovers participation in governmental and societal affairs. In the 1830s, slavery was the major social problem in the United States. The debate, what to do with slavery: colonization which meant shipping blacks to Africa or abolition which meant doing away with slavery. At the time, in Cincinnati was located Lane Seminary; the president was Lyman Beecher, the father of Harriet Beecher Stowe. The students there were concerned with the condition of not only slaves but the free blacks living in Cincinnati which had the largest black population in Ohio. What did they do? They conducted a series of public debates which condemned the idea of colonization. This debate was watched nationwide. They opted for abolition.

The school administration told them that they could no longer debate the issue; in other words, censorship. The students protested, and withdrew from school; they are known as the Lane Rebels. They went out into the black community in the Queen City and lived with the blacks and tried to help them the best they could.

Another example concerned Coxey's army which marched on Washington to protest the lack of governmental assistance during the economic depression of 1894. Most of the so-called army were students. In fact, the entire student body from Allegheny College in Pennsylvania left the campus and joined him. What happened in Washington? Coxey was arrested for being on the grass of the Capitol; his army was stopped from demonstrating because it did not have a parade permit.

Have we heard that before? Certainly, this device was used to stop civil rights demonstrations in both the North and the South very recently. And, by the way, Coxey's march on Washington, was the 14th of its kind in the year 1894. So what is new!

The automobile was heralded across the country as an ecological saving device. No longer were horses and mules to crowd the city streets and, in following out the course of nature to perform their bodily function, pollute the thoroughfares. Imagine what our cities must have been like on hot, sticky August days.

Is there a lesson? Yes. History will teach us that life goes on; that life is frustrating; that we are set in time and space and that whether as individuals or a nation, we are the sum total of our past experiences. Like it or not, try to divorce ourselves from it as much as we like, we are the sum total of our past experience.

It is no accident that the inscription above the National Archives in Washington, D.C. reads, "What Is Past Is Prologue." To believe yourself as an entity unto yourself is sheer nonsense. A thorough understanding of the historic process allows us to cope with problems in a sequence that is understandable and workable. Patience is taught; understanding is gained. We are part of this historic process; it does continue; you cannot be separated.

To criticize the teaching of history indicates to me two things: (1) the failure of the educational system itself to make it clear to students that they are part of the whole, that is the development of mankind since year one; and (2) the failure of the individual to take advantage of the educational facilities at hand. If you have difficulty, don't blame the system; that is what happened just a few years ago. Search yourself and ask why.

In the TV world of make believe, all problems — crime, financial, social or educational — are solved in less than an hour. For the parents, Ozzie Nelson solved all the family's problems in half an hour and never left his front room. For students, Cotter can solve any situation at any time in any fashion in one-half hour without leaving the classroom. How nice. How neat. But, oh, how so unreal.

Life is all part of the historic process. History can teach many things, but we have to want to be taught.

DELTS TACKLE DYSTROPHY

Delts tackle what? The question is understandable. Many people don't know about Muscular Dystrophy. Until just a few years ago many Delts didn't know how to pronounce dystrophy let alone how to spell it — unless they had some personal experience with "The Crippler." Today, thanks to a few Delts who had a great idea several years ago Delta Tau Delta is getting on the Muscular Dystrophy map. It began in October, 1971 when LSU Delts started their football marathon. The idea of helping tackle dystrophy spread and by 1975 Syracuse Delts staged their record breaking "dance for those who can't" marathon. LSU Delts set a goal of $10,000 for their first marathon. They raised more than $15,000, and the Syracuse Delts "danced" in more than $43,000 last year.

Taking the lead from these and other chapters, who have participated in fighting Muscular Dystrophy in other ways, the Undergraduate Council and Arch Chapter adopted the fight against Dystrophy as a Delta philanthropic program. Delts have been tackling Dystrophy in many ways since the first LSU football marathon five years ago. Now we will take on "The Crippler" on an international level.

Before we get too far ahead of ourselves, let's take a look at MD and the MDA. Muscular Dystrophy is the general designation for a group of chronic diseases whose most prominent characteristic is the progressive degeneration of the skeletal or voluntary musculature. MD affects over a million Americans — most of them children. They usually don't live long. No treatment has yet been found to correct the pathology or to arrest the relentless crippling progression of the disease. As the muscles deteriorate, the patient becomes weaker and more helpless, unable finally to carry out the simplest activities of everyday life.

In 1950 a group of parents whose children had been stricken with MD came together to take determined action against the common enemy. The enemy was largely unknown even to physicians. While the major neuremuscular disorders had been named and classified, virtually nothing was being done to establish causes of these disorders or to develop effective methods of treatment and cure. The new Muscular Dystrophy Association set out to change this bleak picture by raising money to support research, to provide patient care, and to bring the problem to public attention. Today the MDA supports and sponsors, through 250 local chapters, year-round recreational, educational, and transportation patient services; 150 hospital affiliated out-patient clinics providing diagnostic, treatment, and counseling services without charge to patients and their families; and 300 scientific investigations in the U.S. and 7 foreign countries.

Public support for MDA activities has been forthcoming too, led since 1951 by Jerry Lewis, MDA's national chairman. The need is still great, however, and in discussing ways in which Delts could demonstrate their brotherhood and concern for their fellowman, the Undergraduate Council determined the Muscular Dystrophy Association worthy of Delt support. President Tucker has appointed Steve Paquette, Gamma Omicron chapter president and chairman of this year's Undergraduate Council, as undergraduate coordinator of Delts Tackle Dystrophy activities. Steve has had two years experience in raising money for Muscular Dystrophy, and will help any chapter seeking his advice in every way possible.

Not every chapter can stage a Dance Marathon to raise $40,000, but every chapter can participate in its own way. Help in planning, organizing, and executing fund-raising activities is available from the MDA regional offices.

The Delt contribution to the MDA will be tallied in the Central Office, and the total amount raised will be presented on behalf of all Delts on the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon by a representative of the chapter raising the most money. Other chapters will be recognized on local Telethon stations.

Yes, Delts are tackling Dystrophy all across the country. There are many reasons for joining DTD and the best of those reasons is that we all feel just a little bit better when we give of ourselves to help those who need our brotherhood.

ontage of History

On April 1, 1975, a 425-ton steam engine, reminiscent of America's golden age of railroads, powered into Stanton, Dela., pulling 25 red, white and blue cars filled with the history of America.

The American Freedom Train was beginning its historic 21-month journey in celebration of the American Revolution Bicentennial. Since then it has crossed the nation and headed back East in its 17,000-mile tour through 48 states.

As president and chief executive officer of the non-profit American Freedom Train Foundation, Inc., Jon A. Foust, Purdue '61, pledged to make the Freedom Train a focal point for local Bicentennial celebrations from coast to coast. Attendance so far indicates he will reach the goal of 10 million persons visiting the exhibit of America's 200 years of progress.

"Another 40 million people will see the American Freedom Train as it moves through the countryside and cities," he explains. "This in itself serves as an inspiration to rededicate ourselves to the ideals of the American Revolution."

During its journey, scheduled to end Dec. 23 at Miami, Fla., it will be on display within one-hour driving distance of 90 percent of the nation's population.

More than 700 historical documents, artifacts and memorabilia are being carried in the 10 display cars. The specially designed interiors depict facets of American history over the past 200 years. The revolution, exploration, technological advances, labor, women, professions, sports, and the arts are covered.

Visitors travel through the exhibit cars on a moving walkway at a rate of 1,800 per hour each 14-hour day. They carry individual transistorized sound units which play a running narration coordinated with the exhibits.

Moving through communities in which there is no scheduled stop, the train travels slowly wherever possible so that crowds gathered by the side of the tracks can at least feel the excitement of the train.

The glass-enclosed display cars carry such items as a double sized model of the Liberty Bell, plainly visible from trackside. The 16-ton bell, without the famous crack, was donated to the youth of America by the American Legion.

An earlier version of the Freedom Train was sponsored by the American Heritage Foundation in 1947. That train, called the Spirit of '47, was a tremendous success, despite being able to accommodate only 640 people an hour. On a stopover in New York City, people waited four abreast on a line 15 blocks long. This problem was solved in the 1975-76 version by use of the moving walkway.

Mr. Foust served four years as staff assistant to the President of the United States. As the President's personal representative, he negotiated with foreign ambassadors and protocol chiefs on the chief executive's international tours.

Before joining the American Freedom Train Foundation, he was assistant director of the National Park Service.

Mr. Foust considers the Freedom Train "a unique opportunity for Americans to see such a collection of Americana; never before have these priceless documents and artifacts been gathered together."

Preserving the Past

Delta Tau Delta's decision to restore its original Shelter at Bethany College brings forth a question that is being asked throughout the nation in the bicentennial year. What, exactly, is the purpose in preserving the past?

The answer is difficult to explain in words. It's an emotion — a feeling that heritage is important, not just as a memory, but as a basis for planning the future. It is an understanding that each day's event may be just a passing scene in a continuous historic epic, but each is vital to its time; and in reality, each is vital to the future.

The things that happened in America in 1776, and at Bethany in 1858, have bearings, however indirect, on the things that happen in 1976.

What was done in the past, and what we do today, help determine what tomorrow will be like. And the tough part is we have to build solid principles that will endure through a future that is unknown.

The men who gathered in a room at Bethany to form a Brotherhood, had no idea what they were starting. But the principles that were important to them remain the foundation of the Fraternity.

The existence of the original Delt building is unique in the fraternity world. It is appropriate that the Bethany project is reaching fruition in the bicentennial year.

A summer visit to the Founders House in Bethany was made by some of the men playing key roles in the restoration project. From left are Cecil H. Underwood, then Bethany College president; Edwin L. Heminger, immediate past national president of the Fraternity; Current President Fred Tucker; Wayne A. Sinclair, Eastern Division president; John W. Galbreath, whose $18,000 contribution provided for purchase of the house and property; Dr. Perry E. Gresham, chairman of the board of Bethany College; and West Virginia Secretary of State James McCartney.

This group of Delts took part in a Pilgrimage to Bethany, as part of the joint Arch Chapter - Undergraduate Council meeting at Pittsburgh in late November. They were hosted by Theta Chapter and Bethany College at a banquet, after touring the original Delt Shelter (photos at lower right) and the Bethany campus. Members of the Undergraduate Council, standing in the outside vertical and horizontal rows of the group photo, are, clockwise from lower left, Thomas W. Eibsen, Robert L. Brod, Geoffrey C. Blakeman, Thomas M. Ray, Douglas E. Mazzuca. Alumni are, first row from left, Marion R. "Lew" Llewellyn, Dr. William O. Hulsey, Wayne A. Sinclair, Dr. Frederick D. Kershner, Jr., Fraternity President Fred C. Tucker, Jr., Donald G. Kress, Gale Wilkerson, and Alfred P. Sheriff, III; second row from left, George Laney, R. James Rockwell, Jr., Evangelos S. Levas, Frank Price, Jr., Robert L. Hartford, John W. Wood, Jr., the Rev. C. McElyea, and William J. Fraering. The campaign to raise funds for the restoration project is headed by G. Herbert McCracken, Pittsburgh '21. Tax deductible contributions should be made payable to Bethany College and mailed to Delta Tau Delta Fraternity, 4740 Kingsway Drive, Suite 110, Indianapolis, Indiana 46205. The house being titled in the name of Bethany College, but restoration and ongoing preservation will be directed by a committee representing both the Fraternity and the College. Architectural plans call for a creative display section featuring an audio-visual historic presentation, and for another section that will serve as a model chapter hall, in memory of the late Norman MacLeod, Pittsburgh '17, former national president of the Fraternity.

Delt Heads Legion

A Delt attorney with a long record of public service is the bicentennial national commander of the American Legion. Harry G. Wiles, Kansas '38, was elected unanimously to the top Legion post for 1975-76, at the 57th National Convention last summer.

Although he maintains his home in Topeka, the new commander spends most of his time traveling throughout the nation and the world on behalf of the American Legion. He maintains an association with two law firms, one in Topeka and the other in St. John, Kans.

Before his election as national commander, Mr. Wiles was chief of the Right of Way Department of the Kansas State Highway Commission. He spent 11 years as a member and sometime chairman of the Kansas Corporation Commission, dealing with regulation of railroads, power companies, and other utilities.

He also has been associated with other public bodies and private associations, including the American Cancer Society, the Federal Power Commission, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Boy Scouts of America, law enforcement agencies, and others.

Mr. Wiles was a Japanese language specialist in the Navy in World War II. He was commander of the Legion's Department of Kansas in 1970-71, and a national vice-commander in 1971-72.

As a student at the University of Kansas, Mr. Wiles went straight through business school and law school, receiving a business degree and both a bachelor's degree and a doctorate in law. He was captain of the K. U. track team and set a conference record in the 220-yard low hurdles that lasted for 22 years.

In his acceptance address at the Legion convention, Mr. Wiles said, "We don't believe there will ever be a Utopia, but we do believe we have the basis for one of the most nearly perfect societies ever known to man if we keep working within the framework of the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and its Bill of Rights . . . for the machinery exists within our system which may be used for peaceful, orderly change for the better."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

The greatest Delt threesome to ever perform in the same backfield led the Lehigh Engineers to a 9-2 regular season mark and a fourth Lambert Cup, emblematic of Division II eastern football supremacy. Quarterback JOE STERRETT, fullback ROD GARDNER, and tailback MARK WEAVER accounted for 3979 of the school's record 5037 total offense yards and scored 216 of the record 409 points.

Senior co-captain JOE STERRETT was named to the American Football Coaches Association College Division All-American first team, the ECAC Division II All-Star team, and set a school and Delt record with 22 touchdown passes. Among his best games were 13 of 18 for 227 yards and 2 TD's against Millersville; 14 of 22 for 301 yards and 3 TD's against Army; 20 of 27 for 232 yards and 3 TD's against Delaware; 13 of 20 for 230 yards and 3 TD's versus Maine; 19 of 38 for 310 yards and 2 TD's against Bucknell; and in the NCAA Division II post-season playoff against New Hampshire, 24 of 40 for 309 yards and 2 TD's. Joe was selected as the squad's MVP by his teammates.

Junior ROD GARDNER, now Lehigh's and the Fraternity's career leader in rushing and scoring, was named to the AP College Division All-American second team, the New York Times All-East first team, the ECAC Division II All-Star team, and the Pennsylvania All-State team. His top games included 188 yards rushing versus Millersville; 152 yards rushing and 3 TD's against Bucknell; 127 yards on the ground against Pennsylvania; 122 yards versus Rutgers; 116 yards and 3 TD's against Lafayette; 114 yards against Gettysburg; and 111 yards and 3 TD's versus Maine. His 17 touchdowns, 104 total points, and 1112 yards rushing placed him among the nation's leaders and are new Delt single season records. With one season left, Rod now has 272 career points and 2594 yards rushing.

Soph MARK WEAVER, last year's ECAC Rookie of the Year, had a great year and accounted for 1740 yards by rushing, receiving, and returning punts and kickoffs. He was chosen as the Maxwell Club and ECAC Division II Player of the Week after scoring 19 points, rushing for 107 yards, and kicking two field goals, including a school record-tying 47-yarder, in the win over Pennsylvania. He was also ECAC Player of the Week after gaining 144 yards in just 12 carries against Rutgers. A big play specialist, he caught TD passes from Sterrett for 77 and 86 yards (a school record) against Army, had a 97-yard TD kickoff return against Delaware, an 86-yard TD kickoff return in the post-season game with New Hampshire, and a 77-yard TD punt return against Gettysburg. Mark was second to Gardner in rushing and scoring (with 88 points), led the squad in kickoff and punt returns, was third in receiving and handled the punting for the second year. He has already rushed for 1200 yards and has two seasons left.

Adding their skills to the Lehigh effort were two defensive standouts, senior defensive end RON ROSS and junior safety MIKE KELLY. Ron had a superb season, posting 89 tackles, including a team-high 9 sacks, and was named to the ECAC Division II All-Star team. He had 57-yard TD interception return in the win over Lafayette. Mike moved into the starting secondary and had 93 tackles, fourth-best on the team. Soph split end BILL LYNN and quarterback MIKE RIEKER were valuable reserves for the Engineers.

Three senior Delt helped lead Maryland to a second straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship and third straight Bowl Game appearance. Split end KIM HOOVER was the Terps' leading receiver and ranked second in the ACC. His 38 catches was the fourth-best single season total in school history. In the Liberty Bowl victory he caught a 19-yard scoring pass for the game's only touchdown. Kim was named to the All-ACC Academic first team and won the school's George Cook Memorial Trophy as the squad's top scholar-athlete.

Linebacker GEORGE SHIHDA, playing his third position in three years, had a fine season, posting 90 tackles, rank seventh on the team. He was also a Liberty Bowl starter and shared defensive signal-calling. JIM RICHER was a valuable performer at tackle for the high-powered Maryland offense. A fourth Delt senior, offensive tackle TOM SCHICK, would have been a regular again but suffered a fractured leg the week before the opening game. He will return next year to use his last year of eligibility. Despite not playing a down all season, he was named to the Detroit Sports Extra All-American list.

Honors and awards were numerous among Stanford Delt once again. Kicker MIKE LANGFORD was named to the All-Pacific 8 and All-Coast first teams and gained All-American honorable mention. He finished his two-year career with 24 field goals, second-best total in school history. Against USC, he kicked a personal best 55-yarder, then won the game by booting a 37-yarder with 5 seconds left. Earlier in the season, his 33-yarder with 9 seconds remaining tied Michigan. Mike also had 50-yard kickoff against San Jose State and Oregon State and played in the East-West Shrine Game.

Junior guard ALEX KARAKOZOFF and senior center TODD ANDERSON also had fine seasons for Stanford. Alex made the All-Pac 8 and All-Coast first teams and received All-American honorable mention. Todd was named to the All-Pac 8 and All-Coast second teams and played in the Blue-Gray Game. He won the school's Vern Purcell Memorial Trophy as the senior whose "courage and devotion to the game are an inspiration to all."

Quarterback GUY BENJAMIN directed Stanford to several late-season wins and was a real favorite of the fans. He was named to UPI's Backfield of the Week after hitting of 25 for 243 yards and 3 TD's against Oregon. He won the Frank Rehm Memorial Award as the outstanding back in the Big Game against California after hitting 17 of 30 for 236 yards and 2 TD's. He also had fine games against USC (15 of 29 for 161 yards) and San Jose State (14 of 21 for 117 yards and 2 TD's).

The leader of the Stanford secondary was junior RICH WATERS, an All-Pac 8 and All-Coast second team choice. He was eighth in tackles with 60, including 14 versus Cal, and led in interceptions. He picked off two passes against Washington, including one for a 52-yard TD. Junior defensive end JOHN HARRIS was fourth in tackles with 87, including 10 for losses. He had 15 stops against USC and 12 versus Oregon State. John received All-Pac 8 honorable mention as did linebacker RICH MERLO, who was in on 59 tackles. Linebacker JEFF BARTON had 58 tackles and scored on a 16-yard run with a blocked punt against Oregon State. Linebacker JOHN OLENCHALK had 57 stops and defensive guard MIKE WILKINSON was in on 45 tackles.

Several other Delts excelled on offense for Stanford. Tackles GORDON KING and AL TENBRUGGENCATE started every game and Gordon won the Deswarte-Eller Trophy as the team's outstanding soph. Guards TOM TIPPON and JIM SMYTHE shared starting duties and soph fullback JOHN FINLEY was third in rushing.

Duke defensive end DAVE DUSEK had a great senior year, being named to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference first team and the All-ACC Academic first team. His 78 tackles ranked fifth on the squad and included 10 for losses, the team high.

Texas A&I offensive guard PAUL RICH had a fine year and was named to the NAIA All-American second team, the NAIA All-District team, the All-Lone Star Conference first team, and gained AP College Division All-American honorable mention. He started every game for the second straight year as A&I won another NAIA national championship and was voted the NCAA College Division number one team in the final poll. The Javelinas won 26 straight games during Paul's two years as a starter.

Despite their team's poor season, senior linebacker ERNIE RICHARDSON and junior defensive end DENNIS BOYD distinguished themselves at Oregon State. Ernie's story is a unique one. A New York native who never even played high school ball, he transferred to OSU as a soph to study forestry. He tried out for football as a walk-on and, after two redshirt seasons, saw his first game action in the sixth contest of the 1975 season. He played well enough to earn a starting berth in the next game then hit his career high point against Washington State in the ninth game. His pass interception and 27-yard return set up OSU's only touchdown in a 7-0 win. His quick pass rush forced another interception and his tackle denied the Cougars on a first-and-goal situation. He had 13 tackles, 8 of them unassisted, and was named Pacific 8 Defensive Player of the Week for his effort. In the six games he played in, Ernie had 38 tackles and 4 fumble recoveries, the team high.

Oregon State's DENNIS BOYD was a standout all year long and posted 73 tackles, fourth-highest on the squad and the most by a defensive lineman. He started for the third straight year and will bid for All-Pac 8 honors next fall.

Four Delts saw starting duty for the Idaho Vandals during the season. Junior KJEL KILSGAARD, a starter for the third year, was shifted from linebacker to defensive end after the third game and played well at his new position. He was seventh in tackles with 76 and led the squad with 4 fumble recoveries. Senior tackle CRAIG CRNICK, despite leg injuries, posted 75 tackles, recovered 2 fumbles, and was named as Idaho's Defensive Player of the Week after making 10 stops and repeatedly intimidating opposing linemen in the Arizona State game.

Junior fullback KEVIN McAFEE saw starting action until being hurt in Idaho's fifth game of the season. His best game came against Idaho State as he had a 54-yard run and scored 2 touchdowns and a two-point conversion for all 14 Idaho points in the contest. Soph BRIAN CHARLES started the last half of the year and was in on 43 tackles,

SWIMMING

Four returning All-Americans lead a large group of Delts involved in swimming this winter. NCAA Division III diving champ JEFF GORDON leads a group of six Delts at Allegheny while All-Americans DON CONSTANTINO, TODD RUPPERT, and DAVE McGUE are among ten squad members at Kenyon. Other leading returnees are RANDY ELI and STEVE STOCKSDALE of Kentucky, divers BILL SMITH and MARK VIRTIS of Purdue, and R.P.I. co-captain MIKE COURTNEY. The next issue will carry a complete review of the Delt swimming season.

MISCELLANEOUS

In sailing, Tufts senior TOM DIMOND, junior BRUCE BURTON, and soph BRUCE WHITE had good fall seasons. Valuable members of the crew squad at George Washington were DAVE MUELLER, ED ARNOLD, and TOM HORNER.

Senior ED GRODEN co-captained the Rensselaer Poly cross-country squad last fall. JOHN PERRY of Kentucky and DOUG NEWMAN of Albion were other good cross-country runners. M.I.T. junior goalie JEFF SINGER had a good season in fall lacrosse. An All-New England choice, he's the captain and MVP of the squad.

Pete and Bob Mucklestone

By BRAD POWELL
University of Washington

At 4:10 a.m. August 23, 1975, two Delts, Bob Mucklestone, Washington '51, and his son Pete, Washington '77, took off from Boeing Field in Seattle. A large gathering of Delts was on hand for the departure of the Cessna 210, a single engine plane equipped with long range fuel tanks.

The objective was to better the record for an around the world flight, in a single engine plane. (The previous record, of thirteen days, eight hours, and forty-one minutes, had been set by Dr. Alvin Marks in 1969, in a similar airplane.) Exactly twelve days, three hours, and twenty-nine minutes later the two Delt aces returned to Boeing Field with a world record and a great adventure under their belts.

The planning for this trip, which had begun nine months earlier, involved a warm-up flight to the Pentagon in Washington D.C., to request special permission to land at Shemya Air Force Base in Alaska. A second preliminary flight, to Shemya, was necessary to pre-position fuel to enable completion of the world record flight.

The total planning for the flight was not completed until two hours before the take-off, when finally the two men were ready to circle the globe. Leaving Seattle eastbound, the two Delts made stops in Milwaukee, Bangor, Frobisher, Reykjavik, London, Istanbul, Tehran, Karache, Delhi, Calcutta, Kuala Lumpur, Singapore, Djakarta, Kuching, Manila, Taipei, Kagoshima, Kushiuro, Shemya, Cold Bay, and Anchorage, before returning home.

The pair of pilots was plagued by bad weather throughout the trip with the worst over the North Atlantic. Strong head winds and icing conditions kept the adrenalin flowing inside the small plane. Several days later, upon arriving in Istanbul, our Delts spent three hours arguing with stubborn Turks, in a simple attempt to refuel.

More difficulties were experienced in India where unreasonable paperwork consumed a total of six hours at each of the two stops. In Djakarta the trip almost came to an end when a bureaucratic foul-up almost had the plane impounded.

However, the Mucklestones pressed on, meeting and overcoming the obstacles. Leaving the Asian continent and skirting the Soviet Union the two pilots tackled the most nerve-racking part of the journey. Eight hours over water and a threatening typhoon provided excitement and challenge over the North Pacific. The small plane finally made it to Shemya, Alaska, and then on home to Seattle.

Past and present Delts were at the field to welcome the returning adventurers and the Shelter was alive with celebration that night. The legacy of Delts had succeeded in setting a new world record, certified by the Federation Aeronotique Internationale, in Paris. The globe had been Delt with.

ALABAMA Delta Eta

THE BROTHERS at Delta Eta this year helped with the campus-wide Hilaritas Christmas Program. Hilaritas is sponsored by the band and chorus for underprivileged children in the Tuscaloosa area.

Each fraternity and sorority on campus went to each grade school, taking 30 children to the house for a party. After the party, the university put on a Christmas show at Foster Gym. The Brothers always enjoy doing this annual project. Ed Entenberg from Linden, N.J., was in charge of it this year.

Football again was a strong point for the Brothers. Both teams made the playoffs and the Pea-Pickers went all the way to the semi-finals. By doing this the house moved up in the standings on campus for the All-Sports trophy.

Basketball has just started and the Brothers won the first two games.

Improvements in the house are underway. We are remodeling the hallway and new furniture is due any day.

Rush is also looking good. For the first time we hope to pledge at least 20 for the spring semester. With the loss of many seniors this is badly needed.

Terry Dietrich

ALBION Epsilon

AS ANOTHER semester comes to an end in Albion, the Brothers are again able to look back over another good semester.

Homecoming had to be the highlight of our first semester as far as alumni are concerned. Around 82 old Brothers showed up at the Shelter for our 99th festivities. Beginning with coffee and donuts in the morning and a brunch before the Albion-Alma game, things were off to a great start. After the game the 'Alumbros' (Alumni-Brothers) took the undergraduate chapter back to the site of the old Delt Shelter. A great many songs were sung by each group and a lot of liquid refreshment passed down everybody's throats. Somehow everyone managed to eat dinner and before we knew it, it was time for the dance. All in all, the undergrads had the best Homecoming that anyone could remember.

This year, not like many years in the past, our Rush program has taken an early lead. Instead of the traditional December-January rush program, our Rush Chairman Doug Newman got things underway in October.

With pledging coming up at the beginning of February, it looks as if we will be in good shape again.

Socially, we had maintained our image on campus once again. Keggers with the Alpha Xi's, Theta's, and Alpha Chi's plus pool and foosball tournaments with the Sigma Nu's rounded out the fall semester.

Alby Zatkoff

ALLEGHENY Alpha

Leading the campus in various projects, activities, and competitions is nothing new for the Brothers of Alpha Chapter. The semi-annual blood drive was once again lead by Alpha, as we donated about 40 pints. Deltas also prevailed in winning an all-campus quiz bowl competition.

Deltas hold a very strong second place position in IFC intramurals. Allegheny had very successful football and soccer teams, with Brothers participating actively.

Homecoming was a bitter disappointment on the football field but a great success at the Shelter. Over 150 alumni and undergraduates attended festivities at the Shelter and were greeted by the hostess, our "Sweetheart" and former cook, Agnes Miller. Homecoming marked the start of a campaign to improve communications between alumni and undergraduates.

This fall the initiation of five new Deltas has been accompanied with some other fresh facets. Alpha has become involved with Kizmet Grotto and their efforts to aid retarded children. Major changes have appeared in the operation of the kitchen. A new cook has been hired. Also a new office, called a commissary, has been created to oversee the financial operations of the kitchen and to plan meals.

Rush was well organized this past fall. As a result, hopes and expectations are running high for an excellent pledge class.

David Hanlin

AUBURN Epsilon Alpha

Full quarter has been quite successful for EA. Through the efforts of co-rush chairmen, Mike Russell and Jack Early, we picked up thirty new pledges during formal rush. Two men who pledged during the previous school year were initiated this quarter, leaving our present pledge class at thirty-three.

Our new kitchen was completed this quarter, thanks to a handful of Brothers, especially Jim Lott without whom the project may never have been completed. Numerous other improvements were also made on the house.

Congratulations are in order for Brother Ed Davis who captured the first place trophy at the Southeastern Amateur Golf Tournament. Ed is also a member of the Auburn golf team.

In our annual Pledge-Active football clash the heavily favored Brothers won going away by a 24-6 score. Full equipment was rented from a nearby high school for the contest.

Although the Auburn football team experienced a disappointing season, Delt parties following the games were unlike that of the Tigers in that the parties were winners. The men of EA would like to salute retiring coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan who has guided the War Eagle squad for the last 25 years.

We sponsored a Folk & Bluegrass Festival, which was a rousing success. All profits were donated to the all-campus fund drive. Other community projects included playing a football game with some underprivileged children from the area and collecting money to give to the M.S. Fund.

All of us at Auburn would like to wish Deltas across the nation a Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year. War Eagle!

BALL STATE Epsilon Mu

Epsilon Mu welcomed returning undergrads with a newly paved driveway this year. Plans last year led to the driveway's completion in late August.

On the road to a successful new academic year, the Deltas gained initial recognition by winning the Chariot Race. Homecoming, the next event in which Delta Tau Delta always participates both as an organization and in significant positions on the steering committee, was successful in two ways: (1) EM won fourth place in the Float Division, and (2) Miss Linda Herr, Delt Little Sis (sponsored by the Chapter) was crowned Homecoming Queen.

"Watermelon Bust," an annual Delt-sponsored event, saw record-breaking crowds at both the afternoon games and evening dance. It was the most successful campus activity this fall both financially and entertainingly.

Steven Schmidt, Robert Taylor and Daniel Wilhoite were honored with their selection into "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities."

The fall pledge class at Ball State is the most unique and outstanding group of young men on campus. These twenty-two men, eager for Delt education, remain the pride of every active at Epsilon Mu.

With many events and activities left unreported, Epsilon Mu moves strongly toward clear horizons; and our men wish Delts everywhere prosperity in 1976.

Robert Taylor

BOWLING GREEN Delta Tau

Full quarter at B.G.S.U. was productive and interesting. It started with the Pledge Class, the second biggest on campus. These pledges were very active and they kept the Brothers on their guard at all times. Homecoming was the next big event and it was celebrated by the Brothers, with an unsuspecting large turnout of alumni. Other areas of the Fraternity which were greatly improved were the scholarship, Little Sis, and athletic programs. It all ended with a bang at our annual Christmas Party. All in all, fall was a great quarter for the Delts from the north.

A couple of individual accomplishments were achieved by two of our Delts. John Mitchell was running for a high post in the IFC program and also is representing many frats in a committee on boarding policies of the university. Tim Korte, our president, also has been named to a committee of equal nature. Congratulations to these young men.

BUTLER Beta Zeta

A very important concern at Beta Zeta Chapter is the planning for 1976, the 100th year since Delta Tau Delta Fraternity was inaugurated at Butler University. The Delts of Beta Zeta are excited and enthusiastic about the Centennial, and have begun setting the foundation for its celebration. Plans for recruiting alumni help, making reservations of facilities, and planning activities have begun and will be more definite as the summer passes.

This fall saw our house pledge thirteen freshmen and initiate five other members into the Beta Zeta Chapter. Also, this fall the Delts took second in swimming, first in bowling, and presently are in third place in the intramural race.

With respect to academics, the Butler Delts have been first or second since the 1967-68 year, compared with the other fraternities on campus (with the exception of three semesters in the early 70's).

The Little Sisters did many new things this fall. They went to King's Island, had a hayride, a Christmas tree-trim, and numerous casual get-togethers.

Not all has been fun and games. Our pledges volunteered two weekends of their time to raise money for Central State Hospital.

CARNEGIE-MELLON Delta Beta

The Delts of Carnegie-Mellon are looking forward to a successful year. The fall pledge class of 11 men will hopefully be going active in mid-January, and spring rush will commence with the start of second semester.

Many physical improvements are being planned for the Shelter. A new washer and dryer have already been installed, and we plan to make several improvements in our kitchen including the addition of a new dishwasher.

Delta Beta is looking forward to a successful basketball season, the football season having been a major disappointment. Later on in the semester, the Delt softball team will be attempting to improve upon last year's loss in the intramural semi-final playoffs.

With Spring Carnival coming up in early April, buggy free-roll practice was already underway a few Sunday mornings during fall semester. The Delts have two new drivers, both of them freshmen pledges. If you've never seen the buggy races at C-MU, and you have some free time in early April, pay a visit to the C-MU Delt house. We guarantee you'll have a great time.

CINCINNATI Gamma Xi

Full quarter for Gamma Xi Delts has been a quarter to remember. Brother Tom Harrelson, VP of Rush, started the quarter off with a fantastic rush and eleven men were pledged on October 14.

Arriving just in time for Homecoming was a complete new set of furniture for the living room provided by the House Corporation. Very impressed with the "New Pink Palace" were some 100 alumni who came to the open house and helped share the joy of the Delts being first runner up in the float competition on Homecoming Day.

Other activities during the quarter include the annual Parents Banquet held on November 16 and the election of twelve new Little Sisters on November 18. Intramurals have been in full swing with Delts participating in football, swimming, handball, and being undefeated in volleyball.

The quarter ended after finals week with the Christmas Formal held at Hueston Woods Lodge. Awards presented at the formal were the Pledge Scholarship Award, Brother Doug Diamond, the John Betz Service Award, Brother Don Gloeckler, and the Delt Pillars tapped were Brothers Paul Keller, Jim Plummer, and Greg Williams.

CORNELL Beta Omicron

The hours tick away and the chemical engineer's last final examination of the semester looms frighteningly closer. After a long week of all-nighters the urge to continue to study still has not grown weak. The Brother daydreams, forgetting for a moment his charts and graphs and endothermic reactions, and visualizes the long awaited ecstasy that the end of the term will soon bring to him.

The remnants of a long two weeks; first of endless parties, and then intense, enduring study, pervade all rooms in the Shelter. A bulbous image of Santa wallows in the president's chair, commanding cheers and songs from the colorfully garbed Brotherhood within the living room. With every breath exuding and consuming good spirits, Santa presents deserving Delts with awards and gifts. Reams of illiterate scratch and sandscript litter a library filled with soda cans and with an air of continuous debate, argument, work and endless work and pleadings for sympathy. A kitchen transformed into the laboratories of 47 individual chefs reeks of overspiced and overcooked hamburgers and peanut butter and jelly. Its greased oven pleads for the return of the shortcake cooking history major.

The loud clarion of an exploding stereo signals the study room of a student of the College of Arts and Sciences. Motionless on a beanbag chair, the artsie, having finished his final exams earlier in the week finds shelter in an inebriated sleep, after having been accused of remaining at the house only to bother the increasingly restless engineers and hotelies.

The television room, once packed with the stench of beer and of football practice and cries of "Don't question the Tube," bears but a lingering of the odors and a single Delta sweetheart silently watching soap opera. Wide open spaces portray the parking lot as sorely depleted. A light snow blankets the tracks of those brothers who have already quickly made off for an all too short month of vacation.

... A sharp unanswered ring from the house telephone seizes the chemical engineer from his daze. He suddenly fixes his eyes upon his clock. A slight tremor of his hand knocks his Cornell ring gently against his well used calculator. His mind grinds itself back to work. Just two hours left.

DELAWARE Delta Upsilon

The Dec. 10 initiation of eight new Brothers, with two still to be initiated, highlighted another semester in Delta Upsilon Chapter's upward climb. It was less than three years ago that the chapter was down to only nine Brothers. In that short span of time, our membership has increased to 36, with hopes for a full house of 45 coming in the spring semester.

The highlight of the Delt social season was Homecoming weekend. Despite Delaware's upset loss to Lehigh, the Brothers still managed to have a great time, with a beef and beer supper after the game and a dance following the supper. The Brothers also went to work on our Shelter, tearing down our decaying front porch and completely rebuilding it.

To raise money for projects next semester, a raffle was held the week before finals, which raised over $300. This will take a lot of the strain off next semester's budget.

Winter Session, a mini-semester of five weeks between fall and spring, begins Jan. 5 and we'll have 17 Brothers living in the house for it. But before that will come the Delt New Year's Eve extravaganza. Fifty couples have signed up and it looks like it will be the biggest Delt party at Delaware in quite a few years.

DePAUW Beta Beta

It's been a year of rebuilding at Beta Beta, and we've impressed ourselves with the results of our efforts. A successful fall rush boosted our numbers back up, and the pledge class immediately began to pull together, get to know each other, and plan their year.

In October, the pledges decided to rough it by doing their service project reconditioning a Christian camp in the wild woods of Southern Indiana — kept warm by the pledge class of Alpha Phi sorority!

Not to be outdone, the actives went out and won the campus I.M. football championship, then organized a powder puff football tournament for the beautiful women of DePauw. Every sorority fielded a team in the Delt tourney, and the winners had the pleasure of playing our championship team (we lost on excessive penalties).

These and other activities have kept the brotherhood strong, and our pledges look like they'll keep it up when they join the Fraternity. We were pleased to see a lot of you here for the Fall Alumni Day, and hope to see more in the spring. Greencastle is still on the map!

DUKE Delta Kappa

As first semester draws to a close at Duke, Delta Kappa reflects on what has been a most busy and productive fall.

Outstanding as individuals for the Duke Deltas are Dave Dusek and Bruce Bell, members of the varsity football and basketball teams respectively. Dave was selected as a member of the All-Atlantic Coast Conference defensive line, as well as receiving All-Academic laurels. Delta Kappa might add that light-footed Dave is our unanimous selection to the All-World dance team. Super-Soph Bruce (The Juice) Bell has been named to the ranks of Duke's prestigious Acc roundball club for his first full season after "walking on" as a Frosh last year. The raucous Delt cheering section will continue to root for the success of Bruce and the Duke Blue Devils.

The social calendar was filled to overflowing with such memorable events as the Delt Disco and movie-inspired parties, Jaws (complete with 60 women-eating sharks) and the Sting (with betting on the ponies.) Our two first semester Rush parties have been major successes and it appears that the spring pledge class will have its share of hard-core parties.

Also included in the social agenda was a southbound excursion to Gainesville for Duke's gridiron clash with the University of Florida. The Florida Deltas provided warm hospitality in the form of a super dance band party which proved adequate consolation for Duke's close defeat at the hands of the speedy Gators.

Somewhere in the midst of the hectic schedule, the Deltas have managed a successful service project. The film, Brian's Song was shown for the enjoyment of the Duke community, and the proceeds were given to Duke Cancer Research Center.

The spring forecast for Delta Kappa is one of continued good times at Duke, spiced with Bob Tapp shoulder dancing and the long awaited spring pledging program. That's the way (uh-huh, uh-huh) we like it.

EMORY Beta Epsilon

BETA EPSILON Chapter, under the administration of newly elected president Chuck Kaplan, has been working on several new programs. Among these is the "Pledge of the Day" program. Each day a different pledge has the responsibilities of cleaning up a certain part of the house, and serving desert to all the Brothers. That night the Brothers take him out on the town to celebrate.

In the recent Pledge vs. Brothers Olympics, the Brothers defeated the pledges by a small margin in such marathon-type events as bourbon chug relay, chicken fights, tug of war, beer chug relay, and "Buck-Buck".

The 21-man pledge class will initiate in January to make a strong 50-man chapter — the biggest Beta Epsilon Chapter in years. The Little Sister Program, presently with 18 sisters, now has its own officers, membership dues, and meetings. The sisters eat at the house, throw parties for the chapter, and generally make the house a fun place to be.

FLORIDA Delta Zeta

The Deltas of Delta Zeta are glad to say that we are headed in the direction of being No. 1 on campus. Thanks to our House Corporation and to Randy Smith our newly elected president, we were able to renovate our sleeping porch into a game room. This game room has been both a success to our social functions and in helping us get 23 quality pledges.

This winter, Delta Zeta's goal is to get 15 new pledges. Upon the completion of rush, our main emphasis will be on intramurals. Delta Zeta is presently in 2nd place for the President's Cup for fall quarter. Being strong in tennis, golf and swimming, we feel that we have a good chance of winning.

Plans are being made for a super Alumni weekend on May 1. The main event will be a golf tournament between the alumni and the active Brothers. The wind-up for the weekend will be a get-together at the Shelter. This reunion went over so well last year, it was decided to make it an annual event.

Gee... the new kid on the block is pretty tough after all...

Our first full quarter as a Delt Chapter has been a challenging, yet exciting one. Fall rush was highlighted by an outdoor "Street Dance" which was held in conjunction with the grand opening of a local apartment complex. Over 350 attended. By the end of the next week, 15 men were pledged, securing us the 2nd largest pledge class on campus. (Average Chapter size at FTU is about 25).

Another highlight of the quarter was the Parent-Alumni Picnic. Hotdogs and beer were supplied by the Chapter, and parents were asked to bring a covered dish. Canoeing, football, and croquet were the main events for the day, followed by a bonfire and many sore muscles that evening. It was a great time for all.

Speaking of sore muscles, the 2nd Annual Delt-Pike tackle football game was held Dec. 7. We're proud to announce that we beat them for the 2nd year in a row (12-0).

One of the most important gains of the fall quarter was in securing good relations with Tampa's Chapter. They're a great bunch of Deltas, and we've enjoyed working with them. We have planned many inter-chapter events for the coming year, and have also challenged them to initiate more men than we initiate by next June. Don't worry, we'll let the Rainbow know who wins.

PS: If you'll be in Florida for Spring break, be sure to stop by.

GEORGE WASHINGTON Gamma Eta

Along with the nation's bicentennial, Washington D.C.'s Deltas enter 1976 with a new spirit of achievement and brotherhood. With a firm commitment toward complete involvement and accomplishment, the Gamma Eta Deltas are actively involved in numerous programs celebrating our nation's 200th birthday.

G.W.'s intramural football season was highlighted with numerous bloodbaths resulting in several serious injuries and the Deltas were not excluded. Although two Brothers were put out of commission and numerous others played with painful injuries, we were able to make the playoffs for the 19th consecutive year. In addition, this past fall, the Deltas swept to the intramural volleyball championship and finished second in the intra-fraternity bowling tournament.

The 1975 fall semester was highlighted by several extremely successful university-wide parties along with a Brothers-only dinner and dance party at a local nightclub.

Our newly-initiated pledge class shows many positive signs of the revived spirit of Gamma Eta. They have planned a number of social and fund-raising activities for the upcoming spring semester.

Another high point of fall activities was an informal get-together of alumni and Brothers in an effort to revitalize the House Corporation. This year, Gamma Eta will host the joint G.W.U.-Maryland Founder's Day Banquet scheduled for spring.

In alumni news, Gamma Eta's Marine, Lt. Pete Baldwin is stationed in the Philippines and is expected back in Washington next fall. Bernie Swain, '68, has been promoted to assistant athletic director at G.W. and recent grad Jim Eskin, '75, has remained in the Washington area, for the Agriculture Council of America.

GEORGIA Beta Delta

The Brothers of Beta Delta enjoyed a very successful fall quarter. We were very lucky to obtain the services of Charles E. Baron, Beta Delta, 1948, as our new chapter adviser. Dave Lunde still serves the chapter as our faculty adviser.

We are also proud to report the initiation of nine new Brothers, who through their pledgship proved to be one of the more outstanding pledge classes in Beta Delta history.

Fall quarter 1975 proved to keep the Brothers very busy. The Brothers worked very hard getting the Shelter ready for Parent-Alumni Day. Despite bad weather a large crowd gathered and was treated to a fine meal of fried chicken prepared by the Brothers.

Alumni were also present to enjoy the Homecoming festivities as the Bulldogs were victorious over the Clemson Tigers. Speaking of the Dogs, we are all excited about the upcoming Cotton Bowl, to which Beta Delta is sponsoring a bus trip.

Our own Intramural football team was also successful this past fall season.

Congratulations are also in order for Brother Barry Harris who was elected to the post of administrative vice-president of the Interfraternity Council. Barry also serves as the Greek liaison to the Student Government Association.

In looking forward to next quarter the Brothers are studying hard for exams, mulling over the upcoming elections, and are going home for the holidays with Rush on their minds and the feeling that Santa Claus is really a Delt.

GEORGIA TECH Gamma Psi

Fall Quarter at Gamma Psi chapter began with good omens for the year. First, the completion of steps by Derbo opened the side yard of the Delt House to development as a "beer garden" for rush. Backyard cook-outs, band parties, good meals, the trip to the Carolina game and Johan's farm, lots of beer and an energetic brotherhood paid off in the largest and best pledge class in years. The Delt's twenty-seven pledges (five were initiated in October) was one of the largest groups on campus.

In two weeks' time the Deltas were in the campus spotlight for leading the "Stinger Party" protest of student transportation fees, painting the fire hydrants, and preparing to welcome the President in a satire of the Homecoming theme.

The Delt football team had a less than glorious record, though the pledge class sported a team that went to the pledge intramural finals. In volleyball the Deltas missed the championship by the narrowest of margins in a heavily disputed and controversial final match. Another first for this year was the entry of a second Delt team, the

Gamma Psi pledges gather in front of the Shelter at Georgia Tech on "Pledge Sunday".

Newsletter of the Year

Gamma Psi Chapter of Georgia Tech is a repeat winner in the Fraternity's annual chapter newsletter competition. The Gamma Sigh has been judged best of the newsletters for the 1974-75 academic year. It also received the top award in 1973-74.

The publication was selected primarily for its overall balance of news. Hitting a large number of highlights, rather than dwelling on any one subject, The Gamma Sigh was very readable, as well as informative.

It reflected good planning and an extra effort in writing. One example is an article that blended fraternity and campus news with national trends, providing a perspective not found in many newsletters.

Second place goes to the Gamma Pi Punch, up from honorable mention in 1973-74. The official newsletter of Gamma Pi Chapter, Iowa State University, was interesting and well written. A somewhat limited version appeared in the winter, followed by an excellent edition in the spring.

The Panther-Delt of Gamma Sigma Chapter, University of Pittsburgh, was tapped for honorable mention, largely on the strength of an amazing job of reporting alumni news. It also provided a good package of brief news items on a variety of chapter events.

The most important factors in judging the 1974-75 entries were selection of topics, quality of writing, and layout.

ADS, in the independent volleyball league, who also made it to the finals.

The mysterious origins of Tech's infamous George P. Burdell has been revealed by an alumnus from Arkland, Ala. John Turbateki has won second place in the first annual banana-split eating contest. Craig Kennedy has been named captain of the new Tech volleyball team, and Alan Saylor graduated in August and has a job in St. Pete, Fla. Miracles never cease.

GEORGIA SOUTHERN Epsilon Omega

We returned to school this fall with a lot of fraternity spirit. All of us knew that we were going to have to work twice as hard this quarter to make up for the loss of the large number of Brothers who were graduated last spring. Because of our efforts we got 12 good pledges this quarter and 5 new Little Sisters. We got off to a slow start in football, losing several close games. We finished the season in fifth place out of eleven fraternities.

We held a tennis tournament this quarter during rush and it was such a success that we have decided to make it an annual event. We suggest that other chapters try it because it enables you to meet rushees and it provides an opportunity for a lot of public-

This quarter we held one of our many alumni functions that are held throughout the year. We are pleased to announce that we had a large turnout of returning alumni. The three-day affair was culminated by a successful dance party on Saturday night.

HILLSDALE Kappa

This year has been a very constructive one for Kappa Chapter. During the first week of the new year the house found the coveted jug during the hunt held in the Arboretum. The Jug Hunt is held during Hell Week with pledges from all Greek houses participating.

The Shelter took on a new face with the painting of the walls and the remodeling of one of the bathrooms. Hard work by the active chapter paid off well during rush with the addition of 12 new pledges. This may seem low but the average pledge class in the Greek system here at Hillsdale is only 12-15 men.

This year also found Delts holding high student positions, with Bill Drawz as IFC president and Gerry Burger as Student Federation president. As the leaves turned color Kappa Chapter fought hard during the IM football season and took a second place in the Greek standings.

December brought elections of new officers: Tim Nolan, president; Sandy Mulder, vice-president; Tom Monnich, treasurer; Mark McKee, recording secretary; Bob Neiman, corresponding secretary.

We would like to take this time to thank our faculty adviser, Dr. James King, for his hard work and dedication to Kappa Chapter. We would also like to thank our alumni for their continued financial backing in our endeavors to decrease the debts on the new Shelter.

IDAHO Delta Mu

Scholarship, athletic activity, alumni relations, finance, and community service were areas of prime importance to the men of Delta Mu in the fall semester of 1975.

After receiving the Division award for scholarship at last year's Iowa conference, with a 3.02 all-house average, the chapter maintained its pace with a 3.04 average last semester.

On campus, the chapter ranks first in intramurals, after capturing the overall intramural crown last year for the first time since 1960.

In finance and alumni relations, two Delta Mu problem areas in 1974-75, the chapter has experienced a resurgence. Due in part to a tough program of bill collection (and also in part to Treasurer Terry Calnon's policies) members' unpaid accounts have been cut in half. Also three alumni functions and a program to keep track of Delta Mu grads have brought the alumni program back from the point of extinction.

On campus and in the city of Moscow, the chapter has been involved in the United Way Fund Drive, the City Basketball League (sponsorship of a 5th grade team), the Goodwill Industries clothes collection, Halloween Haunted House (for the United Way), and several other projects.

Larry Miller

ILLINOIS TECH Gamma Beta

Gamma Beta showed signs of activity in many areas this semester. As usual, the first big task was the rushing and pledging of this year's pledge class. Other business-as-usual activities were IFC sports (including the IFC football trophy for four years running) and a Halloween party for orphans of the area.

There were, however, many new developments as well:

The Rules and Manners Committee initiated a revitalized speaker program which featured school officials and area Alums.

Field Counselor John Dangler visited us and many helpful suggestions resulted from his observations.

The Social Committee organized two trips, one to visit the Deltas and Tri-Sigs at Western Ill. U., and the pledge walk-out to Ball State's Delt House. Also, many Brothers made the trip to Columbus, Ohio, for Brother Cicero's wedding.

Perhaps the most exciting event of next semester will be Gamma Beta's 75th anniversary. The "Bicentennial" Comm. firmed up plans this semester for the celebration next April.

It was hoped that efforts to initiate a Chicago-area Alumni Association would be successful and many of the Brothers of Gamma Beta were anxious to receive an Alumnus Big-Brother. Interest was lower among alumni then anticipated, however, and it is unlikely that much will come of this in the near future.

Drydon T. Dharma

INDIANA Beta Alpha

We have had a very successful fall semester here at Beta Alpha. The committee structure here is very well-coordinated, which is reflected by the accomplishments we have achieved during the past year.

The intramurals committee has functioned well again (we finished fourth all-campus last spring), and our special events committee set up a Christmas Party for underprivileged children, a joint function with the women of Alpha Chi Omega.

Last, our alumni committee is in the process of organizing a trip to Cincinnati to see the Reds play in early April. The tentative date is Sunday, April 11, with present members of Beta Alpha and alumni making the trip.

Beta Alpha Deltas are very active in campus affairs, with four Brothers on Student Foundation and three on IFC, not to mention the Brothers representing I.U. in such sports as football, track, cross-country, and hockey. We also are looking for another great performance from the bike team in the Foundation-sponsored "Little 500 Bike Race," trying to top our fourth-place finish of last year.

All in all, we are quite pleased with the realization of the greater portion of this semester's objectives. If the men put the effort into next semester that they did into this one, things can only continue to look better.

provements. Co-operation of all the Omicron Deltas led to the planting of new bushes, repainting, repairing, and tuck-pointing around and about the Shelter.

It was the drive of the Delt spirit that defeated all the Greeks in social fraternity football at the University of Iowa. The Deltas ranked first stomping the 18 other fraternities on campus, then defeated the Sigma Nu's for the fraternity championship, and the dormitory champions, before losing the All-University Championship, against an independent team made up of former football players, in sudden death 24-18.

With success on the playing field, there was success on Parents Weekend and Dad's Day, when we entertained our folks with a turkey dinner and all the trimmings at the Shelter.

The day, which was carefully planned by Housemother Mrs. "Goose" Eland, began with coffee and donuts, then progressed to the stadium to watch Iowa clobber Wisconsin, and was concluded with a huge dinner and awards ceremony.

The Delt Development Award was presented to Brother Al Chingren for the most improvement in living up to the spirit of Delta Tau Delta since his pledgeship in the Fall 1974. Brother Dave Jacobson received the James Gordon Helgens award for the most outstanding showing of scholarship and athletics.

A lot of awards will be won by the twelve fine and outstanding pledges who were selected this year through the fine rush efforts of Dave Gerdes and Kevin Frandsen. Bob Wolf, chapter president exclaimed, "This is the best pledge class we've had in years!"

Jeffrey P. Wolf

IOWA STATE Gamma Pi

The Gamma Pi Deltas didn't waste any time this fall before jumping into everything from powder puff football to a variety show rehearsal. But probably the highlight of our fall quarter was the combination Homecoming-Centennial celebration. One hundred years of Deltas at Iowa State was announced in conjunction with the ISI Homecoming. This weekend involved a football game, open house at the Shelter, banquet, and a lot of reminiscing by alumni who returned for the occasion.

The powder puff football program was a big success again this year. All the sororities and their Delt coaches went through a double elimination contest and the women of Pi Beta Phi emerged as champs. They will face the best of the University of Iowa sororities in the spring.

Upon returning to the house this fall, we could see that a lot of work had been going on over the summer in the way of improvements. Our once noisy halls are now carpeted, the kitchen has a new look, and new curtains line the front of the house.

Looking into the winter months, Delta will be singing and dancing with the women of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority in the annual Varieties show. Combining this with intramurals and books, Gamma Pi promises to be as active a place as ever.

JACKSONVILLE STATE Zeta Nu

The Brothers of Zeta Nu started the fall semester with the first week filled with various rush activities ending with a fine rush party after the home football game which culminated fall rush. We pledged a larger number than in past rush periods. These pledges have proven themselves to be exceptionally sharp young men and have been very valuable to the Chapter.

Homecoming at Jacksonville State was an extremely busy time for the Brothers and Little Sisters, starting off with the building and entering of a float for the Homecoming parade, which got us second place in the Greek competition. After our victory over Tennessee Martin, we wrapped up festivities with a gathering for the alumni members after the football game, ending the ay with a very successful party that evening.

The end of the fall semester was brought a close with a Christmas party at the chapter house. Children's toys were exchanged between the Brothers and Little Sisters, which were given to the underprivileged children at the Day Care Center in Jacksonville.

We finished the semester with a formal Christmas party at the Officers Club at Fort McClellan Army Post.

Various awards were given out as follows: best active, Ronnie Culver; best Brother, Buckley Chisolm; best Little Sister, Betty Burns; and best Pledge, Keith Inehart.

KANSAS Gamma Tau

It was an enthusiastic group that returned to the Gamma Tau Shelter this semester, filling the House to its maximum of 68 men. Our pledge class of 24, along with a strong, first-year group of 25 Little Sisters has added to that enthusiasm, keeping the Delt spirit high.

On campus, Delts are diffused into all aspects of student affairs. With such men of leadership and inspiration as Brother Ed Mills, who now serves as Student Body President, it is not surprising to find Delts represented in Student Senate, College Assembly, professional fraternities, school elect committees, and campus service projects such as the Red Cross Blood Drive, recently completed. In addition, the House is part of a city-wide fund drive for arthritis prevention.

Although intramural play has been limited to football thus far, it was a proud A league team which stood its ground until defeat in the championship playoffs. This team promises to be an effective nucleus for the basketball season. This semester our Shelter has also housed the undergraduate track coach.

The Delts were socially active in the form of a number of sorority functions, Little Sisters activities, and traditional House parties. A convivial, in particular, held on November 1, was a great success due to the extent of alumni support. The coming semester promises to bring excitement and opportunities. Although it would be hard to prove our overall House G.P.A. of 3.14 the last semester, we are dedicated to changing that goal.

William McKee

KANSAS STATE Gamma Chi

The Brothers of Gamma Chi have had a busy and profitable fall semester. Intramurals once again proved an area of pride. The Delts began by winning the flag football championship with our second straight undefeated season. First place finishes in swimming and golf, along with strong showings in volleyball and wrestling, have put us in sole possession of first place in over-all intramurals.

Campus activities have been varied. Among the accomplishments are a third place finish in the Homecoming float competition and a finalist in the University Sing contest sponsored for the Children's Zoo.

Improving alumni relations has become a major goal for the Brothers this year. An alumni dance was held on Oct. 4, along with social hours following home football games. Planned activities for next semester include a hamburger feed and awarding fifty-year pins.

A strong factor in our optimistic attitude is the high caliber of this year's pledge class. We pledged 23 men and it now appears that most of them will become excellent Delts.

Newly elected officers are Rick Berger, president; Mike Oliver, vice-president; Kelly Conrad, recording secretary; Rob Riordan, corresponding secretary; Jon Clark, treasurer; Dan Richards, asst. treasurer; and Doug Baber, house manager.

Rob Riordan

LAFAYETTE Nu

This past fall has been one of continuing success and innovation for Nu Chapter. Success has come in the fields of rush and capital improvement. With a pledge class of nineteen, the Chapter will be able to maintain its strength in the 45 to 50 range. The total renovation of the Shelter is being moved forward steadily, and two major goals, the remodeling of bathrooms and the installation of a fire protection system, have been achieved this year.

A social innovation which proved to be a great success was the holding of a cocktail party for faculty members and their wives. More than forty faculty members attended, and such an enjoyable afternoon was had by the Brothers that similar events are being planned for the future.

Nu Chapter Delts have also been active in campus affairs. President Dave Kenny is serving in his second term as president of the Inter-fraternity Council, and Irv Goldstein is working as general manager of WJRH, the campus radio station. Ten Delts are members of his staff, and another eight Delts are members of Student Government.

December 12 saw a Christmas party at the Shelter for underprivileged children from the Easton area. Stu Colville appeared as Santa Claus and the day aroused festive spirits in all the Delts. Other community affairs involving the Brothers were participation in fund-raising for the United Way and counseling of children in Easton.

LA GRANGE Zeta Beta

Attention, Attention! Zeta Beta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta proudly announces that its intramural football team has won its first football game. That's right. After five seasons of straight losses, the Delts came through with a win.

Great celebrations followed the event, with much suffering awaiting one and all the following morning.

The pride we have for our football team can only be matched by the pride we have in our pledges. Out of a field of 24 eligible rushees, we pulled in ten. Yes Sir, great things are in store for Zeta Beta this year.

Zeke Barfield

LAMAR Zeta Gamma

The fall semester was a hectic one for the Delts at Lamar. It seemed every weekend was filled with some sort of activity.

To start off the semester, the Shelter received a badly needed paint job. Further remodeling is slated for Spring. The highlight of the semester was a chartered bus trip to New Orleans to watch Lamar's football team play in the Superdome and to spend a night in the French Quarter. In addition to the active chapter, several alumni were able to make the trip.

Several Brothers distinguished themselves. Don Anderson and Robert Bittle were selected to "Who's Who". Don also was selected for Blue Key and Bill Kondo was chosen secretary of IFC.

New blood was injected into the Fraternity with Dan French being chosen as associate faculty adviser and Ken Kondo being selected as chapter adviser. The chapter now looks forward with hope and expectations for a prosperous spring.

LAWRENCE Delta Nu

The fall term of 1975 will be remembered as a time of pleasing improvements at Delta Nu. These improvements came in many areas of this chapter's existence and deserve some mention.

Physically, the house was totally filled with Brothers, after a successful spring rush. The living room was given a new paint job and was redecorated with new sofas, chairs, and drapes. The kitchen also was repainted and a second large freezer was purchased for the pantry. New football and pinball machines were added and a long-broken juke box was repaired.

Social improvements appeared, along with the physical this term. The big all-campus "Safe-House" party was more popular and enjoyable in its second year, and the Lawrence faculty children's Halloween Party returned to the Delt house after a one-year hiatus. Delta Nu chapter also is sponsoring an orphan child in Guatemala through the Casa Paroquial mission.

The Lawrence University football team improved from a second-place tie in 1974 to an undisputed Midwest Conference championship in 1975 and Deltas played leading roles in this achievement. Four Brothers were All-Conference and the defensive line (a key part of the number-one ranked defense in the conference) consisted solely of Deltas. It was appropriately dubbed "The Delt-fense."

The intramural football team also improved its record (from 5-2 to 8-0) and was the undisputed campus champion. The Supremacy Cup (given annually to the intramural champion) appears to be safely in our hands as a result of our 500-point lead over the second place fraternity.

We netted 37 pledges this fall with the help of a strong summer rush program. The pledges started the semester with two chapter exchanges and then four TGIF's with sororities. The pledges helped paint trash barrels for distribution campus-wide. For fund raising they held a casino night, raising $100.

The semester was highlighted by a special weekend chapter retreat at Percy Quinn State Park in Mississippi, centered on unifying the pledges and the active chapter through brainstorming and goal-setting. The retreat proved so successful that we decided to have another in each future fall semester.

EK's Homecoming decorations centered on the bicentennial theme and included a 20-foot-high bicentennial symbol. Our library was extensively remodeled with the addition of one wall of book and trophy cases, along with a study desk. For community service, EK teamed with Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and went to an old folks home to dance and sing with them.

EK placed first in intramural volleyball and also first in golf with a 24-stroke lead. In flag football, EK placed third in our bracket and went to the university quarter finals.

Plans are well underway for the musical production of "A Little Night Music" which EK and Alpha Delta Pi will put on in March to raise several thousand dollars for the Baton Rouge Association for Retarded Citizens.

MAINE Gamma Nu

Graduation of many members last May made Fall '75 a rebuilding semester for Gamma Nu Chapter. Fortunately, a strong class of 21 new Brothers has nearly filled the house to capacity and allowed us to continue our traditional house functions.

The house itself has undergone a number of renovations. A major portion of the outside of the house was painted last summer, as was the entire living room last spring for our pledges' work project. Our main hall has new carpeting, and the Chapter Room also has new paint and trimmings.

Gamma Nu has so far participated in all intramural sports, and for the third consecutive year, placed second out of seventeen in the fraternity cross country meet in October. For the second time in as many years, one of our Brothers was the individual winner of that race.

Also this fall, a Brother was named to the top position of cadet commander in UMO's ROTC program, and another was appointed managing editor of the campus newspaper. In November, two Brothers represented the University at the 150th anniversary of fraternities at Union College in New York State.

Gamma Nu has also sponsored several social activities, including its annual Christmas party for underprivileged children in the Orono area, with help from Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

MARIETTA Epsilon Upsilon

In August the Brothers returned to the Shelter, which had been enlarged to accommodate four more Deltas. We immediately jumped into Rush, under the leadership of Greg McComas, with numerous activities. The results were most satisfactory; we have pledged 16 men so far this year, and are anticipating a strong spring pledge class.

On the Scholastic scene, E.U. has remained a leader. We captured the award for highest average again, and revived the type Greek Scholarship Bowl which has been dormant for 8 years. Our team, which consisted of Brothers Sutko, Santini, Rahnenfuehrer, Dunsker, and Doucette won the competition by answering the last question to edge the A.T.O.s.

Homecoming was another source of E.U. Brotherhood, as over one-fourth of our Alumni returned to enjoy the weekend. Over Thanksgiving, undergraduate member Geoffery C. Dean, Pres. Bob Peterson, Chapter Adviser Bruce A. Miller, and Gregory Carreira made the pilgrimage to our original Shelter in Bethany. In January we plan a sorority party and the culmination of our pledge program with our traditional Bag Baker Walk. Plans are also being made for a Northern Division Scholarship Bowl for later in the semester.

As a final note of interest, we recently activated our 100th member, Bob Kavula. Coincidentally Bob's older brother Ken ('69) was one of the founders of Epsilon Upsilon and a charter member.

S spurred by the carnage that marked the first triumphant loss to ATO, the hulking Tripods are drooling in anticipation of their next few losses in intramural hockey. Rugby football celebrated it's broken record of broken limbs this season with a few loose rucks in the vestibule, and the pledge class in retribution for having to rebuild the front stairs afterwards, ran roughshod over the actives to complete our mellowest party of the term.

Everyone "Got Hot in the Tropics" at the grass skirt extravaganza the pledges threw complete with waterfall, oyster bar, and black magician who leaked beer all night. The dinner specialty was Indonesian peanut butter shishkebab. Indonesia can keep it.

Our latest contribution to civilized society is the television tennis game invented by the electrical engineering jocks here. The model at the shelter is in use day and night, with precedence over anything but Cronkite.

The fourth floor, comprising the senior syndicate, offered Budweiser on permanent draught. This floating houseparty kept half the Brothers off their toes and Tom Vidic on them. Tom, our only successful medical school applicant so far this year, keeps all our nervous systems (his specialty) in fine nervous order.

MIAMI Gamma Upsilon

The Gamma Upsilon Chapter of Delta Tau Delta got off to a good start this past fall quarter. The Shelter is housing a record number of 74 Brothers, which is slightly over full-house capacity. This increase in Brothers living in the House is due to the number of pledges taken last year and an increase of seniors living "in."

During Greek Week the Miami Delts fared well, taking first place in the Chariot Race for the second year in a row, and placing a hard second in Puddle Pull. The chapter presently holds third place in the race for the campus All Sports Trophy, which puts us in good contention for the beginning of the second quarter.

Also, a record number of returning alumni visited Gamma Upsilon for Homecoming this year and witnessed Miami beat Ohio University on its way to another Mid-American Championship.

The highlight of the chapter's social calendar was the Fall Formal held at Hueson Woods State Park Lodge. The Formal, biggest party of the year, included dinner, cigars, and a lot of dancing.

Next quarter will be a busy one for Gamma Upsilon. Formal rush begins then and the chapter anticipates a large one, and has begun to re-evaluate the pledge program in order that pledge education will be specific and uniform. Next quarter will be important also because it is the time for election of House officers and later for the chapter's sponsorship of the annual All-School Basketball Tournament.

MICHIGAN Delta

Delta Chapter continues its upward turn towards building a strong fraternity structure here at Michigan. This past semester the Michigan Delts illustrated this spirit on many fronts.

A reflection of this growing spirit has been shown in the resurgence of alumni support for the chapter. We extend our appreciation to the alumni for the excellent response to our first fund raising drive. Due to the success of this drive, Delta's House Corporation has initiated an extensive renovation program for the house. This vote of confidence in the chapter is part of a continuing effort towards improving the physical structure of the Shelter. Summer and fall renovations included new carpet-

Writer of the Year

Neil S. Lieblich, a senior at M.I.T., has been selected to receive a $100 award for the best student-written Rainbow article of 1974-75.

His article, "The Value of Delthood: Has it Changed?", appeared in the Rainbow Review (spring) issue of the magazine. In it, he discussed changing values of various traditions, including the fraternity concept.

Writing is just one of the talents of the winning author, a senior biology major at M.I.T. He holds copyright on the design of a surgical instrument currently used in open heart surgery, and he has published five papers in medical journals.

He has served Beta Nu Chapter as vice-president, steward, and ritualist, and is a member of the "Logarithms", a campus vocal group. He plans to enter medical school after graduation in June.

ing, furniture and kitchen equipment. Brothers and alumni celebrated the new look at this year's Homecoming reception in mid-October, the largest alumni turnout in recent years.

The dynamism of the Delts this semester, in addition to maintaining the high academic standards customary to the Delta Chapter, has been channeled into many activities, such as the rush, social and intramural programs.

This fall's rush program has been successful in comparison with recent years and a substantial pledge class is a certainty. Plans for pledge education and winter rush are in the planning stages. There is expectation for great success.

MIDDLE TENNESSEE Zeta Kappa

The Brothers of Zeta Kappa are enjoying one of the most enthusiastic and progressive years in our short history. The year began with a very good rush in which our motto "Delta Tau Delta, where brotherhood begins", became firmly implanted on the minds of hundreds of people that visited the Shelter, thanks to a huge electric sign bearing the motto which was lit up at night. The Brothers kept the tide of enthusiasm rolling into softball season as Zeta Kappa lost only one game all season and crushed many of the huge fraternities that came in our path.

Zeta Kappa has always stressed community service projects and this year we have made this a very high priority. Our first service project was for a Catholic orphanage in which we had Heaven Lee, a famous exotic dancer from Nashville's Printer's Alley, come to our campus and sell kisses for $1.00. The orphanage was most appreciative for the proceeds and ZK received quite a bit of publicity from the sensation the project caused. All area television and radio stations carried the story, and UPI took the story from coast to coast on wire services.

Other charity fund raisers included a Muscular Dystrophy Bike-A-Thon which netted $600; a midnight football game (in which DTD was victorious) where proceeds went to St. Jude's; a door-to-door candy sale for the local Civitan Club; and a rummage sale at the Shelter with proceeds going to the Kidney Foundation.

The undergraduate chapter was glad to see many of our alumni at our Homecoming and Christmas dances held at "Papa Doc's Nightclub". ZK enjoyed the music of "John Fox", a band composed of Delts from Zeta Epsilon (Tenn. Tech.).

The Brothers of Zeta Kappa insist that any Delts traveling through Middle Tennessee stop and visit us in Murfreesboro for a taste of the best in Southern hospitality.

Jeff Combos

MINNESOTA Beta Eta

Beta Eta had a productive fall quarter in a number of ways. After a successful summer and fall rush, the Brothers quickly got organized and, together with our Alpha Gamma Delta Sisters, we took a first prize in the Greek Homecoming decorations competition. Our theme was "Whip the Spartans". Although the Gophers were defeated by Michigan State, the game still proved to be a close and exciting one.

Jack Fallon is expected to perform well once again as a returning letterman diver for the varsity swim team. Also anticipating a good season is pledge Jim Becker, a freshman, who has earned himself the heavyweight spot on the varsity wrestling team.

The I.M. teams are keeping us in contention after some outstanding individual efforts in the cross country and swimming competitions. Keith Peddycoart led us in the swim meet by taking a first in the 100-yard freestyle and a third in the 50-yard butterfly.

With the 1976 Karnea planned for Minneapolis, the Beta Eta Brothers heartily encourage all Delta Brothers to make this trip a must next summer. The beauty of Minneapolis, the city of lakes, in August is really indescribable.

James Romlin

MISSOURI Gamma Kappa

THE GAMMA Kappa Shelter has been a busy place this fall as an exciting Tiger Football team attracted record crowds to home games. The chapter hosted large groups on football Saturdays, with many alumni returning to visit the chapter, and to take advantage of our free and abundant parking, and excellent brunches.

During Homecoming Week, the Deltas and the Pi Phis combined experience to enter the traditional yard decoration competition among the Greek houses. Our entry included six moving figures on a 30-foot oval track, and a revolving set with four scenes.

Gamma Kappa's traditional Orchid Ball was held December 6 in the chapter's new Ratskellar, where the ceiling had been covered with freshly cut pine bows and sprigs of mistletoe.

The chapter has been fortunate in receiving help from several alumni in an attempt to secure funds to install a t-bar ceiling in the Ratskellar. Our goal is $1500, and after several generous donations, the fund balance presently stands at $700. The chapter welcomes donations of any size, and donors' names will be engraved on a plaque to be hung on the fireplace in the Ratskellar.

Winter rush parties for graduating high school seniors will be January 23, February 6, and March 5, at the chapter house in Columbia. The chapter welcomes the names of possible rushees for the next school year. Alumni recommendations should include not only the rushee's name and address, but yours as well, and should be sent to the chapter house, 506 Rollins, Columbia, Mo. 65201, in care of "Rush Chairman".

Dave Lewis

MISSOURI-ROLLA Epsilon Nu

THIS past semester has been an active one for the Deltas in Rolla. After several very small pledge classes, we continued our good fortune of the past two years by pulling an 11-man pledge class. We continued to be active in intramurals, having our best football season ever. Our 5-1 record qualified us for the play-offs. In addition, Dave Hall was selected as end on the all IFC first team, and Bob Jones was honorable mention at tackle. Soccer was another year for experience, as we won one game.

Continually aware of our service obligations, we again participated in the Fall IFC Cleanup and held our 4th annual Christmas food drive in which canned goods were collected and given to the welfare office for distribution to needy Rolla area families. Coming up in the spring is our 4th annual Muscular Dystrophy campaign.

Plans are underway for the 10th anniversary of our installation on Dec. 10, 1976. Plans call for a banquet with alumni, installation team members, and national figures.

Much work has been done on improving the Shelter. This includes new tile downstairs, having our driveway resealed, and installing a new sewer line this spring.

This semester we are losing five seniors through graduation. We have also learned that our chapter adviser, Dr. Tom Noack, will be leaving us. "Doc" has accepted a job with Hewlett Packard in Columbia.

Thomas H. Smith

MOREHEAD STATE Zeta Zeta

THE Brothers of Zeta Zeta Chapter at Morehead State University have had a very productive and successful semester.

We hit a low ebb last semester when our house burned and forced us to find another place of residence. After a lengthy search, we have acquired somewhat of a "gothic monster" but with some renovation it is shaping up nicely. The spirit of the Brothers has reached a high level, due to our new acquisition.

This fall we provided an entire semester of rush activities which proved to be the most successful rush program we have used. We expect to see the largest pledge class in Zeta Zeta's history beginning this spring semester.

Zeta Zeta was honored by having one of our members elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Dent McCartney, president of our chapter, was chosen by the student body of MSU. Another Brother, Neal Wheeler, is a member of MSU's Judo Team which competes in the Midwest Collegiate Judo Association. In the past year he has placed in 13 out of 15 tournaments with 5 first, 5 second, and third placements. Recently in a tournament in Hamilton, Ohio, he was instantaneously promoted from green to brown belt by his outstanding performance.

Steve Terrell

NORTH CAROLINA Gamma Omega

THE Brothers of Gamma Omega Chapter in Chapel Hill, N.C., started out the year constructively; we scraped and painted our house and rebuilt the main bathroom. Also, we are beginning construction on a new kitchen, hopefully having a meal plan in the near future. This construction received a major boost when our generous alumni contributed over $300 on Homecoming weekend.

Our chapter recently placed second in a campus-wide recyclothron sponsored by The Miller Brewing Company, the prize being a 14 ft. fiberglass canoe. The canoe has made many successful trips on the private lake of retired Army Col. Charles B. Gault, local alumnus and a member of the Distinguished Service Chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

Our fall intramurals got off to a big start when Gamma Omega won the intramural ping pong tournament of U.N.C. We hope to settle for nothing less than 1st place in intramurals after placing 2nd for the last two years. So far the Deltas are undefeated in basketball midway through the season.

Presently we are working with the Heart Fund, for which we sponsored a campus-wide party and received an Outstanding Organization Citation. Also we have contributed 30 pints of blood for the Blood Assurance Plan. One of our final events for 1975 is our involvement in the local Christmas House Project. Hopefully, Deltas will make this Christmas special for several underprivileged families.

NORTH DAKOTA Delta Xi

DELTA Xi Chapter at the University of North Dakota celebrated its 40th anniversary on October 11, 1975, in conjunction with the University's Homecoming.

After a smoker on Friday night, Actives treated Alumni to a chicken bar-b-que on Saturday morning before the game. After watching a rousing victory, it was off to the Ramada Inn for a buffet dinner.

Speakers were Edwin L. Heminger (top photo), former national president of the Fraternity, and Don Smith, Delta Xi faculty adviser. George Allen, president of the House Corporation, read the Chapter Eternal. It was a time for alumni to remember and a time for the chapter to realize its vast

OHIO Beta

The fall season for Beta Chapter was highlighted by a strong rush program which saw the Brothers almost double the size of the Chapter. The 17 fall pledges were the most garnered by any fraternity on campus.

The effective rush effort was only the first stage of an important pledge program carried out by Pledgemaster Greg Love and assisted by Resident Adviser Keith Steiner. All pledge obligations and goals were completed by the end of the fall term and the pledges began to take an active role in helping the chapter in January.

Due to a unique plan devised by several of the Brothers, the fall pledges were given an opportunity to move into the Shelter at the beginning of winter term. This move bolstered the number of Brothers living in the Shelter to 25.

A successful Homecoming in November was livened up by several unexpected alumni visitors, Delt war stories from the past, and an evening party at the Shelter. The Brothers hope to enlarge upon the success of Homecoming this spring when Founders Day is held.

Athletically, Beta Chapter's fall efforts resulted in an all-fraternity championship to cross-country. The small size of the chapter did not prevent its participation in almost every intramural sport.

Socially, the chapter enjoyed a prosperous fall term, highlighted by the second annual Glitter Tea. Here the small size of the Chapter only enhanced the male-female ratio at parties. Some well-earned respect came to the Brothers for their desire in this area also.

Altogether, the fall season found Beta Chapter working hard in all areas of fraternity life to achieve stability and prosperity. President Kevin Vangeloff, Treasurer Steve Rusincovitch and former field counselor must be singled out for their dedication and perseverance. Still, a great amount of work lies ahead before Beta Chapter will attain a healthy membership and stability. With continued dedication and desire on the part of all the Brothers, the success of the fall term will lead Beta Chapter onto permanent success.

Dave Johnson

OHIO STATE Beta Phi

EVEN THOUGH superlatives are not supposed to be used in these reports, I think that the alumni who have visited Beta Phi this past quarter will agree that the chapter looks better than ever. With 79 active members and 28 pledges we now have the largest fraternity at Ohio State.

Along with being the largest fraternity we are leading for the intramural trophy. Last spring we won first in swimming and second in track and this fall we captured first in football, basketball-foulshooting, and volleyball, second in golf, and third in bowling. The points will accumulate through Winter Quarter during which we usually win wrestling and bowling and hopefully basketball. Socially we had an active quarter also with a successful Homecoming formal dinner-dance at Little Turtle Country Club. We also enjoyed a Halloween party with 2 sororities and 1 other fraternity, a pledge sponsored "hillbilly" theme party, a "scummy" party to celebrate the initiation of 12 new Delts, Homecoming decorating with the Kappa's, a T.G.I.F. with 2 other fraternities and 3 sororities, and numerous other T.G.I.F.'s with different sororities. I can't exclude the party where we watched our No. 1 Buckeyes beat Michigan 21-14 on T.V.

Recently we held a party for William A. Dougherty's 80th birthday. He was honored at one of the home football games this season to celebrate the 60th year since he wrote the Ohio State fight song "Across the Field". He played the song at midfield on a piano before 87,000 fans in the stadium, just as he played in our chapter's living room before 100 Delts, friends, parents, and rushees. It was an enjoyable evening with Mr. Dougherty.

We extend appreciation to our mother's club for donating money for an intercom system for the house. Members of our Beta Phi House Corporation have been trying to kickoff a fund-raising drive for house improvements such as hallway carpeting and paneling. If there are any Alumni who wish to help in this effort, have any ideas for the drive, or want to donate toward the cause, please write to the chapter house at 67 East Fifteenth Ave., Columbus, Ohio, 43201. We are always happy to have alumni here for dinner, parties, and especially formal initiation ceremonies and Founder's Day festivities in the spring. Please stop by to visit with the undergraduate Delts.

Jay B. Cochran

OKLAHOMA STATE Delta Chi

The fall semester has been highly productive for the men of Delta Chi. Our rush program was successful in obtaining 32 men wishing to join our ranks.

In keeping with tradition, we entered all the Homecoming activities this year. Our effort was tremendous as we continued to maintain the lofty reputation of the Fraternity. We garnered a 1st in the skit contest, 1st in the cheer contest, 2nd in house decoration, 1st in the float competition, and won the coveted Sweepstakes Trophy.

Our active Brothers on campus were paced by Vaughn Vennerberg, who was chosen to be a yearbook congratulate. He was IFC president this year, president of Student Union Activities Board, member of Blue Key, Gamma Gamma, and elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

To our alumni we say, "Come and see us, please!" We need and appreciate your support. You will be interested to know we honored Dr. John Howard Venable at a dinner recently. He is one of our founders, our past chapter adviser, and a member of the Winning Homecoming float of Delta Chi helped chapter win Sweepstakes Trophy at Oklahoma State.

Distinguished Service Chapter. He is leaving O.S.U. for a teaching position at Colorado State University.

A special note of thanks to Dr. Venable: your help through the years has been greatly appreciated. Sincerely, you've been a special kind of person to this house.

OREGON Gamma Rho

Fall saw the Delts of Oregon continue their upward climb from the "fraternity slump" of the past years. In a Fall formal rush that saw many houses do poorly, we pledged ten fine men who have become an integral part of the house. The new class co-sponsored a successful all-campus party and has plans in the making for another bash next term.

Before rush started, the Brothers put in a lot of time and work painting and remodeling the Shelter, a continuing project which is financed through a number of money-raising events.

Brother Dave Donley continues to be a campus leader, as he was re-elected to Incidental Fee Committee, the student body budget committee. Glenn Watters was also elected to this powerful committee.

Rush at Oregon is a full-time job, and new Rush Chairman Frank Laereman has been instrumental in the pledging of four new Delts since this term began. Closer relations with the Portland Alumni Chapter have been very helpful in making rush contacts, and have given birth to the first Delt all-state initiation. Members and pledges are all looking forward to meeting area alumni, as well as Delts of Oregon State and Willamette.

Paul Shinn

OREGON STATE Delta Lambda

The start of fall term began with memories of spring term and the summer. Out of 31 frats on campus we were first in overall intramural performance and fifth in overall G.P.A. The summer was filled with rush parties in different parts of the state. Between these functions and a formal rush week at the beginning of the term we came up with 24 excellent pledges. This pledge class promises to be one of the best on campus.

With the passing of fall term we look back at our many achievements. In intramural sports we are second in overall standings. We have had many excellent social activities, a Fog Hatted house dance, selected a beautiful group of girls to our Rainbow court, and as usual beat the rookies in a football game that turned out to be mudball.

At recent elections held, our chapter elected David Hart president, Marty Taucher vice-president and David Chin and Steven Jensen treasurers.

We also are active on the campus, with Mike Purdy on the Memorial Union Bookstore Board of Directors, a Blue Key honorary, a Phi Sigma honorary and a Pi Kappa Phi honorary. David Hart is on the Memorial Union Bookstore Board of Directors, is the business manager for the school yearbook and is on the Student Foundation Committee. Dennis Glover is the business manager for the school paper. Dan Oslund is on the Memorial Union Bookstore Board of Directors. Randy Pierce is on the Student Foundation Committee.

Dennis Boyd and Ernest Richardson were outstanding defensive linemen for the Beaver varsity football team. William Shoemaker had a great year on the Beaver varsity soccer team.

Paul Talwar

PITTSBURGH Gamma Sigma

Gamma Sigma Chapter has been busy since the beginning of school in September. We accepted fifteen pledges and added one little sister. Our alumni Homecoming was a huge success. Awards were given for most improved Q.P.A. to Dominic Cammarano, highest active Brother Q.P.A. to John Hooper, and the highest Q.P.A. as a pledge for the fall term of 1974 to Thomas Peterson. Also, one additional scholarship was given to David Cross based on campus and fraternity activities, scholastic achievement, and need. Eastern Division President Wayne Sinclair was the speaker for this event.

Sports have prospered at Gamma Sigma this term. We won interfraternity football, placing third over-all on the campus, and advanced to the playoffs in softball. Fine basketball, wrestling, and swimming squads are hoped for as we try to reach our goal of fraternity all-sports champion. Lee Wilson is athletic director.

In varsity sports, Bill Burkhardt enjoyed a fine season as the school's #1 golfer. Brad Schmidt, coming off a shoulder operation, did not play football this fall but he will be ready to vie for a starting offensive guard position next season. Freshman Jeff Shiller and senior Buzzy Bolind are practicing hard for the upcoming mat schedule. Finally Pitt's varsity tennis team had an undefeated season this fall, backboned by Delt's Harry and Mike Habbel.

Chapter elections were held recently. Charles Balawajder is our new president. Lee Wilson and Dominic Cammarano become vice-president and treasurer, respectively. As these men prepare to take office, we look forward to even more success in 1976.

Michael D. Habbel

PURDUE Gamma Lambda

All Brothers of Gamma Lambda mourn the loss of Woodson C. Immel ('09), the last surviving charter member of the Purdue Chapter. His wealth of generosity, evident by his contribution of over $30,000 to spark the building of the annex in 1968, has provided an example of great loyalty and brotherhood.

For the second consecutive year, the Gamma Lambdas, in cooperation with the American Heart Association, sponsored a "Swim-For-Heart" Marathon. With help from Chi Omega Sorority, Purdue Delts amassed a total of over $3,100.

On the rush scene, Dick Coleman assembled 25 men for the Fall pledge class, with much appreciation due to our alumni whose recommendations were extremely valuable.

Six Gamma Lambda athletes are contributing to Purdue varsity sports teams. A trio of divers, Bill Smith, Mark Virts and Ted Jepsen, are leading the Boilermaker swim team to another winning season. Smith and Virts are hoping to qualify for the NCAA championships for the third straight year. Luke Grossman ranks as the number two man on the Purdue tennis team, while watermiler John Upchurch is finishing his career on the Riveter track team with one varsity record to his credit. Ralph Gesualdo, center, is hoping to crack the starting lineup for the football team next fall. In intramural competition, Dave Berhorn cleared twelve feet in the pole vault to set an all-campus record.

John E. Abel

RENSSELAER Upsilon

This past semester saw Upsilon Chapter faced with a new rushing system at RPI. Never having experienced a completely open rush, we were uncertain of the eventual outcome. The freshman soon realized that we are a house that knows how to party. As a result, we now have a total of twenty-six pledges, second largest pledge class on campus.

This class will be graduating in 1979 when we will be celebrating our 100th year on campus. Therefore, our second semester activities will be geared toward enforcing the strengths of this class. Looking forward to 1979, we are trying to get in touch with alumni whom we've lost contact with while mending relations with those whose addresses are up-to-date.

Academically and athletically we were at the powerhouse that we have been in previous years. Looking forward to winter sports we have two basketball and three hockey teams in intramural competition. We hope this year will see our "A" League hockey team regain first place after a disappointing finish last year. During finals week the Shelter was the source of much baning and groaning, especially from the sophomores who have promised to study more next semester. In reply, the upperclassmen just say to themselves, "Santa knows!"

Warren Moyer

UNIVERSITY OF THE SOUTH Beta Theta

Academic endeavors have occupied the majority of the time of the Brothers of Beta Theta this fall. A dramatic increase in the workload has left little additional time for outside activities.

Rush was quite successful with a pledge class of 15. This was the second largest class on the Mountain. Brothers Smeg Lee Bailey and Brad Berg took an active role in the Delegate Assembly, the legislative body on campus. President Rick Jones is coach of the girls' basketball team. Brother Keith Langenbeck and pledges Tom McKeithen and Sperry Lee are playing on the varsity tennis team. Pledge Rob Jones at 6' 5" is a major addition to the varsity basketball team.

While our lone member of last year's football team, Harris Myers, decided not to play this fall, he joined the Brothers on the sidelines as athletic supporters. Jeff Fowler was the Delt representative on the soccer squad.

In intramurals, the Deltas took the football championship with a 10-1 regular season. The just-completed volleyball season saw the Delt A team place second; it was third in the play-offs. The B team went undefeated to take the championship.

Spring activities appear to be promising with a fund drive underway for a new much-needed juke box and Spring Party Weekend scheduled for April 23-25.

H. Bradford Berg

SOUTHEASTERN LOUISIANA Epsilon Phi

After passing a particularly inactive summer, the Brothers of Epsilon Phi proceeded into the fall semester with accelerating plans and ascending achievements.

Eighteen new pledges, the initiation of five new members, and ten Little Sisters of the Southern Cross, and the newly constructed addition to the Shelter strengthened our chapter and moved us to the number-one position on campus.

For three years the Fraternity All-Sports Trophy has made its home in our Shelter. Epsilon Phi has already taken steps to insure its staying there. The chapter placed first among fraternities in the Miller Recycling Contest and captured the football spirit trophy. The Deltas made their mark in the Homecoming parade, winning Most Beautiful Float. With football and volleyball tucked away, we look forward to basketball and baseball.

The annual Alumni-Active Football Contest saw another victory for the Hammond Alumni Chapter. Rats! Adding to the social calendar were a string of memorable functions, including the Roman Orgy and Homecoming parties. Chapter Sweetheart Janice Irwin, was selected Homecoming and, most recently, Sugar Bowl Queen.

Keeping the Hugh Shields flag is not an easy task. Facing the challenge of the future are newly elected officers Russell Penzato, president; Bruce Kennedy, first vice-president; and Craig Levesque, second vice-president.

The standard of purple, white and gold remains high on the Southeastern campus.

A. J. Delaup

SOUTH FLORIDA Epsilon Pi

Epsilon Pi returned fall quarter with 25 Brothers who were all fired up to start rushing. After a fabulous summer rush program, we gathered the names of many prospective pledges. As it turned out, we pledged 11 men, which was the second largest pledge class on campus.

Our big community service project for the quarter was to collect over 500 cans of food for the Lambda Chi Kidnap Food Drive. We also helped Student Government Productions put on the Jimmy Buffet, Pappa John Creech Concert, which turned out to be a success.

Besides participating in a number of activities, the social program was excellent this quarter. Our Sweetheart Ball was the best we have had in years. The Alumni Day Barbecue in October was a great success, with many local alumni participating in the fun. We will hopefully have another Alumni Day later on in the winter quarter.

Second quarter plans are to sponsor a danceathon with McDonald's and Multiple Sclerosis and to run a concession at the Gasparilla Day Parade. Rainbow will be the first Saturday after February 3, and special plans are being made for it. At the present time, we are looking into the possibilities of renting a house close to campus. Also, we are trying to update our alumni address list, so any of our alumni who have not heard from us please send us a letter with your current address. Any other addresses that you know of will be appreciated.

SYRACUSE Gamma Omicron

This has been a great year at Syracuse, but at times a frustrating one. After receiving first place in the Chancellor's Cup last year, we took a one-step drop to second in this year's judging. We also took second place in the Greek Weekend, which has been re-kindled by IFC in the past two years. This year, our own Fred O'Rourke was in charge.

A bit of a scare from the University has subsided a little. Word had it that they were no longer going to allow freshmen and sophomores to move into Greek Housing, prompting the action of some area alumni, and a few phone calls of our own. The policy has been revised, to say that the Student Affairs office will screen admittances. We had no problems moving our men in.

Dance Marathon '76 has become a university event. Good Ol' Delta Tau Delta couldn't handle the strain alone any longer. Those who were involved in its conception can indeed be proud of the $100,000 raised by Deltapower, and equally proud of the position the Marathon now holds on campus.

After working out a few kinks, we have finally mastered The Gammam. After a few years of Alumni Service publication, the newsletter is back in the hands of the undergraduates being printed, edited, and written solely by us. We'd enjoy your reactions to the change over. Please send them to us directly at the house.

TENNESSEE Delta Delta

Winter quarter at Delta Delta found us putting all efforts into our rush program because fall rush was not what we expected it to be. Our chapter looks strong now, with our house filled to capacity, but we plan to graduate ten men this year, and must find able men to follow in their footsteps.

Winter quarter also finds Delta Delta active in intramurals. Our basketball team has won league championships five of the past six years. We are well on our way to another Fraternity All-Sport Title by having won league championships in football, golf, and bowling, and are already practicing for the upcoming softball season in spring.

Fall quarter always brings football to mind, and along with football comes Homecoming weekend. Although Tennessee football was not at its peak, the Homecoming spirit still reigned at our Shelter. We participated in the banner display, the soap-box derby, and the yard display. Although our efforts did not yield any prizes, brotherhood and friendship grew through our cooperative efforts. Good times were enjoyed by all, including our many alumni who returned for Homecoming.

Our alumni relations committee is making plans for our annual Alumni Banquet in spring quarter. We remind our alumni to watch for your newsletter concerning this, and please respond to it.

TEXAS Gamma Iota

THE UNIVERSITY of Texas Delts are proud to announce the election of Boxy Hornberger as president for 1976. Hornberger, a pre-law major from Laredo, Texas (on the Texas-Mexico border), was co-chairman of the float committee for last year's Round-Up festivities held annually in the spring, and author of the Delt phone directory this fall.

The U.T. Delts' David Toone and Tom Ewing are the newly elected rush captains for 1976. Both men are sophomores majoring in business.

The handsome red-haired Ewing has shown his leadership qualities before. He served as the fall '75 intramural sports director and will continue in this capacity this spring. He also was head of the Houston rush program last year and a great assist to Robert Strait and Joe Karol, last year's rush captains. Strait and Karol netted 36 pledges for the Delts this past fall.

Toone, president of the 1974 pledge class, said he is looking forward to rush activities beginning in early February, including a trip to the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo held annually in the Astrodome. The native of Uvalde, Texas, said he and Ewing expect to take some 25 rushees to this, the World's largest livestock show.

Later, in the spring, Ewing said three rush parties will highlight Round-Up festivities April 2 through 10. Also, three "state" rush parties are planned, in Austin, Houston and the Fort Worth-Dallas area, for the summer rush program.

TEXAS-ARLINGTON Epsilon Rho

As the holidays neared, pledgship was culminating for eleven young men, anxiously awaiting their initiation. This productive pledge class highlights a successful semester for the chapter. For the second consecutive year, the varsity footballers captured the UTA university championship, while the pledge class walked off with first place in an all-pledge tournament sponsored by another fraternity on campus.

On the social scene, the chapter welcomed five new lovely Duchesses. These ladies, along with the other Duchesses, presented the chapter with a Thanksgiving dinner, Nov. 23, at the Lodge. The semester party schedule was highlighted by a "suppressed desire" party, Saturday, Nov. 22.

In national fraternity affairs, both Joe Blakeman and Eddy Ellison recently returned from trips where Joe served as one of the sixteen Undergraduate Council representatives at a conference in Pittsburgh, and Eddy attended a Rainbow Review business meeting in Indianapolis. He is undergraduate editor for the Western Division.

As the semester closes, Epsilon Rho wishes all Delts a happy and prosperous 1976.

TEXAS A & I Epsilon Lambda

Fall of 1975 has been very successful for the Delts at Epsilon Lambda. A fine group of pledges were recruited in the fall rush and are becoming a great asset to our organization. Another big rush is expected this spring.

We are currently getting our house in better shape than ever. A new game room is being built and the repainting of the pool are our primary concerns at this time.

Texas A & I won the National Championship again this season in the small school division, with Brother Paul Rich representing the Delts in the starting line up. Our chapter played Lambda Chi in the annual charity bowl this year and delt them a 32-0 loss. Both outstanding offensive and defensive players were Delts.

Things at Epsilon Lambda are fine and we hope other chapters across the country are in good shape.

Mike Dougherty

TEXAS CHRISTIAN Epsilon Beta

Reflecting back, the past year has been the most productive for Epsilon Beta since any of us can remember. There seem to be less partying and a more serious outlook toward the responsibilities of college and fraternity life. Individual as well as group effort has been exhibited this year.

With the loss of 13 seniors last year, it was imperative that everyone give their all during rush. It paid off with the Delts taking the second largest pledge class at TCU.

Although the active chapter was pleased with the pledges this year, our greatest pride lies in scholastic achievement, which we feel was one of our greatest selling points in rush. The Delts received the IF scholarship trophy again with a 3.1 GPA overall, highest of any organization in TCU's history. The Delts have won the trophy the past 3 out of 4 times it has been offered.

Epsilon Beta also has been busy restructuring its internal organization, with the election of new officers for next year. They are: Bayard Pratt, president; Dave Parker, vice-president; T.M. Hughes, cor. secy.; Brad Loeffelholz, rec. secy.; Craig Kilpatrick, treasurer; and Hugh Slatery, sgl. arms.

A special acknowledgement is due to Case, the new Student Body President.

The Rainbow

U. Efforts made by him and others like m will enable DTD to have a closer relationship with the administration and the dependent students at TCU.

TEXAS TECH Epsilon Delta

Members of Epsilon Delta began the fall semester with high hopes and many als set for ourselves. The end of the fall mester came and we had attained all of r goals.

We maintained our good standing in orts on campus by winning the All-iversity title in touch football. Our bas- ball team, which has been in the All- iversity finals the past two years, is ex- cted to be highly competitive for the title ain this year.

Another of our goals was to take a large, t strong pledge class. We felt we ac- mplished this by taking 18 good pledges ile the other fraternities on campus took average of 12.

Following the Texas Tech-Texas game in astin, we had a party for Epsilon Delta mni throughout the state, which turned t to be a big success. If at all possible, we e planning to have another party of this oe this semester.

Members of Epsilon Delta again were ry active in service drives, including rk for United Way, Muscular Dystrophy, id we held our own blood drive which is very successful.

Delts at Texas Tech were active in campus ganizations and sports, as usual, with n Russell being elected as social chair- an and rush chairman for the Inter-aternity Council. Jay Rosser worked for e University Daily, Tech newspaper, as a porter. Tom Black and Gary Long are ex- cted to gain starting positions on the ch baseball team again this year. Neal illott completed four years as a starter for e Tech soccer team.

used to make needed repairs to the Shelter and to refurbish it. We would like to thank the few alumni who have supported our fund-raising campaign so far and we hope to see more support soon.

During the past year we have had a fire detection system put in and a new roof put on the house. All of these additions have made the house safer for the Brothers living in it.

This year we held our first interfraternity Homecoming party with two mens' fraternities and 4 womens' fraternities on our street. It was a very successful event and we plan to make it an annual event.

This year's officers were Wayne Taylor, president; Will DeBacker, vice-president; John Unger, treasurer; and Jeff Adams, secretary.

Jeff Adams

TUFTS Beta Mu

It is the Rainbow correspondent's dream to be able to submit a chapter report and not have to think about how to make bad news sound like good. The fall semester was one of good progress for the Beta Mu Chapter; except for some problems with the physical plant of our chapter house, there were no major problems to contend with.

In our fall initiation, we added the names of Frank Cammisa, William Oppenhiemer, John Chetkowski and Jeff Cella to our chapter roll. Our fall rush got off to a slow start, but blossomed right after Thanksgiving bringing thirteen pledges into the chapter; we expect our spring rush to bring our membership the closest to our long-range goal in four years.

In intramurals, the Delts lead all fraternities in the Football Championship, finishing second in the All-College Tourney. Our winter season also started off well, with Tom Dimond reaching the squash finals. With our second place soft-ball team returning intact this spring, the intramural trophy is still within our reach.

On April 4, 1976 the Chapter is hosting an open house in honor of Joel W. Reynolds, '23; Joel will be retiring from his position as chapter adviser after forty-one years of service. We hope that Beta Mu Delts will set this day aside to return to Tufts and visit with Joel.

TULANE Beta Xi

Beta Xi Chapter was the big name on campus this year. Heading the list of activities was Beta Xi's sweep of all Homecoming competition.

During Homecoming, Tulane's IFC sponsored "Superfest", a House decorating contest, and a "Spirit Stick" rivalry. "Superfest", was a fund-raising carnival where each frat and school organization sponsored activity booths opened to the school and community. Money raised was donated to the Tulane Library Fund. The Delt's booth proved to be the most profitable and was ranked as the best decorated.

In the House Decorations competition the Beta Xi Shelter won first place in all categories. And at the Homecoming game itself, the Brothers cheered themselves to their third straight victory in the winning of the Spirit Stick, being sponsored by the Tulane cheerleaders and awarded to the organization showing the most spirit and enthusiasm toward the team. Free kegs of beer were presented to the victors.

Later in the semester, the Delts once again made a clean sweep of school-sponsored events. The annual Alumni Fund-Raising Telethon resulted in another first place showing by Beta Xi. The Brothers, earning more than all organizations combined, were rewarded in community recognition and by a gift of new furniture.

Toward the end of the semester, Beta Xi's pledge class donated time and effort to the Vocational Rehabilitation Center of Southeastern Louisiana. They received much praise from leaders of the New Orleans community.

The Brothers of Beta Xi are looking forward to a good rush, crazy Mardi Gras, and the annual Delt Rainbow Formal.

VILLANOVA Zeta Theta

Zeta Theta Chapter of Villanova University has once again had a very successful fall semester. The Delts started the year off with a 24-hour softball marathon for the benefit of a local fund raising campaign. Congratulations are in order for Mark Hughes, the Delt iron man who played the duration and also to Mike Murtash who organized and raised several hundred dollars for the cause.

Spike Donnell managed the DTD football team to a 7-0 season to capture the Interfraternity council championship for the sixth consecutive year. Bob Albanese, Herbie Belmonte and Jim Kaltenecker as well as the entire team deserve much credit for the successful completion of a very tough season.

On December 8, the Brothers admitted 16 pledges bringing the total number of Brothers to over 75. DTD at Villanova continues to grow and we feel has shown much progress in its short existence. We have enjoyed a full social calendar with the traditional Halloween party, numerous TG's and the annual Christmas party.

In closing, the Brothers of Zeta Theta would like to offer congratulations and good luck to both Bob Bauer and Charlie Trombetta, who plan weddings in January and February.

VIRGINIA Beta Iota

The Brothers of the Beta Iota Chapter began the new school year by returning early to make a number of improvements on the Shelter.

Shortly after the beginning of classes the chapter accepted the award for the "Most Improved Fraternity" in the University athletic program during the year of 1974-75. Throughout the Fall semester the Brothers of the house continued to advance in the intramural program, securing the Chapter's position as one of the Top Ten athletic fraternities.

elections two Delts were installed in University offices this semester. Beta Iota Chapter members now hold the positions of president of the Commerce School and vice-president of the Architecture School.

The pledge class also remained active by taking part in a Community Food Donation Project as well as a Blood drive.

WABASH Beta Psi

With the Delt Shelter filled to capacity, the Beta Psi Delts look forward to another great year at Wabash. Under the direction of Rush Chairman Paul Firth and his committee, twenty-two prospective Delts were taken into the pledge class. Formal pledging took place on September 27, with National President Fred "Bud" Tucker and Executive Vice-President Al Sheriff as guests of the Chapter. Also in attendance were several members of the House Corporation, Dr. Thomas Cole, Carter Tharp, and Don Caplinger, as well as other alumni, Jim Hanner, Bob Chamness, and Don Hodson.

In soccer, twelve Delts led the team to a 6-5 record. Honors went to Ed Wanamaker and John Sunde, who were voted to the second team all-conference in the IISC. Ed also was chosen MVP of the Wabash team. Wabash had nine football players from the chapter. In the upcoming season, Jim Aten is representing us on the wrestling squad, while freshmen Ralph Dixon and Kevin Scheid are joining Junior Paul Firth on the swimming team.

On December 2, we had our annual Christmas Party for the special education children from the Crawfordsville area. President Thaddeus Seymour of Wabash College performed his magic, much to the delight of the children.

Elections were also held recently with the following men elected: President James Evans; Vice-President Landon Harmon; Treasurer Mark Noffsinger; Corresponding Secretary Harvey Vandenberg; Recording Secretary George Lauck; and Assistant Treasurer Don Rossler. The new administration looks forward to continuing the current success of Delta Tau Delta at Wabash.

WASHINGTON Gamma Mu

The Brothers of Gamma Mu put an all-house effort into rush this summer and were successful in obtaining 30 excellent pledges. We are very proud of these pledges as they have become one of the most active pledge classes on campus.

Our pledge class president recently danced 22 hours in the National Epilepsy Foundation Dance Marathon. Gamma Mu as a whole raised over $1,000 for this charity.

Active again this quarter were our intramural teams. One of our football squads finished in the top 5 out of 12 teams.

Meanwhile back at the Shelter, our Foster Child Program is continuing with great success. We now have three foster "sons" living and joining in various activities with us. Last year Gamma Mu put itself back on the map and this year is gaining recognition as one of the top houses on campus.

Greg Whittier

The Rainbo

W & J Gamma

This year began with the initiation of 14 pledges into Brotherhood. Marty Becker spoke to the initiates and their parents about the history and meaning of Deltism at the banquet which followed the ceremony.

The entire house took an active role in the events of Homecoming Weekend. Gamma Chapter placed first in Homecoming decorations with our bicentennial theme.

Intramural sports were played with much vigor and enthusiasm this semester. The House participated in flag football, tennis, volleyball, and racketball. Winter intramurals are now underway.

Rush has been going well with the possibility of a 10-15 member spring pledge class. The annual Halloween Party proved to be one of the highlights of the semester. Brother Rick Cramer won the award for the best costume by dressing as the House's janitor.

The House ranked high in the overall campus scholastic rating. This year's house scholarship awards went to Brother Robert Janson for the highest average and Brother Walter Britland for the highest jump from his QPA. Everyone is diligently working to regain the number-one scholarship rating.

The semester ended with the annual Christmas Party. The party included the exchange of gag gifts, songs, Christmas stories, and the traditional tree which was mysteriously provided by the sophomore class. Rick Cramer won the house pool tournament.

Robert W. Janson

WESTERN ILLINOIS Zeta Lambda

All quarter proved to be a productive one for Zeta Lambda Chapter. Forty-eight actives who, along with our pledges, went first into the business of Homecoming. After many hours of work we found ourselves with a first place in house decoration and university sweepstakes.

The Delts were represented well in intramurals again this fall. Volleyball and football teams all made it to the semi-finals. The bowling team made it to first place all-university.

In the order of service projects, the Delts organized an M.S. drive for the Greek system at Western. Success was felt as close to 2,000 was brought in.

Finally the Delts traveled once again to Malesburg, Ill. to give an annual Christmas party for mentally retarded children at the Research Hospital. Games were played and a magic show was put on by our adviser Lowell Oxtoby. Refreshments were served to all those present.

WEST FLORIDA Zeta Iota

We began fall quarter with a rush that led to the initiation of 14 men. A tip of the hat to Field Counselor Scott Galbraith. Rush would have been difficult without him. So far, it seems to be our year. Our Argo Weekend was the best ever, and we are in 1st place in intramurals.

Probably the highlight of our quarter occurred when we visited our Brothers at Tulane for their school's Homecoming. Even though Tulane lost, all was not grim. The cheerleaders annually award the "Spirit Stick" to the organization that offers the most vocal support, and, you guessed it, the Squires of the Square Badge won it, nolo contendere. Our thanks again for a memorable weekend.

We'd also like to extend congratulations to our 4 graduating seniors, Howard Ostlund, Bob Fagan, Glenn Whittington, and George Adams.

Finally, we'd like to invite all Delts to visit us anytime. Pensacola is a town with much to do and beautiful beaches, and we'd like to share it with our Brothers. Just let us know when, and the "Pros from Pensacola" will do the rest.

John Leazer III

WEST GEORGIA Zeta Xi

Yes, Virginia, there is a National." Or "A study of the Benefits of National Resources Available to Undergraduate Chapters."

Quite briefly, these are hard times for Zeta Xi Chapter. Our membership slid to 18 active Brothers after our recent chartering. Rush activities had been netting only one or two pledges per quarter this past year.

"When in doubt, call National." So we did. Little did we realize the support from the people in Indianapolis until we called. The next week Frank Price, along with the rush chairman from Auburn University, were knocking at the door. They immediately got down to the basics.

Our next rush party brought many prospects, but no commitments. Shortly thereafter, Field Counselor Scott Galbraith pulled into town for two weeks. He made us get commitments by asking these guys "why?" The end result was five pledges! But more important was revival of Delt spirit. Thank you Scott, Frank and National.

Another vote of appreciation goes to our "eye catching" Delt Little Sisters. Whether it's rushing, selling lightbulbs, washing cars, drinking beer or "fixing Herman up with Thelma", these gals are the greatest.

WESTMINSTER Delta Omicron

This past summer the long-awaited renovation of the Shelter occurred. Under the able leadership of the renovation committee, Brothers Joe Ellis and Mike Winter, the Shelter has new ceilings, a renovated dining room and kitchen, a sauna, electrical work and other miscellaneous work. The Parent's Club purchased kitchen utensils, small kitchen appliances, and a carpet for the living room this past year.

To commemorate the renovation, Delta Omicron held an Open House for alumni and parents on Parent's Weekend this fall. (See page 41)

A very successful rush resulted in the pledging of 24 men and the chapter initiated Mike Halloran, who pledged this spring. At this moment, the chapter holds possession of first place in intramurals.

Last spring the chapter collected for the Fulton Heart Fund and Cancer Fund drives. John Fitzpatrick and Steve Swab, also, participated in Fulton's Big Brother program.

I would like to congratulate the new officers for 1976 (all sophomores): President Robert Fishbein, Vice-President Hardy Croxton, Corresponding Secretary John Fitzpatrick, and Recording Secretary Jim Giacomini.

Warren M. Hollrah

WEST VIRGINIA Gamma Delta

The first semester of the 1975-76 school year at Gamma Delta Chapter commenced with the activation of seven new members. A well-planned fall rush culminated in the recruitment of 28 pledges.

Newly elected officers are: Charles T. Waugh, president; John Enke, vice-president; Rick Corbitt, treasurer; James Zellers, rec.-secretary; Tom Kisner, cor.-secretary; Mike Wilson, s.a.a.; and Bruce Heisler, guide. Former president Ed White was voted Active of the Year by the chapter.

A Christmas party for underprivileged children was held at the Shelter, with Brother Moses Skaff playing Santa Claus. Sixty-one children were treated to dinner and gifts, compliments of the Delts and two sororities. The Christmas formal was a great success, beginning with the traditional decorating of the house, followed by an afternoon cocktail party and finally the formal itself.

Delt intramural teams have consistently kept us at the top of the standings, with the football team winning the fraternity division championship. Academically, Delts remain high in GPA's.

Our House Corporation acquired for us brand new furniture for the TV room and various improvements on the house.

Tom Kisner

WHITMAN Delta Rho

Recently the Brothers of Delta Rho and the Sisters of Alpha Chi Omega sponsored an all-campus Casino Function. A large variety of games, hourly auctions and live entertainment highlighted the evening. All profits went to our annual Christmas Party for underprivileged children in the Walla Walla area.

The annual Christmas Party is a very special event for the children and especially for the Brothers of Delta Rho. During the course of the evening the children were given gifts and many opened and played with their gifts. Some of the children played in games which involved several of the Brothers. Laughter of the children filled the Shelter for several hours and will long be remembered by all involved.

Delta Rho closed the fall semester with the election of new officers. The newly elected officers of 1976 are John Fields, president; Mark Wallace, vice-president; James Herod, treasurer; Bryan Hiromoto, secretary; and Robert Gray, sergeant-at-arms.

WILLAMETTE Epsilon Theta

Our house had one of its finest rush efforts show much for the work invested. We ended formal rush with 20 pledges and were also able to acquire three more during the remainder of the semester. This group has strengthened our house and we're looking forward to their initiation.

We played our annual pledge-member football game with a rare conclusion. The two teams battled in the mud to a 14-14 tie. We were able to video tape the game, which made for "good times to be had by all". In other sports activities, we have participated in intramurals with a little more success than in past years. Having completed one semester, we are standing in third place over-all, with much anticipation for a high finish.

Our community efforts have been less than adequate this semester, because we have been trying to reorganize our chapter structure into committees, something new for us. We are, however, in the process of remodeling our basement area. This project should be completed sometime in the spring. All in all, the second semester looks to be at least as promising as the first has been and we're looking forward to it.

INDIANA-PA. Crescent Colony

On Feb. 26, 1970, the local fraternity of Chi Alpha Sigma was founded on the campus of Indiana University of Pennsylvania. Five satisfying years passed and the Brothers were proud of all that had been accomplished, but they felt a need for further expansion through a stronger organizational system.

The modification began on April 1, 1975, when Chi Alpha Sigma became a Crescent Colony of Delta Tau Delta. A renewed spirit of dedication filled each Brother as we entered our first official competition in the name of Delta Tau Delta and took first place in the Lambda Chi Alpha Bounce-A-Thon Charity Tournament for Muscular Dystrophy. We also captured third place honors in the annual Greek Sing Competition. Our fifth annual benefit softball tournament for retarded citizens proved to be another great success.

This past semester opened with the Greek organizations busily preparing floats for the annual Homecoming parade in October. Our float received the first place President's Trophy, for the fourth time in five attempts. In November, celebration was again in order when our intramural basketball team made the playoffs for the third straight year. We also participated in football, golf, soccer and bowling competitions.

Recently, we dispensed open bids to twelve men who, if they accept, will be pledging during the spring semester.

If you are ever in the area, please, stop at our house and get to know us better. In closing, we extend our warmest wishes to all Delta Tau Delta Chapters and Colonies for a most profitable and enjoyable spring term.

Alumni Chapters

CLEVELAND

Cleveland Alumni Chapter continues to operate in modest fashion with weekly Friday luncheons, currently held at Guvnor's Pub on the lower floor of the Union Commerce Building, Euclid and East Ninth Street. A nucleus of about 6 regulars is supplemented by various occasional attendees.

The chapter has turned to consideration for the annual Founder's Day activities in the spring, including election of officers. All budding local Deltas please note.

With more than 1,000 Delt alumni in the Cleveland area, it is hoped that a viable organization can be developed along the lines of "The Pittsburgh Plan", in which alumni work with undergraduates and recent graduates in job contact and career development programs.

Celebrating a Renovation

Parent's Weekend, Nov. 7-9, formed the focal point for a Parent and Alumni Open House for Delta Omicron Chapter at Westminster College. The Open House commemorated a $22,000 summer renovation of the Shelter, made possible by a Loyalty Fund Loan to the Delta Omicron House Corporation. The chapter filled with 80-90 parents and alumni that weekend.

The weekend began with registration and a reception at the Shelter. Parents and Alumni saw the renovated house, including a refurbished dining room and a Sauna. During the day Robert Fishbein (now chapter president) had given the speaker, President of the Western Division, a personal tour of the Winston S. Churchill Memorial and Library of the United States, located at Westminster in Fulton, Missouri. The memorial was also open for the weekend guests.

Everyone then proceeded to Robertson Dining Hall on the Churchill Quadrangle for the weekend's banquet. Chapter President Mike Winter welcomed the guests, who included besides the speaker: Westminster President Dale Purcell; Dean Donald Gordon; Dean of Student Life Dr. Patrick Kirby; Assistant Dean of Student Life James Gravemann;

Faculty Adviser Dave Steinmeyer; and Chapter adviser C. Craig Richards.

Robert W. Kroening, former president of the Western Division (1965-68), former Delta Omicron chapter adviser, and Delta Omicron House Corporation president, served as master of ceremonies and introduced the speaker.

Father Grover C. "Tex" McElyea, Division president and member of the Distinguished Service Chapter, flew to Fulton from Dallas to present the keynote address. The pledges served cocktails following the banquet.

The following morning, everyone witnessed the Deltas take second only to the Independents in the annual intramural track tournament. Lunch was served, followed by the two slide shows, "Delta Tau Delta" and "Financing the Brotherhood". The Parent's Club met Saturday afternoon and voted to purchase new living room carpet for the chapter.

Saturday evening cocktails were served with the planning of social chairman, Brad Naifeh. Music suited to the tastes of parents and alumni was presented by stereo through the efforts of Delta Omicron's own disc jockey, "Bob Edwards" (Robert Metzler). The weekend closed with the usual Sunday brunch prepared by Delta Omicron's 23-year cook, Lucy Hunter.

Distinguished Service Chapter

WILLIAM FINK WELCH Beta Beta, '40

Honored and respected lawyer and civic leader, this Good Delt has contributed more than 35 years of service, loyalty, and love to the Fraternity, first as President of Beta Beta and continuing over the years in such diverse roles as resident adviser to Beta Eta Chapter, performing special assignments for the Fraternity, an officer of Beta Beta house corporation for 25 years, a president of the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter, and a vice-president of the Northern Division. His wisdom, perspicacity and sound judgment have made him a tower of strength to all Deltas associated with him.

Given under our seal October 23, 1975.

Mr. Welch was presented his Citation on November 19, 1975, at the Tucker Testimonial Dinner held here in Indianapolis.

MARION RICHARD LLEWELLYN Gamma Delta, '34

A faithful alumnus of Gamma Delta Chapter for forty years, he has introduced countless young men to Delt chapters across the nation; though geographically distant, he was instrumental in the rechartering of Beta Iota Chapter at the University of Virginia; he has served diligently and faithfully as a Vice President of the Eastern Division and has carried out many special assignments for the Fraternity with great thoroughness and detail whenever called upon. Truly this Good Delt has always been mindful of his solemn promise to give to Delta Tau Delta lifelong allegiance, service, loyalty and love.

Given under our Seal April 21, 1975.

Mr. Llewellyn was presented his Citation on November 21, 1975, in Bethany, W. Va., when the Arch Chapter and other Deltas made the pilgrimage to the Founders House.

KARNEA

Aug. 18-19-20-21

Dear Brother Delt:

The "Land of Lakes" awaits members and families of Delta Tau Delta for the 73rd Karnea of the Fraternity. Plan now to make it part of a summer vacation trip to one of America's finest outdoor areas.

The Karnea agenda itself promises to be both interesting and important, with undergraduates and alumni sharing the spotlight. Business and seminar programs will be supplemented by Delt-style fellowship activities, including a three-hour cruise on the Mississippi River.

A complete schedule and information on pre-registration and hotel reservations will appear in the spring issue of the magazine.

Fraternally,

The 1976 Karnea Committee
